LEAD INVESTOR

Robert McLaughlin

In 2017, I witnessed a partial solar eclipse in Eastern Pennsylvania. Almost 80% of the sun was covered by the moon. I struggled to find glasses for my family in the week before the eclipse and ended up paying $5 each for glasses. In 2024, there will be over 30 million people in the path of totality including large cities like Dallas, Cleveland, Buffalo, San Antonio, Indianapolis and Montreal. Tens of millions more in cities like New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Detroit and St Louis will see almost 90% or more of the sun covered. I tried months ago to get hotel rooms in the path of totality in Bloomington Indiana on April 8, 2024 and found most rooms sold out and the hotels with availability were charging up to 3 or 4 times their normal daily rates. All this added up to me, what sounded like an incredible opportunity to make money. Lucky for me, I ran into James Reed who had been thinking about the same thing for 5 years. When I heard James' enthusiasm and talked to him about the countless hours of research and planning that he had emmersed himself in over that time, I jumped at the opportunity to invest.

American Quatervois (kwâh-tehr-vwâ)

AQ is a pre-revenue start-up company that was formed in February 2023 in Wilmington, DE. We operate out of Linwood, PA, a suburb of Philadelphia in the tri-state area of PA/DE/NJ.

WE SELL ONE THING....

SOLAR ECLIPSE GLASSES!

We know. It sounds odd at first, right? The idea that such a small, disposable trinket could be lucrative enough for someone to build an entire company around and seek investors for is not what you were expecting, huh? We get it. But keep reading, because you're not going to believe how much money these things make!

BUT WHY ECLIPSE GLASSES OF ALL THINGS?

We created this company because we witnessed a total eclipse in 2017. Hands-down the most phenomenal natural event that a person can see! Millions of people travel thousands of miles to see them because they're so rare and so awesome to experience.

The unexpected interest in total solar eclipses made us take a closer look at the data. As much money as eclipse glasses made in 2017, it's miniscule compared to the next one coming to North America in April of 2024.

This is going to be a once in a lifetime event for so many people, and as an investor, it could be a game changer. In less than 9 months, the United States, Mexico and Canada will have front row seats to the greatest show on earth!

WHAT WE LEARNED FROM THE GREAT AMERICAN ECLIPSE IN 2017:

- About 12 million people lived in the path of totality, but over 17 million people traveled to see it!

- People waited too long, then rushed to buy eclipse glasses at the last minute. Businesses sold out, and online sales skyrocketed!

- Extreme shortages and inferior glasses provided companies with the opportunity to make huge profits, but left millions of people without the ability to watch the eclipse.

- According to one manufacturer, 200 million pairs were sold, and it still wasn't enough to meet the demand.

- The Great North American Eclipse in April of 2024 is going to be almost THREE TIMES AS BIG in every dynamic. The shortages WILL happen again.

- There won't be another total solar eclipse in the United States for over 21 years, which will only exacerbate the shortages.

THE BIGGEST TRAVEL EVENT IN THE HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES ¹

Below is data projected for The Great North American Eclipse in April of 2024, which will have almost 3 times the dynamics than the last total solar eclipse in 2017. As you can see, data from the 2017 eclipse shows a very profitable market for investors:

2017

2024

Totality: 2:41

Totality: 4:28

From Oregon to South Carolina

From Texas to Maine

60 miles wide

120 miles wide

216 million people viewed the eclipse

Over 500 million people are expected to watch!

200 million+ pairs sold for an average of $7.50 with $1.5 billion in revenue generated!

If the average price remains the same, that's over THREE BILLION DOLLARS!

So how does this equate into profit?

Investments are risky because there's no guarantee of a demand for a company's product or their ability to sell it. This venture is different because it's more about an event than a company. Outside of an asteroid hitting the moon or the earth and knocking one of them out of orbit, the eclipse is going to happen. Hundreds of millions of people are going to buy eclipse glasses.

And because our product is one size fits all, over 500 million people in North America are potential customers. That's 6.25% of the world's population. No more companies are manufacturing glasses now than there were in 2017, and almost 3 times as many people will want to buy them.

