Several of Keyera's sour gas plants rely on acid gas injection to dispose of the hydrogen sulphide and other waste products removed during processing. Acid gas injection involves the injection and sequestration of carbon dioxide and hydrogen sulphide into depleted underground reservoirs. The sustainability of this particular process is dependent upon the availability of suitable reservoirs. If suitable reservoirs were to become unavailable, alternate processes would be required, the capacity of the plant could be reduced or expenditures required to replace the lost capacity would be necessary. These alternatives would have an adverse affect on cash flow.

In addition to the operation of plant, pipeline and storage facilities, Keyera also conducts NGL marketing and crude oil midstream businesses. These businesses utilize facilities owned by Keyera to process, store and transport products that have been purchased from third parties.

Cash flows from operating activities are determined primarily by the quantity and composition of product throughput at the facility and the fee structure. Throughput is influenced by the ongoing development activities of numerous third parties who may increase production volumes by drilling new wells, tying in previously drilled wells, completing new zones in existing wells or enhancing production volumes through stimulation or enhanced recovery techniques. If third parties are unsuccessful in their development activities, Keyera's cash flow could be adversely affected despite having physical capacity available. Growth capital expenditures are generally undertaken to expand capture areas, add new capacity or introduce new services. If Keyera is unsuccessful in extending capture areas or adding new capacity and services, cash flow from operating activities may be reduced, thereby adversely affecting distributions.

Standard and Poor's has assigned the Fund an SR-3 stability rating, indicating the expectation of a high level of stability in distributions.

Additional information on the capacities and constraints related to Keyera's plants, other risks and trends that could affect the financial performance of Keyera and the steps taken to mitigate these risks, readers are referred to the descriptions in this MD&A and to Keyera's 2007 Annual Information Form, which is available on SEDAR.

Units and Convertible Debentures

During the third quarter of 2007, $0.2 million of convertible debentures (before adjustment for deferred financing costs) were converted into 16,747 trust units and 47,057 trust units were issued under the DRIP in consideration of $0.8 million, bringing the total units outstanding at September 30, 2007 to 61,168,668. Convertible debentures outstanding at September 30, 2007 were $22.0 million.

FUND REORGANIZATION

Keyera proposed a reorganization of its legal structure that was presented in the Management's Discussion and Analysis for the quarter ended March 31, 2007 and is described in detail in Keyera's Notice of Meeting and Proxy Statement and Information Circular, which was filed on SEDAR (www.sedar.com) on May 8, 2007. The intent of the reorganization is to streamline the existing legal structure and simplify accounting, legal reporting and income tax compliance, thereby reducing the general and administrative costs associated with these activities. Unitholders approved the reorganization at the annual and special Meeting of Unitholders on June 6, 2007.

Due to the interpretation of the legislation implementing the new tax on flow-through entities, Keyera has amended its advance ruling request to the CRA. The amended reorganization will not result in any significant immediate tax savings within Keyera's structure, but will permit Keyera to defer the utilization of some tax pools until after January 1, 2011. Assuming the CRA issues a favorable advance ruling request on a timely basis, the amended reorganization is expected to be implemented in early 2008, Keyera plans to reduce the use of its available tax deductions in years 2008 through to 2010, thereby increasing deductions available for the years after 2010.

Distributions to Canadian residents are expected to be approximately 50% to 70% return of capital in 2007, with distributions becoming largely or fully taxable in 2008 for Canadian non-exempt unitholders.

Accounting Matters and Controls

Critical accounting policies

Our unaudited Interim Consolidated Financial Statements have been prepared in accordance with Canadian GAAP. The changes in accounting policies are described in Note 3 to our unaudited Interim Consolidated Financial Statements and Note 2 of our 2006 Annual Report.

Changes in accounting policies

On January 1, 2007, we adopted the following CICA handbook sections:

- Section 1530, Comprehensive Income;
- Section 3251, Equity;
- Section 3855, Financial Instruments - Recognition and Measurement;

- Section 3861, Financial Instruments - Presentation and Disclosure; and
- Section 3865, Hedges

The new accounting standards address the classification, recognition and measurement and presentation and disclosure of financial instruments in the financial statements and require the inclusion of comprehensive income. As well, the new standards expand the definition of derivatives to include both financial and non-financial contracts.

Upon adoption of these new accounting standards, financial assets and liabilities are initially recognized at fair value and are subsequently accounted for based on their classification. Gains and losses on financial instruments measured at fair value are recognized in net earnings in the period in which they arise.

As of January 1, 2007, Keyera recorded $3.3 million as an asset held for trading and $0.1 million as a liability held for trading to recognize the fair value of the existing natural gas and electricity contracts previously designated as hedging items, as well as the fair value of all fixed price physical contracts not previously recognized. A corresponding adjustment was made to opening accumulated earnings. Subsequent changes in the fair value of the positions were recorded in net earnings.

The changes in accounting policies were applied prospectively, where applicable. Comparative figures have not been restated. For further details, see Note 3 to the interim consolidated financial statements.

Future changes in accounting policies

In 2006, the CICA issued three new accounting standards: Section 1535, Capital Disclosures; Section 3862, Financial Instruments - Disclosures; and Section 3863, Financial Instruments - Presentation. These new standards will be effective for the Fund on January 1, 2008. Section 1535 establishes new disclosures of capital including disclosing information regarding capital objectives, policies and processes for managing capital. Section 3862 and 3863 replace Section 3861, revising and enhancing disclosure requirements.

In June 2007, the CICA issued a new accounting standard, Section 3031, Inventories. This new standard replaces Section 3030 modifying the guidance concerning the scope, measurement and allocation of costs for inventory. This standard will be effective for the Fund on January 1, 2008.

Internal control over financial reporting

No changes were made in our internal control over financial reporting during the interim period ended September 30, 2007 that have materially affected, or are reasonably likely to materially affect, our internal control over financial reporting.

Investor Information

Taxability of Distributions

Keyera currently anticipates that, for Canadian residents, approximately 50% to 70% of the Fund's 2007 distributions will be deemed a tax-deferred return of capital, with distributions becoming largely or fully taxable for Canadian non-exempt unitholders in 2008. This outlook is affected by Keyera's organizational structure and the implementation of the proposed internal reorganization, which was approved by Unitholders in June. This outlook is subject to change, depending on the levels of profitability and capital expenditures in each of Keyera's operating entities. Both Canadian and non-resident unitholders should seek independent tax advice in respect of the consequences to them of acquiring, holding and disposing of units. Factors that could affect the performance of the Fund and the taxability of the distributions are discussed in the Fund's Annual Information Form.

Supplementary Information

A breakdown of Keyera's operational and financial results, including volumetric and contribution information by major business unit, is available on our website at www.keyera.com under Investor Information, Financial Information.

In the third quarter, Keyera realigned its Gathering and Processing assets into new business regions, the Foothills Region and the North Central Region. To assist in analysis, Keyera has reformatted its historical supplementary information to conform to the new business regions.

1. Structure of the Fund

Keyera Facilities Income Fund (the "Fund") is an unincorporated open-ended trust established under the laws of the Province of Alberta pursuant to the Fund Declaration of Trust dated April 3, 2003. The Fund indirectly owns a 100% interest in Keyera Energy Partnership (the "Partnership").

The Partnership is involved in the business of natural gas gathering and processing, as well as natural gas liquids ("NGLs") and crude oil processing, transportation, storage and marketing in Canada and the U.S. Its subsidiaries include Keyera Energy Facilities Ltd. ("KEFL"), Keyera Energy Ltd. ("KEL"), Keyera Energy Inc. ("KEI"), Keyera RPL Holdings Ltd. ("KRPL") and Rimbey Pipeline Limited Partnership ("RPLP").

The Fund is administered by and the Partnership is managed by Keyera Energy Management Ltd. ("KEML" or the "Managing Partner"). The Managing Partner has a 33.83% interest in the Partnership.

The Fund makes monthly cash distributions to unitholders of record on the last business day of each month. The amount of the distributions per trust unit is equal to the pro rata share of the distribution received indirectly from the Partnership and, in the event of the termination of the Fund, participating pro rata in the net assets remaining after satisfaction of all liabilities.

2. Basis of presentation

These unaudited interim consolidated financial statements have been prepared by management in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP"). The accounting policies applied are consistent with those disclosed in the Fund's consolidated financial statements as at and for the year ended December 31, 2006 as included in the Fund's 2006 Annual Report to unitholders except for the changes made in adopting new accounting standards.

These unaudited interim consolidated financial statements as at and for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 do not include all disclosures required for the preparation of annual consolidated financial statements and should be read in conjunction with the Fund's consolidated financial statements as at and for the year ended December 31, 2006.

Interim periods may not be representative of the results expected for the full year of operation due to seasonality. Certain of the comparative figures in prior periods have been reclassified to conform to the presentation in the current period.

3. Change in accounting policies

Effective January 1, 2007, the Fund adopted the following accounting standards issued by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants ("CICA"):

- Section 1530, Comprehensive Income;
- Section 3855, Financial Instruments - Recognition and Measurement;
- Section 3861, Financial Instruments - Disclosure and Presentation; and
- Section 3865, Hedges

The Fund has adopted these standards prospectively and comparative consolidated financial statements have not been restated. The Fund has selected December 31, 2003 as the date for identification of embedded derivatives. Transition amounts have been recorded in opening accumulated earnings.

Financial instruments and hedges

All financial instruments must initially be recognized at fair value on the balance sheet. The Fund has classified each financial instrument into the following categories:

- Financial assets and financial liabilities held for trading
- Loans or receivables
- Held to maturity
- Financial assets available for sale
- Other financial liabilities

Subsequent measurement of the financial instruments is based on their classification. Financial assets and financial liabilities held for trading are measured at fair value and changes in those fair values are recognized in net earnings. Financial assets available for sale are measured at fair value, with changes in those fair values recognized in other comprehensive income. Financial assets held to maturity, loans or receivables and other financial liabilities are measured at amortized cost using the effective interest rate method of amortization.

Upon adoption, the Fund has classified all financial assets as loans or receivables, with the exception of cash and cash equivalents and derivative instruments. Derivative instruments and cash and cash equivalents have been classified as held for trading. The Fund has classified all financial liabilities as other financial liabilities, with the exception of derivative instruments. Derivative instruments have been classified as held for trading. Gains and losses related to derivative contracts are recognized in revenue in the period in which they arise. The estimated fair value of assets and liabilities held for trading is determined by reference to quoted market prices and, if not available, to estimates from third-party brokers or dealers.

For long-term financial liabilities, the transaction costs that are directly attributable to the issue of a financial liability are added to the fair value initially recognized for that financial instrument. These costs are amortized to earnings using the effective interest rate method. For all financial assets and short-term financial liabilities, transaction costs are charged to earnings as incurred.

As of January 1, 2007, unamortized deferred financing fees of $985 relating to the Fund's long-term debt and $502 relating to convertible debentures have been reclassified for presentation purposes from intangible assets to long-term debt and convertible debentures. These fees are now amortized to earnings using the effective interest rate method.

The Fund assesses at each balance sheet date whether a financial asset carried at cost is impaired. If there is objective evidence that an impairment loss exists, the amount of the loss is measured as the difference between the carrying amount of the asset and its fair value. The carrying amount of the asset is reduced and the amount of the loss is recognized in earnings.

Effective January 1, 2007 the Fund has opted to discontinue the use of hedge accounting. All derivative instruments that previously qualified for hedge accounting have been recognized at fair value and unrealized gains and losses have been recorded in earnings.

Adopting these standards on January 1, 2007 resulted in the recognition of an asset held for trading in the amount of $3,314, a liability held for trading in the amount of $130 and a $3,184 increase to opening accumulated earnings. Assets held for trading are included in accounts receivable and liabilities held for trading are included in accounts payable and accrued liabilities. The effect on basic and diluted net earnings per unit was $0.05.

Comprehensive income

Comprehensive income consists of net earnings (loss) and other comprehensive income ("OCI"). OCI comprises the changes in the fair value of the effective portion of derivatives used as hedging items in a cash flow hedge, changes in the fair value of any available for sale financial instruments and foreign currency translation adjustments of self-sustaining foreign operations. Accumulated other comprehensive income ("AOCI") is a new equity category comprised of the cumulative amounts of OCI.

No amounts have been recorded in OCI or AOCI as a result of adopting this accounting standard.

Future accounting changes

In 2006, the CICA issued three new accounting standards: Section 1535, Capital Disclosures; Section 3862, Financial Instruments - Disclosures; and Section 3863, Financial Instruments - Presentation. These new standards will be effective for the Fund on January 1, 2008. Section 1535 establishes new disclosures of capital including disclosing information regarding capital objectives, policies and processes for managing capital. Sections 3862 and 3863 replace Section 3861, revising and enhancing disclosure requirements.

In June 2007, the CICA issued the new accounting standard, Section 3031 - Inventories. This new standard replaces Section 3030 modifying the guidance concerning the scope, measurement and allocation of costs of inventory. This standard will be effective for the Fund on January 1, 2008.

The Fund is currently evaluating the impact of adopting these new standards on the consolidated financial statements.

4. Credit facilities and long-term debt

As at	September 30, 2007 $	December 31, 2006 $
Bank credit facilities(a)	40,000	100,984
Revolving demand loan(a)	-	7,000
Total credit facilities	40,000	107,984
Current portion of long-term debt(b)	20,000	-
Long-term debt(b)	275,000	215,000
Deferred financing costs(1)	(1,426)	-
Total long-term debt	293,574	215,000

(1) Deferred financing costs have been reclassified to long-term debt upon adoption of the new accounting standards (see note 3). Previously, these costs were included in intangible assets.

(a) The Partnership has a $150,000 unsecured revolving credit facility with certain Canadian financial institutions led by the Royal Bank of Canada. The facility has a three-year revolving term and matures on April 21, 2010, unless extended. In addition, the Royal Bank of Canada has provided a $15,000 revolving demand facility and the Toronto Dominion Bank has provided a $10,000 revolving demand facility. The revolving credit facilities bear interest based on the lenders' rates for Canadian prime commercial loans, U.S. Base rate loans, Libor loans, or Bankers' Acceptances rates. The weighted average interest rates for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 were 5.80% and 5.63% (5.94% and 5.46% for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2006). As at September 30, 2007, the balance outstanding on the bank credit facilities was $40,000 ($100,984 as at December 31, 2006).

On July 12, 2007, the $7,000 unsecured revolving demand loan facility related to a subsidiary of the Partnership was terminated.

(b) In 2003, $125,000 of unsecured senior notes were issued by the Partnership and KEFL in three parts: $20,000 due in 2008 bearing interest at 5.42%, $52,500 due in 2010 bearing interest at 5.79% and $52,500 due in 2013 bearing interest at 6.16%. Interest is payable monthly. Financing costs of $1,215 have been deferred and are amortized using the effective interest rate method over the remaining terms of the related debt. The effective interest rates for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 were 5.63%, 5.95% and 6.29% for the notes due in 2008, 2010 and 2013 respectively (5.42%, 5.79% and 6.16% for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2006).

In 2004, $90,000 of unsecured senior notes were issued by KEFL and guaranteed by the Partnership. The notes bear interest at 5.23% and mature on October 1, 2009. Interest is payable semi-annually. Financing costs of $568 have been deferred and are amortized using the effective interest rate method over the remaining term of the debt. The effective interest rate for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 was 5.37% (5.23% for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2006).

On September 4, 2007, $80,000 of unsecured senior notes were issued by KEFL and guaranteed by the Partnership in two tranches: $40,000 due in 2017 bearing interest at 5.89% and $40,000 due in 2022 bearing interest at 6.14%. Interest is payable semi-annually. Financing costs of $687 have been deferred and are amortized using the effective interest rate method over the terms of the related debt. The effective interest rates for the period were 1.96% and 2.03% for the notes due in 2017 and 2022 respectively.

An additional $40,000 of unsecured senior notes will be issued in December 2007 by KEFL in two tranches: $20,000 due in 2017 bearing interest at 5.89% and $20,000 due in 2022 bearing interest at 6.14%.

5. Convertible debentures

In 2004, the Fund issued convertible unsecured subordinated debentures in the principal amount of $100,000. The convertible debentures bear interest at 6.75% per annum, payable semi-annually in arrears on June 30 and December 31 each year. Interest expense of $403 and $1,212 has been accrued for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 ($431 and $1,369 for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2006). These debentures will mature on June 30, 2011 and are convertible into trust units of the Fund at the option of the holders at any time prior to maturity at a conversion price of $12.00 per unit. At September 30, 2007, $77,604 debentures had been converted to trust units ($76,458 at December 31, 2006).

Financing costs consisting of an underwriters' commission of $4,000 and issuance costs of $332 have been deferred, and when there are no conversions, are being amortized over the term of the debt using the effective interest rate method. Upon conversion of the debentures, the financing cost related to the principal amount of debt converted is adjusted and is recognized as a charge to unitholders' equity. As a result of conversions to date at September 30, 2007, $2,832 has been reclassified to unitholders' equity ($2,782 at December 31, 2006). As at September 30, 2007, $398 of deferred financing costs remain. The effective interest rate for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 was 7.36% (6.75% for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2006).

6. Asset held for sale

Asset held for sale consisted of an interest in an electrical generator. In 2006, the equipment was written down to its estimated net realizable value recognizing a $373 charge to impairment expense. On January 23, 2007, the Fund sold its interest in the electrical generator for proceeds of $4,200.

7. Asset retirement obligation

The following table presents the reconciliation between the beginning and ending aggregate carrying amount of the obligation associated with the retirement of the Fund's facilities.

8. Income taxes

On June 22, 2007, Bill C-52 Budget Implementation Act, 2007 was enacted by the Canadian federal government. This legislation proposes to tax publicly traded trusts in Canada. The new tax is not expected to apply to the Fund until 2011 as the government has provided a transition period for publicly traded trusts that existed prior to November 1, 2006. As a result of the new tax legislation, the Fund recorded an additional $80.2 million future income tax expense and increased its future income tax liability in the second quarter of 2007. This adjustment represents taxable temporary differences of the Partnership that were previously not recorded for future income tax purposes. These temporary differences have been recorded at a tax-effected rate of 31.5%, which is the rate that will be applicable in 2011 under the current legislation.

The following is a reconciliation of income taxes, calculated at the combined federal and provincial income tax rate, to the income tax provision included in the consolidated statements of net earnings (loss).

For income tax purposes, the Fund and its subsidiaries have non-capital losses carried forward of approximately $2,020 at September 30, 2007 ($11,987 at December 31, 2006) which are available to offset income of specific entities of the consolidated group in future periods. The benefit of these losses has been recorded at September 30, 2007.

During the second quarter of 2007, the Fund recorded a $5,780 future income tax liability with a corresponding increase to Goodwill. This adjustment relates to a prior period acquisition that did not reflect a future income tax impact for a temporary difference. A further $520 future tax liability and increase to Goodwill was recorded relating to the acquisition of the minority interest in RPLP (see note 17).

The future income tax (liabilities) assets relate to the (taxable) deductible temporary differences in the carrying values and tax bases as follows:

9. Unitholders' capital

The Declaration of Trust provides that an unlimited number of trust units may be authorized and issued. Each trust unit is transferable, and represents an equal undivided beneficial interest in any distribution from the Fund and in the net assets of the Fund in the event of termination or winding-up of the Fund. All trust units are of the same class with equal rights and privileges.

The Declaration of Trust also provides for the issuance of an unlimited number of special trust units that will be used solely for providing voting rights to persons holding securities that are directly or indirectly exchangeable for units and that, by their terms, have voting rights in the Fund.

The trust units are redeemable at the holder's option at an amount equal to the lesser of: (i) 90% of the weighted average price per unit during the period of the last 10 trading days during which the trust units were traded on the Toronto Stock Exchange; and (ii) an amount equal to (a) the closing market price of the units; (b) an amount equal to the average of the highest and lowest prices of units if there was trading on the date on which the units were tendered for redemption; or (c) the average of the last bid and ask prices if there was no trading on the date on which the units were tendered for redemption.

Redemptions are subject to a maximum of $50 cash redemptions in any particular month. Redemptions in excess of this amount will be paid by way of a distribution in specie of assets of the Fund that may include Commercial Trust Series 1 notes.

The Fund has a Distribution Reinvestment and Optional Unit Purchase Plan ("DRIP") that permits unitholders to reinvest cash distributions for additional units. This plan allows eligible participants an opportunity to reinvest distributions into trust units at a 3% discount to a weighted average market price, so long as units are issued from treasury under the DRIP. The Fund has the right to notify participants that units will be acquired in the market, in which case units will be purchased at the weighted average market price. Eligible unitholders can also make optional unit purchases under the optional unit purchase component of the plan at the weighted average market price.

10. Net earnings (loss) per unit

Basic per unit calculations for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 and 2006 were based on the weighted average number of units outstanding for the related period. Convertible debentures were in the money for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 and 2006 and contributed to the increase in diluted weighted average number of units for these periods.

Beginning in the second quarter of 2006, incentive awards have been excluded from the calculation of diluted weighted average number of units as units are delivered by acquiring them on the market, rather than issuing them from treasury.

Pursuant to the Fund Declaration of Trust dated April 3, 2003 and its subsequent amendments, the Fund makes monthly distributions to holders on record on the last day of each month. Payments are made on or about the 15th day of the following month.

Distributions are paid from "Cash Flow of the Trust", a term that is defined in the Fund Declaration of Trust dated April 3, 2003. The Board of Directors of the Fund may, on or before each Distribution Record Date, declare payable all or any part of the Cash Flow of the Trust for the Distribution Period. The amount and level of distributions to be made for each Distribution Period is determined at the discretion of the Board of Directors of the Fund. In determining its distribution policy, the Board of Directors of the Fund considers several factors, including the Fund's current and future cash flow, capital requirements, debt repayments and other factors.

12. Compensation plans

The Long Term Incentive Plan (the "LTIP" or the "Plan") compensates officers, directors, key employees and consultants by delivering units of the Fund or paying cash in lieu of units. Participants in the LTIP are granted rights ("unit awards") to receive units of the Fund on specified dates in the future. The Plan permits the directors of KEML to authorize the grant of unit awards from time to time. Units are acquired in the marketplace under the plan.

The Plan consists of two types of unit awards, which are described below. Unit awards and the delivery of units under the Plan are accounted for in accordance with the intrinsic value method of accounting for stock-based compensation. The aggregate compensation cost recorded for the Plan was ($185) and $4,062 for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 ($1,474 and $4,266 for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2006).

During the three months ended September 30, 2007, 389,541 units were purchased on the market at a cost of $7,237 and delivered to Plan participants under the Plan.

(a) Performance Unit Awards

The Performance Unit Awards will vest 100% on the third anniversary of the effective date of each award, July 1, 2005, July 1, 2006 and July 1, 2007. The number of units to be delivered will be determined by the financial performance of the Fund over the three-year period and is calculated by multiplying the number of unit awards by an adjustment ratio and a payout multiplier. The adjustment ratio adjusts the number of units to be delivered to reflect the per unit cash distributions paid by the Fund to its unitholders during the term that the unit award is outstanding. The payout multiplier is based upon the actual three-year average annual cash distributions per unit of the Fund. The table below describes the relationship between the three-year average annual cash distribution per unit and the payout multiplier.

	Three-year annual cash distributions per unit
	July 1, 2005 Grant	July 1, 2006 Grant	July 1, 2007 Grant	Payout Multiplier
	Less than 1.32	Less than 1.42	Less than 1.44	Nil
First range	1.32 - 1.39	1.42 - 1.51	1.44 - 1.51	50% - 99%
Second range	1.40 - 1.55	1.52 - 1.71	1.52 - 1.67	100% - 199%
Third range	1.56 and greater	1.72 and greater	1.68 or greater	200%

As of September 30, 2007, 491,530 Performance Unit Awards (529,867 at December 31, 2006) were outstanding: 166,705 effective July 1, 2005, 147,100 effective July 1, 2006 and 177,725 effective July 1, 2007. The compensation cost recorded for these units for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 were ($371) and $3,288, using the applicable closing market price of a unit of the Fund ($422 and $2,685 for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2006).

(b) Time Vested Unit Awards ("Restricted Unit Awards")

Restricted Unit Awards will vest automatically, over a three-year period from the effective date of the award on July 1, 2005 and July 1, 2006 and July 1, 2007, regardless of the performance of the Fund. The number of units to be delivered will be modified by an adjustment ratio which reflects the per unit distributions paid by the Fund to its unitholders during the term that the unit award is outstanding.

As of September 30, 2007, 90,895 Restricted Unit Awards (98,735 at December 31, 2006) were outstanding: 12,017 effective July 1, 2005, 25,753 effective July 1, 2006 and 53,125 effective July 1, 2007. The compensation cost recorded for these units for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 was $186 and $774, using the applicable closing market price of a unit of the Fund ($1,052 and $1,581 for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2006).

13. Financial instruments

Financial instruments include cash and cash equivalents, accounts receivable, accounts payable and accrued liabilities, distributions payable, credit facilities, long-term debt, convertible debentures and derivatives held for trading (derivative financial instruments such as foreign exchange contracts, oil price contracts, natural gas price contracts, power price contracts and physical fixed price contracts).

Derivatives held for trading

Subsidiaries of the Fund enter into contracts to purchase and sell natural gas, NGLs and crude oil. These contracts are exposed to commodity price risk between the time contracted volumes are purchased and sold and currency exchange risk for those sales denominated in U.S. dollars. These risks are actively managed by using forward currency contracts and swaps, energy related forwards, swaps and options and by balancing physical and financial contracts in terms of volumes, timing of performance and delivery obligations. Management monitors the exposure to the above risks and regularly reviews its financial instrument activities and all outstanding positions.

A significant amount of electricity is consumed by the operating entities at their facilities. Due to the fixed fee nature of some service contracts in place with customers, these entities are unable to flow the cost of electricity to customers in all situations. In order to mitigate this exposure to fluctuations in the price of electricity, price swap agreements may be used.

Natural gas, NGL and crude oil contracts that require physical delivery at fixed prices and do not meet the Fund's expected purchase, sale or usage requirements are accounted for as derivative financial instruments.

Derivative instruments held for trading are recorded on the consolidated statement of financial position at fair value. Changes in the fair value of these financial instruments are recognized in earnings in the period in which they arise.

As at September 30, 2007, $2,136 of assets held for trading were included in accounts receivable and $9,807 of liabilities held for trading were included in accounts payable and accrued liabilities. Unrealized (losses) gains, representing the change in fair value of derivative contracts are recorded in Marketing operating revenue and NGL Infrastructure operating expense.

The unrealized (loss) gain relating to derivative contracts were as follows:

The estimated fair value of all derivatives held for trading is based on quoted market prices and, if not available, on estimates from third-party brokers or dealers.

Fair value

The carrying values of cash and cash equivalents, accounts receivable, accounts payable and accrued liabilities and distributions payable approximate their fair values because the instruments are near maturity or have no fixed repayment terms. The fair value of the credit facilities approximates fair value due to their floating rates of interest.

Credit risk

The majority of accounts receivable are due from entities in the oil and gas industry and are subject to normal industry credit risks. Concentration of credit risk is mitigated by having a broad domestic and international customer base. The Fund evaluates and monitors the financial strength of its customers in accordance with its credit policy. At September 30, 2007, the accounts receivable from the two largest customers amounted to 3% of accounts receivable (December 31, 2006 - less than 1%). Revenue from the two largest customers amounted to 19% and 16% of operating revenue for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 (14% and 12% for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2006). With respect to counterparties for derivative financial instruments, the credit risk is managed through dealing with recognized futures exchanges or investment grade financial institutions and by maintaining credit policies, which significantly minimize overall counter party credit risk.

Foreign currency rate risk

The Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure segments, where all sales and virtually all purchases are denominated in Canadian dollars, are not subject to foreign currency rate risk. In the Marketing business, approximately US$44,123 and US$157,876 of sales were priced in U.S. dollars for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 (US$69,596 and US$234,458 for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2006).

The Fund realized and recorded $510 and $1,222 of foreign currency loss in Marketing operating expenses for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 ($156 and ($381) for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2006). A further $241 and $1,526 of unrealized foreign currency gains were recorded in Marketing operating expenses for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 ($nil of unrealized foreign currency gains for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2006).

Currency exchange risk is actively managed by using forward currency contracts and swaps. Management monitors the exposure to currency exchange risk and regularly reviews its financial instrument activities and all outstanding positions.

Interest rate risk

The majority of the Fund's interest rate risk is attributed to its fixed and floating rate debt, which is used to finance operations. The Fund's remaining financial instruments are not significantly exposed to interest rate risk. The floating rate debt creates exposure to interest rate cash flow risk, whereas the fixed rate debt creates exposure to interest rate price risk. At September 30, 2007, fixed rate borrowings comprised 88% of total debt outstanding (December 31, 2006 - 67%). The fair value of the senior fixed rate debt at September 30, 2007 was $295,257 (December 31, 2006 - $224,457). The fair value of the Fund's unsecured convertible debentures at September 30, 2007 was $34,266 (December 31, 2006 - $31,782).

14. Commitments and contingencies

The Fund, through its operating entities, is involved in various contractual agreements with a major oil and gas producer. The agreements range from one to eleven years and comprise the processing of the producer's natural gas and the purchase of NGL production in the areas specified in the agreements. The purchase prices are based on current period market prices.

There are operating lease commitments relating to railway tank cars, vehicles, computer hardware, office space, terminal space and natural gas transportation. The estimated annual minimum operating lease rental payments from these commitments are as follows:

2009	7,369
2010	5,804
2011	4,721
Thereafter	5,864
	34,313

There are legal actions for which the ultimate results cannot be ascertained at this time. Management does not expect the outcome of any of these proceedings to have a material effect on the financial position or results of operations.

16. Segmented information

The Fund has three reportable segments: Marketing, Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure. The Marketing business consists of marketing NGLs, sulphur and crude oil. Gathering and Processing includes natural gas gathering and processing. NGL Infrastructure includes NGL and crude oil processing, transportation and storage. The accounting policies of the segments are the same as that described in the summary of significant accounting policies. Inter-segment sales and expenses are recorded at current market prices.

17. Non-controlling interest

In the first quarter of 2007, the Fund purchased an additional ownership interest in Rimbey Pipe Line Co. Ltd. for a purchase price of $1,513. In the second quarter of 2007, Rimbey Pipe Line Co. Ltd. was converted to a limited partnership (RPLP) and the Fund acquired the remaining interest in RPLP for a purchase price of $5,203 bringing the Fund's ownership in RPLP to 100%. The difference between the fair value of the transactions and the carrying value of RPLP's net assets resulted in a difference of $3,666, which was applied to property, plant and equipment. A future tax liability and corresponding increase to Goodwill was recorded in the amount of $520. As a result, the non-controlling interest has been removed from the Consolidated Statement of Financial Position.

Q3 Third Quarter Report

OFFICE OF INTERNATIONAL
CORPORATE FINANCE

2007 THIRD QUARTER HIGHLIGHTS

- For the fourth quarter in a row, Keyera delivered outstanding performance.
- Keyera recorded a 30% increase in net earnings compared to the third quarter of 2006.
- A seasonal increase in non-cash working capital of $43.0 million (primarily inventory) resulted in a net cash outflow from operating activities of $8.0 million. Distributable cash flow[1] was $34.7 million, up 54% compared to the third quarter of 2006 and $11.8 million higher than distributions.
- Year to date, cash flow from operating activities was $74.3 million, 9% greater than 2006, including the use of $29.3 million to fund an increase in non-cash working capital. Year to date distributable cash flow[1] was $102.4 million, $35.2 million higher than distributions and 42% higher than last year.
- All business segments delivered strong third quarter results. Contribution from Gathering and Processing was $22.7 million, up 16% from the same period last year. The NGL Infrastructure contribution was $10.7 million, 8% lower than the third quarter of last year. Contribution from the Marketing business was $3.4 million, significantly higher than the third quarter of 2006, despite an unrealized loss of $5.7 million associated with financial contracts used to hedge inventory.
- Keyera announced a project to significantly expand its storage capacity in Fort Saskatchewan. The project, which involves the mining of four underground storage caverns, will increase Keyera's storage capacity at this facility by three million barrels, or 37% percent, to 11. 6 million barrels. The first cavern is expected to be put into service late in 2009.
- Significant progress has been made on a number of other projects. The truck terminal expansion at Fort Saskatchewan is nearing completion, as is the addition of a fourth pipeline connecting the Fort Saskatchewan facility with Keyera's Edmonton Terminal. Both projects are expected to be operational by early 2008. The ethane extraction project at Keyera's Rimbey gas plant is proceeding through the regulatory approval process.
- Three scheduled maintenance turnarounds were successfully completed in the third quarter at Keyera's Bigoray, Brazeau River and Medicine River gas processing plants.
- A number of projects have been identified for 2008 and Keyera anticipates spending between $70 million and $100 million on growth capital projects next year.

Message to Unitholders

The past several months have been a very dynamic time in Alberta. With the release of the Report of the Royalty Review Commission in September and the Government of Alberta's response announced in October, the energy industry has been the central focus of public debate for the past two months. Keyera has directed considerable attention to dealing with and analyzing the implications of these fundamental industry issues in an effort to constructively contribute to finding a balanced resolution. In the course of this process however, we have never lost sight of our primary focus, which continues to be on growing our business and developing strategies for continued success.

Over the years, we believe Keyera has proven that we can adapt to the ever changing political and business landscape, thanks in part to our customer-focused business philosophy, our highly skilled team, and our very strategic assets. In the coming months, as industry sorts through the implications of the announced changes to the Alberta royalty regime, we will be working with our business partners, customers and prospective customers to adapt to the amendments so that we can continue to be a preferred service provider. The Alberta government has indicated that it will retain and revamp the deep gas drilling program, although details are still being released. They also commented in their report that support for deep gas drilling is instrumental to the viability of gas development in Alberta.

We believe our performance in the third quarter of 2007 demonstrates our ability to deliver strong operational and financial results in times of flux. Despite the uncertainty that was created by the royalty review process, and even though natural gas prices were low and drilling activity was modest in the third quarter, Keyera built on the strong performance we delivered during the first half of 2007 by recording net earnings of $15.3 million, 30% higher than the same period in 2006. A seasonal increase in non-cash working capital of $43.0 million (primarily inventory) resulted in a net cash outflow from operating activities of $8.0 million. Distributable cash flow was $34.7 million during the quarter, 54% higher than the same quarter last year and $11.8 million higher than the $22.9 million of distributions paid. On a year to date basis, Keyera's cash flow from operating activities was $74.3 million, 9% greater than 2006, including the use of $29.3 million to fund an increase in non-cash working capital. Year to date distributable cash flow of $102.4 million was $35.2 million greater than distributions paid and 42% higher than last year.

Our strong overall third quarter performance is the result of contributions from each of our operating segments. Contribution from our Gathering and Processing segment was $22.7 million, 16% higher than the same period last year, primarily due to increased throughput at several of Keyera's facilities. This performance was thanks in part to producers continuing to develop and connect new gas to our facilities, particularly at our Strachan, Nordegg River, Brazeau River, Bigoray and Caribou gas plants. Our NGL Infrastructure segment also had a solid quarter, posting contribution of $10.7 million, an 8% decrease from the same period last year. Strong results from all aspects of our Marketing business allowed this segment to deliver contribution of $3.4 million, despite an unrealized loss of $5.7 million relating to forward contracts used to hedge the product inventory that we have built up for sale in the winter heating season.

We are continuing to pursue projects of significant scale and growth potential that build on our long-term business strategy. At present, we have over $100 million of projects that are either underway or in the development stages. During the third quarter we initiated several new projects, one of the most significant of which is our plan to expand our underground storage facility in Fort Saskatchewan by 37% to 11.6 million barrels. Preparations to mine the first of the proposed four new storage caverns are underway. If planning and construction go as anticipated, we are optimistic that the first cavern will be in service in 2009. We are also very pleased with the progress that has been made on two previously announced projects related to our Fort Saskatchewan facility: the addition of a fourth pipeline connecting Fort Saskatchewan with our Edmonton terminal and the expansion of our truck terminal. Assuming construction continues on target, we expect both of these projects to be operational by early 2008.

In our gathering and processing business, increases in gas throughput in the Pembina area have created a demand for additional sour gas processing capacity and as a result, we are looking at options to expand our sour processing capacity in the west central and foothills regions of Alberta. As well, in British Columbia, we are investigating options to expand the processing capacity at our Caribou facility to accommodate new gas production from proposed producer activity in the adjacent area.

We have also taken steps to move forward the ethane extraction project at our Rimbey gas plant. We have filed all the required regulatory applications and are fully engaged in the approval process. Assuming the project is approved and completed, we expect that we will be able to extract about 5,000 barrels per day of ethane at Rimbey, the majority of which will be incremental to existing supply.

We believe successful completion of these kinds of initiatives will allow us to build on the competitive advantages we currently enjoy in each of our operating segments, while at the same time allowing us to diversify our business lines.

As we face the challenges presented by the evolving regulatory environment, including the changes that have been announced or implemented over the course of the past year with respect to royalties, environmental legislation and the tax treatment of income funds, Keyera is committed to continuing to work proactively to maximize our business opportunities and to provide value to our Unitholders. While we may need to make adjustments to adapt to these changes, we are optimistic that we will be able to successfully meet the challenges that lie ahead.

On behalf of Keyera, I thank you for your support and look forward to continued success.

Contribution From Operating Segments

Keyera operates one of the largest natural gas midstream businesses in Canada with three major operating segments: Gathering and Processing, NGL Infrastructure and Marketing. The Gathering and Processing segment includes natural gas gathering systems and processing plants strategically located in the natural gas production areas on the western side of the Western Canadian Sedimentary Basin. The NGL Infrastructure segment includes natural gas liquids (NGLs) and crude oil pipelines, terminals, processing and storage facilities in Edmonton and Fort Saskatchewan, Alberta, one of North America's major energy hubs. The Marketing segment includes activities such as the marketing of propane, butane and condensate to customers in Canada and the United States, and crude oil midstream activities.

Keyera's Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure segments provide a large portion of the total contribution. Keyera benefits from the geographical diversity of its natural gas processing plants, NGL infrastructure facilities and associated assets. The revenues generated from these facilities are fee-for-service based, with minimal direct exposure to commodity prices. The remainder of Keyera's contribution is derived from its Marketing segment. Because of Keyera's integrated approach to its business, its infrastructure provides a significant competitive advantage in NGL marketing. Keyera also benefits from diversified sources of NGL supply and a diversified customer base across North America.

The following table shows the contribution from each of Keyera's operating segments and includes inter-segment transactions that are eliminated in the Fund's consolidated financial statements. Because contribution is not a standard measure under Canadian generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP"), it may not be comparable with the calculation of similar measures for other entities. Contribution does not include the elimination of inter-segment transactions as required by GAAP and refers to operating revenues less operating expenses. Management believes contribution provides an accurate portrayal of profitability by operating segment. The most comparable GAAP measures are reported in note 16, Segmented Information, which is found in the financial statements.

Notes:

[1] Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure contribution includes revenues for processing, transportation and storage services provided to Keyera's Marketing business.

[2] The Marketing contribution is net of expenses for processing, transportation and storage services provided by Keyera's facilities and general and administrative costs directly attributable to the Marketing segment.

[3] Other expenses include corporate general and administrative, interest, depreciation and amortization, accretion and impairment expense. Corporate general and administrative costs exclude the direct Marketing general and administrative costs.

[4] Revenue and operating expenses before inter-segment eliminations as shown above are both non-GAAP measures and do not consider the elimination of inter-segment sales and expenses. Inter-segment transactions are eliminated upon consolidation of Keyera's financial results to arrive at external revenue and external operating expenses, both GAAP measures, as reported in note 16, Segmented Information.

Management's Discussion and Analysis

The following management's discussion and analysis ("MD&A") was prepared as of November 6, 2007 and is a review of the results of operations and the liquidity and capital resources of Keyera Facilities Income Fund (the "Fund) and its subsidiaries (collectively "Keyera"). It should be read in conjunction with the accompanying unaudited consolidated financial statements of the Fund for the quarter ended September 30, 2007 and the notes thereto as well as the consolidated financial statements of the Fund for the year ended December 31, 2006 and its related management's discussion and analysis. Additional information related to the Fund, including the Fund's Annual Information Form, is filed on SEDAR at www.sedar.com.

NON-GAAP FINANCIAL MEASURES

This discussion and analysis refers to certain financial measures that are not determined in accordance with Canadian Generally Accepted Accounting Principles ("GAAP"). Measures such as operating margin (operating revenues minus operating expenses), distributable cash flow (cash flow from operating activities adjusted for changes in non-cash working capital, maintenance capital expenditures and the distributable cash flow attributable to any non-controlling interest) and EBITDA (earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization) are not standard measures under GAAP and therefore may not be comparable with the calculation of similar measures for other entities. Management believes that these supplemental measures facilitate the understanding of the Fund's results of operations, leverage, liquidity and financial position. Operating margin is used to assess the performance of specific segments before general and administrative expenses and other non-operating expenses. Distributable cash flow is used to assess the level of cash flow generated from ongoing operations and to evaluate the adequacy of internally generated cash flow to fund distributions. EBITDA is commonly used by management, investors and creditors in the calculation of ratios for assessing leverage and financial performance. Investors are cautioned, however, that these measures should not be construed as an alternative to net earnings determined in accordance with GAAP as an indication of the Fund's performance.

FORWARD LOOKING STATEMENTS

Certain statements contained in this MD&A and accompanying documents contain forward-looking statements. These statements relate to future events or the Fund's future performance. Such statements are predictions only and actual events or results may differ materially. The use of words such as "anticipate," "continue", "estimate", "expect", "may", "will", "project", "should," "plan," "intend," "believe," and similar expressions, including the negatives thereof, is intended to identify forward looking statements. All statements other than statements of historical fact contained in this document are forward looking statements, including, without limitation, statements regarding: the future financial position of Keyera; business strategy and plans of management; anticipated growth and proposed activities; budgets, including future capital, operating or other expenditures and projected costs; estimated utilization rates; objectives of or involving Keyera; impact of commodity prices; treatment of Keyera under governmental regulatory regimes; the existence, operation and strategy of the risk management program, including the approximate and maximum amount of forward sales and hedging to be employed; and expectations regarding Keyera's ability to raise capital and to add to its assets through acquisitions or internal growth opportunities.

The forward looking statements reflect management's current beliefs and assumptions with respect to such things as the outlook for general economic trends, industry trends, commodity prices, capital markets, and the governmental, regulatory and legal environment. In some instances, this MD&A and accompanying documents may also contain forward-looking statements attributed to third party sources. Management believes that its assumptions and analysis are reasonable and that the expectations reflected in the forward looking statements contained herein are also reasonable. However, Keyera cannot assure readers that these expectations will prove to be correct.

All forward looking statements involve known and unknown risks, uncertainties and other factors that may cause actual results, events, levels of activity and achievements to differ materially from those anticipated in the forward looking statements. Such factors include but are not limited to: general economic, market and business conditions; operational matters, including potential hazards inherent in our operations; risks arising from co-ownership of facilities; activities of other facility owners; competitive action by other companies; activities of producers and other customers and overall industry activity levels; changes in gas composition; fluctuations in commodity prices and supply/demand trends; processing and marketing margins; effects of weather conditions; fluctuations in interest rates and foreign currency exchange rates; changes in operating and capital costs, including fluctuations in input costs; actions by governmental authorities; decisions or approvals of administrative tribunals; changes in environmental and other regulations; reliance on key personnel; competition for, among other things, capital, acquisition opportunities and skilled personnel; changes in tax laws relating to income trusts, including the effects that such changes may have on Unitholders, and in particular any differential effects relating to Unitholder's country of residence; and other factors, many of which are beyond the control of Keyera, some of which are discussed in this MD&A and in Keyera's Annual Information Form dated February 27, 2007 (the "Annual Information Form") filed on SEDAR and available on the Keyera website at www.keyera.com.

In addition, the discussion of the proposed reorganization (the "Reorganization") contained in this MD&A contains forward-looking information. Unitholders and prospective investors are cautioned not to place undue reliance on such forward-looking information as such information is based on certain assumptions and a number of known and unknown risks and uncertainties, of both a general and specific nature, that could result in the Reorganization not being completed or not being completed in the manner described in Keyera's Information Circular. These assumptions and factors include, but are not limited to: the Alberta Court of Queen's Bench granting a final order approving the plan of arrangement pursuant to which Keyera intends to implement the Reorganization; the board of directors exercising its discretion to proceed with the Reorganization; no change in taxation or other laws which would have a material adverse significance in respect of the Reorganization; a favourable advance ruling being obtained from the Canada Revenue Agency ("CRA"); all third party approvals and consents being obtained on terms which are acceptable to Keyera; no laws or policies being enacted or promulgated, or no order or decree being issued or made, which would cease trade, enjoin, prohibit or impose material limitations on the Reorganization or the transactions contemplated thereby; no material tax being payable by any participant in the Reorganization; and the counterparties to certain material contracts to which Keyera is a party agreeing to the assignment or amendment of such agreements in order to reflect the new organizational structure and to substantially preserve, in modified form, the existing governance structure of the Fund going forward. Keyera cautions that the foregoing list of factors and assumptions is not exhaustive.

BUSINESS ENVIRONMENT

Industry Activity

Producers in Canada drilled almost 5,500 wells in the third quarter, up significantly from the second quarter of 2007, although down 23% from the same period last year. While industry rebounded after the wet spring and extended spring breakup period in the second quarter, overall activity continues to be affected by low commodity prices and high costs.

In the foothills front region, the number of wells drilled in the third quarter declined by 38% compared to the third quarter of 2006. The average depth of wells drilled in this region in the third quarter was 2,349 metres, as producers target the more prospective reservoirs found at deeper depths. In the central Alberta region, wells drilled were 11% lower than the same quarter last year, although the average depth per well increased by 4% compared to the third quarter of 2006. British Columbia also experienced a decline in drilling, with wells drilled falling 34% compared to the third quarter of last year. Like the other regions, the average depth per well increased to over 2,400 metres, a 7% increase compared to the third quarter of 2006.

The decline in drilling activity in Western Canada has not had a material impact on the raw gas volumes delivered to Keyera's facilities for processing. Throughput volumes at most Keyera plants increased again in the third quarter, up 2% compared to the second quarter of 2007 and 1% from the same period last year. These increases are the result of producer drilling undertaken in previous years combined with current activity levels around our facilities. However, lower activity levels, such as those experienced over the last several quarters, may affect the volume of raw gas delivered to Keyera's gathering and processing facilities in the future.

Keyera's management believes that, over the long term, North American natural gas demand will be strong and that the Western Canadian Sedimentary Basin will continue to be a key supply basin for many years to come. Keyera's facilities are well positioned in the western regions of the basin, which is relatively under-developed and has deeper gas-prone zones that often contain larger reserves. Keyera's facilities are able to process both sweet and sour gas and extract NGLs from the raw gas stream, making them well suited to process gas from this region.

New Alberta Royalty Framework

On October 25, 2007 the Government of Alberta announced a new royalty framework for Alberta. The new royalty regime, which is expected to be implemented in 2009, will change the royalty structure for natural gas and conventional oil by introducing sliding rate formulas that are price and volume sensitive. In addition, new price sensitive formulas will be adopted for oil sands development at both the pre- and post-payout stages.

Keyera is not a royalty payor, and therefore is not directly affected by these announcements. However, as a service provider to the upstream industry, Keyera will be affected by producers' responses to the new regime. Producers are currently assessing the impact of the new royalty regime on their operations and future exploration and development activities. Until we have stronger indications from producers with respect to their plans, the long term implications of the royalty announcement for Keyera are difficult to determine. Keyera views the Government's decision to retain a variation of the Deep Gas Drilling Program as a positive outcome, due in part to the fact that many of Keyera's facilities are located west of the fifth meridian where gas drilling tends to be deeper. In the coming months we will be taking a measured approach to the new royalty framework and will be working with our partners, customers and prospective customers to position ourselves to manage these changes.

Further information about the new royalty framework is available from the Government of Alberta website at http://www.gov.ab.ca/ and a copy of the framework itself can be found at http://www.energy.gov.ab.ca/Org/Publications/royalty_Oct25.pdf

Climate change regulations

Earlier this year, both the Government of Alberta and the Government of Canada announced new regulatory measures dealing with emissions. Keyera has reported on both of these developments in its MD&A for the first and second quarter of 2007. Keyera has initiated third party audits of its baseline emission applications for the three of its plants that are affected by the Alberta regulations. These applications must be submitted by December 31, 2007 for the compliance period July 1, 2007 to December 31, 2007. There has been no change in management's interpretation of the effect of these programs.

On October 2, 2007, the Government of Alberta announced a new cumulative effects initiative covering a 317 square kilometer area northeast of Edmonton known as the Alberta Industrial Heartland. This new initiative establishes targets for air, water and land quality. All large industrial facilities within the Industrial Heartland, including Keyera's Fort Saskatchewan facility, will be subject to a cumulative airshed target of 25,000 tonnes per year of nitrous oxides and 28,000 tonnes per year of sulphur dioxide These airshed targets will be validated with stakeholders, including Keyera, and are scheduled to come into effect in January 2009. A working group is being established to determine the allocation for the airshed objectives in order to implement an allocation system. In addition, working groups are being formed to deal with water and land management issues, including sulphur and wetlands management. Based on the information currently available, Keyera does not anticipate that this initiative will require significant changes to current operations. However, the effect that this program may have on future operations or possible expansion is not clear at this time. Keyera will continue to be involved in the consultative process that is being followed to develop the management plans for the area under this initiative. Once more details are known, Keyera will be in a better position to evaluate the potential implications.

New tax on flow-through entities

Just over a year ago, the Government of Canada announced a new tax on the distributions of publicly-traded Canadian income trusts and limited partnerships, and in June of this year legislation was passed implementing this new tax. Assuming Keyera only experiences "normal growth", the Fund, as an existing income trust, will be subject to the new tax as of January 2011.

Under the legislation, effective January 1, 2011 a tax of 31.5% will be payable by Keyera on the portion of its distributions that is ordinary taxable income. For a Canadian resident taxpayer, this portion of Keyera's distributions will be treated as dividend income for tax purposes. The legislation also provides there will be no change in taxation of Keyera's distributions that are considered to be a return of capital or dividend income.

On October 30, 2007, the Federal government announced their future economic plans. Included in this statement was the plan to reduce corporate tax rates from 22.12% in 2007 to 15% by 2012. These lower tax rates would also apply to income trusts. If these reduced tax measures are enacted into law, the applicable tax rate to the Fund would be reduced from 31.5% to 29.5% in 2011 and 28.0% in 2012. The proposed reduction in federal tax rates has not been included in the future tax provision for the third quarter of 2007 as these reduced tax rates have not been substantively enacted.

As at January 1, 2007, Keyera had approximately $385 million of unutilized tax pools and deductions, consisting mostly of class 41 undepreciated capital costs, available for deduction by the Fund's subsidiaries. Keyera is proposing to undertake a reorganization of its internal legal structure as described under "Fund Reorganization" in this MD&A. Due to the interpretation of the legislation implementing the new tax on flow-through entities, Keyera has amended its advance ruling request to the CRA. The amended reorganization will not result in any significant immediate tax savings within Keyera's structure, but will permit Keyera to defer the utilization of some tax pools until after January 1, 2011. Assuming the CRA issues a favorable advance ruling on a timely basis, the amended reorganization is expected to be implemented in early 2008. Keyera plans to reduce the use of its available tax deductions in years 2008 through to 2010, thereby increasing deductions available for the years after 2010.

RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

Keyera's midstream activities are conducted through three business segments. The Gathering and Processing segment provides natural gas gathering and processing services to producers. The NGL Infrastructure segment provides NGL processing, transportation and storage services to producers, marketers (including Keyera) and others. The services in both these segments are provided on a fee-for-service basis. The Marketing segment is focused on the marketing of by-products recovered from the processing of raw gas, primarily NGLs, and crude oil midstream activities. A more complete description of Keyera's businesses by segment can be found in the Annual Information Form.

In the third quarter, Keyera delivered strong operational and financial results, continuing the trend established in the first half of 2007. Net earnings of $15.3 million were up $3.5 million or 30% compared to the same period last year and operating margin of $37.5 million exceeded the same quarter in 2006 by $3.1 million. These results were achieved despite the completion of three plant turnarounds and the recording of a $5.7 million unrealized loss on financial contracts that are used to hedge NGL product inventories. Excluding the unrealized loss, operating margin in the third quarter of 2007 was $43.2 million, 29% greater than the third quarter of 2006. The unrealized loss on financial contracts is discussed in more detail in the Marketing section of this report.

