Form 10-K for Fiscal Year Ended December 31, 2021

Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations
Liquidity, page 32

1. In regard to your net cash flows provided by operating activities for the years presented, you disclose net income plus depreciation and amortization accounts for most of the operating cash provided. However, it is not clear how the sum of these amounts for each year correlate to the reported amounts of operating cash flows for the like year and changes therein from period to period. For example, the indicated sum, using amounts reported in the operating activities of the statement of cash flows, for 2021 and 2020 appears to be $41,104(000) and $36,445(000), respectively, while reported operating cash flows for 2021 and 2020 are $34,547(000) and $47,781(000), respectively. Your analysis should discuss factors that affected the reported amount of operating cash flow from period to period and the reasons underlying these factors. Note that references to results and noncash items may not provide a sufficient basis to understand how operating cash actually was affected between periods. Refer to Item 303(b) of Regulation S-K, the introductory paragraph of section IV.B and paragraph B.1 of Release No. 33-8350 for guidance, and section 501.04 of our Codification of Financial Reporting Releases regarding quantification of variance factors. Please revise your disclosure to discuss the material factors that impacted operating cash flow from period to period.

In closing, we remind you that the company and its management are responsible for the accuracy and adequacy of their disclosures, notwithstanding any review, comments, action or absence of action by the staff.

You may contact Patrick Kuhn at (202) 551-3308 or Doug Jones at (202) 551-3309 with any questions.

Sincerely,
