Real Estate & Investment Management Division of HoldCo

- As part of its HoldCo strategy, DRAD formed a new subsidiary in April 2019 named Star Real Estate Holdings USA, Inc. (“SRE”) to manage all of the real estate assets of HoldCo
- SRE acquired three manufacturing plants in Maine in Q2 2019 all involved in the construction of modular buildings for residential, multi-family, and commercial projects
- Future HoldCo acquisition targets could have underappreciated real estate holdings that could be owned by SRE
- SRE expects to raise its own external capital over time
- Lone Star Value Management, LLC (LSVM) merged into ATRM as of April 1, 2019
- LSVM is the investment advisor for several funds including all LSV funds and Ascent Oil Fund
- New funds could be added in the future

Benefits of HoldCo

- We believe converting into a diversified holding company (“HoldCo”) with a shared services center (“SSC”) will create significant value for DRAD stockholders over time because it will: 1) be accretive to DRAD common stockholders, 2) improve future revenue, cash flow, and earnings growth, and 3) create a platform for future bolt-on acquisitions and other growth opportunities
- Additional benefits include:
 - Significantly higher Adjusted EBITDA and Free Cash Flow per common share
 - Potential for multiple expansion from stronger growth outlook
 - Cost savings from initial transaction to form HoldCo and SSC expected to be significant and will likely grow over time with additional acquisitions by HoldCo
 - Improved operating and financial performance due to Operating CEOs focusing on operations and growth rather than corporate functions
 - Optimized capital allocation will maximize ROIC and ROE over the long term
- Initial “kick-off” transaction was needed to launch HoldCo, form SSC, and prove the concept to the market and future acquisition targets:
 - ATRM was an attractive acquisition for the initial “kick-off” transaction:
 - > No DRAD common shares issued/accretive to DRAD common stockholders in 2020
 - > Significant cost reductions will come from combining ATRM with DRAD and forming SSC
 - > ATRM has significant growth and bolt-on acquisition opportunities
 - > Newly issued DRAD preferred stock (Nasdaq: DRADP) issued in the acquisition of ATRM could be used as an acquisition currency by HoldCo for future acquisitions (no common equity dilution, no NOL impact, no maturity date, junior to bank debt, tax efficient)
 - Future acquisitions will be easier now that HoldCo and SSC have been formed and are operating
- Owner mindset:
 - Board of Directors of Digirad currently owns 7.8% of DRAD’s common stock
 - Board of Directors of HoldCo expects to significantly increase its ownership of HoldCo over time

HoldCo: Preliminary 2020 Outlook

Revenues: $130 million - $150 million

Adjusted EBITDA: $10 million - $12 million⁽¹⁾

Goal is to grow Adjusted EBITDA organically to $20 million by cutting corporate costs and through internal growth initiatives in particular by re-starting one or both of the idle plants at ATRM's KBS division

Capex: $2 million - $4 million

Free Cash Flow: $7 million - $9 million⁽²⁾

Preferred Stock Dividends: $1.9 million

Net Free Cash Flow: $5 million - $7 million

Expected to be used for debt paydown, internal growth investments, and acquisitions

(1) Assumes no restart of KBS's idle plant in Oxford, Maine in 2020. Restarting this plant could result in Adjusted EBITDA exceeding this range, particularly in 2H 2020.

(2) Assumes no changes in working capital, no asset sales, and approximately $1 million of annual interest expense.

