BAA announces senior management appointment

BAA today announces that Ian Hargreaves, currently BAA's Corporate Affairs Director, will add the regulation portfolio to his existing role from 1 September 2006. This appointment follows an extensive internal and external review for the best candidate to succeed Mike Toms, who last year announced his decision to retire from BAA this autumn.

Ian Hargreaves will add the regulation portfolio to his existing role, and will become Corporate & Regulatory Affairs Director, BAA. The regulation team will report directly to him and he will also continue to hold his current line reports and responsibilities for all communication issues across the company.

After his retirement, the company will continue to receive Mike Toms' advice in support of the current price review and other regulatory matters.

In addition to his role at BAA, Ian will continue in his role as a non-executive director of Ofcom, the independent regulator for the UK communications industry.