The Gathering and Processing segment generated $22.0 million of operating margin in the third quarter of 2007, a $3.2 million increase compared to the same period last year, despite the completion of turnarounds at the Brazeau River, Bigoray and Medicine River gas plants. Most of Keyera's gas plants experienced higher throughput compared to the same period last year. Despite a slowdown in drilling activity this year in western Canada, producers continued to develop and connect new gas developments to Keyera infrastructure.

Excluding the effect of the $5.7 million unrealized loss on financial contracts, the Marketing segment generated $17.0 million of operating margin in the third quarter of 2007, up $6.2 million compared to the same period last year. Growth in the crude oil midstream business and sound performance by all NGL products contributed to operating margin during a quarter that typically experiences weaker demand due to the seasonal nature of the business.

The NGL Infrastructure segment generated operating margin of $4.3 million in the third quarter of 2007, up $0.2 million compared to the same period last year as demand for storage remained strong.

Year to date, a net loss of $25.5 million has been incurred compared to net earnings of $53.2 million for the same period last year. The unfavourable variance is primarily related to the $80.2 million non-cash future income tax expense incurred in the second quarter of 2007, as a result of the recently enacted tax on publicly-traded Canadian income trusts and limited partnerships. This expense more than offset the growth in operating margin resulting from higher throughput in the Gathering and Processing segment and stronger unit margins in the Marketing segment.

Gathering and Processing

Gathering and Processing revenue for the third quarter of 2007 was $50.7 million, an increase of $6.5 million or 15%, compared to the third quarter of 2006. Higher throughput at most plants and higher fees at the Bigoray and Brazeau River gas plants due to the flow-through of turnaround costs accounted for the increase.

Gathering and Processing operating expenses for the third quarter of 2007 were $28.8 million, an increase of $3.2 million or 13% compared to the third quarter of 2006. The increase was primarily due to the turnaround work completed at the Bigoray and Brazeau River gas plants and higher operating and maintenance costs, offset by lower costs at the Chinchaga plant where a turnaround was completed last year.

Average gross processing throughput in the third quarter of 2007 was 830 million cubic feet per day, up 2% from the second quarter of 2007 and up 1% from the third quarter last year. Year to date, average gross processing throughput was 829 million cubic feet per day, up 8 million cubic feet per day compared to last year. Lower throughput at the Rimbey plant was offset by higher deliveries of Tay River gas to the Strachan plant, the tie-in of new wells that were drilled in previous periods and the capture of new volumes through the Caribou North and Brazeau North gas gathering systems.

Year to date, Gathering and Processing revenue was $137.0 million, an increase of $13.9 million or 11% compared to last year. The increase was due primarily to higher throughput at most gas plants, the recovery of 2007 operating expenses and the collection of previous years' expenses at the Strachan plant where turnaround costs are recovered over a four-year period.

Year to date, Gathering and Processing operating expenses were $79.7 million, an increase of $5.5 million or 7% compared to last year. In 2007 operating costs were higher due to the turnarounds completed at the Rimbey, Brazeau River, Bigoray and Brazeau North gas plants and unscheduled repairs at the Caribou, Rimbey and Bigoray gas plants. The increase was partially offset by lower costs at the Strachan and Caribou gas plants relative to 2006, when extensive turnaround and refurbishment costs were incurred.

The assets in Keyera's Gathering and Processing segment were realigned into new business regions, the Foothills Region and the North Central Region. The Foothills Region consists of the Strachan, Brazeau River, Nordegg River, Paddle River, Bigoray, Brazeau North, West Pembina and Tomahawk gas plants and associated gathering pipelines. The North Central Region consists of the Rimbey, Gilby, Medicine River, Worsley, Caribou, Chinchaga, North Star and Greenstreet plants and associated gathering pipelines. This realignment is reflected in the discussion below.

Gathering and Processing – North Central Region

The North Central Region delivered strong results during the quarter. Raw gas throughput during the third quarter increased 13% from the second quarter 2007 due to the scheduled maintenance shutdown that was completed at the Rimbey plant during the second quarter. Throughput in the quarter was down 3% from the same quarter in 2006 due to a reduction in shallow gas and coalbed methane drilling in the Rimbey area. These volumes require reduced processing and, as a result, have had only a moderate impact on Keyera's revenues.

At the Rimbey gas plant, work continued on a project to extract ethane from the raw gas stream. Regulatory applications have been submitted and we are fully engaged in the approval process. Assuming regulatory approvals and other conditions are met, the project is expected to be completed in 2008 at an estimated cost of $26 million. Once the project is operational, Keyera expects to extract up to 5,000 barrels per day of ethane, most of which will be incremental to Alberta supply.

Producers continued to be active along Keyera's Caribou North gas gathering system in northeastern British Columbia. Based on this trend, Keyera expects additional production to be connected to the gathering system in the fourth quarter of 2007, which should result in increased throughput at the Caribou gas plant. As well, indications are that producers will remain active in this area over the course of the winter.

The Medicine River gas plant, Keyera's only non-operated gas processing facility, was taken offline for approximately seven days during the quarter for its scheduled maintenance turnaround. The costs for the turnaround are not recoverable through the existing fee structure, but the impact on the North Central Region's cash flow was not significant. All maintenance turnarounds scheduled for the North Central Region in 2007 have now been completed.

Gathering and Processing - Foothills Region

The Foothills Region experienced another active quarter from a growth and maintenance perspective. Despite the scheduled turnarounds at the Brazeau River and Bigoray gas plants, throughput in the quarter was up 6% compared to the third quarter of 2006 as a result of incremental volumes at several plants. However, third quarter raw gas throughput was down 9% compared to the second quarter of 2007 due to the two scheduled turnarounds.

Activity east of the Strachan gas plant along the Garrington pipeline continued during the quarter. Producers connected a number of new wells to the gathering system, which resulted in incremental throughput at the Strachan plant during the quarter. Incremental production was also delivered to the Strachan plant from a new capture area via the Strachan North pipeline during the quarter.

Modifications and tie-ins were completed at the Paddle River gas plant during the quarter to accommodate the reprocessing of a nearby gas stream and enhance the NGL recovery efficiency of the facility. At the Nordegg River gas plant, new inlet separation facilities were installed, to accommodate incremental sweet gas throughput from an area southwest of the plant. This new area continues to evolve and is expected to generate incremental throughput in 2008.

In the Pembina region, where Keyera's Brazeau River, Bigoray and West Pembina plants are located, producers continued to deliver sour Nisku gas at sustained levels and a number of new wells were also connected at Keyera's Easyford oil separation facility. The delivery of these incremental gas volumes to Keyera facilities has resulted in sour gas handling nearing capacity. Keyera is developing alternatives for sour gas handling in the area, including plant expansions.

The Bigoray and Brazeau River gas plants were both taken offline for 15 days during the quarter in order to perform their scheduled four-year maintenance turnarounds. During that time, routine inspections, regular maintenance and required repair work were completed. These costs were largely recovered during the quarter. The scheduled maintenance turnarounds for 2007 have now been completed for the Foothills Region.

NGL Infrastructure

NGL Infrastructure revenue for the third quarter of 2007 was $10.0 million, a decrease of $0.8 million or 8% compared to the third quarter of 2006. This decrease is largely due to a fee adjustment and lower product sales from the Rimbey Pipeline business as well as slightly lower throughput at the Fort Saskatchewan fractionation plant.

NGL Infrastructure operating expenses for the third quarter of 2007 were $5.8 million, a decrease of $1.1 million or 16% compared to the third quarter of 2006. The decrease was primarily due to lower natural gas costs.

Year to date, NGL Infrastructure revenue was $29.3 million, an increase of $0.2 million or 1% compared to the prior year. Increased revenues from storage services throughout the year was partially offset by lower Rimbey Pipeline revenues and lower throughput at the Fort Saskatchewan fractionation plant in the third quarter of 2007.

Year to date, NGL Infrastructure operating expenses were $17.6 million, a decrease of $0.2 million or 1% compared to 2006. Lower natural gas costs in the third quarter of 2007 were partially offset by higher operating costs related to increased staffing levels at the railcar loading facility early in the year and the replacement of a charcoal bed filter at the Edmonton terminal.

NGL Infrastructure facilities overall operated at typical levels for the third quarter, a period when lower industry product demand usually results in lower operational activity at rail loading facilities. Storage revenues were strong in the third quarter, driven by normal winter season inventory requirements and diluent demand for oil sands production. Fractionation throughput was somewhat lower than usual due to short-term market conditions.

Keyera continues to pursue opportunities to strengthen its competitive advantages in the Edmonton/Fort Saskatchewan area. As part of that initiative, Keyera continues to add connections to other pipelines in the area as well as undertake specific expansion projects.

In the third quarter, Keyera announced a significant expansion of its storage capacity at its Fort Saskatchewan facility to meet the expected need for additional storage capacity over the next decade to support oil sands development, including the need for diluent. The project, which is expected to take five to six years to complete, will expand the current storage capacity by 37% to about 11.6 million barrels and is expected to cost $70 to $80 million. Engineering work on the first cavern is being finalized, equipment is being ordered and construction is expected to begin in the fourth quarter. Cost of the first cavern is expected to be $18 million with a large portion of the cost being spent in 2008. Assuming construction proceeds as planned, the first cavern is expected to be put into service late in 2009.

Work is also continuing on two other projects announced earlier this year. Keyera is expanding its truck terminal at the Fort Saskatchewan facility. The $5.6 million project is expected to enhance the loading and unloading of propane, butane and condensate, thereby increasing Keyera's operational flexibility and providing enhanced product loading services for customers serving the domestic NGL market. The project is expected to be operational in the first quarter of 2008.

Keyera's project to tie in a fourth pipeline between the Fort Saskatchewan facility and the Edmonton terminal is also expected to be completed in early 2008, at an estimated cost of about $9 million net to Keyera. The new pipeline will provide significantly more operational flexibility, allowing Keyera to deliver condensate and butane at increased rates into and out of the Edmonton terminal and Fort Saskatchewan storage and other pipelines and terminals in the area. This pipeline is also expected to support the new storage caverns and will add value to Keyera's storage services by increasing the flexibility for customers.

Marketing

The Marketing segment posted sound results, delivering operating margin of $11.2 million, down $0.3 million compared to the third quarter of 2006. The decline was due entirely to the recognition of unrealized gains and losses on financial instruments. Excluding the effect of these unrealized items, operating margin grew $6.2 million in the third quarter compared to the same period last year.

Because of the seasonality associated with propane markets, propane sales volumes are typically lower in the third quarter than in the winter months and inventory levels increase to meet the winter heating season demands. While this was the case in the third quarter of 2007, increased use of propane as a feedstock for the petrochemical industry in the U.S. resulted in lower than normal inventories in North America in the third quarter. Butane markets performed well in the third quarter of 2007, with sales volumes and margins consistent with typical third quarter levels. The supply and demand for condensate was largely in balance throughout the third quarter and pricing was considerably stronger than in the third quarter of 2006. As well, the crude oil midstream business continued to perform well in the third quarter of 2007.

NGL sales volumes for the third quarter of 2007 averaged 43,300 barrels per day compared to 44,900 barrels per day in the third quarter of 2006. Year to date, NGL sales volumes averaged 49,800 barrels per day compared to 51,100 barrels per day last year. The decreases were due to lower sales of propane, partially offset by higher condensate and butane sales compared to the third quarter of 2006.

Marketing revenue for the third quarter of 2007 was $277.0 million, a decrease of $2.5 million compared to the third quarter of 2006. The decrease was primarily due to the inclusion of a $5.7 million unrealized loss on financial instruments, lower propane sales volumes and lower butane prices partially offset by higher butane and condensate sales volumes and growth in crude oil midstream revenues. The $5.7 million unrealized loss on financial instruments is discussed later in this section.

Year to date, Marketing revenue was $876.6 million, an increase of $1.1 million. The increase was primarily related to higher crude oil midstream revenues, higher condensate and butane volumes partially offset by lower sales volumes of propane and an unrealized loss on financial instruments, which is discussed later in this section.

The table below outlines the composition of the revenues generated from Keyera's Marketing business.

Composition of Marketing Revenue (in thousands of dollars)	Three Months Ended September 30, 2007	Nine Months Ended September 30, 2007
Physical sales	283,959	886,278
Financial instruments - realized	(1,276)	723
Financial instruments - unrealized	(5,726)	(10,376)
Marketing revenue	276,957	876,625

Marketing operating expense for the third quarter of 2007 was $265.7 million, a decrease of $2.2 million compared to the third quarter of 2006. The decrease was primarily due to lower sales volumes mostly offset by the growth in the crude oil midstream business.

Year to date, Marketing operating expense was $819.6 million, a decrease of $7.9 million. Much like the second quarter of 2007, the decrease was a result of lower sales volumes mostly offset by higher crude oil midstream costs.

NGL product inventories of $83.5 million were $2.3 million higher than in the third quarter of 2006. Although the value of inventory had not changed significantly, volumes in storage have increased slightly compared to the same period last year. Propane inventory levels typically increase throughout the second and third quarters due to the seasonality of product demand.

At September 30, 2007, the unrealized loss on financial contracts recognized in the third quarter was $5.7 million ($10.4 million recognized year to date), primarily due to the change in the value of crude oil price swap contracts and fixed price contracts. At September 30, 2007, the fair market value of these contracts represented a liability of $9.5 million and an asset of $1.4 million, which represents an estimate of the amount that Keyera would pay or receive if these instruments had been closed out at the end of the period. The estimated fair value of all derivatives held for trading is based on quoted market prices and, if not available, on estimates from third party brokers or dealers.

Of the $10.4 million year to date unrealized loss, the portion relating to changes in crude oil financial contracts amounted to approximately $6.8 million. These contracts are used to protect inventory from fluctuations in the price of NGL products. To the extent these contracts are effective (i.e., the change in the market price of crude oil is correlated to the change in the prices of the underlying physical NGL products), gains and losses on these financial contracts will be offset by gains or losses in the proceeds that will be realized upon the sale of the products.

The remainder of the unrealized loss is primarily related to the change in fair value of fixed price physical sales contracts. Keyera routinely utilizes these contracts to sell forward a portion of its physical inventory. The adoption of new accounting standards on January 1, 2007 resulted in a $2.3 million unrealized loss in the first quarter of 2007 related to fixed price physical contracts on hand at January 1, 2007. As the fixed price contracts were priced higher than market, the new accounting standards required an asset of $2.3 million to be recorded with a corresponding increase in opening accumulated earnings. As these contracts matured and the actual proceeds on the fixed price sales were recorded in revenue, the previously recorded asset of $2.3 million was reduced to nil with a corresponding charge (unrealized loss) to earnings in the first quarter of 2007.

The adoption of the new accounting standards is expected to continue to result in increased volatility in operating margins due to unrealized gains and losses associated with financial instruments.

The Marketing business is exposed to commodity price fluctuations arising between the time contracted volumes are purchased and the time they are sold, as well as fluctuations in the margins between purchase prices and sales prices and other risks that affect price and supply – demand trends. Keyera manages its supply and sales portfolio by monitoring its inventory position and its purchase and sale commitments, as well as by actively participating in various hub markets. In addition, Keyera manages some of its price risk by using financial contracts, such as energy-related forward sales, price swaps, physical exchanges and options and by offsetting some of its physical and financial contracts in terms of volumes, timing of performance and delivery obligation.

For a further discussion of the risks and trends that could affect the marketing performance and the steps that Keyera takes to mitigate these risks, readers are referred to the descriptions in this MD&A and to Keyera's Annual Information Form, which is available on SEDAR.

Non-operating expenses and other earnings

General and administrative expenses for the third quarter of 2007 were $2.7 million, down $1.3 million from the third quarter of 2006. Long-term incentive plan costs accounted for $1.0 million of the decrease, reflecting a lower unit price.

Year to date, general and administrative costs were $15.3 million, down $0.2 million from last year. Higher long-term incentive plan costs resulting from the increase in distributions in May 2007 were offset by lower short-term incentive costs in the first quarter of 2007. Excluding the effect of the long-term incentive plan, general and administrative expenses were in line with those incurred in 2006.

Interest expense, net of interest revenue, was $4.5 million for the third quarter of 2007, $0.4 million lower than the third quarter of 2006 primarily due to the reversal of a $0.7 million unrealized loss on an interest rate financial contract. This financial contract was settled in the third quarter of 2007 and a realized loss of $0.3 million was recorded in the period. Excluding the effect of the financial contract, borrowing costs were virtually unchanged.

Year to date, interest expense net of interest revenue was $14.7 million, $1.7 million higher than last year due primarily to higher average short-term debt balances in the first two quarters of 2007 as well as the realized loss of $0.3 million on the interest rate financial contract.

Depreciation and amortization expenses were $10.5 million for the third quarter of 2007, virtually unchanged from the third quarter of 2006, and $31.5 million year to date, $2.0 million greater than last year. The increase was due to growth in the asset base resulting from the completion of several major growth capital projects during the past year.

An impairment expense of $0.4 million was recorded in the third quarter of 2007 to adjust the carrying value of a small, non-core gas plant that was taken out of service.

Income tax expense for the third quarter of 2007 was $3.3 million, $0.9 million greater than the third quarter of 2006. Future income tax expense for the third quarter of 2006 was unusually low due to recognizing the benefit of non-capital losses existing in a subsidiary of the Fund.

Current income tax expense for the third quarter of 2007 was $0.5 million, $0.5 million lower than last year, largely as a result of lower earnings posted by the Rimbey Pipeline business.

Year to date, income tax expense was $87.3 million, $92.8 million higher than the same period last year. This increase was primarily due to recording $80.2 million of future income tax expense in the second quarter of 2007 and a further $0.2 million in the third quarter of 2007 resulting from the new tax imposed on publicly traded income trusts and limited partnerships in Canada. The future income tax expense is an estimate of the tax that will ultimately be payable by Keyera due to differences between the accounting and tax basis of assets and liabilities of the operating partnership. As a result of the new tax legislation, distributions will no longer be deductible by Keyera beginning in 2011. Accordingly, any taxable income of the operating partnership allocated to the Fund will be subject to this tax.

The remainder of the $92.8 million variance was largely related to the effect of recording a future income tax recovery in the second quarter of 2006 that reflected a reduction in future statutory income tax rates and the deductibility of the long-term incentive plan costs.

Current income tax expense on a year to date basis was $3.0 million, $0.3 million lower than last year, largely as a result of lower earnings posted by the Rimbey Pipeline business in the third quarter of 2007.

Critical Accounting Estimates

The Fund's consolidated financial statements have been prepared in accordance with GAAP. Certain accounting policies require that management make appropriate decisions with respect to the formulation of estimates and assumptions that affect the recorded amounts of certain assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses. Management reviews its assumptions and estimates regularly, but new information and changes in circumstances may result in actual results or revised estimates that differ materially from current estimates. A description of the accounting estimates and the methodologies and assumptions underlying the estimates are described in MD&A presented with the December 31, 2006 consolidated financial statements of the Fund. There have been no changes to the methodologies and assumptions. The most significant estimates are those indicated below:

Estimation of Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure revenues:
At September 30, 2007, operating revenues and accounts receivable for the Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure segments contained an estimate of $19.9 million primarily for September 2007 operations.

Estimation of Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure operating expenses:
At September 30, 2007, operating expenses and accounts payable contained an estimate of $11.8 million primarily for September 2007 operations.

Estimation of Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure equalization adjustments:
Much of the revenue from the Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure assets is generated on a cost-of-service basis. Under this method, the operating component of the fee is a pro rata share of the operating costs for the facility, calculated based upon total throughput. Users of each facility are charged a fee per unit based upon estimated costs and throughput, with an adjustment to actual throughput completed after the end of the year. Each quarter, throughput volumes and operating costs are reviewed to determine whether the estimated unit fee charged during the quarter properly reflects the actual volumes and costs, and the allocation of revenues and operating costs to other plant owners is also reviewed. Appropriate adjustments to revenue and operating expenses are recognized in the quarter and allocations to other owners are recorded.

For the Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure segments, operating revenues and accounts receivable contained an equalization adjustment of $8.3 million at September 30, 2007. Operating expenses and accounts payable contained an estimate of $5.9 million.

Estimation of Marketing revenues:
At September 30, 2007, the Marketing sales and accounts receivable contained an estimate for September 2007 revenues of $50.4 million.

Estimation of Marketing product purchases:
Marketing cost of goods sold, inventory and accounts payable contained an estimate of NGL product purchases of $84.1 million at September 30, 2007.

Estimation of Asset Retirement Obligation:
In the third quarter of 2007, there were no material changes to the assumptions used in the estimate prepared for December 31, 2006. Additional information related to decommissioning, abandonment and reclamation costs is provided in Keyera's Annual Information Form, which is available on SEDAR.

LIQUIDITY AND CAPITAL RESOURCES

Cash flow from operating activities
Cash outflow from operating activities during the third quarter of 2007 was $8.0 million as Keyera used $43.0 million of cash to finance a seasonal increase in non-cash working capital, primarily due to product inventories. Before changes in non-cash working capital, cash flow from operating activities was $34.9 million. From this cash flow, Keyera paid $22.9 million of distributions to its unitholders and $6.9 million for capital expenditures, leaving $5.1 million of cash. Keyera also received $79.3 million of proceeds from the issuance of long-term debt and $0.8 million from the issuance of trust units under the distribution reinvestment plan ("DRIP"). From this cash, Keyera repaid $41.6 million of short-term borrowings and financed the $43.0 million change in non-cash working capital, leaving a cash surplus of $0.6 million at the end of the quarter.

Year to date, cash provided by operating activities was $74.3 million, after the use of $29.3 million to fund changes in non-cash working capital primarily due to higher product inventories. Cash flow from operating activities before changes in non-cash working capital was $103.6 million. From this cash flow Keyera paid $66.8 million of distributions to its unitholders and $24.7 million for capital expenditures and acquisitions, leaving $12.1 million of cash. Keyera also received $4.2 million from the disposition of electrical generating equipment and $2.4 million from the issuance of trust units under the DRIP, bringing cash available to $18.7 million. Along with this cash, net proceeds of $79.3 million from the issuance of long-term debt were used to fund the repayment of $68.1 million of short-term borrowings and finance the $29.3 million change in non-cash working capital, leaving a $0.6 million cash surplus.

Cash and working capital was $26.7 million at September 30, 2007 compared to a deficit of $41.1 million at December 31, 2006. The deficit at December 31, 2006 resulted from the use of short-term debt to finance growth capital expenditures and was eliminated in the third quarter of 2007 when Keyera received $79.3 million of proceeds of the issuance of long-term debt and used much of these proceeds to repay short-term debt.

Capital expenditures

Capital additions and acquisitions (in millions of dollars)	Three months ended September 30,		Nine months ended September 30,
	2007	2006	2007	2006
Growth capital expenditures	8.0	12.6	15.5	63.0
Maintenance capital expenditures	0.2	0.5	0.9	2.7
Total capital expenditures	8.2	13.1	16.4	65.7
Acquisitions of non-controlling interest	—	—	6.7	—
Total capital additions and acquisitions	8.2	13.1	23.1	65.7

In the third quarter of 2007, additions to property, plant and equipment including acquisitions amounted to $8.2 million, consisting of $0.2 million of maintenance capital and $8.0 million of growth capital. In addition to maintenance capital expenditures, Keyera incurred maintenance and repair expenses of $8.8 million that were included in operating costs during the third quarter of 2007. The growth capital expenditures included $2.1 million for the acquisition of a site in northeast B.C. close to our Caribou North gathering system to enable future expansion, $3.2 million at the Rimbey and Brazeau River gas plants to upgrade systems and equipment, $2.1 million to acquire new pipelines in the Foothills Region, $0.6 million for the expansion of the truck off loading facility at Fort Saskatchewan and various other small projects.

Year to date, total capital additions and acquisitions amounted to $23.1 million, consisting of $0.9 million of maintenance capital, $15.5 million of growth capital and $6.7 million of acquisitions. In addition to maintenance capital expenditures, Keyera incurred maintenance and repair expenses of $24.8 million that were included in operating costs. The growth capital expenditures included those in the third quarter of 2007 described above and $2.3 million for the purchase of a pipeline to be used as a gathering line to extend the capture area of the Brazeau River gas plant, $1.5 million related to modifications at the Rimbey gas plant to enable the tie-in of equipment required for the ethane extraction project, $2.6 million for upgrades and expansion of equipment at the Rimbey gas plant and $6.7 million related to the acquisition of an additional ownership interest in RPLP, bringing Keyera's ownership to 100%.

Keyera expects full year 2007 growth capital expenditures to be between $40 and $50 million and maintenance capital expenditures to be between $2 million and $3 million. This assumes timely receipt of regulatory approvals and construction schedules proceeding as currently planned.

In 2008, Keyera anticipates spending between $70 million and $100 million on growth capital projects.

Debt covenants

In order for Keyera to manage seasonal fluctuations in cash flow and working capital and fund growth capital expenditures, Keyera has established credit facilities consisting of a $150 million revolving term facility that matures on April 21, 2010 and $25 million of revolving demand facilities. As at September 30, 2007, $40 million was drawn under these credit facilities.

These credit facilities are subject to two major financial covenants: Debt to EBITDA and Debt to Capitalization. The calculation for each ratio is based on specific definitions, is not in accordance with GAAP and cannot be readily replicated by referring to the Fund's financial statements. These credit facilities provide for the deduction of net working capital in the calculation of debt. Following are the ratios as calculated in accordance with the covenants as at September 30, 2007:

Covenant	Position as at September 30, 2007
Debt to EBITDA not to exceed 3.50	1.66
Debt to Capitalization not to exceed 0.55	0.26

Keyera has $215 million of unsecured senior notes that were issued in 2003 and 2004. Of this amount, $20 million matures in August 2008 and bears interest at 5.42%, $90 million matures in October 2009 and bears interest at 5.23%, $52.5 million matures in August 2010 and bears interest at 5.79%, and $52.5 million matures in August 2013 and bears interest at 6.16%. These notes are subject to three major financial covenants: Debt to EBITDA, EBITDA to Interest Charges and Priority Debt to Total Assets. The calculations for each of these ratios are based on specified definitions. Following are the ratios as calculated in accordance with the covenants as at September 30, 2007:

Covenant	Position as at September 30, 2007
Debt to EBITDA not to exceed 3.50	2.32
EBITDA to Interest Charges not less than 3.00	10.46
Priority Debt to Total Assets not to exceed 15%	0%

On September 4, 2007, Keyera completed a private placement of unsecured senior notes in the principal amount of $120 million: $60 million due in 2017 bearing interest at 5.89% and $60 million due in 2022 bearing interest at 6.14%. On September 4, 2007, $80 million of proceeds were received and a further $40 million will be received on December 3, 2007. In terms of payment obligation priority, the $120 million unsecured senior notes rank on a pari passu basis with the obligations under Keyera's existing credit facilities and with all other unsecured senior notes. The proceeds from these notes are a source of long-term funding for Keyera's ongoing growth capital program, working capital requirements and general corporate purposes. These new unsecured senior notes are subject to three major financial covenants: Debt to EBITDA, EBITDA to Interest Charges and Priority Debt to Total Assets. The calculations for each of these ratios are based on specified definitions. Following are the ratios as calculated in accordance with the covenants as at September 30, 2007:

Covenant	Position as at September 30, 2007
Debt to EBITDA not to exceed 5.0	1.74
EBITDA to Interest Charges not less than 2.00	7.83
Priority Debt to Total Assets not to exceed 15%	0%

Failure to adhere to the covenants described above may impair Keyera's ability to pay distributions.

Management expects that upon maturity of the credit facilities and unsecured senior notes, adequate replacement facilities will be established.

For a discussion of the risks that could affect the liquidity and working capital of the Fund and the steps Keyera takes to mitigate these risks, as well as information relating to Keyera's commitments and contractual obligations, readers are referred to Keyera's 2006 MD&A and Annual Information Form which is available on SEDAR.

Risk factors

The business of the Fund is subject to operational and commercial risks that could adversely affect future operating results, earnings, cash flow and distributions to unitholders. These risks include declines in throughput, operational problems and hazards, cost overruns, increased competition, regulatory intervention, environmental considerations, uncertainty of abandonment costs and dependence upon key personnel. These risks are identified and discussed in greater detail in the most recent Annual Information Form available on www.sedar.com as well as in the "Business Environment", "Results of Operations – Marketing" and "Liquidity and Capital Resources" sections of this MD&A.

Unitholder Distributions

Comparison of distributions paid to cash flow from operating activities and net earnings

The following table presents a comparison of distributions paid to net earnings and cash flow from operating activities:

(in thousands of dollars)	Three months ended Sept. 30 2007	Nine months ended Sept. 30 2007	2006	2005
Cash flow from operating activities	(8,049)	74,328	110,656	62,147
Net earnings (loss)	15,310	(25,548)	68,078	60,680
Cash distributions paid	22,923	66,847	86,509	77,013
Excess (shortfall) of cash from operating activities over distributions paid	(30,972)	7,481	24,147	(14,866)
Excess (shortfall) of net earnings (loss) over distributions paid	(7,613)	(92,395)	(18,431)	(16,333)

In the third quarter of 2007, cash outflow from operating activities was $8.0 million due to the $43.0 million seasonal increase in non-cash working capital. As a result, cash flow from operating activities was $31.0 million less than distributions paid. Year to date, cash flow from operating activities was $74.3 million, $7.5 million greater than distributions paid. Included in the calculation of year-to-date cash flow from operating activities was $29.3 million to fund changes in non-cash working capital. It is Keyera's policy to finance temporary fluctuations in non-cash working capital with short-term debt.

In the third quarter of 2007, distributions of $22.9 million exceeded net earnings by $7.6 million. Year to date, distributions of $66.8 million exceeded the net loss by $92.4 million. The shortfall is attributable to the inclusion of non-cash items for future income taxes ($2.7 million in the third quarter and $84.4 million year to date) and depreciation, amortization, accretion and impairment expense ($11.7 million in the third quarter and $33.9 million year to date) in the calculation of net income.

Future income taxes can fluctuate from period to period as a result of changes in tax rates (such as the enactment in the second quarter of 2007 of the tax on distributions of flow-through entities or the reduction of corporate tax rates in 2006) or changes in the operating results of the underlying operating entities of Keyera. These items do not affect cash flow generated in the current period.

Non-cash charges such as depreciation and amortization are based upon the historical cost of Keyera's property, plant and equipment and do not accurately represent the fair market value or the replacement cost of the assets in today's economic environment, nor do they affect cash flow generated in the current period.

Due to the inclusion of non-cash charges in net earnings, distributions paid will normally exceed net earnings. Although non-cash charges do not affect current period cash generation, to the extent these accruals are ultimately realized, future distributions may be reduced or the excess of distributions over net income would be a return of unitholders' capital.

Distributable Cash Flow

Distributable cash flow is not a standard measure under GAAP and therefore may not be comparable with the calculation of similar measures for other entities. Distributable cash flow is used to assess the level of cash flow generated from ongoing operations and to evaluate the adequacy of internally generated cash flow to fund distributions.

Following is a reconciliation of distributable cash flow to its most closely related GAAP measure, cash flow from operating activities.

Distributable Cash Flow (in thousands of dollars)	Three months ended September 30, 2007	2006[1]	Nine months ended September 30, 2007	2006[1]
Cash flow from operating activities	(8,049)	(12,449)	74,328	68,526
Add (deduct):
Changes in non cash working capital	42,981	35,893	29,334	7,039
Maintenance capital	(234)	(563)	(878)	(2,723)
Non-controlling interest distributable cash flow	0	(280)	(369)	(868)
Distributable cash flow	34,698	22,601	102,415	71,974
Distributions to unitholders	22,931	21,679	67,242	64,863

[1] The calculation of distributable cash flow for the comparative period has been amended to consider the non-cash effect of unrealized foreign exchange gains and losses. For the three and nine months ended September 30, 2006, $4 and $60 of unrealized foreign exchange gains have been included in the change in non-cash working capital.

Distributable cash flow of $34.7 million in the third quarter of 2007 and $102.4 million year to date exceeded distributions to unitholders of $22.9 million and $67.2 million in the respective periods.

Changes in non-cash working capital are excluded from the determination of distributable cash flow because they are primarily the result of seasonal fluctuations in product inventories or other temporary changes and are generally funded with short-term debt. Also deducted from distributable cash flow are maintenance capital expenditures that are funded from current operating cash flow.

Distribution policy

In determining the level of cash distributions to unitholders, Keyera's Board of Directors takes into consideration current and expected future levels of distributable cash flow, capital expenditures, borrowings and debt repayments, changes in working capital requirements and other factors.

Changes in non-cash working capital are primarily the result of seasonal fluctuations in product inventories or other temporary changes and are generally funded with short-term debt. These changes in non-cash working capital are therefore excluded in the determination of distributable cash flow.

Over the long-term, Keyera expects to pay distributions from distributable cash flow. Growth capital expenditures will be funded from retained operating cash flow, along with proceeds from additional debt or equity, as required. Although Keyera intends to continue to make regular cash monthly distributions to its unitholders, these distributions are not guaranteed.

Sustainability of distributions and asset base

Keyera operates long-life infrastructure assets consisting of natural gas processing plants and gathering systems, NGL processing plants, storage facilities and transportation facilities. These facilities provide services to numerous energy producers over a wide geographic area. Throughput at each natural gas processing plant is dependent upon the natural gas production of third party producers within the capture area or franchise area of the plant. Demand for fractionation, storage and transportation services is dependent upon the supply of NGL mix obtained from the processing of third party raw natural gas and the market demand for end-use products (propane, butane and condensate).

Keyera has comprehensive inspection, monitoring and maintenance programs in place. The objectives of these programs are to keep the facilities in good working order and to maintain their ability to operate reliably for many years. These maintenance and repair expenditures totaled $9.0 million in the third quarter of 2007 and $25.7 million year to date. Of these amounts $8.8 million and $24.8 million were included in operating costs and will be recovered through the fee structure over varying periods of time, depending upon the fee structure. At these levels of maintenance and repair, Keyera's plants and facilities can continue to operate safely for decades to come. Significant capital expenditures are not normally required to maintain the existing productive capacity, but may be required if significant changes are made in regulatory requirements.

Several of Keyera's sour gas plants rely on acid gas injection to dispose of the hydrogen sulphide and other waste products removed during processing. Acid gas injection involves the injection and sequestration of carbon dioxide and hydrogen sulphide into depleted underground reservoirs. The sustainability of this particular process is dependent upon the availability of suitable reservoirs. If suitable reservoirs were to become unavailable, alternate processes would be required, the capacity of the plant could be reduced or expenditures required to replace the lost capacity would be necessary. These alternatives would have an adverse affect on cash flow.

In addition to the operation of plant, pipeline and storage facilities, Keyera also conducts NGL marketing and crude oil midstream businesses. These businesses utilize facilities owned by Keyera to process, store and transport products that have been purchased from third parties.

Cash flows from operating activities are determined primarily by the quantity and composition of product throughput at the facility and the fee structure. Throughput is influenced by the ongoing development activities of numerous third parties who may increase production volumes by drilling new wells, tying in previously drilled wells, completing new zones in existing wells or enhancing production volumes through stimulation or enhanced recovery techniques. If third parties are unsuccessful in their development activities, Keyera's cash flow could be adversely affected despite having physical capacity available. Growth capital expenditures are generally undertaken to expand capture areas, add new capacity or introduce new services. If Keyera is unsuccessful in extending capture areas or adding new capacity and services, cash flow from operating activities may be reduced, thereby adversely affecting distributions.

Standard and Poor's has assigned the Fund an SR-3 stability rating, indicating the expectation of a high level of stability in distributions.

Additional information on the capacities and constraints related to Keyera's plants, other risks and trends that could affect the financial performance of Keyera and the steps taken to mitigate these risks, readers are referred to the descriptions in this MD&A and to Keyera's 2007 Annual Information Form, which is available on SEDAR.

Units and Convertible Debentures

During the third quarter of 2007, $0.2 million of convertible debentures (before adjustment for deferred financing costs) were converted into 16,747 trust units and 47,057 trust units were issued under the DRIP in consideration of $0.8 million, bringing the total units outstanding at September 30, 2007 to 61,168,668. Convertible debentures outstanding at September 30, 2007 were $22.0 million.

FUND REORGANIZATION

Keyera proposed a reorganization of its legal structure that was presented in the Management's Discussion and Analysis for the quarter ended March 31, 2007 and is described in detail in Keyera's Notice of Meeting and Proxy Statement and Information Circular, which was filed on SEDAR (www.sedar.com) on May 8, 2007. The intent of the reorganization is to streamline the existing legal structure and simplify accounting, legal reporting and income tax compliance, thereby reducing the general and administrative costs associated with these activities. Unitholders approved the reorganization at the annual and special Meeting of Unitholders on June 6, 2007.

Due to the interpretation of the legislation implementing the new tax on flow-through entities, Keyera has amended its advance ruling request to the CRA. The amended reorganization will not result in any significant immediate tax savings within Keyera's structure, but will permit Keyera to defer the utilization of some tax pools until after January 1, 2011. Assuming the CRA issues a favorable advance ruling request on a timely basis, the amended reorganization is expected to be implemented in early 2008, Keyera plans to reduce the use of its available tax deductions in years 2008 through to 2010, thereby increasing deductions available for the years after 2010.

Distributions to Canadian residents are expected to be approximately 50% to 70% return of capital in 2007, with distributions becoming largely or fully taxable in 2008 for Canadian non-exempt unitholders.

ACCOUNTING MATTERS AND CONTROLS

Critical accounting policies

Our unaudited Interim Consolidated Financial Statements have been prepared in accordance with Canadian GAAP. The changes in accounting policies are described in Note 3 to our unaudited Interim Consolidated Financial Statements and Note 2 of our 2006 Annual Report.

Changes in accounting policies

On January 1, 2007, we adopted the following CICA handbook sections:

- Section 1530, Comprehensive Income;
- Section 3251, Equity;

- Section 3855, Financial Instruments – Recognition and Measurement;
- Section 3861, Financial Instruments – Presentation and Disclosure; and
- Section 3865, Hedges

The new accounting standards address the classification, recognition and measurement and presentation and disclosure of financial instruments in the financial statements and require the inclusion of comprehensive income. As well, the new standards expand the definition of derivatives to include both financial and non-financial contracts.

Upon adoption of these new accounting standards, financial assets and liabilities are initially recognized at fair value and are subsequently accounted for based on their classification. Gains and losses on financial instruments measured at fair value are recognized in net earnings in the period in which they arise.

As of January 1, 2007, Keyera recorded $3.3 million as an asset held for trading and $0.1 million as a liability held for trading to recognize the fair value of the existing natural gas and electricity contracts previously designated as hedging items, as well as the fair value of all fixed price physical contracts not previously recognized. A corresponding adjustment was made to opening accumulated earnings. Subsequent changes in the fair value of the positions were recorded in net earnings.

The changes in accounting policies were applied prospectively, where applicable. Comparative figures have not been restated. For further details, see Note 3 to the interim consolidated financial statements.

Future changes in accounting policies

In 2006, the CICA issued three new accounting standards: Section 1535, Capital Disclosures; Section 3862, Financial Instruments – Disclosures; and Section 3863, Financial Instruments – Presentation. These new standards will be effective for the Fund on January 1, 2008. Section 1535 establishes new disclosures of capital including disclosing information regarding capital objectives, policies and processes for managing capital. Section 3862 and 3863 replace Section 3861, revising and enhancing disclosure requirements.

In June 2007, the CICA issued a new accounting standard, Section 3031, Inventories. This new standard replaces Section 3030 modifying the guidance concerning the scope, measurement and allocation of costs for inventory. This standard will be effective for the Fund on January 1, 2008.

Internal control over financial reporting

No changes were made in our internal control over financial reporting during the interim period ended September 30, 2007 that have materially affected, or are reasonably likely to materially affect, our internal control over financial reporting.

Investor Information

TAXABILITY OF DISTRIBUTIONS

Keyera currently anticipates that, for Canadian residents, approximately 50% to 70% of the Fund's 2007 distributions will be deemed a tax-deferred return of capital, with distributions becoming largely or fully taxable for Canadian non-exempt unitholders in 2008. This outlook is affected by Keyera's organizational structure and the implementation of the proposed internal reorganization, which was approved by Unitholders in June. This outlook is subject to change, depending on the levels of profitability and capital expenditures in each of Keyera's operating entities. Both Canadian and non-resident unitholders should seek independent tax advice in respect of the consequences to them of acquiring, holding and disposing of units. Factors that could affect the performance of the Fund and the taxability of the distributions are discussed in the Fund's Annual Information Form.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

A breakdown of Keyera's operational and financial results, including volumetric and contribution information by major business unit, is available on our website at www.keyera.com under Investor Information, Financial Information.

In the third quarter, Keyera realigned its Gathering and Processing assets into new business regions, the Foothills Region and the North Central Region. To assist in analysis, Keyera has reformatted its historical supplementary information to conform to the new business regions.

1. Structure of the Fund

Keyera Facilities Income Fund (the "Fund") is an unincorporated open-ended trust established under the laws of the Province of Alberta pursuant to the Fund Declaration of Trust dated April 3, 2003. The Fund indirectly owns a 100% interest in Keyera Energy Partnership (the "Partnership").

The Partnership is involved in the business of natural gas gathering and processing, as well as natural gas liquids ("NGLs") and crude oil processing, transportation, storage and marketing in Canada and the U.S. Its subsidiaries include Keyera Energy Facilities Ltd. ("KEFL"), Keyera Energy Ltd. ("KEL"), Keyera Energy Inc. ("KEI"), Keyera RPL Holdings Ltd. ("KRPL") and Rimbey Pipeline Limited Partnership ("RPLP").

The Fund is administered by and the Partnership is managed by Keyera Energy Management Ltd. ("KEML" or the "Managing Partner"). The Managing Partner has a 33.83% interest in the Partnership.

The Fund makes monthly cash distributions to unitholders of record on the last business day of each month. The amount of the distributions per trust unit is equal to the pro rata share of the distribution received indirectly from the Partnership and, in the event of the termination of the Fund, participating pro rata in the net assets remaining after satisfaction of all liabilities.

2. Basis of presentation

These unaudited interim consolidated financial statements have been prepared by management in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP"). The accounting policies applied are consistent with those disclosed in the Fund's consolidated financial statements as at and for the year ended December 31, 2006 as included in the Fund's 2006 Annual Report to unitholders except for the changes made in adopting new accounting standards.

These unaudited interim consolidated financial statements as at and for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 do not include all disclosures required for the preparation of annual consolidated financial statements and should be read in conjunction with the Fund's consolidated financial statements as at and for the year ended December 31, 2006.

Interim periods may not be representative of the results expected for the full year of operation due to seasonality. Certain of the comparative figures in prior periods have been reclassified to conform to the presentation in the current period.

3. Change in accounting policies

Effective January 1, 2007, the Fund adopted the following accounting standards issued by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants ("CICA"):

- Section 1530, Comprehensive Income;
- Section 3855, Financial Instruments – Recognition and Measurement;
- Section 3861, Financial Instruments – Disclosure and Presentation; and
- Section 3865, Hedges

The Fund has adopted these standards prospectively and comparative consolidated financial statements have not been restated. The Fund has selected December 31, 2003 as the date for identification of embedded derivatives. Transition amounts have been recorded in opening accumulated earnings.

Financial instruments and hedges
All financial instruments must initially be recognized at fair value on the balance sheet. The Fund has classified each financial instrument into the following categories:

- Financial assets and financial liabilities held for trading
- Loans or receivables
- Held to maturity
- Financial assets available for sale
- Other financial liabilities

Subsequent measurement of the financial instruments is based on their classification. Financial assets and financial liabilities held for trading are measured at fair value and changes in those fair values are recognized in net earnings. Financial assets available for sale are measured at fair value, with changes in those fair values recognized in other comprehensive income. Financial assets held to maturity, loans or receivables and other financial liabilities are measured at amortized cost using the effective interest rate method of amortization.

Upon adoption, the Fund has classified all financial assets as loans or receivables, with the exception of cash and cash equivalents and derivative instruments. Derivative instruments and cash and cash equivalents have been classified as held for trading. The Fund has classified all financial liabilities as other financial liabilities, with the exception of derivative instruments. Derivative instruments have been classified as held for trading. Gains and losses related to derivative contracts are recognized in revenue in the period in which they arise. The estimated fair value of assets and liabilities held for trading is determined by reference to quoted market prices and, if not available, to estimates from third-party brokers or dealers.

For long-term financial liabilities, the transaction costs that are directly attributable to the issue of a financial liability are added to the fair value initially recognized for that financial instrument. These costs are amortized to earnings using the effective interest rate method. For all financial assets and short-term financial liabilities, transaction costs are charged to earnings as incurred.

As of January 1, 2007, unamortized deferred financing fees of $985 relating to the Fund's long-term debt and $502 relating to convertible debentures have been reclassified for presentation purposes from intangible assets to long-term debt and convertible debentures. These fees are now amortized to earnings using the effective interest rate method.

The Fund assesses at each balance sheet date whether a financial asset carried at cost is impaired. If there is objective evidence that an impairment loss exists, the amount of the loss is measured as the difference between the carrying amount of the asset and its fair value. The carrying amount of the asset is reduced and the amount of the loss is recognized in earnings.

Effective January 1, 2007 the Fund has opted to discontinue the use of hedge accounting. All derivative instruments that previously qualified for hedge accounting have been recognized at fair value and unrealized gains and losses have been recorded in earnings.

Adopting these standards on January 1, 2007 resulted in the recognition of an asset held for trading in the amount of $3,314, a liability held for trading in the amount of $130 and a $3,184 increase to opening accumulated earnings. Assets held for trading are included in accounts receivable and liabilities held for trading are included in accounts payable and accrued liabilities. The effect on basic and diluted net earnings per unit was $0.05.

Comprehensive income
Comprehensive income consists of net earnings (loss) and other comprehensive income ("OCI"). OCI comprises the changes in the fair value of the effective portion of derivatives used as hedging items in a cash flow hedge, changes in the fair value of any available for sale financial instruments and foreign currency translation adjustments of self-sustaining foreign operations. Accumulated other comprehensive income ("AOCI") is a new equity category comprised of the cumulative amounts of OCI.

No amounts have been recorded in OCI or AOCI as a result of adopting this accounting standard.

Future accounting changes
In 2006, the CICA issued three new accounting standards: Section 1535, Capital Disclosures; Section 3862, Financial Instruments – Disclosures; and Section 3863, Financial Instruments – Presentation. These new standards will be effective for the Fund on January 1, 2008. Section 1535 establishes new disclosures of capital including disclosing information regarding capital objectives, policies and processes for managing capital. Sections 3862 and 3863 replace Section 3861, revising and enhancing disclosure requirements.

In June 2007, the CICA issued the new accounting standard, Section 3031 – Inventories. This new standard replaces Section 3030 modifying the guidance concerning the scope, measurement and allocation of costs of inventory. This standard will be effective for the Fund on January 1, 2008.

The Fund is currently evaluating the impact of adopting these new standards on the consolidated financial statements.

[1] Deferred financing costs have been reclassified to long-term debt upon adoption of the new accounting standards (see note 3). Previously, these costs were included in intangible assets.

(a) The Partnership has a $150,000 unsecured revolving credit facility with certain Canadian financial institutions led by the Royal Bank of Canada. The facility has a three-year revolving term and matures on April 21, 2010, unless extended. In addition, the Royal Bank of Canada has provided a $15,000 revolving demand facility and the Toronto Dominion Bank has provided a $10,000 revolving demand facility. The revolving credit facilities bear interest based on the lenders' rates for Canadian prime commercial loans, U.S. Base rate loans, Libor loans, or Bankers' Acceptances rates. The weighted average interest rates for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 were 5.80% and 5.63% (5.94% and 5.46% for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2006). As at September 30, 2007, the balance outstanding on the bank credit facilities was $40,000 ($100,984 as at December 31, 2006).

On July 12, 2007, the $7,000 unsecured revolving demand loan facility related to a subsidiary of the Partnership was terminated.

(b) In 2003, $125,000 of unsecured senior notes were issued by the Partnership and KEFL in three parts: $20,000 due in 2008 bearing interest at 5.42%, $52,500 due in 2010 bearing interest at 5.79% and $52,500 due in 2013 bearing interest at 6.16%. Interest is payable monthly. Financing costs of $1,215 have been deferred and are amortized using the effective interest rate method over the remaining terms of the related debt. The effective interest rates for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 were 5.63%, 5.95% and 6.29% for the notes due in 2008, 2010 and 2013 respectively (5.42%, 5.79% and 6.16% for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2006).

In 2004, $90,000 of unsecured senior notes were issued by KEFL and guaranteed by the Partnership. The notes bear interest at 5.23% and mature on October 1, 2009. Interest is payable semi-annually. Financing costs of $568 have been deferred and are amortized using the effective interest rate method over the remaining term of the debt. The effective interest rate for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 was 5.37% (5.23% for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2006).

On September 4, 2007, $80,000 of unsecured senior notes were issued by KEFL and guaranteed by the Partnership in two tranches: $40,000 due in 2017 bearing interest at 5.89% and $40,000 due in 2022 bearing interest at 6.14%. Interest is payable semi-annually. Financing costs of $687 have been deferred and are amortized using the effective interest rate method over the terms of the related debt. The effective interest rates for the period were 1.96% and 2.03% for the notes due in 2017 and 2022 respectively.

An additional $40,000 of unsecured senior notes will be issued in December 2007 by KEFL in two tranches: $20,000 due in 2017 bearing interest at 5.89% and $20,000 due in 2022 bearing interest at 6.14%.

5. Convertible debentures

In 2004, the Fund issued convertible unsecured subordinated debentures in the principal amount of $100,000. The convertible debentures bear interest at 6.75% per annum, payable semi-annually in arrears on June 30 and December 31 each year. Interest expense of $403 and $1,212 has been accrued for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 ($431 and $1,369 for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2006). These debentures will mature on June 30, 2011 and are convertible into trust units of the Fund at the option of the holders at any time prior to maturity at a conversion price of $12.00 per unit. At September 30, 2007, $77,604 debentures had been converted to trust units ($76,458 at December 31, 2006).

Financing costs consisting of an underwriters' commission of $4,000 and issuance costs of $332 have been deferred, and when there are no conversions, are being amortized over the term of the debt using the effective interest rate method. Upon conversion of the debentures, the financing cost related to the principal amount of debt converted is adjusted and is recognized as a charge to unitholders' equity. As a result of conversions to date at September 30, 2007, $2,832 has been reclassified to unitholders' equity ($2,782 at December 31, 2006). As at September 30, 2007, $398 of deferred financing costs remain. The effective interest rate for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 was 7.36% (6.75% for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2006).

6. Asset held for sale

Asset held for sale consisted of an interest in an electrical generator. In 2006, the equipment was written down to its estimated net realizable value recognizing a $373 charge to impairment expense. On January 23, 2007, the Fund sold its interest in the electrical generator for proceeds of $4,200.

7. Asset retirement obligation

8. Income taxes

On June 22, 2007, Bill C-52 Budget Implementation Act, 2007 was enacted by the Canadian federal government. This legislation proposes to tax publicly traded trusts in Canada. The new tax is not expected to apply to the Fund until 2011 as the government has provided a transition period for publicly traded trusts that existed prior to November 1, 2006. As a result of the new tax legislation, the Fund recorded an additional $80.2 million future income tax expense and increased its future income tax liability in the second quarter of 2007. This adjustment represents taxable temporary differences of the Partnership that were previously not recorded for future income tax purposes. These temporary differences have been recorded at a tax-effected rate of 31.5%, which is the rate that will be applicable in 2011 under the current legislation.

The following is a reconciliation of income taxes, calculated at the combined federal and provincial income tax rate, to the income tax provision included in the consolidated statements of net earnings (loss).

For income tax purposes, the Fund and its subsidiaries have non-capital losses carried forward of approximately $2,020 at September 30, 2007 ($11,987 at December 31, 2006) which are available to offset income of specific entities of the consolidated group in future periods. The benefit of these losses has been recorded at September 30, 2007.

During the second quarter of 2007, the Fund recorded a $5,780 future income tax liability with a corresponding increase to Goodwill. This adjustment relates to a prior period acquisition that did not reflect a future income tax impact for a temporary difference. A further $520 future tax liability and increase to Goodwill was recorded relating to the acquisition of the minority interest in RPLP (see note 17).

The future income tax (liabilities) assets relate to the (taxable) deductible temporary differences in the carrying values and tax bases as follows:

9. Unitholders' capital

The Declaration of Trust provides that an unlimited number of trust units may be authorized and issued. Each trust unit is transferable, and represents an equal undivided beneficial interest in any distribution from the Fund and in the net assets of the Fund in the event of termination or winding-up of the Fund. All trust units are of the same class with equal rights and privileges.

