FRUTAROM CONTINUES TO ACHIEVE GROWTH FOR THE SIXTH CONSECUTIVE YEAR

SALES GREW 23.9% TO US$ 243.8 M

NET PROFIT JUMPED SHARPLY BY 70.4% TO US$ 26.8 M
Net margin grew 11.0% compared with 8%

EARNINGS PER SHARE REACHED US$ 0.49 COMPARED WITH US$ 0.34
IN 2004

Increase achieved despite growth in Frutarom's share equity as a result of offering completed in February 2005 on the LSE

2005 is the sixth consecutive year in which Frutarom has achieved good results. This year, the growth trend in sales, profits and profitability continued following implementation of Frutarom's rapid growth strategy, combining organic growth in core activities with strategic acquisitions of activities and knowhow in the Company's main business segments and in strategic geographic regions.

According to Ori Yehudai, Frutarom President and Chief Executive Officer, in 2005 Frutarom continued to establish its position as one of the leading flavor and fine ingredient producers in the world. The activities of the Swiss company, Flachsman, which was acquired in 2003, and of the European food systems activity, which was acquired from IFF during the second half of 2004, were successfully integrated with Frutarom's existing activity. These acquisitions strengthen Frutarom's position, and considerably expanded its customer base in food, beverages and pharmaceuticals, its global geographic reach, and its product offering. The acquisitions provide Frutarom with many new cross-selling opportunities between the new customers and products added by the acquisition and Frutarom's existing customers and products.

As part of implementing its rapid growth strategy, Frutarom signed an agreement in January 2006 to acquire 70% of the Nesse group's issued and paid share equity, with an option to acquire the remaining 30% as of the end of 2007. Established in 1880, Nesse is today an international group achieving high organic growth rates and employing 120 workers. Nesse develops, produces, markets and sells unique, innovative savory solutions that include savory flavors and unique functional ingredients. According to Ori Yehudai, "This strategic acquisition is an additional milestone in realizing Frutarom's strategy for rapid growth. It strengthens the technological capabilities and product portfolio offered by Frutarom to customers in the savory field, and support Frutarom's growing strength and position in West and East Europe as a leading flavors supplier. Frutarom intends to use its global sales and marketing infrastructure to realize the cross selling possibilities created by this acquisition through the expansion of both our customer base and product portfolio." In addition, in June 2005 the Company acquired the natural extracts activity of the American company A.M. Todd Botanical Therapeutics.

During February 2005, Frutarom raised capital by way of issuing ordinary shares and registering Global Depositary Receipts in the London Stock Exchange Main List. Frutarom received a net consideration of US$ 76 million for the offering, which added leading global investors to the Company's shareholders. The offering supports Frutarom's positioning as a global company and provides Frutarom with the means required for continuing to make strategic acquisitions as part of implementing its rapid growth strategy.

Frutarom's sales in 2005 totaled US$ 243.8 million, a 23.9% increase compared with 2004, when sales reached US$ 196.8 million.

According to Yehudai, the sales growth was achieved as a result of the integration of the food systems activity acquired from IFF in Switzerland, Germany and France with the Frutarom Group's global activity; the growth in the Fine Ingredients Division's sales, mainly due to the introduction of new products, expansion and development of the global sales infrastructure and the successful integration and utilization of the synergy existing between the Division's research and development and production sites worldwide; and utilization of the synergy and cross selling possibilities between Frutarom's Divisions and between existing customers and products and those added due to the acquisitions made in recent years. In 2005 the relative portion of the Flavors Division's sales, the most profitable of Frutarom's activities and growth and reached 64.2% of Frutarom's total activity (compared with 32.9% in 2000). The growth in sales was offset mainly by the weak period experienced by the processed food industry, particularly in Europe during the second half of the year partly due to the cold and wet summer; the weakened European currencies (in which most of Frutarom's sales are made) against the US dollar; and the significant drop in ArtChem sales, which is not a core activity of Frutarom.

