NOTES TO STATEMENT OF FINANCIAL CONDITION
DECEMBER 31, 2006

Note A – Organization and Significant Accounting Policies

Nature of Business

Imperial Investments Ltd., (the "Company"), is a securities broker-dealer servicing both institutional and retail clients.

Use of Estimates

The preparation of the financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts and the disclosure of contingencies in the financial statements. Actual results could differ from the estimates included in the financial statements.

Revenue Recognition

The Company generates its revenues principally by providing securities trading and brokerage services. Revenues for these services are transaction based. As a result, the Company's revenues could vary based on the performance of the financial markets.

Securities transactions and related expenses are recorded on a trade date basis. The Company clears all securities transactions through Goldman Sachs, on a fully disclosed basis.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

The Company considers all highly liquid debt instruments with three months or less to maturity at the date of purchase to be cash equivalents.

Income Taxes

Furniture and equipment are depreciated to the extent permitted by Section 179 of the Internal Revenue Code and thereafter on a straight-line basis based on estimated lives of five years. This acceleration of depreciation on a book basis to conform to income tax returns is not considered to have a material effect on either the Company's financial statements or net capital computations.

The Company has elected to be taxed as a small business corporation (S corporation) pursuant to Subchapter S of the Internal Revenue Code. Accordingly, no provision for income taxes has been included in the financial statements. The stockholder will report any taxable income or loss on his individual income tax return.

Note B – Commitments and Contingencies

The Company uses Goldman Sachs ("Goldman") to clear its securities transactions and to provide custodial and other services for which it pays a fee on a per transaction basis and interest on amounts borrowed. In connection with its clearing agreement, the Company must maintain a minimum deposit with Goldman of $50,000.

Pursuant further to its clearing agreement, customers' money balances and security positions are carried on Goldman's books. Under certain conditions, the Company has agreed to indemnify Goldman for any related losses, if any, that Goldman may sustain. Both the Company and Goldman monitor collateral on securities transactions to minimize exposure to loss.

At December 31, 2006, the Company had net capital of $46,414 which was $21,414 in excess of its required net capital of $25,000. The Company's net capital ratio was 0.5366 to 1.

Note D – Fair Value of Financial Instruments

Financial Accounting Standards Board Statement No. 107. "Disclosures About Fair Value of Financial Instruments" requires that all entities disclose the fair value of financial instruments, as defined, for both assets and liabilities recognized and not recognized in the statement of financial condition. The Company's financial instruments, as defined, are carried at approximate fair value.

Note E – Employee Benefit Plan

Imperial Investments Ltd.
Wilton, CT

Dear Sirs:

In planning and performing our audit of the financial statements of Imperial Investments Ltd. (the "Company"), for the year ended December 31, 2006, we considered its internal control structure, including procedures for safeguarding securities, in order to determine our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the financial statements and not to provide assurance on the internal control structure.

Also, as required by Rule 17a-5(g)(1) of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), we have made a study of the practices and procedures followed by the Company including tests of such practices and procedures that we considered relevant to the objectives stated in rule 17a-5(a)(g) in making the periodic computations of aggregate indebtedness (or aggregate debits) and net capital under rule 17a-3(a)(11) and for determining compliance with the exemptive provisions of Rule 15c3-3. Because the Company does not carry securities accounts for customers or perform custodial functions relating to customer securities, we did not review the practices and procedures followed by the Company in any of the following:

1. Making quarterly securities examinations, counts, verifications and comparisons
2. Recordation of differences required by Rule 17a-13
3. Complying with the requirements for prompt payment for securities under Section 8 of Federal Reserve Regulation T of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System.

The management of the Company is responsible for establishing and maintaining an internal control structure and the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph. In fulfilling this responsibility, estimates and judgments by management are required to assess the expected benefits and related costs of internal control structure policies, procedures and of the practices referred to in the preceding paragraph and to assess whether those practices and procedures can be expected to achieve the SEC's above-mentioned objectives.

Two of the objectives of an internal control structure and the practices and procedures are to provide management with reasonable, but not absolute assurance that assets for which the Company has responsibility are safeguarded against loss from unauthorized use or disposition, and that transactions are executed in accordance with management's authorization and recorded properly to permit the preparation of financial statements in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. Rule 17a-5(g) lists additional objectives of the practices and procedures listed in the preceding paragraph.

Because of inherent limitations in any internal control structure or the practices and procedures referred to above, errors or irregularities may nevertheless occur and not be detected. Also, projection of any evaluation of them to future periods is subject to the risk that they may become inadequate because if changes in conditions or that the effectiveness of their design and operation may deteriorate.

Our consideration of the internal control structure would not necessarily disclose all matters in the internal control structure that might be material weaknesses under standards established by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. A material weakness is a condition in which the design or operation of the specific internal control structure elements does not reduce to a relatively low level the risk that errors or irregularities in amounts that would be material in relation to the financial statements being audited may occur and not be detected within a timely period by employees in the normal course of performing their assigned functions. However, we noted the following condition involving the accounting system and internal control structure:

The size of the business and resultant limited number of employees imposes practical limitations on the effectiveness of those control policies and procedures that depend on the segregation of duties. Because this condition is inherent in the size of the Company, the specific weaknesses are not described herein and no corrective action has been taken or proposed by the Company.

The foregoing condition was considered in determining the nature, timing, and extent of audit procedures to be performed in our audit of the financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2006, and this report does not affect our report thereon dated February 20, 2007.

We understand that practices and procedures that accomplish the objectives referred to in the second paragraph of this report are considered by the SEC to be adequate for its purposes in accordance with the Securities and Exchange Act of 1934 and related regulations, and that practices and procedures that do not accomplish such objectives in all material respects indicate a material inadequacy for such purposes. Based on this understanding and on our study, we believe that the Company's practices and procedures were adequate at December 31, 2006, to meet the SEC's objectives.

This report is intended solely for the information and use of management, the Securities and Exchange Commission, the National Association of Securities Dealers and other regulatory agencies which may rely on Rule 17a-5(g) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 in their regulation of registered brokers and dealers and should not be used for any other purpose.
