Item 7. Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations, page 22

Overview and Outlook, page 22

1. We note your disclosures regarding the industry conditions during fiscal years 2006 and 2007, including the impact those conditions had on your historical operating results. We further note your statement, "Despite current market conditions, we believe we are positioned to weather the current homebuilding industry downturn, and to take advantage of opportunities as the market improves.”

Although we note other general cautionary language concerning market conditions in your filing, there is a concern that investors may interpret this statement as an indication that you expect the industry to improve beginning with fiscal year 2008 with positive impacts on your consolidated financial statements. This conclusive statement may be more balanced with an additional statement that the industry conditions that occurred during fiscal years 2006 and 2007 may continue during fiscal year 2008, which may continue to have a negative impact on your operating results, financial condition and liquidity.

Since the market conditions in the homebuilding industry in 2008 are uncertain, please consider revising your disclosure in future filings to provide a more balanced discussion of management’s outlook for the homebuilding industry and the potential impacts to Meritage.

Critical Accounting Policies, page 24

2. We note that you wrote off all of your remaining goodwill during fiscal year 2007 due to the weakened homebuilding market and to incorporate the declining stock prices in your fair value models for your reporting units. You also recognized $327 million of impairments on your homes. We further note that your market capitalization as of December 31, 2007 was approximately $497 million; however, total stockholders’ equity was approximately $730 million. As such, it would appear that there were material changes in the assumptions used to estimate the fair value of your reporting units and communities and there appears to be a reasonable possibility that the fair value of your real estate and other long-term assets could be impaired. Therefore, please revise your critical accounting policies for both existing and continuing communities and goodwill in future filings to provide a detailed discussion of the material changes in the assumptions used for both your reporting units and your communities. Such disclosure should include the quantification of each of the material assumptions made during each of the periods presented. Please also provide a sensitivity analysis of the material assumptions used in estimating the fair value of your existing and continuing communities. Such disclosure would appear to provide investors with a better understanding of the impact the downturn in the homebuilding industry has had on the fair value of your long-term assets and how a further downturn in the industry could further impact your long-term assets. Refer to Section 501.14 of the Financial Reporting Codification for additional guidance.

3. We note that you believe it is more likely than not that your $129.1 million of deferred tax assets will be fully realized. From your disclosure on page 27, it appears that you are primarily relying on future earnings. Given that you recognized a material loss in the most recent fiscal year and that the results for fiscal year 2008 is a material uncertainty given the current state of the homebuilding industry, please revise your disclosure in future filings to provide a more detailed explanation as to how you determined your future tax assets are more likely than not realizable. Specifically, quantify your reliance on future taxable income. If you are also relying on tax-planning strategies, please disclose their nature and any uncertainties, risks, or assumptions related to these tax-planning strategies.

Liquidity and Capital Resources, page 36

4. We note your statement that if your financial condition continues to deteriorate due to a worsening in the homebuilding industry or due to other factors, you may be challenged to meet your covenants. As such, please include a tabular presentation of your actual ratios and other actual amounts versus the minimum/maximum ratios/amounts permitted under your financial covenants for your credit facility, Senior Subordinated Notes, and Senior Notes. Such presentation will allow an investor to easily understand your current status in meeting your financial covenants. Such disclosure should only be excluded if you believe that the likelihood of default is remote. Refer to Section 501.03 of the Financial Reporting Codification for guidance.
