Efforts to Reduce Expenses Have Not Created Value

In 2012, P&G announced a $10bn productivity plan

Today, P&G claims that they over-achieved against this target⁽¹⁾

Of the $10bn, P&G claims that $7bn was offset by foreign exchange (FX)⁽²⁾ and the rest was reinvested

However, the remaining +$3bn of savings did not drive sales or profit

Source: SEC filings, investor presentations, transcripts, Wall Street research.

(1) Deutsche Bank Global Consumer Conference (June 15, 2017). (2) Deutsche Bank Global Consumer Conference (June 16, 2016).

(2) Peers include Beiersdorf, Church & Dwight, Clorox, Colgate, Edgewell Personal Care, Henkel, Kimberly-Clark, L'Oréal, Reckitt Benckiser and Unilever, where data is available.

New Expense Reduction Initiatives Require Additional Accountability

While P&G has identified an incremental $10-$13 billion of savings, Trian is concerned that this initiative could be as ineffective as the 2012 productivity program in driving sales growth, earnings growth and shareholder value creation

“Looking ahead, while the company’s guidance for up to $10bn in incremental cost savings through FY21 looks compelling at face value, we believe a majority of these savings will need to be reinvested in the business in order to drive organic top-line growth in its increasingly competitive categories, limiting the potential for outsized earnings growth.” – JP Morgan, 5/22/2017

Overly Complex Organizational Structure

COMPLEXITY = Less Accountability + Lower Sales Growth + Higher Cost

- P&G's organizational structure is highly "matrixed," which Trian believes adds complexity and impedes accountability, growth and efficiency
- The current P&G structure consists of three distinct organizations: Global Business Units (GBUs), Selling and Market Operations (SMOs) and Corporate Functions.⁽¹⁾ While P&G tells investors that GBUs "own the P&L," Trian believes this is overstated as the leaders of the SMOs and Corporate Functions do not report to the GBU leaders
- Rather than "owning" the P&L, we believe GBUs are "allocated" significant costs from functions and corporate over which they have little or no control. In our experience, when there is not clear control over the P&L, there is excessive cost and bureaucracy
- P&G acknowledges that the structure is complex and promises more "end-to-end" responsibility and local autonomy. However, despite numerous modifications to the structure over time, including changes implemented over the past two years, we believe the structure continues to rely on a web of "straight line / dotted line" reporting relationships. Moreover, market share losses have persisted despite these past structural changes
- We note that many of P&G's competitors operate with a geographic-led model, which inherently clarifies P&L responsibility, gives the division owner broader operational control and enhances local decision-making and coordination across both functions and categories. We believe this structure is also advantaged as it relates to the growing importance of local brands, small brands and channel divergence
- Regardless of whether P&G is organized by geography or GBU, Trian believes the structure must ensure that leaders are given the power required to truly control their destiny with strong rewards for success and clear consequences for poor results

(1) GBUs are defined by category (i.e., Hair Care, Skin and Personal Care, Grooming, Oral Care, Personal Health Care, Fabric Care, Home Care, Baby Care, Feminine Care, Family Care). Selling and Market Operations are responsible for sales execution at a regional and local level. Corporate Functions includes activities such as human resources, strategy, finance and IT, among others, and were created to support the businesses and create efficiencies.

Long Track Record of Value Creation in the Consumer Sector

- Trian has worked closely with numerous companies across the consumer landscape, and has demonstrated a consistent track record of value creation with numerous corporate and brand turnarounds

| | Trian's Engaged Consumer Investments | ...Where Nelson Peltz Has Served on the Board |
|--|---|---|
| EPS Growth vs. S&P 500 ⁽¹⁾ | +360bps (annual EPS growth differential) | +780bps (annual EPS growth differential) |
| Company TSR vs. S&P 500 ⁽²⁾ | +560bps (annual TSR outperformance) | +880bps (annual TSR outperformance) |

- Most importantly, we seek to help our portfolio companies achieve value creation through improved operating performance:
 - Re-allocating corporate resources to improve top-line growth and market share performance
 - Increasing investments to enhance and protect the company's long-term strategic positioning
 - Reducing costs/overhead in areas that impede the company's ability to compete effectively

Note: "Trian's Engaged Consumer Investments" include all of Trian's food, beverage, restaurant, and retail-focused portfolio companies across all of our equity investment vehicles since inception that were held for one year or longer and where Trian also (x) had a designee or nominee on the Board, (y) was a Schedule 13D filer, and/or (z) wrote a "white paper" and met with management. Such investments do not represent all of the investments purchased or sold for Trian's clients and it should not be assumed that any or all of these investments were or will be profitable.

