Fair Value - Definition and Hierarchy

In accordance with GAAP, fair value is defined as the price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability (i.e., the “exit price”) in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date.

In determining fair value, the Company uses various valuation approaches. In accordance with GAAP, a fair value hierarchy for inputs is used in measuring fair value that maximizes the use of observable inputs and minimizes the use of unobservable inputs by requiring that the most observable inputs be used when available. Observable inputs are those that market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability based on market data obtained from sources independent of the Company. Unobservable inputs reflect the Company’s assumptions about the inputs market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability developed based on the best information available in the circumstances. The fair value hierarchy is categorized into three levels based on the inputs as follows:

Level 1 - Valuations based on unadjusted quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities that the Company has the ability to access. Valuation adjustments and block discounts are not applied to Level 1 securities. Since valuations are based on quoted prices that are readily and regularly available in an active market, valuation of these securities does not entail a significant degree of judgment.

Level 2 - Valuations based on quoted prices in markets that are not active or for which all significant inputs are observable, either directly or indirectly.

Level 3 - Valuations based on inputs that are unobservable and significant to the overall fair value measurement.

The availability of valuation techniques and observable inputs can vary from security to security and is affected by a wide variety of factors including, the type of security, whether the security is new and not yet established in the marketplace, and other characteristics particular to the transaction. To the extent that valuation is based on models or inputs that are less observable or unobservable in the market, the determination of fair value requires more judgment. Those estimated values do not necessarily represent the amounts that may be ultimately realized due to the occurrence of future circumstances that cannot be reasonably determined. Because of the inherent uncertainty of valuation, those estimated values may be materially higher or lower than the values that would have been used had a ready market for the securities existed. Accordingly, the degree of judgment exercised by the Company in determining fair value is greatest for securities categorized in Level 3. In certain cases, the inputs used to measure fair value may fall into different levels of the fair value hierarchy. In such cases, for disclosure purposes, the level in the fair value hierarchy within which the fair value measurement in its entirety falls, is determined based on the lowest level input that is significant to the fair value measurement.

Fair value is a market-based measure considered from the perspective of a market participant rather than an entity-specific measure. Therefore, even when market assumptions are not readily available, the Company’s own assumptions are set to reflect those that market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability at the measurement date. The Company uses prices and inputs that are current as of the measurement date, including periods of market dislocation. In periods of market dislocation, the observability of prices and inputs may be reduced for many securities. This condition could cause a security to be reclassified to a lower level within the fair value hierarchy.

R.W. PRESSPRICH & CO. AND SUBSIDIARIES

NOTES TO CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

For the year ended December 31, 2022

1. Nature of operations and summary of significant accounting policies (continued)

U.S government obligations, foreign government obligations, corporate bonds and stock that are classified within level 2 of the fair value hierarchy are valued based on recently executed transactions or price quotations.

Valuation Techniques

Securities listed on a national securities exchange or the NASDAQ National Market are valued at their last sales price on the primary exchange of which they trade as of the last day of the year. Securities traded in the over-the-counter markets or listed securities for which no sale was reported on the valuation date are valued at their last reported "bid" price if held long, and last reported "asked" price if sold short.

Property and Equipment

Property and equipment is stated at cost less accumulated depreciation and amortization.

Income Taxes

The shareholders of the Company have elected to be treated as an "S" corporation under Subchapter S of the Internal Revenue Code. Accordingly, no provision has been made for federal income taxes since the income or loss of the Company is allocated to the individual shareholders for inclusion in their personal income tax return. The provision for income taxes represents state and local taxes for the year ended December 31, 2022. Current income tax benefit for the year ended December 31, 2022 relates principally to the New York City corporate tax.

Pressprich files a consolidated return with PCM, Funding, Funding II and PCP. The determination of the Company's provision for income taxes requires judgment, the use of estimates, and the interpretation and application of complex tax laws. Judgment is required in assessing the timing and amounts of deductible and taxable items and the probability of sustaining uncertain tax positions. The benefits of uncertain tax positions are recorded in the Company's financial statements only after determining a more-likely-than-not probability that the uncertain tax positions will withstand challenge, if any, from tax authorities. When facts and circumstances change, the Company reassesses these probabilities and records any changes in the consolidated financial statements as appropriate.

