Summary

I am the founder of regenerative agricultural company Thrive and Grow Farms and it's new freeze dried foods brand, Truly Regenerative with a core purpose of building a thriving regenerative foods system.

I have been creating educational content around agriculture, and land and water conservation for the past 10 years. I enjoy sharing knowledge through large reach platforms like TV, radio, and YouTube to engage people in learning about these important environmental topics.

I am also the owner of Thrive and Grow Gardens, a gardening education and manufacturing company, helping people to find success in the garden and providing exquisite custom raised garden bed systems that make vegetable gardens a fully functional center piece in any outdoor space.
