

Hi Noelle,

I hope you're having a great weekend! A two part question just came through from one of our investors, and I'd love your take on it before I reply to him. Let me know what you think, thank you!

My one concern is near term market size as well as Noelle not being a technical founder. Did she ever discuss with you all looking for a CTO and Co-Founder?

Hi Caroline,

Here are some thoughts on this-

HR teams have been impacted in recent market conditions and in the near term, we see ourselves well positioned to hit the build v buy cycles in HR to continue building traction. With most HR teams having a dozen + systems, these numbers are only increasing and we're providing the much-needed single pane of glass.

The majority of our team is focused on product and data at this point. On the technical side, we've had Matthew Drooker, CTO of CNN and now SoundCloud involved from the beginning advising on architecture. We've recently brought on the founding technical team of Mailchimp who were our mentors as investors who are helping us identify additional tech talent.

Thanks!

Noelle

Hi Aparna,

I saw you're a part of Vitalize Angels and Vitalize is currently raising for us on WeFunder (<https://wefunder.com/illoominus>) and plan to close the opportunity in the next week or so. I wanted to share that information here with you in the case you know anyone interested in supporting a Techstars alum!

We anticipate that with the Vitalize funding and our $450K+ of commits that we'll be closing our round in the next week and a half. We're excited to get back to work :)

By the way, I had a great conversation with Kelsey Lang last week about HR reporting at Techstars and thanks for connecting us. I hope to get the chance to share more with you soon.

Hi Noelle,

I am one of the Vitalize Angels (Gale and Caroline's group) that you pitched in late April. I'm a fan and committed to the WeFunder round. At the same time, I'm sharing my own investment memo/ thesis with others to see if we can get to $50k. I hope we can invest!

Cheers,

Hi Bobby, thanks for your commitment to Illoominus and so happy to have you on board with us! I appreciate your support and helping to spread the word.

From your previous experience, are there any things that you see companies do to help drive investment through Vitalize?

Thanks again!

Hi

Hi Noelle,

Some founders have sent out a "tear sheet" style email to the Vitalize investors (by way of Caroline, who can forward it).

For some who may have missed the pitch, getting the key value proposition points in their inbox can attract/ contextualize the company. It's easier to review the main points in an email than to log into WeFunder or Notion and Slack (the collaboration platforms used by Vitalize).

I've heard two main hesitations from sidelined investors:

1. Concerns that DEI is too niche and/ or prone to greater variation in business cycles.
2. Go-to-Market for large corporations (slower to adopt) and internationally (different regulations).

In both cases, I've shared my thoughts that Illoominus is able to bring value in more than just the DEI angle. I hope it's not presumptuous but I see the solution almost as "Integrated DataOps for HR". Your expertise supporting startups through scaling and working with wider clients at Accenture is another great counterpoint to the above concerns.

Let me know if I'm off piste on the above explanations or if you think there are other hold-ups you often hear that I can help proactively address to the other investor :)

Very Respectfully,

Bobby

Hi Robert, would be great to connect in with Fiserv. I didn't mention in the Vitalize pitch but we recently became certified as a women-owned business and I saw Fiserv is partnering with WBENC here on a program:

https://www.fiserv.com/en/lp/supplierimpactprograms.html?rdf=/supplierimpactprograms&rdc=2023-04-05&rdr=2024-04-05&utm\_source=WBENC+Contacts&utm\_campaign=abcc1e0a35-EMAIL\_CAMPAIGN\_3\_1\_2019\_11\_18\_COPY\_01&utm\_medium=email&utm\_term=0\_24fac76372-abcc1e0a35-69343691

Typically we look to connect with a high level HR decision maker like <https://www.linkedin.com/in/anthony-s-marino-94a6476/> or someone close to this person who has the ability to move things forward. However, we also have been successful at similar-sized companies to work through an innovation department.

Let me know if you'd like to connect to discuss how to navigate below.

Thanks so much and have a great weekend!

Vitalize pitch

Hi Noelle - I just watched your pre pitch zoom recording for vitalize angels.
(Unfortunately I was super busy and missed it live)

I love what you're doing! It makes sense that your DEI solution is being used for core HR, because DEI should be core HR! I talk to clients about how the strategy of hiring the best candidate should not conflict with DEI focus for leadership/executive recruiting but am always curious as to what companies are doing from the whole talent life cycle. There is a huge need/market for your product! If I can help with anything or you ever want the opinion of an exec recruiter, feel free to reach out.

Hi Bernardt, saw you were learning more about what we're building at Illoominus and couldn't help but notice you checked in from Managua, Nicaragua. Nice to meet you virtually! That's amazing that you lived and worked in Nicaragua for a couple of years. I'm actually visiting my parents here for a week but reside in Miami, so it's great to connect with someone who has experience and a passion for the region.

I'm definitely interested in learning more about Illoominus and your work with female entrepreneurs. I'm always looking for ways to expand my knowledge and network, so collaborating could be a great opportunity for both of us.

I am part of Vitalize angels, I volunteered to do the investment analysis section of the due diligence

It was great meeting you briefly over Zoom during the Vitalize Pitch. I am really fascinated with what you are building and would love to find time to dive deeper into the product.

I have not heard back from the Vitalize team regarding which company they are going to move forward with diligence for. Either way, I would be very interested to see more of the product and whats on the roadmap.

Looking forward to hearing from you and getting a chance to dig in deeper. Hope you have a nice night!

Noelle- I did catch your pitch and am really interested in what Illuminus is doing. I hope it will move forward and you can do a demo. I have definitely found that tracking DEIB work is a necessary ccscd step because we prioritize what we track and data has a lot to tell. However, I've also been on this journey with organizations which have a hard time recognizing that just because everyone is "measured" with the "same tool" does not mean that data is used to create equity. How is your service looking at data in ways that begs more questions and uses the doors of DEIB not just to take advantage of a buzz, but to recognize that we are about to enter "The People Age" in which data/automation/artificial intelligence needs to become our liberators rather than our enslavers. When I look to who and what systems are comfortable with enslavement and who understands liberation to build a new system to get there. So I want to know does Illuminus see DEIB as HR's fruit of the day or as a key to unlock transformative ways of approaching data and people?

I would also like to learn more about the diversity of your team and how are you learning from and supporting access, witness, and learning from the disability community?

Saks Fifth Avenue took their time but presented one of the most sincere examinations of DEIB I have read in a long time. I wonder where they are and how they are tracking the points they said they wanted to attract.

Finally, since you are in the South, have you looked at Venture South or even HiMark Capital in Charleston? Happy to make some introductions.