In accordance with GAAP, the Company is required to determine whether a tax position of the Company is more likely than not to be sustained upon examination by the applicable taxing authority, including resolution of any related appeals or litigation processes, based on the technical merits of the position. The tax benefit to be recognized is measured as the largest amount of benefit that is greater than fifty percent likely of being realized upon ultimate settlement. De-recognition of a tax benefit previously recognized could result in the Company recording a tax liability that would reduce stockholders' equity. This policy also provides guidance on thresholds, measurement, de-recognition, classification, interest and penalties, accounting in interim periods, disclosure, and transition that is intended to provide better financial statement comparability among different entities. Management's conclusions regarding this policy may be subject to review and adjustment at a later date based on factors including, but not limited to, on-going analyses of and changes to tax laws, regulations and interpretations thereof.

For the year ended December 31, 2022

1. Nature of operations and summary of significant accounting policies (continued)

The Company files its income tax returns in the U.S. federal and various state and local jurisdictions. Any potential examinations may include questioning the timing and amount of deductions, the nexus of income among various tax jurisdictions and compliance with U.S. federal, state and local tax laws.

Temporary differences which give rise to net deferred tax asset at December 31, 2022 consist of:

Deferred tax assets:

Property and equipment	$	16,302
Accrued bonus		408
Operating right-of-use assets		4,900
Operating lease liabilities		3,569
Amortized Deferred Rent		324
Net operating loss carryforward - city		330,352
		355,855
Valuation allowances		(355,752)
Net deferred tax assets	$	103

Deferred tax liabilities:

Unrealized revenue	$	(103)
		(103)
Net deferred tax liabilities		(103)
	$	-

Due to the uncertainty of Pressprich earning net income in future years, the Company is unable to conclude that it is more likely than not that it will realize its deferred tax asset and accordingly, has recorded a valuation allowance to fully offset its net deferred tax asset at December 31, 2022.

Pressprich applied the "more-likely-than-not" recognition threshold to all tax positions taken or expected to be taken in a tax return which resulted in no unrecognized tax benefits reflected in the 2022 consolidated financial statements.

Use of Estimates

The preparation of consolidated financial statements in conformity with GAAP requires the Company's management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts disclosed in the consolidated financial statements. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Fair Value of Financial Instruments

At December 31, 2022, the carrying value of the Company's cash, receivable from clearing broker, accrued interest receivable, deposit with clearing broker, employee loan receivable, accounts payable, accrued expenses, and accrued interest payable approximate their fair values due to their short term nature.

1. Nature of operations and summary of significant accounting policies (continued)

Operating lease right-of-use asset and liability

The Company recognizes and measures its lease in accordance with FASB ASC 842, Leases. The Company is a lessee in a non-cancellable operating lease for office space. The Company determines if an arrangement is a lease, or contains a lease, at inception of contract and when terms of existing contract are changed. The Company recognizes a lease liability and right of use (ROU) asset at commencement date of the lease. The lease liability is initially and subsequently recognized based on the present value of its future lease payments. Variable payments are included in the future lease payments when those variable payments depend on its index or a rate. The discount rate is the implicit rate if it is readily determinable or otherwise the Company uses its incremental borrowing rate. The implicit rates of our lease is not readily determinable and accordingly, we use our incremental borrowing rate based on the information available at the commencement date. The Company's incremental borrowing rate for a lease is the rate of interest it would have to pay on a collateralized basis to borrow an amount equal to the lease payments under similar terms and in a similar economic environment. The ROU asset is subsequently measured throughout the lease term at the amount of the remeasured lease liability less the unamortized balance of lease incentive received, and any impairment recognized. Lease cost for lease payments is recognized on a straight-line basis over the lease term.

The Company has elected to not recognize ROU assets and lease liabilities for short-term leases that have a lease term of 12 months or less at lease commencement. We recognize lease cost associated with our short-term leases on a straight-line basis over the lease term.

The Company has obligations as a lessee for office space in New York with initial non-cancellable terms in excess of one year. The Company classified this lease as an operating lease. This lease contains renewal option for periods of five years. Because the company is not reasonably certain to exercise the renewal option, the optional periods are not included in determining the lease term, and associated payments under the renewal option is excluded from lease payments. The Company's lease does not include termination options for either party to the lease or restrictive financial or other covenants. Payments due under the lease contract include fixed payments plus variable payments. The Company's office space lease requires it to make variable payments for the Company's proportionate share of the building's property taxes, insurance, and common area maintenance.