HoldCo Structure

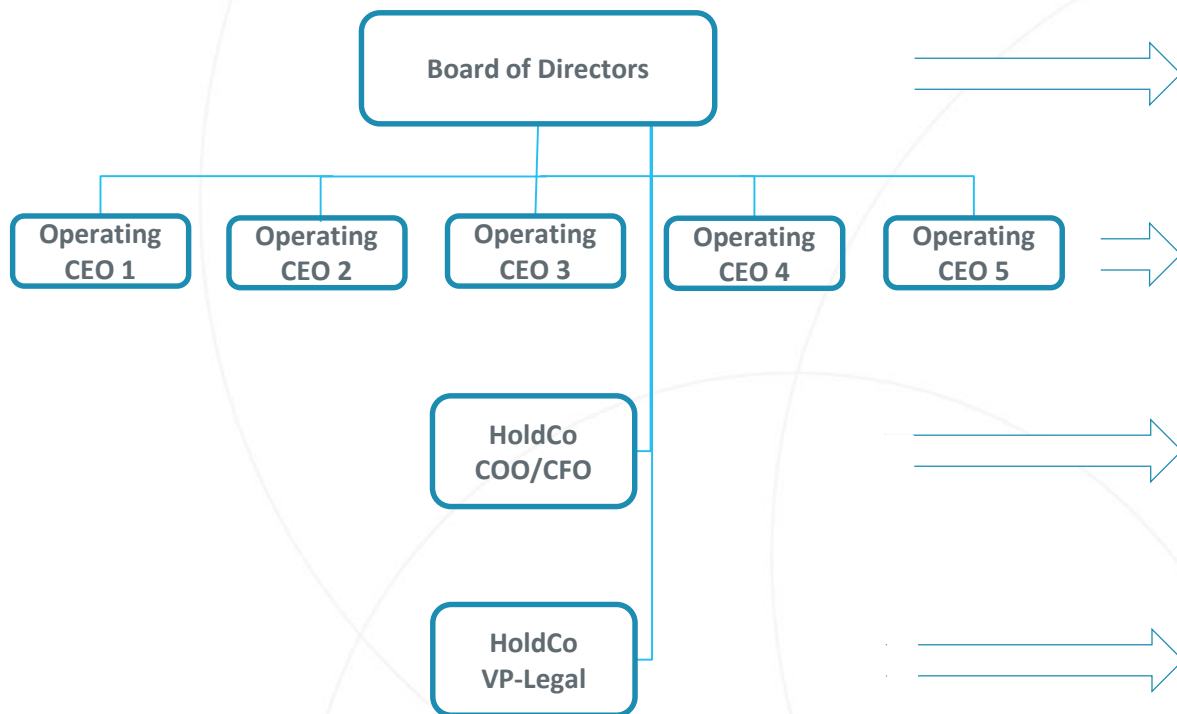

HoldCo: Thoughts on Future Acquisitions

- Public Company Targets:
 - We are targeting companies with:
 - a) Market cap of $5-50mm to start and will benefit from being part of our HoldCo structure; HoldCo's shared service center will lower overhead costs
 - b) Existing assets, earnings, and cash flows (no start-ups or venture capital-type situations)
 - c) High SG&A and public company costs as a percentage of revenue
 - d) Opportunities for improved operating and financial performance; shareholder activism could be a tool if poorly performing boards/management teams are entrenched
 - We believe most small, standalone, companies are more valuable inside HoldCo - especially as the cost of being public averages approximately $1.5mm per year⁽¹⁾; this is especially true for companies with a market cap below $100mm
- Private Company Targets:
 - Existing assets, earnings, and cash flows (no start-ups or venture capital-type situations)
 - HoldCo a better partner than Private Equity in many instances (open-ended time horizon, long-term relationship mentality, lower cost of capital, more flexible)
 - Tax-efficient for seller if seller takes HoldCo common or preferred stock instead of cash
- Creating synergies from Acquisition Targets using HoldCo and SSC structure:
 - Operating management teams freed up to focus on maximizing operations and pursuing growth opportunities
 - Moving many corporate functions to SSC will reduce corporate overhead costs
 - NOL at HoldCo level should offset US taxable income generated by operating businesses
 - Lower cost of capital
 - Better access to capital
 - Better capital allocation

Real Estate & Investment Management Division of HoldCo

Real Estate:

- As part of its HoldCo strategy, DRAD formed a new subsidiary in April 2019 named Star Real Estate Holdings USA, Inc. (“SRE”)
- Future acquisition opportunities could have underappreciated real estate value and HoldCo anticipates placing any significant new real estate assets into SRE
- SRE expects to be largely self-funded over time by raising its own capital through commercial mortgages on its properties or other forms of external capital
- SRE acquired three manufacturing plants in Maine in Q2 2019 all involved in the construction of modular buildings for residential, multi-family, and commercial projects:
 - All three plants are within 15 miles of each other and have significant strategic value as a 3-plant operating system given the lack of other capable plants within several hundred miles
 - Two plants were purchased from ATRM’s KBS division and one from an owner who was leasing the plant to a potential competitor to KBS
 - Two of the plants are idle and one has been operating at a reduced rate which creates significant upside to DRAD’s stockholders if production increases as expected from improved demand and re-opening the idle plants

Investment Management:

- Lone Star Value Management, LLC (LSVM) merged into ATRM as of April 1, 2019
- LSVM is the investment advisor for several funds including all LSV funds and Ascent Oil Fund
- Doing activism through the Lone Star Value brand name will be less confusing to activist targets and investing public than through an operating company like DRAD
- Ascent Oil Fund and similar assets under advisement of LSVM generated gross fees of almost $2mm in 2018
- New funds could be added to the Investment Management Division in the future (Fund 3, Fund 4, etc.) to increase revenues and cash flow for HoldCo
