These financial statements are the responsibility of the Company's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. Notes to Financial Statements December 31, 2002

NOTE A - THE COMPANY

CoView Capital, Inc. (the "Company") is a member of the National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc. and provides investment banking services primarily in the areas of mergers and acquisitions and private placements.

NOTE B - SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

[1] Cash and cash equivalents:

The Company considers money market fund accounts to be cash equivalents for purposes of the statement of cash flows.

[2] Depreciation and amortization:

Office furniture and equipment are depreciated on a straight-line basis over their estimated useful lives, which are principally five years.

[3] Consulting fee income and revenue recognition:

Consulting fee income represents amounts received by the Company in connection with a variety of advisory services: merger and acquisition advice, structuring of sales, private placements, valuation services, fairness opinions, and other related investment banking services. In connection with certain activities, the Company receives retainer fees for services to be provided. Such retainers are treated as revenue upon completion of due diligence and the descriptive memorandum. Revenue from advisory activities is generally recognized when performance is completed.

[4] Use of estimates:

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions in determining the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

[5] Valuation of securities:

The Company values its nonmarketable investments at fair value. Fair value is defined as the amount which the Company would expect to realize upon an orderly disposition of the investments. In determining fair value, management may take into consideration cost, valuations of comparable publicly traded companies, market conditions, underlying collateral, financial data and projections of the issuer. There can be no assurance that the fair value of the instruments will be fully realized upon their ultimate disposition. For all such investments held at December 31, 2002, cost is currently considered the best indication of fair value.

Marketable equity securities are recorded at their market value. Unrealized gains and losses on securities are recognized currently in income.

COVIEW CAPITAL, INC.

REPORT OF INDEPENDENT AUDITORS ON INTERNAL CONTROL REQUIRED BY SEC RULE 17a-5 FOR A BROKER-DEALER
CLAIMING AN EXEMPTION FROM SEC RULE 15c3-3

Board of Directors
CoView Capital, Inc.
New York, New York

In planning and performing our audit of the financial statements and supplemental schedule of CoView Capital, Inc. (the "Company") for the year ended December 31, 2002, we considered its internal control, including procedures for safeguarding securities, in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements and not to provide assurance on internal control.

Also, as required by Rule 17a-5(g)(1) of the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC"), we have made a study of the practices and procedures followed by the Company, including tests of such practices and procedures that we considered relevant to the objectives stated in Rule 17a-5(g) in making the periodic computations of aggregate debits and net capital under Rule 17a-3(a)(11) and for determining compliance with the exemptive provisions of Rule 15c3-3. Because the Company does not carry securities accounts for customers or perform custodial functions relating to customer securities, we did not review the practices and procedures followed by the Company in any of the following:

- [1] Making quarterly securities examinations, counts, verifications, and comparisons
- [2] Recordation of differences required by Rule 17a-13
- [3] Complying with the requirements for prompt payment for securities under Section 8 of Federal Reserve Regulation T of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System

The management of the Company is responsible for establishing and maintaining internal control and the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph. In fulfilling this responsibility, estimates and judgments by management are required to assess the expected benefits and related costs of controls and of the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph and to assess whether those practices and procedures can be expected to achieve the SEC's above-mentioned objectives. Two of the objectives of internal control and the practices and procedures are to provide management with reasonable, but not absolute, assurance that assets for which the Company has responsibility are safeguarded against loss from unauthorized use or disposition, and that transactions are executed in accordance with management's authorization and recorded properly to permit the preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. Rule 17a-5(g) lists additional objectives of the practices and procedures listed in the preceding paragraph.

Because of inherent limitations in internal control or the practices and procedures referred to above, error or fraud may occur and not be detected. Also, projection of any evaluation of them to future periods is subject to the risk that they may become inadequate because of changes in conditions or that the effectiveness of their design and operation may deteriorate.

Eisner

Our consideration of the internal control would not necessarily disclose all matters in internal control that might be material weaknesses under standards established by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of the specific internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that error or fraud in amounts that would be material in relation to the financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. However, we noted no matters involving internal control, including control activities for safeguarding securities that we consider to be material weaknesses as defined above.

We understand that practices and procedures that accomplish the objectives referred to in the second paragraph of this report are considered by the SEC to be adequate for its purposes in accordance with the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and related regulations, and that practices and procedures that do not accomplish such objectives in all material respects indicate a material inadequacy for such purposes. Based on this understanding and on our study, we believe that the Company's practices and procedures were adequate at December 31, 2002, to meet the SEC's objectives.

Our opinion regarding the adequacy of the Company's practices and procedures as stated in the preceding paragraph recognizes that it is not practicable in a company the size of CoView Capital, Inc. to achieve all the divisions of duties and cross-checks generally included in a system of internal control, and alternatively, greater reliance must be placed on surveillance by management.

This report is intended solely for the information and use of the Board of Directors, management, the SEC, the National Association of Securities Dealers, and other regulatory agencies that rely on Rule 17a-5(g) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 in their regulation of registered brokers and dealers, and should not be used by anyone other than these specified parties.
