Re: General Dynamics Corporation
Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2006
File No. 1-3671

Dear Mr. Redd:

We have reviewed your filing and have the following comments. Where indicated, we think you should revise your document in response to these comments. If you disagree, we will consider your explanation as to why our comment is inapplicable or a revision is unnecessary. Please be as detailed as necessary in your explanation. In some of our comments, we may ask you to provide us with information so we may better understand your disclosure. After reviewing this information, we may or may not raise additional comments.

Please understand that the purpose of our review process is to assist you in your compliance with the applicable disclosure requirements and to enhance the overall disclosure in your filing. We look forward to working with you in these respects. We welcome any questions you may have about our comments or on any other aspect of our review. Feel free to call us at the telephone numbers listed at the end of this letter.

Item 6. Selected Financial Data, page 18

1. Please do not include Free Cash Flow, a non-GAAP measure, within captions that present GAAP information as we believe this presentation may be confusing to your readers.
2. We refer to your presentation of cash flows from operations. While we note that information is useful, we believe it should be considered in the framework of a statement of cash flows which reflects management's decisions as to the use of these cash flows and the external sources of capital used. Therefore, presentation of one part of a cash flows statement should be avoided. Refer to FRC 202.03 and revise future filings accordingly.

Item 7. Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations Review of Operating Segments, page 22

3. We note your analysis of revenues for 2006 compared to 2005. Please revise future filings to provide better insight into the underlying reasons for changes in the operating results of each of your business groups. To the extent that multiple factors contribute to the changes in one or more of these areas, you should quantify the impact of each factor, where possible. For example, the last paragraph of your current disclosure on page 22 states that the Aerospace business group's operating earnings and margins increased due to both additional volumes and improved pricing; however, such disclosure provide does not provide insight into how much price and volume changes individually impacted operating earnings and margins. We note other instances where you textually discuss reasons for changes in your revenues, operating earnings and operating margin but do not separately quantify the impact caused by more than one underlying factor. Refer to Item 303(a)(3)(iii) of Regulation S-K, and to our Release 33-8350, available on our website at www.sec.gov/rules/interp/33-8350.htm.
4. We note your discussions within your business section which highlights your major product and service revenues within each of your four business group's sales. In future filings, please fully incorporate this information into your Management's Discussion and Analysis such that you use this information to quantify and separately analyze how the changes in price and volume of each of these product lines, to the extent material, impacted revenues and the operating results of your business groups.
5. As indicated on page 5, we note that Combat Systems is the principal contractor for the maintenance, repair and refit of Abrams tanks and Stryker vehicles. We also note that those activities have increased significantly due to four years of warfare. If material, ensure that your MD&A appropriately quantifies the impact these increased activities have had on your results of operations.
6. We note from your disclosure in Note G to your financial statements and on page 26 that you have included estimated recoveries of contract costs, specifically those related to your T-AKE combat logistics ship contract. To the extent material, please expand your discussion of your results of operations to discuss the recoveries in each period presented. Addresses whether you have had any downward adjustments to those estimates in the periods presented, and if so, quantify the amount of any such adjustments.

Financial Condition, Liquidity and Capital Resources, page 30

7. In future filings, please ensure you fully and prominently discuss and analyze your GAAP discussion of operating, investing and financing activities before any discussion of non-GAAP liquidity measures. Refer to Item 10(e)(1)(i)(a) of Regulation S-K

8. We note your analysis of operating cash flows on page 31. Please revise future filings to provide a more detailed analysis of changes in your operating cash flows. Please note that your cash flow analysis should not merely be a recitation of the numbers seen on the face of your statement of cash flows; rather, your analysis should provide your investors with insight into the underlying reasons behind the changes seen on your statement of cash flows. Finally, please revise future filings to address all periods presented on your statement of cash flows to more clearly highlight and explain any trends. Refer to Section 4(A) of our Release 33-8350.

Consolidated Financial Statements
Note A. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies
Revenue Recognition, page 40

9. You indicate within your Critical Accounting Policies on page 33 that you follow the guidelines of SOP 81-1 with the exception of your accounting for revisions of estimated profits on contracts which you account for under APB 20 (please note that APB 20 has been superseded by SFAS 154). However, it is unclear to us why the guidance set forth in paragraph 83 of SOP 81-1, which requires that revisions in estimated profits be accounted for under the cumulative catch up method, does not take precedence over APB 20 and SFAS 154. Please advise. In addition, please provide us with an analysis showing the impact on your financial statements for the three years ended December 31, 2006 had you used the cumulative catch up method to account for revisions in estimated profits on your long term contracts. We will have further comment upon your response.

Research and Development Expenses, page 40

10. In future filings, please separately quantify the amount of bid and proposal costs you have included in research and development expense.

Impairment of Long-Lived Assets, page 41

11. In light of the fact that goodwill is a significant asset on your balance sheet, please enhance your future filings to more specifically address your accounting for goodwill impairment. Ensure you clarify at what level of reporting you test goodwill for impairment, how you test for impairment, what factors and assumptions you consider when testing for impairment, and what factors would trigger you to perform additional impairment analysis. Please also note that some of this enhanced disclosure may be best reflected in your critical accounting estimates where, if applicable, you should quantify any material estimates you used in this analysis.

Note B. Acquisitions, Intangible Assets and Goodwill, page 42

12. We note your acquisition of Anteon during the year ended December 31, 2006 and have the following comments:

- You indicate that some of the estimates related to the Anteon acquisition were still preliminary. In future filings, you should alert readers to the potential impact of changes to your preliminary purchase price allocation.
- We note that you have allocated a very significant portion of the total estimated purchase price of Anteon to goodwill. In future filings please provide a description of the factors that contributed to such a large percentage of the purchase price being allocated to goodwill and provide the disclosures required by paragraph 51(b) of SFAS 141 in future filings;
- We note from review of Anteon's 2005 Form 10-K that they had approximately $6.5 billion of estimated backlog. Please tell us what recognition you gave to this potential intangible asset. Refer to paragraphs B172 and B183 of SFAS 141, and
- In future filings ensure you provide all the disclosures required by paragraphs 51-52 and 54-55 of SFAS 141.

13. In future filings please provide a more comprehensive description of the nature of contract and program and other intangible assets you have recorded and provide a more specific range of useful lives for those specifically identified intangibles. In this regard, we note your disclosure that contract and program intangible assets are amortized over a period of one to 40 years and your other intangible assets are amortized over one to 21 years does not provide readers with sufficient information to assess the nature of your intangible assets acquired or the appropriateness of their respective useful lives.

Note G. Contracts in Process, page 46

14. We note that your other contract costs have increased significantly year to year. In order for your reader to better understand this component of your balance sheet, a discussion of the reasons for the increase and a rollforward of these costs should be included in your disclosures.

As appropriate, please amend your filing and respond to these comments within 10 business days or tell us when you will provide us with a response. Please provide us with a supplemental response letter that keys your responses to our comments and provides any requested supplemental information. Detailed letters greatly facilitate our review. Please file your supplemental response on EDGAR as a correspondence file. Please understand that we may have additional comments after reviewing your responses to our comments.
