Paris, September 22, 2005 – JCDecaux, the number one outdoor advertising company in Europe and number two worldwide, today announced that NBCDecaux – a company 70% owned by JCDecaux, the worldwide leader in street furniture, and 30% owned by NBC Universal – yesterday learned that New York City has chosen to enter into negotiations with another company to provide thousands of pieces of street furniture across the five boroughs. The company remains part of the New York City Department of Transportation's Request for Proposals process and the Department has reserved the right to initiate negotiations with NBCDecaux should the need arise.

"We applaud Mayor Bloomberg for persisting in bringing these much-needed amenities to the City's neighborhoods. However, we are surprised and disappointed that New York City has chosen to negotiate its street-furniture contract with a different company. If the City is unable to reach an agreement with its chosen bidder, NBCDecaux remains ready to fulfill the commitments we outlined in our proposal" said Jean-François Decaux, Chairman and co-CEO of JCDecaux Group. "This contract will not include thousands of backlit advertising panels on payphones as well as hundreds ones on subway entrances which represent significant opportunities for JCDecaux to enter the street furniture market in New York City." Jean-François Decaux added.
