2. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Basis of presentation

The accompanying financial statement of the Company have been prepared on the accrual basis of accounting.

Revenue recognition

The Company's advisory fees from investment banking engagements are recognized at a point in time when the related transaction is completed, as the performance obligation is to successfully broker a specific transaction.

In accordance with ASU No. 2014-09, "Revenue from Contracts with Customers" ("ASC Topic 606") revenues from contracts with customers is recognized when, or as, the Company satisfies its performance obligations by transferring the promised services to the customers. A service is transferred to a customer when, or as, the customer obtains control of that service. A performance obligation may be satisfied at a point in time or over time. Revenue from a performance obligation satisfied at a point in time is recognized at the point in time that the Company determines the customer obtains control over the promised service. Revenue from a performance obligation satisfied over time is recognized by measuring the Company's progress in satisfying the performance obligation in a manner that depicts the transfer of the services to the customer. The amount of revenue recognized reflects the consideration the Company expects to receive in exchange for those promised services (i.e., the "transaction price"). In determining the transaction price, the Company considers multiple factors, including the effects of variable consideration, if any.

Revenue from investment banking advisory services is recognized when the services are rendered and related expenses are recorded when incurred. Deal fees are recorded when earned and related expenses are recorded when incurred. Since the Company's provision of financing services involves significant resources, its revenues tend to be concentrated.