Gross profit for the period rose 27% to reach US$ 94.5 million compared with US$ 74.3 million last year. Gross margin grew from 37.8% to 38.8%. Operating profit rose by 53.3% to US$ 33.7 million compared with US$ 22 million in 2004, while operating margin reached 13.8% compared with 11.2% last year. Net profit grew sharply by 70.4% to reach US$ 26.9 million compared with US$ 15.8 million in 2004. Net margin also rose, from 8.0% in 2004 to 11.0% in 2005. Earnings per share showed growth of 44% per share and reached US$ 0.49. This growth was achieved despite the growth in the Company's issued share capital as a result of the capital raising and registration on the London Stock Exchange Main List in February 2005.

During 2005, Frutarom achieved cash flow from operating activities of US$ 32.5 million, compared with US$ 17.3 million in 2004. Frutarom's equity as at December 31, 2005 totaled US$ 177.8 million (76% of the balance sheet) compared with US$ 78.7 million (36.8% of the balance sheet) in 2004. The growth is mainly due to the capital raised by the Company and the profit for the period.

Frutarom's sales in the fourth quarter of 2005 totaled US$ 52.6 million, a 1.6% decrease when currency influences are excluded (a 7.6% decline including the currency influences) compared with the same quarter of last year. The decrease in sales results from the continued relatively weak period for processed food manufacturers in West Europe; the weakened European currencies (in which most of Frutarom's sales are made) against the US dollar; substantial recent erosion of selling prices for natural extracts and flavors produced from vanilla due to the decline in the prices of raw materials used in their production; and the significant drop in ArtChem sales, which is not a core activity, due to lower demand by the major customer.

Gross profit for the fourth quarter decreased 3.3% to reach US$ 19.6 million. Despite this, the trend of improvement in profit and operating profitability continued. Operating profit grew by 16.4% to US$ 5.0 million, while operating margin continued to improve, reaching 9.5% compared with 7.5% in the same period in 2004. Net profit for the fourth quarter grew by 60.8%, reaching US$ 4.9 million compared with US$ 3.0 million during the same quarter last year. Net margin also rose, reaching 9.3% compared with 5.3% during the same quarter in 2004. Cash flow from operating activities totaled US$ 5.6 million, compared with US$ 1.8 million in the same quarter last year. Earnings per share grew during the fourth quarter of the year and reached US$ 0.09 (despite the growth in the Company's issued share equity as a result of the offering made in February 2005).

According to Ori Yehudai, "Frutarom's management continued to implement its growth strategy during 2005. The sales target that we have set as part of the strategic process for the next several years, is to surpass the half billion dollar sales threshold in 2008 while continuing to improve profitability. Frutarom will continue to focus on both large multinational customers as well as on mid-size and local customers, providing superior, high quality and tailor-made service. We will persevere in strengthening our presence in developed markets, such as Western Europe and the United States, and in intensifying our activities in the fast growing emerging markets where we currently operate, as well as entering new emerging markets where the growth rate is higher than the global average. Additionally, Frutarom will continue to offer our customers a broad product portfolio consisting largely of natural products and new innovative products such as functional food ingredients, which are growing faster than the industry average.

Yehudai concluded by saying that Frutarom's management believes it will continue to execute the Company's strategy for rapid growth and to realize the synergy and cross selling possibilities in the acquisitions of recent years, which will help to sustain organic growth in Frutarom's core activities. Frutarom invests considerable resources in locating and executing strategic acquisitions and is currently in contact with several interesting candidates for possible acquisition, mainly in countries and markets where the Company already has substantial activity. The offering in the amount of US$ 76 million that we completed in February 2005 enables Frutarom to leverage its strong equity structure in order to make future strategic acquisitions.

Haifa, Israel – May 23, 2006. Frutarom (LSE: FRUTq, TASE: FRUT, OTC: FRUTF) today reported its 2006 first quarter results.

Further to the positive trends seen in recent years, during the first quarter of 2006, Frutarom continued its trend of increased sales and profits, while successfully implementing its rapid growth strategy, combining organic growth in core activities, at rates above industry average, with strategic acquisitions of activities and know-how in the Company's main fields of business and in strategic geographic regions.

