First Smart Erectile Ring That Increases Pleasure And Performance While Aiding ED And Heart Disease

LEAD INVESTOR

Jamey Edwards

True innovation that could change a market is hard to find. The FirmTech team has taken a great idea in a novel market and, in a very short period of time, created an award winning product that already has real revenues and is gaining adoption and brand awareness. This round is about scaling an already proven solution and I like investing in situations where I am not taking product development or MVP risk. The team is experienced at growing and exiting entrepreneurial ventures and is now turning those skills to an area where they can bring a solution that is heads and shoulders above others as it is clinically validated, non-invasive and doesn't involve any type of medication. Quite simply, this is a win - win - win proposition where users are better served, their partners have a better experience and tremendous ancillary growth opportunities exist from the data and its potential ability to transform sexual health research.

FirmTech Is Building the Wearable SexTech of the Future

FirmTech is developing a full collection of "Better Sex, Better Health" products that will empower adults of all genders to assess the intersection between their sexual wellness and overall health, medications and habits, while heightening their sexual performance and pleasure. With two successful products selling quickly, and several more in the pipeline, FirmTech is on its way to becoming the market leader in progressive SexTech. We have already raised $2.6 million to support our mission. We are seeking additional capital to scale our product lines.

Previously, Dr. Elliot Justin, our founder and CEO, has personally launched five healthcare companies and has had four exits.

"FirmTech's mission is to create products that provide better sex and health for everyone. Using our innovative wearables, people can assess the vital signs of their sexual health, which are also critical indicators of their cardiovascular health and the side effects of common medications. In addition, these products are designed to heighten pleasure, reduce anxiety and build confidence."

FirmTech Founder Elliot Justin, MD, FACEP

FirmTech's first two products received rapid recognition, collecting industry awards, press features, and substantial growth month-over-month. Future products are already in advanced development to tackle unaddressed sexual health discrepancies with innovations for all sexes.

FirmTech's award-winning, doctor-designed line of smart wearables and bluetooth-enabled mobile tech improves sexual pleasure, function, and long-term health outcomes. Firmtech is paving the future of a global industry projected to be worth over $100B by 2030.

Unlike taut, conventional cock rings (C-Rings), FirmTech's first product line enhances sensation with a malleable material designed for discreet use, total comfort, and an easy on/off experience. The patented hook and loop closure and pleasure-enhancing design are the future of C-Rings in the 21st century.

On the outside, FirmTech's rings are expertly designed to maximize pleasure and safe use. On the inside, embedded sensors in the Tech Ring track the key indicators of both erectile dysfunction and heart disease, providing invaluable health data for users and their health care providers.

FirmTech's product includes a bluetooth-enabled mobile app to share personalized insights and enhance your journey to greater health (and pleasure!) in the privacy of your home without appointments and prescriptions.

FirmTech's mobile application helps you easily track the impact of medications on common health challenges, like ED, depression, and heart diseases so you can evaluate treatment paths with data-driven insights and autonomy. FirmTech devices provide valuable information to health professionals and individuals, making it easier to improve outcomes together.

Bluetooth-enabled sex toys held the largest share of the SexTech market last year, thanks to consumer interest in convenience, personalization, and interactivity. FirmTech is driving the market further with doctor-driven insights for long-term health and wellbeing.

Addressing Health Concerns of Millions of Adults

FirmTech launched the first and only smart wearable created to detect key indicators of both ED and heart disease, presenting a significant leap in sexual health and general wellbeing. FirmTech's products are designed by doctors and pleasure experts to improve long term health and sexual functioning.

The majority of men over age 50 suffer from ED – and often in silence. Heart disease is a leading killer among all genders. FirmTech's Tech Ring collects valuable health data to address both issues head on, making it possible for the first time to collect personalized sexual health information and potentially improve outcomes.

The Problem: Erectile Dysfunction Rates are Alarming for all Ages

When Does Erectile

When Does Erectile Dysfunction Start?

One in four men under the age of thirty-nine experience erectile dysfunction and anxiety. This number doubles after the age of fifty and continues to rise as men age.

