The Company has adopted a fiscal year ended December 31

The Company does not require collateral from its customers with respect to accounts receivable but performs periodic credit evaluations of such customers' financial conditions. The Company determines any required allowance by considering a number of factors including length of time accounts receivable are past due and previous loss history. The Company provides reserves for accounts receivable when they become uncollectible any payments subsequently received on such receivables are credited to the allowances for doubtful accounts. As of December 31, 2019 the Company has determined that no allowances for doubtful accounts is required.

Basis of Accounting

The financial statements of the Company have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States and are expressed in U.S. dollars. The Company's fiscal year end is December 31.

The financial statements of the Corporation have been prepared on the accrual basis of accounting and accordingly reflect all significant receivables, payables, and other liabilities.

Going Concern

The Company's financial statements are prepared on a going concern basis, which contemplates the realization of assets and settlement of liabilities in the normal course of business. Management is focusing on smaller clients and hiring more registered representatives to increase revenue.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents include cash on hand, cash in bank, and temporary cash investments. Temporary cash investments are all highly liquid instruments with maturities of less than three months.

The Company considers as cash all short-term investments with an original maturity of three months or less to be cash equivalents.

Accounts Receivable – Recognition of Bad Debt

Account Receivable are stated at the historical carrying amount net of write-off's and allowance for doubtful accounts. The Company establishes an estimated allowance for doubtful accounts received based on various factors, including revenue, historical credit loss experience, current trends, and specific customer collection issue that the Company has identified. - identification of the contract, or contracts, with a customer;
- identification of the performance obligations in the contract;
- determination of the transaction price;
- allocation of the transaction price to the performance obligations in the contract; and
- recognition of revenue when, or as, we satisfy a performance obligation.

Revenue from the sale of mutual funds, security transactions and other revenue are recognized on the accrual basis. The Company records its revenue as received adjusted monthly for receivables based on the Company's estimate of revenue earned from the sale of specific financial products, but not yet collected from the respective mutual fund or other financial services company. Current accounting literature clarifies that fair value is an exit price, representing the amount that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants. As such, fair value is a market-based measurement that should be determined based on assumptions that market participants would use in pricing an asset or liability. As a basis for considering such assumptions, accounting literature established a three-tier fair value hierarchy, which prioritizes the inputs used in measuring fair value as follows.

- Level 1. Observable inputs such as quoted market prices in active markets;
- Level 2. Inputs, other than quoted prices in active markets, that are observable either directly or indirectly; and
- Level 3. Unobservable inputs in which there is little or no market data, which require the reporting entity to develop its own assumptions.

The Company had no assets or liabilities that were measured and recognized at fair value on a non-recurring basis as of December 31, 2019, and as such, had no assets or liabilities that fell into the tiers described above.
