(3) ACQUISITIONS

Effective June 1, 1999, the Company acquired 100% of the outstanding capital stock of ProVal Corporation. ProVal provides CAMA (computer assisted mass appraisal) software and services to local governments in the United States and Canada. The aggregate purchase price of approximately $3.45 million consisted of $1.5 million in cash and 300,000 shares of the Company's common stock valued at $1.95 million. The acquisition has been accounted for under the purchase method of accounting. The excess of the aggregate purchase price over the fair value of the net assets acquired of approximately $2.9 million has been recognized as goodwill and is being amortized over a 10-year period. Additional payments of cash and shares of common stock may be required over the next four fiscal years if ProVal Corporation achieves certain revenue and operating income targets. The operating results of ProVal Corporation have been included in the Company's consolidated results of operations from the date of acquisition. Therefore, the period ended July 31, 2000 includes three months of operations versus the two months of operations included as of July 31, 1999.

Effective March 30, 2000, the Company acquired selected assets and certain contracts of CPS Systems, Inc. ("CPS"). CPS provides property tax, appraisal, and integrated voice response software to local governments. The aggregate purchase price was $1.8 million in cash. The acquisition has been accounted for under the purchase method of accounting. The excess of the aggregate purchase price over the fair value of the net assets acquired of approximately $1.5 million has been recognized as goodwill and is being amortized over a 10-year period. The operating results of CPS have been included in the Company's consolidated results of operations from the date of acquisition. Therefore, the period ended July 31, 2000 includes three months of operations versus July 31, 1999 in which no CPS operations were included.

(4) EARNINGS (LOSS) PER SHARE

The following table reconciles the numerators and denominators used in the calculation of basic and diluted earnings (loss) per share for the each of the periods presented:

	Three Months Ended July 31,
	2000	1999
Numerators:
Net income (loss)	$ (342,107)	$ 396,150
Denominators:
Denominator for basic earnings (loss) per share, weighted average outstanding common shares.....	3,436,416	3,208,163
Potential dilutive shares.....	0*	305,189
Denominator for diluted earnings (loss) per share.....	3,436,416	3,513,352
Earnings (Loss) Per Share:
Basic	$ (.10)	$ .12
Diluted	$ (.10)	$ .11

*Zero shares are included due to loss this period.

Certain exercisable stock options were not included in the computations of diluted earnings per share because the option prices were greater than the average market prices for the periods presented. Options to purchase 67,000 shares of common stock at prices ranging from $6.81 to $7.00 per share were outstanding during the three months ended July 31, 1999, but were not included in the computation of diluted earnings per share. All exercisable stock options were included in the computation of earnings per share for the three months ended July 31, 2000 as the option prices were not greater than the average market price.

Item 2. Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations

Results of Operations

Net revenues of $10,065,506 for the three months ended July 31, 2000 have decreased by 3.8% in comparison to the $10,466,364 of net revenues that were reported for the comparable period in the prior fiscal year. These amounts include revenues from computer hardware and software shipments, sales of computer forms and supplies and various related services such as mass real estate appraisals (revaluations), software support, training, hardware maintenance and forms processing and printing.

Appraisal service revenues for the three months ended July 31, 2000 have decreased approximately $300,000 versus the comparable period in 1999. In addition, the Company's backlog for appraisal services at July 31, 2000 decreased by approximately $7.3 million to $11.7 million compared to approximately $19 million at July 31, 1999 and $14.9 million at April 30, 2000. These decreases are due to the continued execution of the Allegheny County (Pittsburgh), Pennsylvania, Dauphin County (Harrisburg), and Rockland County, New York contracts as well as the completion of the Hamilton County (Cincinnati), Ohio, appraisal contract. The Company has been actively pursuing new business to replenish the backlog.

The Company has reserved 100% of retainage revenue related to the Allegheny County appraisal project and 15% of the retainage revenue on all other appraisal service projects due to the high degree of judgment involved in estimating the percentage of completion on these projects and the uncertainty regarding their ultimate realizability.

The Company expects to maintain a 100% reserve against the retainage revenue on the Allegheny County project in future periods until such time as the uncertainty surrounding the realizability of the retainage revenue is resolved. With the Allegheny County project over 88% complete, the Company expects to determine the ultimate outcome of this uncertainty during fiscal 2001 as the work on the project becomes virtually complete. As of July 31, 2000 and 1999, the total reserve against retainage revenue under all appraisal service projects (including Allegheny County) was $2,162,683 and $1,043,643, respectively. As of July 31, 2000 and 1999, the total reserve against retainage revenue under the Allegheny County project was $1,967,792 and $765,767, respectively.