- (1) Represents average annual adjusted EPS growth outperformance for Trian's Engaged Consumer Investments vs. the S&P 500's annual EPS growth during the time that Trian held the investments. Reference to the S&P 500 here shall mean the S&P 500 Total Return Index, which includes the price changes of all underlying stocks and all dividends reinvested. S&P 500 data is obtained from Bloomberg using the SPX ticker with the inclusion of dividend re-investment. We highlight the S&P 500 here only as a widely recognized index, however, for various reasons the performance of the index and that of Trian's Engaged Consumer Investments may not be comparable. While Trian believes that earnings per share growth at Trian's Engaged Consumer Investments was attributable in large part to the cumulative effects of the implementation of operational and strategic initiatives during the period of Trian's active involvement and beyond, there is no objective method to confirm what portion of such growth was attributable to Trian's efforts and what may have been attributable to other factors. This presentation does not provide the performance of Trian's funds or the performance of individual fund investments.
- (2) Represents average total shareholder return (TSR) outperformance for the relevant companies vs. the S&P 500's TSR from the date of Trian's first purchase through the earlier of June 30, 2017 or the last day that the company's shares were publicly traded. The TSR analysis reflects the change in the stock price of each company plus the effect of dividends received over the relevant time period. The TSR outperformance figures should not be construed as an indication of the performance of the funds managed by Trian and it should not be assumed that any or all of Trian's Engaged Consumer Investments were or will be profitable in any of the funds managed by Trian.

Management Testimonials

Investment: 2006 - 2013

Bill Johnson (CEO from 1998-2013): "I said to another CEO...who had called me and inquired about Nelson, that if I were to form the board today, Nelson would be one of the first directors I'd ask to serve because he is an insightful, communicative, enthusiastic, energetic and available director." – CEO Magazine, March 2008

Dennis Reilley (Director of HJ Heinz from 2005-2013, Former CEO of Praxair): "Nelson Peltz seeks to understand other points of view as much as he seeks to be heard. He is an active listener. Having been a CEO, Nelson also has a healthy respect for the difficulties and challenges of leading large public companies... When he joined the Heinz board, for example, he felt the company was not spending enough money on brand positioning, which he believed would hurt the company long term... Nelson is collaborative by nature – he is always searching for the best ideas. That makes him a great change agent."

Investment: 2008 - 2010

Larry Young (CEO from 2008-Today): "I deeply admire Nelson's energy, not to mention his smarts and candor. He helped us strengthen our board and provided valuable insights into Snapple and several of our carbonated soft drinks, which he once owned. Nelson and I share a lot of the same business principles, like "cash is king." I think more shareholders and board members should be like Nelson Peltz and Trian – engaged, innovative and working towards improving a company's operations."

Investment: 2012 - Today

Irene Rosenfeld (CEO from 2007-Today): "Nelson is a valued and very constructive director who has made significant contributions to our board processes and business decisions. He has a sharp eye for changing consumer trends and willingly shares his ideas and best practices from his deep knowledge and extensive operating experience in the consumer goods industry."

Investment: 2005 - Today

Emil Brolick (CEO from 2011-2016): "Nelson Peltz and Trian have played an important role in Wendy's brand transformation and financial improvement. I greatly value the thought leadership and strategic insight that Nelson and the Trian team provide. Nelson and Trian are passionate advocates for the brand's growth and success. We work collaboratively on key strategic decisions and our company benefits from Trian's insight on financial and global opportunities."

Investment: 2006 - 2010

Todd Stitzer (CEO from 2003-2010): "I have known Nelson for approximately 15 years. He is focused on one thing – creating shareholder value. While he can sometimes seem impatient, he is willing to roll up his sleeves and get involved in support of management teams. He is focused on helping to develop creativity and innovation within organizations and is a proponent of revenue growth with financial discipline. He and the team at Trian have created a lot of value over the years at a number of large cap companies."

Investment: 2013 - Today

Ed Breen (CEO from 2015-Today): "I have the highest regard for Nelson Peltz and Ed Garden. Since becoming CEO of DuPont I have talked many times with the Trian team and appreciate their insight on strategy and operations."
