OptiCast to Provide CS Digital Multichannel Broadcasts to a Cable Television Station in Ena-shi, Gifu Prefecture

OptiCast Inc. (Head Office: Shibuya-ku, Tokyo; President and Representative Director: Keiichiro Demizu; "OptiCast") is pleased to announce the launch of the HIKARI PerfecTV!¹ CS digital multichannel broadcasting service that uses part of the optical fiber network bandwidth owned by amixcom Co., Ltd. (Head Office: Ena-shi, Gifu Prefecture; President and Representative Director: Yoshihito Ito; "amixcom") from April 1, 2007. Amixcom is a licensed operator of cable television broadcasting facilities that is planning to offer cable television services in some parts of Ena-shi, Gifu.

This will involve the provision of the HIKARI PerfecTV! service over part of the optical fiber network bandwidth available on the network established jointly by amixcom and Ena-shi. Pending licensing by the Ministry of Internal Affairs and Communications' Tokai Bureau of Telecommunications, amixcom will use the retransmission of terrestrial digital and analog broadcasts and FM radio broadcasts to not only offer a multichannel broadcasting service that will provide access to some 250 channels over a optical fiber network from April 1, 2007, but to also retransmit terrestrial digital broadcasts.

Under the Law Concerning Broadcast on Telecommunications Services, OptiCast has to date been deploying CS digital multichannel broadcasting services using the optical fiber networks owned by telecommunications carriers. This next deployment in Ena-shi, Gifu in conjunction with a cable television operator under the Cable Television Broadcast Law which involves the provision of video distribution services through a channel leasing arrangement, is the third such arrangement following partnerships with Cable City Yokohama, who operate primarily in the Minato Mirai 21 district, and Achi-mura in Nagano Prefecture, who are actively promoting a local government digitization project, and is the first public-private sector venture.

The HIKARI PerfecTV! service fee structure will include a registration fee of 2,940 yen (changed once only at the time of subscription), a basic monthly fee of 410 yen, a set-top box rental charge of 315 yen, the Basic Pack subscription fee of 2,100 yen (all amounts are inclusive of consumption tax), with the monthly charges for the subscriber's chosen channels being charged on top of this. At the time of its launch, this service is due to be provided to detached homes in some parts of Ena-shi (approximately 9,100 households).

Triple-play service will also be made available in Ena-shi, Gifu. Triple-play service includes multichannel broadcasting, an Internet connection service capable of providing uplink and downlink speeds of up to 100 Mbps, and optical IP telephone services, which are due to commence from October onwards.

OptiCast plans to continue to make wired broadcasting services available in diverse forms, such as through channel leasing arrangements, in the future to cater to the needs of local areas.

*1 From April 2006, OptiCast changed the name of the optical-fiber multichannel service from "HIKARI PerfecTV!," which had been used previously, to "SKY PerfecTV! HIKARI," but the multichannel broadcast service operated in conjunction with amixcom Co., Ltd. in Ena-shi, Gifu, the multichannel broadcast service that uses the optical fiber networks owned by Achi-mura, Nagano, and the multichannel broadcasting service in Fukuyama-shi, Hiroshima, that is jointly operated with Energia Communications, Inc. will remain under the name of "HIKARI PerfecTV!".
