5. Please tell us about the facts and circumstances surrounding your land use rights. We are aware of your letter dated March 25, 2004. Specifically tell us the authoritative GAAP that supports your policy. If these use rights are not accounted for within the currently promulgated lease literature, please tell us how you arrived at your conclusion. Also tell us:
 - a. The specific markets or countries where these use rights exist;
 - b. How you determined the use right is clearly and closely associated with land rather than the lease term or estimated life of the leasehold;

- c. If you are required, legally, contractually or otherwise, to pay a use fee for all lease transactions in this market(s). If not, tell us the facts and circumstances where you do not pay a use fee;
- d. If a lease arrangement exists or has existed where you pay the landlord a use fee instead of the lessee;
- e. In arrangements where you pay previous tenants use fees, tell us if you typically assume the pre-existing leases, if new leases are executed, if the use fees are documented in the lease agreements and each named party in the lease agreements;
- f. If the previous lessees surrender their rights and obligations with the landlord under leases assumed by you;
- g. The number of leases that possess use rights, are classified as either operating and capital leases and the number of these leases that have been terminated or sublet by you;
- h. The typical length of the initial lease terms;
- i. Is the use fee refundable and, if so, under what circumstances; and
- j. If the lease provides for periodic market rate rent increases during the initial term and renewal periods.