These variable lease payments are not included in lease payments used to determine lease liability and are recognized as variable costs when incurred.

Reduction to ROU asset and lease liabilities resulting from reduction to lease obligations was approximately $1,328,000 and $1,631,000, respectively for New York using an incremental borrowing rate of 3.12%.

The Company is obligated under one non-cancellable operating lease for office space expiring on January 2023. In addition to the base rent, the leases provide for the Company to pay property taxes and operating expense over based period amount. The Company is currently looking for a reduced size space that is consistent with our hybrid work environment and remote work force. We expect space to be secured by April 2023.

4. Allowance for Credit Losses

The Company records an allowance for credit losses on its financial instruments in accordance with FASB ASC 326. ASC 326 impacts the impairment model for certain financial assets measured at amortized cost by requiring a current expected credit loss ("CECL") methodology to estimate expected credit losses over the entire life of the financial assets as of the reporting date.

4. Allowance for Credit Losses (continued)

The allowance for credit losses is based on the Company's expectation of the collectability of financial instruments carried at amortized cost, including receivable from clearing broker, employee loan receivable and certain other assets utilizing the CECL framework. The Company's expectation is that credit risk associated with receivable from clearing broker, employee loan receivable and certain other assets is that any client or financial institution with which it conducts business with is unable to fulfill its contractual obligations. Management monitors the credit risk and considers factors such as historical experience, credit quality, age of balances and current and future economic conditions that may affect the Company's expectation of the collectability in determining the allowance for credit losses. As of December 31, 2022, employee loan receivables and accounts receivable totaling $693,647 had no expected credit loss.

5. Deposit with clearing broker

Pursuant to agreement with its clearing broker, the Company is required to maintain a clearing deposit of at least $250,000 and to maintain net capital of at least $250,000.

7. Retirement plan

The Company has a retirement plan under Section 401(k) of the Internal Revenue Code which covers all eligible employees. The plan provides for voluntary deductions subject to annual Internal Revenue Code limitations. At management's discretion the Company may make a matching contribution. Matching contributions begin vesting after one year of service and are fully vested after three years of service. In addition, the Company established a profit sharing plan in 2002 in which voluntary contributions can be made to all eligible employees whether or not they are a 401(k) participant. For the year ended December 31, 2022, there were no contributions towards the qualified 401(k) retirement plan.

8. Contingencies

Securities sold, not yet purchased represent obligations of the Company to purchase such securities at a future date. The Company may incur a loss if the market value of the securities subsequently increases.

9. Net capital requirement

The Company, as a member of FINRA, is subject to the Securities and Exchange Commission Uniform Net Capital Rule 15c3-1. During 2021, The Company elected to switch to the alternative method. This Rule requires the maintenance of the greater of minimum dollar net capital of $250,000 or 2% of aggregated debit items as shown in the Formula of Reserve Requirements pursuant to Rule 15c3-3. At December 31, 2022, the Company's net capital was approximately $1,618,000 with approximately $1,368,000 in excess of its minimum requirement of $250,000.

10. Financial instruments and risk

Trading activities subject the Company to market, credit and interest rate risk. Market risk represents the potential loss that can be caused by increases or decreases in the fair value of investments. Credit risk represents the potential loss that would occur if the counterparties fail to perform pursuant to the terms of their obligations. Interest rate risk is the risk that the fair value of future cash flows of fixed income or rate sensitive investments will increase or decrease because of changes in interest rates.

The Company has sold securities that it does not currently own and is therefore obligated to purchase such securities at a future date. The Company will incur a loss if the fair value of the securities increases.

Pursuant to a clearance agreement, the Company introduces all of its securities transactions to its clearing broker on a fully-disclosed basis. All of the customers' money balances and long and short security positions are carried on the books of the clearing broker. Under certain conditions, as defined in the clearance agreements, the Company has agreed to indemnify the clearing broker for losses, if any, which the clearing broker may sustain from carrying securities transactions introduced by the Company. In accordance with industry practice and regulatory requirements, the Company and the clearing brokers monitor collateral on the customers' accounts.
