(3) ACQUISITIONS

Effective June 1, 1999, the Company acquired 100% of the outstanding capital stock of ProVal Corporation. ProVal provides CAMA (computer assisted mass appraisal) software and services to local governments in the United States and Canada. The aggregate purchase price of approximately $3.45 million consisted of $1.5 million in cash and 300,000 shares of the Company's common stock valued at $1.95 million. The acquisition has been accounted for under the purchase method of accounting. The excess of the aggregate purchase price over the fair value of the net assets acquired of approximately $2.9 million has been recognized as goodwill and is being amortized over a 10-year period. Additional payments of cash and shares of common stock may be required over the four fiscal years following the acquisition if certain revenue and operating income targets are achieved. The operating results of ProVal Corporation have been included in the Company's consolidated results of operations since the date of acquisition. Therefore, the period ended January 31, 2000 includes eight months of operations versus the nine months for the current year.

Effective March 30, 2000, the Company acquired selected assets and certain contracts of CPS Systems, Inc. from the U.S Bankruptcy Court, Northern District of Texas. The operations acquired primarily include property tax, appraisal, and integrated voice response software for local governments in the states of Florida, Oklahoma, and Texas. The aggregate purchase price was $1.8 million in cash. The acquisition has been accounted for under the purchase method of accounting. The excess of the aggregate purchase price over the fair value of the net assets acquired of approximately $1.5 million has been recognized as goodwill and is being amortized over a 10-year period. CPS's operating results have been included in the Company's consolidated results of operations since the date of acquisition. Therefore, the period ended January 31, 2001 includes nine months of operations as opposed to none for the prior year.

(4) NEW ACCOUNTING PRONOUNCEMENT

The Financial Accounting Standards Board issued Statements of Financial Accounting Standards No. 133, 137 and 138, "Accounting for Derivative Instruments and Hedging Activities" ("SFAS 133, 137 and 138"). These statements establish accounting and reporting standards for derivative instruments, including certain derivative instruments embedded in other contracts and hedging activities. The statements require that an entity record all derivatives as either assets or liabilities at fair value. These statements are effective for fiscal years beginning after June 15, 2000. Management expects that adoption of SFAS 133, 137 and 138 will have little, if any, impact on the Company's financial position or results of operations.

(3) All of the options to purchase shares and unvested restricted stock grants have been excluded due to the loss for this period.

Item 2. Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations.

Results of Operations

Net revenues of $10,285,603 and $29,714,360 for the three and nine month periods ended January 31, 2001, have decreased by approximately 9% versus the $11,304,653 and $32,796,798 of net revenues that were reported for the comparable periods in the prior fiscal year. These amounts include revenues from software license fees, sales of computers, forms and supplies and various related services such as mass real estate appraisals (revaluations), software support, training, hardware maintenance and forms processing and printing.

Excluding $925,000 of retention revenue discussed below, appraisal service revenues have decreased by approximately $1,246,000 and $3,284,000 for the three and nine months ended January 31, 2001, respectively, versus the comparable periods in fiscal 2000. In addition, the Company's backlog for appraisal services at January 31, 2001, decreased by approximately $3.4 million to $11.5 million compared to approximately $14.9 million at April 30, 2000. These decreases are primarily due to the wind down of a number of significant appraisal contracts that were generating more revenues in the prior year. These contracts include Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, Stamford County, Connecticut, Lawrence County, Illinois, and Hamilton County, Ohio. Finally, the Company has a few jobs on the East Coast that are currently behind schedule and therefore the revenues have been lower than initially anticipated. The Company has been actively pursuing new appraisal business to replenish the backlog.

As noted in prior quarters, the Company has reserved 100% of retainage revenue related to the Allegheny County appraisal project and 15% of the retainage revenue on all other appraisal service projects due to the high degree of judgment involved in estimating the percentage of completion on these projects and the uncertainty regarding their ultimate realizability. During the three months ended January 31, 2001, the Company collected and recognized approximately $925,000 of retention revenue on the Allegheny County project. Another $925,000 of the retention revenue is expected to be collected and recognized during the fourth quarter of fiscal 2001. As of January 31, 2001 and 2000, the total reserve against retainage revenue remaining under all appraisal service projects (including Allegheny County) was $1,468,411 and $1,673,295, respectively. As of January 31, 2001 and 2000, the total reserve against retainage revenue remaining under the Allegheny County project was $1,106,385 and $1,559,922, respectively.

