MANAGER'S COMMENTARY

After their brief rally in September, Chinese markets retreated in October. The MSCI Golden Dragon fell by 0.9%. Published statistics showed GDP growth remaining strong, if marginally slower than in the second quarter (9.1% versus 9.6%), and consumer inflation moderating slightly (5.3% year-on-year in September compared to 5.4% in August). But having avoided action while inflation was rising, the government chose the moment when it seems to have peaked to raise interest rates (+27 basis points on one-year loans and deposits, to 5.58% and 2.25% respectively). The main target seems to be some overexcitement in parts of the property market, which the government itself helped spur when it stopped land auctions earlier this year. This rise has raised fears that it will be the first of many. But as this is the first rise in nine years, it seems likely that the government will take a few months at least to assess the impact. Also, food prices now seem to be falling and, given their weighting in the consumer price index, this trend is likely to prevail over rising energy costs. There were additionally a couple of disappointing Q3 results from commodity stocks (e.g. Anhui Conch Cement and Ma'anshan Steel), squeezed by rising costs and increasing supply. This undermined confidence in the sector which had led the rally.

INVESTMENT STRATEGY

Your fund is 94.4% invested with holdings in 58 companies, of which four are unlisted.

Your fund continues to focus on domestically-orientated consumer stocks. A retreat in commodity prices should ease margin pressure for a number of these companies. Chinese property stocks have suffered from the rate rise, but given that real interest rates remain negative, and the lack of attractive alternative investments, property is likely to return to favour. Having made one move on interest rates, the next seems likely to be on the currency.

One threat to prices comes from the heavy promised supply of new equity in Hong Kong. There is certainly demand for attractively priced IPOs (your fund participated in the well-received China Power IPO). But mega deals tend to drag down valuations in the corresponding sectors before pricing of the deal. This has happened for telecoms (Netcom) and seems likely to apply to airlines (Air China) and banks (Minsheng Bank, China Construction Bank etc.) In the case of the oversold telecoms, we are taking advantage of this by subscribing to Netcom. We will finance these deals, and the forthcoming dividend, by taking profits on internet and textile names.

After a long period of underperformance, we expect Taiwan's market to rally ahead of the MSCI re-weighting and December election.

MESSAGE TO INVESTORS

As we approach the end of our financial year it seems likely that the company will pay a dividend in January, which is a result of profits taken early in the year. Dividends can be taken in cash or stock. Dividend shares will be issued at the greater of net asset value or a 5% discount to the market price. The Fund is currently trading at a 10.96% premium to net asset value.

DIRECT INVESTMENT MANAGER'S COMMENTARY

The central government continues to implement measures to slow the economy and on October 28 made the first interest rate rise for nine years. This is an important and desirable shift from the administrative measures used to date. As in 1993-5 this rise is likely to be the first of a number of small adjustments, which will have a substantial cumulative effect and reposition the economy on a more stable track for future growth.

These changes, coupled with rising inflation in raw material prices, are leading to a margin squeeze which is impacting the profitability of some companies. All the companies in the Direct Investment portfolio are in sectors that are less adversely affected by these changes. Liquidity in the PRC continues to tighten and this is creating opportunities to invest in high quality companies on unusually attractive terms. We are focusing our new deal activity on companies where we can secure both good deal terms and robust entry valuations.

One of the direct investment portfolio companies, Tomoike Industrial (HK) Limited, is undergoing a pre-listing restructuring and has lodged a preliminary prospectus with the Monetary Authority of Singapore with a view for an IPO on the Singapore Stock Exchange under the name of CDW Holding Limited. A successful IPO could lead to an increase in the carrying value of the investment. The preliminary prospectus can be viewed at the website of the Monetary Authority of Singapore: <http://masnet.mas.gov.sg/opera/sdrprosp.nsf>

OBJECTIVE

The investment objective of the Fund is to achieve long term capital appreciation through investment in companies and other entities with significant assets, investments, production activities, trading or other business interests in China or which derive a significant part of their revenue from China.

The Board of Directors of the Fund has adopted an operating policy of the Fund, effective June 30, 2001, that the Fund will invest at least 80% of its assets in China companies. For this purpose, "China companies" are (i) companies for which the principal securities trading market is in China; (ii) companies for which the principal securities trading market is outside of China or in companies organised outside of China, that in both cases derive at least 50% of their revenues from goods or services sold or produced, or have a least 50% of their assets in China; and (iii) companies organized in China. Under the policy, China will mean the People's Republic of China, including Hong Kong, and Taiwan. The Fund will provide its stockholders with at least 60 days' prior notice of any change to the policy described above.

The fundamental policy, which applies to not less than 65% of the Fund's assets as set out in the Fund's prospectus dated July 10, 1992, remains in place. The fundamental policy is the same as the operating policy set out above, except that China only includes the People's Republic of China.