Ori Yehudai, Frutarom Group's President and Chief Executive Officer, commented, "Frutarom achieved nice results for the first quarter. Sales increased by 15% excluding currency effect, and by 9.7% in US Dollar. Growth in sales was reached while achieving an internal growth in our core activities and a significant increase in net profit which totaled to US$ 8.8 M." Yehudai added, "We are very pleased with the acquisition of Nesse on which we announced at the beginning of the quarter. This acquisition made an immediate contribution to Frutarom's sales and profits. The integration of Frutarom's and Nesse's activities is being successfully executed and we are working to extract the considerable synergies existing in this strategic acquisition, while leveraging the many cross-selling opportunities. Nesse's acquisition significantly strengthens our activities in emerging markets such as CIS countries as well as in Western-European countries. The acquisition strengthens Frutarom's technological capabilities and savory offering. Nesse made a significant contribution to Frutarom's sales and profits for the first quarter, and as Nesse's seasonality is opposite to Frutarom's seasonality, we expect it to make an even greater contribution during the rest of the year."

Frutarom's sales for the first quarter of 2006 totaled US$ 71.0 million, showing growth of 9.7%, compared with the same quarter of 2005. Sales grew by 15%, excluding the weakening Western European currencies (in which most of Frutarom's sales are conducted) against the US Dollar at rates of between 9% and 11%, which lead to a decrease of more than 5% in Frutarom's overall sales. The increase in sales during the quarter was influenced mainly by the following factors: the integration of Nesse's activity with the Frutarom Group's global activity; growth in the Fine Ingredients Division's sales, mainly due to the introduction of new innovative products, expansion and development of the global sales infrastructure and the successful integration and utilization of the synergy existing between its research and development and production sites worldwide; and Utilizing the synergy and cross-selling opportunities between Frutarom's Divisions, existing customers and products and those added through the acquisitions made in recent years. The increase in sales was offset by the following factors: weakening Western European currencies (in which most of Frutarom's sales are made) against the US Dollar; significant erosion in selling prices of natural extracts and flavor compounds containing natural vanilla, due to the significant price decline in raw materials required for their manufacture; decrease in sales of food systems products due to the planned improvement in product mix, which will be achieved by shifting from low margin products to unique products with high added value and higher margin than average.; relatively cold and long

European winter which influenced the demand for the Company's products used for the manufacture of beverages, ice-cream and other summer products; and decline in the Trade & Marketing activity in Israel of products which are not manufactured by the Company (this activity is not in the Company's core business).

Gross profit for the first quarter grew by 8.2% to reach US$ 27.0 million, compared with US$ 25.0 million in the same quarter of 2005. Gross margin reached 38.1% during the period, compared with 38.6% during the same period in 2005. Postponed demand for the Company's products used for the manufacturing of summer products (such as beverages, ice creams and yogurts) due to the long and cold winter in Europe, impacted the margin, as these products usually have higher margins than average. Operating profit grew by 11.8% during the first quarter of 2006 to reach US$ 10.4 million, compared with US$ 9.3 million in the same quarter of 2005. Operating margin for the period reached 14.6%, compared with 14.3% during the same period in 2005. Net profit for the first quarter rose by 29.3% to reach US$ 8.8 million, compared with US$ 6.8 million in the first quarter of 2005. Net margin also rose, reaching 12.5%, compared with 10.6% in the same quarter in 2005. Earnings per share continued to grow during the first quarter of the year and reached US$ 0.16 compared with US$ 0.13 in the first quarter of 2005. The growth in the earnings per share was achieved despite the increase in the Company's average issued share capital compared with prior year quarter.

Yehudai added that, "Frutarom will continue to focus on both large multinational customers and on mid-size and local customers, providing superior, high quality and tailor-made products and service. We will persevere in strengthening our presence in developed markets, such as Western Europe and the United States, and in intensifying our activities in the fast growing emerging markets where we currently operate, as well as entering new emerging markets where the growth rate is higher than the global average. We will continue to invest in developing new products and offering our customers a broad product portfolio consisting largely of natural products and new innovative products such as functional food ingredients."

Yehudai concluded, "Frutarom continues to be focused on realizing its rapid growth strategy, combining organic growth of core activities at rates above the industry average with strategic acquisitions of activities and know-how in its main fields of business and in strategic geographic regions. The proceeds from the London offering completed last year, together with the successful integration of the activities acquired by Frutarom, form an even more solid base than previously for realizing our rapid growth strategy and for future growth. Our management will continue to invest substantial efforts and resources in identifying and executing potential acquisitions, and in continuing to achieve growth targets in our core activities, which will ensure that we reach our ambitious goals while creating value for our shareholders."