The Declaration of Trust also provides for the issuance of an unlimited number of special trust units that will be used solely for providing voting rights to persons holding securities that are directly or indirectly exchangeable for units and that, by their terms, have voting rights in the Fund.

The trust units are redeemable at the holder's option at an amount equal to the lesser of: (i) 90% of the weighted average price per unit during the period of the last 10 trading days during which the trust units were traded on the Toronto Stock Exchange; and (ii) an amount equal to (a) the closing market price of the units; (b) an amount equal to the average of the highest and lowest prices of units if there was trading on the date on which the units were tendered for redemption; or (c) the average of the last bid and ask prices if there was no trading on the date on which the units were tendered for redemption.

Redemptions are subject to a maximum of $50 cash redemptions in any particular month. Redemptions in excess of this amount will be paid by way of a distribution in specie of assets of the Fund that may include Commercial Trust Series 1 notes.

The Fund has a Distribution Reinvestment and Optional Unit Purchase Plan ("DRIP") that permits unitholders to reinvest cash distributions for additional units. This plan allows eligible participants an opportunity to reinvest distributions into trust units at a 3% discount to a weighted average market price, so long as units are issued from treasury under the DRIP. The Fund has the right to notify participants that units will be acquired in the market, in which case units will be purchased at the weighted average market price. Eligible unitholders can also make optional unit purchases under the optional unit purchase component of the plan at the weighted average market price.

10. Net earnings (loss) per unit

Basic per unit calculations for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 and 2006 were based on the weighted average number of units outstanding for the related period. Convertible debentures were in the money for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 and 2006 and contributed to the increase in diluted weighted average number of units for these periods.

Beginning in the second quarter of 2006, incentive awards have been excluded from the calculation of diluted weighted average number of units as units are delivered by acquiring them on the market, rather than issuing them from treasury.

Pursuant to the Fund Declaration of Trust dated April 3, 2003 and its subsequent amendments, the Fund makes monthly distributions to holders on record on the last day of each month. Payments are made on or about the 15th day of the following month.

Distributions are paid from "Cash Flow of the Trust", a term that is defined in the Fund Declaration of Trust dated April 3, 2003. The Board of Directors of the Fund may, on or before each Distribution Record Date, declare payable all or any part of the Cash Flow of the Trust for the Distribution Period. The amount and level of distributions to be made for each Distribution Period is determined at the discretion of the Board of Directors of the Fund. In determining its distribution policy, the Board of Directors of the Fund considers several factors, including the Fund's current and future cash flow, capital requirements, debt repayments and other factors.

12. Compensation plans

The Long Term Incentive Plan (the "LTIP" or the "Plan") compensates officers, directors, key employees and consultants by delivering units of the Fund or paying cash in lieu of units. Participants in the LTIP are granted rights ("unit awards") to receive units of the Fund on specified dates in the future. The Plan permits the directors of KEML to authorize the grant of unit awards from time to time. Units are acquired in the marketplace under the plan.

The Plan consists of two types of unit awards, which are described below. Unit awards and the delivery of units under the Plan are accounted for in accordance with the intrinsic value method of accounting for stock-based compensation. The aggregate compensation cost recorded for the Plan was ($185) and $4,062 for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 ($1,474 and $4,266 for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2006).

During the three months ended September 30, 2007, 389,541 units were purchased on the market at a cost of $7,237 and delivered to Plan participants under the Plan.

(a) Performance Unit Awards

The Performance Unit Awards will vest 100% on the third anniversary of the effective date of each award, July 1, 2005, July 1, 2006 and July 1, 2007. The number of units to be delivered will be determined by the financial performance of the Fund over the three-year period and is calculated by multiplying the number of unit awards by an adjustment ratio and a payout multiplier. The adjustment ratio adjusts the number of units to be delivered to reflect the per unit cash distributions paid by the Fund to its unitholders during the term that the unit award is outstanding. The payout multiplier is based upon the actual three-year average annual cash distributions per unit of the Fund. The table below describes the relationship between the three-year average annual cash distribution per unit and the payout multiplier.

	Three-year annual cash distributions per unit
	July 1, 2005 Grant	July 1, 2006 Grant	July 1, 2007 Grant	Payout Multiplier
	Less than 1.32	Less than 1.42	Less than 1.44	Nil
First range	1.32 – 1.39	1.42 – 1.51	1.44 – 1.51	50%– 99%
Second range	1.40 – 1.55	1.52 – 1.71	1.52 – 1.67	100% – 199%
Third range	1.56 and greater	1.72 and greater	1.68 or greater	200%

As of September 30, 2007, 491,530 Performance Unit Awards (529,867 at December 31, 2006) were outstanding: 166,705 effective July 1, 2005, 147,100 effective July 1, 2006 and 177,725 effective July 1, 2007. The compensation cost recorded for these units for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 were ($371) and $3,288, using the applicable closing market price of a unit of the Fund ($422 and $2,685 for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2006).

(b) Time Vested Unit Awards ("Restricted Unit Awards")

Restricted Unit Awards will vest automatically, over a three-year period from the effective date of the award on July 1, 2005 and July 1, 2006 and July 1, 2007, regardless of the performance of the Fund. The number of units to be delivered will be modified by an adjustment ratio which reflects the per unit distributions paid by the Fund to its unitholders during the term that the unit award is outstanding.

As of September 30, 2007, 90,895 Restricted Unit Awards (98,735 at December 31, 2006) were outstanding: 12,017 effective July 1, 2005, 25,753 effective July 1, 2006 and 53,125 effective July 1, 2007. The compensation cost recorded for these units for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 was $186 and $774, using the applicable closing market price of a unit of the Fund ($1,052 and $1,581 for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2006).

13. Financial instruments

Financial instruments include cash and cash equivalents, accounts receivable, accounts payable and accrued liabilities, distributions payable, credit facilities, long-term debt, convertible debentures and derivatives held for trading (derivative financial instruments such as foreign exchange contracts, oil price contracts, natural gas price contracts, power price contracts and physical fixed price contracts).

Derivatives held for trading

Subsidiaries of the Fund enter into contracts to purchase and sell natural gas, NGLs and crude oil. These contracts are exposed to commodity price risk between the time contracted volumes are purchased and sold and currency exchange risk for those sales denominated in U.S. dollars. These risks are actively managed by using forward currency contracts and swaps, energy related forwards, swaps and options and by balancing physical and financial contracts in terms of volumes, timing of performance and delivery obligations. Management monitors the exposure to the above risks and regularly reviews its financial instrument activities and all outstanding positions.

A significant amount of electricity is consumed by the operating entities at their facilities. Due to the fixed fee nature of some service contracts in place with customers, these entities are unable to flow the cost of electricity to customers in all situations. In order to mitigate this exposure to fluctuations in the price of electricity, price swap agreements may be used.

Natural gas, NGL and crude oil contracts that require physical delivery at fixed prices and do not meet the Fund's expected purchase, sale or usage requirements are accounted for as derivative financial instruments.

Derivative instruments held for trading are recorded on the consolidated statement of financial position at fair value. Changes in the fair value of these financial instruments are recognized in earnings in the period in which they arise.

As at September 30, 2007, $2,136 of assets held for trading were included in accounts receivable and $9,807 of liabilities held for trading were included in accounts payable and accrued liabilities. Unrealized (losses) gains, representing the change in fair value of derivative contracts are recorded in Marketing operating revenue and NGL Infrastructure operating expense.

The unrealized (loss) gain relating to derivative contracts were as follows:

The estimated fair value of all derivatives held for trading is based on quoted market prices and, if not available, on estimates from third-party brokers or dealers.

Fair value

The carrying values of cash and cash equivalents, accounts receivable, accounts payable and accrued liabilities and distributions payable approximate their fair values because the instruments are near maturity or have no fixed repayment terms. The fair value of the credit facilities approximates fair value due to their floating rates of interest.

Credit risk

The majority of accounts receivable are due from entities in the oil and gas industry and are subject to normal industry credit risks. Concentration of credit risk is mitigated by having a broad domestic and international customer base. The Fund evaluates and monitors the financial strength of its customers in accordance with its credit policy. At September 30, 2007, the accounts receivable from the two largest customers amounted to 3% of accounts receivable (December 31, 2006 – less than 1%). Revenue from the two largest customers amounted to 19% and 16% of operating revenue for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 (14% and 12% for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2006). With respect to counterparties for derivative financial instruments, the credit risk is managed through dealing with recognized futures exchanges or investment grade financial institutions and by maintaining credit policies, which significantly minimize overall counter party credit risk.

Foreign currency rate risk

The Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure segments, where all sales and virtually all purchases are denominated in Canadian dollars, are not subject to foreign currency rate risk. In the Marketing business, approximately US$44,123 and US$157,876 of sales were priced in U.S. dollars for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 (US$69,596 and US$234,458 for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2006).

The Fund realized and recorded $510 and $1,222 of foreign currency loss in Marketing operating expenses for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 ($156 and ($381) for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2006). A further $241 and $1,526 of unrealized foreign currency gains were recorded in Marketing operating expenses for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2007 ($nil of unrealized foreign currency gains for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2006).

Currency exchange risk is actively managed by using forward currency contracts and swaps. Management monitors the exposure to currency exchange risk and regularly reviews its financial instrument activities and all outstanding positions.

Interest rate risk

The majority of the Fund's interest rate risk is attributed to its fixed and floating rate debt, which is used to finance operations. The Fund's remaining financial instruments are not significantly exposed to interest rate risk. The floating rate debt creates exposure to interest rate cash flow risk, whereas the fixed rate debt creates exposure to interest rate price risk. At September 30, 2007, fixed rate borrowings comprised 88% of total debt outstanding (December 31, 2006 – 67%). The fair value of the senior fixed rate debt at September 30, 2007 was $295,257 (December 31, 2006 - $224,457). The fair value of the Fund's unsecured convertible debentures at September 30, 2007 was $34,266 (December 31, 2006 - $31,782).

14. Commitments and contingencies

The Fund, through its operating entities, is involved in various contractual agreements with a major oil and gas producer. The agreements range from one to eleven years and comprise the processing of the producer's natural gas and the purchase of NGL production in the areas specified in the agreements. The purchase prices are based on current period market prices.

There are operating lease commitments relating to railway tank cars, vehicles, computer hardware, office space, terminal space and natural gas transportation. The estimated annual minimum operating lease rental payments from these commitments are as follows:

2008	8,287
2009	7,369
2010	5,804
2011	4,721
Thereafter	5,864
	34,313

There are legal actions for which the ultimate results cannot be ascertained at this time. Management does not expect the outcome of any of these proceedings to have a material effect on the financial position or results of operations.

16. Segmented information

The Fund has three reportable segments: Marketing, Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure. The Marketing business consists of marketing NGLs, sulphur and crude oil. Gathering and Processing includes natural gas gathering and processing. NGL Infrastructure includes NGL and crude oil processing, transportation and storage. The accounting policies of the segments are the same as that described in the summary of significant accounting policies. Inter-segment sales and expenses are recorded at current market prices.

17. Non-controlling interest

In the first quarter of 2007, the Fund purchased an additional ownership interest in Rimbey Pipe Line Co. Ltd. for a purchase price of $1,513. In the second quarter of 2007, Rimbey Pipe Line Co. Ltd. was converted to a limited partnership (RPLP) and the Fund acquired the remaining interest in RPLP for a purchase price of $5,203 bringing the Fund's ownership in RPLP to 100%. The difference between the fair value of the transactions and the carrying value of RPLP's net assets resulted in a difference of $3,666, which was applied to property, plant and equipment. A future tax liability and corresponding increase to Goodwill was recorded in the amount of $520. As a result, the non-controlling interest has been removed from the Consolidated Statement of Financial Position.

Keyera Announces Pipeline Extension and Provides 2007 Capital Spending Update

RECEIVED

CORPORATE FINANCE

CALGARY, Dec. 20 /CNW/ - Keyera Facilities Income Fund (TSX:KEY.UN; KEY.DB) ("Keyera") announced today a project to extend its Caribou North Gas Gathering System in early 2008. The 6-inch sour gas pipeline extension will run in a northwest direction approximately 24 kilometres from the north end of the existing pipeline and connect with an existing unutilized pipeline system acquired by Keyera in the second quarter of 2007. This project will provide pipeline infrastructure and processing access to about 500 square kilometres of geologically prospective natural gas lands in the Trutch and Bougie areas of British Columbia. The pipeline extension is expected to cost approximately $8 million and, assuming reasonable winter weather, is expected to be completed by the end of the first quarter of 2008.

Keyera's Caribou gas plant and gathering pipeline systems are located in northeastern British Columbia, about 170 kilometres north of Fort St. John. In 2006, Keyera constructed the 50-kilometre Caribou North Gas Gathering System to provide gathering infrastructure to producers north of the plant and Keyera expanded the Caribou gas plant's processing capacity by 25 million cubic feet per day to 65 million cubic feet per day.

"The area to the north of the Caribou plant is experiencing a very high level of producer activity and recent land sale activity has been strong," said Jim Bertram, President and CEO of Keyera. "This is due in part to the efforts of the Government of British Columbia to stimulate activity in the province. This pipeline extension is the next step in our strategy for the area, providing the necessary pipeline infrastructure to allow our customers to tie in their production quickly. In anticipation of incremental production from this new area, we have initiated detailed engineering for a second expansion of the Caribou plant."

Keyera also provided an update on its 2007 capital spending. Keyera expects that its 2007 growth capital outlook will be approximately $30 million, down from the estimate of $40 to $50 million provided in early November. This reduction results from a change in the timing of work associated with a number of projects currently underway. This work is now expected to occur early in 2008, rather than in the fourth quarter of 2007. As a result, Keyera's 2008 growth capital spending is now forecasted to be between $80 and $100 million.

Keyera Announces Closing Details of Internal Reorganization

RECEIVED
2008 JUL 31 P 1:40
CORPORATE FINANCE

CALGARY, Dec. 20 /CNW/ - Keyera Facilities Income Fund (TSX:KEY.UN; KEY.DB) ("Keyera" or the "Fund") announced today that it has received all necessary approvals relating to the internal reorganization approved by Unitholders in June 2007 and expects to implement the reorganization on January 2, 2008. The reorganization will streamline Keyera's existing structure, enhance tax-planning flexibility, simplify accounting, legal, reporting and income tax compliance, and reduce the general and administrative costs associated with these activities.

Due to uncertainty surrounding the interpretation of the legislation imposing the new tax on flow-through entities, Keyera amended some of the details of the reorganization presented to Unitholders at the annual and special meeting of the Fund held in June 2007. As a result, the amended reorganization will not result in any significant immediate tax savings within Keyera's structure, but will permit Keyera to defer the utilization of some tax pools until after January 1, 2011. As at January 1, 2007, Keyera had approximately $385 million of unutilized tax pools and deductions, consisting mostly of class 41 undepreciated capital costs, available for deduction by the Fund's subsidiaries. Keyera plans to reduce the use of its available tax deductions in years 2008 through 2010, thereby increasing deductions available for the years after 2010.

"The completion of this reorganization will be an important step for Keyera as we prepare for the implementation of the Government of Canada's new tax on the distributions of publicly-traded Canadian income trusts in 2011." said Jim Bertram, President & CEO of Keyera. "In addition to the benefits associated with simplified accounting, legal, reporting and income tax compliance, the reorganization provides us with enhanced tax planning flexibility that should enable us to minimize the amount of cash taxes payable by Keyera in 2011."

Having received an advance income tax ruling from the Canada Revenue Agency confirming that the reorganization can be completed without adverse Canadian tax consequences for the Fund or its Unitholders, and final court approval for the plan of arrangement pursuant to which the reorganization will be implemented, Keyera is positioned to close the reorganization on January 2, 2008.

In connection with the implementation of the reorganization, a number of events will take place, including the issuance and redemption of shares and units of a number of subsidiaries of the Fund and the payment on January 2, 2008 of a special cash distribution in the amount of $0.003529 per unit plus a special in kind distribution in the amount of $0.02 per unit to Unitholders of record as of December 31, 2007. These special distributions are considered to be a return of capital and should not be included in income. For further information on the tax considerations applicable to these special distributions, Unitholders are encouraged to refer to the tax information provided on the "Investor Information" section of the Keyera website at www.keyera.com, or to pages 50 through 51 of the Fund's Information Circular dated April 30, 2007 which is available on SEDAR at www.sedar.com.

The reorganization does not involve the acquisition of any additional interest in any operating assets or the disposition of any of the Fund's existing interests in operating assets. Upon completion of the reorganization, each Unitholder will continue to hold the same number of units and the Fund will continue to own the same proportionate interest in the assets that each held immediately prior to the reorganization.

Keyera Completes Internal Reorganization

OFFICE OF INTERNATIONAL
CORPORATE FINANCE

CALGARY, Jan. 2 /CNW/ - Keyera Facilities Income Fund (TSX:KEY.UN; KEY.DB) ("Keyera" or the "Fund") announced today that it completed an internal reorganization of the Fund and certain of its subsidiaries previously approved by its Unitholders in June 2007.

In late December Keyera received both an advance income tax ruling from the Canada Revenue Agency confirming that the reorganization could be completed without adverse Canadian tax consequences for the Fund or its Unitholders, and a final court order approving the plan of arrangement pursuant to which the reorganization was implemented. Receipt of the ruling and the court approval paved the way for Keyera to implement the reorganization earlier today.

The reorganization streamlines Keyera's existing structure, simplifies accounting, legal, reporting and income tax compliance, and reduces the general and administrative costs associated with these activities. In addition, it provides enhanced tax planning flexibility that should enable Keyera to minimize the amount of cash taxes payable by Keyera in 2011, when the Government of Canada's new tax on the distributions of existing publicly-traded Canadian income trusts takes effect. The reorganization did not involve the acquisition of any additional interest in any operating assets or the disposition of any of the Fund's existing interests in operating assets.

As at January 1, 2007, Keyera had approximately $385 million of unutilized tax pools and deductions, consisting mostly of class 41 undepreciated capital costs, available for deduction by the Fund's subsidiaries. Keyera plans to reduce the use of its available tax deductions in years 2008 through 2010, thereby increasing deductions available for the years after 2010.

The General Partner is to exercise its powers and discharge its duties honestly, in good faith and in the best interests of the Partnership and to exercise the care, diligence and skill of a reasonably prudent person in comparable circumstances.

(b) Execution of Documents. The General Partner, acting through its President or any other proper officer, or such other Person as may be specified by the General Partner, shall have the authority, in the name of and on behalf of the Partnership, to execute contracts, agreements, instruments, notes and other documents which are approved by the General Partner, including documents acquiring or conveying real or personal property, or creating a mortgage or security interest with respect to the Partnership Assets.

(c) Any action by the Limited Partners for removal of the General Partner under Section 6.4(a) must also provide for the election and succession of a new general partner. Such removal shall be effective immediately following admission of the successor General Partner to the Partnership.

6.5 Withdrawal of General Partner

Any voluntary withdrawal of the General Partner shall be effective immediately following the admission of the successor General Partner to the Partnership.

6.6 Transfer to New General Partner

On the admission of a new General Partner on the resignation, removal or withdrawal of the General Partner, the resigning or retiring General Partner will do all things and take all steps to transfer the administration, management, control and operation of the Business and the books, records and accounts of the Partnership to the new General Partner and will execute and delver all deeds, certificates, declarations and other documents necessary or desirable to effect such transfer in a timely fashion, including any such documents required to transfer title to the Partnership Assets.

6.7 Liability and Indemnification of Certain Persons

(a) No Partner or Affiliate of any Partner, nor any officer, director, shareholder, partner, employee or trustee of any of the foregoing, nor any person acting in a capacity similar to an officer, director, shareholder, partner, employee or trustee of any of the foregoing, nor any member of the board of directors of the General Partner shall be liable, responsible or accountable in damages or otherwise to the Partnership or any Partner for any act or omission performed or omitted (i) honestly and in good faith with a view to the best interests of the Partnership, a Partner or an Affiliate of a Partner (ii) in a manner reasonably believed by it not to be inconsistent with this Agreement, and (iii) in a manner not constituting willful misconduct, fraud or gross negligence.

(b) Each trustee, director and officer, and each former trustee, director and officer of each of the Keyera Entities and their respective heirs, successors and legal representatives (collectively the "Indemnified Parties") shall be entitled to be and shall be indemnified and reimbursed out of the Partnership Assets in respect of any and all taxes, penalties or interest in respect of unpaid taxes or other governmental charges imposed upon such Person in consequence of his or her performance of duties hereunder and in respect of any and all costs, charges and expenses, including amounts paid to settle an action or satisfy a judgment, reasonably incurred in respect of any civil, criminal or administrative action or proceeding to which such Person is made a party by reason of being or having been a trustee, director or officer of any of the Keyera Entities; provided that an Indemnified Party shall not be indemnified out of the Partnership Assets in respect of such costs, charges and expenses that arise out of his or her failure to act honestly and in good faith with a view to the best interests of the Partnership or a Keyera Entity, or, in the case of a criminal or administrative action or proceeding that is enforced by a monetary penalty, where the Indemnified Party did not have reasonable grounds for believing his or her conduct was lawful. ARTICLE 7

LIMITED PARTNERS

7.1 Limitation on Authority of Limited Partners

(a) No Limited Partner (unless it is also the general partner of the Partnership) shall, except in his, her or its capacity as an officer, director, agent, or employee of the General Partner or an Affiliate thereof:

(i) take part in the administration, control, management or operation of the business of the Partnership or exercise any power in connection therewith or transact business on behalf of the Partnership;

7.2 Limited Liability of Limited Partners

Subject to the provisions of the Act and of similar legislation in other jurisdictions, the liability of each Limited Partner for the debts, liabilities and obligations of the Partnership shall be limited to the Limited Partner's Capital Contribution, plus the Limited Partner's pro rata share of any undistributed income of the Partnership. Where Limited Partners have received the return of all or part of their Capital Contribution, except where their Capital Contributions are reduced in accordance with this Agreement or where the Partnership is dissolved, the Limited Partners shall be liable to the Partnership's creditors for any amount, not in excess of the amount returned with interest, necessary to discharge the liabilities of the Partnership to all creditors who extended credit or whose claims otherwise arose before the return of the Capital Contribution. Subject to the immediately preceding sentence, following payment of its Capital Contribution, a Limited Partner shall have no further liability for the debts, liabilities and obligations of the Partnership and shall not be liable for any further claims or assessments or be required to make further contributions to the Partnership.

7.3 Indemnity of Limited Partners

The General Partner will indemnify and hold harmless each Limited Partner (including former Limited Partners) for all costs, expenses, damages or liabilities suffered or incurred by the Limited Partner if the limited liability of such Limited Partner is lost for or by reason of the fraud, gross negligence or wilful misconduct of the General Partner in performing its duties and obligations hereunder.

7.4 Compliance with Laws

Each Limited Partner will, on the request of the General Partner from time to time, immediately execute any documents considered by the General Partner to be necessary to comply with any applicable law or regulation of any jurisdiction, for the continuation, operation or good standing of the Partnership.

KEYERA FACILITIES INCOME FUND
FORM 51-102F3
MATERIAL CHANGE REPORT

Item 1. Name and Address of Company

Keyera Facilities Income Fund
600, Sun Life Plaza West Tower
144 – 4th Avenue SW
Calgary, Alberta T2P 3N4

Item 2. Date of Material Change

January 2, 2008

Item 3. News Release

A news release disclosing the material change disclosed herein was issued through CNW Group on January 2, 2008.

Item 4. Summary of Material Change

On January 2, 2008, Keyera Facilities Income Fund ("Keyera" or the "Fund") announced the completion of the previously announced internal reorganization of the Fund (the "Reorganization") by way of a plan of arrangement (the "Plan of Arrangement").

Unitholders approved the Reorganization by special resolution ("Special Resolution") at the annual and special meeting of Unitholders on June 6, 2007 (the "Meeting"). Due to uncertainty surrounding the interpretation of legislation implementing the Federal Government's new tax on flow-through entities (which is expected to apply to Keyera commencing in 2011) at the time of the Reorganization, the Board of Directors of Keyera Energy Management Ltd. ("KEML"), Administrator of the Fund, approved amendments to the Reorganization and Plan of Arrangement. The amendments were made in accordance with the authority granted in the Special Resolution and did not result in Unitholders being treated in a way materially different and adverse compared to the treatment described in the Information Circular dated April 30, 2007 (the "Information Circular").

On December 19, 2007, the Fund obtained a favourable advance ruling from the Canada Revenue Agency with respect to the Reorganization, as amended, and on December 20, 2007 the Alberta Court of Queen's Bench granted the final order approving the Plan of Arrangement.

The Reorganization, as amended, is described in more detail below and further information is available in the Information Circular which is available on the SEDAR website at www.sedar.com and on Keyera's website at www.keyera.com.

Item 5. Full Description of Material Change

On January 2, 2008, the Fund announced the completion of the previously announced Reorganization. The intent of the Reorganization is to streamline the existing legal structure and to simplify accounting, legal reporting and income tax compliance, thereby reducing the general and administrative costs associated with these activities. As a result of amendments to the Reorganization, the Reorganization will not result in significant immediate tax savings within Keyera's structure; however, it will permit Keyera to defer the utilization of some tax pools until after January 1, 2011 when the new federal tax on publicly traded flow-through entities is expected to apply to Keyera.

As part of the Reorganization, the Fund amended its Declaration of Trust. The amendments to the Declaration of Trust are described in detail in the Information Circular, with the only change being that, as a result of the amendments to the Reorganization, it was no longer necessary to create a new class of preferred units of the Fund. A copy of the Declaration of Trust is filed on SEDAR at www.sedar.com and is available for viewing on Keyera's website at www.keyera.com.

In accordance with the Plan of Arrangement, the following transactions occurred as part of the amended Reorganization:

(a) the Unitholder Rights Plan (the "Rights Plan") of the Fund was temporarily suspended such that no rights were issued in connection with the Units issued during the Reorganization;

(b) the amended and restated declaration of trust of the Fund dated November 1, 2005 (the "Fund Declaration of Trust") was amended in the manner approved by the Unitholders (except for the amendments relating to the creation and treatment of a new class of preferred units of the Fund which were no longer required as a result of the amendments to the original plan of arrangement) to facilitate the Arrangement (the "Arrangement Amendments"), which Arrangement Amendments provide for, among other things, the creation of a new class of special non-voting units of the Fund (the "Fund Special Non-Voting Units");

(c) the amended and restated declaration of trust of CT dated January 1, 2006 (the "CT Declaration of Trust") was amended in the manner approved by the Unitholders to facilitate the Arrangement (the "CT Arrangement Amendments"), which CT Arrangement Amendments provide for, among other things, the renaming of the existing units of CT as ordinary units ("CT Ordinary Units") and the creation of a new class of special units of CT (the "CT Special Units");

(d) the Fund used the proceeds from temporary borrowings from an arm's-length third party (the "Temporary Borrowings") to subscribe for First Preferred Shares Series 1 of KEML having a redemption amount equal to the amount owing (the "KEML Debt") by KEML to Keyera Energy Facilities Limited ("KEFL"), and KEML applied the amount received by it to repay the KEML Debt;

(e) Keyera Facilities Limited Partnership ("Facilities LP") and KEML, as the partners of Keyera Energy Partnership ("KEP"), amended the KEP partnership agreement such that KEP became a limited partnership known as Keyera Energy Limited Partnership ("KEP LP"), with Facilities LP and KEML each holding the same percentage of limited partnership interests in KEP LP as they held general partnership interests in KEP and Keyera GP Ltd. ("GP #1") becoming the general partner of KEP LP, contributing $1,000 for a 0.01% general partnership interest in KEP LP;

(f) Facilities LP was wound up and distributed an undivided interest in each of its assets to each of Keyera Energy (LP) Ltd. ("GP Ltd.") and CT in proportion to their respective interests in Facilities LP;

(g) GP Ltd. and CT sold their undivided interests in KEP LP to KEML for First Preferred Shares Series 2 of KEML having an aggregate redemption amount equal to the fair market value of the undivided interests in KEP LP so transferred;

(h) the First Preferred Shares Series 2 of KEML held by GP Ltd. were redeemed for cash in an amount equal to the aggregate redemption amount of the First Preferred Shares Series 2 of KEML so redeemed;

(i) the share capital of KEML was reorganized such that:

i. all of the issued and outstanding common shares and First Preferred Shares Series 1 of KEML then held by the Fund were changed into First Preferred Shares Series 3 of KEML having an aggregate redemption amount equal to the fair market value of such common shares and such preferred shares;

ii. all the preferred shares of KEML held by CT and the First Preferred Shares Series 2 of KEML acquired by CT upon the transfer of the undivided interest in KEP LP were changed into First Preferred Shares Series 3 having an aggregate redemption amount equal to the fair market value of such preferred shares; and

iii. the amount allocated to the stated capital of the First Preferred Shares Series 3 of KEML was $1.00;

(j) the Fund subscribed for ten common shares of KEML for $1.00 per share;

(k) the Fund conveyed its First Preferred Shares Series 3 of KEML to Keyera Administration Ltd. ("KEML #3") in exchange for additional common shares of KEML #3 having an aggregate fair market value equal to the fair market value of the First Preferred Shares Series 3 of KEML so conveyed;

(l) CT conveyed its First Preferred Shares Series 3 of KEML to KEML #3 in exchange for common shares of KEML #3 having an aggregate fair market value equal to the fair market value of the First Preferred Shares Series 3 of KEML so conveyed;

(m) KEML retained (i) cash equal to any of its liabilities which could not be assumed, (ii) certain working capital assets, and (iii) certain management and administration agreements, including the administration agreement with the Fund, but sold all of its other assets (including shares of GP #1, Keyera Energy Finance Corp. ("Finco") and Keyera Rimbey Ltd.) to KEML #3 in consideration for KEML #3 assuming the outstanding indebtedness of KEML to the Fund (the "KEML Notes") and issuing preferred shares of KEML #3 with an aggregate redemption amount equal to the fair market value of assets so transferred less the fair market value of the liabilities so assumed and with stated capital equal to $1.00;

(n) KEML #3 redeemed its preferred shares and delivered a promissory note to KEML as payment of the redemption amount and KEML redeemed its First Preferred Shares Series 3 of KEML and delivered a promissory note to KEML #3 as payment of the redemption amount, which two promissory notes were set off against each other;

(o) the Fund subscribed for a number of Class A Preferred Shares ("Class A Shares") of Keyera Energy Mutual Fund Corp. ("MFC") equal to the number of issued and outstanding units of the Fund ("Units") plus the number of Units held by designated beneficiaries, as defined under the Income Tax Act (Canada) ("the Tax Act") in consideration for a cash payment of $0.01 per Class A Share;

(p) the Fund distributed the Class A Shares to its Unitholders as a return of capital on the basis of one Class A Share for each Unit held plus an additional Class A Share for each Unit held by Unitholders who was a designated beneficiary; in connection with the distribution by the Fund of the Class A Shares to the Unitholders, the Fund caused to be remitted to the Receiver General for Canada, on behalf of each Unitholder that is a non-resident of Canada for the purposes of the Tax Act, an amount equal to the amount required to be withheld on behalf of such Unitholder in respect of the return of capital and the Fund distributed to each Unitholder that is a resident of Canada a cash amount per Unit equal to the amount remitted to the Receiver General for Canada for every Unit held by a non-resident of Canada;

(q) the Fund transferred the common shares of KEML #3 held by the Fund and the KEML Notes to MFC for an aggregate purchase price equal to the fair market value of the property so transferred and MFC satisfied the purchase price by issuing Class B Preferred Shares of MFC ("Class B Shares") having an aggregate redemption amount equal to such fair market value to the Fund;

(r) CT transferred the KEML #3 common shares held by CT to MFC for an aggregate purchase price equal to the fair market value of such property so transferred and MFC satisfied the purchase price by issuing Class B Shares having an aggregate redemption amount equal to such fair market value to CT;

(s) KEML #3 and MFC amalgamated under the name "Keyera Energy Mutual Fund Corp." ("Amalco");

(t) the Fund subscribed for a number of CT Special Units equal to the number of its issued and outstanding Units held by Unitholders who were not designated beneficiaries in consideration for a cash payment of $0.01 per CT Special Unit;

(u) the Fund distributed such CT Special Units to its Unitholders (other than Unitholders who are designated beneficiaries) as a return of capital; the Fund caused to be remitted to the Receiver General for Canada, on behalf of each Unitholder that was a non-resident of Canada for the purposes of the Tax Act, an amount equal to the amount required by the Tax Act to be withheld on behalf of the Unitholder in respect of the return of capital; the Fund distributed to each Unitholder that is not a non-resident of Canada a cash amount per Unit equal to the amount remitted to the Receiver General for Canada for every Unit held by a non-resident of Canada;

(v) CT retained $10 in cash but otherwise transferred all its assets to the Fund in exchange for (i) the assumption by the Fund of all amounts owed by CT to the Fund (the "CT Debt"), (ii) the issuance of that number of Fund Special Non-Voting Units equal to the number of CT Special Units then outstanding, and (iii) the issuance of that number of Units together having a fair market value of such transferred assets less the amount of the CT Debt assumed and the fair market value of the Fund Special Non-Voting Units;

(w) CT redeemed all of the outstanding CT Special Units in exchange for Fund Special Non-Voting Units and redeemed all of the outstanding CT Ordinary Units (save for one CT Ordinary Unit held by the Fund) in exchange for Units acquired by it from the Fund;

(x) the Units received by the Fund on the redemption of the CT Ordinary Units were immediately cancelled;

(y) Amalco transferred all of its property to the Fund (other than an amount of cash to cover any liabilities that cannot be assumed) in exchange for:

i. the Fund assuming any remaining liabilities of Amalco,

ii. a number of Fund Special Non-Voting Units equal to the number of its outstanding Class A Shares, and

iii. a number of Units having a fair market value equal to the aggregate redemption amount of its Class B Shares;

(z) Amalco redeemed all its outstanding Class A Shares in exchange for Fund Special Non-Voting Units and redeemed all its outstanding Class B Shares in exchange for the Units that were received on the transfer of its property to the Fund described in the preceding paragraph; the Units received by the Fund on the redemption of the Class B Shares were immediately cancelled;

(aa) each Fund Special Non-Voting Unit was converted into a fraction of a Fund Unit, the numerator of which is $0.01 and denominator of which was the fair market value of a Fund Unit; the number of outstanding Units were consolidated on a basis such that the number of Fund Units outstanding following such consolidation were equal to the number of Units that were outstanding immediately before the Arrangement was undertaken;

(bb) the operation of the Rights Plan resumed;

(cc) the proceeds from the repayment of the KEML Debt received by KEFL from KEML were loaned by KEFL to Finco and then loaned from Finco to KEP LP; and

(dd) with the loan proceeds received from Finco, KEP LP made a return of capital to the Fund in an amount equal to the Temporary Borrowings and the Fund applied such amount to repay the Temporary Borrowings.

The Reorganization did not involve the acquisition of any additional interest(s) in any operating assets or the disposition of any of the Fund's existing interests in its operating assets. Upon completion of the Reorganization, each Unitholder continued to hold the same number of Units as such Unitholder held prior to the Reorganization and the Fund continued to own the same proportionate interest in its assets that it held immediately prior to the Reorganization.

Keyera Facilities Income Fund Announces Distribution Increase

CALGARY, Feb. 12 /CNW/ - Keyera Facilities Income Fund (the "Fund") (TSX:KEY.UN; KEY.DB) announced today an 8% increase in its monthly cash distribution from $0.125 to $0.135 per unit, beginning with the February 2008 distribution payable on March 17, 2008. This is the sixth distribution increase in five years and represents an 8% compound annual growth rate since the Fund's inception in 2003.

"I am very pleased to be able to announce this latest increase to our monthly cash distribution" said Jim Bertram, President and CEO. "We are focused on providing our unitholders with growth in cash distributions that is sustainable. Over the past several years, we have expanded our asset base, diversified our business, found new ways to generate cash flow and significantly increased our opportunities to provide services to the developing oil sands sector. It is this focused business approach that has allowed us to increase our cash distribution six times since going public in 2003 and deliver a 49% increase in distributions per unit".

Keyera Facilities Income Fund - 2007 Year-End Report

CALGARY, Feb. 26 /CNW/ -

2007 YEAR-END HIGHLIGHTS

- Keyera delivered outstanding performance in 2007, posting record results in all three business segments.

- In February 2008, Keyera announced an 8% increase in its monthly cash distribution from $0.125 to $0.135 per unit, beginning with the February 2008 distribution. This is the sixth increase in five years and represents an 8% compound annual growth rate in distributions since Keyera's inception in 2003.

- Cash flow from operating activities in 2007 was $119.8 million, a new record. Distributions to unitholders totaled $90.2 million, or $1.48 per unit, 3% higher than the $1.43 per unit declared in 2006. Fourth quarter distributions were $23.0 million, or 37.5 cents per unit.

- Distributable cash flow(1) was $143.5 million in 2007, or $2.35 per unit, 42% higher than 2006 and more than double the 2003 IPO level on a per-unit basis. Fourth quarter distributable cash flow(1) was $41.4 million, or $0.68 per unit. This results in a payout ratio of 63% and 55% respectively.

- Net earnings for 2007 were $14.5 million compared to $68.1 million in 2006. This difference was primarily due to recording $80.2 million of non-cash future income tax expense in the second quarter of 2007, as a result of the implementation of the tax on publicly traded Canadian income trusts.

- All three business segments recorded the highest annual results in Keyera's history, despite an uncertain business environment and the completion of several significant plant turnarounds during the year. Contribution from Gathering and Processing was $87.4 million, up 19% from last year. The NGL Infrastructure contribution was $46.8 million, 4% higher than in 2006. Contribution from the Marketing business was $41.9 million, 70% higher than in the previous year.

- Scheduled maintenance turnarounds were successfully completed in 2007 at the Rimbey, Bigoray, Brazeau River and Medicine River gas processing plants. Turnarounds scheduled for 2008 and 2009 will be at smaller plants and are expected to have only a minimal effect on Keyera's cash flow in those years.

- Keyera invested over $30 million on growth capital projects in 2007, acquiring additional assets and expanding facilities. In 2008, assuming timely receipt of regulatory approvals, Keyera anticipates investing between $80 and $100 million on growth capital projects. They include the ethane extraction project at the Rimbey gas plant, as well as the mining of a new storage cavern, connecting a new pipeline and expansion of a truck terminal, all at Keyera's Fort Saskatchewan facility.

- On January 2, 2008, Keyera completed an internal reorganization intended to streamline the existing legal structure and simplify accounting, legal reporting and income tax compliance.

Message to Unitholders

In 2007, Keyera met or surpassed all our key financial and operating targets and achieved record results.

During the fourth quarter, Keyera continued to build on the strong performance we delivered during the first three quarters of 2007. Cash flow from operating activities was $119.8 million, the highest in our history. On the strength of these excellent results, we declared $90.2 million in distributions to our unitholders from distributable cash flow of $143.5 million, leaving $53.3 million to reinvest in our business. Net earnings for the quarter were $40.0 million, significantly higher than the $14.9 million in the same period in 2006. Net earnings for 2007 were $14.5 million, despite recording an $80 million non-cash future income tax expense during the second quarter.

In February 2008, we announced an 8% increase in our monthly cash distribution from $0.125 to $0.135 per unit. Since our inception in 2003, we have increased distributions 49% through six distribution increases. This represents an 8% compound annual growth rate in our distributions, an accomplishment that I am very proud of.

Our record achievements in 2007 are the result of excellent performance in each of our operating segments. Contribution from our Gathering and Processing segment was $87.4 million, 19% higher than 2006, primarily due to increased throughput at most of Keyera's facilities. Overall throughput at our plants reached record levels in 2007, led by increases at our Strachan, Brazeau River, Bigoray and Caribou gas plants. Based on these record throughput levels, we are exploring the possibility of expanding some of our facilities, including our sour gas processing capacity in the Pembina region and our gathering and processing capabilities in the Caribou region of north-eastern British Columbia.

Our NGL Infrastructure and Marketing segments also delivered exceptional results. In our NGL Infrastructure segment, our storage and logistics services continued to operate efficiently, meeting the service needs of our customers and providing important support for our Marketing business. Based on this solid operating record, contribution from the NGL Infrastructure segment reached $46.8 million in 2007, a 4% increase compared to last year. As well, each of the business lines within our Marketing segment, including crude oil and NGLs, produced strong results, allowing this segment to deliver contribution of $41.9 million, a 70% increase over 2006.

Keyera's performance in 2007 demonstrates our ability to deliver strong operational and financial results in challenging times. As the public policy debates continue to unfold, over issues ranging from the proposed changes to the Alberta royalty system, to the impact of the legislation passed by the federal government with respect to the taxation of publicly traded income funds, to new environmental regulatory initiatives, we are focusing our efforts on growing our business and adapting our strategies to anticipate and meet the challenges that lie ahead.

Against this backdrop of challenge and change, the strength of our balance sheet and the demonstrated capacity of our core operating businesses to grow revenue and net income confirm our confidence in Keyera's future. While Keyera is not immune to the challenges presented by lower gas prices and public policy initiatives affecting the energy industry, the strategic location and interconnectedness of our facilities, together with the proven success of our strategy of sustainable growth, have cushioned the impact of these events.

Looking ahead, our plan is to continue to build on our strengths with the goal of continuing to deliver results for our unitholders. To this end, we will be maintaining our focus on developing our oil sands strategy and pursuing other projects that contribute to our long-term business objectives. At present, we have over $80 million of projects that are either underway or in the development stages.

Some of the most exciting initiatives currently underway involve our Fort Saskatchewan facility. Our facilities in Fort Saskatchewan are an integral part of our oil sands strategy and our overall goal of building on our strategic position in this key energy hub. We have signed a long-term lease that will allow us to connect a fourth pipeline between our Fort Saskatchewan facility and our Edmonton terminal. This fourth pipeline will improve our operational flexibility by allowing us to dedicate a pipeline for each of the four products we move between the two facilities, making it easier to supply NGLs to our customers, and enhancing the rates at which we can move products in and out of our storage caverns. In addition, we are nearing completion of our truck terminal expansion at Fort Saskatchewan, which is designed to enhance our product loading services and provide us with increased operational flexibility to load and unload specification products as well as NGL mix.

One of the largest projects we have underway at our Fort Saskatchewan facilities is the expansion of our underground storage. At present, we own or control about a third of all the existing underground storage in Fort Saskatchewan and are the only provider of condensate storage in the region. Our plan over the next five to six years is to increase our storage capacity by 37% to 11.6 million barrels by mining four new storage caverns in order to meet the anticipated demand for diluent storage as oil sands production increases. Work on the first of the proposed new caverns is in progress and if planning and construction go as anticipated, we are optimistic that the first cavern will be in service in 2009.

Keyera's financial results in 2007 demonstrate the strength, resilience and complementary nature of Keyera's business lines. In 2007 we continued to deliver excellent returns and we enter 2008 with significant momentum. As we face the challenges that lie ahead, we are committed to continuing to be actively engaged in the regulatory environments so that we can anticipate, influence and adapt to the changes and trends on the horizon, and we will work proactively with our partners, customers and prospective customers to maximize our business opportunities and deliver results for our unitholders.

On behalf of Keyera, I thank you for your support and look forward to continued success.

Jim V. Bertram
President and CEO
Keyera Facilities Income Fund

Contribution From Operating Segments

Keyera operates one of the largest natural gas midstream businesses in Canada with three major operating segments: Gathering and Processing, NGL Infrastructure and Marketing. The Gathering and Processing segment includes natural gas gathering systems and processing plants strategically located in the natural gas production areas on the western side of the Western Canadian Sedimentary Basin. The NGL Infrastructure segment includes natural gas liquids (NGLs) and crude oil pipelines, terminals, processing and storage facilities in Edmonton and Fort Saskatchewan, Alberta, one of North America's major energy hubs. The Marketing segment includes activities such as the marketing of propane, butane and condensate to customers in Canada and the United States, and crude oil midstream activities.

Keyera's Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure segments provide a large portion of the total contribution. Keyera benefits from the geographical diversity of its natural gas processing plants, NGL infrastructure facilities and associated assets. The revenues generated from these facilities are fee-for-service based, with minimal direct exposure to commodity prices. The remainder of Keyera's contribution is derived from its Marketing segment. Because of Keyera's integrated approach to its business, its infrastructure provides a significant competitive advantage in NGL marketing. Keyera also benefits from diversified sources of NGL supply and a diversified customer base across North America.

The following table shows the contribution from each of Keyera's operating segments and includes inter-segment transactions that are eliminated in the Fund's consolidated financial statements. Because contribution is not a standard measure under Canadian generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP"), it may not be comparable to similar measures reported by other entities. Contribution does not include the elimination of inter-segment transactions as required by GAAP and refers to operating revenues less operating expenses. Management believes contribution provides an accurate portrayal of operating profitability by segment. Keyera's Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure segments charge Keyera's Marketing segment for the use of facilities at market rates. Those charges are reflected in contribution, but are eliminated in GAAP segment measures. The most comparable GAAP measures are reported in note 17, Segmented Information, which is found in the financial statements.

Management's Discussion and Analysis

The following management's discussion and analysis ("MD&A") was prepared as of February 26, 2008 and is a review of the results of operations and the liquidity and capital resources of Keyera Facilities Income Fund (the "Fund") and its subsidiaries (collectively "Keyera"). It should be read in conjunction with the accompanying audited consolidated financial statements of the Fund for the year ended December 31, 2007 and the notes thereto. The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles and are stated in Canadian dollars. Additional information related to the Fund, including the Fund's Annual Information Form, is filed on SEDAR at www.sedar.com.

NON-GAAP FINANCIAL MEASURES

This discussion and analysis refers to certain financial measures that are not determined in accordance with Canadian Generally Accepted Accounting Principles ("GAAP"). Measures such as operating margin (operating revenues minus operating expenses), distributable cash flow (cash flow from operating activities adjusted for changes in non-cash working capital, maintenance capital expenditures and the distributable cash flow attributable to any non-controlling interest) and EBITDA (earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization) are not standard measures under GAAP and therefore may not be comparable to similar measures reported by other entities. Management believes that these supplemental measures facilitate the understanding of the Fund's results of operations, leverage, liquidity and financial position. Operating margin is used to assess the performance of specific segments before general and administrative expenses and other non-operating expenses. Distributable cash flow is used to assess the level of cash flow generated from ongoing operations and to evaluate the adequacy of internally generated cash flow to fund distributions. EBITDA is commonly used by management, investors and creditors in the calculation of ratios for assessing leverage and financial performance. Investors are cautioned, however, that these measures should not be construed as an alternative to net earnings determined in accordance with GAAP as an indication of the Fund's performance.

FORWARD LOOKING STATEMENTS

Certain statements contained in this MD&A and accompanying documents contain forward-looking statements. These statements relate to future events or the Fund's future performance. BUSINESS ENVIRONMENT

Industry activity

In 2007, producers drilled 18,606 wells in Canada, down from the record levels of activity experienced over the last several years and 20% lower than in 2006. Drilling activity was affected by a number of factors, including low gas prices, high costs and a number of government regulatory and fiscal changes.

Despite this slowdown in activity levels, throughput at Keyera facilities increased by 3% compared to 2006. This increase partially reflects the tie-in of wells drilled in earlier years, but also reflects a more selective approach to exploration and development efforts by producers. Customers have indicated that they are choosing drilling locations that are close to existing infrastructure, allowing them to connect their production quickly. Often the gas reserves are rich in NGLs, resulting in higher producer netbacks.

In the fourth quarter, producers in Canada drilled almost 5,300 wells, down slightly from the third quarter of 2007, and down just 4% from the same period last year. On a go forward basis, the Petroleum Services Association of Canada is forecasting a similar number of wells to be drilled in the first quarter of 2008 as were drilled over the past two quarters.

In the foothills front region of Alberta, the number of wells drilled in the fourth quarter was 16% less than the fourth quarter of 2006. The average depth of wells drilled in this region in the fourth quarter was 2,144 metres, 11% lower than the same period last year. In the central Alberta region, the number of wells drilled was 20% lower than the same quarter last year, with the average depth per well remaining flat at 1,131 metres. British Columbia also experienced a decline in drilling, with wells drilled falling 5% compared to the fourth quarter of last year. The average depth per well in this area increased to over 2,300 metres, a 9% increase in depth compared to the fourth quarter of 2006.

Throughput volumes at most Keyera plants increased again in the fourth quarter, with overall throughputs up 6% compared to the third quarter of 2007 and up 9% from the fourth quarter of 2006. Producer activity around Keyera's plants, combined with Keyera's growth projects, were responsible for the increase.

Indications are that North American natural gas fundamentals may be strengthening. Recent North American natural gas demand has been strong and U.S. natural gas storage inventories are at their lowest level for this time of year since early 2005. The U.S. Energy Information Administration estimates that, if the U.S. has normal weather for the remainder of the winter, U.S. inventories will end the winter at normal levels, more than 20% below last year's end-of-winter levels. Keyera believes that these positive trends support continued drilling activity in western Canada, particularly on the western side of the basin where most of its facilities are located.

New Alberta royalty framework

On October 25, 2007 the Government of Alberta announced increases in royalties. The new royalty regime, which is expected to be implemented in 2009, will change the royalty structure for natural gas and conventional oil by adjusting sliding rate formulas that are price and volume sensitive. These changes result in higher royalty rates at current prices. In addition, new price sensitive formulas will be adopted for oil sands development at both the pre- and post-payout stages.

Keyera is not a royalty payor, and therefore is not directly affected by the proposed royalty changes. However, as a service provider to the upstream industry, Keyera will be affected by producers' responses to the new regime. Producers are continuing to assess the impact of the new royalty regime on their operations and future activities. Keyera is working with producers in the areas around its plants to determine what impact the proposed royalty changes may have on Keyera. Until we have stronger indications from producers with respect to their plans, the long term implications of the royalty announcement for Keyera are difficult to determine. Since many of Keyera's facilities are located west of the fifth meridian where gas drilling tends to be deeper, the Government's decision to retain a variation of the Deep Gas Drilling Program is a positive outcome for Keyera.

Further information about the new royalty framework is available from the Government of Alberta website at http://www.gov.ab.ca/ and a copy of the framework itself can be found at http://www.energy.gov.ab.ca/Org/Publications/royalty_Oct25.pdf.

Climate change regulations

In 2007, the Alberta government amended laws and regulations dealing with greenhouse gas emissions. The initiative is designed to reduce the emissions intensity (i.e. the amount of greenhouse gases emitted on a unit of production basis) of greenhouse gases at applicable facilities.

Under the new rules, existing large emitters must reduce net emissions intensity to 88% of the average emissions intensity at a facility between 2003 and 2005. If the actual emissions intensity is above the target, the facility licensee can generate or purchase "emissions offsets", or purchase fund credits at a cost of $15/tonne of CO2 equivalent, or purchase emission "performance credits".

Keyera operates three facilities which are subject to these requirements: the Strachan, Rimbey and Brazeau River gas plants. Based on a worst case scenario, which assumes that Keyera purchases fund credits at $15/tonne and no offsets or credits are created or purchased at a cost that is less than $15/tonne, the anticipated cost of these new rules for Keyera is estimated at $408,000 in 2007. Thereafter, on an annual basis, the cost is expected to be approximately $1 million per year. Keyera's management anticipates that a portion of these costs will be recoverable from customers as flow-through operating costs. Projects implemented since 2002 at Keyera's facilities could generate emissions offsets or performance credits; however, it is premature to determine what benefit, if any, could be realized from such actions.

In January 2008, the Alberta government announced its intention to reduce projected greenhouse gas emissions in Alberta by 50% by 2050. No details of this initiative are currently available.

The federal government released the Regulatory Framework for Air Emissions (the "Framework") on April 26, 2007 which sets out new GHG and air pollutant ("AP") emission reduction targets for various industrial sectors, including the oil and gas industry. The Framework forms the basis for consultations and the draft GHG and AP regulations are expected to be released in the spring of 2008. The effect on Keyera can not be determined until the federal government provides additional information.

As part of the provincial budget brought down on February 19, 2008, the B.C. government announced a proposed broad-based carbon tax to be implemented effective July 1, 2008. According to the budget, the carbon tax initially will not apply to industrial emissions, including emissions from the oil and gas industry. The budget does not provide a timeframe for extension of the tax to industrial emissions. The effect on Keyera can not be determined until the B.C. government provides additional information.

