Independent Auditor's Report

February 6, 2007

To the Board of Directors
Baxter Financial Corporation
Boca Raton, Florida

We have audited the accompanying balance sheet of Baxter Financial Corporation as of December 31, 2006, and the related statements of income, changes in stockholder's equity, and cash flows for the year then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Company's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Baxter Financial Corporation as of December 31, 2006, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the year then ended in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

Our audit was conducted for the purpose of forming an opinion on the basic financial statements taken as a whole. The information contained in the schedule on page 6, and the statement on page 7, is presented for purposes of additional analysis and is not a required part of the basic financial statements but is supplementary information required by Rules 17a-5 and 15c3-3 of the Securities and Exchange Commission. Such information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the basic financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the basic financial statements taken as a whole.

See accompanying notes.

Baxter Financial Corporation
Notes To Financial Statements
Year ended December 31, 2006

Note 1      Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Nature of Business

Baxter Financial Corporation was incorporated on September 26, 1988, under the laws of the State of Florida. The corporation was organized to provide investment management and advisory services to registered investment companies and others.

Revenues

The Company provides investment advisory and administrative services (see Note 2) to Philadelphia Fund, Inc., and Eagle Growth Shares, Inc., for an annual fee. The fee, paid monthly, is based on the month-end net asset value of the funds.

Amortization

Intangible assets are amortized on a straight-line basis over 3 and 20 years. (See Note 3)

Depreciation

Office furniture and equipment is depreciated using accelerated methods over the estimated useful lives of 5 and 7 years.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

For the purposes of the Statement of Cash Flows, the Company considers all highly liquid instruments purchased with a maturity of three months or less to be cash equivalents.

Income Taxes

The Company, with the consent of its shareholder, has elected under the Internal Revenue Code to be an S corporation. In lieu of corporation income taxes, the shareholder of an S corporation is taxed on the Company's adjusted net income. Therefore, no provision or liability for federal income taxes has been included in the financial statements.

Baxter Financial Corporation
Notes To Financial Statements
Year ended December 31, 2006

Note 2            Distribution Plan

The Philadelphia Fund, Inc. has adopted an amended distribution plan with the Company pursuant to Rule 12b-1 of the Investment Company Act of 1940, which permits the use of fund assets to pay for expenses of distributing shares of the fund. The plan provides that the fund may make payment to the Company in an amount not greater than ½ of 1% of the average net asset value of the fund calculated monthly. A component of the 12b-1 fee (1/4 of 1% of the fund's average net assets) may be used to pay for shareholder services, which includes advice and information regarding share accounts; applications; use of the prototype retirement plans of the fund; assistance with questions or problems regarding the fund's transfer agent as well as other information and services.

The remainder of the 12b-1 income may be used to pay brokers and dealers for distribution, advertising, registration, and promotional expenses associated with the sale of fund shares. For the year ended December 31, 2006, included in revenue is $129,105 associated with this distribution plan. (See Note 5)

Note 3            Intangible Assets

Intangible assets consist of the following:

	Cost	Amortization	Life
Investment advisory rights	$ 650,000	$ 583,646	20 Years
Covenant not to compete	650,000	650,000	3 Years
Organization costs	40,326	36,767	20 Years
	$ 1,340,326	$ 1,270,413

Note 4            Operating Lease

The Company leases office space on a month-to-month basis. Rent includes the base rent, common area maintenance, and sales tax. The monthly rent and common area maintenance for the year ended December 31, 2006 was $ 65,912.

Baxter Financial Corporation
Notes To Financial Statements
Year ended December 31, 2006

Note 5      Major Source Of Income

The Company's sole stockholder and chief executive officer is also the president and director of the Philadelphia Fund, Inc. Income is derived pursuant to an Investment Advisory Agreement, which was entered into on January 1, 1989, and the Amended Distribution Plan (more fully described in Note 2). These agreements are subject to renewal on an annual basis by a majority vote of the Board of Directors of the Philadelphia Fund, Inc. The current agreements are in effect through March 31, 2007. For the year ended December 31, 2006, approximately 94% of total revenues were attributed to the Philadelphia Fund, Inc.

To the Board of Directors
Baxter Financial Corporation
Boca Raton, Florida

In planning and performing our audit of the financial statements of Baxter Financial Corporation for the year ended December 31, 2006, we considered its internal control structure, including procedures for safeguarding securities, in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control structure.

The management of the Company is responsible for establishing and maintaining an internal control structure and the practices and procedures required by Rule 17a-5(g) of the Securities and Exchange Commission. In fulfilling this responsibility, estimates and judgements by management are required to assess the expected benefits and related costs of internal control structure policies and procedures and of the practices and procedures referred to in Rule 17a-5(g) and to assess whether these practices and procedures can be expected to achieve the Commission's objectives in Rule 17a-5(g). Two of the objectives of an internal control structure and the practices and procedures are to provide management with reasonable, but not absolute, assurance that assets for which the Company has responsibility are safeguarded against loss from unauthorized use or disposition and that transactions are executed in accordance with management's authorization and recorded properly to permit preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. Rule 17a-5(g) lists additional objectives of the practices and procedures listed in the preceding paragraph.

Because of inherent limitations in any internal control structure or the practices and procedures referred to above, errors or irregularities may occur and not be detected. Also, projection of any evaluation of them to future periods is subject to the risk that they may become inadequate because of changes in conditions or that the effectiveness of their design and operation may deteriorate.

Our consideration of the internal control structure would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control structure that might be material weaknesses under standards established by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of the specific internal control structure elements does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that errors or irregularities in amounts that would be material in relation to the financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions.

However, we noted no matters involving the internal control structure, including procedures for safeguarding securities that we consider to be material weaknesses as defined above.

We understand that practices and procedures that accomplish the objectives referred to in the second paragraph of this report are considered by the Commission to be adequate for its purposes in accordance the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and related regulations, and that practices and procedures that do not accomplish such objectives in all material respects indicate a material inadequacy for such purposes. Based on this understanding and on our study, we believe that the Company's practices and procedures were adequate at December 31, 2006, to meet the Commissions objectives.

To The Board of Directors
Baxter Financial Corporation

In planning and performing our audit of the financial statements of Baxter Financial Corporation as of and for the year ended December 31, 2006, we considered its internal control to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements and not to provide assurance on internal control. Our consideration of internal control would not necessarily disclose all matters in internal control that might be material weaknesses under standards established by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of one or more of the internal control components does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that errors or irregularities in amounts that would be material in relation to the financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. However, we noted no matters involving internal control and its operations that we consider to be material weaknesses as defined above.

This report is intended solely for the information and use of the board of directors, management, and others within the organization and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these specified parties.