Revenues from hardware, software, support, professional services and supply sales have decreased by approximately $700,000 for both the three and nine month periods ended January 31, 2001, from the comparable prior-year periods. Excluding new revenues associated with the CPS and ProVal acquisitions, revenues have actually decreased by approximately 21% for the three months ended January 31, 2001, and approximately 15% for the nine months ended January 31, 2001. These decreases are due to a significant reduction in new sales since January 1, 2000, which we believe is primarily due to the fact that 2000 was an election year for many of our customers. In addition, local government officials have been scaling back their systems spending following all of the Year 2000 upgrades that took place in the prior year.

While the software industry and many technology companies have experienced sluggish sales following the Year 2000 upgrades, we are starting to see an increase in proposal activity and have seen sales begin to pick up. However, it should be noted that there is typically a three to nine month lag between contract signature and delivery of the related products and services, which is the primary trigger for revenue recognition.

As a result of the decrease in net revenues, cost of revenues for the three months ended January 31, 2001, also decreased 11.8% to $6,678,873 versus the comparable prior year amount of $7,574,692. Excluding the $925,000 of retention revenue recognized this period, since the majority of the related costs have been expensed in prior periods, gross margin has decreased by approximately 4% to approximately 29% versus 33%. This decrease in margin is due to a change in the mix of revenues and the fact that a significant portion of the Company's costs are fixed in nature.

Selling, general and administrative expenses have increased by 1.9% to $3,153,252 for the three months ended January 31, 2001, compared to $3,095,142 for the same period in the prior fiscal year. Also, selling, general and administrative expenses for the nine months ended January 31, 2001, of $10,601,527 have increased by 15.7% in comparison to the $9,164,325 of selling, general and administrative expenses that were reported for the nine months ended January 31, 2000. These increases are primarily due to the additional staff and operating expenses related to the CPS and ProVal acquisitions and the increased goodwill amortization expense associated with these acquisitions. In addition, the Company has ramped up its spending on marketing in order to stimulate sales, and it has reduced the amount of software that it has been capitalizing. Due to the Company experiencing a reduced amount of time between technological feasibility and market introduction, the Company has moved toward the industry trend of expensing more software development costs. The amount of software capitalized declined by 50% from approximately $588,000 to $296,000 for the nine months ended January 31, 2000 and 2001, respectively. Finally, deferred compensation expense has increased from approximately $219,000 for the nine months ended January 31, 2000, to approximately $306,000 for the nine months ended January 31, 2001, as a result of restricted stock grants in the current year, including those associated with the Manatron, Inc. Executive Stock Plan of 2000, which was approved at the 2000 annual shareholders meeting.

As a result of the factors noted above, the Company reported operating income of $453,478 for the three months ended January 31, 2001, versus operating income of $634,819 for the three months ended January 31, 2000, and an operating loss of $1,245,095 for the nine months ended January 31, 2001, versus operating income of $1,666,607 for the nine months ended January 31, 2000. Net interest expense for the nine months ended January 31, 2001, was $205,398 compared to net interest income of $114,438 for the nine months ended January 31, 2000, which is directly related to the utilization of investments and higher borrowings outstanding that were needed to fund operations as well as the acquisitions of CPS Systems, Inc. and ProVal Corporation and the purchase of a new corporate office building.

The Company's provision for federal income taxes generally fluctuates with the level of pretax income. Due to the net loss position for the nine months ended January 31, 2001, the Company has recorded a tax credit of $470,000. This credit was calculated using the statutory tax rate of 34% as opposed to its effective tax rate which is normally approximately 40% given the non-deductible goodwill amortization related to its acquisitions. The Company believes that future earnings as well as the Company's ability to carry back net operating losses generated in fiscal 2001 against fiscal 1999 and 2000 taxable income will be sufficient to utilize this tax credit.