Could you sell 5 million pairs of eclipse glasses to a crowd of 500 million people? Of course you could. A monkey could do it. We have a whole team dedicated to it (humans, not monkeys), and a very precise plan to make it happen.

One county. One state. One day. One event. Over 400,000 people. That's how big this thing is going to be. There are 314 counties in the path of totality. Think about that.

The article to the right is just one article out of hundreds from the path of totality. Our CEO was born and raised in Richland County. Being from Ohio is a tremendous benefit to achieving our goals.

When hundreds of cities and towns start planning Armageddon-like responses to an event, it's only prudent to capitalize from it. Not only is it good for the economy, but it will help people get eclipse glasses that they would otherwise not have access to.

Mansfield News Journal, Richland County, Ohio

Not everyone is aware a total solar eclipse will hit the region on Monday, April 8, 2024.

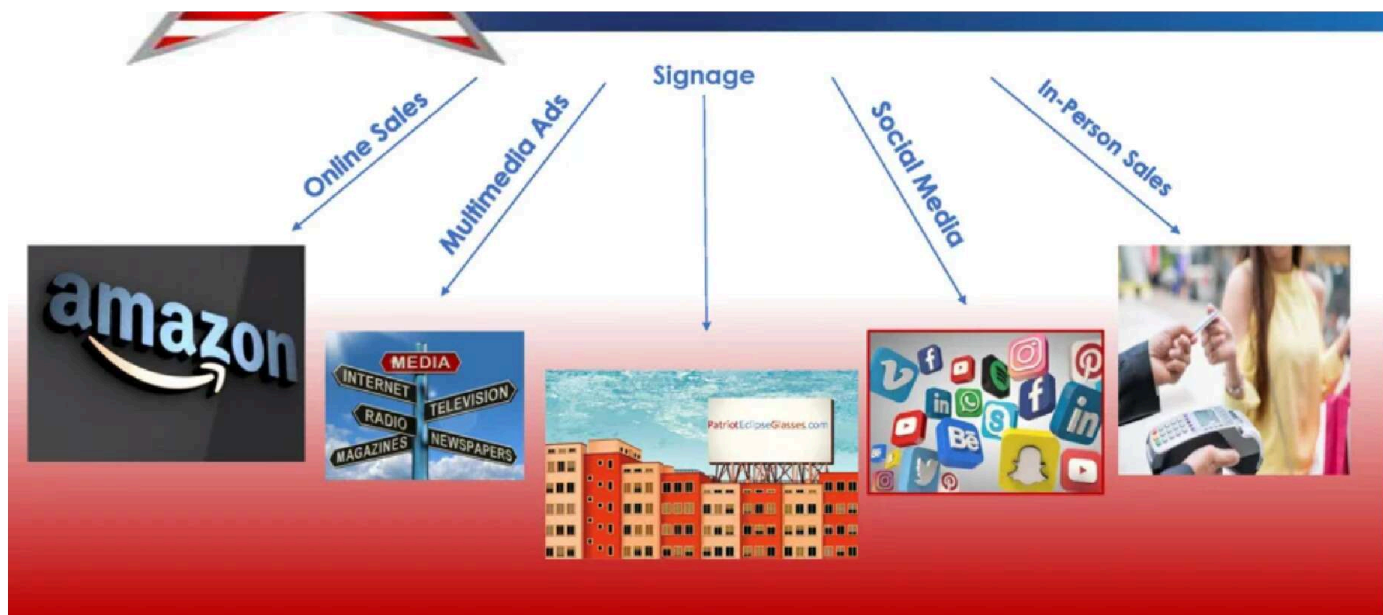

That was one of the biggest concerns discussed by community leaders Monday during an eclipse awareness meeting held in the emergency operations center of the Richland County Emergency Management Agency.

Local officials have been gathering monthly to plan for the upcoming event, which is expected to bring as many as 400,000 people to Richland County alone.

The next conversation has been scheduled for 9 a.m. Aug. 14 by Rebecca Owens, director of the Richland County EMA.

American Quatervois only sells American made, ISO CE certified solar eclipse glasses because anything less is unacceptable. When it comes to your eyes, we've got you covered!
