INDEPENDENT AUDITORS' REPORT

We have audited the accompanying statement of financial condition of Investment Researched Plans, Inc. as of March 31, 2002, and the statements of income, changes in stockholder's equity and cash flows for the year then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Company's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provided a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Investment Researched Plans, Inc. as of March 31, 2002 and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the year then ended in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

Our audit was conducted for the purpose of forming an opinion on the basic financial statements taken as a whole. The information contained in Schedules I, II, III, IV is presented for purposes of additional analysis and is not a required part of the basic financial statements, but is supplementary information required by rule 17a-5 of the Securities and Exchange Commission. Such information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the basic financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the basic financial statements taken as a whole.

Investment Researched Plans, Inc.
Notes to Financial Statements
March 31, 2002

Note 1 - Nature of Business and Significant Accounting Policies

- A. The Company is a broker-dealer, which earns fees and commissions from sales of investment company's shares.
- B. The Company's investments in securities are treated as "trading securities" under FAS 115. Investments are carried at fair market values and unrealized gains and losses are recognized in income. Deferred taxes are provided for unrealized appreciation.
- C. For the statement of cash flows the Company considers demand deposit and savings accounts as cash.
- D. Income taxes are provided based on Statement of Financial Accounting Standards (SFAS) No. 109.

Temporary differences in the basis of assets and liabilities for financial statement and income tax reporting arise primarily due to the following:

- a. Unrealized appreciation of securities, included for financial reporting purposes, but not for income tax purposes.
 - b. Depreciation methods for financial reporting purposes differ from income tax reporting.
- E. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect certain reported amounts and disclosures. Accordingly, actual results could differ from those estimates.
 - F. Use of Estimates
The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect certain reported amounts and disclosures. Accordingly, actual results could differ from those estimates.

Investment Researched Plans, Inc.
Notes to Financial Statements
March 31, 2002

Note 2 - Income Taxes

The provision for income taxes is based on income as reported in the financial statements. As a result of temporary differences, as explained in Note 1, the provision for financial reporting differs from the taxes currently payable.

The provision for income taxes consists of the following:

	Federal	State	Total
Current	$ (5,246)	$ (2,337)	$ (7,583)
Deferred	(494)	(247)	(741)
Total	$ (5,740)	$ (2,584)	$ (8,324)

Deferred tax liability consists of the following timing differences that are recognized on the tax return in years different than on the financial statements:

Unrealized appreciation on securities	$ (11,401)
---------------------------------------	---------------------

Note 3 - Concentrations of Risk

The Company owns marketable securities subject to price fluctuations as determined by the market's supply and demand. At times these price fluctuations could be material.

Note 4 - Related Party Transaction

Medical reimbursements represent medical costs by the officers and owners of the corporation.

To the Board of Directors,

Investment Researched Plans, Inc.
Los Angeles, California

In planning and performing our audit of the financial statements of Investment Researched Plans, Inc. for the year ended March 31, 2002, we considered its internal control structure, including procedures for safeguarding securities, in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control structure.

Also, as required by rule 17a-5(g)(1) of the Securities and Exchange Commission, we have made a study of the practices and procedures (including tests of compliance with such practice and procedures) followed by Investment Researched Plans, Inc. that we considered relevant to the objectives stated in rule 17a-5(g), in making the periodic computations of aggregate indebtedness and net capital under rule 17a-3(a)(11). Because of the nature of the Registrant's business the examinations, counts, verifications and comparisons, and the recordation of differences required by rule 17a-3(a)(11); (iii) compliance with the requirements for prompt payment for securities under Section 8 of Regulation T of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System; and (iv) obtaining and maintaining physical possession of control of all fully paid and excess margin securities of customers as required by rule 15c3-3.

The management of the Company is responsible for establishing and maintaining a system of internal control structure and the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph. In fulfilling this responsibility, estimates and judgements by management are required to assess the expected benefits and related costs of internal control structure policies and of the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph and to assess whether those practices and procedures can be expected to achieve the Commission's above-mentioned objectives. Two of the objectives of an internal control structure and the practices and procedures are to provide management with reasonable, but not absolute, assurance that assets for which the Company has responsibility are safeguarded against loss from unauthorized use or disposition, and that transactions are executed in accordance with management's authorization and recorded properly to permit the preparation of financial statements in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. Rule 17-a5(g) lists additional objectives of the practices and procedures listed in the preceding paragraph.

Because of inherent limitations in any internal control structure or the practices and procedures referred to above, errors or irregularities may nevertheless occur and not be detected. Also, projection of any evaluation of them to future periods is subject to the risk that they may become inadequate because of changes in conditions or that the effectiveness of their design and operation may deteriorate.

Our consideration of the internal control structure would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control structure that might be material weaknesses under standards established by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of the specific internal control structure elements does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that errors or irregularities in amount that would be material in relation to the financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. However, we noted no matters involving the internal control structure, including procedures for safeguarding securities, that we consider to be material weaknesses as defined above.

We understand that practices and procedures that accomplish the objectives referred to in the second paragraph of this report are considered by the Commission to be adequate for its purposes in accordance with Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and related regulations, and that practices and procedures that do not accomplish such objectives in all material respects indicate a material inadequacy for such purposes. Based on this understanding and on our study, we believe that the Company's practices and procedures were adequate at March 31, 2002 to meet the Commission's objectives.

This report is intended solely for the use of management and the Securities and Exchange Commission, the New York Stock Exchange and other regulatory agencies which rely on rule 17a-5(g) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and should not be used for any other purpose.