Other environmental regulations

On October 2, 2007, the Government of Alberta announced a new cumulative effects initiative covering the "industrial heartland" area northeast of Edmonton. This initiative establishes targets for air, water and land quality and applies to all large industrial facilities within the area, including Keyera's Fort Saskatchewan facility. These facilities will be subject to cumulative airshed targets which are scheduled to come into effect in January 2009. Working groups have been or are being formed to deal with the allocation of the airshed objectives, water and land management issues, including sulphur and wetlands management. Based on the information currently available, Keyera does not anticipate that this initiative will require significant changes to current operations. However, the effect that this program may have on future operations or possible expansion is not clear at this time. A more complete description of the environmental regulations that affect Keyera's businesses can be found in the Annual Information Form, which is available on Keyera's website (www.keyera.com) or on SEDAR at www.sedar.com.

Tax changes

In October 2006, the Government of Canada announced a new tax on the distributed income of publicly-traded Canadian income trusts and limited partnerships (the "Distribution Tax"), and in June of 2007, implementing legislation was passed. So long as Keyera only experiences "normal growth", the Fund will not be subject to the Distribution Tax until January 2011. As a result, beginning in 2011, tax will be payable by Keyera on the portion of its distributions that is considered ordinary taxable income and, for a Canadian resident taxpayer, this portion of Keyera's distributions will be treated as dividend income for tax purposes. There will be no change in the taxation of Keyera's distributions that are considered to be a return of capital or dividend income.

On October 30, 2007, the Federal government announced a proposal to reduce federal corporate tax rates from 22.12% in 2007 to 15% by 2012. These lower tax rates would also apply to income trusts. These tax measures became law on December 14, 2007 reducing the combined federal and provincial tax rate that will be applicable to the Fund from 31.5% to 29.5% in 2011 and 28% in 2012. This reduction in federal tax rates has been included in the determination of the future tax provision of the Fund.

On December 20, 2007, the federal department of finance proposed amendments to clarify the Distribution Tax legislation. These proposals included technical amendments to allow a trust or partnership to hold a diversified portfolio investment through one or more "portfolio investment entities" without causing the trust or partnership to be subject to the Distribution Tax. Once the proposed amendments are passed, Keyera may consider a further re-organization.

The Distribution Tax will reduce the amount of cash flow available to Unitholders. Keyera's management and Board of Directors considers this future reduction in cash flow in their distribution decisions.

As at January 1, 2008, Keyera estimates that it has approximately $325 million of unutilized tax pools and deductions, consisting mostly of class 41 undepreciated capital costs, available for deduction by the Fund's subsidiaries.

RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

Keyera's activities are conducted through three business segments. The Gathering and Processing segment provides natural gas gathering and processing services to producers. The NGL Infrastructure segment provides NGL processing, transportation and storage services to producers, marketers (including Keyera) and others. The services in both these segments are provided on a fee-for-service basis. The Marketing segment is focused on the marketing of by-products recovered from the processing of raw gas, primarily NGLs, and crude oil midstream activities. A more complete description of Keyera's businesses by segment can be found in the Annual Information Form, which is available on Keyera's website (www.keyera.com) or on SEDAR at www.sedar.com.

Keyera delivered exceptional financial results in 2007, with operating margin of $179.1 million, $33.1 million higher than in 2006. These record results were achieved despite a slowdown in the oil and gas industry in western Canada and the completion of maintenance turnarounds at the Rimbey gas plant, Keyera's largest facility, as well as at the Brazeau River, Bigoray and Medicine River gas plants.

All business segments contributed to these results, with each business segment achieving record performance. A number of Keyera's gas plants in the Gathering and Processing segment saw throughputs increase in 2007, resulting in overall throughput reaching the highest levels in Keyera's history. Storage revenues in the NGL Infrastructure segment continued to grow and strong market fundamentals combined with Keyera's access to proprietary rail infrastructure and logistical expertise enabled the Marketing segment to post record results.

This strong operating performance in 2007 was partially offset by a non-cash future income tax expense of $72.6 million. This was primarily related to the income trust tax legislation enacted in the second quarter of 2007, partially offset by a $11.7 million future income tax recovery in the fourth quarter resulting from the enactment in December 2007 of lower federal income tax rates. As a result of the non-cash future income tax expense, together with slightly higher general and administrative costs, interest expense and depreciation charges, net earnings and comprehensive income was $14.5 million in 2007, compared to $68.1 million in 2006.

Consolidated net earnings for the fourth quarter of 2007 were $40.0 million, up $25.1 million from the same period in 2006. The strong operating margin earned from all segments and the $11.7 million non-cash future income tax recovery, partially offset by higher general and administrative and interest costs, accounted for the increase. The non-cash future income tax recovery resulted from the enactment of lower federal income tax rates in December 2007.

Gathering and Processing

Gathering and Processing revenue for 2007 was $187.5 million, an increase of $20.8 million, or 12%, compared to the previous year. The increase was due primarily to higher throughput in the Foothills Region, the recovery of a portion of turnaround costs incurred at the Rimbey, Brazeau River, Bigoray and Strachan gas plants, the conversion from fixed to flow-through fees at certain plants and incremental compression fees at the Rimbey gas plant in 2007.

In the fourth quarter of 2007, Gathering and Processing revenue was $50.5 million, an increase of $6.9 million, or 16%, compared to the same period in 2006. The increase was primarily due to higher throughput in the Foothills Region and the commencement of reprocessing services at the Paddle River gas plant.

Gathering and Processing operating expenses for 2007 were $103.8 million, an increase of $7.2 million, or 7%, compared to 2006. The increase was primarily due to higher turnaround costs for the turnarounds completed in 2007 at the Rimbey, Bigoray, Brazeau River and Medicine River gas plants, compared to the turnaround costs incurred in 2006. Another factor in the increase was higher operating costs at Caribou resulting from higher throughput and unscheduled maintenance work at the plant.

In the fourth quarter of 2007, Gathering and Processing operating expenses were $24.1 million, an increase of $1.8 million compared to the same period in 2006. The increase was primarily a result of higher operating and maintenance costs at the Strachan gas plant due to higher volumes and maintenance work completed in the quarter.

Average gross processing throughput in 2007 was 843 million cubic feet per day, a new record and 3% higher than 2006. Fourth quarter throughput of 882 million cubic feet per day was up 9% from the same period in 2006.

During 2007, Keyera's Gathering and Processing assets were realigned into new business regions, the Foothills Region and the North Central Region. The Foothills Region consists of the Strachan, Brazeau River, Nordegg River, Paddle River, Bigoray, Brazeau North, West Pembina and Tomahawk gas plants and associated gathering pipelines. The North Central Region consists of the Rimbey, Gilby, Medicine River, Worsley, Caribou, Chinchaga, North Star and Greenstreet gas plants and associated gathering pipelines. This realignment is reflected in the discussion below.

The North Central Region posted very strong results in 2007, despite a slowdown in shallow drilling activity in the region and the completion of a scheduled turnaround at the Rimbey gas plant, Keyera's largest facility. Gross throughput of 432 million cubic feet per day in 2007 was 6% lower than last year, resulting from the loss of processing throughput while the Rimbey turnaround was underway and lower drilling activity in the Rimbey/Gilby area. In the fourth quarter of 2007, throughput was 440 million cubic feet per day, 3% lower than the same period last year. The decline was a result of lower drilling activity in the Rimbey/Gilby area.

In the Rimbey/Gilby region, the loss of throughput resulting from a slowdown in drilling was offset by tie-ins of previously drilled wells. Keyera has been encouraged by current drilling activity in this area and has identified a number of additional opportunities to offset any further declines. Rimbey is an attractive processing alternative for producers, offering higher netbacks resulting from Rimbey's ability to deliver specification NGL products, as well as other products and services. Volumes delivered to the NGL offload facility at Rimbey increased in 2007.

In the Caribou region, activity continued in both new well licenses and land sales throughout the year. Keyera extended the Caribou North Gas Gathering System in early 2007 across the Trutch Creek at the north end of the pipeline, to connect production from new gas drilling in that area. At mid year, Keyera acquired about 18 kilometres of existing gathering pipeline and an abandoned plant site north of the existing pipeline system and, at year end, announced a further 24-kilometre extension of the Caribou North Gas Gathering pipeline. Throughput is now averaging 50 million cubic feet per day at Caribou, about 75% of capacity, and detailed engineering is underway for a possible expansion of the facility.

In July 2007, Keyera announced a project at the Rimbey gas plant to extract ethane from the raw gas at the plant. The proposed project, estimated to cost $26 million, involves modifying the existing NGL extraction process and installing new compression equipment at the plant and constructing a 32-kilometre ethane delivery pipeline. The project is awaiting regulatory approval from the Energy Resources Conservation Board. If approved Keyera will be able to extract up to 5,000 barrels per day of saleable ethane from field gas processed at the Rimbey plant. A significant portion of the ethane to be extracted is currently used as fuel gas within the plant and will therefore be incremental to the current supply of ethane in Alberta.

In January 2008, the North Star gas plant, a non-core asset, was sold.

Gathering and Processing - Foothills Region

The Foothills Region delivered record results in 2007, as continued strong drilling activity in the region resulted in increasing throughput during the year. Gross throughput of 411 million cubic feet per day in 2007 was 51 million cubic feet per day, or 14%, higher than in 2006. In addition, Foothills revenues benefited from higher fees due to the higher concentrations of NGLs and hydrogen sulphide in the gas streams. In the fourth quarter of 2007, throughput was 442 million cubic feet per day, 25% higher than the same period in 2006. This increase was due to significant producer activity around Foothills Region plants.

In the Pembina area, sour gas development targeting the Nisku zones continued in the fourth quarter, including the licensing of several new wells. Utilization at Keyera's three sour gas processing plants in the area, Bigoray, West Pembina and Brazeau River, continued to increase throughout the year. To address the resulting sour gas capacity constraints, Keyera completed modifications to its pipeline systems in the fourth quarter to increase processing flexibility by diverting sour gas to other plants in the area.

A pressure survey of the acid gas disposal well at the Brazeau River gas plant was completed while the plant was offline for its scheduled maintenance turnaround. The survey indicated that the acid gas reservoir was filling more rapidly than anticipated. In the fourth quarter, Keyera acquired a depleted reservoir as well as another acid gas injection well. Construction of the necessary pipeline connections began early in the new year and the well became operational in February 2008. Until the new well was operational, some volumes were redirected to other Keyera facilities for processing and, for a brief period, sour gas processing was curtailed at the Brazeau River gas plant.

At the Bigoray gas plant, piping and equipment modifications were completed earlier in 2007 to provide for the future expansion of sour gas processing at the plant. In addition, a new distributed control system was installed at the plant to provide improved operating reliability and flexibility. Throughput increased substantially during the year and Keyera is currently working on plans to debottleneck gathering and inlet compression facilities to accommodate the increasing production volumes.

Lands to the west of Keyera's Strachan, Nordegg River and Brazeau River gas plants saw considerable activity throughout the year as producers pursued sweet, liquids-rich plays. These areas are close to Keyera gathering pipelines and processing infrastructure, enabling quick tie-ins and production. In addition, the liquids-rich gas provides the producer with a higher netback than dry sweet gas, making these play types attractive to producers.

New production was connected to the Strachan North pipeline for delivery to the Strachan gas plant in the fourth quarter. A producer-owned field compressor was installed during the fourth quarter, resulting in increased throughput at Strachan. Southwest of the Brazeau River gas plant, Keyera is partnering with a producer to build a new gathering pipeline to deliver new gas production to the plant. The pipeline is expected to be operational late in the first quarter.

In the fourth quarter, Keyera entered into an arrangement to use its NGL extraction facilities to extract NGLs from new gas volumes delivered to the Paddle River gas plant.

NGL Infrastructure

NGL Infrastructure revenue for 2007 was $41.1 million, an increase of $1.2 million, or 3%, compared to the previous year. The increase was primarily due to higher storage revenues at Keyera's Fort Saskatchewan facility. The effect of higher storage revenues was partly offset by a fee adjustment and reduced volumes from the Rimbey Pipeline system in the third quarter of 2007.

NGL Infrastructure operating expenses for 2007 were $24.3 million, an increase of $0.3 million compared to 2006. This increase was largely due to higher supplies and maintenance costs partly offset by lower costs for electricity and natural gas.

In the fourth quarter of 2007, NGL Infrastructure revenues were $1.0 million higher than the same period in 2006, largely due to higher storage revenues at the Fort Saskatchewan facility. Operating expenses were $0.5 million higher than the fourth quarter of 2006, due primarily to the purchase of an additional charcoal bed filter.

NGL Infrastructure facilities overall operated at typical levels for the fourth quarter. Higher product demand, particularly for propane, and the receipt of imported condensate resulted in higher rail loading activity in the fourth quarter. Storage revenues remained strong in the fourth quarter, driven by normal winter season inventory requirements and diluent demand for oil sands production. Fractionation throughput was lower than usual in the third quarter of 2007 due to short-term market conditions, but returned to typical levels in the fourth quarter.

Keyera continues to focus on strengthening its competitive position in the Edmonton/Fort Saskatchewan area. As part of that strategy, Keyera is pursuing a number of initiatives.

Work is underway to expand the storage capacity at Keyera's Fort Saskatchewan facility to meet the expected need for diluent storage to support oil sands development over the next decade. The project, which is expected to take five to six years to complete, will expand the current storage capacity by three million barrels, or 37%, to about 11.6 million barrels and is expected to cost $70 to $80 million. Engineering work on the first cavern is being finalized, equipment is being ordered and site construction work was completed early in the first quarter of 2008. The cost of the first cavern is expected to be $18 million, with a large portion of the cost being spent in 2008. Assuming construction proceeds as planned, the first cavern is expected to be put into service late in 2009.

The expansion of the truck terminal at the Fort Saskatchewan facility is largely complete, commissioning will begin shortly and the facility is expected to be operational in March. The project will increase Keyera's operational flexibility and provide enhanced product loading services for customers serving the domestic NGL market.

The fourth pipeline between the Fort Saskatchewan facility and the Edmonton terminal is also proceeding and is expected to be onstream by mid-year assuming timely receipt of land owner approval. Engineering work on this project has identified additional operational efficiencies which have provided a capacity boost, eliminating the need for a booster station on the pipeline and reducing the net capital cost of the project. When operational, the new pipeline will provide significantly more operational flexibility, allowing Keyera to deliver condensate and butane at increased rates into and out of the Edmonton terminal, Fort Saskatchewan storage and other pipelines and terminals in the area. This pipeline is also expected to support the new storage caverns and will add value to Keyera's storage services by increasing the flexibility for customers.

Looking to the future, Keyera is working towards connecting the Fort Saskatchewan and Edmonton facilities to more pipelines and new facilities in the area. In the first quarter of 2008, Keyera reached an agreement with a major pipeline operator to connect Keyera's facilities into another major crude oil, condensate and NGL pipeline delivering product into the Edmonton/Fort Saskatchewan hub.

Marketing

Generally, market fundamentals for propane, butane and condensate were positive throughout the year as supply and demand remained largely in balance and rising crude oil prices positively affected product prices. Keyera exploited these strong fundamentals throughout the year and utilized its proprietary rail and storage infrastructure to enhance unit margins.

Marketing revenue for 2007 was $1,250.5 million, an increase of $88.6 million compared to the previous year. The increase was due primarily to higher sales prices and growth in the crude oil midstream business, partially offset by the cost of the financial contracts that Keyera uses in its risk management program. Keyera's risk management program employs a multi-faceted approach to managing its supply and sales portfolio, including: monitoring its inventory position and its purchase and sale commitments; actively participating in various hub markets; using financial contracts, such as energy-related forward sales, price swaps, physical exchanges and options; and offsetting some of its physical and financial contracts in terms of volumes, timing of performance and delivery obligations. (See "Liquidity and Capital Resources - Marketing Risk Management"). Due to rising prices for crude oil and liquid hydrocarbons in 2007, the forward financial sales contracts used to hedge the commodity price risk arising from holding physical inventory reduced marketing revenues by $20.0 million, while in 2006 the program added $7.0 million in revenues due to declining commodity prices.

The table below outlines the composition of the revenues generated from Keyera's Marketing business and the changes in the fair value of the derivative financial contracts.

NGL sales volumes for 2007 averaged 50,800 barrels per day compared to 52,200 barrels per day in 2006. The reduction was a result of lower propane volumes in 2007, partially offset by growth in butane and condensate volumes. In the fourth quarter of 2007, NGL sales volumes averaged 53,800 barrels per day compared to 55,400 barrels per day in the fourth quarter of 2006.

Marketing operating expenses for 2007 were $1,172.0 million, an increase of $70.0 million compared to the previous year. The increase was due primarily to higher supply costs compared to 2006.

NGL product inventories of $76.6 million at December 31, 2007 were $22.7 million higher than the previous year due to higher volumes and significantly higher prices at year-end. Inventory has been valued at the lower of cost or net realizable value at December 31, 2007.

Propane demand in 2007 followed normal seasonal trends. In the first quarter, cold weather bolstered demand and Keyera used its rail car fleet and NGL infrastructure to facilitate the movement of product to niche markets where demand and prices were high. The second and third quarters experienced lower demand, typical of the summer season. The fourth quarter saw a seasonal increase in demand early in the quarter and prices remained high due to the strong correlation with the price of crude oil. Keyera used the propane terminal in Superior, Montana, which was acquired in June of 2007, as well as its other three propane terminals in the US, to deliver propane into regional markets via rail car for loading onto customers' trucks for further delivery to end use customers.

Butane demand remained strong throughout most of 2007, which enabled Keyera to earn steady margins from quarter to quarter. Much of Keyera's supply was committed to term sales contracts, providing a steady market for product and secure margins.

In general, condensate demand was strong throughout most of 2007, as oil sands producers continued to purchase condensate for use as diluent to enable heavier crude oil to flow in pipelines. Keyera imported condensate into Alberta from lower priced regions in North America throughout the year, using its storage facilities at Fort Saskatchewan to exploit periods of short-term price volatility. In addition, Keyera used its newly constructed condensate truck loading rack at the Rimbey gas plant to deliver product into local markets. The utilization of its asset infrastructure was a key factor in allowing Keyera to deliver strong condensate margins throughout the year.

Keyera's crude oil midstream business continued to develop in 2007. Market fundamentals were strong throughout the year, enabling the business to contribute increased operating margins compared to 2006.

In the fourth quarter of 2007, marketing revenues of $373.9 and operating expenses of $352.4 million generated $21.5 million of operating margin, up $9.7 million from the same period in 2006. This increase was related to several factors. Product prices were stronger in 2007 compared to 2006 when, in the fourth quarter of the year, warm weather in the eastern U.S. contributed to lower propane demand and butane and condensate markets remained soft. In the fourth quarter of 2007, prices for all products were influenced by high crude oil prices. Propane demand was typically strong for the winter season, butane term sales provided steady margins and condensate was in high demand for use as diluent. All of these factors contributed to sound unit margins. Adjustments relating to the routine voidance of a butane cavern in the fourth quarter of 2007 reduced margins by $0.8 million.

At December 31, 2007, the unrealized loss on financial contracts recognized in the fourth quarter was $1.7 million ($12.0 million recognized for the full year), primarily due to the change in the value of crude oil price swap contracts and fixed price contracts. At December 31, 2007, the fair market value of these contracts represented a liability of $12.4 million and an asset of $2.5 million, which represents an estimate of the amount that Keyera would pay or receive if these instruments had been closed out at the end of the period. The estimated fair value of all derivatives held for trading is based on quoted market prices and, if not available, on estimates from third party brokers or dealers.

Of the $12.0 million unrealized loss in 2007, the portion relating to changes in crude oil financial contracts amounted to approximately $9.9 million. These contracts are used to protect inventory from fluctuations in the prices of NGL products. To the extent these contracts are effective (i.e., the change in the market price of crude oil is correlated to the change in the prices of the underlying physical NGL products), gains and losses on these financial contracts will be offset by gains and losses in the proceeds that will be realized upon the sale of the products.

The remainder of the 2007 unrealized loss relates primarily to the $2.3 million unrealized loss recognized in the first quarter of 2007 as a result of the adoption of new accounting standards for fixed price physical contracts. As the fixed price contracts were priced higher than market, the new accounting standards required an asset of $2.3 million to be recorded with a corresponding decrease in opening deficit. As these contracts matured and the actual proceeds on the fixed price sales were recorded in revenue, the previously recorded asset of $2.3 million was reduced to nil with a corresponding charge (unrealized loss) to earnings in the first quarter of 2007.

The adoption of the new accounting standards is expected to continue to result in volatility in operating margins due to unrealized gains and losses associated with financial instruments.

Non-operating Expenses and Other Earnings

General and administrative expenses for 2007 were $21.9 million, up $3.0 million from the previous year. Long-term incentive plan costs were $3.2 million higher than in 2006, reflecting an increase in unit price and the effect of a distribution increase implemented in May 2007. Excluding the effect of the long-term incentive plan, general and administrative expenses were in line with those incurred in 2006.

Interest expense, net of interest revenue, was $20.2 million for 2007, $2.0 million greater than in 2006. The increase was due to higher borrowings used to fund capital projects undertaken in 2006 and 2007.

Depreciation and amortization expense was $42.0 million for 2007, $2.2 million greater than the previous year. The increase was due to growth in the asset base resulting from the completion of several major construction projects during the past two years.

An impairment expense of $0.7 million was recorded in 2007 to adjust the carrying value of the North Star gas plant, a small non-core facility that was sold in early 2008.

Income tax expense for 2007 was $77.0 million, $79.7 million higher than the previous year due to an increase in future income tax expense. Future income tax expense for 2007 was $72.6 million compared with a future income tax recovery of $7.0 million in the prior year. This increase was primarily due to recording $80.2 million of future income tax expense in the second quarter of 2007 resulting from the new tax imposed on publicly traded income trusts and limited partnerships in Canada. The future tax expense is an estimate of the tax that will ultimately be payable by the Fund due to differences between the accounting and tax basis of assets and liabilities of the operating partnership. As a result of the new tax legislation, distributions will no longer be deductible by the Fund beginning in 2011. The effect of recording the new tax on income trusts was partially offset by lower future federal income tax rates that were enacted in 2007.

Current income tax expense for 2007 was $4.3 million, virtually unchanged from 2006. The impact of lower earnings posted by the Rimbey Pipeline business in the third quarter of 2007 was offset by higher earnings posted by Keyera Energy Facilities Ltd. throughout 2007.

Critical Accounting Estimates

The Fund's consolidated financial statements have been prepared in accordance with GAAP. Certain accounting policies require that management make appropriate decisions with respect to the formulation of estimates and assumptions that affect the recorded amounts of certain assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses. Management reviews its assumptions and estimates regularly, but new information and changes in circumstances may result in actual results or revised estimates that differ materially from current estimates. The most significant estimates are those indicated below:

Estimation of Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure revenues:

For each month, actual volumes processed and fees earned from the Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure assets are not known at the month end. Accordingly, the financial statements contain an estimate of one month's revenue based upon a review of historic trends. This estimate is adjusted for events that are known to have a significant effect on the month's operations such as non-routine maintenance projects.

At December 31, 2007, operating revenues and accounts receivable for the Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure segments contained an estimate of $21.8 million primarily for December 2007 operations.

Estimation of Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure operating expenses:

The period in which invoices are rendered for the supply of goods and services necessary for the operation of the Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure assets is generally later than the period in which the goods or services were provided. Accordingly, the financial statements contain an estimate of one month's operating costs based upon a review of historical trends. This estimate is adjusted for events that are known to have a significant effect on the month's operations such as non-routine maintenance projects.

At December 31, 2007, operating expenses and accounts payable contained an estimate of $8.5 million primarily for December 2007 operations.

Estimation of Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure equalization adjustments:

Much of the revenue from the Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure assets includes a recovery of operating costs. Under this method, the operating component of the fee is a pro rata share of the operating costs for the facility, calculated based upon total throughput. Users of each facility are charged a fee per unit based upon estimated costs and throughput, with an adjustment to actual throughput completed after the end of the year. Each quarter, throughput volumes and operating costs are reviewed to determine whether the estimated unit fee charged during the quarter properly reflects the actual volumes and costs, and the allocation of revenues and operating costs to other plant owners is also reviewed. Appropriate adjustments to revenue and operating expenses are recognized in the quarter and allocations to other owners are recorded.

For the Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure segments, operating revenues and accounts receivable contained an equalization adjustment of $6.6 million at December 31, 2007. Operating expenses and accounts payable contained an estimate of $6.9 million.

Estimation of Marketing revenues:

The majority of the Marketing sales revenues is recorded based upon actual volumes and prices; however, in many cases actual product lifting volumes have not yet been confirmed and sales prices that are dependent on other variables are not yet known. Accordingly, the financial statements contain an estimate for these sales. Estimates are prepared based upon contract quantities and known events. The estimates are reviewed and compared to expected results to verify their accuracy. They are reversed in the following month and replaced with actual results.

At December 31, 2007, the Marketing sales and accounts receivable contained an estimate for December 2007 revenues of $75.7 million.

Estimation of Marketing product purchases:

NGL mix feedstock and specification products such as propane, butane and condensate are purchased from facilities located throughout western Canada and in some locations in the United States. The majority of NGL mix purchases are estimated each month as actual volume information is generally not available until the next month. The estimates are prepared based upon a three month rolling average of production volumes for each facility and an estimate of price based upon historical information. Specification product volumes and prices are based upon contract volumes and prices. Accordingly, these financial statements contain an estimate for one month of these purchases.

Marketing cost of goods sold, inventory and accounts payable contained an estimate of NGL product purchases of $101.3 million at December 31, 2007.

Estimation of Asset Retirement Obligation:

Keyera will be responsible for compliance with all applicable laws and regulations regarding the decommissioning, abandonment and reclamation of its facilities at the end of their economic lives. The determination of the estimate of these obligations is based upon settlement between 2018 and 2038. Keyera utilizes a documented process, overseen by the Health, Safety and Environment Committee, to estimate future liability and the anticipated cost of the decommissioning, abandonment and reclamation of its facilities.

Keyera has estimated that, at December 31, 2007, the total undiscounted amount required to settle the asset retirement obligations is $183.0 million, compared to $183.2 million at December 31, 2006. The discounted net present value of this obligation at December 31, 2007 is $37.8 million, compared to $34.5 million at December 31, 2006. The increase in the discounted amount is primarily due to accretion.

It is not possible to predict these costs with certainty since they will be a function of regulatory requirements at the time of decommissioning, abandonment and reclamation and the actual costs may exceed the current estimates which are the basis of the asset retirement obligation shown in Keyera's financial statements.

Additional information related to decommissioning, abandonment and reclamation costs is provided in Keyera's 2008 Annual Information Form, which is available on SEDAR.

LIQUIDITY AND CAPITAL RESOURCES

Cash flow from operating activities during the fourth quarter of 2007 was $45.5 million, of which $3.9 million was generated from a decrease in non-cash working capital. Before changes in non-cash working capital, cash flow from operating activities was $41.6 million. From this cash flow, Keyera paid $23.0 million of distributions to its unitholders and required $8.4 million for capital expenditures, leaving $10.2 million of cash. Keyera also received $39.6 million of net proceeds from the issuance of long-term debt, $0.8 million from the issuance of trust units under the distribution reinvestment plan ("DRIP"), $3.9 million from the change in non-cash working capital and $0.5 million of proceeds from the disposition of equipment. From this cash, Keyera repaid $40.0 million of short-term borrowings, leaving a net cash inflow of $15.0 million for the quarter.

For the full year, cash flow from operating activities was $119.8 million, after the use of $25.5 million to fund an increase in non-cash working capital primarily due to higher product inventories. Cash flow from operating activities before changes in non-cash working capital was $145.3 million. From this cash flow Keyera paid $89.8 million of distributions to its unitholders and required $33.1 million for capital expenditures and acquisitions, leaving $22.4 million of cash. Keyera also received $4.7 million from dispositions and $3.3 million from the issuance of trust units under the DRIP, bringing cash available to $30.4 million. Along with this cash, net proceeds of $118.9 million from the issuance of long-term debt were used to fund the repayment of $108.0 million of short-term borrowings and finance the $25.5 million change in non-cash working capital, leaving a $15.8 million net cash inflow for the year.

Cash and working capital were $75.7 million at December 31, 2007 compared to a deficit of $41.1 million at December 31, 2006. The deficit at December 31, 2006 resulted from the use of short-term debt to finance growth capital expenditures and was eliminated in 2007 when Keyera received $118.9 million of net proceeds from the issuance of long-term debt and used much of these proceeds to repay short-term debt.

Keyera has no direct exposure to asset backed commercial paper. Surplus cash is held in interest bearing deposit accounts or invested in term deposits, guaranteed investment certificates, or Bankers' Acceptances issued by Canadian chartered banks.

Capital expenditures

Capital Additions and Acquisitions (in millions of Canadian dollars)	Twelve months ended December 31, 2007	2006
Growth capital expenditures	23.9	70.9
Maintenance capital expenditures	1.4	3.0
Total capital expenditures	25.3	73.9
Acquisitions of non-controlling interest	6.7	-

In the fourth quarter of 2007, additions to property, plant and equipment including acquisitions amounted to $9.0 million, most of which was growth capital. Keyera incurred maintenance and repair expenses of $3.2 million that were included in operating costs during the fourth quarter of 2007. The growth capital expenditures included $2.0 million for the acquisition of an acid gas disposal well for the Brazeau River plant, $1.6 million for the expansion of the truck terminal at Fort Saskatchewan, $1.2 million for the acquisition of pipe and design work for the Caribou North Trutch Pipeline project, $0.7 million for work done on the construction of a fourth pipeline between our Fort Saskatchewan facility and Edmonton terminal, and $0.4 million related to the construction of new camp facilities at the Caribou plant and various other small projects.

Total capital additions and acquisitions amounted to $32.0 million in 2007, consisting of $1.4 million of maintenance capital, $23.9 million of growth capital and $6.7 million of acquisitions. In addition to maintenance capital expenditures, Keyera incurred maintenance and repair expenses of $28.0 million that were included in operating costs.

In 2007, Keyera invested in the following significant growth projects:

- $6.7 million related to the acquisition of additional ownership interests in Rimbey Pipeline Limited Partnership, bringing Keyera's ownership to 100%
- $4.4 million for new gathering pipelines in the Foothills Region
- $4.2 million at the Bigoray, Brazeau River and Nordegg River gas plants to upgrade systems and equipment and expand acid gas disposal capacity
- $2.6 million for upgrades and expansion of equipment at the Rimbey gas plant
- $2.2 million for the expansion of the truck terminal at Fort Saskatchewan
- $2.1 million for the acquisition of a site in northeast B.C. close to the Caribou North gathering system to enable future expansion
- $1.9 million related to modifications at the Rimbey gas plant to enable the tie-in of equipment required for the ethane extraction project

In 2008, Keyera anticipates investing between $80 million and $100 million on growth capital projects, but the actual level of growth capital investment is dependent upon a number of factors including available opportunities, timing of regulatory approvals and agreements with customers. The 2008 spending includes commitments and carry over from the unfinished 2007 capital program. Sufficient capacity is available in the current credit facilities to fund the 2008 expenditures.

Working capital requirements are strongly influenced by the volume of NGLs held in storage and their related commodity prices. NGL inventories are required to meet seasonal demand patterns and will vary depending on the time of year. Historically, the largest allocation of working capital to fund inventory has been approximately $84 million. In addition to the working capital required for inventory, Keyera typically utilizes approximately $25 to $45 million to finance the other components of working capital.

Risks

The majority of cash flow is derived from the Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure business segments. The operating income generated from gathering and processing facilities is not significantly exposed to changes in operating costs due to the nature of most fee structures, which provide a mechanism for the recovery of operating costs.

The most significant exposure faced by the Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure businesses over the long term is related to declines in throughput volumes. Without reserve additions, third party production will decline over time as reserves are depleted. Declining production volumes may translate into lower throughput and cash flow at Keyera's plants and facilities. However, these facilities are located in significant natural gas supply areas of the Western Canada Sedimentary Basin and have high barriers to entry for new competitors.

Keyera's cash flows may also be adversely affected by the occurrence of common hazards and environmental risks related to the natural gas gathering, processing and pipeline transportation business, such as the failure of equipment, systems or processes, operator error, labour disputes, disputes with owners of interconnected facilities, catastrophic events or acts of terrorism. To mitigate these operational and environmental risks, Keyera maintains written standard operating practices, formally assesses and documents employee competency, and maintains formal inspection, maintenance, safety and environmental programs. In addition, Keyera carries casualty and business interruption insurance, although there can be no assurance that the proceeds of such insurance will compensate Keyera fully for any losses nor can it be assured that such insurance will be available in the future.

The most significant exposure faced by the Marketing business is fluctuation in the prices of the commodities that Keyera buys and sells. (See "Marketing Risk Management" in this MD&A.)

For a further discussion of the risks identified in this MD&A, other risks and trends that could affect the performance of the Fund and the steps that Keyera takes to mitigate these risks, readers are referred to the descriptions in this MD&A and Keyera's Annual Information Form available on SEDAR.

Keyera's future debt levels are primarily dependent on operating cash flows, working capital requirements and capital investment programs. Management expects the Fund's 2008 capital expenditures and distributions to be funded by cash flow from operations and borrowing on available debt facilities.

Debt covenants

Keyera has established credit facilities consisting of a $150 million committed unsecured revolving term facility that matures on April 21, 2010 and $30 million of unsecured revolving demand facilities. These credit facilities bear interest based on the lenders' rates for Canadian prime commercial loans, U.S. base rate loans, Libor loans or Bankers' Acceptances rates. As of December 31, 2007 there were no drawings under these Credit Facilities.

The bank credit facilities contain a covenant that the Fund and its subsidiaries will not distribute in any twelve month period more than 105% of the distributable cash flow attributable to that twelve month period. For the year ended December 31, 2007, Keyera distributed 66% of its distributable cash flow, using the definitions in the bank credit facilities. Those facilities are also subject to two major financial covenants: "Debt to EBITDA" and "Debt to Capitalization". The calculation for each ratio is based on specific definitions, is not in accordance with GAAP and cannot be readily replicated by referring to the Fund's financial statements. The definitions in the credit agreements provide for the deduction of net working capital items in the calculation of debt. The following are the ratios as calculated in accordance with the covenants as at December 31, 2007:

Debt to EBITDA not to exceed 3.5	1.59

Keyera has $335 million of long-term senior unsecured notes as follows: $20 million bearing interest at 5.42% and maturing in August 2008; $90 million bearing interest at 5.23% and maturing in October 2009; $52.5 million bearing interest at 5.79% and maturing in August 2010; $52.5 million bearing interest at 6.155% and maturing in August 2013; $60 million bearing interest at 5.89% and maturing in December 2017; and $60 million bearing interest at 6.14% and maturing in December 2022. These notes are subject to three major financial covenants: "Consolidated Debt to Consolidated EBITDA", "Consolidated EBITDA to Consolidated Interest Charges" and "Priority Debt to Consolidated Total Assets".

The calculations for each of these ratios are based on specified definitions. The following are the ratios calculated in accordance with the covenants as at December 31, 2007 for the notes maturing in 2008, 2009, 2010 and 2013:

Debt to EBITDA not to exceed 3.5	2.14
EBITDA to Interest Charges not less than 3.0	10.90
Priority Debt to Total Assets not to exceed 15%	0%

The following are the ratios calculated in accordance with the covenants as at December 31, 2007 for the notes maturing in 2017 and 2022:

Covenant	Position as at December 31, 2007
Debt to EBITDA not to exceed 5.0	1.42
EBITDA to Interest Charges not less than 2.0	8.35

Failure to adhere to the covenants described above may impair Keyera's ability to pay distributions. Management expects that upon maturity of the credit facilities, adequate replacement facilities will be established.

Regulatory risk

Keyera is subject to a range of laws and regulations imposed by various levels of government and regulatory bodies in the jurisdictions in which it operates. In 2007, regulatory changes in the areas of taxation and the environment have had the most direct impact on Keyera. (See "Business Environment").

While these laws and regulations affect all dimensions of Keyera's activities, Keyera does not believe that they affect its operations in a manner materially different from other comparable businesses operating in the same jurisdictions. A more complete discussion of regulatory risks can be found in the Annual Information Form available on SEDAR.

Credit risk

Credit risk is the risk of loss resulting from non-performance of contractual payment obligations by a customer or counterparty. The majority of Keyera's accounts receivable are due from entities in the oil and gas industry and are subject to normal industry credit risks. Concentration of credit risk is mitigated by having a broad domestic and international customer base. Keyera evaluates and monitors the financial strength of its customers in accordance with its credit policy.

Management believes these measures minimize Keyera's overall credit risk; however, there can be no assurance that these processes will protect against all losses from non-performance. At December 31, 2007, the accounts receivable from Keyera's two largest customers accounted for less than 1% of accounts receivable (2006 - less than 1%).

With respect to counterparties for financial instruments used for economic hedging purposes, Keyera limits its credit risk by dealing with recognized futures exchanges or investment grade financial institutions and by maintaining credit policies that significantly reduce overall counterparty credit risk.

Marketing risk management

Keyera enters into contracts to purchase and sell natural gas, NGLs and crude oil. Most of these contracts are priced at floating market prices. These activities expose Keyera to market risks resulting from movements in commodity prices between the time volumes are purchased and the time they are sold and from fluctuations in the margins between purchase prices and sales prices.

The prices of the products that are marketed by Keyera are subject to fluctuations as a result of such factors as seasonal demand changes, changes in crude oil and natural gas markets and other factors. In many circumstances, particularly in NGL marketing, purchase and sale contracts are not perfectly matched as they are entered into at different times, locations and values. Further, Keyera normally has a long position in most of the NGL products that it markets and may store NGLs in order to meet seasonal demand and take advantage of seasonal pricing differentials, thereby resulting in inventory risk. Because crude oil margins are earned by capturing spreads between different qualities of crude oil, Keyera's crude oil midstream business is subject to variability in price differentials between crude oil streams. In both Keyera's NGL and crude oil marketing businesses, margins can vary significantly from period to period and volatility in the markets for these products may cause distortions in financial results from period to period that are not replicable.

To some extent, Keyera reduces elements of risk exposure through the integration of its Marketing business with its Facilities businesses. In spite of this integration, Keyera remains exposed to market and commodity price risk. Keyera manages this commodity risk in a number of ways, including the use of financial contracts and by offsetting some physical and financial contracts in terms of volumes, timing of performance and delivery obligations. For example, in the context of NGL marketing, because NGL product prices are related to the price of crude oil, crude oil financial contracts are one of the more common hedging strategies that Keyera uses. This strategy is subject to basis risk between the prices of crude oil and the NGL products and therefore cannot be expected to fully offset future propane, butane and condensate price movements. Further, there is no guarantee that hedging and other efforts to manage the marketing and inventory risks will generate profits or mitigate all the market and inventory risks associated with these activities. To the extent that Keyera engages in these kinds of hedging activities, it is also subject to credit risks associated with counterparties with whom it contracts.

Foreign currency rate risk

The Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure segments generated 56% of 2007 operating margin and are not subject to foreign currency rate risk. All sales and virtually all purchases are denominated in Canadian dollars. In the Marketing business, approximately US$240.1 million of sales were priced in U.S. dollars in 2007.

Commitments

Keyera has assumed various contractual obligations in the normal course of its operations. At December 31, 2007, the obligations that represent known future cash payments that are required under existing contractual arrangements are as follows:

	Payments Due by Period
Contractual obligations	Total $	2008 $	2009 $	2010 $	2011 $	2012 $	After 2012 $
Long-term debt(1)	335,000	20,000	90,000	52,500	-	-	172,500
Operating leases(2)	33,845	8,749	7,926	6,359	4,964	3,915	1,932
Purchase obligations(3)	-	-	-	-	-	-	-
Total contractual obligations	368,845	28,749	97,926	58,859	4,964	3,915	174,432

(1) Long-term debt obligations do not include interest payments.
(2) Keyera has lease commitments relating to railway tank cars, vehicles, computer hardware, office space, terminal lease space and natural gas transportation.
(3) Keyera is involved in various contractual agreements with ConocoPhillips and other producers to purchase NGLs. These agreements range from one to eleven years and in general obligate Keyera to purchase all product produced at specified locations on a best efforts basis. The purchase prices are based on then current market prices. The future volumes and prices for these contracts cannot be reasonably determined.

Unitholder Distributions

Comparison of distributions paid to cash flow from operating activities and net earnings

The following table presents a comparison of distributions paid to net earnings and cash flow from operating activities:

(Thousands of Canadian dollars)	Three months ended Dec. 31, 2007	Twelve months ended Dec. 31, 2007	2006	2005
Cash flow from operating activities	45,497	119,825	110,656	62,147

Net earnings	40,027	14,479	68,078	60,680
Cash distributions paid	22,952	89,799	86,509	77,013
Excess (shortfall) of cash flow from operating activities over distributions paid	22,545	30,026	24,147	(14,866)

In 2007, cash flow from operating activities was $119.8 million, $30.0 million greater than distributions paid. Included in the calculation of cash flow from operating activities was $25.5 million to fund an increase in non-cash working capital. In the fourth quarter of 2007, cash flow from operating activities was $45.5 million, including $3.9 million generated from a decrease in non-cash working capital. Cash flow from operating activities both in the fourth quarter of 2007 and for the year were sufficient to fund cash distributions paid.

Cash distributions paid for 2007 of $89.8 million exceeded net earnings by $75.3 million. The shortfall is attributable to the inclusion of non-cash items for future income taxes ($72.6 million), depreciation, amortization and accretion ($44.5 million) and unrealized losses on financial instruments ($12.6 million) in the calculation of net income. In the fourth quarter of 2007, net earnings of $40.0 million exceeded cash distributions by $17.0 million.

Future income taxes can fluctuate from period to period as a result of changes in tax laws and rates (such as the enactment in the second quarter of 2007 of the tax on distributions of flow-through entities or the reduction of income tax rates in 2006 and 2007) or changes in the operating results of the underlying operating entities of Keyera. These items do not affect cash flow generated in the current period.

Non-cash charges such as depreciation and amortization are based upon the historical cost of Keyera's property, plant and equipment and do not accurately represent the fair market value or the replacement cost of the assets in today's economic environment, nor do they affect cash flow generated in the current period.

Non-cash unrealized gains and losses on financial instruments result from Keyera's use of financial contracts, such as energy-related forward sales, price swaps, physical exchanges and options to manage some of the commodity price risk inherent in the marketing business. Their fair value is determined based upon estimates of future prices. The change in fair value of these contracts during the current period has no effect on cash flow generated. Upon settlement in future periods, the unrealized estimate is reversed and the realized gain or loss is included in earnings.

Due to the inclusion of such non-cash charges in net earnings, distributions paid may exceed net earnings. Although non-cash charges do not affect current period cash generation, any excess of distributions over net earnings would be a return of unitholders' capital.

Distributable Cash Flow

Distributable cash flow is not a standard measure under GAAP and therefore may not be comparable to similar measures reported by other entities. Distributable cash flow is used to assess the level of cash flow generated from ongoing operations and to evaluate the adequacy of internally generated cash flow to fund distributions.

Following is a reconciliation of distributable cash flow to its most closely related GAAP measure, cash flow from operating activities.

Distributable Cash Flow	Three Months Ended	Twelve months ended

Cash flow from operating activities	45,497	42,130	119,825	110,656
Add (deduct):
Changes in non cash working capital	(3,885)	(13,584)	25,450	(6,545)
Maintenance capital	(192)	(288)	(1,437)	(3,011)
Non-controlling interest distributable cash flow	-	(285)	(369)	(1,153)
Distributions to unitholders	22,965	21,742	90,206	86,605

(1) The calculation of distributable cash flow for the comparative period has been amended to consider the non-cash effect of unrealized foreign exchange gains and losses. For the three and twelve months ended December 31, 2006, $287 and $228 of unrealized foreign exchange gains have been included in the change in non-cash working capital.

Distributable cash flow of $41.4 million in the fourth quarter of 2007 and $143.5 million for the year exceeded distributions to unitholders of $18.5 million and $53.3 million in the respective periods.

Changes in non-cash working capital are excluded from the determination of distributable cash flow because they are primarily the result of seasonal fluctuations in product inventories or other temporary changes and are generally funded with short-term debt. Also deducted from distributable cash flow are maintenance capital expenditures that are funded from current operating cash flow.

Distribution policy

In determining the level of cash distributions to unitholders, Keyera's Board of Directors takes into consideration current and expected future levels of distributable cash flow (including income tax), capital expenditures, borrowings and debt repayments, changes in working capital requirements and other factors.

Changes in non-cash working capital are primarily the result of seasonal fluctuations in product inventories or other temporary changes and are generally funded with short-term debt. These changes in non-cash working capital are therefore excluded in the determination of distributable cash flow.

Over the long-term, Keyera expects to pay distributions from distributable cash flow. Growth capital expenditures will be funded from retained operating cash flow, along with proceeds from additional debt or equity, as required. Although Keyera intends to continue to make regular monthly cash distributions to its unitholders, these distributions are not guaranteed.

Sustainability of productive capacity

Keyera's Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure segments operate long-life infrastructure assets consisting of natural gas processing plants and gathering systems, NGL processing plants, storage facilities and transportation facilities. These facilities provide services to numerous energy producers over a wide geographic area. Throughput at each natural gas processing plant is dependent upon the natural gas production of third party producers within the capture area or franchise area of the plant. Demand for fractionation, storage and transportation services is dependent upon the supply of NGL mix obtained from the processing of third party raw natural gas and the market demand for end-use products (propane, butane and condensate).

Keyera has comprehensive inspection, monitoring and maintenance programs in place. The objectives of these programs are to keep the facilities in good working order and to maintain their ability to operate reliably for many years. These maintenance and repair expenditures totaled $3.4 million in the fourth quarter of 2007 and $29.5 million for the year. Of these amounts, $3.2 million and $28.0 million were included in operating costs and will be recovered through the fee structure over varying periods of time, depending upon the fee structure. At these levels of maintenance and repair, Keyera's plants and facilities can continue to operate safely for decades to come. Significant capital expenditures are not normally required to maintain the existing productive capacity, but may be required if significant changes are made in regulatory requirements.

Several of Keyera's sour gas plants rely on acid gas injection to dispose of the hydrogen sulphide and other waste products removed during processing. Acid gas injection involves the injection and sequestration of carbon dioxide and hydrogen sulphide into depleted underground reservoirs. The sustainability of this process is dependent upon the availability of suitable reservoirs. If suitable reservoirs were not available, alternate processes would be required, the capacity of the plant could be reduced or expenditures required to replace the lost capacity would be necessary. These alternatives would have an adverse effect on cash flow.

Cash flows from operating activities are determined primarily by the quantity and composition of product throughput at the facility and the fee structure. Throughput is influenced by the ongoing development activities of numerous third parties who may increase production volumes by drilling new wells, tying in previously drilled wells, completing new zones in existing wells or enhancing production volumes through stimulation or enhanced recovery techniques. If third parties are unsuccessful in their development activities, Keyera's cash flow could be adversely affected despite having physical capacity available. Growth capital expenditures are generally undertaken to expand capture areas, add new capacity or introduce new services. If Keyera is unsuccessful in extending capture areas or adding new capacity and services, cash flow from operating activities may be reduced.

Standard and Poor's has assigned the Fund an SR-3 stability rating, indicating the expectation of a high level of stability in distributions.

Additional information on the capacities and constraints related to Keyera's plants, other risks and trends that could affect the financial performance of Keyera and the steps taken to mitigate these risks, readers are referred to the descriptions in this MD&A and to Keyera's 2007 Annual Information Form, which is available on SEDAR.

Units and Convertible Debentures

During 2007, $1.7 million of convertible debentures (before adjustment for deferred financing costs) were converted into 143,321 trust units and 190,298 trust units were issued under the DRIP in consideration of $3.3 million, bringing the total units outstanding at December 31, 2007 to 61,264,372. Convertible debentures outstanding at December 31, 2007 were $21.8 million.

FUND REORGANIZATION

In June 2007, Unitholders approved an internal reorganization of Keyera's legal structure (the "Reorganization"). Due to interpretation issues surrounding the SIFT Legislation, Keyera amended certain elements of the Reorganization prior to implementation. On January 2, 2008, upon receipt of a favourable advance ruling from the Canada Revenue Agency and the final order from the Alberta Court of Queen's Bench approving the plan of arrangement for the amended Reorganization, the Reorganization was completed. The Reorganization is described in detail in the Material Change Report as filed on SEDAR (www.sedar.com) on January 11, 2008.

The Reorganization streamlined Keyera's legal structure and simplified accounting, legal reporting and income tax compliance, all of which is expected to reduce the general and administrative costs associated with these activities. As a result of the amendments to the Reorganization, there were not any significant immediate tax savings within Keyera's structure, but the new structure does permit Keyera to defer the utilization of some tax pools until after January 1, 2011. This enhanced tax planning flexibility should enable Keyera to minimize the amount of cash taxes payable in 2011, when Keyera is expected to become taxable under the SIFT Legislation.

Keyera is looking at a variety of options to continue to enhance it tax planning flexibility, including the possibility of undertaking a further restructuring depending on whether amendments are made to the SIFT Legislation. (See "Business Environment - New Tax on Flow-through Entities"). As well, Keyera plans to reduce the use of its available tax deductions from 2008 through 2010, thereby increasing deductions available for the years after 2010.

Accounting Matters and Controls

Changes in Accounting Policies

On January 1, 2007, we adopted the following Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants ("CICA") Handbook Sections:

- Section 1530, Comprehensive Income;
- Section 3251, Equity;
- Section 3855, Financial Instruments - Recognition and Measurement;
- Section 3861, Financial Instruments - Presentation and Disclosure; and
- Section 3865, Hedges.

For a description of the new accounting policies and the impact on the Fund's financial statements including the impact on the Fund's deferred financing fees, long-term debt and opening accumulated deficit refer to note 2 of the Consolidated Financial Statements for the year ended December 31, 2007.

Future Accounting and Reporting Changes

Convergence of Canadian GAAP with International Financial Reporting Standards

In 2006, Canada's Accounting Standards Board (AcSB) ratified a strategic plan that will result in the convergence of Canadian GAAP, as used by public companies, with International Financial Reporting Standards over a transitional period. The AcSB has developed and published a detailed implementation plan, with a changeover date for fiscal years beginning on or after January 1, 2011. This initiative is in its early stages as of the date on these annual Consolidated Financial Statements. Accordingly, it would be premature to assess the impact of the initiative on the Fund at this time.

Financial Instruments - Disclosures and Presentation

The AcSB has issued CICA Handbook Sections 3862 and 3863, Financial Instruments - Disclosures, and Financial Instruments - Presentation. Section 3862 requires entities to provide disclosures in their financial statements that enable users to evaluate the significance of financial instruments to the entity's financial position and performance. It also requires that entities disclose the nature and extent of risks arising from financial instruments and how the entity manages those risks. Section 3863 establishes standards for presentation of financial instruments and non-financial derivatives and deals with the classification of financial instruments, from the perspective of the issuer, between liabilities and equity, the classification of related interest, dividends, losses and gains, and the circumstances in which financial assets and financial liabilities are offset. These standards will be effective for the Fund for periods ending after January 1, 2008.

Capital Disclosures

The AcSB has issued CICA Handbook Section 1535, Capital Disclosures, which requires entities to disclose their objectives, policies and processes for managing capital and whether they are in compliance with any externally imposed capital requirements. This standard will be effective for the Fund for periods ending after January 1, 2008.

Inventories

The AcSB has issued CICA Handbook Section 3031, Inventories, which essentially modifies guidance relating to the scope, measurement and allocation of costs for inventory. The Fund is currently evaluating the impact of the adoption of this new Section on its consolidated financial statements. This standard will be effective for the Fund for periods ending after January 1, 2008.

Goodwill and Intangible Assets

In February 2008, the AcSB issued CICA Handbook Section 3064, Goodwill and Intangible Assets, replacing existing guidance (Sections 3062 and 3450) for these areas. This new section establishes standards for the recognition, measurement, presentation and disclosure of goodwill and intangible assets subsequent to its initial recognition. Standards concerning goodwill are unchanged from the standards included in the previous Section 3062. The Fund is currently evaluating the impact of the adoption of this new Section on its consolidated financial statements. This standard will be effective for the Fund for periods ending after January 1, 2009.

Control Environment

Disclosure Controls and Procedures

As of December 31, 2007, the Chief Executive Officer and the Chief Financial Officer together with Keyera's management have evaluated the design and effectiveness of Keyera's disclosure controls and procedures. They concluded that, as of the end of the period covered by this report, Keyera's disclosure controls and procedures were adequate and effective in ensuring that material information relating to the Fund and its consolidated subsidiaries would be made known to them by others within those entities, particularly during the period in which this report was being prepared.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

As of December 31, 2007, under the supervision of and with the participation of Keyera's management, including the Chief Executive Officer and the Chief Financial Officer, internal control over financial reporting has been designed and maintained in order to provide reasonable assurance regarding the reliability of financial reporting. During the quarter ended December 31, 2007, there have been no material changes in internal control over financial reporting.

