Nintendo GameCube

A Game Play Masterpiece —

Launched in 1996, the technologically advanced Nintendo 64 enabled developers to create true 3-D gameplay for the first time, but due to the sophisticated design of the system, many software creators claimed that development for N64 was difficult. On the other hand, video games in general have become huge, complex programs that have lost focus on the most important component of a video game, "FUN!" Because creators have put more focus on the quality of the graphics and sound, development costs have increased, causing business efficiency in our industry to decline. With these lessons in mind, Nintendo proudly introduces the Nintendo GameCube. A system created to optimize the game play experience while realizing the world's highest level of performance. Nintendo has been able to achieve this by eliminating technological bottlenecks in the system to allow for a seemingly effortless software development process. Since the introduction of Nintendo 64 we have come to realize that peak performance statistics are useless, so we've worked tirelessly to increase the sustainable performance levels of the system. Nintendo GameCube fits Nintendo's concept of "what a next generation video game console should provide." We have always aimed to create a world where players feel like they are in the game, bonding with the unique characters. Nintendo GameCube will exceed existing game play standards by providing original entertainment that carries the Nintendo DNA.

Nintendo GameCube Controller

At Nintendo we have a reputation for enthusiasm and innovation when it comes to controller design. The reason for this is simple: the controller is the direct link between the player and the events of the game. It is the primary interface by which to encourage the player's emotional bond with the game's characters. In order to promote this bond, we have taken steps to make the new Nintendo GameCube controller the most intuitive and natural-feeling product ever released. To increase controller stability and ease of use, we have grouped the controls for the left and right hands into two "systems." In addition, we have arranged the buttons on the right side in such a way that the A-Button home position may be set by the player, making the role of each button more instinctive. In terms of functionality, we have added analog left and right trigger buttons on the top of the controller and a second analog control stick (C-Stick) on the right side of the controller. Furthermore, we've implemented a rumble function into the controller itself, thus eliminating the inconvenience of inserting and removing a separate rumble accessory or replacing batteries. These new controller functions combined with a redesigned control stick promise new and even more exciting game control while building the bond between game players and their characters.

Overview

In the current video game industry, there is a myth suggesting that super realistic graphics and big sound, driven by cutting edge technology, are the keys to success. Indeed, game creators are developing new products with highly advanced tools creating very realistic graphics. But we know that graphics and sound, alone, cannot entertain game players forever.

Under such circumstances, Nintendo Co., Ltd. (the "Company") and its subsidiaries (together with the Company, "Nintendo"), the best and the only pure game-based hardware/software company, strives to create new and unique interactive video games providing the most fun and excitement. This is exactly what our consumers are expecting from Nintendo games.

For Fiscal 2001, the Company reported consolidated net sales of ¥462.2 billion ($3.7 billion). Sales in Europe increased as the popularity of both GAMEBOY hardware and software soared. On the other hand, sales in Japan and the Americas decreased due to the downturn of NINTENDO 64 despite the consistent performance of GAMEBOY. Net income, however, was a historical record high of ¥96.6 billion ($779 million), due, in part, to foreign exchange gain of ¥66.3 billion ($535 million) resulting from the sharp drop in the yen value against foreign currencies which occurred shortly before fiscal year-end.

Revenue and Expenses

The "winds of success" blew Pokémon from Japan to the United States, and onward to Europe. The sales of Pokémon franchise products performed extremely well in every market. The POKÉMON YELLOW shockwave arrived in Europe as a huge hit, along with original POKÉMON RED and BLUE. POKÉMON GOLD and SILVER reported unprecedented sales of 1.4 million units in the first week after it launched in the United States. In Japan, the Company released the latest Pokémon software, POKÉMON MONSTERS CRYSTAL. Thanks to Pokémon fans all over the world, the total sales of Pokémon software for GAMEBOY exceeded 22 million units for this fiscal year.

GAMEBOY hardware reached a hundred million life-to-date unit sales milestone - a first in game console history. It was achieved by multi-generations from GAMEBOY born in 1989. In March 2001, Nintendo celebrated the birth of next generation, GAMEBOY ADVANCE, in Japan. It had been supported by countless Japanese game-lovers with its "advanced" functions yet retaining "traditions" from previous generations.

NINTENDO 64 sales decreased compared to the previous fiscal year. This veteran player in video game console market is ready to abdicate its prestigious position to NINTENDO GAMECUBE.

Gross margin decreased by 5% to 40% for Fiscal 2001 principally because of the stronger yen and cost increase of IC chips. Selling, general and administrative expenses slightly increased by 4% to ¥99.2 billion ($800 million) and interest income increased by 69% to ¥39.1 billion ($316 million). The Company reported a loss on investments in securities pursuant to the change in Japanese Accounting Standard.

