Re: The Procter & Gamble Company
Commission File No. 1-434
Proxy Proposals by Mr. John Crapo

Ladies and Gentlemen:

This letter and the enclosed materials are submitted on behalf of The Procter & Gamble Company (the "Company") in accordance with Rule 14a-8(j) promulgated under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended.

The Company has received a proposal (the "Proposal") from a shareholder, Mr. John Crapo, for inclusion in the Company's Proxy Statement for its 2003 annual meeting of shareholders. The Company requests the agreement of the Staff that it will not recommend any enforcement action if the Company omits the Proposal.

Please find enclosed six copies of the Proposal and this letter. A copy of this entire submission has been mailed to Mr. Crapo. To the extent required by Rule 14a-8(j), this letter constitutes a supporting opinion of counsel.

The Proposal submitted by Mr. Crapo, as presented in his letter to the Company of January 4, 2003 does not represent a clear or actionable request and is otherwise invalid under several parts of Rule 14a-8. The specific proposal from Mr. Crapo, located toward the end of his lengthy hand-written correspondence, is apparently contained in the following text:

As soon as possible the Board of Directors of Procter & Gamble Companies (P&G) shall present to us a shareholder proposal which shall mandate in the appendix of the proxy statement next following the approving meeting of assembled shareholders and proxies meeting as Stockholder meeting of P&G: a report concerning harassment of personnel of P&G and it's affiliates and customer companies which sell/market our products.

Information to be included annually number of illegitimate children born to said person, number of miscarriages of same personnel,
number of bambinoes born with birth defects of same personnel number of injuries of of same number of [text unreadable] of same personnel number of harassment complaints against company and other said personnel.
amount of awards for these and other such liabilities.

(Crapo Letter; January 4, 2003; page 60) [sic].

The context and purpose of the Proposal is not clear. In a supporting statement following the proposal, Mr. Crapo apparently refers to conversation he had at a local store in which another person made sexually suggestive remarks. The remainder of Mr. Crapo's letter is a jumbled mash of incompressible hand-written text, including excerpts from what appears to be his diary, copies of other peoples' correspondence, and copies of various receipts.

We believe Mr. Crapo's Proposal should be excluded for the following reasons:

- 1. The Proposal may be omitted under Rule 14-8(c) as it is represents the second proposal from the same shareholder for a particular shareholders' meeting

Mr. Crapo submitted an equally confusing proposal to the Company on July 11, 2002, and in response the Company submitted a request for a "no-action" letter to the Commission on July 16, 2002. The Commission issued a no-action letter on October 25, 2002 based on the rationale that Mr. Crapo's first proposal was "vague and indefinite" (The Procter & Gamble Company (2002 SEC No-Act. Lexis 768)).

This current Proposal represents the second time Mr. Crapo has submitted a proposal for the Company's upcoming 2003 Proxy Statement. As a second proposal, it is in violation of the procedural requirements set out in 14a-8(c), which limit shareholders to no more than one proposal to a company for a particular shareholders' meeting, and may be omitted under that rule. This conclusion is consistent with the Commission's application of 14a-8(c) to other cases (See Beverly Enterprise, Inc., February 7, 1991 (1991 SEC No-Act. Lexis 189)), including prior proposals made by Mr. Crapo (See The Adams Express Company, September 25, 1992 (1992 SEC No-Act. Lexis 979)).

2. The Proposal may be omitted under Rule 14a-8(i)(3) as it violates rule 14a-9 and its prohibition of false or misleading statements.

The action requested in the Proposal is vague, indefinite, misleading, confusing, unclear. It is in violation of the Commission's proxy rules as "shareholders voting upon the proposal or the Company would not be able to determine with any reasonable certainty exactly what action or measures the Company would be required to take in the event the proposal were to be implemented" (Central Main Power Co. (Green), March 31, 1981). The Proposal, therefore, should be excluded under Rule 14a-8(i)(3) as it violates Rule 14a-9 and its prohibition of false or misleading statements. (See also, IDACORP, Inc., July 19, 2002 (2002 SEC No-Act. Lexis 659); American International Group, Inc., March 21, 2002 (2002 SEC No-Act. Lexis 477); Northeast Utilities Service Corporation, April 9, 2001 (2001 SEC No-Act. Lexis 482)).

3. The Proposal may be omitted under Rule 14a-8(i)(4) as it represents a personal grievance and special interest of the proponent.

Based on the supporting statement in Mr. Crapo's letter, as well as the preceding hand-written excerpts from his diary, the only conclusion one can draw is that Mr. Crapo's Proposal is directly related to his own personal experiences and frustrations. It is unclear why Mr. Crapo's personal behavior or his frustrated shopping experiences have anything to do with the shareholders or operations of the Company. As the Proposal relates to a personal and private grievance of Mr. Crapo, it should also be excluded under Rule 14a-8(i)(4) (See, e.g., Chittenden Corporation, January 2, 2001 (2001 SEC No-Act. Lexis 13); The McGraw-Hill Companies, Inc., February 15, 2000 (2000 SEC No-Act. Lexis 196)).

