Independent Auditor's Report

Harold Oshima
Oshima & Associates (a proprietorship)
Boston, Massachusetts

I have audited the accompanying statement of financial condition of Oshima & Associates (a proprietorship, the "Company") as of December 31, 2006 and the related statements of income, of changes in equity, and of cash flows for the year then ended that you are filing pursuant to rule 17a-5 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Company's management. My responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on my audit.

I conducted my audit in accordance with U.S. generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that I plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates used by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. I believe that my audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In my opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Oshima & Associates (a proprietorship) at December 31, 2006, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the year then ended in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

December 31, 2006

A. Securities dealer registration and nature of operations

Oshima & Associates (the "Company") is a proprietorship of Harold Oshima. The Company is registered with the National Association of Securities Dealers and the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") as a broker/dealer in securities. In order to continue this status, the Company is required to maintain net capital, as defined by the SEC, of in excess of $5,000. At December 31, 2006, net capital was $13,464.

As a broker/dealer, the Company receives commission revenue from the sale of securities and mutual funds and from advisory fees. Fees are also charged for tax and financial advisory services. By engaging the services of another broker/dealer, on a fully-disclosed basis, and acting solely as an "introducing broker", the Company does not hold customer securities, execute transactions for customers, or perform custodial functions for customers.

A substantial portion of the Company's revenues is derived from clients residing in Massachusetts, and a downturn in the state's economy could have an effect on the Company.

B. Significant accounting policies

The Company's financial statements are presented in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles. Significant accounting policies employed in the preparation of these financial statements include:

Estimates: The process of preparing financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires the use of estimates and assumptions regarding certain types of assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses. Such estimates primarily relate to unsettled transactions and events as of the date of the financial statements. Accordingly, upon settlement, actual results may differ from estimates.

Commission revenue and expense are recognized as the transactions that give rise to the income and expense close.

Unrealized holding gains and losses arise from changes in the value of available-for-sale securities. These gains and losses are included in other comprehensive income.

Depreciation on computers is computed on the straight-line basis, over the 5-year estimated useful lives of the assets.

C. Operating lease from related party

Office space has been provided under a tenancy-at-will, with rent of $1,709 per month, plus utilities.

D. Deposit with correspondent broker

Because the Company does not handle customer securities or trades directly, it has entered into a relationship with a clearing, or correspondent, broker. As part of the terms of its contract with this broker, it maintains with them a $582 deposit, held in a money-market fund. Interest earned on this account inures to the benefit of the Company.

E. Investment in marketable security

The Company's investments in marketable securities are held for an indefinite period and thus are classified as available-for-sale. Available-for-sale securities are recorded at fair value in investments and other assets on the balance sheet, with the change in fair value during the period included in other comprehensive income for the period. Cost and fair value of the securities – stocks and mutual funds – were $21,955 and $17,446, respectively, at December 31, 2006.

F. Income taxes

As a proprietorship, all income of the Company is taxed to Harold Oshima. Therefore, no provision is shown for federal or state income taxes in the financial statements.

Independent Auditor's Report

Harold Oshima
Oshima & Associates (a proprietorship)
Boston, Massachusetts

In planning and performing my audit of the financial statements of Oshima & Associates (a proprietorship, the "Company") and supplemental schedule for the year ended December 31, 2007, I considered its internal control structure, including procedures for safeguarding securities, in order to determine my auditing procedures for the purposes of expressing my opinion on the financial statements, and not to provide assurance on the internal control structure.

Also, as required by Rule 17a-5(g)(1) of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), I have made a study of the practices and procedures followed by the Company, including practices and procedures that I considered relevant to the objectives stated in Rule 17a-5(g) in making periodic computations of aggregate indebtedness (or aggregate debits) and net capital under Rule 17a-3(11) and for determining compliance with the exemptive provisions of Rule 15c3 3. Because the Company does not carry securities accounts for customers or perform custodial functions relating to customer securities, I did not review the practices and procedures followed by the Company in any of the following:

1. Making quarterly securities examinations, counts, verifications, and comparisons
2. Recordation of differences required by Rule 17a-13
3. Complying with the requirements for prompt payment for securities under Section 8 of Federal Reserve Regulation T of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System.

The management of the company is responsible for establishing and maintaining an internal control structure and the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph. In fulfilling this responsibility, estimates and judgments by management are required to assess the expected benefits and related costs of internal control structure, policies and procedures and of the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph and to assess whether those practices and procedures can be expected to achieve the SEC's above-mentioned objectives. Two of the objectives of an internal control structure and the practices and procedures are to provide management with reasonable, but not absolute, assurance that assets for which management has responsibility are safeguarded against loss from unauthorized use or disposition and that transactions are executed in accordance with management's authorization and recorded properly to permit preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. Rule 17a-5(g) lists additional objectives of practices and procedures listed in the preceding paragraph.

Because of inherent limitations in any internal control structure or the practices and procedures referred to above, errors or irregularities may occur and not be detected. In addition, projection of any evaluation of them to future periods is subject to the risks that they may become inadequate because of changes in conditions or that the effectiveness of their design and operation may deteriorate.

My consideration of the internal control structure would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control structure that might be material weaknesses under standards established by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of the specific elements does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that errors or irregularities in amounts that would be material in relation to the financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned function. However, I noted no matters involving the internal control structure, including procedures for safeguarding securities, that I consider to be material weaknesses as defined above.

I understand that practices and procedures that accomplish the objectives referred to in the second paragraph of this report are considered by the SEC to be adequate for its purposes in accordance with the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and related regulations, and that practices and procedures that do not accomplish such objective in all material respects indicate a material inadequacy for such purposes. Based on this understanding and on my study, I believe that the Company's practices and procedures were adequate at December 31, 2006 to meet the Commission's objectives.

This report is intended solely for the use of the Board of Directors, management, the SEC, the New York Stock Exchange, and other regulatory agencies that rely on Rule 17a-5(g) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 in their regulation of brokers and dealers, and should not be used for any other purpose.
