Stacy Snyder

Co-founder of Mooncastle Films, Producer, Actress
Los Angeles Metropolitan Area

Summary

I am a seasoned feature film producer centering women and underrepresented groups in story, cast, and crew. My last feature had 50% female crew and 62% women and underrepresented groups across the entire film team.

With 9+ years of strategic leadership and operational experience across multiple sectors, I am able to apply best practices in the entertainment space as an effective, insightful, and communicative producer who can deliver to both creative and financial stakeholders.

I have consistently exceeded budgetary and performance goals and I am adept at achieving maximum operational output with minimal resource expenditure. Professional focal points include process improvement, revenue growth strategies, strategic partnerships, quality control, customer service, problem-solving, and negotiation. Delivering superior administration on the latter areas of expertise requires utilization of effective communication skills, business acumen, systems analysis, cross-functional collaboration, team leadership, and resource management to support efficiency and maximum returns.

Colleagues describe me as a progressive, driven, down-to-earth, technical and strategic expert who can be relied on to offer superior solutions that deliver profitable results on time and under budget.

I am interested in contacting former colleagues as well as other professionals in my field. Feel free to contact me through this profile if you wish to connect!
