RENTOKIL INITIAL DEVELOPS ITS TROPICAL PLANTS BUSINESS TO GEAR UP FOR GROWTH IN WORKPLACE ENVIRONMENTS MARKET

Rentokil Tropical Plants, the world's largest provider of plants, replica foliage and flowers for commercial environments, today announces a new global brand name, Ambius, and a development programme for the business.

By the end of 2007, Ambius, which grew revenues by 4.1% to £106.6m in 2006, will have a single global brand, greater market profile and additional revenue streams through the expansion of its product range. The new brand will be officially launched on 19 March. The UK will be the first market to experience the brand, followed by launches in 15 other countries across four continents.

The new brand name will better reflect the company's extended service portfolio which will build on the company's 21 years' experience of designing, installing and servicing interior plants.

The expanded product portfolio, to become available in all markets, will include the provision of ambient scenting, corporate artwork and other products that improve workplace environments and employee well being. For instance, in the UK, the brand will shortly launch a range of 'acoustic artwork' which not only enhances office environments visually, but also dampens background noise in open plan offices, together enhancing the workplace for employees.

The launch of the Ambius brand name is part of a programme to focus brands within the Rentokil Initial organisation on their core strengths. Today, the Rentokil brand is focused on pest control, Initial is focused on cleaning and facilities, and City Link is focused on parcel delivery.

Doug Flynn, Chief Executive Officer, Rentokil Initial, comments: 'This new initiative will deliver a powerful and consistent brand presence, and introduce a wider range of services to maximise its potential. In particular, Ambius will target those large scale international organisations which operate across borders. This is a market leading business and today's announcement is another example of our company investing for growth.'

Jeff Mariola, Managing Director, Ambius, said: 'As the market leader, Rentokil remains a strong brand for pest control but its association was not right for the expert design and servicing of plants and other products which have proven benefits in enhancing workplaces.'

'Fuelled by growing demand and interest in products that create harmonious environments, we will begin offering these additional services to our 80,000+ customer base.'

'A new global brand identity, that reflects our wider portfolio and accommodates future growth, will help us to build on our market leading position in the USA to create an equally strong company in Europe.'

INITIAL ELECTRONIC SECURITY GROUP: OFFER FROM UTC

Rentokil Initial plc (LSE: RTO) announces an offer from United Technologies Corporation (NYSE: UTX) for its electronic security division. UTC's offer values Initial Electronic Security Group ('IESG') at £595 million. The offer consideration is payable in cash at closing.

Closing of the transaction is conditional upon a limited number of items including regulatory approvals and consultations with employee works councils in France and the Netherlands. These will be sought and take place over the next several weeks with a view to completing a transaction before the end of June. Proceeds will be used to reduce debt.

Doug Flynn, Chief Executive of Rentokil Initial, said today:

'This offer for our electronic security businesses represents good value for Rentokil Initial shareholders.

'Over the past 18 months we have been actively reshaping Rentokil Initial's business portfolio, investing particularly in businesses where we have or can achieve market leading positions. We have therefore made successful acquisitions in pest control and parcel delivery and in our Asia Pacific businesses and sold businesses in conferences and manned guarding. Completing this transaction will be a significant step towards focusing our resources on those businesses where we are best positioned to create additional value for shareholders.'

Bill Brown, president of UTC Fire & Security, a unit of United Technologies Corp., said today:

'IESG is an excellent strategic fit with our electronic security business. The addition of IESG will strengthen our presence in Europe, particularly in the U.K., Netherlands and France, while adding branch locations in the U.S. The combined businesses position us well for further growth and expansion, and brings additional value to our customers, shareholders and employees. We are looking forward to welcoming IESG employees to UTC Fire & Security.'

Rentokil Initial is being advised by Greenhill & Co. International LLP.
