ii Your Fund's After Tax Returns

The table below presents returns for your Fund both before and after taxes. The after tax returns are shown in two ways: (1) assumes that an investor owned the Fund during the entire period and paid taxes on the Fund's distributions, and (2) assumes that an investor paid taxes on the Fund's distributions and sold all shares at the end of each period.

Calculations are based on the highest individual federal income tax and capital gains rates in effect at the time of the distribution and hypothetical sales. State and local taxes were not considered. Actual after-tax returns depend on an investor's tax situation and may differ from those shown and are not relevant to investors who hold their fund shares through tax-deferred arrangements, such as 401K plans or individual retirement accounts and certain annuities.

Keep in mind that a fund's performance- whether before or after taxes- does not guarantee future results.

^v Expense Example

As a shareholder of the Fund, you incur ongoing costs including management fees and other Fund expenses. This example is intended to help you understand your ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in the Fund and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds. The example is based on an investment of $1,000 invested at the beginning of the period and held for the entire period of March 1, 2011 to August 31, 2011.

Actual Expenses

The first line of the table below provides information about actual account values and actual expenses. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading entitled "Expenses Paid During Period" to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during this period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes

The second line of the table below provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on the Fund's actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Fund's actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing costs of investing in the Fund and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of the other funds.

	Beginning Account Value on March 1, 2011	Ending Account Value on August 31, 2011	Expenses Paid During Period* of March 1, 2011 to August 31, 2011
Actual	$1,000	$1,039.84	$5.92
Hypothetical (5% return before expenses)	$1,000	1,037.72	$6.01

*Expenses are equal to the Fund's annualized expense ratio of 1.17%, multiplied by the average account value over the period, multiplied by 184/365 (to reflect the one-half year period). The Example assumes that the $1,000 was invested at the net asset value per share determined at the close of business on February 28, 2011.