4. The Proposal may be omitted under Rule 14a-8(i)(6) as the Company does not have the power or authority to carry out the Proposal

It is not legally possible for the Company to provide a report on harassment that provides the personal details set out in Mr. Crapo's Proposal. Such a report would violate the privacy interests of the companies and their employees and would be nearly impossible to collect in any meaningful way. For this reason, the Company cannot carry out the broad and vague actions set out in the Proposal and it should be omitted under Rule 14a-8(i)(6). (See generally, Dendrite International, Inc., March 20, 2002 (2002 SEC No-Act. LEXIS 421); NetCurrents, Inc., June 1, 2002, (2002 SEC No-Act. LEXIS 589)

For the reasons discussed here, the Company respectfully requests that the Staff agree the Company may omit the Proposal from its proxy materials for the 2003 annual meeting of shareholders.

Sincerely,

Dear Harvard Business School Admissions Committee:

Re: Andrew Michael Lindsay's Application

I am pleased to share with you my knowledge of Andrew Lindsay. Andrew joined my Congressional office as an intern in August 2000. In this capacity he was already identified as a young man with tremendous promise, a future community leader.

Included in his responsibilities was the task of selecting key new legislation and determining the level of support I might provide. Over the years I've worked with a number of university students, yet within Andrew's first couple months I was truly impressed with his exemplary work ethic, warm personality, and his interest in making a significant and positive impact. Andrew has a rare but natural ability to provide mature convincing and reassuring leadership on the most difficult issues and policy considerations. Further, Andrew's ability to assimilate and analyze voluminous complex information, and quickly focus on the critical issues was outstanding.

Although he is not from my district, one of Andrew's responsibilities was dealing with a variety of concerns expressed by the constituents of the 15th district of New York. In addition, he adeptly implemented his biology background by focusing on healthcare policy. Consistent with his high standards, I found his written communication clear, professional, and prompt. Andrew's strong social consciousness and commitment to diversity puts him in great demand. Although, in his eagerness to contribute to the community he may occasionally take on too many additional responsibilities, this is to be expected from a person aspiring towards excellence and leadership. He is truly a well-organized individual with excellent time management skills, and these personal attributes will surely serve him well in business school.

Without a doubt I consider this young man an ideal candidate for Harvard Business School. Andrew brings a winning attitude to all his endeavors, and accordingly he has my unqualified support and deepest personal respect.

Sincerely,

CHARLES B. RANGEL

DIVISION OF CORPORATION FINANCE
INFORMAL PROCEDURES REGARDING SHAREHOLDER PROPOSALS

The Division of Corporation Finance believes that its responsibility with respect to matters arising under Rule 14a-8 [17 CFR 240.14a-8], as with other matters under the proxy rules, is to aid those who must comply with the rule by offering informal advice and suggestions and to determine, initially, whether or not it may be appropriate in a particular matter to recommend enforcement action to the Commission. In connection with a shareholder proposal under Rule 14a-8, the Division's staff considers the information furnished to it by the Company in support of its intention to exclude the proposals from the Company's proxy materials, as well as any information furnished by the proponent or the proponent's representative.

Although Rule 14a-8(k) does not require any communications from shareholders to the Commission's staff, the staff will always consider information concerning alleged violations of the statutes administered by the Commission, including argument as to whether or not activities proposed to be taken would be violative of the statute or rule involved. The receipt by the staff of such information, however, should not be construed as changing the staff's informal procedures and proxy review into a formal or adversary procedure.

It is important to note that the staff's and Commission's no-action responses to Rule 14a-8(j) submissions reflect only informal views. The determinations reached in these no-action letters do not and cannot adjudicate the merits of a company's position with respect to the proposal. Only a court such as a U.S. District Court can decide whether a company is obligated to include shareholder proposals in its proxy materials. Accordingly a discretionary determination not to recommend or take Commission enforcement action, does not preclude a proponent, or any shareholder of a company, from pursuing any rights he or she may have against the company in court, should the management omit the proposal from the company's proxy material.

Re: The Procter & Gamble Company
Incoming letter dated January 21, 2003

The proposal relates to the preparation of a report "concerning harassment of personnel of P&G and its affiliates and customer companies which sell/market" Procter & Gamble's products.

There appears to be some basis for your view that the proposal may be omitted from Procter & Gamble's proxy materials under rule 14a-8(c), which provides that a shareholder "may submit no more than one proposal to a company for a particular shareholders' meeting." In arriving at this position, the staff has particularly noted that the proponent previously submitted a proposal for inclusion in Procter & Gamble's proxy materials with respect to the same meeting. Accordingly, we will not recommend enforcement action to the Commission if Procter & Gamble omits the proposal from its proxy materials in reliance on rules 14a-8(c) and 14a-8(f). In reaching this position, we have not found it necessary to address the alternative bases for omission upon which Procter & Gamble relies.

Sincerely,
