Competition Law Compliance Matters

Sasol today announced that as part of the Group's ongoing legal compliance programme, Sasol Limited's Chief Executive, Pat Davies, and his management team initiated a competition law compliance review of all Sasol businesses in July 2008. In addition to this compliance review, the Sasol Limited Board of Directors, on recommendation of management, commissioned a review of the adequacy of competition law compliance processes managed and co-ordinated across the Sasol Group. Sasol has retained external counsel to assist in this connection.

Sasol will, in the course of conducting the competition law compliance reviews, adopt appropriate remedial steps and make disclosures on the material findings as and when it is appropriate. It is currently envisaged that the review process will be completed during the first half of 2009.

At this stage, Sasol is in a position to disclose findings of the competition law review process in respect of Sasol Nitro, Sasol Gas and Sasol Oil.

Sasol Nitro

Additional information has been revealed by the review process which is relevant to previously disclosed competition law legal proceedings in respect of the Nutri-Flo complaints and Phosphoric Acid investigation (See pages 179 - 181 of the 2008 Annual Financial Statements and pages 75 - 77 of the 2008 Annual Report submitted on Form 20-F to the United States Securities and Exchange Commission for the previous public disclosures in these matters). On the basis of available information and legal advice at the time of previous disclosures of these matters it was indicated that a finding of unlawful conduct under the Competition Act of South Africa in each of these matters was remote. Additional information uncovered in the review process and an ongoing assessment of the merits of these matters now indicate that a finding of unlawful conduct under the Competition Act is more probable in the Phosphoric Acid investigation and in respect of one of the complaints in the Nutri-Flo matter referred by the Competition Commission to the Competition Tribunal. Sasol has commenced exploratory discussions with the Competition Commission. It is premature to determine the possible consequences and financial impact of any finding of unlawful conduct at this stage.

Sasol Gas

The competition law compliance review referred to above, has also revealed two competition law contraventions in Sasol Gas. The first contravention relates to the structure of a piped gas marketing BEE joint venture which Sasol established and in which Sasol has a 49% interest. In support of the BEE joint venture Sasol agreed to certain restrictive provisions in the agreements relating to the venture. In addition Sasol provided marketing and administrative related services and assistance to this venture. These agreements were based on legal advice obtained at the time as well as an assumption that the venture could be treated as a partner rather than a competitor of Sasol Gas. Closer scrutiny and additional legal advice obtained as part of the competition law compliance review indicated that the assumption was not valid and that the assistance and services provided to the venture constituted a contravention of the South African Competition Act.

The second contravention relates to a restrictive clause in a supply agreement with a customer for the benefit of the customer. Sasol agreed to the restrictive clause to support the privatisation of the customer. Sasol is only to a limited extent a potential competitor of this customer.

Each of these contraventions was brought to the attention of the Competition Commission once they were identified. Sasol is co-operating with the Competition Commission and has been granted conditional corporate leniency by the Competition Commission in both these matters. We do not believe that these contraventions by Sasol Gas will have a material adverse impact on our business, operating results and financial condition.

Sasol Oil

Following a competition law compliance review, Sasol Oil was advised by its competition law advisors that certain identified conduct may be construed as contravening certain provisions of the South African Competition Act.

Upon the identification of the potential concerns, Sasol Oil submitted leniency applications to the Competition Commission and is co-operating with the Commission in this regard.

Competition Commission Announcement

The Competition Commission today announced that it has initiated investigations into the South African piped gas and petroleum industries as a result of Sasol's leniency applications. Sasol is co-operating fully with the Commission in these investigations.

Sasol chief executive, Pat Davies, said: "While we have always had compliance programmes in place, they do not erect an absolute barrier against behaviour that may be contrary to our policies or applicable laws or regulations. The intense scrutiny of the review initiated last year is unfortunately indicating areas of concern. We will not tolerate non-compliance and won't rest until we are confident that all our businesses are fully compliant not least because any contravention of law could potentially lead to fines, remedial actions and civil claims and therefore have a negative impact on Sasol's business and reputation. Where we do identify potential irregularities, we take a conservative approach and take prompt action to rectify the situation."

Davies added: "Most importantly, our values do not leave any room for unethical behaviour. This detailed scrutiny of potential compliance issues is particularly necessary given the increasing complexity of both the business and legislative environment in which we operate and we continue to intensify our compliance reviews accordingly. Sasol remains vigilant in identifying potential compliance issues particularly given the increasing complexity of both the business and legislative environments in which we operate and we will continue to intensify our compliance reviews accordingly."

Hixonia Nyasulu, the Chairman of Sasol, said: "The Board is fully appraised of the competition compliance review and fully supports the activities undertaken. The additional review, commissioned by the Board on the recommendation of management, takes a further look at the broader competition law compliance processes and the management and co-ordination thereof. External counsel will assist in this board-commissioned review and I feel this both a comprehensive and necessary set of activities."

Forward looking statements

In this announcement we make certain statements that are not historical facts and relate to analyses and other information which are based on forecasts of future results and estimates of amounts not yet determinable. These statements may also relate to our future prospects, developments and business strategies. Examples of such forward-looking statements include, but are not limited to, statements regarding exchange rate fluctuations, volume growth, increases in market share, total shareholder return and cost reductions. Words such as "believe", "anticipate", "expect", "intend", "seek", "will", "plan", "could", "may", "endeavour" and "project" and similar expressions are intended to identify such forward-looking statements, but are not the exclusive means of identifying such statements.

By their very nature, forward-looking statements involve inherent risks and uncertainties, both general and specific, and there are risks that the predictions, forecasts, projections and other forward-looking statements will not be achieved. If one or more of these risks materialise, or should underlying assumptions prove incorrect, our actual results may differ materially from those anticipated. You should understand that a number of important factors could cause actual results to differ materially from the plans, objectives, expectations, estimates and intentions expressed in such forward-looking statements. These factors are discussed more fully in our most recent annual report under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 on Form 20-F filed on 7 October 2008 and in other filings with the United States Securities and Exchange Commission. The list of factors discussed therein is not exhaustive; when relying on forward-looking statements to make investment decisions, you should carefully consider both these factors and other uncertainties and events. Forward-looking statements apply only as of the date on which they are made, and we do not undertake any obligation to update or revise any of them, whether as a result of new information, future events or otherwise.