Analysis of Operations and Financial Review

Financial Position and Cash Flow

At the end of March 2001, cash and cash equivalents reached ¥786.0 billion ($6.3 billion) with no monetary loans, and total assets exceeded one trillion yen. Net cash provided by operating activities was ¥122.2 billion ($986 million), an increase of ¥29.2 billion yen from the previous fiscal year. This increase was due to the increase in net income and a decrease in notes and trade accounts receivable. Net cash provided by investing activities was ¥12.8 billion ($103 million), an increase of ¥77.3 billion, mainly because of proceeds from short-term investments. Net cash used in financing activities reduced ¥445 million to ¥16.5 billion ($133 million), including the payment of dividends.

Total liabilities increased to ¥230.8 billion ($1.9 billion), and the current ratio therefore slightly dropped to 4.28:1. The balance of cash and cash equivalents was 3.4 times total liabilities. Working capital improved by 14% to ¥733.5 billion ($5.9 billion). The number of days' sales in receivables was 51 days. Inventories were reduced by 26% to ¥22.6 billion ($182 million), and Nintendo improved the number of days' sales in inventories to 18 days. Liabilities-to-equity ratio was 0.28:1 at March 31, 2001.

Common Stock Activity

The Company's stock price rose by 14%, ending the year at ¥20,510 ($165.40), while the Nikkei stock average declined by 36% during Fiscal 2001. The Company maintained its annual dividend level at ¥120 ($0.97) per share for Fiscal 2001. The dividend payout ratio was approximately 18%. Foreign shareholders constituted 31% of total outstanding shares at March 31, 2001.

Nintendo Co., Ltd. and consolidated subsidiaries

Note 1. Basis of Presenting Consolidated Financial Statements

The accompanying consolidated financial statements are prepared from the consolidated financial statements issued in Japan for domestic reporting purposes. Nintendo Co., Ltd. (the "Company") and its subsidiaries in Japan maintain their accounts and records in accordance with the provisions set forth in the Japanese Commercial Code and the Securities and Exchange Law, and in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles and practices in Japan, which are different in certain respects as to application and disclosure requirements of International Accounting Standards. Its foreign subsidiaries maintain their accounts in conformity with the generally accepted accounting principles and practices of each country of their domicile.

In preparing the accompanying consolidated financial statements, certain reclassifications have been made to the consolidated financial statements issued domestically in order to present them in a form which is more familiar to readers outside Japan.

The consolidated financial statements are not intended to present the consolidated financial positions, results of operations and cash flows in accordance with accounting principles and practices generally accepted in countries and jurisdictions other than Japan.

The financial statements presented herein are expressed in Japanese yen and, solely for the convenience of the readers, have been translated into United States dollars at the rate of ¥124=US$1, the approximate exchange rate on March 31, 2001. These translations should not be construed as representations that the Japanese yen amounts actually are, have been or could be readily converted into U.S. dollars at this rate or any other rate.

Note 2. Significant Accounting Policies

The subsidiary and affiliates excluded from the scope of the consolidation are immaterial and their respective investments are carried at cost in the consolidated balance sheets.

The principal consolidated subsidiaries and the affiliates for which the equity method of accounting was used for the year ended March 31, 2001 are as follows:

Consolidated subsidiaries
Nintendo of America Inc.	Nintendo Australia Pty. Ltd.

Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements

Years ended March 31, 2001 and 2000

B. Translation of Foreign Currency Items

Until the year ended March 31, 2000, current receivables and payables denominated in foreign currencies were translated into Japanese yen at the exchange rates in effect at the balance sheet date, whereas non-current receivables and payables were translated at the exchange rates in effect when acquired or incurred. From the year ended March 31, 2001, receivables and payables, irrespective of current or non-current, denominated in foreign currencies are translated into Japanese yen at the exchange rates in effect at the balance sheet date under revised Japanese Accounting Standard on foreign currency transactions. Deposits, receivables and payables hedged by forward exchange contracts are translated into yen at the contracted exchange rates. Gains or losses arising from transactions in foreign currency receivables and payables are credited or charged to income as incurred.

With respect to financial statements of overseas subsidiaries, balance sheets are translated into Japanese yen at the exchange rates in effect at the balance sheet date for assets and liabilities, whereas the items in the shareholders' equity are translated at the exchange rate when incurred. The average exchange rates for the fiscal period are used for translation of revenue and expenses. For the year ended March 31, 2000, the differences resulting from translation in this manner were shown as "Translation Adjustments" listed under Assets in the accompanying consolidated balance sheets. From the year ended March 31, 2001, the differences are included in "Minority Interests" and "Translation adjustments" which is listed in Shareholders' Equity in the accompanying consolidated balance sheets in accordance with revised Japanese Accounting Standard.

C. Cash and Cash Equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents include cash in hand, time deposit with an original maturity of three months or less, which can be withdrawn on demand and certain investments. Investments are defined as those that are easily accessible, with little risk of fluctuation in value and the maturity date is within three months of the acquisition date.

