Restructuring of Information Service Business for Motor Vehicles

Toyota Motor Corporation ("TMC") will transfer "MONET (Mobile Network)", an information service for motor vehicles, carried out by Toyota Media Station Inc. ("TMS") to Gazoo Media Service Corp. ("GMS"), which operates and sells system hardware of "GAZOO" (TMC's membership information service), on April 1, 2002 to consolidate the domestic information service business for motor vehicles into GMS.

Consequently, TMS will be dissolved and will begin its winding-up procedures from April 2002.

In the second half of this year, TMC is scheduled to launch a new information network service for motor vehicles, "G-BOOK", by amalgamation of "MONET" and "GAZOO". This restructuring will be implemented in line with this plan, for the purpose of increase of business efficiency and enhancement of business structure, and improvement of services toward customers by consolidating the information service business of TMC.

To be more precise, TMC will consolidate the operation of the information service business for motor vehicles into GMS and lend part of the facilities of "MONET", such as infrastructure, to be owned by TMC to GMS. Herewith, TMC will be able to integrate services of "MONET" and "G-BOOK" and to tie up such services with "GAZOO", and to offer seamless and full service to the customers.

Due to this transfer of business from TMS to GMS, hereafter, services of "MONET" will be offered to the members of "MONET" by GMS. In the future, "MONET" and "G-BOOK" will be integrated and the existing members of "MONET" will also be able to enjoy services of "G-BOOK".

The anticipated effect on TMC's business performance, due to this restructuring, will be minor.
