In planning and performing our audit of the financial statements of James River Securities Corp. for the year ended December 31, 2003, we considered its internal control structure, in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control structure.

Also, as required by Regulation 1.16 of the CFTC, we have made a study of the practices and procedures (including tests of compliance with such practices and procedures, followed by the company that we considered relevant to the objectives stated in Regulation 1.16 in making the periodic computations of minimum financial requirements pursuant to Regulation 1.17.

The management of the Company is responsible for establishing and maintaining an internal control structure and the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph. In fulfilling this responsibility, estimates and judgments by management are required to assess the expected benefits and related costs of internal control structure policies and procedures and of the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph and to assess whether those practices and procedures can be expected to achieve the CFTC's above-mentioned objectives. Two of the objectives of an internal control structure and the practices and procedures are to provide management with reasonable, but not absolute, assurance that assets for which the Company has responsibility are safeguarded against loss from unauthorized use or disposition and that transactions are executed in accordance with management's authorization and recorded properly to permit preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. Regulation 1.16 lists additional objectives of the practices and procedures listed in the preceding paragraph.

Because of the inherent limitations in any internal control structure or the practices and procedures referred to above, errors or irregularities may occur and not be detected. Also, projection of any evaluation of them to future periods is subject to the risk that they may become inadequate because of changes in conditions or that the effectiveness of their design and operation may deteriorate.

Our consideration of the internal control structure would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control structure that might be material weaknesses under standards established by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of the specific internal control structure elements does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that errors or irregularities in amounts that would be material in relation to the financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. However, we noted no matters involving the internal control structure that we considered to be material weaknesses as defined above.

We understand that practices and procedures that accomplish the objectives referred to in the second paragraph of this report are considered by the CFTC to be adequate for its purposes in accordance with the Commodity Exchange Act and related regulations, and that practices and procedures that do not accomplish such objectives in all material respects indicate a material inadequacy for such purposes. Based on this understanding and our study, we believe that the Company's practices and procedures were adequate at December 31, 2003, to meet the CFTC's objectives.

This report is intended solely for the use of management, the CFTC, and other regulatory agencies that rely on Regulation 1.16 of the CFTC and should not be used for any other purpose.

SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Use of Estimates in the Preparation of Financial Statements

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and the disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

2. CONCENTRATIONS OF CREDIT RISK

The Company maintains its primary cash balance within an Institutional Cash Management Money Market Fund (the "Money Fund"). Although these funds are not insured or guaranteed in any manner, the stated objective of the Money Fund is "to provide as a high a level of current income as is consistent with the preservation of capital and liquidity by investing in high quality money market instruments issued by corporations and the U.S. Government." The stated investor profile is "conservative investors seeking current income through a liquid investment." Interest income on all cash balances is accrued when earned.

JAMES RIVER SECURITIES CORP.

NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

3. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

The Company has no paid employees. The Company is charged an administrative fee by a related entity James River Financial Corp. ("JRFC"). The fee is based on an estimation of the administrative services to be rendered, is reviewed biannually and may be changed as determined appropriate by mutual consent of JRFC and the Company. For the years ended December 31, 2003 and 2002, the Company was charged $ 3,000 per month.

On occasion, affiliates of the Company may receive Company revenue or pay Company expenses and then either reimburse the Company or be reimbursed by the Company.

The Company is required to maintain minimum net capital, as defined, of $ 60,000 under SEC Rule 17a-11. 5. PROVISION FOR INCOME TAXES

The Company has elected to be taxed as a partnership, under Subchapter "S" of the Internal Revenue Code and under relevant state statutes. Accordingly, each shareholder will report his proportionate share of the income of the Company on his individual return.

6. FAIR VALUE OF FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

In December 1991, the Financial Accounting Standards Board issued Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 107, "Disclosures About Fair Value of Financial Instruments." This statement extends existing fair value disclosure practices for some instruments by requiring all entities to disclose the fair value of financial instruments, both assets and liabilities recognized and not recognized in the statement of financial condition, for which it is practicable to estimate fair value. If estimating fair value is not practicable, this Statement requires disclosures of descriptive information pertinent to estimating the value of a financial instrument. At December 31, 2003 and 2002, all of the Company's financial instruments, as defined, were carried at amount which approximated fair value.
