We or the calculation agent will have no independent obligation to notify you directly and you should expect to receive such notifications from your broker.
Early redemption price:	The sum of the stated principal amount and the contingent quarterly payment, if any, for the related quarterly observation date. This amount will be paid on the contingent payment date following the applicable early redemption notice date.

The actual contingent quarterly payment will be determined on the pricing date. If the official closing level of the underlying index on the relevant quarterly observation date is less than the coupon barrier level, no contingent quarterly payment will be made with respect to that quarterly observation date. It is possible that the underlying index will remain below the coupon barrier level for extended periods of time or even throughout the entire term of the securities, so that you will receive few or no contingent quarterly payments during the term of the securities.

Payment at maturity:	If the securities have not been previously redeemed, investors will receive a payment at maturity as follows: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> If the final index level is greater than or equal to the downside threshold level: the stated principal amount plus, if applicable, the final contingent quarterly payment. The estimated initial value will be calculated on the pricing date and will be set forth in the pricing supplement to which this free writing prospectus relates. Risk Considerations

It is important for you to understand that this offering summary does not contain all of the material information an investor should consider before investing in the securities, including a more complete description of the risks relating to the securities. This offering summary is not for distribution in isolation and must be read together with the accompanying free writing prospectus.

Risks Relating to the Structure or Features of the Securities

- You may lose a significant portion or all of your initial investment.
- You will not receive any contingent quarterly payment for any quarterly observation period where the official closing level of the underlying index on the relevant observation date is less than the coupon barrier level.
- Investors will not participate in any appreciation of the underlying index, and your return on the securities is limited to the principal amount plus any contingent quarterly payments, regardless of any appreciation in the level of the underlying index.
- The securities may be called prior to the maturity date.
- The amounts payable on the securities are linked to the level of the underlying index on the relevant quarterly observation date.
- Higher contingent quarterly payments or a lower downside threshold level are generally associated with an underlying index with greater expected volatility and therefore can indicate a greater risk of loss.

Risks Relating to the Underlying Index

- Investing in the securities is not equivalent to investing in the securities included in the underlying index.
- Adjustments to the underlying index could adversely affect the value of the securities.

General Risk Factors

- Credit risk of HSBC USA Inc.
- The estimated initial value of the securities, which will be determined by us on the pricing date, is expected to be less than the price to public and may differ from the market value of the securities in the secondary market, if any.
- If HSBC Securities (USA) Inc. were to repurchase your securities immediately after the original issue date, the price you receive may be higher than the estimated initial value of the securities.
- The price of your securities in the secondary market, if any, immediately after the pricing date is expected to be less than the price to public.
- The market price of the securities will be influenced by many unpredictable factors.
- The securities will not be listed on any securities exchange and secondary trading may be limited.
- Hedging and trading activity by our affiliates could adversely affect the value of the securities.
- The calculation agent, which is HSBC or one of its affiliates, will make determinations with respect to the securities.
- The securities are not insured by any governmental agency of the United States or any other jurisdiction.
- The U.S. federal income tax consequences of an investment in the securities are uncertain.