For 2007 revenues from Marketing were $1,250.5 million, an increase of $88.6 million compared to the previous year. Higher prices, partially offset by lower volumes, and the growing contribution from the crude oil midstream business accounted for the increase. Also included in 2007 revenues were $20.0 million of charges related to the settlement and change in fair value of financial contracts that were part of Keyera's risk management program.

Revenues from facilities were $228.6 million, up $22.0 million compared to 2006.

Gathering and Processing revenue for 2007 was $187.5 million, an increase of $20.8 million, or 12%, compared to the previous year. The increase was due primarily to higher throughput in the Foothills Region, the flow through of turnaround costs incurred at the Rimbey, Brazeau River and Bigoray gas plants, the conversion of fixed fee arrangements to flow-through arrangements and incremental fees from the new compression added at the Rimbey gas plant in late 2006 and early 2007.

NGL Infrastructure revenue for 2007 was $41.1 million, an increase of $1.2 million, or 3%, compared to the previous year. The increase is primarily due to higher storage revenues at Keyera's Fort Saskatchewan facility.

Consolidated net earnings for 2007 were $14.5 million, a decrease of $53.6 million from 2006. The decrease was due primarily to the non-cash future income tax expense, higher general and administrative costs, interest expense and depreciation charges, partially offset by strong operating margins in all segments.

The Fund declared $90.2 million of distributions to unitholders in 2007, an increase of $3.6 million due to an increase in the distributions paid per unit in May 2007, as well as a greater number of units outstanding resulting from conversions of debentures and the DRIP.

For 2006, revenues from Marketing were $1,161.9 million, an increase of $148.6 million compared 2005. Approximately $52.3 million of the increase was due to the growth of the crude oil midstream business that commenced operation in the fourth quarter of 2005. Also included in revenue was $7.0 million related to the settlement and change in fair value of financial contracts that were part of Keyera's risk management program. The remainder was primarily due to higher NGL volumes and prices compared to last year.

Revenues from facilities were $206.6 million, up $32.4 million compared to 2005.

Gathering and Processing revenue for 2006 was $166.7 million, an increase of $27.5 million, or 20%, compared to the previous year. The increase was due primarily to higher throughput increasing sour raw gas volumes, which attract a higher processing fee, at the Brazeau River gas plant, the recovery of expenses incurred during the Chinchaga and Strachan gas plant maintenance turnarounds and increased ownership in the Strachan gas plant for the full year.

NGL Infrastructure revenue for 2006 was $39.9 million, an increase of $4.9 million, or 14%, compared to the previous year. The increase was primarily due to higher storage revenues at Keyera's Fort Saskatchewan facility, as well as a non-recurring adjustment of approximately $1 million earned upon the expiration of a long-term contract in the first quarter of 2006.

Consolidated net earnings for 2006 were $68.1 million, an increase of $7.4 million from 2005. This increase was primarily attributable to the strong contribution of the storage business in the NGL Infrastructure segment, lower long-term incentive plan costs in the general and administrative expenses and the recovery of future income taxes in the second quarter of 2006. Partially offsetting this were lower operating margins experienced in the third and fourth quarters of 2006 in the Marketing segment, primarily attributable to the weakening of product margins.

The Fund declared $86.6 million of distributions to unitholders in 2006, an increase of $8.1 million. The increase was due to higher average distributions per unit in 2006, as well as a higher number of units outstanding resulting from conversions of debentures and the DRIP.

December 31, 2007 compared to September 30, 2007

Marketing revenues of $373.9 million in the fourth quarter of 2007 increased from the third quarter of 2007 by $96.9 million. This increase was due to the seasonal increase in sales volumes and higher prices.

Net earnings were $40.0 million, an increase of $24.7 million due primarily to the strong operating margins earned in the Marketing segment and the recognition of a $11.7 million future income tax recovery.

September 30, 2007 compared to June 30, 2007

Third quarter Marketing revenues of $277.0 million decreased from the prior quarter by $15.4 million. This decrease was due to a combination of lower NGL volumes, particularly in butane and condensate, and the effect of the $5.7 million of unrealized loss on financial instruments.

Gathering and Processing revenue of $50.7 million increased by $6.5 million due to higher throughput at most plants and higher fees at the Bigoray and Brazeau River gas plants. Furthermore, volumes at the Rimbey gas plant improved over the previous quarter as it was taken offline for a 17-day turnaround in the second quarter.

Net earnings were $15.3 million, an increase of $75.2 million from previous quarter. This increase was primarily due to the recording of $80.2 million of future income taxes in the second quarter as a result of the Canadian government enacting taxation on publicly traded income trusts. Without the effect of this non-cash future income tax expense, net earnings for the third quarter decreased by $5.1 million from the second quarter, largely due to lower Marketing operating margins.

June 30, 2007 compared to March 31, 2007

For the second quarter of 2007, Marketing revenues of $292.3 million decreased by $15.0 million from the prior quarter. This decrease in revenues was due primarily to a seasonal decline in sales volumes.

Gathering and Processing revenue of $44.3 million increased by $2.3 million primarily due to higher throughput volumes in the Foothills Region, despite maintenance turnarounds at the Rimbey gas plant, Keyera's largest facility, and the Brazeau North gas plant.

NGL Infrastructure revenue of $9.5 million remained relatively unchanged from the first quarter of 2007, reflecting the long-term storage contracts established in early 2007.

A net loss of $59.9 million was recorded, a decrease of $78.9 million from the prior quarter. This loss was due to the recording of an $80.2 million provision for future income tax expense resulting from the enactment of the Canadian government's tax on publicly traded income trusts starting in 2011.

March 31, 2007 compared to December 31, 2006

Marketing revenues of $307.3 million increased by $21.0 million due to strong seasonal demand for propane over the last quarter of 2006. First quarter butane margins and demand continued to improve over the previous quarter, along with the market conditions for condensate. Keyera's crude oil midstream also contributed to the increase in Marketing revenue.

Gathering and Processing revenue for the first quarter of 2007 was $41.9 million, a decrease of $1.7 million from the last quarter of 2006. The decrease in revenue was due to a slight decrease in throughput volume in the West Central Region offset by higher volumes in the Foothills Region.

Operating revenues from NGL Infrastructure were $9.7 million, a decrease of $1.2 million from the fourth quarter of 2006. This decrease was primarily due to lower fractionation revenues, particularly at the Fort Saskatchewan facility.

Net earnings were $19.0 million, an increase of $4.1 million from the previous quarter. This increase was primarily due to stronger marketing operating margins offset by higher general and administrative costs.

December 31, 2006 compared to September 30, 2006

Marketing revenues of $286.3 million in the fourth quarter of 2006 increased from the third quarter of 2006 by $6.8 million. This increase was largely due to the seasonal increase in sales volumes.

NGL Infrastructure revenue of $10.9 million was consistent with the prior quarter.

Net earnings were $14.9 million, an increase of $3.1 million due to higher margins experienced in the NGL Infrastructure segment and lower Gathering and Processing expenses.

September 30, 2006 compared to June 30, 2006

Gathering and Processing revenue of $44.3 million increased by $3.5 million due to higher throughput, the increasingly sour gas at the Brazeau River gas plant which attracts a higher processing fee and the recovery of expenses incurred during the Chinchaga gas plant turnaround.

NGL Infrastructure revenue of $10.9 million increased by $2.3 million primarily due to increased NGL storage revenues at Fort Saskatchewan.

Net earnings were $11.8 million, a decrease of $14.2 million from the previous quarter. This decrease was primarily due to the recovery of future income taxes experienced in the second quarter.

June 30, 2006 compared to March 31, 2006

For the second quarter of 2006, Marketing revenues of $279.2 million decreased by $37.6 million from the prior quarter. This decrease in revenues was due primarily to a seasonal decline in sales volumes.

Gathering and Processing revenue of $40.8 million increased by $2.7 million primarily due to increased ownership in the Strachan gas plant.

NGL Infrastructure revenue of $8.5 million decreased by $1.1 million in comparison to the first quarter of 2006 due to a non-recurring final contract adjustment experienced in the first quarter.

Net earnings were $26.0 million, an increase of $10.6 million from the prior quarter. This increase in earnings was primarily attributable to the recovery of future income taxes resulting from the reduction of statutory tax rates in future years.

Investor Information

Distributions to Unitholders

Distributions to Unitholders were $0.375 per unit in the fourth quarter and $1.48 per unit for the full year. The Fund is focused on stable long-term distributions that grow over time. The Board of Directors will consider increasing the level of cash distributions when it is confident that such increase can be sustained.

Taxability of Distributions

For income tax purposes, distributions paid and declared to Canadian residents in 2007 were 66.2% return of capital with the remainder ordinary income. Additional information is available on Keyera's website under "Investor Information". Both Canadian and non-resident unitholders should seek independent tax advice in respect of the consequences to them of acquiring, holding and disposing of units.

Keyera currently anticipates distributions will be largely or fully taxable for Canadian non-exempt unitholders in 2008. This outlook is affected by Keyera's organizational structure and is subject to change, depending on the levels of profitability and capital expenditures in each of Keyera's operating entities. Both Canadian and non-resident unitholders should seek independent tax advice in respect of the consequences to them of acquiring, holding and disposing of units. Factors that could affect the performance of the Fund and the taxability of the distributions are discussed in the Fund's Annual Information Form.

Supplementary Information

A breakdown of Keyera's operational and financial results, including volumetric and contribution information by major business unit, is available on our website at www.keyera.com under Investor Information, Financial Information.

In the third quarter, Keyera realigned its Gathering and Processing assets into new business regions, the Foothills Region and the North Central Region. To assist in analysis, Keyera has reformatted its historical supplementary information to conform to the new business regions.

YEAR-END 2007 Results Conference Call and Webcast

Keyera will be conducting a conference call and webcast for investors, analysts, brokers and media representatives to discuss the year-end 2007 results at 8:00 am Mountain (10:00 am Eastern) on Wednesday, February 27, 2008. Keyera Facilities Income Fund
Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements
For the Years Ended December 31, 2007 and 2006
(All amounts expressed in thousands of Canadian dollars, except as otherwise noted)

1. Structure of the Fund

Keyera Facilities Income Fund (the "Fund") is an unincorporated open-ended trust established under the laws of the Province of Alberta pursuant to the Fund Declaration of Trust dated April 3, 2003. The Fund indirectly owns a 100% interest in Keyera Energy Partnership (the "Partnership").

The Partnership is involved in the business of natural gas gathering and processing, as well as natural gas liquids ("NGLs") and crude oil processing, transportation, storage and marketing in Canada and the U.S. Its subsidiaries include Keyera Energy Facilities Ltd. ("KEFL"), Keyera Energy Ltd. ("KEL"), Keyera Energy Inc. ("KEI"), and Rimbey Pipeline Limited Partnership ("RPLP").

The Fund is administered by and the Partnership is managed by Keyera Energy Management Ltd. ("KEML" or the "Managing Partner"). The Managing Partner has a 33.83% interest in the Partnership.

The Fund makes monthly cash distributions to unitholders of record on the last business day of each month. The amount of the distributions per trust unit is equal to the pro rata share of the distribution received indirectly from the Partnership and, in the event of the termination of the Fund, participating pro rata in the net assets remaining after satisfaction of all liabilities.

2. Summary of significant accounting policies

Principles of consolidation

These consolidated financial statements have been prepared by management in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP"). The consolidated financial statements include the accounts of the Fund and all controlled entities. All material intercompany accounts and transactions have been eliminated upon consolidation.

Measurement uncertainty

The preparation of financial statements in accordance with GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses. These include the recoverability of assets and the amounts recorded for depreciation, amortization, accretion and asset retirement obligations, which depend on estimates of oil and gas reserves or the economic lives and future cash flows from related assets. The recognized amounts of such items are based on management's best information and judgment.

Foreign currency translation

Monetary assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are translated into Canadian dollars at exchange rates in effect at the balance sheet date. Revenues and expenses are translated at rates of exchange in effect at the transaction date. Exchange gains and losses are recorded in earnings in the period they are incurred.

Revenue recognition

Marketing revenue
Revenue from marketing NGLs and natural gas and from crude oil midstream activities is recognized based on volumes delivered to customers at contracted delivery points and rates and when collection is reasonably assured.

Gathering and Processing revenue
Gathering and Processing revenue is generated through fixed fee arrangements or flow-through arrangements that are designed to recover operating costs and provide a return on capital. Amounts collected in excess of the recoverable amounts under flow-through arrangements are recorded as a current liability. Recoverable amounts in excess of the amounts collected under flow-through arrangements are recorded as a current receivable. Revenue is recognized when services have been performed and collection is reasonably assured. Revenue from take or pay arrangements is recognized as service is provided or upon expiry of the commitment, whichever occurs later.

NGL Infrastructure revenue
Revenue from transportation, processing and storage of NGLs is recognized through fee-for-service arrangements. The fee is comprised of a fixed charge per unit transported or processed. Revenue is recognized when services have been performed and collection is reasonably assured.

Joint ventures

Substantially all gathering and processing and NGL infrastructure activities are conducted jointly with others, and accordingly these financial statements reflect only the Fund's indirect proportionate interest in such activities.

Cash and cash equivalents

Cash may include cash equivalents such as short-term investments with maturities of three months or less when purchased.

Inventory

Inventory is comprised primarily of NGL product for sale through the marketing operations. Inventory is valued at the lower of cost and net realizable value. Cost is determined on a weighted average cost basis, calculated monthly.

Property, plant and equipment

Property, plant and equipment consist primarily of natural gas processing and gathering systems, NGL infrastructure facilities and marketing storage facilities, which were recorded at cost. Depreciation of these facilities is provided for on a straight-line basis over the estimated useful life of each facility. The depreciation periods range from five to thirty-two years for Gathering and Processing, twelve to thirty-one years for NGL Infrastructure, two to twenty-four years for Marketing and six to twenty-two years for corporate assets.

Impairment on property, plant and equipment is measured in a two-step process. Step one calculates the net recoverable amount, determined by the undiscounted future cash flows of the asset or asset group. Step two determines the impairment amount, equal to the difference between the carrying amount and fair value. Fair value is determined by discounting future estimated cash flows.

Intangible assets

Goodwill
Goodwill resulted from business combinations and represents the portion of the purchase price that was in excess of the fair value of net identifiable assets acquired. Goodwill is recorded at cost and is not subject to amortization. It is tested at least annually for impairment. The impairment test for goodwill is a two-step process. Step one consists of a comparison of the fair value of a reporting unit with its carrying amount, including the goodwill allocated to the reporting unit. Measurement of the fair value of a reporting unit is based on one or more fair value measures, including present value calculations of estimated future cash flows and estimated amounts at which the unit as a whole could be bought or sold in a current transaction between willing parties. The Fund also considers its market capitalization as of the date of the impairment test. If the carrying amount of the reporting unit exceeds its fair value, step two requires the fair value of the reporting unit to be allocated to the underlying assets and liabilities of that reporting unit, resulting in an implied fair value of goodwill. If the carrying amount of the reporting unit exceeds the implied fair value of that goodwill, an impairment loss equal to the excess is recorded in net earnings.

Other intangible assets
Other intangible assets consist of the marketing business contributed by the partners upon formation of the Partnership and marketing business contracts acquired on business combinations and asset purchases. These assets were recorded at fair market value upon initial recognition and are being amortized over their estimated economic life. The unamortized balance of these intangible assets is assessed periodically for impairment based on management's best estimates of future net revenues from the Marketing business.

Asset retirement obligation

The asset retirement cost, deemed to be the fair value of the asset retirement obligation, is capitalized as part of the cost of the related long-lived asset and allocated to expense on a basis consistent with depreciation and amortization. Amortization of asset retirement costs is included in depreciation and amortization in the consolidated statement of net earnings. The amount of the liability is revised periodically in accordance with changes in the assumptions and estimates underlying the calculations. Increases in the asset retirement obligation resulting from the passage of time are recorded as accretion expense in the consolidated statement of net earnings, over the estimated time period until settlement of the obligation. Actual expenditures incurred are charged against the asset retirement obligation.

Under the Canadian Income Tax Act, the Fund is considered to be a "mutual fund trust" and, until December 31, 2010, is taxable only to the extent that its income is not distributed or distributable to its unitholders. The Fund is contractually committed to distribute to its unitholders all or virtually all of its taxable income and taxable capital gains that would otherwise be taxable in its hands.

All subsidiaries of the Fund follow the liability method of accounting for income taxes. Under this method, these subsidiaries record the future income tax basis of an asset or liability, using the substantively enacted income tax rates. Accumulated future income tax balances are adjusted to reflect a change in the income tax rates and the adjustment is recognized in earnings in the period in which the change occurs.

Unit-based compensation

The Fund has a Long Term Incentive Plan ("LTIP"), which is disclosed in note 13. The LTIP is a stock appreciation right as defined by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants. The amount recognized in compensation expense is determined by multiplying the number of units deemed to have been earned by the current market price of the units. Fluctuations in the price of the trust units will change the accrued compensation expense and are recognized when they occur.

Net earnings per unit

Basic net earnings per unit are calculated by dividing net earnings, by the weighted average number of units outstanding during the period. For the calculation of the weighted average number, trust units are determined to be outstanding from the date they are issued. Diluted net earnings per unit are calculated by adding the weighted average number of units outstanding during the period to the additional units that would have been outstanding if potentially dilutive units had been issued, using the "if-converted" method.

Distributions to unitholders

The monthly amount of the distributions to unitholders of the Fund is defined in the Fund Declaration of Trust. The computation of the distributions to unitholders is comprised of cash amounts received or receivable as distributions or interest income.

Certain of the comparative figures in prior periods have been reclassified to conform to the presentation in the current period.

CHANGES IN ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Financial instruments

On January 1, 2007, the Fund adopted the following accounting standards issued by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants ("CICA"):

- Section 1506, Accounting Changes;
- Section 1530, Comprehensive Income;
- Section 3251, Equity;
- Section 3855, Financial Instruments - Recognition and Measurement;
- Section 3861, Financial Instruments - Disclosure and Presentation; and
- Section 3865, Hedges.

The Fund has adopted these standards in accordance with their transition provisions and comparative consolidated financial statements have not been restated. The Fund has selected January 1, 2004 as the date for identification of embedded derivatives. Transition amounts have been recorded in opening deficit.

All financial instruments must initially be recognized at fair value on the balance sheet. Subsequent measurement of the financial instruments is based on their classification. The Fund has classified each financial instrument into one of the following categories:

- Financial assets and financial liabilities held for trading
- Loans or receivables
- Financial assets held to maturity
- Financial assets available for sale
- Other financial liabilities

The classification depends on the characteristics and the purpose for which the financial instruments were acquired. Except in very limited circumstances, the classification of financial instruments is not changed subsequent to initial recognition.

Held for trading

Financial assets and financial liabilities classified as held for trading are measured at fair value and changes in those fair values are recognized in net earnings. Derivative instruments and cash have been classified as held for trading. Gains and losses related to derivative contracts are recognized in revenue in the period in which they arise. The estimated fair value of assets and liabilities held for trading is determined by reference to quoted market prices and, if not available, to estimates from third-party brokers or dealers. Transaction costs related to financial assets and financial liabilities classified as held for trading are charged to earnings as incurred.

Available for sale

Financial assets available for sale are measured at fair value, with changes in those fair values recognized in other comprehensive income. Currently, the Fund does not have any financial assets classified as available for sale. Transaction costs related to financial assets classified as available for sale would be charged to earnings as they occur.

Held to maturity

Financial assets held to maturity are measured at amortized cost using the effective interest rate method of amortization. Currently, the Fund does not have any financial assets classified as held to maturity. Transaction costs related to financial assets held to maturity would be charged to earnings as they occur.

Loans or receivables

Loans or receivables are measured at amortized cost using the effective interest rate method of amortization. Trade accounts receivables have been classified in this category. The related transaction costs would be charged to earnings as they arise.

Other financial liabilities

Other financial liabilities include accounts payable, accrued liabilities, distributions payable, short-term debt, convertible debentures and long-term debt. With the exception of derivative instruments, the Fund has classified all financial liabilities as other financial liabilities. Transaction costs relating to short-term liabilities are charged to earnings as they occur. For long-term liabilities, the transaction costs that are directly attributable to the issuance of a financial liability are included with the fair value initially recognized for that financial instrument. These costs are amortized to earnings using the effective interest rate method.

As of January 1, 2007, unamortized deferred financing fees of $985 relating to the Fund's long-term debt and $502 relating to convertible debentures have been reclassified for presentation purposes from intangible assets to long-term debt and convertible debentures. These fees are now amortized to earnings using the effective interest rate method.

The Fund assesses at each balance sheet date whether a financial asset carried at cost is impaired. If there is objective evidence that an impairment loss exists, the amount of the loss is measured as the difference between the carrying amount of the asset and its fair value. The carrying amount of the asset is reduced and the amount of the loss is recognized in earnings.

Derivatives and embedded derivatives

Derivative financial instruments are financial contracts that derive their value from underlying changes in interest rates, foreign exchange rates, credit spreads, commodity prices, equities or other financial measures. The Fund uses financial instruments such as commodity price swaps, electricity price swaps, foreign exchange forward contracts, and interest rate swaps to manage its risks.

Natural gas, NGL and crude oil contracts that require physical delivery at fixed prices and do not meet the Fund's expected purchase, sale or usage requirements are accounted for as derivative financial instruments.

Derivatives may include those derivatives that are embedded in financial or non-financial contracts that are not closely related to the host contracts. With the adoption of the new accounting standards on financial instruments, such embedded derivatives are now to be accounted for separately from the host contract.

Derivative instruments, including embedded derivatives, are classified as held for trading and are recorded on the consolidated statements of financial position at fair value. Changes in the fair value of these financial instruments are recognized in earnings in the period in which they arise.

Hedge accounting

Effective January 1, 2007 the Fund has opted to discontinue the use of hedge accounting. All derivative instruments that previously qualified for hedge accounting have been recognized at fair value and unrealized gains and losses have been recorded in earnings.

Adopting these standards on January 1, 2007 resulted in the recognition of an asset held for trading in the amount of $3,314, a liability held for trading in the amount of $130 and a $3,184 reduction to the opening deficit. Assets held for trading are included in accounts receivable and liabilities held for trading are included in accounts payable and accrued liabilities. The effect on basic and diluted net earnings per unit was $0.05.

Comprehensive income

Comprehensive income consists of net earnings and other comprehensive income ("OCI"). OCI comprises the changes in the fair value of the effective portion of derivatives used as hedging items in a cash flow hedge, changes in the fair value of any available for sale financial instruments and foreign currency translation adjustments of self-sustaining foreign operations. Accumulated other comprehensive income ("AOCI") is a new equity category comprised of the cumulative amounts of OCI.

No amounts have been recorded in OCI or AOCI as a result of adopting this accounting standard.

Future Accounting and Reporting Changes

Convergence of Canadian GAAP with International Financial Reporting Standards

In 2006, Canada's Accounting Standards Board (AcSB) ratified a strategic plan that will result in the convergence of Canadian GAAP, as used by public companies, with International Financial Reporting Standards over a transitional period. The AcSB has developed and published a detailed implementation plan, with a changeover date for fiscal years beginning on or after January 1, 2011. This initiative is in its early stages as of the date on these annual Consolidated Financial Statements. Accordingly, it would be premature to assess the impact of the initiative on the Fund at this time.

Financial Instruments - Disclosures and Presentation

The AcSB has issued CICA Handbook Sections 3862 and 3863, Financial Instruments - Disclosures, and Financial Instruments - Presentation. Section 3862 requires entities to provide disclosures in their financial statements that enable users to evaluate the significance of financial instruments to the entitity's financial position and performance. It also requires that entities disclose the nature and extent of risks arising from financial instruments and how the entity manages those risks. Section 3863 establishes standards for presentation of financial instruments and non-financial derivatives and deals with the classification of financial instruments, from the perspective of the issuer, between liabilities and equity, the classification of related interest, dividends, losses and gains, and the circumstances in which financial assets and financial liabilities are offset. These standards will be effective for the Fund for periods ending after January 1, 2008.

Capital Disclosures

The AcSB has issued CICA Handbook Section 1535, Capital Disclosures, which requires entities to disclose their objectives, policies and processes for managing capital and whether they are in compliance with any externally imposed capital requirements. This standard will be effective for the Fund for periods ending after January 1, 2008.

Inventories

The AcSB has issued CICA Handbook Section 3031, Inventories, which essentially modifies guidance relating to the scope, measurement and allocation of costs for inventory. The Fund is currently evaluating the impact of the adoption of this new Section on its consolidated financial statements. This standard will be effective for the Fund for periods ending after January 1, 2008.

Goodwill and Intangible Assets

In February 2008, the AcSB issued CICA Handbook Section 3064, Goodwill and Intangible Assets, replacing existing guidance (Sections 3062 and 3450) for these areas. This new section establishes standards for the recognition, measurement, presentation and disclosure of goodwill and intangible assets subsequent to its initial recognition. Standards concerning goodwill are unchanged from the standards included in the previous Section 3062. The Fund is currently evaluating the impact of the adoption of this new Section on its consolidated financial statements. This standard will be effective for the Fund for periods ending after January 1, 2009.

(a) Intangible assets for the Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure segments consist of goodwill.

(b) Intangible assets for the Marketing segment consist of the marketing business contributed by the Partners when the Partnership was first formed, the marketing business of EnerPro acquired in 2004 and the marketing contracts acquired with the U.S. propane terminals in 2006. These assets are being amortized over the remaining economic life of one to six years. Amortization expense for the year ended December 31, 2007 was $2,673 (2006 - $1,930).

(c) For 2006, intangible assets for the corporate segment related to deferred financing fees. Upon adoption of the new accounting standards on financial instruments (note 2), deferred financing fees were reclassified to their related debt balances and amortized using the effective interest rate method over the remaining terms of the related debt. Long-term debt deferred financing fees are discussed further in note 5. Convertible debenture deferred financing fees are discussed further in note 6.

5. Credit facilities and long-term debt

As at	2007 $	2006 $
Bank credit facilities(a)	-	100,984
Revolving demand loan(a)	-	7,000
Total credit facilities	-	107,984

Total long-term debt	333,243	215,000

(1) Deferred financing costs have been reclassified to long-term debt upon adoption of the new accounting standards (see note 2).
Previously, these costs were included in intangible assets.

(a) The Partnership has a $150,000 unsecured revolving credit facility with certain Canadian financial institutions led by the Royal Bank of Canada. The facility has a three-year revolving term and matures on April 21, 2010, unless extended. In addition, the Royal Bank of Canada has provided a $15,000 revolving demand facility and the Toronto Dominion Bank has provided a $10,000 revolving demand facility. The revolving credit facilities bear interest based on the lenders' rates for Canadian prime commercial loans, U.S. Base rate loans, Libor loans, or Bankers' Acceptances rates. The weighted average interest rates for the year ended December 31, 2007 was 5.74% (2006 - 5.43%). As at December 31, 2007, the balance outstanding on the bank credit facilities was $nil (2006 - $107,984).

On July 12, 2007, the $7,000 unsecured revolving demand loan facility related to a subsidiary of the Partnership was terminated.

(b) In 2003, $125,000 of unsecured senior notes were issued by the Partnership and KEFL in three parts: $20,000 due in 2008 bearing interest at 5.42%, $52,500 due in 2010 bearing interest at 5.79% and $52,500 due in 2013 bearing interest at 6.16%. Interest is payable monthly. Financing costs of $1,215 have been deferred and are amortized using the effective interest rate method over the remaining terms of the related debt. The effective interest rates for the year ended December 31, 2007 were 5.63%, 5.95% and 6.29% for the notes due in 2008, 2010 and 2013 respectively (5.42%, 5.79% and 6.16% for the year ended December 31, 2006).

In 2004, $90,000 of unsecured senior notes were issued by KEFL and guaranteed by the Partnership. The notes bear interest at 5.23% and mature on October 1, 2009. Interest is payable semi-annually. Financing costs of $568 have been deferred and are amortized using the effective interest rate method over the remaining term of the debt. The effective interest rate for the year ended December 31, 2007 was 5.37% (2006 - 5.23%).

On September 4, 2007, $80,000 of unsecured senior notes were issued by KEFL and guaranteed by the Partnership and the Fund in two tranches: $40,000 due in 2017 bearing interest at 5.89% and $40,000 due in 2022 bearing interest at 6.14%. On December 2, 2007, a further $40,000 of unsecured senior notes were issued by KEFL in two tranches: $20,000 due in 2017 bearing interest at 5.89% and $20,000 due in 2022 bearing interest at 6.14%. Interest is payable semi-annually. Financing costs of $1,104 have been deferred and are amortized using the effective interest rate method over the terms of the related debt. The effective interest rates for the period were 5.94% and 6.18% for the notes due in 2017 and 2022 respectively.

6. Convertible debentures

In 2004, the Fund issued convertible unsecured subordinated debentures in the principal amount of $100,000. The convertible debentures bear interest at 6.75% per annum, payable semi-annually in arrears on June 30 and December 31 each year. Interest expense of $1,613 has been accrued for the twelve months ended December 31, 2007 (2006 - $1,776). These debentures will mature on June 30, 2011 and are convertible into trust units of the Fund at the option of the holders at any time prior to maturity at a conversion price of $12.00 per unit. At December 31, 2007, $78,178 debentures had been converted to trust units (2006 - $76,458).

Financing costs consisting of an underwriters' commission of $4,000 and issuance costs of $332 have been deferred, and when there are no conversions, are being amortized over the term of the debt using the effective interest rate method. Upon conversion of the debentures, the financing cost related to the principal amount of debt converted is adjusted and is recognized as a charge to unitholders' equity. As a result of conversions to date at December 31, 2007, $2,857 has been reclassified to unitholders' equity (2006 - $2,782). As at December 31, 2007, $346 of deferred financing costs remain. The effective interest rate for the year ended December 31, 2007 was 7.36% (2006 - 6.75%).

7. Asset held for sale

Asset held for sale consisted of an interest in an electrical generator. In 2006, the equipment was written down to its estimated net realizable value recognizing a $373 charge to impairment expense. On January 23, 2007, the Fund sold its interest in the electrical generator for proceeds of $4,200.

8. Asset retirement obligation

The following table presents the reconciliation between the beginning and ending aggregate carrying amount of the obligation associated with the retirement of the Fund's facilities.

For the year ended December 31	2007 $	2006 $
Asset retirement obligation, beginning of year	34,533	27,776
Liabilities acquired	644	151
Liabilities settled	(213)	(160)
Revisions in estimated cash flows	361	4,509
Accretion expense	2,482	2,257
Asset retirement obligation, end of year	37,807	34,533

The total undiscounted amount of cash flows required to settle the asset retirement obligations is $183,042 which has been discounted using a credit-adjusted risk-free rate of 7% (2006 - $183,159). The majority of these obligations are expected to be settled between 2018 and 2038. No assets have been legally restricted for settlement of the liability.

9. Income taxes

On June 22, 2007, Bill C-52 Budget Implementation Act, 2007 was enacted by the Canadian federal government. This legislation proposes to tax publicly traded trusts in Canada. The new tax is not expected to apply to the Fund until 2011 as the government has provided a transition period for publicly traded trusts that existed prior to November 1, 2006. As a result of the new tax legislation, the Fund recorded an additional $80.2 million future income tax expense and increased its future income tax liability in the second quarter of 2007. This adjustment represents taxable temporary differences of the Partnership that were previously not recorded for future income tax purposes. These temporary differences were originally recorded at a tax-effected rate of 31.5%.

During the fourth quarter of 2007, the federal government substantively enacted a 3.5% reduction to its federal corporate income tax rates. Accordingly, the Fund has recorded the temporary differences applicable to the Fund at a rate of 28% resulting in a $5.6 million reduction to the original future income tax expense of $80.2 million recorded in the second quarter of 2007.

For income tax purposes, the Fund and its subsidiaries have non-capital losses carried forward of approximately $2,981 at December 31, 2007 ($11,987 at December 31, 2006) which are available to offset income of specific entities of the consolidated group in future periods. The benefit of these losses has been recorded at December 31, 2007.

During the second quarter of 2007, the Fund recorded a $5,780 future income tax liability with a corresponding increase to goodwill. This adjustment relates to a prior period acquisition that did not reflect a future income tax impact for a temporary difference. A further $520 future tax liability and increase to goodwill was recorded relating to the acquisition of the minority interest in RPLP (see note 18).

The future income tax (liabilities) assets relate to losses and to the (taxable) deductible temporary differences in the carrying values and tax bases as follows:

10. Unitholders' capital

The Declaration of Trust provides that an unlimited number of trust units may be authorized and issued. Each trust unit is transferable, and represents an equal undivided beneficial interest in any distribution from the Fund and in the net assets of the Fund in the event of termination or winding-up of the Fund. All trust units are of the same class with equal rights and privileges.

The Declaration of Trust also provides for the issuance of an unlimited number of special trust units that will be used solely for providing voting rights to persons holding securities that are directly or indirectly exchangeable for units and that, by their terms, have voting rights in the Fund.

The trust units are redeemable at the holder's option at an amount equal to the lesser of: (i) 90% of the weighted average price per unit during the period of the last 10 trading days during which the trust units were traded on the Toronto Stock Exchange; and (ii) an amount equal to (a) the closing market price of the units; (b) an amount equal to the average of the highest and lowest prices of units if there was trading on the date on which the units were tendered for redemption; or (c) the average of the last bid and ask prices if there was no trading on the date on which the units were tendered for redemption.

Redemptions are subject to a maximum of $50 cash redemptions in any particular month. Redemptions in excess of this amount will be paid by way of a distribution in specie of assets of the Fund that may include Commercial Trust Series 1 notes.

The Fund has a Distribution Reinvestment and Optional Unit Purchase Plan ("DRIP") that permits unitholders to reinvest cash distributions for additional units. This plan allows eligible participants an opportunity to reinvest distributions into trust units at a 3% discount to a weighted average market price, so long as units are issued from treasury under the DRIP. The Fund has the right to notify participants that units will be acquired in the market, in which case units will be purchased at the weighted average market price. Eligible unitholders can also make optional unit purchases under the optional unit purchase component of the plan at the weighted average market price.

11. Net earnings per unit

Basic per unit calculations for the years ended December 31, 2007 and 2006 were based on the weighted average number of units outstanding for the related period. Convertible debentures were in the money for the years ended December 31, 2007 and 2006 and contributed to the increase in diluted weighted average number of units for these periods.

Pursuant to the Fund Declaration of Trust dated April 3, 2003 and its subsequent amendments, the Fund makes monthly distributions to holders of record on the last day of each month. Payments are made on or about the 15th day of the following month.

Distributions are paid from "Cash Flow of the Trust", a term that is defined in the Fund Declaration of Trust dated April 3, 2003. The Board of Directors of the Fund may, on or before each Distribution Record Date, declare payable all or any part of the Cash Flow of the Trust for the Distribution Period. The amount and level of distributions to be made for each Distribution Period is determined at the discretion of the Board of Directors of the Fund. In determining its distribution policy, the Board of Directors of the Fund considers several factors, including the Fund's current and future cash flow, capital requirements, debt repayments and other factors.

13. Compensation plans

The Long Term Incentive Plan (the "LTIP" or the "Plan") compensates officers, directors, key employees and consultants by delivering units of the Fund or paying cash in lieu of units. Participants in the LTIP are granted rights ("unit awards") to receive units of the Fund on specified dates in the future. The Plan permits the directors of KEML to authorize the grant of unit awards from time to time. Units are acquired in the marketplace under the plan.

The Plan consists of two types of unit awards, which are described below. Unit awards and the delivery of units under the Plan are accounted for in accordance with the intrinsic value method of accounting for stock-based compensation. The aggregate compensation cost recorded for the Plan was $5,519 for the year ended December 31, 2007 (2006 - $2,319).

During the year ended December 31, 2007, 237,294 units were purchased on the market at a cost of $4,429 and 191,327 units were settled in cash for $3,472.

(a) Performance Unit Awards

The Performance Unit Awards will vest 100% on the third anniversary of the effective date of each award, July 1, 2005, July 1, 2006 and July 1, 2007. The number of units to be delivered will be determined by the financial performance of the Fund over the three-year period and is calculated by multiplying the number of unit awards by an adjustment ratio and a payout multiplier. The adjustment ratio adjusts the number of units to be delivered to reflect the per unit cash distributions paid by the Fund to its unitholders during the term that the unit award is outstanding. The payout multiplier is based upon the actual three-year average annual cash distributions per unit of the Fund. The table below describes the relationship between the three-year average annual cash distribution per unit and the payout multiplier.

Three-year annual cash distributions per unit
	July 1, 2005 Grant	July 1, 2006 Grant	July 1, 2007 Grant	Payout Multiplier
	Less than 1.32	Less than 1.42	Less than 1.44	Nil
First range	1.32 - 1.39	1.42 - 1.51	1.44 - 1.51	50%-99%
Second range	1.40 - 1.55	1.52 - 1.71	1.52 - 1.67	100%-199%
Third range	1.56 and greater	1.72 and greater	1.68 or greater	200%

As of December 31, 2007, 485,105 Performance Unit Awards (2006 - 529,867) were outstanding: 164,580 effective July 1, 2005, 144,050 effective July 1, 2006 and 176,475 effective July 1, 2007. The compensation cost recorded for these units for the year ended December 31, 2007 was $4,485 using the applicable closing market price of a unit of the Fund (2006 - $1,367).

(b) Time Vested Unit Awards ("Restricted Unit Awards")

Restricted Unit Awards will vest automatically, over a three-year period from the effective date of the award on July 1, 2005, July 1, 2006 and July 1, 2007, regardless of the performance of the Fund. The number of units to be delivered will be modified by an adjustment ratio which reflects the per unit distributions paid by the Fund to its unitholders during the term that the unit award is outstanding.

As of December 31, 2007, 92,275 Restricted Unit Awards (2006 - 98,735) were outstanding: 14,167 effective July 1, 2005, 26,333 effective July 1, 2006 and 51,775 effective July 1, 2007. The compensation cost recorded for these units for the year ended December 31, 2007 was $1,034 using the applicable closing market price of a unit of the Fund (2006 - $952).

14. Financial instruments

Financial instruments include cash, accounts receivable, accounts payable and accrued liabilities, distributions payable, credit facilities, long-term debt, convertible debentures and derivatives held for trading (derivative financial instruments such as foreign exchange contracts, oil price contracts, natural gas price contracts, power price contracts and physical fixed price contracts).

Derivatives held for trading

Subsidiaries of the Fund enter into contracts to purchase and sell natural gas, NGLs and crude oil. These contracts are exposed to commodity price risk between the time contracted volumes are purchased and sold and currency exchange risk for those sales denominated in U.S. dollars. These risks are actively managed by using forward currency contracts and swaps, energy related forwards, swaps and options and by balancing physical and financial contracts in terms of volumes, timing of performance and delivery obligations. Management monitors the exposure to the above risks and regularly reviews its financial instrument activities and all outstanding positions.

A significant amount of electricity is consumed by the operating entities at their facilities. Due to the fixed fee nature of some service contracts in place with customers, these entities are unable to flow the cost of electricity to customers in all situations. In order to mitigate this exposure to fluctuations in the price of electricity, price swap agreements may be used.

Natural gas, NGL and crude oil contracts that require physical delivery at fixed prices and do not meet the Fund's expected purchase, sale or usage requirements are accounted for as derivative financial instruments.

On occasions, the Fund will enter into NGL purchase and sale contracts that are settled in a currency other than the currency that are routinely denominated for such commercial transactions. In these instances, the Fund accounts for these non-financial contracts as embedded derivatives.

Derivative instruments held for trading are recorded on the consolidated statement of financial position at fair value. Changes in the fair value of these financial instruments are recognized in earnings in the period in which they arise.

As at December 31, 2007, $3,112 of assets held for trading were included in accounts receivable and $12,566 of liabilities held for trading were included in accounts payable and accrued liabilities. Unrealized (losses) gains, representing the change in fair value of derivative contracts are recorded in Marketing operating revenue and NGL Infrastructure operating expense.

The unrealized (loss) gain relating to derivative contracts were as follows:

Marketing	(12,007)	263

The estimated fair value of all derivatives held for trading is based on quoted market prices and, if not available, on estimates from third-party brokers or dealers.

Fair value

The carrying values of accounts receivable, accounts payable and accrued liabilities and distributions payable approximate their fair values because the instruments are near maturity or have no fixed repayment terms. The fair value of the credit facilities approximates fair value due to their floating rates of interest.

Credit risk

The majority of accounts receivable are due from entities in the oil and gas industry and are subject to normal industry credit risks. Concentration of credit risk is mitigated by having a broad domestic and international customer base. The Fund evaluates and monitors the financial strength of its customers in accordance with its credit policy. At December 31, 2007, the accounts receivable from the two largest customers amounted to less than 1% of accounts receivable (2006 - less than 1%). Revenue from the two largest customers amounted to 15% of operating revenue for the year ended December 31, 2007 (2006 - 11%). With respect to counterparties for derivative financial instruments, the credit risk is managed through dealing with recognized futures exchanges or investment grade financial institutions and by maintaining credit policies, which significantly minimize overall counter party credit risk.

Foreign currency rate risk

The Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure segments, where all sales and virtually all purchases are denominated in Canadian dollars, are not subject to foreign currency rate risk. In the Marketing business, approximately US$240,149 of sales were priced in U.S. dollars for the year ended December 31, 2007 (2006 - US$313,191).

The Fund realized and recorded $930 of foreign currency loss in Marketing operating expenses for the twelve months ended December 31, 2007 (2006 - $742). A further $1,488 of unrealized foreign currency gains were recorded in Marketing operating expenses for the year ended December 31, 2007 (2006 - $784).

Currency exchange risk is actively managed by using forward currency contracts and swaps. Management monitors the exposure to currency exchange risk and regularly reviews its financial instrument activities and all outstanding positions.

Interest rate risk

The majority of the Fund's interest rate risk is attributed to its fixed and floating rate debt, which is used to finance operations. The Fund's remaining financial instruments are not significantly exposed to interest rate risk. The floating rate debt creates exposure to interest rate cash flow risk, whereas the fixed rate debt creates exposure to interest rate price risk. At December 31, 2007, fixed rate borrowings comprised 100% of total debt outstanding (2006 - 67%). The fair value of the senior fixed rate debt at December 31, 2007 was $337,589 (2006 - $224,457) based on third party estimates. The fair value of the Fund's unsecured convertible debentures at December 31, 2007 was $32,078 (2006 - $31,782) as determined by reference to quoted market price for the Fund's debentures.

15. Commitments and contingencies

The Fund, through its operating entities has assumed various contractual obligations and agreements in the normal course of its operations. The agreements range from one to eleven years and relate to the processing of a major oil and gas producer's natural gas and the purchase of NGL production in the areas specified in the agreements. The purchase prices are based on current period market prices.

There are operating lease commitments relating to railway tank cars, vehicles, computer hardware, office space, terminal space and natural gas transportation. At December 31, 2007, the obligations that represent known future cash payments that are required under existing contractual arrangements are as follows:

	Payments Due by Period
Contractual obligations	Total $	2008 $	2009 $	2010 $	2011 $	2012 $	After 2012 $
Long-term debt(1)	335,000	20,000	90,000	52,500	-	-	172,500

Total contractual obligations	368,845	28,749	97,926	58,859	4,964	3,915	174,432

(1) Long-term debt obligations do not include interest payments.
(2) Keyera has lease commitments relating to railway tank cars, vehicles, computer hardware, office space, terminal lease space and natural gas transportation.
(3) Keyera is involved in various contractual agreements with ConocoPhillips and other producers to purchase NGLs. These agreements range from one to eleven years and in general obligate Keyera to purchase all product produced at specified locations on a best efforts basis. The purchase prices are based on then current market prices. The future volumes and prices for these contracts cannot be reasonably determined.

There are legal actions for which the ultimate results cannot be ascertained at this time. Management does not expect the outcome of any of these proceedings to have a material effect on the financial position or results of operations.

17. Segmented information

The Fund has three reportable segments: Marketing, Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure. The Marketing business consists of marketing NGLs, natural gas, sulphur and crude oil. Gathering and Processing includes natural gas gathering and processing. NGL Infrastructure includes NGL and crude oil processing, transportation and storage. The accounting policies of the segments are the same as that described in the summary of significant accounting policies. Inter-segment sales and expenses are recorded at current market prices.

18. Non-controlling interest

In the first quarter of 2007, a subsidiary of the Fund purchased an additional ownership interest in Rimbey Pipe Line Co. Ltd. for a purchase price of $1,513. In the second quarter of 2007, Rimbey Pipe Line Co. Ltd. was converted to a limited partnership (RPLP) and a subsidiary of the Fund acquired the remaining interest in RPLP for a purchase price of $5,203 bringing the Fund's ownership in RPLP to 100%. The difference between the fair value of the transactions and the carrying value of RPLP's net assets resulted in a difference of $3,666, which was applied to property, plant and equipment. A future tax liability and corresponding increase to goodwill was recorded in the amount of $520. As a result, the non-controlling interest has been removed from the consolidated statement of financial position.

19. Subsequent Events

On January 2, 2008, the Fund completed an internal reorganization of certain of its subsidiaries. As a result of the reorganization, the Partnership is now directly owned by the Fund and KEML no longer has an interest in the Partnership. It is expected that the future income tax liability will increase by approximately $3.5 million in 2008 as a result of the higher future income tax rate applicable to the Fund. This tax rate is approximately 2.5% higher than the future income tax rate recorded by KEML. On January 2, 2008, the Fund's revolving demand facility with the Toronto Dominion Bank was increased from $10,000 to $15,000. The terms of the facility, including interest rates charged, remain unchanged.

Keyera Facilities Income Fund (the "Fund") is an unincorporated open-ended trust established under the laws of the Province of Alberta pursuant to the Fund Declaration of Trust dated April 3, 2003. The Fund indirectly owns a 100% interest in Keyera Energy Partnership (the "Partnership").

The Partnership is involved in the business of natural gas gathering and processing, as well as natural gas liquids ("NGLs") and crude oil processing, transportation, storage and marketing in Canada and the U.S. Its subsidiaries include Keyera Energy Facilities Ltd. ("KEFL"), Keyera Energy Ltd. ("KEL"), Keyera Energy Inc. ("KEI"), and Rimbey Pipeline Limited Partnership ("RPLP").

The Fund is administered by and the Partnership is managed by Keyera Energy Management Ltd. ("KEML" or the "Managing Partner"). The Managing Partner has a 33.83% interest in the Partnership.

The Fund makes monthly cash distributions to unitholders of record on the last business day of each month. The amount of the distributions per trust unit is equal to the pro rata share of the distribution received indirectly from the Partnership and, in the event of the termination of the Fund, participating pro rata in the net assets remaining after satisfaction of all liabilities.

2. Summary of significant accounting policies

Principles of consolidation

These consolidated financial statements have been prepared by management in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP"). The consolidated financial statements include the accounts of the Fund and all controlled entities. All material intercompany accounts and transactions have been eliminated upon consolidation.

Measurement uncertainty

The preparation of financial statements in accordance with GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses. These include the recoverability of assets and the amounts recorded for depreciation, amortization, accretion and asset retirement obligations, which depend on estimates of oil and gas reserves or the economic lives and future cash flows from related assets. The recognized amounts of such items are based on management's best information and judgment.

Foreign currency translation

Monetary assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are translated into Canadian dollars at exchange rates in effect at the balance sheet date. Revenues and expenses are translated at rates of exchange in effect at the transaction date. Exchange gains and losses are recorded in earnings in the period they are incurred.

Revenue recognition

Marketing revenue

Revenue from marketing NGLs and natural gas and from crude oil midstream activities is recognized based on volumes delivered to customers at contracted delivery points and rates and when collection is reasonably assured.

Gathering and Processing revenue

Gathering and Processing revenue is generated through fixed fee arrangements or flow-through arrangements that are designed to recover operating costs and provide a return on capital. Amounts collected in excess of the recoverable amounts under flow-through arrangements are recorded as a current liability. Recoverable amounts in excess of the amounts collected under flow-through arrangements are recorded as a current receivable. Revenue is recognized when services have been performed and collection is reasonably assured. Revenue from take or pay arrangements is recognized as service is provided or upon expiry of the commitment, whichever occurs later.

NGL Infrastructure revenue
Revenue from transportation, processing and storage of NGLs is recognized through fee-for-service arrangements. The fee is comprised of a fixed charge per unit transported or processed. Revenue is recognized when services have been performed and collection is reasonably assured.

Joint ventures
Substantially all gathering and processing and NGL infrastructure activities are conducted jointly with others, and accordingly these financial statements reflect only the Fund's indirect proportionate interest in such activities.

Cash and cash equivalents
Cash may include cash equivalents such as short-term investments with maturities of three months or less when purchased.

Inventory
Inventory is comprised primarily of NGL product for sale through the marketing operations. Inventory is valued at the lower of cost and net realizable value. Cost is determined on a weighted average cost basis, calculated monthly.

Property, plant and equipment
Property, plant and equipment consist primarily of natural gas processing and gathering systems, NGL infrastructure facilities and marketing storage facilities, which were recorded at cost. Depreciation of these facilities is provided for on a straight-line basis over the estimated useful life of each facility. The depreciation periods range from five to thirty-two years for Gathering and Processing, twelve to thirty-one years for NGL Infrastructure, two to twenty-four years for Marketing and six to twenty-two years for corporate assets.

Impairment on property, plant and equipment is measured in a two-step process. Step one calculates the net recoverable amount, determined by the undiscounted future cash flows of the asset or asset group. Step two determines the impairment amount, equal to the difference between the carrying amount and fair value. Fair value is determined by discounting future estimated cash flows.

Intangible assets
Goodwill
Goodwill resulted from business combinations and represents the portion of the purchase price that was in excess of the fair value of net identifiable assets acquired. Goodwill is recorded at cost and is not subject to amortization. It is tested at least annually for impairment. The impairment test for goodwill is a two-step process. Step one consists of a comparison of the fair value of a reporting unit with its carrying amount, including the goodwill allocated to the reporting unit. Measurement of the fair value of a reporting unit is based on one or more fair value measures, including present value calculations of estimated future cash flows and estimated amounts at which the unit as a whole could be bought or sold in a current transaction between willing parties. The Fund also considers its market capitalization as of the date of the impairment test. If the carrying amount of the reporting unit exceeds its fair value, step two requires the fair value of the reporting unit to be allocated to the underlying assets and liabilities of that reporting unit, resulting in an implied fair value of goodwill. If the carrying amount of the reporting unit exceeds the implied fair value of that goodwill, an impairment loss equal to the excess is recorded in net earnings.

Other intangible assets
Other intangible assets consist of the marketing business contributed by the partners upon formation of the Partnership and marketing business contracts acquired on business combinations and asset purchases. These assets were recorded at fair market value upon initial recognition and are being amortized over their estimated economic life. The unamortized balance of these intangible assets is assessed periodically for impairment based on management's best estimates of future net revenues from the Marketing business.

Asset retirement obligation
The asset retirement cost, deemed to be the fair value of the asset retirement obligation, is capitalized as part of the cost of the related long-lived asset and allocated to expense on a basis consistent with depreciation and amortization. Amortization of asset retirement costs is included in depreciation and amortization in the consolidated statement of net earnings. The amount of the liability is revised periodically in accordance with changes in the assumptions and estimates underlying the calculations. Increases in the asset retirement obligation resulting from the passage of time are recorded as accretion expense in the consolidated statement of net earnings, over the estimated time period until settlement of the obligation. Actual expenditures incurred are charged against the asset retirement obligation.

Under the Canadian Income Tax Act, the Fund is considered to be a "mutual fund trust" and, until December 31, 2010, is taxable only to the extent that its income is not distributed or distributable to its unitholders. The Fund is contractually committed to distribute to its unitholders all or virtually all of its taxable income and taxable capital gains that would otherwise be taxable in its hands.

All subsidiaries of the Fund follow the liability method of accounting for income taxes. Under this method, these subsidiaries record the future income tax basis of an asset or liability, using the substantively enacted income tax rates. Accumulated future income tax balances are adjusted to reflect a change in the income tax rates and the adjustment is recognized in earnings in the period in which the change occurs.

Unit-based compensation
The Fund has a Long Term Incentive Plan ("LTIP"), which is disclosed in note 13. The LTIP is a stock appreciation right as defined by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants. The amount recognized in compensation expense is determined by multiplying the number of units deemed to have been earned by the current market price of the units. Fluctuations in the price of the trust units will change the accrued compensation expense and are recognized when they occur.