2. VALUATION METHODOLOGY

2.1 Overview of SFAS 141, SFAS 142 and IFRS 3

For financial reporting purposes, SFAS 141, SFAS 142 and IFRS 3 (the "Guidance") provide guidance in allocating the purchase price to the acquired assets and liabilities in business combination, as follows:

Acquiring assets in groups requires not only ascertaining the cost of the asset (or net asset) group, but also allocating that cost to the individual assets (or individual assets and liabilities) that make up the group. A portion of the cost of the group is then assigned to each individual asset (or individual assets or liabilities) acquired on the basis of its fair value. The excess of the cost of the group over the sum of the amounts assigned to the tangible assets, financial assets, and separately recognized intangible assets acquired less liabilities assumed is evidence of unidentified intangible assets – goodwill.

Goodwill shall not be amortized. Goodwill shall be tested for impairment at a level of reporting referred to as a reporting unit. Impairment is the condition that exists when the carrying amount of goodwill exceeds its implied fair value.

Where an entity acquires an intangible asset, the intangible asset is recognized separately if the asset meets the following criteria:

- It is separately identifiable;
- It is a resource that is controlled by the entity;
- It is a probable source of future economic benefits; and
- The fair value of the asset is reliably measurable.

Purchase Price Allocation - Nesse Group

As intangible asset meets the separately identifiable criterion if it is capable of being separated or divided from the entity or arises from contractual or other rights. Ways in which an asset can be separated from the entity include where it can be independently sold, leased, rented or exchanged – either on its own or together with a related contract, asset or liability. Where the separate identifiably is justified by reference to the legal rights, those legal rights are not required to be separable from the entity or from other rights or obligations of the entity. However, legal enforceability of a right is not necessary condition of control.

The control criteria is most commonly considered to be met where there are legal rights attaching to the resource in question that would be enforceable in a court of law. For instance, technical knowledge may be protected by licenses or trademarks, giving the entity legal enforceability of their control over the knowledge.

Not all items that add value to a business combination are eligible for separate recognition as an intangible asset. In determining the amount they are willing to pay for the acquisition of a business the purchaser will take account of a number of factors, not all of which are eligible for recognition as an asset separable from goodwill, because the entity does not control the resource in question – for example, an assembled workforce. Skills or resources embodied in particular persons, or group of persons, do not usually meet the definition of an intangible asset because the entity often has insufficient control over the actions of that person to recognize those skills or resources as a separate asset.

2.2 Description of acquired intangible assets

Potential Intangible Assets that were determined to be separate from goodwill in accordance with the Guidance's were identified through an assessment of the economics of the transaction, a review of documents and materials that were provided by Management, and discussions held with its Management. As a result of our review, we identified two intangible asset categories, which meet the criteria for recognition apart from goodwill under the Guidance, as follows:

- Customer relations
- Know-How

Following is a disclosure of the identified intangible asset categories:

2.2.1 Customer relations

Customer contracts and related customer relationships ("customer relations") include the relationships that the acquired businesses have established with customers that are tied to it through a contract, as well as the potential extension of such contracts/additional relationships that would arise as a result of these contracts, and therefore, meet both the contractual/legal criteria and the separability criterion.

The acquired businesses have a long-term relationship with many European food suppliers. The relationships represent a unique linkage between each customer and the acquired businesses' related products, as each customer has its own tailored suit of products, which is updated continuously according to the changing demand.

Purchase Price Allocation - Nesse Group

The value of a customer base is a benefit from the protection against the loss in revenues and related cash flow as a direct result of the customer relationship. A reasonable value can be placed on Nesse Group's customer relations by quantifying the value of the projected cash flow generation with the acquired businesses' existing customer base in place, as compared to cash flows without the customer base in place. The difference in the cash flows streams, discounted to a present value at a reasonable discount rate, represents the estimated fair value of the relations.

The customer relations amortization will be 10 years (until 2015), based upon Management estimation and past experience for the duration of such relations.

2.2.2 Know-How

Know-How includes trade secrets, such as secret formulas, processes and recipes, accumulated in the acquired businesses. Since the Know-How relates to the spices and additives meets the separability criteria and since it contains a substantial economic value, it should be valued separately from goodwill.

The Know How amortization term will be 20 years (until 2025), based upon Management estimation and past experience for its useful service life in Frutarom operations.