Excluding new revenues associated with the ProVal and CPS acquisitions, revenues from hardware, software, support, professional services and supply sales have decreased by approximately 11% for the three months ended July 31, 2000 versus the comparable prior year period. This decrease is due to a significant reduction in new sales since January 1, 2000, which we believe is primarily due to the fact that this is an election year for many of our customers. In addition, local government officials seem to be scaling back their systems spending following all of the Year 2000 upgrades that took place in the prior year. While the software industry in general has experienced sluggish sales following the Year 2000 upgrades, we do not believe that this will be a long-term trend.

As a result of the decrease in net revenues, cost of revenues for the three months ended July 31, 2000 also decreased 3% to $7,091,885 versus the comparable prior year amount of $7,311,890. While software sales have decreased, the margin has remained consistent at approximately 30% due to the additional support revenue generated from acquisitions.

Selling, general and administrative expenses have increased by 30% to $3,469,560 for the three months ended July 31, 2000, compared to $2,673,139 for the same period in the prior fiscal year. This increase primarily is due to increased investment spending for the new tax, recorder and Internet products, increased amortization expense associated with acquisition related goodwill, increased corporate operating expenses associated with entities acquired within the last year, significant investments in marketing efforts, as well as reduced software capitalization. The Company is moving toward the industry trend of expensing more software development costs.

As a result of the factors noted above, the Company had a 203% decrease in its operating income to an operating loss of $495,939 for the three months ended July 31, 2000, versus operating income of $481,335 for the three months ended July 31, 1999. Net interest expense for the period ended July 31, 2000 was $22,168 compared to net interest income of $64,815 for the period ended July 31, 1999, which is directly related to our higher weighted average borrowings outstanding.

The Company's provision for federal income taxes generally fluctuates with the level of pretax income. Due to the net loss position for the quarter ended July 31, 2000, the Company has recorded a tax credit of $176,000 for this period. This credit was calculated using an effective tax rate of 34%, which the Company believes is conservative given the higher effective rate the Company is subject to considering the non-deductible goodwill amortization related to the Company's acquisitions. The Company believes that future earnings will be sufficient to offset this tax credit in future periods.

As a result of the factors noted above, the Company reported a 186% decrease in its net income to a net loss of $342,107 or $0.10 per share on a diluted basis for the three months ended July 31, 2000, versus income of $396,150 or $0.11 per share on a diluted basis for the comparable period in the prior fiscal year. Diluted weighted average outstanding common shares decreased by 275,463 shares from the quarter ended April 30, 2000 balance of 3,711,879 shares to the July 31, 2000 balance of 3,436,416 shares. This decrease was primarily due to the exclusion of 367,609 potential common shares that would have an antidilutive effect on the net loss per share.

Financial Condition and Liquidity

At July 31, 2000 the Company had working capital of $1,564,684 compared to the April 30, 2000 amount of $1,134,863. These levels reflect current ratios of 1.1 at July 31, 2000 and 1.08 at April 30, 2000. The slight increase in working capital is primarily due to increased receivable levels resulting from increased billings toward the end of the quarter.

Shareholders' equity at July 31, 2000 decreased by $118,712 to $11,337,055 from the balance reported at April 30, 2000, because of $88,344 of employee stock purchases, $135,051 of deferred compensation expense, and a $342,107 net loss for the quarter. As a result, book value per share has decreased to $3.03 as of July 31, 2000, from $3.26 at April 30, 2000, which represents a decrease of 7%.

The nature of the Company's business typically is not property or equipment intensive. Net capital expenditures, were approximately $100,000 for the three months ended July 31, 2000 compared to $1,500,000 for the three months ended July 31, 1999. In the prior year the Company had a significant one time purchase of a new 25,000 square foot corporate office, including furniture and fixtures for approximately $1,300,000. Current year expenditures relate primarily to the purchase of computer hardware and software for the Company's technical and support personnel.

As the Company's revenues are generated from contracts with local governmental entities, it is not uncommon for certain of its accounts receivable to remain outstanding for approximately three to four months, thereby having a negative impact upon cash flow. The Company has a $5 million unsecured line of credit with a bank, which matures on November 1, 2001. Borrowings outstanding at July 31, 2000 were approximately $3,596,000. In addition, the Company owed $25,000 on acquisition related debt. The Company anticipates that the revolving line of credit, together with existing cash balances, and cash generated from future operations will be sufficient for the Company to meet its working capital requirements for at least the next 12 months. The Company is, however, having discussions to explore the possibility of increasing their line of credit if necessary.

