Tate & Lyle News Announcement

Tate & Lyle PLC - Cessation of Production at Selby

Tate & Lyle PLC

Tate & Lyle PLC - 16 August 2007

Astaxanthin Partners Ltd to cease Astaxanthin production at Selby facility.

Tate & Lyle announces today that Astaxanthin Partners Ltd, its joint venture with Igene Biotechnology Inc., intends to cease production of Astaxanthin at the Tate & Lyle site in Selby, North Yorkshire. Additionally, Tate & Lyle is in discussions with its joint venture partner concerning Tate & Lyle's exit from this loss making business.

Consultation with employees has now begun and will last 30 days. Closure would affect 45 jobs at the Selby site. Subject to employee consultation, it is planned that Astaxanthin production will cease at the end of September 2007. Tate & Lyle's share of the operating loss of Astaxanthin for the year to 31 March 2007 was £3 million. Tate & Lyle's share of cash closure costs are estimated at £3 million. An impairment charge on Tate & Lyle's investment in Astaxanthin Partners Ltd was taken in the financial year to 31 March 2007.

Stanley Musesengwa, Chief Operating Officer, said: 'The difficult decision to begin the consultation process follows a full review of the business and its profitability for the foreseeable future. This decision is not a reflection of the hardworking employees we have at the site and every effort was made to secure the future of the plant. The business has faced pressures due to escalating raw material prices resulting from changes in the EU Sugar Regime and higher energy costs. Unfortunately an increasing cost base coupled with a falling selling price means that production of Astaxanthin at the Selby site is no longer commercially viable.'

Tate & Lyle will help those colleagues potentially affected to seek suitable alternative employment. This will include the provision of on-site job shop facilities staffed by independent professional counsellors.

Tate & Lyle PLC - Investment

Tate & Lyle PLC

Tate & Lyle announces investment in sugar joint venture in the People's Democratic Republic of Lao

Tate & Lyle announces today a £2 million investment to acquire a 10% shareholding in Mittr Lao Sugar, a joint venture with leading Asian sugar manufacturer, Mittr Phol Group. Mittr Lao Sugar plans to invest a total of £58 million to produce sugar in the People's Democratic Republic of Lao ('Lao PDR'). Mittr Lao Sugar will grow sugar cane and construct and operate a new sugar mill in the Savannakhet region of Lao PDR. The mill will have an initial capacity of 5,000 tonnes rising to 10,000 tonnes of cane per day. Lao PDR will be eligible to export sugar duty free into the EU under the Everything But Arms initiative with effect from 1 July 2009. Raw sugar shipped to the EU by Mittr Lao Sugar will be refined by Tate & Lyle.

Ian Bacon, Chief Executive of Tate & Lyle's Sugars, Europe division, said: 'I am delighted to announce this joint venture with our partner Mittr Phol Group, with whom we have worked for many years in Asia. By joining forces we have created a valuable investment and secured a reliable, long-term supply of raw sugar to our refineries in the EU. This is a good example of how Tate & Lyle is responding to changes in the EU sugar market.'
