USE OF ESTIMATES

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

During the year, the Company has periodically advanced funds to a commonly-owned company (affiliate). These amounts are noninterest bearing and due on demand.

The Company performs brokerage services for the affiliate and has placed customer investments in funds managed by the affiliate. Following is a summary of transactions for 2005:

Commission and fee revenues.....	$ 199,493
Commission, fee and trading cost expenses incurred	$ 199,493

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

NOTE 6—COMMITMENTS AND CONTINGENCIES

The Company has entered into an agreement with the affiliate and two individuals whereby the two individuals have purchased stock in the affiliate and the existing sole stockholder has purchased additional stock under a stock purchase and recapitalization agreement. Under the terms of this agreement, the Company and the affiliate have made various representations, guarantees, and warranties, as defined. In addition, the Company must comply with specific covenants including, but not limited to, restrictions on the encumbrance of the Company stock. In connection with this agreement, the Company is subject to consulting agreements with two companies, owned by the two individuals noted above, requiring fees equal to 25% of the net profits, as defined, of the Company for each year. These agreements will remain in effect as long as the two individuals retain their stock in the affiliate. No amounts were due at December 31, 2005.

At December 31, 2005, the Company had a net capital deficiency of $10,625. Subsequent to December 31, 2005 and prior to the issuance of these financial statements the affiliate repaid this amount to the Company to satisfy this deficiency.

INDEPENDENT AUDITORS' REPORT ON INTERNAL
ACCOUNTING CONTROL REQUIRED BY SEC RULE 17A-5

Board of Directors and Stockholder
Stanford Securities, Incorporated
535 Sandpiper Drive
Lindenhurst, Illinois

In planning and performing our audit of the financial statements and supplemental schedules of STANFORD SECURITIES, INCORPORATED for the year ended December 31, 2005, we considered its internal control, including control activities for safeguarding securities, in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements and not to provide assurance on internal control.

Also, as required by rule 17a-5(g)(1) of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) we have made a study of the practices and procedures followed by the Company including tests of such practices and procedures that we considered relevant to the objectives stated in rule 17a-5(g) in making the periodic computations of aggregate indebtedness and net capital under rule 17a-3(a)(11) and for determining compliance with the exemptive provisions of rule 15c3-3. Because the Company does not carry securities accounts for customers or perform custodial functions relating to customer securities, we did not review the practices and procedures followed by the Company in any of the following:

1. Making quarterly securities examinations, counts, verifications and comparisons
2. Recordation of differences required by rule 17a-13
3. Complying with the requirements of prompt payment for securities under section 8 of Regulation T of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System

The management of the Company is responsible for establishing and maintaining internal control and the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph. In fulfilling this responsibility, estimates and judgments by management are required to assess the expected benefits and related costs of controls and of the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph and to assess whether those practices and procedures can be expected to achieve the SEC's above-mentioned objectives. Two of the objectives of internal control and the practices and procedures are to provide management with reasonable but not absolute assurance that assets for which the Company has responsibility are safeguarded against loss from unauthorized use or disposition and that transactions are executed in accordance with management's authorization and recorded properly to permit preparation of financial statements in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles. Rule 17a-5(g) lists additional objectives of the practices and procedures listed in the preceding paragraph.

Because of inherent limitations in any internal control or the practices and procedures referred to above, error or fraud may occur and not be detected. Also, projection of any evaluation of them to future periods is subject to the risk that they may become inadequate because of changes in conditions or that the effectiveness of their design and operation may deteriorate.

Our consideration of internal control would not necessarily disclose all matters in internal control that might be material weaknesses under standards established by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of the specific internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that error or fraud in amounts that would be material in relation to the financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. However, we noted no matters involving internal control, including control activities for safeguarding securities, that we consider to be material weaknesses as defined above.

We understand that practices and procedures that accomplish the objectives referred to in the second paragraph of this report are considered by the SEC to be adequate for its purposes in accordance with the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and related regulations, and that practices and procedures that do not accomplish such objectives in all material respects indicate a material inadequacy for such purposes. Based on this understanding and on our study, we believe that the Company's practices and procedures were adequate at December 31, 2005, to meet the SEC's objectives.

This report is intended solely for the information and use of management, the SEC, and other regulatory agencies which rely on Rule 17a-5(g) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 in their regulation of registered brokers and dealers, and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these specified parties.