As a result of the factors noted above, the Company reported a 48% decrease in its net income to $231,980 or $.06 per share on a diluted basis for the three months ended January 31, 2001, versus income of $446,539 or $0.12 per share on a diluted basis for the comparable period in the prior fiscal year. In addition, the Company reported a net loss of $980,493 for the nine months ended January 31, 2001, versus income of $1,281,045 for the nine months ended January 31, 2000. Diluted weighted average outstanding common shares decreased by 234,398 shares from the April 30, 2000, balance of 3,711,879 shares to the January 31, 2001, balance of 3,477,481 shares. This decrease was primarily due to the exclusion of potential common shares that would have an antidilutive effect on the net loss per share as well as a reduced potential dilutive effect resulting from a lower average stock price.

Financial Condition and Liquidity

At January 31, 2001, the Company had working capital of $2,193,409 compared to the April 30, 2000, amount of $1,134,863. This increase is primarily due to the timing of our annual support billings and an improvement in the business which has increased receivables and cash flow. These levels reflect an increase in the current ratio from 1.08 at April 30, 2000, to 1.12 at January 31, 2001.

Shareholders' equity at January 31, 2001, decreased by approximately $490,000 to $10,966,179 from the balance reported at April 30, 2000, because of $134,473 of employee stock purchases, 50,181 of stock issuances to the ESOP, and $306,482 of deferred compensation expense that were more than offset by the $980,493 net loss for the nine months ended January 31, 2001. As a result, book value per share has decreased to $2.91 as of January 31, 2001, from $3.26 at April 30, 2000, which represents a decrease of 10.7%.

The nature of the Company's business typically is not property or equipment intensive. Net capital expenditures, were approximately $368,000 for the nine months ended January 31, 2001, compared to approximately $1,874,000 for the nine months ended January 31, 2000. In the prior year, the Company acquired a new 25,000 square foot corporate office, including furniture and fixtures for approximately $1,300,000, which explains the unusually high amount of capital expenditures for that year. Current year expenditures relate primarily to the purchase of computer hardware and software for the Company's technical and support personnel.

As the Company's revenues are generated from contracts with local governmental entities, it is not uncommon for certain of its accounts receivable to remain outstanding for approximately three to four months, thereby having a negative impact upon cash flow. In the prior quarter, the Company negotiated with its bank a secured line of credit of $5,500,000 and a secured installment note payable of $1,400,000 that is to be reduced by $100,000 per month. As of January 31, 2001, there was $3,714,226 outstanding on the line of credit and $1,300,000 outstanding on the note payable. The Company anticipates that the line of credit together with existing cash balances, and cash generated from future operations will be sufficient for the Company to meet its working capital requirements for at least the next 12 months. The Company has been and will continue to actively manage its operations and cash flows to ensure that it remains within its credit availability. Traditionally, cash inflows are lower in the first and second fiscal quarters and pick up during the third and fourth quarters due to our annual billing cycles established with our customers.

The Company cannot precisely determine the effect of inflation on its business. The Company continues, however, to experience relatively stable costs for its inventory as the computer hardware market is very competitive. Inflationary price increases related to labor and overhead will have a negative effect on the Company's cash flow and net income to the extent that they cannot be offset through improved productivity and price increases.

“Safe Harbor Statement” Under the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995

This Form 10-Q contains statements that are not historical facts. These statements are called “forward-looking statements” within the meaning of Section 27A of the Securities Act of 1933 and Section 21E of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. These statements involve important known and unknown risks, uncertainties and other factors and can be identified by phrases using “estimate,” “anticipate,” “believe,” “project,” “expect,” “intend,” “predict,” “potential,” “future,” “may,” “should” and similar expressions or words. The Company's future results, performance or achievements may differ materially from the results, performance or achievements discussed in the forward-looking statements. There are numerous factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from the results discussed in forward-looking statements, including:

- The impact that the following factors can have on the Company's business and the computer software and service industry in general:
 - Changes in competition and pricing environments: if competition increases in the computer software and service industry (particularly the segment of the industry that supplies governmental units), companies with greater capital reserves and greater diversification may have more options at their disposal for handling increased competition than we do.
 - Potential negative side effects stemming from the Company's expansion into new regional markets, including Canada: as a result of this expansion, the Company may face pitfalls that it is not fully aware of considering its lack of experience.
 - Reliance on the Company's appraisal contract involving Allegheny County, Pennsylvania: given the size of this contract, many projections may change significantly if this contract is curbed or terminated.
 - Pricing and availability of equipment, materials, inventories and programming.

- Changes in existing computer software and service industry laws or the introduction of new laws, regulations or policies that could affect the Company's business practices, including, by way of example, intellectual property laws and laws affecting software providers' liability: these laws, regulations or policies could impact the computer software and service industry as a whole, or could impact only those portions of the computer software and service industry in which we are currently active, for example, privacy laws regulating how governmental units store and provide access to information; in either case, the Company's profitability could be injured due to an industry-wide market decline or due to the Company's inability to compete with other computer software and service industry companies that are unaffected by these laws, regulations or policies.
- Changes in technology that render our products obsolete or incompatible with hardware or other software.
- The Company's success in and expense associated with the development, production, testing, marketing and shipping of products, including a failure to ship new products and technologies when anticipated, failure of customers to accept these products and technologies when planned and any defects in products.
- The Company's ability to implement successfully its business strategy of developing and licensing client/server decision support applications software designed to address specific industry markets.
- The Company's ability to assess future revenue: the Company's expense levels are based, in part, on its expectations as to future revenue and a significant portion of the Company's expenses do not vary with revenue; as a result, if revenue is below expectations, results of operations are likely to be materially adversely affected.
- Continued availability of third party software and technology incorporated in the Company's products.
- Potential negative impact of the fact that purchase of the Company's products is relatively discretionary and generally involves a significant commitment of capital; in the event of any downturn in any potential customer's business or the economy in general, purchases of the Company's products may be deferred or canceled.
- Changes in economic conditions, including changes in interest rates, financial market performance and the computer software and service industry: these types of changes can impact the economy in general, resulting in a downward trend that impacts not the Company's business, but all computer software and service industry companies; or, the changes can impact only those parts of the economy upon which the Company relies in a unique fashion, including, by way of example:

- Economic factors that affect local governmental budgets.
- Economic factors that may affect the success of the acquisition strategy that the Company pursued throughout the 1990s.
- Factors that the Company has discussed in previous public reports and other documents filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission.
- The Company's ability to obtain financing from commercial lenders and to obtain performance bonds from surety companies.

This list provides examples of factors that could affect the results described by forward-looking statements contained in this Form 10-Q. However, this list is not intended to be exhaustive; many other factors could impact the Company's business and it is impossible to predict with any accuracy which factors could result in which negative impacts. Although the Company believes that the forward-looking statements contained in this Form 10-Q are reasonable, the Company cannot provide any guarantee that the anticipated results will be achieved. All forward-looking statements in this Form 10-Q are expressly qualified in their entirety by the cautionary statements contained in this section and readers are cautioned not to place undue reliance on the forward-looking statements contained in this Form 10-Q. In addition to the risks listed above, other risks may arise in the future, and the Company disclaims any obligation to update information contained in any forward-looking statement.

Item 3. Quantitative and Qualitative Disclosures About Market Risk.

The Company's primary market risk exposure is a potential change in interest rates in connection with its outstanding line of credit. As of January 31, 2001, $3,714,226 in borrowings were outstanding under this line of credit as well as an installment note payable of $1,300,000. Due to variable interest rates on the Company's borrowings, an increase in interest rates of 1% could result in the Company incurring approximately an additional $50,000 in annual interest expense. Conversely, a decrease in interest rates of 1% could result in the Company saving approximately $50,000 in annual interest expense. The Company does not expect this market risk exposure to have a material adverse effect on the Company. The Company does not enter into market risk sensitive instruments for trading purposes.
