Rexam to provide technical support for new beverage can plant in India

Rexam, the global consumer packaging group and the world's leading beverage can supplier, has signed Heads of Agreement with Paragon Global Industries covering the provision of technical support for a new two-piece aluminium beverage can manufacturing plant to be built in Mumbai, India.

Rexam's role will be to provide technical assistance to set up the plant as well as ongoing technical support once the plant is operational. Rexam will also provide expertise and resources within quality management and sales and marketing.

Rexam will have an option to acquire equity in the beverage can company at a later stage.

The new plant will be manufacturing 330ml and 500ml cans with the possibility of introducing an end-making facility as the market develops.

Commenting on the Heads of Agreement, Lars Emilson, Rexam's Chief Executive said: "This is the first step for Rexam in a market that has huge future potential and follows on from our recent moves in Mexico and China. It demonstrates our commitment to delivering increased value to our customers on a global basis."