The Company cannot precisely determine the effect of inflation on its business. The Company continues, however, to experience relatively stable costs for its inventory as the computer hardware market is very competitive. Inflationary price increases related to labor and overhead will have a negative effect on the Company's cash flow and net income to the extent that they cannot be offset through improved productivity and price increases.

“Safe Harbor Statement” Under the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995

This Form 10-Q contains statements that are not historical facts. These statements are called “forward-looking statements” within the meaning of Section 27A of the Securities Act of 1933 and Section 21E of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. These statements involve important known and unknown risks, uncertainties and other factors and can be identified by phrases using “estimate,” “anticipate,” “believe,” “project,” “expect,” “intend,” “predict,” “potential,” “future,” “may,” “should” and similar expressions or words. The Company's future results, performance or achievements may differ materially from the results, performance or achievements discussed in the forward-looking statements. There are numerous factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from the results discussed in forward-looking statements, including:

- The impact that the following factors can have on the Company's business and the computer software and service industry in general:
 - Changes in competition and pricing environments: if competition increases in the computer software and service industry (particularly the segment of the industry that supplies governmental units), companies with greater capital reserves and greater diversification may have more options at their disposal for handling increased competition than we do.

- Potential negative side effects stemming from the Company's expansion into new regional markets, including Canada: as a result of this expansion, the Company may face pitfalls that it is not fully aware of considering its lack of experience.
- Reliance on the Company's appraisal contract involving Allegheny County, Pennsylvania: given the size of this contract, many projections may change significantly if this contract is curbed or terminated.
- Pricing and availability of equipment, materials, inventories and programming.
- Changes in existing computer software and service industry laws or the introduction of new laws, regulations or policies that could affect the Company's business practices, including, by way of example, intellectual property laws and laws affecting software providers' liability: these laws, regulations or policies could impact the computer software and service industry as a whole, or could impact only those portions of the computer software and service industry in which we are currently active, for example, privacy laws regulating how governmental units store and provide access to information; in either case, the Company's profitability could be injured due to an industry-wide market decline or due to the Company's inability to compete with other computer software and service industry companies that are unaffected by these laws, regulations or policies.
- Changes in technology that render our products obsolete or incompatible with hardware or other software.
- The Company's success in and expense associated with the development, production, testing, marketing and shipping of products, including a failure to ship new products and technologies when anticipated, failure of customers to accept these products and technologies when planned and any defects in products.
- The Company's ability to implement successfully its business strategy of developing and licensing client/server decision support applications software designed to address specific industry markets.
- The Company's ability to assess future revenue: the Company's expense levels are based, in part, on its expectations as to future revenue and a significant portion of the Company's expenses do not vary with revenue; as a result, if revenue is below expectations, results of operations are likely to be materially adversely affected.
- Continued availability of third party software and technology incorporated in the Company's products.
- Potential negative impact of the fact that purchase of the Company's products is relatively discretionary and generally involves a significant commitment of capital; in the event of any downturn in any potential customer's business or the economy in general, purchases of the Company's products may be deferred or canceled.

- Changes in economic conditions, including changes in interest rates, financial market performance and the computer software and service industry: these types of changes can impact the economy in general, resulting in a downward trend that impacts not the Company's business, but all computer software and service industry companies; or, the changes can impact only those parts of the economy upon which the Company relies in a unique fashion, including, by way of example:
 - Economic factors that affect local governmental budgets.
 - Economic factors that may affect the success of the acquisition strategy that the Company pursued throughout the 1990s.
 - Factors that the Company has discussed in previous public reports and other documents filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

This list provides examples of factors that could affect the results described by forward-looking statements contained in this Form 10-Q. However, this list is not intended to be exhaustive; many other factors could impact the Company's business and it is impossible to predict with any accuracy which factors could result in which negative impacts. Although the Company believes that the forward-looking statements contained in this Form 10-Q are reasonable, the Company cannot provide any guarantee that the anticipated results will be achieved. All forward-looking statements in this Form 10-Q are expressly qualified in their entirety by the cautionary statements contained in this section and readers are cautioned not to place undue reliance on the forward-looking statements contained in this Form 10-Q. In addition to the risks listed above, other risks may arise in the future, and the Company disclaims any obligation to update information contained in any forward-looking statement.

Item 3. Quantitative and Qualitative Disclosures About Market Risk.

The Company's primary market risk exposure is a potential change in interest rates in connection with its outstanding line of credit. As of July 31, 2000, $3,595,999 in borrowings were outstanding under this line of credit. Due to variable interest rates on the Company's line of credit, an increase in interest rates of 1% could result in the Company incurring an additional $35,960 in annual interest expense. Conversely, a decrease in interest rates of 1% could result in the Company saving $35,960 in annual interest expense.