Purchase Price Allocation - Nesse Group

2.2.3 Other intangible assets – grouped

Other intangible assets identified are not considered as separate intangible assets, mainly consist of product brand name and assembled workforce - these intangible assets were identified for the purpose of the valuation analysis but were incorporated as part of goodwill.

Product brand names: end-user recognition and acceptance of a trademark/trade name may be a valuable asset that can be separated from other intangible assets. However, Management is not intending to use the Nesse's brand name.

Assembled workforce: US Financial Accounting Standard No. 141 - Business combination, requires that assembled workforce shall not be recognized as an intangible asset apart from goodwill in a business combination. Nevertheless, assembled workforce was identified separately for the purpose of calculating the appropriate contributory charge needed to arrive at the fair market value of each of the intangible assets on a standalone basis.

2.3 Valuation Methodology

2.3.1 Overview

For the purpose of deriving the fair market value of the identified intangible assets, we obtained financial and legal information, interviewed Management and reviewed published information on the industry. The objective of these procedures was to develop a thorough understanding of the identified intangible assets of the acquired businesses. Based upon this understanding, we have established a basis for determining the fair value of the acquired intangible assets:

- The nature and description of the acquisition.
- Documents and information provided by Management, which describe the characteristics of the acquired businesses.
- The historical financial results of the acquired businesses.
- The future projection for the acquired businesses' assets at the agreement effective date, including financial projections made by Management.
- Interviews and correspondence with Management in order to augment our knowledge of Frutarom and the acquired businesses assets, the nature of their business, factors affecting it, and prospects of the future.
- Published market data and other available public domain information relating to Frutarom and Nesse Group.

When applying valuation techniques for the purposes of assessing the fair value of intangible assets, the objective of fair value measurement must be considered. Accordingly, the assumptions used should reflect market assumptions.

Purchase Price Allocation - Nesse Group

The most common generally accepted valuation methodologies for the purpose of assessing the fair value of intangible assets, include:

- Market methods - value intangible assets by reference to transactions, or benchmarks, involving similar assets that have occurred recently in similar markets.
- Income methods - value intangible assets on the basis of the future economic benefits derived from ownership of the asset. The main income methods include, relief from royalty and excess earnings.

There is a further category of 'hybrid' methods which use elements from more than one method above. These have included in the category to which they are most closely related (e.g. relief from royalty and avoided cost under income methods, replacement cost plus lost profits under cost-based methods).

Listed below are some key criteria, based on common valuation practice, that need to be considered in undertaking a valuation of an intangible asset:

- Credibility - the valuation methodology should be credible and generally accepted from both a theoretical and commercial perspective;
- Objectivity - the choice of methodology may necessitate a trade-off between the intellectual rigour of the methodology and the inherent degree of subjectivity. The valuer must be guided by the quality and quantity of objective information available;
- Versatility - credibility will be enhanced if standard method can be applied across companies, industries and classifications of intangible assets;
- Consistency - the methodologies should be applicable on a consistent basis year on year, and thus facilitate the updating of the valuation.

Purchase Price Allocation - Nesse Group

- Reliability - the valuation should be verifiable, such that other valuers may replicate the process upon similar measurement principles;
- Relevance - the valuation basis and methodology selected should be relevant to the requirements of the user; and
- Practicability - the methods and underlying parameters should be clear and relatively easy to apply in practice.

One of the key elements of any valuation exercise is a thorough understanding of the business which is subject of the transaction. Having done this a valuer will have a better appreciation of the method that may be adopted for the purposes of the valuation exercise and be able to identify the intangible assets that are important to the business. This will assist in applying the appropriate valuation methodology and assessing the information that will be required, subject to availability. In addition it will help in assessing the lives of the intangible assets that are in existence by understanding their nature and importance of the business.

The methods set out above include a number of steps that identify and collate the information to enable the valuer to make an assessment of the fair value of the intangible asset, and may be summarized as follows:

Purchase Price Allocation - Nesse Group

Purchase Price Allocation - Nesse Group

2.3.2 Valuation methods considered

2.3.2.1 Market value method

Under the comparable market value methodology, the value of intangible asset is determined by reference to the prices obtained for comparable asset in recent transactions. The methodology is therefore, theoretically attractive: it is credible, objective and, since the valuation basis is fair value relevant.