Net earnings per unit
Basic net earnings per unit are calculated by dividing net earnings, by the weighted average number of units outstanding during the period. For the calculation of the weighted average number, trust units are determined to be outstanding from the date they are issued. Diluted net earnings per unit are calculated by adding the weighted average number of units outstanding during the period to the additional units that would have been outstanding if potentially dilutive units had been issued, using the "treasury stock" method.

Distributions to unitholders
The monthly amount of the distributions to unitholders of the Fund is defined in the Fund Declaration of Trust. The computation of the distributions to unitholders is comprised of cash amounts received or receivable as distributions or interest income.

CHANGES IN ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Financial instruments
On January 1, 2007, the Fund adopted the following accounting standards issued by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants ("CICA"):

- Section 1506, Accounting Changes;
- Section 1530, Comprehensive Income;
- Section 3251, Equity;
- Section 3855, Financial Instruments – Recognition and Measurement;

- Section 3861, Financial Instruments – Disclosure and Presentation; and
- Section 3865, Hedges

The Fund has adopted these standards in accordance with their transition provisions and comparative consolidated financial statements have not been restated. The Fund has selected January 1, 2004 as the date for identification of embedded derivatives. Transition amounts have been recorded in opening deficit.

All financial instruments must initially be recognized at fair value on the balance sheet. Subsequent measurement of the financial instruments is based on their classification. The Fund has classified each financial instrument into one of the following categories:

- Financial assets and financial liabilities held for trading
- Loans or receivables
- Financial assets held to maturity
- Financial assets available for sale
- Other financial liabilities

The classification depends on the characteristics and the purpose for which the financial instruments were acquired. Except in very limited circumstances, the classification of financial instruments is not changed subsequent to initial recognition.

Held for trading
Financial assets and financial liabilities classified as held for trading are measured at fair value and changes in those fair values are recognized in net earnings. Derivative instruments and cash have been classified as held for trading. Gains and losses related to derivative contracts are recognized in revenue in the period in which they arise. The estimated fair value of assets and liabilities held for trading is determined by reference to quoted market prices and, if not available, to estimates from third-party brokers or dealers. Transaction costs related to financial assets and financial liabilities classified as held for trading are charged to earnings as incurred.

Available for sale
Financial assets available for sale are measured at fair value, with changes in those fair values recognized in other comprehensive income. Currently, the Fund does not have any financial assets classified as available for sale. Transaction costs related to financial assets classified as available for sale would be charged to earnings as they occur.

Held to maturity
Financial assets held to maturity are measured at amortized cost using the effective interest rate method of amortization. Currently, the Fund does not have any financial assets classified as held to maturity. Transaction costs related to financial assets held to maturity would be charged to earnings as they occur.

Loans or receivables
Loans or receivables are measured at amortized cost using the effective interest rate method of amortization. Trade accounts receivables have been classified in this category. The related transaction costs would be charged to earnings as they arise.

Other financial liabilities
Other financial liabilities include accounts payable, accrued liabilities, distributions payable, short-term debt, convertible debentures and long-term debt. With the exception of derivative instruments, the Fund has classified all financial liabilities as other financial liabilities. Transaction costs relating to short-term liabilities are charged to earnings as they occur. For long-term liabilities, the transaction costs that are directly attributable to the issuance of a financial liability are included with the fair value initially recognized for that financial instrument. These costs are amortized to earnings using the effective interest rate method.

As of January 1, 2007, unamortized deferred financing fees of $985 relating to the Fund's long-term debt and $502 relating to convertible debentures have been reclassified for presentation purposes from intangible assets to long-term debt and convertible debentures. These fees are now amortized to earnings using the effective interest rate method.

The Fund assesses at each balance sheet date whether a financial asset carried at cost is impaired. If there is objective evidence that an impairment loss exists, the amount of the loss is measured as the difference between the carrying amount of the asset and its fair value. The carrying amount of the asset is reduced and the amount of the loss is recognized in earnings.

Derivatives and embedded derivatives
Derivative financial instruments are financial contracts that derive their value from underlying changes in interest rates, foreign exchange rates, credit spreads, commodity prices, equities or other financial measures. The Fund uses financial instruments such as commodity price swaps, electricity price swaps, foreign exchange forward contracts, and interest rate swaps to manage its risks.

Natural gas, NGL and crude oil contracts that require physical delivery at fixed prices and do not meet the Fund's expected purchase, sale or usage requirements are accounted for as derivative financial instruments.

Derivatives may include those derivatives that are embedded in financial or non-financial contracts that are not closely related to the host contracts. With the adoption of the new accounting standards on financial instruments, such embedded derivatives are now to be accounted for separately from the host contract.

Derivative instruments, including embedded derivatives, are classified as held for trading and are recorded on the consolidated statements of financial position at fair value. Changes in the fair value of these financial instruments are recognized in earnings in the period in which they arise.

Hedge accounting
Effective January 1, 2007 the Fund has opted to discontinue the use of hedge accounting. All derivative instruments that previously qualified for hedge accounting have been recognized at fair value and unrealized gains and losses have been recorded in earnings.

Adopting these standards on January 1, 2007 resulted in the recognition of an asset held for trading in the amount of $3,314, a liability held for trading in the amount of $130 and a $3,184 reduction to the opening deficit. Assets held for trading are included in accounts receivable and liabilities held for trading are included in accounts payable and accrued liabilities. The effect on basic and diluted net earnings per unit was $0.05.

Comprehensive income
Comprehensive income consists of net earnings and other comprehensive income ("OCI"). OCI comprises the changes in the fair value of the effective portion of derivatives used as hedging items in a cash flow hedge, changes in the fair value of any available for sale financial instruments and foreign currency translation adjustments of self-sustaining foreign operations. Accumulated other comprehensive income ("AOCI") is a new equity category comprised of the cumulative amounts of OCI.

No amounts have been recorded in OCI or AOCI as a result of adopting this accounting standard.

Future Accounting and Reporting Changes

Convergence of Canadian GAAP with International Financial Reporting Standards
In 2006, Canada's Accounting Standards Board (AcSB) ratified a strategic plan that will result in the convergence of Canadian GAAP, as used by public companies, with International Financial Reporting Standards over a transitional period. The AcSB has developed and published a detailed implementation plan, with a changeover date for fiscal years beginning on or after January 1, 2011. This initiative is in its early stages as of the date on these annual Consolidated Financial Statements. Accordingly, it would be premature to assess the impact of the initiative on the Fund at this time.

Financial Instruments – Disclosures and Presentation
The AcSB has issued CICA Handbook Sections 3862 and 3863, Financial Instruments – Disclosures, and Financial Instruments – Presentation. Section 3862 requires entities to provide disclosures in their financial statements that enable users to evaluate the significance of financial instruments to the entitity's financial position and performance. It also requires that entities disclose the nature and extent of risks arising from financial instruments and how the entity manages those risks. Section 3863 establishes standards for presentation of financial instruments and non-financial derivatives and deals with the classification of financial instruments, from the perspective of the issuer, between liabilities and equity, the classification of related interest, dividends, losses and gains, and the circumstances in which financial assets and financial liabilities are offset. These standards will be effective for the Fund for periods ending after January 1, 2008.

Capital Disclosures
The AcSB has issued CICA Handbook Section 1535, Capital Disclosures, which requires entities to disclose their objectives, policies and processes for managing capital and whether they are in compliance with any externally imposed capital requirements. This standard will be effective for the Fund for periods ending after January 1, 2008.

Inventories
The AcSB has issued CICA Handbook Section 3031, Inventories, which essentially modifies guidance relating to the scope, measurement and allocation of costs for inventory. The Fund is currently evaluating the impact of the adoption of this new Section on its consolidated financial statements. This standard will be effective for the Fund for periods ending after January 1, 2008.

Goodwill and Intangible Assets
In February 2008, the AcSB issued CICA Handbook Section 3064, Goodwill and Intangible Assets, replacing existing guidance (Sections 3062 and 3450) for these areas. This new section establishes standards for the recognition, measurement, presentation and disclosure of goodwill and intangible assets subsequent to its initial recognition. Standards concerning goodwill are unchanged from the standards included in the previous Section 3062. The Fund is currently evaluating the impact of the adoption of this new Section on its consolidated financial statements. This standard will be effective for the Fund for periods ending after January 1, 2009.

(a) The Partnership has a $150,000 unsecured revolving credit facility with certain Canadian financial institutions led by the Royal Bank of Canada. The facility has a three-year revolving term and matures on April 21, 2010, unless extended. In addition, the Royal Bank of Canada has provided a $15,000 revolving demand facility and the Toronto Dominion Bank has provided a $10,000 revolving demand facility. The revolving credit facilities bear interest based on the lenders' rates for Canadian prime commercial loans, U.S. Base rate loans, Libor loans, or Bankers' Acceptances rates. The weighted average interest rates for the year ended December 31, 2007 was 5.74% (2006 - 5.43%). As at December 31, 2007, the balance outstanding on the bank credit facilities was $nil (2006 - $107,984).

On July 12, 2007, the $7,000 unsecured revolving demand loan facility related to a subsidiary of the Partnership was terminated.

(b) In 2003, $125,000 of unsecured senior notes were issued by the Partnership and KEFL in three parts: $20,000 due in 2008 bearing interest at 5.42%, $52,500 due in 2010 bearing interest at 5.79% and $52,500 due in 2013 bearing interest at 6.16%. Interest is payable monthly. Financing costs of $1,215 have been deferred and are amortized using the effective interest rate method over the remaining terms of the related debt. The effective interest rates for the year ended December 31, 2007 were 5.63%, 5.95% and 6.29% for the notes due in 2008, 2010 and 2013 respectively (5.42%, 5.79% and 6.16% for the twelve months ended December 31, 2006).

In 2004, $90,000 of unsecured senior notes were issued by KEFL and guaranteed by the Partnership. The notes bear interest at 5.23% and mature on October 1, 2009. Interest is payable semi-annually. Financing costs of $568 have been deferred and are amortized using the effective interest rate method over the remaining term of the debt. The effective interest rate for the year ended December 31, 2007 was 5.37% (2006 - 5.23%).

On September 4, 2007, $80,000 of unsecured senior notes were issued by KEFL and guaranteed by the Partnership and the Fund in two tranches: $40,000 due in 2017 bearing interest at 5.89% and $40,000 due in 2022 bearing interest at 6.14%. On December 2, 2007, a further $40,000 of unsecured senior notes were issued by KEFL in two tranches: $20,000 due in 2017 bearing interest at 5.89% and $20,000 due in 2022 bearing interest at 6.14%. Interest is payable semi-annually. Financing costs of $1,104 have been deferred and are amortized using the effective interest rate method over the terms of the related debt. The effective interest rates for the period were 5.94% and 6.18% for the notes due in 2017 and 2022 respectively.

6. Convertible debentures

In 2004, the Fund issued convertible unsecured subordinated debentures in the principal amount of $100,000. The convertible debentures bear interest at 6.75% per annum, payable semi-annually in arrears on June 30 and December 31 each year. Interest expense of $1,613 has been accrued for the twelve months ended December 31, 2007 (2006 - $1,776). These debentures will mature on June 30, 2011 and are convertible into trust units of the Fund at the option of the holders at any time prior to maturity at a conversion price of $12.00 per unit. At December 31, 2007, $78,178 debentures had been converted to trust units (2006 - $76,458).

Financing costs consisting of an underwriters' commission of $4,000 and issuance costs of $332 have been deferred, and when there are no conversions, are being amortized over the term of the debt using the effective interest rate method. Upon conversion of the debentures, the financing cost related to the principal amount of debt converted is adjusted and is recognized as a charge to unitholders' equity. As a result of conversions to date at December 31, 2007, $2,857 has been reclassified to unitholders' equity (2006 - $2,782). As at December 31, 2007, $346 of deferred financing costs remain. The effective interest rate for the twelve months ended December 31, 2007 was 7.36% (2006 - 6.75%).

7. Asset held for sale

Asset held for sale consisted of an interest in an electrical generator. In 2006, the equipment was written down to its estimated net realizable value recognizing a $373 charge to impairment expense. On January 23, 2007, the Fund sold its interest in the electrical generator for proceeds of $4,200.

8. Asset retirement obligation

The following table presents the reconciliation between the beginning and ending aggregate carrying amount of the obligation associated with the retirement of the Fund's facilities.

For the year ended December 31	2007 $	2006 $
Asset retirement obligation, beginning of year	34,533	27,776
Liabilities acquired	644	151
Liabilities settled	(213)	(160)
Revisions in estimated cash flows	361	4,509
Accretion expense	2,482	2,257
Asset retirement obligation, end of year	37,807	34,533

The total undiscounted amount of cash flows required to settle the asset retirement obligations is $183,042 which has been discounted using a credit-adjusted risk-free rate of 7% (2006 - $183,159). The majority of these obligations are expected to be settled between 2018 and 2038. No assets have been legally restricted for settlement of the liability.

9. Income taxes

On June 22, 2007, Bill C-52 Budget Implementation Act, 2007 was enacted by the Canadian federal government. This legislation proposes to tax publicly traded trusts in Canada. The new tax is not expected to apply to the Fund until 2011 as the government has provided a transition period for publicly traded trusts that existed prior to November 1, 2006. As a result of the new tax legislation, the Fund recorded an additional $80.2 million future income tax expense and increased its future income tax liability in the second quarter of 2007. This adjustment represents taxable temporary differences of the Partnership that were previously not recorded for future income tax purposes. These temporary differences were originally recorded at a tax-effected rate of 31.5%.

During the fourth quarter of 2007, the federal government substantively enacted a 3.5% reduction to its federal corporate income tax rates. Accordingly, the Fund has recorded the temporary differences applicable to the Fund at a rate of 28% resulting in a $5.6 million reduction to the original future income tax expense of $80.2 million recorded in the second quarter of 2007.

The following is a reconciliation of income taxes, calculated at the combined federal and provincial income tax rate, to the income tax provision included in the consolidated statements of net earnings.

For income tax purposes, the Fund and its subsidiaries have non-capital losses carried forward of approximately $2,981 at December 31, 2007 ($11,987 at December 31, 2006) which are available to offset income of specific entities of the consolidated group in future periods. The benefit of these losses has been recorded at December 31, 2007.

During the second quarter of 2007, the Fund recorded a $5,780 future income tax liability with a corresponding increase to goodwill. This adjustment relates to a prior period acquisition that did not reflect a future income tax impact for a temporary difference. A further $520 future tax liability and increase to goodwill was recorded relating to the acquisition of the minority interest in RPLP (see note 18).

The future income tax (liabilities) assets relate to losses and to the (taxable) deductible temporary differences in the carrying values and tax bases as follows:

10. Unitholders' capital

The Declaration of Trust provides that an unlimited number of trust units may be authorized and issued. Each trust unit is transferable, and represents an equal undivided beneficial interest in any distribution from the Fund and in the net assets of the Fund in the event of termination or winding-up of the Fund. All trust units are of the same class with equal rights and privileges.

The Declaration of Trust also provides for the issuance of an unlimited number of special trust units that will be used solely for providing voting rights to persons holding securities that are directly or indirectly exchangeable for units and that, by their terms, have voting rights in the Fund.

The trust units are redeemable at the holder's option at an amount equal to the lesser of: (i) 90% of the weighted average price per unit during the period of the last 10 trading days during which the trust units were traded on the Toronto Stock Exchange; and (ii) an amount equal to (a) the closing market price of the units; (b) an amount equal to the average of the highest and lowest prices of units if there was trading on the date on which the units were tendered for redemption; or (c) the average of the last bid and ask prices if there was no trading on the date on which the units were tendered for redemption.

Redemptions are subject to a maximum of $50 cash redemptions in any particular month. Redemptions in excess of this amount will be paid by way of a distribution in specie of assets of the Fund that may include Commercial Trust Series 1 notes.

The Fund has a Distribution Reinvestment and Optional Unit Purchase Plan ("DRIP") that permits unitholders to reinvest cash distributions for additional units. This plan allows eligible participants an opportunity to reinvest distributions into trust units at a 3% discount to a weighted average market price, so long as units are issued from treasury under the DRIP. The Fund has the right to notify participants that units will be acquired in the market, in which case units will be purchased at the weighted average market price. Eligible unitholders can also make optional unit purchases under the optional unit purchase component of the plan at the weighted average market price.

11. Net earnings per unit

Basic per unit calculations for the years ended December 31, 2007 and 2006 were based on the weighted average number of units outstanding for the related period. Convertible debentures were in the money for the years ended December 31, 2007 and 2006 and contributed to the increase in diluted weighted average number of units for these periods.

Pursuant to the Fund Declaration of Trust dated April 3, 2003 and its subsequent amendments, the Fund makes monthly distributions to holders of record on the last day of each month. Payments are made on or about the 15th day of the following month.

Distributions are paid from "Cash Flow of the Trust", a term that is defined in the Fund Declaration of Trust dated April 3, 2003. The Board of Directors of the Fund may, on or before each Distribution Record Date, declare payable all or any part of the Cash Flow of the Trust for the Distribution Period. The amount and level of distributions to be made for each Distribution Period is determined at the discretion of the Board of Directors of the Fund. In determining its distribution policy, the Board of Directors of the Fund considers several factors, including the Fund's current and future cash flow, capital requirements, debt repayments and other factors.

13. Compensation plans

The Long Term Incentive Plan (the "LTIP" or the "Plan") compensates officers, directors, key employees and consultants by delivering units of the Fund or paying cash in lieu of units. Participants in the LTIP are granted rights ("unit awards") to receive units of the Fund on specified dates in the future. The Plan permits the directors of KEML to authorize the grant of unit awards from time to time. Units are acquired in the marketplace under the plan.

The Plan consists of two types of unit awards, which are described below. Unit awards and the delivery of units under the Plan are accounted for in accordance with the intrinsic value method of accounting for stock-based compensation. The aggregate compensation cost recorded for the Plan was $5,519 for the year ended December 31, 2007 (2006 - $2,319).

During the year ended December 31, 2007, 237,294 units were purchased on the market at a cost of $4,429 and 191,327 units were settled in cash for $3,472.

(a) Performance Unit Awards

The Performance Unit Awards will vest 100% on the third anniversary of the effective date of each award, July 1, 2005, July 1, 2006 and July 1, 2007. The number of units to be delivered will be determined by the financial performance of the Fund over the three-year period and is calculated by multiplying the number of unit awards by an adjustment ratio and a payout multiplier. The adjustment ratio adjusts the number of units to be delivered to reflect the per unit cash distributions paid by the Fund to its unitholders during the term that the unit award is outstanding. The payout multiplier is based upon the actual three-year average annual cash distributions per unit of the Fund. The table below describes the relationship between the three-year average annual cash distribution per unit and the payout multiplier.

	Three-year annual cash distributions per unit
	July 1, 2005 Grant	July 1, 2006 Grant	July 1, 2007 Grant	Payout Multiplier
	Less than 1.32	Less than 1.42	Less than 1.44	Nil
First range	1.32 – 1.39	1.42 – 1.51	1.44 – 1.51	50%– 99%
Second range	1.40 – 1.55	1.52 – 1.71	1.52 – 1.67	100% – 199%
Third range	1.56 and greater	1.72 and greater	1.68 or greater	200%

As of December 31, 2007, 485,105 Performance Unit Awards (2006 - 529,867) were outstanding: 164,580 effective July 1, 2005, 144,050 effective July 1, 2006 and 176,475 effective July 1, 2007. The compensation cost recorded for these units for the year ended December 31, 2007 was $4,485 using the applicable closing market price of a unit of the Fund (2006 - $1,367).

(b) Time Vested Unit Awards ("Restricted Unit Awards")

Restricted Unit Awards will vest automatically, over a three-year period from the effective date of the award on July 1, 2005, July 1, 2006 and July 1, 2007, regardless of the performance of the Fund. The number of units to be delivered will be modified by an adjustment ratio which reflects the per unit distributions paid by the Fund to its unitholders during the term that the unit award is outstanding.

As of December 31, 2007, 92,275 Restricted Unit Awards (2006 - 98,735) were outstanding: 14,167 effective July 1, 2005, 26,333 effective July 1, 2006 and 51,775 effective July 1, 2007. The compensation cost recorded for these units for the year ended December 31, 2007 was $1,034 using the applicable closing market price of a unit of the Fund (2006 - $952).

14. Financial instruments

Financial instruments include cash, accounts receivable, accounts payable and accrued liabilities, distributions payable, credit facilities, long-term debt, convertible debentures and derivatives held for trading (derivative financial instruments such as foreign exchange contracts, oil price contracts, natural gas price contracts, power price contracts and physical fixed price contracts).

Derivatives held for trading

Subsidiaries of the Fund enter into contracts to purchase and sell natural gas, NGLs and crude oil. These contracts are exposed to commodity price risk between the time contracted volumes are purchased and sold and currency exchange risk for those sales denominated in U.S. dollars. These risks are actively managed by using forward currency contracts and swaps, energy related forwards, swaps and options and by balancing physical and financial contracts in terms of volumes, timing of performance and delivery obligations. Management monitors the exposure to the above risks and regularly reviews its financial instrument activities and all outstanding positions.

A significant amount of electricity is consumed by the operating entities at their facilities. Due to the fixed fee nature of some service contracts in place with customers, these entities are unable to flow the cost of electricity to customers in all situations. In order to mitigate this exposure to fluctuations in the price of electricity, price swap agreements may be used.

Natural gas, NGL and crude oil contracts that require physical delivery at fixed prices and do not meet the Fund's expected purchase, sale or usage requirements are accounted for as derivative financial instruments.

On occasions, the Fund will enter into NGL purchase and sale contracts that are settled in a currency other than the currency that are routinely denominated for such commercial transactions. In these instances, the Fund accounts for these non-financial contracts as embedded derivatives.

Derivative instruments held for trading are recorded on the consolidated statement of financial position at fair value. Changes in the fair value of these financial instruments are recognized in earnings in the period in which they arise.

As at December 31, 2007, $3,112 of assets held for trading were included in accounts receivable and $12,566 of liabilities held for trading were included in accounts payable and accrued liabilities. Unrealized (losses) gains, representing the change in fair value of derivative contracts are recorded in Marketing operating revenue and NGL Infrastructure operating expense.

The unrealized (loss) gain relating to derivative contracts were as follows:

The estimated fair value of all derivatives held for trading is based on quoted market prices and, if not available, on estimates from third-party brokers or dealers.

Fair value
The carrying values of accounts receivable, accounts payable and accrued liabilities and distributions payable approximate their fair values because the instruments are near maturity or have no fixed repayment terms. The fair value of the credit facilities approximates fair value due to their floating rates of interest.

Credit risk
The majority of accounts receivable are due from entities in the oil and gas industry and are subject to normal industry credit risks. Concentration of credit risk is mitigated by having a broad domestic and international customer base. The Fund evaluates and monitors the financial strength of its customers in accordance with its credit policy. At December 31, 2007, the accounts receivable from the two largest customers amounted to less than 1% of accounts receivable (2006 – less than 1%). Revenue from the two largest customers amounted to 15% of operating revenue for the year ended December 31, 2007 (2006 – 11%). With respect to counterparties for derivative financial instruments, the credit risk is managed through dealing with recognized futures exchanges or investment grade financial institutions and by maintaining credit policies, which significantly minimize overall counter party credit risk.

Foreign currency rate risk
The Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure segments, where all sales and virtually all purchases are denominated in Canadian dollars, are not subject to foreign currency rate risk. In the Marketing business, approximately US$240,149 of sales were priced in U.S. dollars for the year ended December 31, 2007 (2006 – US$313,191).

The Fund realized and recorded $930 of foreign currency loss in Marketing operating expenses for the twelve months ended December 31, 2007 (2006 - $742). A further $1,488 of unrealized foreign currency gains were recorded in Marketing operating expenses for the year ended December 31, 2007 (2006 - $784).

Currency exchange risk is actively managed by using forward currency contracts and swaps. Management monitors the exposure to currency exchange risk and regularly reviews its financial instrument activities and all outstanding positions.

Interest rate risk
The majority of the Fund's interest rate risk is attributed to its fixed and floating rate debt, which is used to finance operations. The Fund's remaining financial instruments are not significantly exposed to interest rate risk. The floating rate debt creates exposure to interest rate cash flow risk, whereas the fixed rate debt creates exposure to interest rate price risk. At December 31, 2007, fixed rate borrowings comprised 100% of total debt outstanding (2006 – 67%). The fair value of the senior fixed rate debt at December 31, 2007 was $337,589 (2006 - $224,457) based on third party estimates. The fair value of the Fund's unsecured convertible debentures at December 31, 2007 was $32,078 (2006 - $31,782) as determined by reference to quoted market price for the Fund's debentures.

15. Commitments and contingencies

The Fund, through its operating entities has assumed various contractual obligations and agreements in the normal course of its operations. The agreements range from one to eleven years and relate to the processing of a major oil and gas producer's natural gas and the purchase of NGL production in the areas specified in the agreements. The purchase prices are based on current period market prices.

There are operating lease commitments relating to railway tank cars, vehicles, computer hardware, office space, terminal space and natural gas transportation. At December 31, 2007, the obligations that represent known future cash payments that are required under existing contractual arrangements are as follows:

	Payments Due by Period
Contractual obligations	Total $	2008 $	2009 $	2010 $	2011 $	2012 $	After 2012 $

Total contractual obligations	368,845	28,749	97,926	58,859	4,964	3,915	174,432

[1] Long-term debt obligations do not include interest payments.

[2] Keyera has lease commitments relating to railway tank cars, vehicles, computer hardware, office space, terminal lease space and natural gas transportation.

[3] Keyera is involved in various contractual agreements with ConocoPhillips and other producers to purchase NGLs. These agreements range from one to twelve years and in general obligate Keyera to purchase all product produced at specified locations on a best efforts basis. The purchase prices are based on then current market prices. The future volumes and prices for these contracts cannot be reasonably determined.

There are legal actions for which the ultimate results cannot be ascertained at this time. Management does not expect the outcome of any of these proceedings to have a material effect on the financial position or results of operations.

17. Segmented information

The Fund has three reportable segments: Marketing, Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure. The Marketing business consists of marketing NGLs, natural gas, sulphur and crude oil. Gathering and Processing includes natural gas gathering and processing. NGL Infrastructure includes NGL and crude oil processing, transportation and storage. The accounting policies of the segments are the same as that described in the summary of significant accounting policies. Inter-segment sales and expenses are recorded at current market prices.

18. Non-controlling interest

In the first quarter of 2007, a subsidiary of the Fund purchased an additional ownership interest in Rimbey Pipe Line Co. Ltd. for a purchase price of $1,513. In the second quarter of 2007, Rimbey Pipe Line Co. Ltd. was converted to a limited partnership (RPLP) and a subsidiary of the Fund acquired the remaining interest in RPLP for a purchase price of $5,203 bringing the Fund's ownership in RPLP to 100%. The difference between the fair value of the transactions and the carrying value of RPLP's net assets resulted in a difference of $3,666, which was applied to property, plant and equipment. A future tax liability and corresponding increase to goodwill was recorded in the amount of $520. As a result, the non-controlling interest has been removed from the consolidated statement of financial position.

19. Subsequent Event

On January 2, 2008, the Fund completed an internal reorganization of certain of its subsidiaries. As a result of the reorganization, the Partnership is now directly owned by the Fund and KEML no longer has an interest in the Partnership. It is expected that the future income tax liability will increase by approximately $3.5 million in 2008 as a result of the higher future income tax rate applicable to the Fund. This tax rate is approximately 2.5% higher than the future income tax rate recorded by KEML. On January 2, 2008, the Fund's revolving demand facility with the Toronto Dominion Bank was increased from $10,000 to $15,000. The terms of the facility, including interest rates charged, remain unchanged.

Management's Discussion and Analysis

The following management's discussion and analysis ("MD&A") was prepared as of February 26, 2008 and is a review of the results of operations and the liquidity and capital resources of Keyera Facilities Income Fund (the "Fund") and its subsidiaries (collectively "Keyera"). It should be read in conjunction with the accompanying audited consolidated financial statements of the Fund for the year ended December 31, 2007 and the notes thereto. The financial statements have been prepared in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles and are stated in Canadian dollars. Additional information related to the Fund, including the Fund's Annual Information Form, is filed on SEDAR at www.sedar.com.

NON-GAAP FINANCIAL MEASURES

This discussion and analysis refers to certain financial measures that are not determined in accordance with Canadian Generally Accepted Accounting Principles ("GAAP"). Measures such as operating margin (operating revenues minus operating expenses), distributable cash flow (cash flow from operating activities adjusted for changes in non-cash working capital, maintenance capital expenditures and the distributable cash flow attributable to any non-controlling interest) and EBITDA (earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization) are not standard measures under GAAP and therefore may not be comparable to similar measures reported by other entities. Management believes that these supplemental measures facilitate the understanding of the Fund's results of operations, leverage, liquidity and financial position. Operating margin is used to assess the performance of specific segments before general and administrative expenses and other non-operating expenses. Distributable cash flow is used to assess the level of cash flow generated from ongoing operations and to evaluate the adequacy of internally generated cash flow to fund distributions. EBITDA is commonly used by management, investors and creditors in the calculation of ratios for assessing leverage and financial performance. Investors are cautioned, however, that these measures should not be construed as an alternative to net earnings determined in accordance with GAAP as an indication of the Fund's performance.

changes in the Alberta royalty system are based solely on news releases and background information prepared by the federal and Alberta governments respectively. Management believes that its assumptions and analysis in this MD&A are reasonable and that the expectations reflected in the forward looking statements contained herein are also reasonable. However, Keyera cannot assure readers that these expectations will prove to be correct.

All forward looking statements involve known and unknown risks, uncertainties and other factors that may cause actual results, events, levels of activity and achievements to differ materially from those anticipated in the forward looking statements. Such factors include but are not limited to: general economic, market and business conditions; operational matters, including potential hazards inherent in our operations; risks arising from co-ownership of facilities; activities of other facility owners; competitive action by other companies; activities of producers and other customers and overall industry activity levels; changes in gas composition; fluctuations in commodity prices and supply/demand trends; processing and marketing margins; effects of weather conditions; fluctuations in interest rates and foreign currency exchange rates; changes in operating and capital costs, including fluctuations in input costs; actions by governmental authorities; decisions or approvals of administrative tribunals; changes in environmental and other regulations; reliance on key personnel; competition for, among other things, capital, acquisition opportunities and skilled personnel; changes in tax laws relating to income trusts, including the effects that such changes may have on Unitholders, and in particular any differential effects relating to Unitholder's country of residence; and other factors, many of which are beyond the control of Keyera, some of which are discussed in this MD&A and in Keyera's Annual Information Form dated February 26, 2008 (the "Annual Information Form") filed on SEDAR and available on the Keyera website at www.keyera.com.

Further, readers are cautioned that the forward looking statements in this MD&A speak only as of the date of this MD&A and Keyera does not undertake any obligation to publicly update or to revise any of the forward looking statements, whether as a result of new information, future events or otherwise, except as may be required by applicable laws.

All forward looking statements contained in this MD&A and accompanying documents are expressly qualified by this cautionary statement. Further information about the factors affecting forward looking statements and management's assumptions and analysis thereof, is available in filings made by Keyera with Canadian provincial securities commissions available on SEDAR at www.sedar.com.

BUSINESS ENVIRONMENT

Industry activity

In 2007, producers drilled 18,606 wells in Canada, down from the record levels of activity experienced over the last several years and 20% lower than in 2006. Drilling activity was affected by a number of factors, including low gas prices, high costs and a number of government regulatory and fiscal changes.

Despite this slowdown in activity levels, throughput at Keyera facilities increased by 3% compared to 2006. This increase partially reflects the tie-in of wells drilled in earlier years, but also reflects a more selective approach to exploration and development efforts by producers. Customers have indicated that they are choosing drilling locations that are close to existing infrastructure, allowing them to connect their production quickly. Often the gas reserves are rich in NGLs, resulting in higher producer netbacks.

In the fourth quarter, producers in Canada drilled almost 5,300 wells, down slightly from the third quarter of 2007, and down just 4% from the same period last year. On a go forward basis, the Petroleum Services Association of Canada is forecasting a similar number of wells to be drilled in the first quarter of 2008 as were drilled over the past two quarters.

In the foothills front region of Alberta, the number of wells drilled in the fourth quarter was 16% less than the fourth quarter of 2006. The average depth of wells drilled in this region in the fourth quarter was 2,144 metres, 11% lower than the same period last year. In the central Alberta region, the number of wells drilled was 20% lower than the same quarter last year, with the average depth per well remaining flat at 1,131 metres. British Columbia also experienced a decline in drilling, with wells drilled falling 5% compared to the fourth quarter of last year. The average depth per well in this area increased to over 2,300 metres, a 9% increase in depth compared to the fourth quarter of 2006.

Throughput volumes at most Keyera plants increased again in the fourth quarter, with overall throughputs up 6% compared to the third quarter of 2007 and up 9% from the fourth quarter of 2006. Producer activity around Keyera's plants, combined with Keyera's growth projects, were responsible for the increase.

Indications are that North American natural gas fundamentals may be strengthening. Recent North American natural gas demand has been strong and U.S. natural gas storage inventories are at their lowest level for this time of year since early 2005. The U.S. Energy Information Administration estimates that, if the U.S. has normal weather for the remainder of the winter, U.S. inventories will end the winter at normal levels, more than 20% below last year's end-of-winter levels. Keyera believes that these positive trends support continued drilling activity in western Canada, particularly on the western side of the basin where most of its facilities are located.

New Alberta royalty framework

On October 25, 2007 the Government of Alberta announced increases in royalties. The new royalty regime, which is expected to be implemented in 2009, will change the royalty structure for natural gas and conventional oil by adjusting sliding rate formulas that are price and volume sensitive. These changes result in higher royalty rates at current prices. In addition, new price sensitive formulas will be adopted for oil sands development at both the pre- and post-payout stages.

Keyera is not a royalty payor, and therefore is not directly affected by the proposed royalty changes. However, as a service provider to the upstream industry, Keyera will be affected by producers' responses to the new regime. Producers are continuing to assess the impact of the new royalty regime on their operations and future activities. Keyera is working with producers in the areas around its plants to determine what impact the proposed royalty changes may have on Keyera. Until we have stronger indications from producers with respect to their plans, the long term implications of the royalty announcement for Keyera are difficult to determine. Since many of Keyera's facilities are located west of the fifth meridian where gas drilling tends to be deeper, the Government's decision to retain a variation of the Deep Gas Drilling Program is a positive outcome for Keyera.

Further information about the new royalty framework is available from the Government of Alberta website at http://www.gov.ab.ca/ and a copy of the framework itself can be found at http://www.energy.gov.ab.ca/Org/Publications/royalty_Oct25.pdf.

Climate change regulations

In 2007, the Alberta government amended laws and regulations dealing with greenhouse gas emissions. The initiative is designed to reduce the emissions intensity (i.e. the amount of greenhouse gases emitted on a unit of production basis) of greenhouse gases at applicable facilities.

Under the new rules, existing large emitters must reduce net emissions intensity to 88% of the average emissions intensity at a facility between 2003 and 2005. If the actual emissions intensity is above the target, the facility licensee can generate or purchase "emissions offsets", or purchase fund credits at a cost of $15/tonne of CO_2 equivalent, or purchase emission "performance credits".

Keyera operates three facilities which are subject to these requirements: the Strachan, Rimbey and Brazeau River gas plants. Based on a worst case scenario, which assumes that Keyera purchases fund credits at $15/tonne and no offsets or credits are created or purchased at a cost that is less than $15/tonne, the anticipated cost of these new rules for Keyera is estimated at $408,000 in 2007. Thereafter, on an annual basis, the cost is expected to be approximately $1 million per year. Keyera's management anticipates that a portion of these costs will be recoverable from customers as flow-through operating costs. Projects implemented since 2002 at Keyera's facilities could generate emissions offsets or performance credits; however, it is premature to determine what benefit, if any, could be realized from such actions.

In January 2008, the Alberta government announced its intention to reduce projected greenhouse gas emissions in Alberta by 50% by 2050. No details of this initiative are currently available.

The federal government released the Regulatory Framework for Air Emissions (the "Framework") on April 26, 2007 which sets out new GHG and air pollutant ("AP") emission reduction targets for various industrial sectors, including the oil and gas industry. The Framework forms the basis for consultations and the draft GHG and AP regulations are expected to be released in the spring of 2008. The effect on Keyera can not be determined until the federal government provides additional information.

As part of the provincial budget brought down on February 19, 2008, the B.C. government announced a proposed broad-based carbon tax to be implemented effective July 1, 2008. According to the budget, the carbon tax initially will not apply to industrial emissions, including emissions from the oil and gas industry. The budget does not provide a timeframe for extension of the tax to industrial emissions. The effect on Keyera can not be determined until the B.C. government provides additional information.

Other environmental regulations

On October 2, 2007, the Government of Alberta announced a new cumulative effects initiative covering the "industrial heartland" area northeast of Edmonton. This initiative establishes targets for air, water and land quality and applies to all large industrial facilities within the area, including Keyera's Fort Saskatchewan facility. These facilities will be subject to cumulative airshed targets which are scheduled to come into effect in January 2009. Working groups have been or are being formed to deal with the allocation of the airshed objectives, water and land management issues, including sulphur and wetlands management. Based on the information currently available, Keyera does not anticipate that this initiative will require significant changes to current operations. However, the effect that this program may have on future operations or possible expansion is not clear at this time. A more complete description of the environmental regulations that affect Keyera's businesses can be found in the Annual Information Form, which is available on Keyera's website (www.keyera.com) or on SEDAR at www.sedar.com.

Tax changes

In October 2006, the Government of Canada announced a new tax on the distributed income of publicly-traded Canadian income trusts and limited partnerships (the "Distribution Tax"), and in June of 2007, implementing legislation was passed. So long as Keyera only experiences "normal growth", the Fund will not be subject to the Distribution Tax until January 2011. As a result, beginning in 2011, tax will be payable by Keyera on the portion of its distributions that is considered ordinary taxable income and, for a Canadian resident taxpayer, this portion of Keyera's distributions will be treated as dividend income for tax purposes. There will be no change in the taxation of Keyera's distributions that are considered to be a return of capital or dividend income.

On October 30, 2007, the Federal government announced a proposal to reduce federal corporate tax rates from 22.12% in 2007 to 15% by 2012. These lower tax rates would also apply to income trusts. These tax measures became law on December 14, 2007 reducing the combined federal and provincial tax rate that will be applicable to the Fund from 31.5% to 29.5% in 2011 and 28% in 2012. This reduction in federal tax rates has been included in the determination of the future tax provision of the Fund.

On December 20, 2007, the federal department of finance proposed amendments to clarify the Distribution Tax legislation. These proposals included technical amendments to allow a trust or partnership to hold a diversified portfolio investment through one or more "portfolio investment entities" without causing the trust or partnership to be subject to the Distribution Tax. Once the proposed amendments are passed, Keyera may consider a further re-organization.

The Distribution Tax will reduce the amount of cash flow available to Unitholders. Keyera's management and Board of Directors considers this future reduction in cash flow in their distribution decisions.

As at January 1, 2008, Keyera estimates that it has approximately $325 million of unutilized tax pools and deductions, consisting mostly of class 41 undepreciated capital costs, available for deduction by the Fund's subsidiaries.

RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

Keyera's activities are conducted through three business segments. The Gathering and Processing segment provides natural gas gathering and processing services to producers. The NGL Infrastructure segment provides NGL processing, transportation and storage services to producers, marketers (including Keyera) and others. The services in both these segments are provided on a fee-for-service basis. The Marketing segment is focused on the marketing of by-products recovered from the processing of raw gas, primarily NGLs, and crude oil midstream activities. A more complete description of Keyera's businesses by segment can be found in the Annual Information Form, which is available on Keyera's website (www.keyera.com) or on SEDAR at www.sedar.com.

Keyera delivered exceptional financial results in 2007, with operating margin of $179.1 million, $33.1 million higher than in 2006. These record results were achieved despite a slowdown in the oil and gas industry in western Canada and the completion of maintenance turnarounds at the Rimbey gas plant, Keyera's largest facility, as well as at the Brazeau River, Bigoray and Medicine River gas plants.

All business segments contributed to these results, with each business segment achieving record performance. A number of Keyera's gas plants in the Gathering and Processing segment saw throughputs increase in 2007, resulting in overall throughput reaching the highest levels in Keyera's history. Storage revenues in the NGL Infrastructure segment continued to grow and strong market fundamentals combined with Keyera's access to proprietary rail infrastructure and logistical expertise enabled the Marketing segment to post record results.

This strong operating performance in 2007 was partially offset by a non-cash future income tax expense of $72.6 million. This was primarily related to the income trust tax legislation enacted in the second quarter of 2007, partially offset by a $11.7 million future income tax recovery in the fourth quarter resulting from the enactment in December 2007 of lower federal income tax rates. As a result of the non-cash future income tax expense, together with slightly higher general and administrative costs, interest expense and depreciation charges, net earnings and comprehensive income was $14.5 million in 2007, compared to $68.1 million in 2006.

Consolidated net earnings for the fourth quarter of 2007 were $40.0 million, up $25.1 million from the same period in 2006. The strong operating margin earned from all segments and the $11.7 million non-cash future income tax recovery, partially offset by higher general and administrative and interest costs, accounted for the increase. The non-cash future income tax recovery resulted from the enactment of lower federal income tax rates in December 2007.

Gathering and Processing

Gathering and Processing revenue for 2007 was $187.5 million, an increase of $20.8 million, or 12%, compared to the previous year. The increase was due primarily to higher throughput in the Foothills Region, the recovery of a portion of turnaround costs incurred at the Rimbey, Brazeau River, Bigoray and Strachan gas plants, the conversion from fixed to flow-through fees at certain plants and incremental compression fees at the Rimbey gas plant in 2007.

In the fourth quarter of 2007, Gathering and Processing revenue was $50.5 million, an increase of $6.9 million, or 16%, compared to the same period in 2006. The increase was primarily due to higher throughput in the Foothills Region and the commencement of reprocessing services at the Paddle River gas plant.

Gathering and Processing operating expenses for 2007 were $103.8 million, an increase of $7.2 million, or 7%, compared to 2006. The increase was primarily due to higher turnaround costs for the turnarounds completed in 2007 at the Rimbey, Bigoray, Brazeau River and Medicine River gas plants, compared to the turnaround costs incurred in 2006. Another factor in the increase was higher operating costs at Caribou resulting from higher throughput and unscheduled maintenance work at the plant.

In the fourth quarter of 2007, Gathering and Processing operating expenses were $24.1 million, an increase of $1.8 million compared to the same period in 2006. The increase was primarily a result of higher operating and maintenance costs at the Strachan gas plant due to higher volumes and maintenance work completed in the quarter.

Average gross processing throughput in 2007 was 843 million cubic feet per day, a new record and 3% higher than 2006. Fourth quarter throughput of 882 million cubic feet per day was up 9% from the same period in 2006.

During 2007, Keyera's Gathering and Processing assets were realigned into new business regions, the Foothills Region and the North Central Region. The Foothills Region consists of the Strachan, Brazeau River, Nordegg River, Paddle River, Bigoray, Brazeau North, West Pembina and Tomahawk gas plants and associated gathering pipelines. The North Central Region consists of the Rimbey, Gilby, Medicine River, Worsley, Caribou, Chinchaga, North Star and Greenstreet gas plants and associated gathering pipelines. This realignment is reflected in the discussion below.

Gathering and Processing – North Central Region

The North Central Region posted very strong results in 2007, despite a slowdown in shallow drilling activity in the region and the completion of a scheduled turnaround at the Rimbey gas plant, Keyera's largest facility. Gross throughput of 432 million cubic feet per day in 2007 was 6% lower than last year, resulting from the loss of processing throughput while the Rimbey turnaround was underway and lower drilling activity in the Rimbey/Gilby area. In the fourth quarter of 2007, throughput was 440 million cubic feet per day, 3% lower than the same period last year. The decline was a result of lower drilling activity in the Rimbey/Gilby area.

In the Rimbey/Gilby region, the loss of throughput resulting from a slowdown in drilling was offset by tie-ins of previously drilled wells. Keyera has been encouraged by current drilling activity in this area and has identified a number of additional opportunities to offset any further declines. Rimbey is an attractive processing alternative for producers, offering higher netbacks resulting from Rimbey's ability to deliver specification NGL products, as well as other products and services. Volumes delivered to the NGL offload facility at Rimbey increased in 2007.

In the Caribou region, activity continued in both new well licenses and land sales throughout the year. Keyera extended the Caribou North Gas Gathering System in early 2007 across the Trutch Creek at the north end of the pipeline, to connect production from new gas drilling in that area. At mid year, Keyera acquired about 18 kilometres of existing gathering pipeline and an abandoned plant site north of the existing pipeline system and, at year end, announced a further 24-kilometre extension of the Caribou North Gas Gathering pipeline. Throughput is now averaging 50 million cubic feet per day at Caribou, about 75% of capacity, and detailed engineering is underway for a possible expansion of the facility.

In July 2007, Keyera announced a project at the Rimbey gas plant to extract ethane from the raw gas at the plant. The proposed project, estimated to cost $26 million, involves modifying the existing NGL extraction process and installing new compression equipment at the plant and constructing a 32-kilometre ethane delivery pipeline. The project is awaiting regulatory approval from the Energy Resources Conservation Board. If approved Keyera will be able to extract up to 5,000 barrels per day of saleable ethane from field gas processed at the Rimbey plant. A significant portion of the ethane to be extracted is currently used as fuel gas within the plant and will therefore be incremental to the current supply of ethane in Alberta.

In January 2008, the North Star gas plant, a non-core asset, was sold.

Gathering and Processing - Foothills Region

The Foothills Region delivered record results in 2007, as continued strong drilling activity in the region resulted in increasing throughput during the year. Gross throughput of 411 million cubic feet per day in 2007 was 51 million cubic feet per day, or 14%, higher than in 2006. In addition, Foothills revenues benefited from higher fees due to the higher concentrations of NGLs and hydrogen sulphide in the gas streams. In the fourth quarter of 2007, throughput was 442 million cubic feet per day, 25% higher than the same period in 2006. This increase was due to significant producer activity around Foothills Region plants.

In the Pembina area, sour gas development targeting the Nisku zones continued in the fourth quarter, including the licensing of several new wells. Utilization at Keyera's three sour gas processing plants in the area, Bigoray, West Pembina and Brazeau River, continued to increase throughout the year. To address the resulting sour gas capacity constraints, Keyera completed modifications to its pipeline systems in the fourth quarter to increase processing flexibility by diverting sour gas to other plants in the area.

A pressure survey of the acid gas disposal well at the Brazeau River gas plant was completed while the plant was offline for its scheduled maintenance turnaround. The survey indicated that the acid gas reservoir was filling more rapidly than anticipated. In the fourth quarter, Keyera acquired a depleted reservoir as well as another acid gas injection well. Construction of the necessary pipeline connections began early in the new year and the well became operational in February 2008. Until the new well was operational, some volumes were redirected to other Keyera facilities for processing and, for a brief period, sour gas processing was curtailed at the Brazeau River gas plant.

At the Bigoray gas plant, piping and equipment modifications were completed earlier in 2007 to provide for the future expansion of sour gas processing at the plant. In addition, a new distributed control system was installed at the plant to provide improved operating reliability and flexibility. Throughput increased substantially during the year and Keyera is currently working on plans to debottleneck gathering and inlet compression facilities to accommodate the increasing production volumes.

Lands to the west of Keyera's Strachan, Nordegg River and Brazeau River gas plants saw considerable activity throughout the year as producers pursued sweet, liquids-rich plays. These areas are close to Keyera gathering pipelines and processing infrastructure, enabling quick tie-ins and production. In addition, the liquids-rich gas provides the producer with a higher netback than dry sweet gas, making these play types attractive to producers.

New production was connected to the Strachan North pipeline for delivery to the Strachan gas plant in the fourth quarter. A producer-owned field compressor was installed during the fourth quarter, resulting in increased throughput at Strachan. Southwest of the Brazeau River gas plant, Keyera is partnering with a producer to build a new gathering pipeline to deliver new gas production to the plant. The pipeline is expected to be operational late in the first quarter.

In the fourth quarter, Keyera entered into an arrangement to use its NGL extraction facilities to extract NGLs from new gas volumes delivered to the Paddle River gas plant.

NGL Infrastructure

NGL Infrastructure revenue for 2007 was $41.1 million, an increase of $1.2 million, or 3%, compared to the previous year. The increase was primarily due to higher storage revenues at Keyera's Fort Saskatchewan facility. The effect of higher storage revenues was partly offset by a fee adjustment and reduced volumes from the Rimbey Pipeline system in the third quarter of 2007.

NGL Infrastructure operating expenses for 2007 were $24.3 million, an increase of $0.3 million compared to 2006. This increase was largely due to higher supplies and maintenance costs partly offset by lower costs for electricity and natural gas.

In the fourth quarter of 2007, NGL Infrastructure revenues were $1.0 million higher than the same period in 2006, largely due to higher storage revenues at the Fort Saskatchewan facility. Operating expenses were $0.5 million higher than the fourth quarter of 2006, due primarily to the purchase of an additional charcoal bed filter.

NGL Infrastructure facilities overall operated at typical levels for the fourth quarter. Higher product demand, particularly for propane, and the receipt of imported condensate resulted in higher rail loading activity in the fourth quarter. Storage revenues remained strong in the fourth quarter, driven by normal winter season inventory requirements and diluent demand for oil sands production. Fractionation throughput was lower than usual in the third quarter of 2007 due to short-term market conditions, but returned to typical levels in the fourth quarter.

Keyera continues to focus on strengthening its competitive position in the Edmonton/Fort Saskatchewan area. As part of that strategy, Keyera is pursuing a number of initiatives.

Work is underway to expand the storage capacity at Keyera's Fort Saskatchewan facility to meet the expected need for diluent storage to support oil sands development over the next decade. The project, which is expected to take five to six years to complete, will expand the current storage capacity by three million barrels, or 37%, to about 11.6 million barrels and is expected to cost $70 to $80 million. Engineering work on the first cavern is being finalized, equipment is being ordered and site construction work was completed early in the first quarter of 2008. The cost of the first cavern is expected to be $18 million, with a large portion of the cost being spent in 2008. Assuming construction proceeds as planned, the first cavern is expected to be put into service late in 2009.

The expansion of the truck terminal at the Fort Saskatchewan facility is largely complete, commissioning will begin shortly and the facility is expected to be operational in March. The project will increase Keyera's operational flexibility and provide enhanced product loading services for customers serving the domestic NGL market.

The fourth pipeline between the Fort Saskatchewan facility and the Edmonton terminal is also proceeding and is expected to be onstream by mid-year assuming timely receipt of land owner approval. Engineering work on this project has identified additional operational efficiencies which have provided a capacity boost, eliminating the need for a booster station on the pipeline and reducing the net capital cost of the project. When operational, the new pipeline will provide significantly more operational flexibility, allowing Keyera to deliver condensate and butane at increased rates into and out of the Edmonton terminal, Fort Saskatchewan storage and other pipelines and terminals in the area. This pipeline is also expected to support the new storage caverns and will add value to Keyera's storage services by increasing the flexibility for customers.

Looking to the future, Keyera is working towards connecting the Fort Saskatchewan and Edmonton facilities to more pipelines and new facilities in the area. In the first quarter of 2008, Keyera reached an agreement with a major pipeline operator to connect Keyera's facilities into another major crude oil, condensate and NGL pipeline delivering product into the Edmonton/Fort Saskatchewan hub.

Marketing

Generally, market fundamentals for propane, butane and condensate were positive throughout the year as supply and demand remained largely in balance and rising crude oil prices positively affected product prices. Keyera exploited these strong fundamentals throughout the year and utilized its proprietary rail and storage infrastructure to enhance unit margins.

Marketing revenue for 2007 was $1,250.5 million, an increase of $88.6 million compared to the previous year. The increase was due primarily to higher sales prices and growth in the crude oil midstream business, partially offset by the cost of the financial contracts that Keyera uses in its risk management program. Keyera's risk management program employs a multi-faceted approach to managing its supply and sales portfolio, including: monitoring its inventory position and its purchase and sale commitments; actively participating in various hub markets; using financial contracts, such as energy-related forward sales, price swaps, physical exchanges and options; and offsetting some of its physical and financial contracts in terms of volumes, timing of performance and delivery obligations. (See "Liquidity and Capital Resources – Marketing Risk Management"). Due to rising prices for crude oil and liquid hydrocarbons in 2007, the forward financial sales contracts used to hedge the commodity price risk arising from holding physical inventory reduced marketing revenues by $20.0 million, while in 2006 the program added $7.0 million in revenues due to declining commodity prices.

The table below outlines the composition of the revenues generated from Keyera's Marketing business and the changes in the fair value of the derivative financial contracts.

