De Beers to begin work on now undisputed Doyle property, including drilling, exploration of diamondiferous sill

Sill ownership now undisputed, following Golden Rule and Inukshuk decision not to appeal Federal Tribunal ruling in GGL's favor

VANCOUVER, British Columbia, Canada – GGL Diamond Corp. (TSX Venture – GGL) is pleased to announce that De Beers Canada Exploration Inc. (formerly Monopros Limited) will resume exploration work on the diamondiferous sill located on claims LA 26-30, which form part of the joint venture at Doyle Lake in the Northwest Territories. A significant exploration program on and near the sill, to begin in late July or early August, will include drilling, microdiamond sampling, analysis, and geophysical work.

The resumption of exploration work on the kimberlite sill and its potential extensions, comes on the heels of the recent decision by Golden Rule and Inukshuk that they will not appeal the Federal Tribunal decision in GGL Diamond's favor, announced May 2, 2003. Work on the property had been at a standstill since 1996, when the Section 84 dispute began. (Please refer to www.ggldiamond.com web site for additional information about the tribunal and the original dispute. Detailed information is contained in news releases and in the quarterly report dated February 28, 2003.)

The Doyle Lake project, adjacent to Mountain Province (T-MPV) claims, is located approximately 270 km to the northeast of Yellowknife. De Beers, 60% owner and project operator of the joint venture with GGL, has spent over $6 million to date on the project.

Located 8.5 km southwest of MPV's "Hearne" kimberlite pipe, the kimberlite sill was discovered during a reverse circulation drill program in August 1996. The 1996 drilling traced a northeast to southwest striking, shallow-dipping, kimberlitic sill, with intersections ranging from 0.2 to 5.7 metres in thickness, over a strike length of 1.3 km. At the time, a 125.2 kg sample from the drill cuttings, unavoidably diluted with granite country rock, yielded 67 microdiamonds greater than 0.075 mm.

An indicator mineral train that reflected a high count and exceptionally good diamond chemistry had led GGL geologists to the sill location – a train which extends beyond the north end of the sill and suggests the potential for a second source. A geometrically similar kimberlite at Snap Lake has extensive down dip extensions.

The 2003 Doyle activities will include a drill program that will begin to define the strike length and dip of the Doyle kimberlite. According to the geophysical surveys of the area, significant extensions to the sill may be anticipated.

The program will also test other kimberlite targets in the T-Lake and Snail Lake areas, based on previously obtained indicator results and geophysics.

03 JUN 23 AM 7:21

The De Beers work plan includes:

- Drilling 12 "HQ" holes (approximately 3" in diameter) which will test the indicated extensions along strike and down-dip, as well as the T-Lake and Snail targets;
- Collection of a 100 kg – 180 kg microdiamond sample from the sill intersections;
- Analysis of the core for variations in internal geology;
- Geological modeling; and
- Possible ground geophysical surveys to continue to explore extensions of the sill.

A map of the area will be posted to our website www.ggldiamond.com in the near future.

As the kimberlite comes to surface below the till, larger, more representative samples for macro diamond testing can be obtained by less expensive surface trenching. If results continue to be encouraging, De Beers has indicated that this method for bulk sampling remains an option that will be considered in following exploration programs.

De Beers has obtained the necessary Land Use Permit in order to begin work.

Federal tribunal rules in favour of GGL Diamond Corp.

VANCOUVER, British Columbia, Canada – GGL Diamond Corp. (TSX Venture – GGL) was today informed that the Department of Indian and Northern Affairs' appointed federal tribunal has ruled in favour of GGL on the matter of Doyle Lake and the LA 26-30 and Easy 1, 2, and 3 mineral claims.

Here is the news release as released by the Tribunal:

“TRIBUNAL RENDERS DECISION IN NWT MINERAL CLAIM

OTTAWA, ONTARIO (May 2, 2003) – Indian and Northern Affairs Canada (INAC) released the findings of a tribunal established to review a mineral claim dispute in the Northwest Territories. The Tribunal upheld a decision made by the Supervising Mining Recorder in May 1996, thereby awarding the disputed land to GGL Diamond Corporation and SouthernEra Resources Limited.

At the base of the dispute are two sets of overlapping mineral claims staked in 1994 and 1995. Both Golden Rule Resources Ltd./Inukshuk Capital Ltd. and GGL Diamond Corporation/SouthernEra Resources Limited claimed competing ownership of the mineral rights.

The Tribunal was established in response to an order of the Federal Court of Appeal. On May 31, 2002 the Tribunal was appointed under section 84 of the Canada Mining Regulations. During the review all parties provided the Tribunal with substantial information by means of written submissions and an oral hearing.

The decision of the Tribunal is final. Parties to this dispute have 30 days to appeal the decision in federal court. A copy of the Tribunal's decision will be posted on the INAC website on Monday, May 5, 2003.”

For more specific information on the history of the Doyle Lake dispute, please refer to the news release of Nov. 6, 2002 or to the quarterly report dated August 31, 2002. (www.ggldiamond.com)
