Changing healthcare by engaging patients to manage their condition through AI and Behavioral Science

Boston, Massachusetts, United States

Summary

Enabling pharmaceuticals, payors and hospitals to empower patients to adhere to their treatments and avoid costly complications, supported in our Data Solutions and Rewards Network Platform.

During the 12 years I spent in big pharma I had the opportunity to learn a lot about patients, their needs and those of their doctors. During this time, I was fortunate to work with high performing teams that allowed us to successfully launch new drugs and new indications; among others I earned recognitions for best product launch worldwide, best national sales manager award, best turnaround for an affiliate, and some others awarded to my staff. But the greatest satisfaction came when I had the opportunity to meet with patients and see their condition evolve favorably. My commitment to peoples' health led me and my co-founders to develop a platform to help patients improve their quality of life through i) education about their condition, ii) building expertise, by providing incentives to encourage self-care and iii) teamwork, fostering communication among doctors, patients, caregivers and other stakeholders.

I'm a husband and father of five, my kids make fun of me because I'm still a Michigan football & Yankees baseball faithful, and still rooting for another Red Bull racing championship!