Composition of Marketing Revenue (Thousands of Canadian dollars)	Twelve months ended December 31, 2007
Physical sales	1,270,511
Financial instruments - realized	(10,059)
Financial instruments - unrealized	(9,911)
Marketing revenue	1,250,541

Changes in Fair Value of Energy Derivative Contracts (Thousands of Canadian dollars)
Fair value at December 31, 2006	211
Change in the fair value of contracts	9,848
Fair value of new contracts entered into in 2007	(9,911)
Realized losses	(10,059)
Fair value at December 31, 2007[1]	(9,911)

[1] The fair value of the financial contracts represents an estimate of the amount that Keyera would pay or receive if those contracts were closed on December 31, 2007.

NGL sales volumes for 2007 averaged 50,800 barrels per day compared to 52,200 barrels per day in 2006. The reduction was a result of lower propane volumes in 2007, partially offset by growth in butane and condensate volumes. In the fourth quarter of 2007, NGL sales volumes averaged 53,800 barrels per day compared to 55,400 barrels per day in the fourth quarter of 2006.

Marketing operating expenses for 2007 were $1,172.0 million, an increase of $70.0 million compared to the previous year. The increase was due primarily to higher supply costs compared to 2006.

NGL product inventories of $76.6 million at December 31, 2007 were $22.7 million higher than the previous year due to higher volumes and significantly higher prices at year-end. Inventory has been valued at the lower of cost or net realizable value at December 31, 2007.

Propane demand in 2007 followed normal seasonal trends. In the first quarter, cold weather bolstered demand and Keyera used its rail car fleet and NGL infrastructure to facilitate the movement of product to niche markets where demand and prices were high. The second and third quarters experienced lower demand, typical of the summer season. The fourth quarter saw a seasonal increase in demand early in the quarter and prices remained high due to the strong correlation with the price of crude oil. Keyera used the propane terminal in Superior, Montana, which was acquired in June of 2007, as well as its other three propane terminals in the US, to deliver propane into regional markets via rail car for loading onto customers' trucks for further delivery to end use customers.

Butane demand remained strong throughout most of 2007, which enabled Keyera to earn steady margins from quarter to quarter. Much of Keyera's supply was committed to term sales contracts, providing a steady market for product and secure margins.

In general, condensate demand was strong throughout most of 2007, as oil sands producers continued to purchase condensate for use as diluent to enable heavier crude oil to flow in pipelines. Keyera imported condensate into Alberta from lower priced regions in North America throughout the year, using its storage facilities at Fort Saskatchewan to exploit periods of short-term price volatility. In addition, Keyera used its newly constructed condensate truck loading rack at the Rimbey gas plant to deliver product into local markets. The utilization of its asset infrastructure was a key factor in allowing Keyera to deliver strong condensate margins throughout the year.

Keyera's crude oil midstream business continued to develop in 2007. Market fundamentals were strong throughout the year, enabling the business to contribute increased operating margins compared to 2006.

In the fourth quarter of 2007, marketing revenues of $373.9 and operating expenses of $352.4 million generated $21.5 million of operating margin, up $9.7 million from the same period in 2006. This increase was related to several factors. Product prices were stronger in 2007 compared to 2006 when, in the fourth quarter of the year, warm weather in the eastern U.S. contributed to lower propane demand and butane and condensate markets remained soft. In the fourth quarter of 2007, prices for all products were influenced by high crude oil prices. Propane demand was typically strong for the winter season, butane term sales provided steady margins and condensate was in high demand for use as diluent. All of these factors contributed to sound unit margins. Adjustments relating to the routine voidance of a butane cavern in the fourth quarter of 2007 reduced margins by $0.8 million.

At December 31, 2007, the unrealized loss on financial contracts recognized in the fourth quarter was $1.7 million ($12.0 million recognized for the full year), primarily due to the change in the value of crude oil price swap contracts and fixed price contracts. At December 31, 2007, the fair market value of these contracts represented a liability of $12.4 million and an asset of $2.5 million, which represents an estimate of the amount that Keyera would pay or receive if these instruments had been closed out at the end of the period. The estimated fair value of all derivatives held for trading is based on quoted market prices and, if not available, on estimates from third party brokers or dealers.

Of the $12.0 million unrealized loss in 2007, the portion relating to changes in crude oil financial contracts amounted to approximately $9.9 million. These contracts are used to protect inventory from fluctuations in the prices of NGL products. To the extent these contracts are effective (i.e., the change in the market price of crude oil is correlated to the change in the prices of the underlying physical NGL products), gains and losses on these financial contracts will be offset by gains and losses in the proceeds that will be realized upon the sale of the products.

The remainder of the 2007 unrealized loss relates primarily to the $2.3 million unrealized loss recognized in the first quarter of 2007 as a result of the adoption of new accounting standards for fixed price physical contracts. As the fixed price contracts were priced higher than market, the new accounting standards required an asset of $2.3 million to be recorded with a corresponding decrease in opening deficit. As these contracts matured and the actual proceeds on the fixed price sales were recorded in revenue, the previously recorded asset of $2.3 million was reduced to nil with a corresponding charge (unrealized loss) to earnings in the first quarter of 2007.

The adoption of the new accounting standards is expected to continue to result in volatility in operating margins due to unrealized gains and losses associated with financial instruments.

Non-operating Expenses and Other Earnings

General and administrative expenses for 2007 were $21.9 million, up $3.0 million from the previous year. Long-term incentive plan costs were $3.2 million higher than in 2006, reflecting an increase in unit price and the effect of a distribution increase implemented in May 2007. Excluding the effect of the long-term incentive plan, general and administrative expenses were in line with those incurred in 2006.

Interest expense, net of interest revenue, was $20.2 million for 2007, $2.0 million greater than in 2006. The increase was due to higher borrowings used to fund capital projects undertaken in 2006 and 2007.

Depreciation and amortization expense was $42.0 million for 2007, $2.2 million greater than the previous year. The increase was due to growth in the asset base resulting from the completion of several major construction projects during the past two years.

An impairment expense of $0.7 million was recorded in 2007 to adjust the carrying value of the North Star gas plant, a small non-core facility that was sold in early 2008.

Income tax expense for 2007 was $77.0 million, $79.7 million higher than the previous year due to an increase in future income tax expense. Future income tax expense for 2007 was $72.6 million compared with a future income tax recovery of $7.0 million in the prior year. This increase was primarily due to recording $80.2 million of future income tax expense in the second quarter of 2007 resulting from the new tax imposed on publicly traded income trusts and limited partnerships in Canada. The future tax expense is an estimate of the tax that will ultimately be payable by the Fund due to differences between the accounting and tax basis of assets and liabilities of the operating partnership. As a result of the new tax legislation, distributions will no longer be deductible by the Fund beginning in 2011. The effect of recording the new tax on income trusts was partially offset by lower future federal income tax rates that were enacted in 2007.

Current income tax expense for 2007 was $4.3 million, virtually unchanged from 2006. The impact of lower earnings posted by the Rimbey Pipeline business in the third quarter of 2007 was offset by higher earnings posted by Keyera Energy Facilities Ltd. throughout 2007.

Critical Accounting Estimates

The Fund's consolidated financial statements have been prepared in accordance with GAAP. Certain accounting policies require that management make appropriate decisions with respect to the formulation of estimates and assumptions that affect the recorded amounts of certain assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses. Management reviews its assumptions and estimates regularly, but new information and changes in circumstances may result in actual results or revised estimates that differ materially from current estimates. The most significant estimates are those indicated below:

Estimation of Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure revenues:

For each month, actual volumes processed and fees earned from the Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure assets are not known at the month end. Accordingly, the financial statements contain an estimate of one month's revenue based upon a review of historic trends. This estimate is adjusted for events that are known to have a significant effect on the month's operations such as non-routine maintenance projects.

At December 31, 2007, operating revenues and accounts receivable for the Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure segments contained an estimate of $21.8 million primarily for December 2007 operations.

Estimation of Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure operating expenses:

The period in which invoices are rendered for the supply of goods and services necessary for the operation of the Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure assets is generally later than the period in which the goods or services were provided. Accordingly, the financial statements contain an estimate of one month's operating costs based upon a review of historical trends. This estimate is adjusted for events that are known to have a significant effect on the month's operations such as non-routine maintenance projects.

At December 31, 2007, operating expenses and accounts payable contained an estimate of $8.5 million primarily for December 2007 operations.

Estimation of Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure equalization adjustments:
Much of the revenue from the Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure assets includes a recovery of operating costs. Under this method, the operating component of the fee is a pro rata share of the operating costs for the facility, calculated based upon total throughput. Users of each facility are charged a fee per unit based upon estimated costs and throughput, with an adjustment to actual throughput completed after the end of the year. Each quarter, throughput volumes and operating costs are reviewed to determine whether the estimated unit fee charged during the quarter properly reflects the actual volumes and costs, and the allocation of revenues and operating costs to other plant owners is also reviewed. Appropriate adjustments to revenue and operating expenses are recognized in the quarter and allocations to other owners are recorded.

For the Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure segments, operating revenues and accounts receivable contained an equalization adjustment of $6.6 million at December 31, 2007. Operating expenses and accounts payable contained an estimate of $6.9 million.

Estimation of Marketing revenues:
The majority of the Marketing sales revenues is recorded based upon actual volumes and prices; however, in many cases actual product lifting volumes have not yet been confirmed and sales prices that are dependent on other variables are not yet known. Accordingly, the financial statements contain an estimate for these sales. Estimates are prepared based upon contract quantities and known events. The estimates are reviewed and compared to expected results to verify their accuracy. They are reversed in the following month and replaced with actual results.

At December 31, 2007, the Marketing sales and accounts receivable contained an estimate for December 2007 revenues of $75.7 million.

Estimation of Marketing product purchases:
NGL mix feedstock and specification products such as propane, butane and condensate are purchased from facilities located throughout western Canada and in some locations in the United States. The majority of NGL mix purchases are estimated each month as actual volume information is generally not available until the next month. The estimates are prepared based upon a three month rolling average of production volumes for each facility and an estimate of price based upon historical information. Specification product volumes and prices are based upon contract volumes and prices. Accordingly, these financial statements contain an estimate for one month of these purchases.

Marketing cost of goods sold, inventory and accounts payable contained an estimate of NGL product purchases of $101.3 million at December 31, 2007.

Estimation of Asset Retirement Obligation:
Keyera will be responsible for compliance with all applicable laws and regulations regarding the decommissioning, abandonment and reclamation of its facilities at the end of their economic lives. The determination of the estimate of these obligations is based upon settlement between 2018 and 2038. Keyera utilizes a documented process, overseen by the Health, Safety and Environment Committee, to estimate future liability and the anticipated cost of the decommissioning, abandonment and reclamation of its facilities.

Keyera has estimated that, at December 31, 2007, the total undiscounted amount required to settle the asset retirement obligations is $183.0 million, compared to $183.2 million at December 31, 2006. The discounted net present value of this obligation at December 31, 2007 is $37.8 million, compared to $34.5 million at December 31, 2006. The increase in the discounted amount is primarily due to accretion.

It is not possible to predict these costs with certainty since they will be a function of regulatory requirements at the time of decommissioning, abandonment and reclamation and the actual costs may exceed the current estimates which are the basis of the asset retirement obligation shown in Keyera's financial statements.

Additional information related to decommissioning, abandonment and reclamation costs is provided in Keyera's 2008 Annual Information Form, which is available on SEDAR.

LIQUIDITY AND CAPITAL RESOURCES

Cash flow from operating activities during the fourth quarter of 2007 was $45.5 million, of which $3.9 million was generated from a decrease in non-cash working capital. Before changes in non-cash working capital, cash flow from operating activities was $41.6 million. From this cash flow, Keyera paid $23.0 million of distributions to its unitholders and required $8.4 million for capital expenditures, leaving $10.2 million of cash. Keyera also received $39.6 million of net proceeds from the issuance of long-term debt, $0.8 million from the issuance of trust units under the distribution reinvestment plan ("DRIP"), $3.9 million from the change in non-cash working capital and $0.5 million of proceeds from the disposition of equipment. From this cash, Keyera repaid $40.0 million of short-term borrowings, leaving a net cash inflow of $15.0 million for the quarter.

For the full year, cash flow from operating activities was $119.8 million, after the use of $25.5 million to fund an increase in non-cash working capital primarily due to higher product inventories. Cash flow from operating activities before changes in non-cash working capital was $145.3 million. From this cash flow Keyera paid $89.8 million of distributions to its unitholders and required $33.1 million for capital expenditures and acquisitions, leaving $22.4 million of cash. Keyera also received $4.7 million from dispositions and $3.3 million from the issuance of trust units under the DRIP, bringing cash available to $30.4 million. Along with this cash, net proceeds of $118.9 million from the issuance of long-term debt were used to fund the repayment of $108.0 million of short-term borrowings and finance the $25.5 million change in non-cash working capital, leaving a $15.8 million net cash inflow for the year.

Cash and working capital were $75.7 million at December 31, 2007 compared to a deficit of $41.1 million at December 31, 2006. The deficit at December 31, 2006 resulted from the use of short-term debt to finance growth capital expenditures and was eliminated in 2007 when Keyera received $118.9 million of net proceeds from the issuance of long-term debt and used much of these proceeds to repay short-term debt.

Keyera has no direct exposure to asset backed commercial paper. Surplus cash is held in interest bearing deposit accounts or invested in term deposits, guaranteed investment certificates, or Bankers' Acceptances issued by Canadian chartered banks.

Capital expenditures

Capital Additions and Acquisitions (in millions of Canadian dollars)	Twelve months ended December 31, 2007	2006
Growth capital expenditures	23.9	70.9
Maintenance capital expenditures	1.4	3.0
Total capital expenditures	25.3	73.9
Acquisitions of non-controlling interest	6.7	—
Total capital additions and acquisitions	32.0	73.9

In the fourth quarter of 2007, additions to property, plant and equipment including acquisitions amounted to $9.0 million, most of which was growth capital. Keyera incurred maintenance and repair expenses of $3.2 million that were included in operating costs during the fourth quarter of 2007. The growth capital expenditures included $2.0 million for the acquisition of an acid gas disposal well for the Brazeau River plant, $1.6 million for the expansion of the truck terminal at Fort Saskatchewan, $1.2 million for the acquisition of pipe and design work for the Caribou North Trutch Pipeline project, $0.7 million for work done on the construction of a fourth pipeline between our Fort Saskatchewan facility and Edmonton terminal, and $0.4 million related to the construction of new camp facilities at the Caribou plant and various other small projects.

Total capital additions and acquisitions amounted to $32.0 million in 2007, consisting of $1.4 million of maintenance capital, $23.9 million of growth capital and $6.7 million of acquisitions. In addition to maintenance capital expenditures, Keyera incurred maintenance and repair expenses of $28.0 million that were included in operating costs.

In 2007, Keyera invested in the following significant growth projects:

- $6.7 million related to the acquisition of additional ownership interests in Rimbey Pipeline Limited Partnership, bringing Keyera's ownership to 100%
- $4.4 million for new gathering pipelines in the Foothills Region
- $4.2 million at the Bigoray, Brazeau River and Nordegg River gas plants to upgrade systems and equipment and expand acid gas disposal capacity
- $2.6 million for upgrades and expansion of equipment at the Rimbey gas plant
- $2.2 million for the expansion of the truck terminal at Fort Saskatchewan
- $2.1 million for the acquisition of a site in northeast B.C. close to the Caribou North gathering system to enable future expansion
- $1.9 million related to modifications at the Rimbey gas plant to enable the tie-in of equipment required for the ethane extraction project

In 2008, Keyera anticipates investing between $80 million and $100 million on growth capital projects, but the actual level of growth capital investment is dependent upon a number of factors including available opportunities, timing of regulatory approvals and agreements with customers. The 2008 spending includes commitments and carry over from the unfinished 2007 capital program. Sufficient capacity is available in the current credit facilities to fund the 2008 expenditures.

Working capital requirements are strongly influenced by the volume of NGLs held in storage and their related commodity prices. NGL inventories are required to meet seasonal demand patterns and will vary depending on the time of year. Historically, the largest allocation of working capital to fund inventory has been approximately $84 million. In addition to the working capital required for inventory, Keyera typically utilizes approximately $25 to $45 million to finance the other components of working capital.

Risks

The majority of cash flow is derived from the Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure business segments. The operating income generated from gathering and processing facilities is not significantly exposed to changes in operating costs due to the nature of most fee structures, which provide a mechanism for the recovery of operating costs.

The most significant exposure faced by the Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure businesses over the long term is related to declines in throughput volumes. Without reserve additions, third party production will decline over time as reserves are depleted. Declining production volumes may translate into lower throughput and cash flow at Keyera's plants and facilities. However, these facilities are located in significant natural gas supply areas of the Western Canada Sedimentary Basin and have high barriers to entry for new competitors.

Keyera's cash flows may also be adversely affected by the occurrence of common hazards and environmental risks related to the natural gas gathering, processing and pipeline transportation business, such as the failure of equipment, systems or processes, operator error, labour disputes, disputes with owners of interconnected facilities, catastrophic events or acts of terrorism. To mitigate these operational and environmental risks, Keyera maintains written standard operating practices, formally assesses and documents employee competency, and maintains formal inspection, maintenance, safety and environmental programs. In addition, Keyera carries casualty and business interruption insurance, although there can be no assurance that the proceeds of such insurance will compensate Keyera fully for any losses nor can it be assured that such insurance will be available in the future.

The most significant exposure faced by the Marketing business is fluctuation in the prices of the commodities that Keyera buys and sells. (See "Marketing Risk Management" in this MD&A.)

For a further discussion of the risks identified in this MD&A, other risks and trends that could affect the performance of the Fund and the steps that Keyera takes to mitigate these risks, readers are referred to the descriptions in this MD&A and Keyera's Annual Information Form available on SEDAR.

Keyera's future debt levels are primarily dependent on operating cash flows, working capital requirements and capital investment programs. Management expects the Fund's 2008 capital expenditures and distributions to be funded by cash flow from operations and borrowing on available debt facilities.

Debt covenants

Keyera has established credit facilities consisting of a $150 million committed unsecured revolving term facility that matures on April 21, 2010 and $30 million of unsecured revolving demand facilities. These credit facilities bear interest based on the lenders' rates for Canadian prime commercial loans, U.S. base rate loans, Libor loans or Bankers' Acceptances rates. As of December 31, 2007 there were no drawings under these Credit Facilities.

The bank credit facilities contain a covenant that the Fund and its subsidiaries will not distribute in any twelve month period more than 105% of the distributable cash flow attributable to that twelve month period. For the year ended December 31, 2007, Keyera distributed 66% of its distributable cash flow, using the definitions in the bank credit facilities. Those facilities are also subject to two major financial covenants: "Debt to EBITDA" and "Debt to Capitalization". The calculation for each ratio is based on specific definitions, is not in accordance with GAAP and cannot be readily replicated by referring to the Fund's financial statements. The definitions in the credit agreements provide for the deduction of net working capital items in the calculation of debt. The following are the ratios as calculated in accordance with the covenants as at December 31, 2007:

Covenant	Position as at December 31, 2007
Debt to EBITDA not to exceed 3.5	1.59
Debt to Capitalization not to exceed 0.55	0.26

Keyera has $335 million of long-term senior unsecured notes as follows: $20 million bearing interest at 5.42% and maturing in August 2008; $90 million bearing interest at 5.23% and maturing in October 2009; $52.5 million bearing interest at 5.79% and maturing in August 2010; $52.5 million bearing interest at 6.155% and maturing in August 2013; $60 million bearing interest at 5.89% and maturing in December 2017; and $60 million bearing interest at 6.14% and maturing in December 2022. These notes are subject to three major financial covenants: "Consolidated Debt to Consolidated EBITDA", "Consolidated EBITDA to Consolidated Interest Charges" and "Priority Debt to Consolidated Total Assets".

The calculations for each of these ratios are based on specified definitions. The following are the ratios calculated in accordance with the covenants as at December 31, 2007 for the notes maturing in 2008, 2009, 2010 and 2013:

Covenant	Position as at December 31, 2007
Debt to EBITDA not to exceed 3.5	2.14
EBITDA to Interest Charges not less than 3.0	10.90
Priority Debt to Total Assets not to exceed 15%	0%

The following are the ratios calculated in accordance with the covenants as at December 31, 2007 for the notes maturing in 2017 and 2022:

Covenant	Position as at December 31, 2007
Debt to EBITDA not to exceed 5.0	1.42
EBITDA to Interest Charges not less than 2.0	8.35
Priority Debt to Total Assets not to exceed 15%	0%

Failure to adhere to the covenants described above may impair Keyera's ability to pay distributions. Management expects that upon maturity of the credit facilities, adequate replacement facilities will be established.

Regulatory risk

Keyera is subject to a range of laws and regulations imposed by various levels of government and regulatory bodies in the jurisdictions in which it operates. In 2007, regulatory changes in the areas of taxation and the environment have had the most direct impact on Keyera. (See "Business Environment").

While these laws and regulations affect all dimensions of Keyera's activities, Keyera does not believe that they affect its operations in a manner materially different from other comparable businesses operating in the same jurisdictions. A more complete discussion of regulatory risks can be found in the Annual Information Form available on SEDAR.

Credit risk

Credit risk is the risk of loss resulting from non-performance of contractual payment obligations by a customer or counterparty. The majority of Keyera's accounts receivable are due from entities in the oil and gas industry and are subject to normal industry credit risks. Concentration of credit risk is mitigated by having a broad domestic and international customer base. Keyera evaluates and monitors the financial strength of its customers in accordance with its credit policy.

Management believes these measures minimize Keyera's overall credit risk; however, there can be no assurance that these processes will protect against all losses from non-performance. At December 31, 2007, the accounts receivable from Keyera's two largest customers accounted for less than 1% of accounts receivable (2006 – less than 1%).

With respect to counterparties for financial instruments used for economic hedging purposes, Keyera limits its credit risk by dealing with recognized futures exchanges or investment grade financial institutions and by maintaining credit policies that significantly reduce overall counterparty credit risk.

Marketing risk management

Keyera enters into contracts to purchase and sell natural gas, NGLs and crude oil. Most of these contracts are priced at floating market prices. These activities expose Keyera to market risks resulting from movements in commodity prices between the time volumes are purchased and the time they are sold and from fluctuations in the margins between purchase prices and sales prices.

The prices of the products that are marketed by Keyera are subject to fluctuations as a result of such factors as seasonal demand changes, changes in crude oil and natural gas markets and other factors. In many circumstances, particularly in NGL marketing, purchase and sale contracts are not perfectly matched as they are entered into at different times, locations and values. Further, Keyera normally has a long position in most of the NGL products that it markets and may store NGLs in order to meet seasonal demand and take advantage of seasonal pricing differentials, thereby resulting in inventory risk. Because crude oil margins are earned by capturing spreads between different qualities of crude oil, Keyera's crude oil midstream business is subject to variability in price differentials between crude oil streams. In both Keyera's NGL and crude oil marketing businesses, margins can vary significantly from period to period and volatility in the markets for these products may cause distortions in financial results from period to period that are not replicable.

To some extent, Keyera reduces elements of risk exposure through the integration of its Marketing business with its Facilities businesses. In spite of this integration, Keyera remains exposed to market and commodity price risk. Keyera manages this commodity risk in a number of ways, including the use of financial contracts and by offsetting some physical and financial contracts in terms of volumes, timing of performance and delivery obligations. For example, in the context of NGL marketing, because NGL product prices are related to the price of crude oil, crude oil financial contracts are one of the more common hedging strategies that Keyera uses. This strategy is subject to basis risk between the prices of crude oil and the NGL products and therefore cannot be expected to fully offset future propane, butane and condensate price movements. Further, there is no guarantee that hedging and other efforts to manage the marketing and inventory risks will generate profits or mitigate all the market and inventory risks associated with these activities. To the extent that Keyera engages in these kinds of hedging activities, it is also subject to credit risks associated with counterparties with whom it contracts.

Foreign currency rate risk

The Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure segments generated 56% of 2007 operating margin and are not subject to foreign currency rate risk. All sales and virtually all purchases are denominated in Canadian dollars. In the Marketing business, approximately US$240.1 million of sales were priced in U.S. dollars in 2007.

Commitments

Keyera has assumed various contractual obligations in the normal course of its operations. At December 31, 2007, the obligations that represent known future cash payments that are required under existing contractual arrangements are as follows:

	Payments Due by Period
Contractual obligations	Total $	2008 $	2009 $	2010 $	2011 $	2012 $	After 2012 $
Long-term debt[1]	335,000	20,000	90,000	52,500	—	—	172,500
Operating leases[2]	33,845	8,749	7,926	6,359	4,964	3,915	1,932
Purchase obligations[3]	—	—	—	—	—	—	—
Total contractual obligations	368,845	28,749	97,926	58,859	4,964	3,915	174,432

[1] Long-term debt obligations do not include interest payments.

[2] Keyera has lease commitments relating to railway tank cars, vehicles, computer hardware, office space, terminal lease space and natural gas transportation.

[3] Keyera is involved in various contractual agreements with ConocoPhillips and other producers to purchase NGLs. These agreements range from one to eleven years and in general obligate Keyera to purchase all product produced at specified locations on a best efforts basis. The purchase prices are based on then current market prices. The future volumes and prices for these contracts cannot be reasonably determined.

Unitholder Distributions

Comparison of distributions paid to cash flow from operating activities and net earnings

The following table presents a comparison of distributions paid to net earnings and cash flow from operating activities:

	Three months ended Dec. 31,	Twelve months ended Dec. 31,
(Thousands of Canadian dollars)	2007	2007	2006	2005
Cash flow from operating activities	45,497	119,825	110,656	62,147
Net earnings	40,027	14,479	68,078	60,680
Cash distributions paid	22,952	89,799	86,509	77,013
Excess (shortfall) of cash flow from operating activities over distributions paid	22,545	30,026	24,147	(14,866)
Excess (shortfall) of net earnings over distributions paid	17,075	(75,320)	(18,431)	(16,333)

In 2007, cash flow from operating activities was $119.8 million, $30.0 million greater than distributions paid. Included in the calculation of cash flow from operating activities was $25.5 million to fund an increase in non-cash working capital. In the fourth quarter of 2007, cash flow from operating activities was $45.5 million, including $3.9 million generated from a decrease in non-cash working capital. Cash flow from operating activities both in the fourth quarter of 2007 and for the year were sufficient to fund cash distributions paid.

Cash distributions paid for 2007 of $89.8 million exceeded net earnings by $75.3 million. The shortfall is attributable to the inclusion of non-cash items for future income taxes ($72.6 million), depreciation, amortization and accretion ($44.5 million) and unrealized losses on financial instruments ($12.6 million) in the calculation of net income. In the fourth quarter of 2007, net earnings of $40.0 million exceeded cash distributions by $17.0 million.

Future income taxes can fluctuate from period to period as a result of changes in tax laws and rates (such as the enactment in the second quarter of 2007 of the tax on distributions of flow-through entities or the reduction of income tax rates in 2006 and 2007) or changes in the operating results of the underlying operating entities of Keyera. These items do not affect cash flow generated in the current period.

Non-cash charges such as depreciation and amortization are based upon the historical cost of Keyera's property, plant and equipment and do not accurately represent the fair market value or the replacement cost of the assets in today's economic environment, nor do they affect cash flow generated in the current period.

Non-cash unrealized gains and losses on financial instruments result from Keyera's use of financial contracts, such as energy-related forward sales, price swaps, physical exchanges and options to manage some of the commodity price risk inherent in the marketing business. Their fair value is determined based upon estimates of future prices. The change in fair value of these contracts during the current period has no effect on cash flow generated. Upon settlement in future periods, the unrealized estimate is reversed and the realized gain or loss is included in earnings.

Due to the inclusion of such non-cash charges in net earnings, distributions paid may exceed net earnings. Although non-cash charges do not affect current period cash generation, any excess of distributions over net earnings would be a return of unitholders' capital.

Distributable Cash Flow

Distributable cash flow is not a standard measure under GAAP and therefore may not be comparable to similar measures reported by other entities. Distributable cash flow is used to assess the level of cash flow generated from ongoing operations and to evaluate the adequacy of internally generated cash flow to fund distributions.

Following is a reconciliation of distributable cash flow to its most closely related GAAP measure, cash flow from operating activities.

Distributable Cash Flow	Three months ended December 31,		Twelve months ended December 31,
(Thousands of Canadian dollars)	2007	2006[1]	2007	2006[1]
Cash flow from operating activities	45,497	42,130	119,825	110,656
Add (deduct):
Changes in non cash working capital	(3,885)	(13,584)	25,450	(6,545)
Maintenance capital	(192)	(288)	(1,437)	(3,011)
Non-controlling interest distributable cash flow	—	(285)	(369)	(1,153)
Distributable cash flow	41,420	27,973	143,469	99,947
Distributions to unitholders	22,965	21,742	90,206	86,605

[1] The calculation of distributable cash flow for the comparative period has been amended to consider the non-cash effect of unrealized foreign exchange gains and losses. For the three and twelve months ended December 31, 2006, $287 and $228 of unrealized foreign exchange gains have been included in the change in non-cash working capital.

Distributable cash flow of $41.4 million in the fourth quarter of 2007 and $143.5 million for the year exceeded distributions to unitholders of $18.5 million and $53.3 million in the respective periods.

Changes in non-cash working capital are excluded from the determination of distributable cash flow because they are primarily the result of seasonal fluctuations in product inventories or other temporary changes and are generally funded with short-term debt. Also deducted from distributable cash flow are maintenance capital expenditures that are funded from current operating cash flow.

Distribution policy

In determining the level of cash distributions to unitholders, Keyera's Board of Directors takes into consideration current and expected future levels of distributable cash flow (including income tax), capital expenditures, borrowings and debt repayments, changes in working capital requirements and other factors.

Changes in non-cash working capital are primarily the result of seasonal fluctuations in product inventories or other temporary changes and are generally funded with short-term debt. These changes in non-cash working capital are therefore excluded in the determination of distributable cash flow.

Over the long-term, Keyera expects to pay distributions from distributable cash flow. Growth capital expenditures will be funded from retained operating cash flow, along with proceeds from additional debt or equity, as required. Although Keyera intends to continue to make regular monthly cash distributions to its unitholders, these distributions are not guaranteed.

Sustainability of productive capacity

Keyera's Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure segments operate long-life infrastructure assets consisting of natural gas processing plants and gathering systems, NGL processing plants, storage facilities and transportation facilities. These facilities provide services to numerous energy producers over a wide geographic area. Throughput at each natural gas processing plant is dependent upon the natural gas production of third party producers within the capture area or franchise area of the plant. Demand for fractionation, storage and transportation services is dependent upon the supply of NGL mix obtained from the processing of third party raw natural gas and the market demand for end-use products (propane, butane and condensate).

Keyera has comprehensive inspection, monitoring and maintenance programs in place. The objectives of these programs are to keep the facilities in good working order and to maintain their ability to operate reliably for many years. These maintenance and repair expenditures totaled $3.4 million in the fourth quarter of 2007 and $29.5 million for the year. Of these amounts, $3.2 million and $28.0 million were included in operating costs and will be recovered through the fee structure over varying periods of time, depending upon the fee structure. At these levels of maintenance and repair, Keyera's plants and facilities can continue to operate safely for decades to come. Significant capital expenditures are not normally required to maintain the existing productive capacity, but may be required if significant changes are made in regulatory requirements.

Several of Keyera's sour gas plants rely on acid gas injection to dispose of the hydrogen sulphide and other waste products removed during processing. Acid gas injection involves the injection and sequestration of carbon dioxide and hydrogen sulphide into depleted underground reservoirs. The sustainability of this process is dependent upon the availability of suitable reservoirs. If suitable reservoirs were not available, alternate processes would be required, the capacity of the plant could be reduced or expenditures required to replace the lost capacity would be necessary. These alternatives would have an adverse effect on cash flow.

Cash flows from operating activities are determined primarily by the quantity and composition of product throughput at the facility and the fee structure. Throughput is influenced by the ongoing development activities of numerous third parties who may increase production volumes by drilling new wells, tying in previously drilled wells, completing new zones in existing wells or enhancing production volumes through stimulation or enhanced recovery techniques. If third parties are unsuccessful in their development activities, Keyera's cash flow could be adversely affected despite having physical capacity available. Growth capital expenditures are generally undertaken to expand capture areas, add new capacity or introduce new services. If Keyera is unsuccessful in extending capture areas or adding new capacity and services, cash flow from operating activities may be reduced.

Standard and Poor's has assigned the Fund an SR-3 stability rating, indicating the expectation of a high level of stability in distributions.

Additional information on the capacities and constraints related to Keyera's plants, other risks and trends that could affect the financial performance of Keyera and the steps taken to mitigate these risks, readers are referred to the descriptions in this MD&A and to Keyera's 2007 Annual Information Form, which is available on SEDAR.

Units and Convertible Debentures

During 2007, $1.7 million of convertible debentures (before adjustment for deferred financing costs) were converted into 143,321 trust units and 190,298 trust units were issued under the DRIP in consideration of $3.3 million, bringing the total units outstanding at December 31, 2007 to 61,264,372. Convertible debentures outstanding at December 31, 2007 were $21.8 million.

FUND REORGANIZATION

In June 2007, Unitholders approved an internal reorganization of Keyera's legal structure (the "Reorganization"). Due to interpretation issues surrounding the SIFT Legislation, Keyera amended certain elements of the Reorganization prior to implementation. On January 2, 2008, upon receipt of a favourable advance ruling from the Canada Revenue Agency and the final order from the Alberta Court of Queen's Bench approving the plan of arrangement for the amended Reorganization, the Reorganization was completed. The Reorganization is described in detail in the Material Change Report as filed on SEDAR (www.sedar.com) on January 11, 2008.

The Reorganization streamlined Keyera's legal structure and simplified accounting, legal reporting and income tax compliance, all of which is expected to reduce the general and administrative costs associated with these activities. As a result of the amendments to the Reorganization, there were not any significant immediate tax savings within Keyera's structure, but the new structure does permit Keyera to defer the utilization of some tax pools until after January 1, 2011. This enhanced tax planning flexibility should enable Keyera to minimize the amount of cash taxes payable in 2011, when Keyera is expected to become taxable under the SIFT Legislation.

Keyera is looking at a variety of options to continue to enhance it tax planning flexibility, including the possibility of undertaking a further restructuring depending on whether amendments are made to the SIFT Legislation. (See "Business Environment – New Tax on Flow-through Entities"). As well, Keyera plans to reduce the use of its available tax deductions from 2008 through 2010, thereby increasing deductions available for the years after 2010.

ACCOUNTING MATTERS AND CONTROLS

Changes in Accounting Policies

On January 1, 2007, we adopted the following Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants ("CICA") Handbook Sections:

- Section 1530, Comprehensive Income;
- Section 3251, Equity;
- Section 3855, Financial Instruments – Recognition and Measurement;

- Section 3861, Financial Instruments – Presentation and Disclosure; and
- Section 3865, Hedges.

For a description of the new accounting policies and the impact on the Fund's financial statements including the impact on the Fund's deferred financing fees, long-term debt and opening accumulated deficit refer to note 2 of the Consolidated Financial Statements for the year ended December 31, 2007.

Future Accounting and Reporting Changes

Convergence of Canadian GAAP with International Financial Reporting Standards

In 2006, Canada's Accounting Standards Board (AcSB) ratified a strategic plan that will result in the convergence of Canadian GAAP, as used by public companies, with International Financial Reporting Standards over a transitional period. The AcSB has developed and published a detailed implementation plan, with a changeover date for fiscal years beginning on or after January 1, 2011. This initiative is in its early stages as of the date on these annual Consolidated Financial Statements. Accordingly, it would be premature to assess the impact of the initiative on the Fund at this time.

Financial Instruments – Disclosures and Presentation

The AcSB has issued CICA Handbook Sections 3862 and 3863, Financial Instruments – Disclosures, and Financial Instruments – Presentation. Section 3862 requires entities to provide disclosures in their financial statements that enable users to evaluate the significance of financial instruments to the entity's financial position and performance. It also requires that entities disclose the nature and extent of risks arising from financial instruments and how the entity manages those risks. Section 3863 establishes standards for presentation of financial instruments and non-financial derivatives and deals with the classification of financial instruments, from the perspective of the issuer, between liabilities and equity, the classification of related interest, dividends, losses and gains, and the circumstances in which financial assets and financial liabilities are offset. These standards will be effective for the Fund for periods ending after January 1, 2008.

Capital Disclosures

The AcSB has issued CICA Handbook Section 1535, Capital Disclosures, which requires entities to disclose their objectives, policies and processes for managing capital and whether they are in compliance with any externally imposed capital requirements. This standard will be effective for the Fund for periods ending after January 1, 2008.

Inventories

The AcSB has issued CICA Handbook Section 3031, Inventories, which essentially modifies guidance relating to the scope, measurement and allocation of costs for inventory. The Fund is currently evaluating the impact of the adoption of this new Section on its consolidated financial statements. This standard will be effective for the Fund for periods ending after January 1, 2008.

Goodwill and Intangible Assets

In February 2008, the AcSB issued CICA Handbook Section 3064, Goodwill and Intangible Assets, replacing existing guidance (Sections 3062 and 3450) for these areas. This new section establishes standards for the recognition, measurement, presentation and disclosure of goodwill and intangible assets subsequent to its initial recognition. Standards concerning goodwill are unchanged from the standards included in the previous Section 3062. The Fund is currently evaluating the impact of the adoption of this new Section on its consolidated financial statements. This standard will be effective for the Fund for periods ending after January 1, 2009.

Control Environment

Disclosure Controls and Procedures
As of December 31, 2007, the Chief Executive Officer and the Chief Financial Officer together with Keyera's management have evaluated the design and effectiveness of Keyera's disclosure controls and procedures. They concluded that, as of the end of the period covered by this report, Keyera's disclosure controls and procedures were adequate and effective in ensuring that material information relating to the Fund and its consolidated subsidiaries would be made known to them by others within those entities, particularly during the period in which this report was being prepared.

Internal Control Over Financial Reporting
As of December 31, 2007, under the supervision of and with the participation of Keyera's management, including the Chief Executive Officer and the Chief Financial Officer, internal control over financial reporting has been designed and maintained in order to provide reasonable assurance regarding the reliability of financial reporting. During the quarter ended December 31, 2007, there have been no material changes in internal control over financial reporting.

For 2007 revenues from Marketing were $1,250.5 million, an increase of $88.6 million compared to the previous year. Higher prices, partially offset by lower volumes, and the growing contribution from the crude oil midstream business accounted for the increase. Also included in 2007 revenues were $20.0 million of charges related to the settlement and change in fair value of financial contracts that were part of Keyera's risk management program.

Revenues from facilities were $228.6 million, up $22.0 million compared to 2006.

Gathering and Processing revenue for 2007 was $187.5 million, an increase of $20.8 million, or 12%, compared to the previous year. The increase was due primarily to higher throughput in the Foothills Region, the flow through of turnaround costs incurred at the Rimbey, Brazeau River and Bigoray gas plants, the conversion of fixed fee arrangements to flow-through arrangements and incremental fees from the new compression added at the Rimbey gas plant in late 2006 and early 2007.

NGL Infrastructure revenue for 2007 was $41.1 million, an increase of $1.2 million, or 3%, compared to the previous year. The increase is primarily due to higher storage revenues at Keyera's Fort Saskatchewan facility.

Consolidated net earnings for 2007 were $14.5 million, a decrease of $53.6 million from 2006. The decrease was due primarily to the non-cash future income tax expense, higher general and administrative costs, interest expense and depreciation charges, partially offset by strong operating margins in all segments.

The Fund declared $90.2 million of distributions to unitholders in 2007, an increase of $3.6 million due to an increase in the distributions paid per unit in May 2007, as well as a greater number of units outstanding resulting from conversions of debentures and the DRIP.

For 2006, revenues from Marketing were $1,161.9 million, an increase of $148.6 million compared 2005. Approximately $52.3 million of the increase was due to the growth of the crude oil midstream business that commenced operation in the fourth quarter of 2005. Also included in revenue was $7.0 million related to the settlement and change in fair value of financial contracts that were part of Keyera's risk management program. The remainder was primarily due to higher NGL volumes and prices compared to last year.

Revenues from facilities were $206.6 million, up $32.4 million compared to 2005.

Gathering and Processing revenue for 2006 was $166.7 million, an increase of $27.5 million, or 20%, compared to the previous year. The increase was due primarily to higher throughput increasing sour raw gas volumes, which attract a higher processing fee, at the Brazeau River gas plant, the recovery of expenses incurred during the Chinchaga and Strachan gas plant maintenance turnarounds and increased ownership in the Strachan gas plant for the full year.

NGL Infrastructure revenue for 2006 was $39.9 million, an increase of $4.9 million, or 14%, compared to the previous year. The increase was primarily due to higher storage revenues at Keyera's Fort Saskatchewan facility, as well as a non-recurring adjustment of approximately $1 million earned upon the expiration of a long-term contract in the first quarter of 2006.

Consolidated net earnings for 2006 were $68.1 million, an increase of $7.4 million from 2005. This increase was primarily attributable to the strong contribution of the storage business in the NGL Infrastructure segment, lower long-term incentive plan costs in the general and administrative expenses and the recovery of future income taxes in the second quarter of 2006. Partially offsetting this were lower operating margins experienced in the third and fourth quarters of 2006 in the Marketing segment, primarily attributable to the weakening of product margins.

The Fund declared $86.6 million of distributions to unitholders in 2006, an increase of $8.1 million. The increase was due to higher average distributions per unit in 2006, as well as a higher number of units outstanding resulting from conversions of debentures and the DRIP.

[1] Since the adoption of the new accounting standards effective January 1, 2007, Keyera has had no transactions that required the use of other comprehensive income and therefore comprehensive income equals net earnings.

December 31, 2007 compared to September 30, 2007

Marketing revenues of $373.9 million in the fourth quarter of 2007 increased from the third quarter of 2007 by $96.9 million. This increase was due to the seasonal increase in sales volumes and higher prices.

Net earnings were $40.0 million, an increase of $24.7 million due primarily to the strong operating margins earned in the Marketing segment and the recognition of a $11.7 million future income tax recovery.

September 30, 2007 compared to June 30, 2007

Third quarter Marketing revenues of $277.0 million decreased from the prior quarter by $15.4 million. This decrease was due to a combination of lower NGL volumes, particularly in butane and condensate, and the effect of the $5.7 million of unrealized loss on financial instruments.

Gathering and Processing revenue of $50.7 million increased by $6.5 million due to higher throughput at most plants and higher fees at the Bigoray and Brazeau River gas plants. Furthermore, volumes at the Rimbey gas plant improved over the previous quarter as it was taken offline for a 17-day turnaround in the second quarter.

Net earnings were $15.3 million, an increase of $75.2 million from previous quarter. This increase was primarily due to the recording of $80.2 million of future income taxes in the second quarter as a result of the Canadian government enacting taxation on publicly traded income trusts. Without the effect of this non-cash future income tax expense, net earnings for the third quarter decreased by $5.1 million from the second quarter, largely due to lower Marketing operating margins.

June 30, 2007 compared to March 31, 2007

For the second quarter of 2007, Marketing revenues of $292.3 million decreased by $15.0 million from the prior quarter. This decrease in revenues was due primarily to a seasonal decline in sales volumes.

Gathering and Processing revenue of $44.3 million increased by $2.3 million primarily due to higher throughput volumes in the Foothills Region, despite maintenance turnarounds at the Rimbey gas plant, Keyera's largest facility, and the Brazeau North gas plant.

NGL Infrastructure revenue of $9.5 million remained relatively unchanged from the first quarter of 2007, reflecting the long-term storage contracts established in early 2007.

A net loss of $59.9 million was recorded, a decrease of $78.9 million from the prior quarter. This loss was due to the recording of an $80.2 million provision for future income tax expense resulting from the enactment of the Canadian government's tax on publicly traded income trusts starting in 2011.

March 31, 2007 compared to December 31, 2006

Marketing revenues of $307.3 million increased by $21.0 million due to strong seasonal demand for propane over the last quarter of 2006. First quarter butane margins and demand continued to improve over the previous quarter, along with the market conditions for condensate. Keyera's crude oil midstream also contributed to the increase in Marketing revenue.

Gathering and Processing revenue for the first quarter of 2007 was $41.9 million, a decrease of $1.7 million from the last quarter of 2006. The decrease in revenue was due to a slight decrease in throughput volume in the West Central Region offset by higher volumes in the Foothills Region.

Operating revenues from NGL Infrastructure were $9.7 million, a decrease of $1.2 million from the fourth quarter of 2006. This decrease was primarily due to lower fractionation revenues, particularly at the Fort Saskatchewan facility.

Net earnings were $19.0 million, an increase of $4.1 million from the previous quarter. This increase was primarily due to stronger marketing operating margins offset by higher general and administrative costs.

December 31, 2006 compared to September 30, 2006

Marketing revenues of $286.3 million in the fourth quarter of 2006 increased from the third quarter of 2006 by $6.8 million. This increase was largely due to the seasonal increase in sales volumes.

NGL Infrastructure revenue of $10.9 million was consistent with the prior quarter.

Net earnings were $14.9 million, an increase of $3.1 million due to higher margins experienced in the NGL Infrastructure segment and lower Gathering and Processing expenses.

September 30, 2006 compared to June 30, 2006

Gathering and Processing revenue of $44.3 million increased by $3.5 million due to higher throughput, the increasingly sour gas at the Brazeau River gas plant which attracts a higher processing fee and the recovery of expenses incurred during the Chinchaga gas plant turnaround.

NGL Infrastructure revenue of $10.9 million increased by $2.3 million primarily due to increased NGL storage revenues at Fort Saskatchewan.

Net earnings were $11.8 million, a decrease of $14.2 million from the previous quarter. This decrease was primarily due to the recovery of future income taxes experienced in the second quarter.

June 30, 2006 compared to March 31, 2006

For the second quarter of 2006, Marketing revenues of $279.2 million decreased by $37.6 million from the prior quarter. This decrease in revenues was due primarily to a seasonal decline in sales volumes.

Gathering and Processing revenue of $40.8 million increased by $2.7 million primarily due to increased ownership in the Strachan gas plant.

NGL Infrastructure revenue of $8.5 million decreased by $1.1 million in comparison to the first quarter of 2006 due to a non-recurring final contract adjustment experienced in the first quarter.

Net earnings were $26.0 million, an increase of $10.6 million from the prior quarter. This increase in earnings was primarily attributable to the recovery of future income taxes resulting from the reduction of statutory tax rates in future years.

PRESENTATION OF FINANCIAL INFORMATION

This Annual Information Form refers to certain financial measures that are not determined in accordance with Canadian Generally Accepted Accounting Principles ("GAAP"). These measures do not have standardized meanings and may not be comparable to similar measures presented by other trusts or corporations. Measures such as "cash flow" and "distributable cash flow" are not standard measures under GAAP and therefore may not be comparable to similar measures for other companies. Management believes that these measures are useful supplemental measures as they facilitate the understanding of the Fund's financial performance. Investors are cautioned, however, that these measures should not be construed as an alternative to net earnings determined in accordance with GAAP as an indication of the Fund's performance.

DESCRIPTION OF THE STRUCTURE OF THE FUND AND CERTAIN SUBSIDIARIES

The Fund

The Fund is an unincorporated open-ended trust established in 2003 under the laws of the Province of Alberta and is governed by the Fund Declaration of Trust. Although the Fund qualifies as a "mutual fund trust" for the purposes of the Tax Act, the Fund is not a mutual fund under applicable securities laws.

Pursuant to the Fund Declaration of Trust, the Fund's activities are restricted to activities including: (a) investing in securities (whether debt or equity) of whatever nature or kind of, or issued by a Keyera Entity, or issued by any other corporation, partnership, trust or other person involved, directly or indirectly, in the business of gathering, processing, transporting, buying, storing and selling petroleum, natural gas, NGLs, other hydrocarbon related products, electricity and thermal energy and other related businesses; (b) investing in securities of whatever nature or kind, issued by any corporation, partnership, trust or other person involved, directly or indirectly, in the business of acquiring, developing and producing petroleum and natural gas reserves and other related products; (c) acquiring, holding, maintaining, improving, leasing or managing any real property (or interest in real property) that is capital property of the Fund for purposes of the Tax Act; (d) borrowing funds and issuing debt securities for the purposes, directly or indirectly, set forth in (a), (b) and (c) above, and entering into hedging arrangements in relation thereto; (e) temporarily holding cash and other short term investments in connection with and for the purposes of the Fund's activities, including paying administration and trust expenses, paying any amounts required in connection with the redemption of Units and making distributions to Unitholders; (f) issuing Units and other securities of the Fund; (g) guaranteeing obligations of its affiliates pursuant to any debt for borrowed money or any other obligation incurred by such entity in good faith for the purpose of carrying on its business and pledging securities and other property owned by the Fund as security for any obligations of the Fund, including obligations under any such guarantee; (h) repurchasing or redeeming Units or other securities of the Fund; and (i) engaging in all activities ancillary or incidental to any of those activities.

In 2005, Unitholders approved a number of amendments to the Fund Declaration of Trust. One of the most significant changes was the amendment deleting the requirement for there to be a minimum of three and a maximum of nine individual trustees and replacing it with a requirement that there be one trustee which is a licensed trust company. Since this amendment was passed, Computershare Trust Company of Canada has been the trustee of the Fund. Additional amendments to the Fund Declaration of Trust approved in 2005 included: (i) replacing the provision allowing Unitholders to elect trustees with a provision allowing Unitholders to elect the Board of Directors directly; (ii) deleting the provision allowing the Trustee to revoke its delegation of powers of the Trustee to the Administrator; (iii) revising the provision regarding the indemnification of the Trustee to reflect the nature of a corporate trustee; (iv) adding a provision to prohibit the Fund from approving the issuance of voting shares of the Administrator to any person other than the Fund (or from transferring any voting shares of the Administrator) except in conjunction with an internal reorganization, without the approval of the Unitholders; (v) delegating the powers of the Trustee to the Administrator; and (vi) revising the provisions relating to the removal or resignation of the Trustee. (See "Information Concerning the Fund, the Trustee and the Administrator - Powers of the Trustee and Delegation to the Administrator" and "Information Concerning the Fund, the Trustee and the Administrator - Removal or Resignation of the Trustee").

Effective January 2, 2008, further amendments to the Fund Declaration of Trust, as approved by the Unitholders in 2007, were implemented. These amendments are summarized below:

1. Amendments related to the Reorganization

In order to effect the Reorganization, certain amendments to the Fund Declaration of Trust were required. In particular, the Fund Declaration of Trust was amended to:

- create Special Non-Voting Units which will be non-voting, redeemable by the Fund and retractable by the holder for $0.01 and will not be entitled to any distributions nor have any beneficial interest in any assets of the Fund on termination or winding up;
- allow in specie redemption rights of Units to be satisfied by way of Redemption Notes of the Fund rather than securities of the Commercial Trust;
- provide for the automatic consolidation of the outstanding Units as a step in the Reorganization such that the total number of Units outstanding upon completion of the Reorganization would be equal to the total number of Units outstanding immediately prior to the Reorganization; and
- revise references to Keyera Entities whose names had changed as a result of the Reorganization, delete references to Keyera Entities which no longer exist, delete provisions that ceased to apply due to the non-existence of those entities and insert references to the new entities created in connection with the Reorganization.

2. Amendments related to maintenance of the Fund's mutual fund trust status pursuant to the Tax Act

Pursuant to the Tax Act, in order for the Fund to maintain its status as a mutual fund trust, it must not be maintained primarily for the benefit of non-residents of Canada. The provisions of the Fund Declaration of Trust intended to restrict non-resident ownership in order to comply with this requirement were amended to:

- provide the Administrator with enhanced flexibility to determine the best way to maintain the Fund's mutual fund trust status;
- introduce flexibility to exceed the 49% non-resident Unit ownership levels if circumstances arise, such as amendments to the Tax Act, so that the Fund is no longer required to comply with this restriction in order to qualify as a mutual fund trust;
- limit the scope of liability of the Administrator in order to reflect the delegation of power from the Trustee and the Administrator's reliance on information from third parties with respect to the residency of beneficial Unitholders;

- provide the Administrator and the Fund with certain liability protections in the event action is required to be taken to enforce the non-resident Unit ownership levels; and

- provide clear language requiring a registered Unitholder to comply with any request to provide a declaration with respect to the residency of beneficial Unitholders for whom it holds units.

The Administrator continues to be required to take steps to maintain the Fund's mutual fund trust status and to act in the best interests of the Fund (See "Capital Structure of the Fund - Limitation on Non-Resident Ownership").