D. Financial Instruments

For the year ended March 31, 2000, quoted marketable securities were stated at the lower of cost, determined by the moving average method, or market. Other securities were stated at cost, determined by the moving average method.

Effective from the year ended March 31, 2001, the Company and its subsidiaries in Japan adopted the new Japanese Accounting Standard for financial instruments, which is effective for periods beginning on or after April 1, 2000. The effect on net profit or loss of this application is minor.

Derivatives

Under the new standard, all derivatives are stated at fair value, with changes in fair value included in net profit or loss for the period in which they arise.

Securities

Securities are classified into four categories under the new standard.

Trading securities, which are held for the purpose of generating profits on short-term differences in prices, are stated at fair value, with changes in fair value included in net profit or loss for the period in which they arise.

Held-to-maturity debt securities are stated at cost after accounting for premium or discount on acquisition, which are amortized over the period to maturity.

Equity securities of subsidiaries and affiliates are carried at cost unless such investment is regarded impaired.

Other securities for which market quotations are available are stated at fair value. Unrealized gains on other securities are reported as "Unrealized gains on other securities" in Shareholders' Equity at a net-of-tax amount, and unrealized losses on other securities are included in net profit or loss for the period.

Other securities for which market quotations are unavailable are stated at cost, determined by the moving average method except as stated in the paragraph below.

In case where the fair value of held-to-maturity debt securities, equity securities issued by non-consolidated subsidiaries and affiliates, or other securities has declined significantly and such impairment of the value is not deemed temporary, those securities are written down to the fair value and the resulting losses are included in net profit or loss for the period.

Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements

Under the new standard, trading securities and debt securities due within one year are presented as "current" and all the other securities are presented as "non-current." The securities have been reclassified as of April 1, 2000. As a result of such reclassification, the securities in "Short-term investments" have decreased by ¥572 million ($4,614 thousands) and the securities in "Investments in securities" have increased by the same amount.

E. Inventories

Inventories are stated at the lower of cost or market, cost being determined by the moving average method.

F. Property, Plant and Equipment

Property, plant and equipment are stated at cost. The Company and its consolidated subsidiaries in Japan compute depreciation by the declining balance method over the estimated useful lives. The straight-line method of depreciation is used for buildings, except for structures, acquired on or after April 1, 1998. Overseas consolidated subsidiaries compute depreciation of assets by applying the straight-line method over the period of estimated useful lives. Estimated useful lives of the assets are principally as follows:
Buildings and structures: 3 to 60 years

G. Investment Costs in Excess of Underlying Net Assets of Consolidated Subsidiaries and Affiliates Acquired

Investment costs in excess of underlying net assets of consolidated subsidiaries and affiliates acquired are charged to income for the year as incurred.

H. Income Taxes

Deferred income taxes reflect the tax effect of temporary differences between the carrying value of assets and liabilities for financial reporting purpose and those for tax purposes.

I. Retirement and Severance Benefits and Pension Plan

From the year ended March 31, 2001, the Company adopted the Financial Accounting Standard for Retirement and Severance Benefits. The Company and certain consolidated subsidiaries are calculating the reserve for employee retirement and severance benefits with estimated amounts on the basis of the cost of retirement benefit and pension plan assets at end of fiscal year. Cumulative effect of this change was immaterial and was charged to income. Benefits under the plan are generally based on the current rate of base salary, length of service and certain other factors when the termination occurs.

Directors and corporate auditors customarily receive lump-sum payments upon termination of their services subject to shareholders' approval. The Company provides for the reserve for lump-sum severance benefits for directors and corporate auditors at the estimated amount required if all retired at the fiscal year-end.

J. Research and Development and Computer Software

Expenses relating to research and development activities are charged to income when incurred. Computer software for the internal use included in other assets is amortized using the straight-line method over the estimated useful lives.

K. Leases

Leases, other than those deemed to transfer the ownership of the leased assets to lessees, are accounted for as operating leases. Leased property employed pursuant to capital leases in certain overseas subsidiaries have been capitalized in the balance sheets.

L. Net Income Per Share

The computations of net income per share of common stock are based on the weighted average number of shares outstanding during each fiscal year.

Years ended March 31, 2001 and 2000

Note 4. Derivatives

The Company and part of its consolidated subsidiary have only forward exchange contracts and currency options within the limits of foreign currency deposit. The Company enters into derivative transactions for yield improvement of short-term financial assets, to reduce risk of exchange or interest rate fluctuations, but not for speculative purposes. Because the counterparties to these transactions are limited to high confidence level financial institutions and the transactions are short-term only, the Company does not anticipate any risk due to default. Derivative transactions are made only by the treasury department under approval by the president and a director in charge of those transactions.

The Company had the following derivative contracts outstanding at March 31, 2001.
