Wolters Kluwer Selects Divestment as Preferred Option for Education Division
Outcome of review of strategic alternatives for the division announced in September 2006

Amsterdam (March 16, 2007) - Wolters Kluwer, a leading global information services company and publisher, today announced that the company, after careful consideration, has decided that it will further pursue a divestment as the preferred option for the Education division of Wolters Kluwer. This decision follows the announcement on September 27, 2006, that Wolters Kluwer would begin exploring strategic options for its Education business.

As previously announced, given the strong position of the Education business and its solid plans for future growth, as well as the strategic direction of Wolters Kluwer, the management of Wolters Kluwer concluded that it was an opportune time to explore alternatives for its Education business. Wolters Kluwer has now reached the conclusion that pursuing a divestment of the Education division is the preferred option since it will provide the business with the best opportunities for future expansion and enhance shareholder value.

Wolters Kluwer Education holds leading positions in primary, secondary, and vocational education in seven European countries - the Netherlands, Sweden, the United Kingdom, Germany, Belgium, Austria, and Hungary - and has approximately 1,450 employees. With its highly respected brands, the business is well-positioned in its markets.
