Notes to Financial Statements

December 31, 2005

Note 1 - Description of business and summary of significant accounting policies:

Hartsfield Capital Securities, Inc. (the Company) is a Georgia corporation incorporated on February 5, 1998 for the purpose of qualifying as a broker-dealer providing services for clients primarily in Europe. The Company was approved as a registered broker-dealer with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) effective September 1998 and is a member of the National Association of Securities Dealers (NASD).

The following is a summary of the more important accounting principles and policies followed by the Company:

Revenue recognition

Revenue related to commissions and fees earned resulting from the private placement of securities by issuers and brokering transactions is recognized generally at the "date of closing."

Receivables and credit policies

The Company routinely assesses the financial strength of its clients and, as a consequence, believes that its commissions receivable credit risk exposure is limited. Commissions receivable are carried at original contract amount less an estimate made for doubtful receivables based on a review of all outstanding amounts on an annual basis. A valuation allowance is provided for known and anticipated credit losses, as determined by management in the course of regularly evaluating individual receivables. To date, bad debts have not exceeded management's expectations. At December 31, 2005, there was no allowance for bad debts. Commissions receivable are written off when deemed uncollectible. Recoveries of commissions receivable previously written off are recorded when received. No interest is charged on customer accounts.

Income taxes

The Company has adopted Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 109 (SFAS No. 109), "Accounting for Income Taxes." SFAS No. 109 requires that all deferred tax balances be determined by using the tax rate expected to be in effect when the taxes will actually be paid or refunds received. Deferred taxes are provided in amounts sufficient to give effect to temporary differences between financial and tax reporting which results from using the cash basis for tax reporting and the accrual basis for financial reporting. At December 31, 2005, the Company recognized a deferred income tax asset based on the tax basis of accounting for organizational costs, accounts payable and commissions payable. The Company recognized a deferred tax liability on the tax basis treatment for commissions receivable, prepaid expenses and deferred income recognized on warrants received.

Note 1 - Description of business and summary of significant accounting policies - continued:

Use of estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenue and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Note 2 - Net capital requirements:

The Company is subject to the Securities and Exchange Commission Uniform Net Capital Rule (SEC rule 15c 3-1), which requires the maintenance of minimum net capital and requires that the ratio of aggregate indebtedness to net capital, both as defined, shall not exceed 15 to 1. At December 31, 2005, the Company had net capital of $xxxxx, which was $xxx in excess of its required minimum net capital of $5,000. The Company's net capital ratio was 0.xx to 1 at December 31, 2005.

Note 3 - Management fees payable:

The Company has an agreement with Hartsfield Capital Group (HCG) whereby the Company pays HCG $750 a month in management fees for office and supporting services. At December 31, 2005, the Company has no management fees payable.

Note 4 - Warrants:

As part of the compensation for services rendered, the Company received warrants from one of its clients. The warrants give the Company the right to purchase common stock at a particular exercise price. The warrants expired on July 16, 2005.

Notes to Financial Statements - Continued

December 31, 2005

Note 5 - Income taxes:

At December 31, 2005, deferred tax assets recognized for deductible temporary differences totaled approximately $12,440. Deferred tax liabilities recognized for taxable temporary differences totaled approximately $11,252.

Note 6 - Concentration of credit risk:

The Company maintains its cash in bank deposits which, at times, may exceed federally-insured limits. The Company has not experienced any losses in such accounts. The Company believes it is not exposed to any significant credit risk on cash.

During the year ended December 31, 2005, the Company had two customers that accounted for 75% of revenues. At December 31, 2004, commissions receivable from these customers totaled $42,001.

To the Stockholders
Hartsfield Capital Securities, Inc.
Atlanta, Georgia

In planning and performing our audit of the financial statements and supplemental schedules of Hartsfield Capital Securities, Inc. (the Company), for the year ended December 31, 2005, we considered its internal control structure, including procedures for safeguarding securities, in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control.

Also, as required by rule 17a-5(g)(1) of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), we have made a study of the practices and procedures followed by the Company, including tests of such practices and procedures that we considered relevant to the objectives stated in rule 17a-5(g) in making the periodic computations of aggregate indebtedness (or aggregate debits) and net capital under rule 17a-3(a)(11) and for determining compliance with the exemptive provisions of rule 15c3-3. Because the Company does not carry securities accounts for customers or perform custodial functions relating to customer securities, we did not review the practices and procedures followed by the Company in any of the following:

1. Making quarterly securities examinations, counts, verifications, and comparisons
2. Recordation of differences required by rule 17a-13
3. Complying with the requirements for prompt payment for securities under Section 8 of Federal Reserve Regulation T of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System

The management of the Company is responsible for establishing and maintaining an internal control structure and the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph. In fulfilling this responsibility, estimates and judgments by management are required to assess the expected benefits and related costs of controls and of the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph and to assess whether those practices and procedures can be expected to achieve the SEC's above mentioned objectives. Two of the objectives of an internal control structure and the practices and procedures are to provide management with reasonable, but not absolute, assurance that assets for which the Company has responsibility are safeguarded against loss from unauthorized use or disposition, and that transactions are executed in accordance with management's authorization and recorded properly to permit preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. Rule 17a-5(g) lists additional objectives of the practices and procedures listed in the preceding paragraph.

To the Stockholders
Hartsfield Capital Securities, Inc.
Page Two

Because of the inherent limitations in internal control or the practices and procedures referred to above, error or fraud may occur and not be detected. Also, projection of any evaluation of them to future periods is subject to the risk that they may become inadequate because of changes in conditions or that the effectiveness of their design and operation may deteriorate.

Our consideration of internal control would not necessarily disclose all matters in internal control that might be material weaknesses under standards established by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of the specific internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that error or fraud in amounts that would be material in relation to the financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. However, we noted no matters involving internal control, including control activities for safeguarding securities that we consider to be material weaknesses as defined above.

We understand that practices and procedures that accomplish the objectives referred to in the second paragraph of this report are considered by the SEC to be adequate for its purposes in accordance with the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and related regulations, and that practices and procedures that do not accomplish such objectives in all material respects indicate a material inadequacy for such purposes. Based on this understanding and on our study, we believe that the Company's practices and procedures were adequate at December 31, 2005, to meet the SEC's objectives.

This report is intended solely for the information and use of the stockholders, management, the SEC, and other regulatory agencies that rely on rule 17a-5(g) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 in their regulation of registered brokers and dealers, and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these specified parties.
