2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Cash Equivalents

The Company considers all money market accounts and all highly liquid debt instruments purchased with original maturities of three months or less to be cash equivalents.

Income Taxes

The Company uses the asset and liability method to calculate deferred tax assets and liabilities. Deferred taxes are recognized based on the differences between the financial statement carrying amounts of existing assets and liabilities and their respective tax bases using enacted tax rates expected to apply to taxable income in the years in which those differences are expected to be recovered or settled.

Property and Equipment

Property and equipment are stated at cost less accumulated depreciation and amortization. Depreciation is computed using the straight line method over the estimated useful lives of the assets, which are primarily five years. Amortization of leasehold improvements is computed over the shorter of the lease terms or the estimated useful lives of the improvements.

Use of Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

3. Receivable from Broker, Dealer and Clearing Organization

Receivable from broker, dealer, and clearing organization results from the Company's normal securities transactions.

The Company receives a commission for providing this service. Amounts receivable under this agreement are included in due from affiliates.

In addition, the Company has agreed to share in certain operational expenses of the affiliates incidental to, or arising out of, the brokerage service agreement and the execution of the trades. Such expenses include office space, analytical research, legal and technical support and shared staff. Amounts payable under this agreement are offset against amounts due from affiliates.

The asset and liability under the capital lease was recorded at the present value of the minimum lease payments. The lease carried with it a bargain purchase option in the sum of $100. The telephone equipment has an original cost of $14,726 and is being depreciated over 5 years under the straight-line method. The net book value at September 30, 2007 is $4,148.

The interest rate on the capitalized lease was approximately 15% and was computed based on the lessors implicit rate of return.

	$ 5,630,000

The Company is required to maintain balances of not less than $100,000 with the clearing broker. The deposit is included in receivable from broker, dealer and clearing organization.

10. Net Capital Requirements

The Company is subject to the uniform net capital requirements of Rule 15c3-1 of the Securities and Exchange Commission Act, as amended, which requires a broker-dealer to have, at all times, sufficient liquid assets to cover indebtedness. In accordance with the Rule, the Company is required to maintain defined minimum net capital of the greater of $100,000 or 1/15 of aggregate indebtedness. At no time may the ratio of aggregate indebtedness to net capital exceed 15 to 1.

At September 30, 2007, the Company had net capital, as defined, of $5,234,958, which exceeded the required minimum net capital of $100,000 by $5,134,958. Aggregate indebtedness at September 30, 2007 totaled $97,107. The ratio of aggregate indebtedness to net capital was .02 to 1.

11. Off-Balance-Sheet Risk and Concentration of Credit Risk

In the normal course of business, the Company's customer activities involve the execution, settlement, and financing of various securities transactions. These activities may expose the Company to off-balance-sheet credit risk in the event the customer or other party is unable to fulfill its contractual obligations.

The Company seeks to control off-balance-sheet credit risk by monitoring the market value of securities held or given as collateral in compliance with regulatory and internal guidelines. Pursuant to such guidelines, the Company requires additional collateral or reduction of positions, when necessary. The Company also completes credit evaluations of customers, particularly institutions, where there is thought to be credit risk.

The Company, as a part of its normal trading activities, may assume short positions in its inventories. The establishment of short positions exposes the Company to off-balance-sheet risk in the event prices increase, as the Company may be obligated to acquire the securities at prevailing market prices.

The Company does not maintain margin accounts for its customers and, therefore, there were no excess margin securities. However, the Company may be liable for chargebacks on introduced customer accounts carried by the clearing broker. In addition, the Company may be exposed to off-balance-sheet risk in the event the clearing broker is unable to fulfill its contractual obligations.

The Company maintains cash at a bank in excess of FDIC insured limits and is exposed to the credit risk resulting from this concentration.

12. Concentration

The Company's commission income is derived primarily from activity with foreign affiliated entities pursuant to a brokerage service agreement whose trades are concentrated in the Russian capital markets.

13. Operating Deficiencies

The Company's parent has indicated that it intends to fund any future financing or operating deficiencies in order to keep the Company in compliance with minimum net capital requirements.

14. Employee Contracts

The Company has entered into individual employment agreements with an officer and an employee. These agreements provide for guaranteed bonuses in the aggregate amount of $1,200,000 to be paid in periods, subsequent to September 30, 2007, unless employment is terminated voluntarily or by the Company due to gross misconduct of employment duties.

The Company's Statement of Financial Condition as of September 30, 2007 is available for examination at the office of the Company and at the Regional Office of the Securities and Exchange Commission.