(Boston University School of Medicine, 2002)
(The Journal of Sexual Medicine, 2013)

In addition to counting nocturnal erections, FirmTech's Tech Ring is worn during sex to enhance performance and pleasure, while measuring the firmness and duration of erections. These parameters are indicators of cardiovascular health and the impact of medications, diseases, diet, exercise, and supplements on men's sexual fitness and wellness. The FirmTech app seamlessly tracks user data and provides customized insights, making it easy and enjoyable to measure key health indicators and assess treatment paths. FirmTech brings the doctor's office home to users (and makes doctor's jobs easier, too!)"

An estimated 20% of all men over age 20 are affected by ED. Although it becomes more common as men get older, ED isn't considered a natural part of aging. The [John's] Hopkins researchers determined that the risk factors for this condition are similar to those that underlie heart disease. Men should be aware that not all physicians are up to speed on the link between ED and cardiovascular disease."

Nocturnal Erections are a critical but little known leading indicator of common cardiovascular diseases, including hypertension and diabetes

Blood vessel problems are the leading cause of erectile dysfunction. That's why Harvard's Dr. Michael P. O'Leary, says that erections "serve as a barometer for overall health," and that erectile dysfunction can be an early warning sign of trouble in the heart or elsewhere.

Health specialists agree: FirmTech's wearable, pleasure-focused solutions are the next generation of personalized health care, offering customizable insights and data-driven feedback that supports individuals and their doctors.

HEAR FROM THE MEDICAL SPECIALISTS

"I see products like this as empowering men to understand their current erectile function and how certain behaviors/interventions change their function. This personal data will show men they have incredible control over their erections (and health) and help them understand and, ultimately, enhance performance."

DR. AMY M. PEARLMAN

"Regardless at 55, I'm glad there's a product like FirmTech on the way to simultaneously assess my health and enhance my pleasure. And if there's potential to preserve my potency as well, then this device is on its way to becoming a monumental breakthrough in Men's Health."

DR. STANLEY LEWIS, MD

"FirmTech has the potential to engage men in their own healthcare, quantify their erectile fitness and lead more fulfilling lives with their partners. The stigma of male sexual dysfunction is quite significant in both the straight and gay community, and this device will help men gain more information to optimize their sex lives."

DR. JAMES HOTALING, MD

FirmTech makes it easy to measure powerful indicators of heart health and erectile fitness, supporting overall happiness, health, and wellbeing. Users enjoy discrete data collection and customized health insights, providing health autonomy and personalized support. Smart tracking with a sex toy is a win-win for users and the doctors who support them.

VERY COMFORTABLE

Highly recommend, easy to put on and the quality of the material is excellent. It is an excellent design and when you get an erection, put this on and the hard on is solid, but you feel nothing from the performance ring, comfort is key!

FirmTech helps enhance confidence, pleasure, and independence for the millions of people impacted by stigmatized health challenges. Users, press, and doctors agree that the time is now to invest in smart, wearable technology that improves outcomes while enhancing users' sex lives.

A Recognized Pioneer and Innovator

"In an age in which wearables become part of everyday life, the FTR is the world's first under-wearable, the first smart maletech"

MAXIM

"It's rare to find a sex tech product with a single brilliantly designed feature you wish could magically become an industry standard"

With thousands of units sold, awards received, and press buzzing, FirmTech's first line of products has already changed the status quo for men's health. Next, the company will expand its impact in FemmeTech and continue leading the way for smart, wearable SexTech in the US and abroad.

FirmTech's FemmeTech Wearable in Development

Currently in R&D, the clitoral vibrator and health tracker are expected to release in early 2024, bringing the first smart FemmeTech wearable to market in the world. Our team of doctors, pleasure experts, and design enthusiasts are developing a smart sex toy to address female sexual wellness and pleasure

In addition to collecting novel health data, FirmTech is conducting research and clinical trials to expand access to information about the intimate connection between health, pleasure, and wellbeing. Working with urologists and experts across the globe, FirmTech is pioneering the future of personalized health care and addressing pervasive challenges with innovative design, research, and technology”

Our Story

FirmTech aims to support the many people suffering from erectile dysfunction, sexual dissatisfaction, cardiovascular and endocrine diseases. Our story began with a challenge from a urologist to develop a device that could collect meaningful, often overlooked nocturnal erection health data. We decided to remake the erection ring to gather data while boosting sexual pleasure. We have recruited a remarkable team from all over the world. We are now continuing with our mission by adding products for women.

Invest today to be a part of FirmTech's next chapter.