Appropriate adjustment for entities using this method should be made by reference to known, quantifiable differences between the transaction being accounted for and the comparable transaction.

The main issues with this methodology are that:

- It use in practice is often limited by scarcity of comparable transactions, and publicly disclosed information on any such transaction; and
- It can be difficult to ensure that the asset under consideration and the market transaction are sufficiently comparable.

Under the comparable market value methodology the fair value of an asset reflects the price at which comparable assets are purchased under similar circumstances. Use of the market value method requires that comparable transaction be available and may include the recent sale price of the same or similar asset, in an arm-length transaction; and the market price for the license of a similar asset to an independent third party.

Purchase Price Allocation - Nesse Group

2.3.2.2 Income methods

For property dedicated to a business enterprise, including intellectual property, future benefits resulting from the use of an asset are preferably measured in terms of income¹. The Income Method does just this, as it values assets based on the present value of the future income streams expected from the asset under consideration. The three parameters that must be quantified are: the future income stream, the duration of the income stream, and the risk associated with the realization of the income stream.

Earning excess Method - According to the excess earnings and premium profits method, the value of an asset is the capitalized amount of incremental profits achievable through use of the intangible asset as compared with the profits of the same business not using it, or the value of an asset is the capitalized amount of earning relating to that asset less the return on all other assets that contribute to that earning stream.

Relief from royalty Method: The Relief from Royalty Method is based on the following premise: a property's value can be measured by what the owner of the property would pay in royalties if it did not own the property and had to license it from a third party (i.e., the licensing costs avoided by virtue of owning the property). Conversely, this method may also quantify the amount of income that the owner would generate by licensing the intellectual property to others. This method requires the determination of projected royalty payments, which are generally derived by applying a reasonable royalty rate to an appropriate base. Often the rate is a percentage applied to net revenues derived from products embodying the intellectual property.

Thus, the royalty base is determined by projecting the expected revenues to be generated throughout the useful life of the intellectual property in question.

Profit apportionment method: The Profit Apportionment Method is a method used in court cases and in certain US IRS regulations to determine a reasonable royalty rate under an arm's-length transaction scenario. This method attempts to evaluate the share of the licensee's anticipated profit a licensor may seek in return for providing the licensee with access to the intellectual property.

2.3.2.3 Cost method

The Cost method values assets based on the cost to create and develop the assets under consideration. Values determined using this method are also viewed as the anticipated cost to replace the subject assets. This valuation method is based on the premise that no party involved in an arm's-length transaction would be willing to pay more to use the property than the cost to replace the property. The Cost Method is often used to value new or relatively new property, or when information needed for other methods is not available. However, the Cost Method may involve several drawbacks for the valuation of certain types of assets. The main limitation of the method is its lack of consideration for all elements of future income and/or profit streams, market conditions, useful life, and the risk associated with receiving future economic benefits. Also, the Cost Method may be appropriate if the technology is narrow in scope and thus easy to replicate or design around.

Purchase Price Allocation - Nesse Group

As applicable, the cost method implemented in this PPA study, determined the fair value of an asset as an estimate of the current cost to purchase or replace the asset. This is based upon the principle of subsituation, which states that a prudent investor would pay no more for an asset than the amount necessary to replace the asset. Replacement cost establishes the highest amount that prudent investor would pay for an asset. To the extent the asset being valued provides less utility than a new asset, the value of that asset would be reduced by the replacement cost. Accordingly, the replacement cost is adjusted for losses in value due to obsolescence.

2.3.3 Selected method

We determined the following methods to be the most appropriate methods for determining the fair value of the identified intangible assets:

Customer relations were valued using the Income Method - Excess Earnings.

Know-How was valued using the Cost Method.

2.3.4 Other factors

Presented below are other factors that we have considered in our analysis

2.3.4.1 Tax considerations

There are two tax considerations in the Income method calculations:

- reduction of projected income by applicable corporate taxes
- an amortization tax benefit for the purchaser

Purchase Price Allocation - Nesse Group

The first tax consideration reduces projected income by approximately 40% - the effective corporate tax rate for Nesse Group, in order to apply income stream, net in computation of fair value.

The second area in which taxes affect the intangible asset value is through an amortization tax benefit; specifically, the amortized tax benefit is the reduction in taxes the purchaser would pay because of the amortization of the purchase price of the intangible asset. The amortization period was estimated to be approximately 20 years.

2.3.4.2 Estimated discount rate for valued Intangible Assets

The discount rate used to discount the expected cash flows should reflect the time value of money and the risks specific to the assets, for which the future cash flows estimates have not been adjusted.

Whichever method an entity adopts for measuring the value in use of an asset, discount rates should not reflect the effects of any risk for which the cash flows have been adjusted (otherwise the effect of some assumptions will be double-counted).

The discounted rate should be calculated on a pre-tax basis. The discounted rate should be an estimate of the rate that the investors would require on an investment generating cash flows of similar amounts and timing, and with a similar risk profile, as those the entity expects to derive from the asset – "Returns".

This Returns, known as Weighted Average Cost of Capital ("WACC") is calculated by weighting the required returns on interest - bearing debt, and common equity capital applicable to the portion in the expected industry capital structure.

Purchase Price Allocation - Nesse Group

Estimates of this rate may be made by reference to:

- The rate implicit in current market transactions for similar assets.
- The weighted average cost of capital of a listed entity that has a single asset similar in terms of service potential and risks to the asset under review.
- The WACC for the entity, but only if adjusted for particular risks associated with the intangible asset.

Following is a specification of the WACC determined for discontinuing cash flows generated from customer contracts and related customer relationships:

The WACC measures a company's cost of debt and equity financing weighed by the percentage of debt and percentage of equity in a company's target capital structure.

Arithmetically, the formula for calculating the after-tax WACC is as follows:

$$WACC = \frac{D}{V} R_D (1 - T) + \frac{E}{V} R_E$$

D = Estimated market value (or book value) of debt

E = Estimated market value of equity

V = D + E

T = assumed tax rate

R_D = cost of debt financing

R_E = cost of equity financing, calculated according to the CAPM methodology

Purchase Price Allocation - Nesse Group

Cost of equity

To estimate the cost of equity financing, an adjusted version of the Capital Asset Pricing Model ("CAPM") was utilized. The CAPM measures the return required by investors given the company's risk profile. This model (as adjusted) is expressed arithmetically by the following equation:

R_f = Risk-free interest rate, typically the yield available on long-term Government Securities.

R_M = Average market rate on return.

$R_M - R_f$ = Equity risk premium expected on an equity investment in a fully diversified portfolio.

β = A measure of a stock's volatility relative to an average risk stock of a fully diversified portfolio of stocks.

R_C = Micro capitalization risk premium

Based on CAPM, the cost of equity was estimated to be 16.2%, as summarized below:

Risk free rate (1)	5%
Equity risk premium (2)	7%
Micro capitalization risk premium (3)	4%
Beta (4)	1.1
Cost of capital	16.2%

(1) Based on US treasury 30 year bond rate.

(2) Incremental return demanded by an average investor Stand & Poors' 500.

(3) Long-term statistics analyses

(4) Selected by analyzing the capital structures and the betas of publicly traded companies in the chemical manufacturing industry.

Purchase Price Allocation - Nesse Group

Cost of debt

We assumed the capital structure to be 65% of equity and 35% debt by analyzing the capital structures of publicly traded companies in the industry. Cost of debt (after-tax) was estimated at a rate of 4.5%

WACC rate

Based on the above analysis, the WACC was estimated to be 12%.

While implementing the Income Method to evaluate different assets, each asset should be discounted in a rate reflecting its own risk. The risk and liquidity of each type of asset being acquired may be greater than, equal to or less than the overall discount rate of the Company (regardless how it was computed).

It is generally appropriate to address this issue by assigning reasonable premiums or discounts to the overall Company's discount rate when valuing specific assets. Individually, each asset requires a higher or lower return specifically related to the risks associated with that asset achieving its estimated cash flows.

The discount rate applied to the valuated items (included added premium or discount) are as follows:

	Discounted rate	Added premium (discount)	Total
Customer relationship	12%	5%	17%
Know-How	12%	5%	17%
Workforce	12%	2%	14%
Fixed assets	12%	(4%)	8%
Working capital	5.5%	-	5.5%

3. DETERMINATION OF FAIR VALUE

3.1 Overview

Management provided us with historical and forecasts of revenues of the acquired businesses.

The revenue forecasts were reviewed for reasonableness and included in our valuation models. Management also provided forecasts of operating expenses. The forecasted structure was compared to actual and historical costs, and was determined to be reasonable.

3.2 Customer relations

The following assumptions were taken into account for preparing such calculation:

- Revenues – according to Management, approximately 22% of the acquired businesses revenue streams are generated from customers which genuine relations, with a yield of 6.1% per annum. The reminder is generated from others, which have a very low loyalty, and accordingly, the sales stream from such customers contains a low economic benefit. The period of which customers remains available to serve the selling operations was determined by Management to 10 years, computed based on the decrease balance method, at a rate of 20% per annum.

Expenses – calculated based on historical data, increasing through the periods consistently according to the revenues increase projections.

- Income taxes – the statutory tax rate in Germany of 40%.
- Contributory charges – as part of our analysis, we determined individual rates of return applicable to each contributory asset and estimated the capital charge to be applied to the valuation.

Purchase Price Allocation - Nesse Group

Capital charges were determined for returns related to the following items:

- Fixed assets – rate of return of 8% was applied on the fixed assets required (as a percent of sales). Based on industry analysis, we assumed a fixed rate of 25%, as a percentage of revenues.
- Working capital – a rate of return on working capital of 5.5% was applied, based on estimated short-term borrowing rate. Based on competitive analysis, we assumed a working capital rate of 17%, as a percent of revenues.
- Workforce – a rate of return on workforce of 14% was applied, based on an "avoided recruiting cost method", as a result of the transfer of Nesse Group employees. We assumed a workforce rate of 10%, as a percent of revenues.
- Know How – a charge of 6.3% of the revenues was applied on the "Know-How" in order to represent the Know-How's contribution to the value of customer relations. We assume Know-How rate of 15%, as a percent of revenues.

Based on the above mentioned assumptions, the fair value of the customer relations, as of the Agreement effective date, was estimated at Euro 1,368 – 1,149 thousands - Exhibits 1 A and 1 B.

3.3 Know-How

We applied the Income Method - Excess Earning, for valuation of Know-How, based upon the following assumptions:

- Revenues - according to Management, approximately 25% of the acquired businesses revenue streams derive from utilizing the Know-How accumulated in Nesse Group with a yield of 6.1% per annum. The remainder derives from other formulas, which are not based on existing Know-How. The period utilizing the Know-How was determined, according to Management estimates, to 20 years, computed based on the decrease balance method, at a rate of 10% per annum.

Purchase Price Allocation - Nesse Group

- Expenses - calculated based on historical data, increasing through the periods consistently according to the revenues increase projections.
- Income taxes - the statutory tax rate in Germany of 40%.
- Contributory charges - as part of our analysis, we determined individual rates of return applicable to each contributory asset and estimated the capital charge to be applied to the valuation.

Capital charges were determined for returns related to the following items:

- Fixed assets – rate of return of 8% was applied on the fixed assets required (as a percent of sales). Based on industry analysis, we assumed a fixed rate of 25%, as a percentage of revenues..
- Working capital – a rate of return on working capital of 5.5% was applied, based on estimated short-term borrowing rate. Based on competitive analysis, we assumed a working capital rate of 17%, as a percent of revenues.
- Workforce – a rate of return on workforce of 14% was applied, based on an "avoided recruiting cost method", as a result of the transfer of Nesse Group employees. We assumed a workforce rate of 10%, as a percent of revenues.
- Customer relations - a charge of 2.6% of the revenues was applied on the customer relations in order to represent the customer relations' contribution to the value of Know-How. We assume customer relations rate of 22%, as a percent of revenues.

Based on the above mentioned assumptions, the fair value of Know-How, as of the Agreement effective date was estimated at Euro 2,897 - 2,281 thousands – Exhibits 2 A and 2 B.

We determined that the most appropriate method for such Know-How valuation is the Cost method – the replacement costs.

The value was based on Management estimates for man-years and related costs required to gain such Know-How, based on its experience.

Purchase Price Allocation - Nesse Group

Based on the above mentioned assumptions, the fair value of the Know-How, as of the Agreement effective date, was estimated at Euro 3,257 thousands - Exhibit 2 C.