Reorganizations

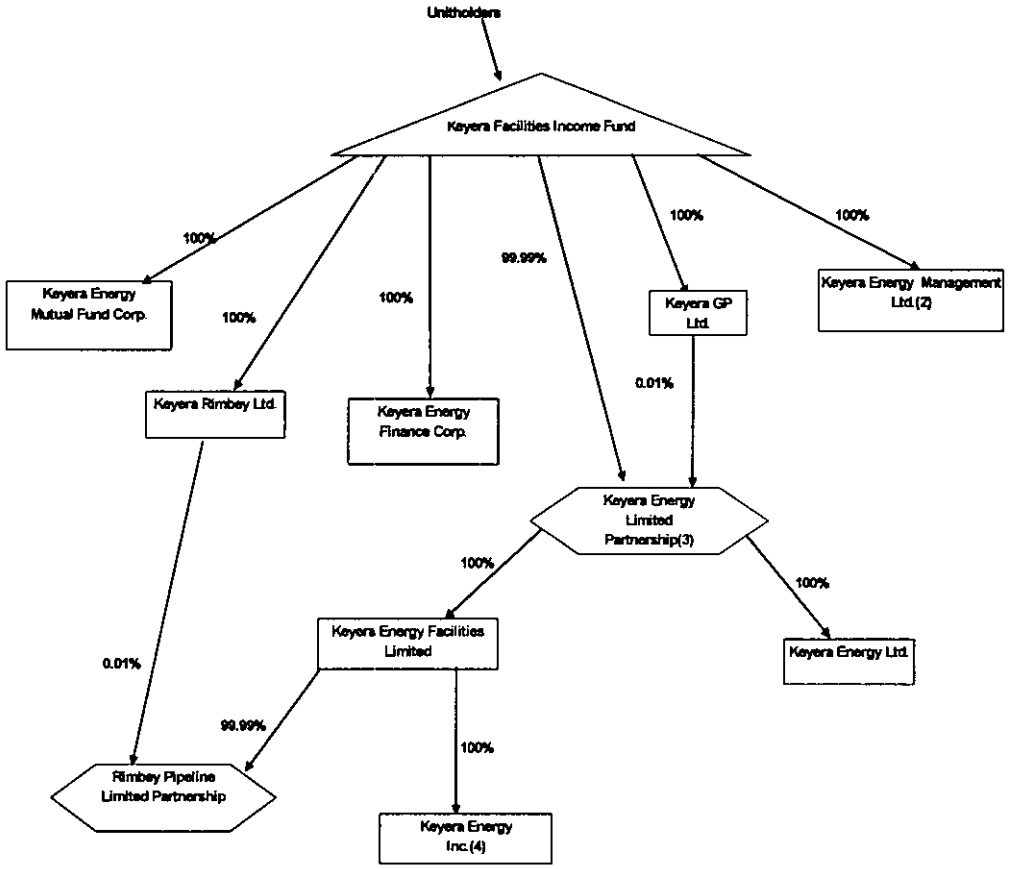
The Fund completed two reorganizations involving its subsidiaries in 2007 and early 2008. The first, which occurred in the spring of 2007, involved Rimbey Pipe Line Co. Ltd. contributing all of its assets to a new limited partnership, Rimbey LP. In connection with this transaction, the Fund, through its wholly-owned subsidiaries, successfully acquired all of the partnership interests in Rimbey LP, with the former third party shareholders of Rimbey Pipe Line Co. Ltd. electing to receive cash for their holdings rather than becoming limited partners.

On January 2, 2008, following receipt of a favourable advance ruling from the Canada Revenue Agency and the final order from the Alberta Court of Queen's Bench approving the Plan of Arrangement, the Fund completed implementation of the Reorganization. The Reorganization streamlined the Fund's legal structure and simplified accounting, legal reporting and income tax compliance. It is anticipated that these changes will reduce general and administrative costs associated with these compliance activities. While the Reorganization will not result in significant immediate tax savings within Keyera's structure, it will permit Keyera to defer the utilization of some tax pools until after January 1, 2011 when the new federal tax on publicly traded flow-through entities is expected to apply to Keyera. The steps taken to complete the Reorganization are described in detail in the material change report filed by the Fund on January 11, 2008 on SEDAR, which material change report is hereby incorporated by reference.

The Reorganization did not involve the acquisition of any additional interests in any operating assets or the disposition of any existing interests in any operating assets. Upon completion of the Reorganization, each Unitholder continued to hold the same number of Units as such Unitholder held prior to the Reorganization and the Fund continued to own the same proportionate interests in its assets that it held immediately prior to the Reorganization.

Organizational Diagram

The following diagram sets out the organizational structure of the Fund as of the date hereof[1].



Notes:

(1) The above diagram does not include the Commercial Trust, the CT Trustee or the Keyera Energy (LP) Ltd., each of which is a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Fund. While these entities still exist, they will be wound up once all tax filings have been completed in accordance with the Reorganization and are therefore not material to the Fund's organizational structure.

(2) The Administrator provides administrative and support services to the Fund pursuant to the Fund Declaration of Trust and the Administration Agreement and to the Partnership pursuant to an administrative services agreement, as well as to various other Keyera Entities.

(3) The assets of the Partnership are held directly by the Partnership and through its wholly-owned subsidiary, KEFL, which owns all of the limited partnership interests of Rimbey LP, the shares of KEI, the Fort Saskatchewan facilities, the interest in the Dow Fort Saskatchewan facilities and the Strachan North Pipeline.

(4) KEI was incorporated in 2005 in the state of Delaware and is the only foreign subsidiary of the Fund.

The Partnership

The Partnership was originally organized as a general partnership pursuant to the laws of the Province of Alberta. However, pursuant to amendments to the Partnership Agreement adopted in conjunction with the Reorganization, the Partnership became a limited partnership and changed its name from Keyera Energy Partnership to Keyera Energy Limited Partnership. As of the date hereof, the sole limited partner of the Partnership is the Fund and the general partner is GP. The Administrator provides management and administrative services to the Partnership pursuant to an administrative services agreement. The Partnership was established to invest in and conduct the business of gathering, processing, transporting, buying, storing and selling petroleum, natural gas, NGLs, other hydrocarbon related products, electricity and thermal energy, producing petroleum and natural gas reserves and other related products, as well as other businesses related to the foregoing and such other businesses or activities as the Board of Directors may determine, including all activities ancillary or incidental thereto.

KEFL

KEFL is an Alberta corporation wholly-owned by the Partnership. KEFL was originally incorporated under the Business Corporations Act (Alberta) on November 16, 1998 as a numbered company. The articles of KEFL were subsequently amended to change the name to GMS Facilities Limited and then to KeySpan Energy Facilities Limited. In February 2005, the articles of KEFL were again amended to change the name to Keyera Energy Facilities Limited. KEFL holds Keyera's interest in the Fort Saskatchewan facilities, the Dow Fort Saskatchewan facilities and the Strachan North Pipeline, as well as 100% of the shares in KEI and Keyera's limited partnership interest in Rimbey LP. Rimbey LP owns the Edmonton Terminal and the Rimbey Pipeline. (See "Business of Keyera - Facilities - NGL Infrastructure").

The Administrator

The Fund is managed by the Administrator, a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Fund. The Administrator also provides administrative services to various other Keyera Entities, including the Partnership, KEFL and Rimbey LP. The Administrator is a corporation, the common shares of which are owned by the Fund. The Administrator was originally incorporated under the Business Corporations Act (Alberta) on March 28, 2003 under the name KeySpan Canada Management Ltd. The articles of the Administrator were amended on February 4, 2005 to change the name to Keyera Energy Management Ltd. Effective January 1, 2006 the Administrator amalgamated with EnerPro Midstream Corporation, an indirect wholly-owned subsidiary of the Fund, under the name Keyera Energy Management Ltd. The articles of the Administrator were amended again in December 2007 to add a new class of preferred shares to be issued in three series. These amendments were necessary in order to facilitate the implementation of the Reorganization. As of the date hereof, only the common shares of the Administrator owned by the Fund are outstanding.

The head office for the Fund, the Partnership, KEFL and the Administrator is located at 600, 144 - 4th Avenue S.W., Calgary, Alberta T2P 3N4. The registered office of the Administrator and KEFL is 3700, 400 – 3rd Avenue SW, Calgary, Alberta T2P 4H2.

Future Structure

Keyera is continuing to examine the options available to it in order to further simplify accounting, legal reporting and tax compliance and to maximize the tax effectiveness of its structure on both a current and go forward basis. These options may include one or more internal reorganizations. In evaluating any reorganization options, Keyera's criteria will include tax efficiency, simplification of the ownership structure, simplification of financial accounting and reporting issues, reducing overall costs and expenses and adapting to changes in the taxation of income trusts. (See "Risk Factors and Risk Management Strategies – Risks Inherent in an Investment in Units – Changes in Income Tax Laws") In some instances, the Fund Declaration of Trust may require Unitholder approval for a reorganization. (See "Information Concerning the Fund, the Trustee and the Administrator – Fundamental Transactions"). However, some internal reorganizations, such as reorganizations involving Keyera Entities, may be completed without Unitholder approval.

GENERAL DEVELOPMENT OF THE BUSINESS

Historical Development

The majority of Keyera's assets were owned by Gulf Canada Resources Limited ("Gulf") until 1998. Effective December 1, 1998, Gulf sold a 50% interest in the assets held by Gulf's midstream division to KEDCO, a wholly-owned subsidiary of KeySpan Corporation. In conjunction with the sale, Gulf and KEDCO formed a partnership called Gulf Midstream Services to operate the business. Effective September 1, 2000, Gulf sold its remaining interest in Gulf Midstream Services to KEDCO, and the partnership was renamed KeySpan Energy Canada Partnership. Effective December 1, 1998, Keyera entered into a number of agreements with Gulf for the provision of gathering, processing and marketing services and for the purchase of NGLs.

Effective July 13, 2001, a subsidiary of ConocoPhillips Inc. acquired Gulf. ConocoPhillips Canada Resources Corp. ("ConocoPhillips") is therefore the successor to these agreements. ConocoPhillips is currently the largest single customer of Keyera. On April 1, 2003, Keyera acquired ConocoPhillips' 18% interest in the Dow Fort Saskatchewan facilities, consisting of a 30,000 bbls/d NGL processing facility and a storage facility for propane, butane and NGL mix. As part of the same transaction, Keyera also acquired an approximate 5% interest from ConocoPhillips in Rimbey Pipe Line Co. Ltd. in which Keyera already held an approximate 41% interest.

The Fund completed its initial public offering of 15,000,000 Units on May 30, 2003 at a price of $10.00 per Unit. On June 10, 2003, the Fund issued an additional 2,000,000 Units at the same price pursuant to the exercise of an over-allotment option granted to the underwriters in connection with this offering. The net proceeds were used by the Fund to indirectly acquire a 39.09% partnership interest in the Partnership from KEDCO. On April 1, 2004, the Fund completed a subsequent public offering of 15,617,000 Units at a price of $12.60 per Unit and used the net proceeds to indirectly acquire an additional 35.91% partnership interest of the Partnership from KEDCO.

On June 3, 2004, the Fund completed a third public offering of Units and Debentures, consisting of 9,325,000 Units at a price of $10.75 per Unit and 100,000 Debentures. On June 11, 2004, the Fund issued an additional 1,398,750 Units at a price of $10.75 per Unit pursuant to the exercise of an over-allotment option granted to the underwriters in connection with this third offering. The net proceeds were applied to acquire all of the shares of EnerPro Midstream Company from Chevron Canada Resources. Subsequent to such acquisition, EnerPro transferred all of its assets to the Partnership and its subsidiaries in exchange for a preferred partnership interest and a general partnership interest in the Partnership. This resulted in the Fund's indirect interest in the Partnership increasing to 82.56%.

On June 29, 2004, the Partnership acquired El Paso Velvet Processing Limited Partnership from certain wholly-owned subsidiaries of El Paso Corporation. The El Paso Velvet Limited Partnership owned the Caribou gas plant, a 40 mmcf/d sour gas plant located in northeastern British Columbia.

On December 2, 2004, the Fund completed a fourth offering of 10,872,333 Units at a price of $13.90 per Unit and used the net proceeds to indirectly acquire the remaining 17.44% partnership interest of the Partnership from KEDCO. Since the completion of this offering, the Fund has owned, directly or indirectly, 100% of both the Partnership and the Administrator.

Following the Fund's indirect acquisition of KEDCO's remaining partnership interest in the Partnership, the Fund changed its name from KeySpan Facilities Income Fund to Keyera Facilities Income Fund effective February 3, 2005. The Keyera name has been similarly adopted by the entities affiliated with the Fund. Also in 2005, the Fund adopted and implemented a Distribution Reinvestment and Optional Unit Purchase Plan (the "DRIP"). The DRIP provides participating Unitholders with the ability to reinvest their distributions and to invest additional funds on a monthly basis without payment of brokerage commissions or service charges. Only Canadian resident Unitholders may participate in the DRIP. (See "Distributions - The DRIP").

Keyera completed several acquisitions and internal growth projects in 2005. For example, Keyera acquired additional interests in the Strachan gas processing plant and related facilities and the Medicine River Pipeline (See "Business of Keyera - Facilities - Natural Gas Gathering and Processing Facilities") and completed construction of a new pipeline and the addition of new compression capacity at the Brazeau North gas plant, as well as the oil midstream facilities at the Edmonton Terminal and the Wabasca Area Pipelines. (See "Business of Keyera - Facilities"). In late 2005, Keyera incorporated a U.S. subsidiary, KEI to pursue additional marketing opportunities in the U.S.

Keyera expanded its presence in the U.S. in 2006 with the acquisition by KEI of three propane terminals from Texon LP. (See "Business of Keyera - Marketing"). These terminals are located near Vancouver, Washington, Albuquerque, New Mexico and Lordstown, Ohio. Other acquisitions made in 2006 included the acquisition of additional interests in the Medicine River Pipeline and the Rimbey Gull Lake Pipeline. In addition, growth capital projects completed in 2006 included a 25 mmcf/d capacity expansion at the Caribou gas plant, the construction of the Caribou North gas gathering system, the construction of a new brine pond at the Fort Saskatchewan facilities, the rail rack expansion at the Edmonton Terminal and the construction of the Aurora pipeline. (See "Business of Keyera – Facilities").

Recent Developments

Consistent with Keyera's strategy of increasing its ownership in key facilities, Keyera increased its ownership interest in the assets that had been held in Rimbey Pipeline Co. Ltd. to 100% in connection with the restructuring of the company and the related formation of Rimbey LP. (See "Description of the Structure of the Fund and Certain Subsidiaries – Reorganizations").

Other strategic acquisitions completed in 2007 included an 18 kilometre gas gathering pipeline and related assets in the North Trutch/Bougie area of north-east British Columbia which is adjacent to the north end of Keyera's Caribou North Pipeline, thereby expanding the capture area of the Caribou gas plant, and a 38 kilometre sales gas pipeline running northeast of the Brazeau River gas plant for use as a low-pressure sweet gas gathering pipeline. (See "Business of Keyera - Natural Gas Gathering and Processing Facilities"). The acquisition of these pipelines enhances Keyera's gathering systems in key areas around its facilities, allowing it to capture and tie in additional production.

Keyera also initiated several internal growth capital projects in 2007. Keyera announced a $26 million project to extract ethane from the raw gas processed at its Rimbey gas plant and completed some of the modifications at the plant to facilitate the project during the regularly scheduled turnaround completed in 2007. This project is currently working its way through the regulatory approval process. (See "Business of Keyera - Natural Gas Gathering and Processing Facilities"). Keyera also began construction on an expansion of the truck rack at its Fort Saskatchewan facility to enhance logistical and operational flexibility and announced plans to significantly expand NGL storage capacity at its Fort Saskatchewan facility by mining four new underground storage caverns and constructing a new brine pond over a five to six-year period. (See "Business of Keyera - NGL Infrastructure").

Another recent significant achievement was the signing of a long-term lease for a 30 kilometre pipeline between Keyera's facilities at Fort Saskatchewan and Edmonton. This is the fourth pipeline between these facilities and, once the tie-ins are completed, it will provide increased operational flexibility, enhance the services Keyera is able to offer its customers and contribute to Keyera's competitive advantage. (See "Business of Keyera - NGL Infrastructure").

Other notable developments in 2007 included the adoption of a Rights Plan and the completion of a private placement of long-term senior unsecured notes in the principal amount of $120 million, denominated in Canadian dollars, to a group of institutional investors in Canada and the U.S. The notes were issued in two tranches: $60 million due in 2017 bearing interest at 5.89% and $60 million due in 2022 bearing interest at 6.14%. (See "Capital Structure of the Fund - Unitholder Rights Plan" and "Other Information Related to Keyera's Business - Borrowing").

BUSINESS OF KEYERA

Overview

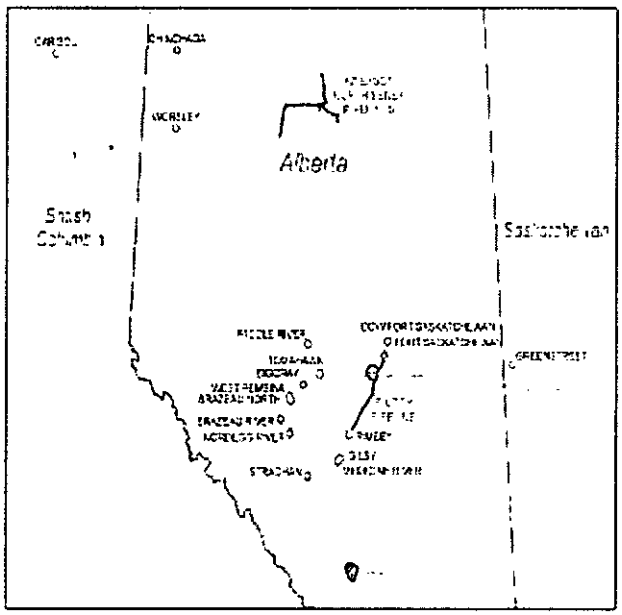
There are three sectors in the western Canadian natural gas industry, broadly defined as the "upstream", "midstream" and "downstream" sectors. The upstream sector involves exploration for and development and production of raw natural gas. In the midstream sector, the raw gas is gathered, processed, transported and marketed to the downstream sector. The downstream sector consists of end-use customers, wholesalers and local distributors across North America.

Keyera operates one of the largest natural gas midstream businesses in Canada. Midstream companies own raw gas pipelines and processing plants to gather and process the raw natural gas before it is injected into long-distance pipeline systems for transportation to end-use markets. The midstream sector also includes facilities for the processing, storage and transportation of the by-products of natural gas processing, including NGLs such as ethane, propane, butane and condensate.

Keyera's operations are conducted through three business segments: Gathering and Processing; NGL Infrastructure; and Marketing. The natural gas Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure segments are commonly referred to as the "facilities" component of Keyera's business. These segments provide gathering, processing, transportation and storage services. The Marketing segment is focused on marketing by-products recovered from the processing of raw gas, primarily NGLs, and crude oil midstream activities. Each of these segments is described in more detail below.

Natural Gas Gathering and Processing Facilities

Keyera has interests in 15 gas plants in western Canada, with 1,657 mmcf/d of licensed gross raw gas processing capacity (1,323 mmcf/d net to Keyera), of which 843 mmcf/d (51%) was utilized in 2007. Actual available raw gas processing capacity at these plants can be less than the licensed capacity. Each plant has a number of functional units, each of which performs one or more operations such as gas treating, NGL recovery and sulphur handling. Constraints on actual available capacity at each plant depend on the capacity of each of the functional units to handle additional volumes. The difference between licensed capacity and effective available capacity is likely to be more significant if current plant operating conditions or gas composition depart significantly from original plant design, gas composition specifications or operating conditions. Keyera also owns interests in over 2,600 kilometres of four to twelve inch diameter raw gas gathering pipelines that deliver raw gas to the gas plants for processing.



Over 95% of Keyera's gross processing capacity is located in the west-central and foothills areas of the western Canada sedimentary basin. In these areas, a number of natural gas producers are developing natural gas reserves. Natural gas produced from these areas is increasingly sour, often with significant amounts of NGLs. Over 90% of Keyera's processing capacity is at facilities that have the capability to process sour gas and to extract and ship NGLs. Some of these gas plants are interconnected by raw gas gathering pipelines, and opportunities exist for construction of other connecting pipelines. These pipelines allow raw gas to be directed to the gas plant best suited to process a particular type of gas. Collectively, these facilities constitute a network that is well positioned in the areas covered to serve drilling and production activity. Keyera's natural gas gathering and processing facilities are primarily held through the Partnership.

The assets in Keyera's Gathering and Processing segment were realigned into new business regions in 2007, the Foothills Region and the North Central Region. The Foothills Region consists of the Strachan, Brazeau River, Nordegg River, Paddle River, Bigoray, Brazeau North, West Pembina and Tomahawk gas plants and associated gathering pipelines. The North Central Region consists of the Rimbey, Gilby, Medicine River, Worsley, Caribou, Chinchaga, and Greenstreet plants and associated gathering pipelines. The North Star gas plant was sold in January 2008 to a third party. The realignment is reflected in the information below.

The following table summarizes key operating data characterizing Keyera's natural gas processing assets. Keyera operates all of the listed facilities other than Medicine River, which is operated by Penn West Petroleum Ltd.

Notes:

(1) Information in this table is presented as at December 31, 2007, and with respect to the entire gas plant (not only the Partnership's interest) and, except for the North Star gas plant, have been rounded to the nearest whole number.

(2) Use of utilization rates to estimate available raw gas processing capacity may be misleading as the ability of individual plant functional units, such as gas treating, NGL recovery or sulphur plant capacity, to handle additional raw gas volumes may become a limiting factor particularly if current plant operating conditions or gas composition depart significantly from original plant design operating conditions. Use of throughputs to estimate revenues may be misleading as Keyera charges different fees for gas streams with different compositions. The amount that Keyera charges for a specific service depends on the cost of that service and the competitive position of the specific plant.

(3) Keyera sold its interest in the North Star gas plant effective January 1, 2008.

Foothills Region

The Foothills Region business unit consists of eight gas processing plants together with their associated gathering systems. Together these eight gas plants have a gross raw gas processing capacity of 842 mmcf/d (631 mmcf/d net to Keyera) and gathering system pipelines of approximately 1,600 kilometres.

Strachan Gas Plant and Area Facilities

The Strachan gas plant, located approximately 200 kilometres southwest of Edmonton, Alberta, has the capability and flexibility to process a wide range of sweet and sour gas streams. The Partnership is the operator of the plant and all of the major gathering systems. Three major pipelines, Strachan North, Garrington Caroline and Burnt Timber/Ram River, are connected to the Strachan gas plant and allow the plant to attract sour gas from a 2,500 square kilometre area. There is also on-site storage for NGLs and condensate and connections to the Cochrane-Edmonton pipeline system (owned by BP Canada) to Edmonton and Fort Saskatchewan.

An NGL truck loading facility was constructed in 2003, which provides the option to transport NGLs to the Rimbey gas plant for NGL processing. In 2004, the Partnership completed the installation of equipment to capture waste heat off the sales gas compressor at the Strachan gas plant. This has reduced fuel gas consumption and increased sales gas yields for producers. In 2005, the Partnership acquired an additional 24.8% interest in the Strachan plant, as well as increased ownership interests in the sulphur priller and several gathering systems in the Strachan area. As part of this acquisition, the Partnership also entered into an agreement with the vendor to process the vendor's volumes utilizing the acquired capacity.

In 2006, a significant natural gas discovery well was tied into the Strachan gas plant. Because the gas from this well is high in H_2S, the second sulphur train at the Strachan plant was reactivated. As well, pipeline modifications began in late 2006 in order to accommodate the volume of water being delivered with these gas volumes. In February 2007, deliveries of gas from this discovery increased to rates exceeding 50 mmcf/d and averaged deliveries of 45 mmcf/d for the year. At these throughput levels, the sulphur handling facilities at the Strachan gas plant operated near their capacity. In 2007, construction of a new gathering pipeline connecting to Keyera's Strachan North pipeline was completed and is currently delivering raw gas from recently completed wells from a new capture area to the plant.

Brazeau River Gas Plant and Area Facilities

The Brazeau River gas plant, located approximately 170 kilometres southwest of Edmonton, Alberta, has the capability and flexibility to process a wide range of sweet and sour gas streams with varying levels of NGL content. The Partnership is the operator of the gas plant and three major gathering systems.

The plant has utilized acid gas injection to handle waste products from sour gas processing since 2001 and was able to increase inlet sulphur license capacity in 2005 from 400 tonnes/d to 466 tonnes/d. Since the start-up of the acid gas injection project, a significant Nisku sour gas and sour oil trend has been successfully drilled northeast of the Brazeau River gas plant.

In 2007, Keyera completed a scheduled maintenance turnaround at the Brazeau River gas plant. Keyera also initiated a project to construct a new gas gathering pipeline and associated plant facilities to capture sweet gas from a development evolving southwest of the plant. Construction is expected to be completed in the first quarter of 2008. Keyera also acquired a 38-kilometre, 8-inch sales gas pipeline running northeast of the plant for use as a low pressure sweet gas gathering pipeline.

Producer activity in the area served by the Brazeau River gas plant was relatively high in 2007 as a number of new wells were licensed. Raw gas delivered to the Brazeau River gas plant increased as sour Nisku gas from the Pembina region was delivered to the plant at increased and more sustained rates. As a result, the sour gas handling facilities at the Brazeau River gas plant have been operating at or near capacity. A second acid gas injection well was commissioned in February 2008 to replace the original reservoir which was nearing its volume limits. The second well provides the capacity necessary to accommodate the higher volumes of sour gas production being received at the plant.

Nordegg River Gas Plant and Area Facilities

The Nordegg River gas plant is located approximately 160 kilometres southwest of Edmonton, Alberta. The Partnership is the operator of the gas plant as well as the major gathering systems. During 2005, an expansion of the Sunchild north compressor was completed allowing previously shut in gas volumes to be delivered to the Nordegg gas plant for processing. In 2006, Keyera completed the construction of a new pipeline and inlet separator to capture existing standing gas west of the Nordegg River gas plant. In 2007, Keyera installed new inlet separation facilities to accommodate incremental sweet gas throughput from an area southwest of the plant. This new capture area continues to evolve and has been generating incremental throughput in 2008. The Nordegg River gas plant is scheduled for a maintenance turnaround in 2008.

Bigoray Gas Plant and Area Facilities

The Bigoray gas plant, located approximately 110 kilometres west of Edmonton, Alberta, offers a full range of gas processing services including sour gas processing, NGL recovery, acid gas injection and other related services. The Partnership is the operator of the gas plant. The majority of the third party gas entering the Bigoray gas plant is delivered by gas gathering systems 100% owned and operated by the Partnership.

In 2004, an expansion of the Bigoray gas plant was completed to accommodate incremental sour solution gas thereby increasing its sulphur inlet capacity from 44 tonnes/day to 65 tonnes/day. In 2007, Keyera completed a scheduled maintenance turnaround at the Bigoray gas plant and, in response to producer activity in the area, piping and equipment modifications were completed during the scheduled plant turnaround to provide for the future expansion of sour gas processing capability at the plant. Also completed during the turnaround was the installation of a new distributed control system designed to improve the operating reliability and flexibility of the plant.

Brazeau North and West Pembina Gas Plants and Area Facilities

The Brazeau North and West Pembina gas plants are operated as a gathering and processing complex due to their close proximity to one another and their overlapping gathering systems. There are numerous pipelines between the Brazeau North and West Pembina plants which allow for the offload of gas between the facilities. All of these facilities are operated by the Partnership. The Brazeau North gas plant, located approximately 140 kilometres southwest of Edmonton, Alberta, features propane refrigeration and the West Pembina gas plant, located approximately 7 kilometres northwest of the Brazeau North gas plant, features NGL recovery, acid gas injection and condensate stabilization.

In early 2005, a 10 kilometre gas pipeline was constructed and tied into the Brazeau North plant that provided for access to incremental gas volumes from a new capture area southeast of the plant. As a result of successful drilling activity in this area, additional compression capacity at the plant was installed in the fall of 2005 to accommodate the additional volumes. Additional piping and compression modifications at the Brazeau North and West Pembina plants were completed in 2006 resulting in an incremental 5 mmcf/d of raw gas throughput at those facilities. In 2007, Keyera completed a scheduled maintenance turnaround at the Brazeau North gas plant and successfully renegotiated a number of agreements, converting them from fixed-fee arrangements to flow-through operating cost arrangements.

Other Assets

The other assets included in the Foothills Region include the Paddle River and Tomahawk gas plants, together with their associated gathering systems. The Partnership is the operator of these gas plants and the major gathering systems. The Paddle River gas plant is an 81 mmcf/d sour gas plant located approximately 130 kilometres northwest of Edmonton, Alberta. Gas processing services at the plant include sour gas processing, deep cut natural gas liquids recovery, acid gas injection, NGL storage and other related services. Keyera completed modifications and tie-ins at the Paddle River gas plant in 2007 to accommodate the reprocessing of a nearby gas stream and enhance the NGL recovery efficiency of the facility. The Tomahawk gas plant, located approximately 70 kilometres west of Edmonton, Alberta, is a 16 mmcf/d sweet gas processing facility that offers gas processing services which include refrigeration, dehydration and compression.

The Foothills Region also has four oil batteries, three of which are associated with gas plants and one of which is a stand-alone facility. Keyera completed an asset swap in 2007 which resulted in Keyera increasing its ownership interest in the Easyford oil battery located in the Pembina region and disposing of its interest in a gathering system connected to a third party facility.

North Central Region

The North Central Region business unit consists of seven gas processing plants and associated gathering systems. Together these seven gas plants have a gross raw gas processing capacity of 815 mmcf/d (692 mmcf/d net to Keyera) and gathering system pipelines of approximately 1,000 kilometres.

Rimbey Gas Plant and Area Facilities

The Rimbey gas plant, located approximately 100 kilometres south of Edmonton, Alberta, has a capture area in excess of 4,600 square kilometres and offers a full range of gas processing services including inlet separation, compression, sour gas processing, NGL recovery, NGL fractionation, sulphur and carbon dioxide recovery and other related services. In addition to specification propane, butane and condensate, the plant also produces a special frac oil product, which is used for well servicing operations, and liquefied CO_2, which is used for well servicing and enhanced oil recovery.

Over the last several years, Keyera has been increasing its ownership interest in the Rimbey gas plant and related facilities. For example, in 2005 the Partnership increased its ownership interest in the Rimbey gas plant by 2.6% to 86%. As well, as a result of acquisitions in 2005 and 2006, the Partnership increased its ownership interest in the Medicine River pipeline by 46%, bringing its current ownership level to 87%, and with these acquisitions Keyera also became the operator of the pipeline. In 2006 Keyera also acquired an additional 50% interest in the Gull Lake pipeline, increasing its ownership to 100%.

As a result of active drilling in the area, throughput at the Rimbey gas plant increased significantly between 2003 and 2006. To handle the delivery of new raw gas volumes, two new inlet compressors were installed in 2006. In 2007, Keyera completed construction of a new condensate truck loading facility providing additional truck loading capacity and increased flexibility in the marketing of condensate. (See "Business of Keyera – NGL Infrastructure"). Keyera also added compression at the plant in 2007 for the Gull Lake pipeline allowing the pipeline to operate at lower pressures and accept gas from additional low-pressure wells for delivery to the Rimbey gas plant.

Keyera has announced a proposed project to extract ethane from the raw gas processed at the Rimbey gas plant. Some plant modifications for the project were completed in connection with the plant's scheduled maintenance turnaround that was completed in 2007. The project is currently awaiting regulatory approval and, if approved, will involve modifications of the existing natural gas liquids extraction process, the installation of new compression equipment and the construction of a 32 kilometre pipeline to deliver approximately 5,000 barrels per day of ethane, most of which will be incremental supply in Alberta.

Caribou Gas Plant and Area Facilities

The Caribou gas plant is located approximately 170 kilometres northwest of Ft. St. John, British Columbia. Plant facilities include inlet separation, gas sweetening, NGL recovery, condensate stabilization and acid gas injection. The Partnership owns 100% of the plant as well as one of the four gas gathering systems which delivers gas to the plant. Since purchasing the Plant in 2004, the Partnership has increased the volume of gas processed at the plant from 18 mmcf/d to 53 mmcf/d.

The increase in throughput at the Caribou gas plant has been achieved in part by strategically expanding the capture area. For example, in early 2006, Keyera constructed the Caribou North gas gathering system, a 48 kilometre, 6 inch diameter pipeline serving an area north of the plant. The completion of this gathering system, which is 85% owned by the Partnership, increased the capture area of the Caribou gas plant by approximately 1,000 square kilometres. Three producer owned compressor sites were tied into this gathering system in 2006. To accommodate these additional gas volumes, the Partnership applied for and received regulatory approval to expand the licensed capacity at the plant from 40 mmcf/d to 65 mmcf/d and completed modifications to the plant to facilitate the expanded processing capacity during a scheduled maintenance turnaround in 2006.

Initiatives to increase throughput at the Caribou gas plant have continued through 2007, with the completion of an extension of the Caribou North gathering system across Trutch Creek, the acquisition of an 18 kilometre gas gathering pipeline and related assets in the North Trutch/Bougie area near the north end of the system and the announcement of a further 23 kilometre extension of the system into the Bougie area. Once work is completed on the 23 kilometre extension and the recently acquired pipeline is tied in, Keyera will have significantly expanded the capture area of the plant in this prospective area.

Gilby Area Gas Plants and Facilities

The facilities in the Gilby area include the Gilby gas plant operated by Keyera and the Medicine River gas plant operated by Penn West Petroleum Ltd.

The Gilby gas plant is a 71 mmcf/d sour gas processing facility located approximately 140 kilometres southwest of Edmonton, Alberta, with the capability to produce specification propane, butane and condensate. In early 2006, Keyera completed the Aurora pipeline, a 20 kilometre, 6 inch diameter gas pipeline, extending the reach of the plant into an area west of the plant that has seen increased drilling activity. The Medicine River gas plant is a 64 mmcf/d sour gas plant located approximately 8 kilometres from the Gilby gas plant. This plant completed a scheduled maintenance turnaround in 2007.

Other Assets

The other assets included in the North Central Region are the Chinchaga, Worsley and Greenstreet gas plants, together with their associated gathering systems, as well as the Gregg Lake - Obed Pipeline.

The Chinchaga gas plant is located approximately 550 kilometres northwest of Edmonton, Alberta. Plant facilities include inlet separation, inlet compression, gas sweetening, dehydration and propane refrigeration. The related Chinchaga – Cranberry oil pipeline is the primary conduit for oil and condensate out of the region. Keyera completed a scheduled maintenance turnaround of the plant in the last half of 2006.

The Worsley gas plant is located approximately 400 kilometres northwest of Edmonton, Alberta,. Gas processing services at the plant include dehydration, gas sweetening, refrigeration and sales gas compression. The Greenstreet gas plant, located approximately 20 kilometres northeast of Lloydminster, Saskatchewan, offers gas processing services including dehydration and compression. Keyera completed a scheduled maintenance turnaround on the Greenstreet gas plant in 2007.

The Gregg Lake - Obed Pipeline is a 129 kilometre sour gas pipeline consisting of 8 inch, 10 inch and 12 inch segments originating in the Salomon area near Hinton, Alberta located 250 kilometres west of Edmonton, Alberta. The Partnership is a 36% owner in the pipeline, which is connected to the Kaybob 3 gas plant. Both the pipeline and plant are operated by SemCAMS (formerly Central Alberta Midstream Services). In 2007, SemCAMS completed construction of a lateral pipeline feeding the Gregg Lake - Obed Pipeline in order to tie in a significant gas discovery made in early 2006. Production from this discovery began feeding into the pipeline in mid 2007, averaging 21 mmcf/d since that time.

NGL Infrastructure

Keyera owns extensive NGL infrastructure consisting of pipelines, processing, storage facilities and rail and truck loading/offloading facilities primarily located in the Edmonton - Fort Saskatchewan area of Alberta and extending down the Rimbey corridor. Keyera's NGL infrastructure assets include: 1) NGL processing, storage, truck and rail facilities at the Rimbey gas plant; 2) NGL processing, truck and rail facilities at the Gilby gas plant; 3) the Fort Saskatchewan facilities, which include NGL processing, storage and truck facilities as well as pipeline connections to the Edmonton Terminal; 4) the Dow Fort Saskatchewan facilities, which include a de-ethanizer, NGL processing and storage facilities; 5) the Edmonton Terminal, which includes storage, truck and rail facilities as well as pipeline connections; 6) Rimbey Pipeline, an NGL pipeline connecting the Rimbey gas plant and other facilities to the Edmonton Terminal; 7) the Wabasca Area Pipelines, which include two conventional crude oil pipelines, the Wabasca River Pipeline and North Senex Pipeline; and 8) the Judy Creek NGL Pipeline, operated by Imperial Oil connecting Judy Creek gas plant to the COED Pipeline. Keyera believes that this strategic NGL infrastructure enhances the competitive advantage of some of its gathering and processing services. Further, Keyera believes that the integrated network of facilities, from Rimbey/Gilby to Edmonton/Fort Saskatchewan, creates opportunities for its NGL marketing business.

The Edmonton/Fort Saskatchewan hub is one of four key NGL marketing hubs in North America. A significant portion of the NGL production from Alberta raw gas processing plants is delivered into the Edmonton/Fort Saskatchewan area via several NGL gathering systems. This hub is a major supply point for NGLs for use in the petrochemical and refining industries. It is also the starting point for two major NGL export pipelines extending to key markets in the U.S. Midwest and Ontario. Keyera's large underground storage caverns at Fort Saskatchewan allow NGLs to be stored in summer months to meet the traditional winter season demand for propane and butane.

Several major oil sands projects are in production or slated for development over the next decade in northern Alberta. Assuming these projects continue to proceed as planned, it is anticipated that future demand for condensate as a diluent will be strong and that a significant portion of the production from these projects will be delivered to the Edmonton/Fort Saskatchewan area for upgrading before being delivered to customers across North America. This is expected to result in an increase in demand for storage and logistics services in the Fort Saskatchewan area. Keyera's facilities, located in close proximity to two major crude oil pipeline terminals and two major oil refineries, are well situated and can provide these additional logistics services.

Keyera has a total net NGL processing capacity of 65,170 bbls/d and total net storage capacity of 7,187,000 bbls. Certain key operating data are presented below:

Facility	Ownership Interest (%)	Operator	Gross Capacity (bbls/d)[1]	Net Capacity (bbls/d)[1]

Rimbey and Gilby Gas Plants

The Rimbey gas plant NGL assets include a 31,500 bbls/d NGL processor, storage, truck loading and offloading facilities and a rail terminal. The rail terminal has a capacity of 13,750 bbls/d and provides the Partnership with the ability to direct propane and butane to markets throughout North America. An NGL and condensate truck facility was constructed in 2001 to accept delivery of NGL mix for processing and transport to market through Keyera facilities. NGL products can be shipped from Rimbey by truck, by rail, or through the Rimbey Pipeline to Fort Saskatchewan. This flexible access to high-value NGL markets is a competitive advantage for the Rimbey gas plant and for Keyera's NGL marketing business.

The Gilby gas plant NGL facilities include a 3,200 bbls/d NGL processor, storage, truck loading/offloading facilities and a rail terminal. Propane and butane are shipped from Gilby by truck and by rail.

Fort Saskatchewan Facilities

The Fort Saskatchewan facilities are operated by KEFL and include a 30,200 bbls/d NGL processing plant, storage facilities and three pipelines connecting to the Edmonton Terminal. The NGL processing plant receives NGL feedstock from various sources and splits the NGL mix into saleable products. The storage facilities consist of underground storage caverns and above ground tanks that hold NGL feedstock and NGL processed products. The pipeline system transports NGLs to and from the Fort Saskatchewan facilities, as well as to and from other NGL processing and storage facilities and customers in the Fort Saskatchewan area.

At the plant, NGL mix is processed into marketable propane, butane and condensate products. The facility's NGL processing capacity represents approximately 19% of the current NGL processing capacity in the Edmonton/Fort Saskatchewan area. The total storage capacity of this facility, 8.9 million barrels in 10 underground caverns, represents approximately 40% of the total NGL storage capacity in the Edmonton/Fort Saskatchewan area and 100% of the underground condensate storage capacity. This capacity allows propane, butane and condensate to be stored when demand is lower (typically during the summer months) and sold when demand is higher (typically in the winter months). In 2005, Keyera entered into multi-year storage contracts to complement the many short term storage arrangements that are negotiated on an ongoing basis. (See "Other Information Relating to Keyera's Business - NGL Infrastructure Contracts").

Construction of a new brine pond at the Fort Saskatchewan Facility was completed in 2006. This new pond increased the brine storage capacity at the Fort Saskatchewan Facility by 3.9 million barrels and facilitates higher deliverability and utilization of the existing storage caverns.

In 2007 Keyera announced plans to expand storage capacity for condensate, propane and butane at its NGL processing and storage facility in Fort Saskatchewan by 3 million barrels over a five to six-year period. Plans for the overall project include the mining of four new underground storage caverns and the construction of a new brine pond. Site preparation for the first cavern started in the fourth quarter of 2007 and, if construction proceeds as planned, it is expected to be operational by the fourth quarter of 2009. Keyera also began construction on an expansion of the truck rack at the Fort Saskatchewan facility in 2007. This expansion, which is expected to be operational in the second quarter of 2008, will increase Keyera's operational flexibility and provide enhanced product loading services.

Another new development affecting the Fort Saskatchewan facilities was the successful negotiation of a long-term lease for a fourth pipeline between these facilities and the Edmonton Terminal. Once tie-ins are completed, the new pipeline is expected to offer greater operational flexibility by allowing Keyera to more easily direct the flow of condensate, propane, butane, and NGL mix in either direction between these two locations. As utilization of storage capacity increases, the additional pipeline capacity will increase the rates at which products can be moved in and out of the 10 storage caverns at the Fort Saskatchewan facility.

Dow Fort Saskatchewan Facilities

KEFL owns an 18% interest in the Dow Fort Saskatchewan facilities, consisting of a 30,000 bbls/d NGL processing facility and an NGL storage facility. As a result of the acquisition of EnerPro, KEFL also owns a 10% interest in the Dow Fort Saskatchewan de-ethanizer, which has a capacity of 69,200 bbls/d.

Rimbey Pipeline and Edmonton Terminal Facilities

Rimbey Pipeline is a 110 kilometre pipeline carrying propane, butane and condensate from the Rimbey gas plant northward to Keyera's Edmonton Terminal. The Rimbey Pipeline is also connected to three Edmonton area oil refineries, as well as NGL processing and storage facilities in the Fort Saskatchewan area. The Edmonton Terminal is a terminalling and logistics facility that is connected to the Rimbey Pipeline, as well as multiple other third party pipelines and NGL markets. These connections make the Edmonton Terminal a distribution hub for propane, butane and condensate in the Edmonton/Fort Saskatchewan area. Both the Rimbey Pipeline and the Edmonton Terminal are owned and operated by Rimbey LP.

In the third quarter of 2006, a new rail facility was commissioned at the Edmonton Terminal, allowing for the loading and offloading of up to 10,000 bpd of condensate. In 2007, Keyera completed construction of a new condensate truck loading facility. This facility provides additional truck loading capacity and enhances Keyera's flexibility with respect to marketing condensate in regional markets. The Edmonton Terminal also features propane treating and propane and butane storage and is used in Keyera's crude oil midstream activities. (See "Business of Keyera - Marketing – Crude Oil Midstream"). The Edmonton Terminal is connected to Keyera's Fort Saskatchewan facilities by four pipelines, providing access to additional storage capacity and operational flexibility. With additional heavy oil and bitumen projects planned in northern Alberta, Keyera's NGL infrastructure at the Edmonton Terminal is well positioned to take advantage of increased demand for condensate, diluent and other products.

Other Assets

The other assets included in the NGL Infrastructure business unit are the Wabasca Area Oil Pipelines and the Judy Creek NGL Pipeline.

Located approximately 450 kilometres north of Edmonton, Alberta, the Wabasca Area Oil Pipelines include the Wabasca River Pipeline and the North Senex Pipeline, both operated by the Partnership. Both pipelines transport conventional crude oil from the East Peace River Arch area of Northern Alberta to a connection point on the Rainbow Pipeline at Evi, Alberta. The system consists of 80 kilometres of 4 inch and 6 inch gathering pipelines as well as 110 kilometres of 8 inch trunkline.

The Judy Creek NGL Pipeline is a 190 kilometre pipeline running from the Judy Creek gas plant to the COED Pipeline, which is five kilometres south of Edmonton, Alberta. The Partnership is a 19% owner in the pipeline which is operated by Imperial Oil.

Marketing

The marketing business is focused on the marketing of products associated with Keyera's facilities, including NGLs, crude oil and sulphur. Keyera markets products acquired through processing arrangements, term supply agreements and other purchase transactions. The marketing business has grown significantly, gaining competitive advantage from Keyera's integrated network of processing, storage, pipeline, truck, rail and terminal facilities.

NGL Marketing

Keyera's marketing business is conducted primarily through the Partnership and KEI. NGL volumes are purchased either as NGL mix or as specification propane, butane and condensate, normally under one-year contracts. These volumes are purchased at the gas plant gate, at truck and rail terminals or in NGL gathering pipelines. The Partnership also acquires NGL volumes through raw gas purchase arrangements and by retaining ownership of some NGLs produced from the raw gas at the Partnership's gas plants. At the Edmonton/Fort Saskatchewan hub, NGL supply can be acquired through purchases or exchanges. The NGL business is underpinned by two long-term supply arrangements that provide a base of NGL supply. The most significant of these is the long-term supply arrangement with ConocoPhillips which expires in 2018. (See "Business of Keyera - Business Arrangements - ConocoPhillips Arrangements" and "Risk Factors – Risks Inherent in Keyera's Business – Reliance on Principal Customers"). The other agreement, which was entered into in connection with the EnerPro acquisition, was set to expire in 2007 but has been extended until 2009.

When Keyera acquires NGL mix, it is fractionated into specification products at Keyera's facilities or, in some instances, at third party facilities. Keyera believes that the integration of its gathering, processing and NGL infrastructure with its marketing business will continue to provide opportunities to purchase NGL supply volumes. The main specification product markets in which Keyera participates are propane, butane and condensate. Propane is generally used for heating, butane is used to support western Canadian crude oil production and gasoline blending, and condensate is largely used as a diluent to enable heavy crude oil to flow in pipelines. The NGL specification products may be temporarily stored or delivered immediately to end use markets for resale. As demand for NGLs, particularly propane, tends to be seasonal, Keyera often builds an inventory over the non-winter months, utilizing the storage capacity at the Fort Saskatchewan facilities, for sales in the winter months when demand is traditionally higher. In 2007, the Partnership marketed an average of 50,800 bbls/d of NGLs.

KEI's activities grew significantly in 2006 following its acquisition of three propane terminals in the U.S. and the associated propane marketing contracts. From the time of this acquisition in June 2006 through the end of 2006, KEI marketed an average of 1,950 bbls/d of NGLs. KEI continued to expand its propane marketing business in 2007, marketing an average of 3,702 bbls/d of NGLs and acquiring a fourth propane terminal in Montana. The addition of these four terminals to KEI's asset base has allowed Keyera to expand its NGL marketing business in key propane markets in the U.S., thereby vertically integrating its business, diversifying its geographic markets and expanding its customer base.

Keyera manages its supply and sales portfolio by monitoring its inventory position and its purchase and sale commitments, as well as by actively participating in other hub markets such as those in Mt. Belvieu, Texas and Conway, Kansas. Nevertheless, the marketing business is exposed to commodity price fluctuations arising between the time contracted volumes are purchased and the time they are sold, as well as fluctuations in the margins between purchase prices and sales prices and other risks that affect price and supply - demand trends. Keyera manages a portion of its price risk by using financial contracts, such as energy-related forward sales, price swaps, physical exchanges and options, and by offsetting some of its physical and financial contracts in terms of volumes, timing of performance and delivery obligations. Notwithstanding Keyera's management of price and volume risk, marketing margins for NGLs may vary significantly from period to period. (See "Risk Factors - Risks Inherent in Keyera's Business - Market Risk and Marketing Activities").

Crude Oil Midstream

Crude oil activities make up a growing part of Keyera's business. In its crude oil midstream activities, the Partnership operates facilities at various locations in Alberta that allow it to process, transport, blend and sell crude oil. A significant proportion of these activities are undertaken as joint ventures. These activities are underpinned by multi-year contracts pursuant to which Keyera obtains access to various crude oil streams and is dependent on continuing access to these streams. (See "Risk Factors and Risk Management Strategies - Risks Inherent in Keyera's Business - Reliance on Principal Customers and Suppliers" and "Risk Factors and Risk Management Strategies - Risks Inherent in Keyera's Business - Reliance on Other Facilities").

Crude oil margins are earned by capturing spreads between different qualities of crude oil and are exposed to volatility in price differentials between various crude oil streams. Keyera manages this risk exposure by trying to balance purchases and sales and locking in margins. Notwithstanding Keyera's management of price and quality risk, marketing margins for crude oil can vary significantly from period to period. (See "Risk Factors and Risk Management Strategies - Risks Inherent in Keyera's Business - Market Risk and Marketing Activities").

OTHER INFORMATION RELATING TO KEYERA'S BUSINESS

Business Arrangements

Gathering and Processing Contracts

Natural gas producers who transport and process natural gas through facilities in which Keyera owns an interest have entered into gathering and processing contracts with Keyera or its predecessors. Such contracts outline the services to be provided to the producers, the terms and conditions relating to the provision of such services and the fee structure associated with gathering and processing the producers' natural gas.

Generally, the types of gathering and processing contracts can be categorized as either "interruptible-service contracts" or "firm-service contracts" as follows:

(a) Interruptible-service contracts — Service is available only if the applicable facilities have capacity after all firm-service contracts have been satisfied and Keyera elects to make capacity available to the gas producer. Each contract specifies the producer's processing priority and efforts are made to process each interruptible-service customer's gas production. When capacity is limited, however, processing priority determines the apportioning of available capacity, with first preference to firm-service contracts.

(b) Firm-service contracts — Service is not subject to interruption by Keyera except in circumstances beyond Keyera's control. Generally, no other service contract has a higher priority or claim to a facility's capacity than a firm-service contract. These contracts often contain dedication of reserves provisions under which the producer agrees to deliver all gas produced from specified reserves to a facility.

Typically such gathering and processing contracts are further categorized according to their term:

(a) Evergreen contracts — These agreements continue in force until terminated by either party upon prior notice, generally between three and six months.

(b) Long-term contracts — These agreements remain in force for a period of three years or more or where the term of the contract is defined by the life of natural gas reserves dedicated to the facility.

Interruptible service, evergreen contracts represented approximately 63% of aggregate throughput at Keyera's facilities during 2007.

NGL Infrastructure Contracts

Customers who utilize Keyera's NGL infrastructure for transportation, processing or storage of NGLs enter into service contracts with Keyera on a fee-for-service basis. Such contracts outline the services to be provided, the terms and conditions relating to the provision of such services and the associated fee structure. Generally, the NGL service contracts can be categorized as interruptible service contracts or firm service contracts, similar to the natural gas gathering and processing contracts. The term of NGL transportation, processing and storage contracts is typically one year; however Keyera has also entered into some multi-year transportation and storage contracts. (See "Risk Factors – Risks Inherent in Keyera's Business – Reliance on Principal Customers")

Fee Methodologies

Most of Keyera's facilities business is conducted on a fee-for-service basis. Keyera charges a fee to its customers for transportation, processing and storage services. The fees are based on either a flow-through operating cost structure or a fixed fee methodology. Both methodologies are widely accepted by industry participants. Keyera has flexibility to tailor the fees it charges depending on market conditions. The fees can also be tailored to meet different levels of service depending on a customer's requirements. In general, firm service attracts a higher fee than does interruptible service. In the case of gas processing fees, the fee is usually based on the composition of the raw gas stream being processed. Processing fees tend to be higher for sour gas than for sweet gas.

(a) Flow-Through Operating Cost — This type of fee is comprised of a capital component and a flow-through operating component. The capital component is generally a function of the replacement cost of Keyera's capital invested in the facility, while the operating component is a pro rata share of the operating costs for the facility calculated based on total throughput. There is generally lower risk to Keyera with this fee structure than with a fixed fee since the intent is that operating costs will generally be flowed through to customers. Revenue from the capital component of these fees may vary depending on throughput volume and the competitive position of the facility. Of Keyera's natural gas gathering and processing revenue in 2007, approximately 84% was derived from contracts based on a flow-through operating cost structure.

(b) Fixed fee — This type of fee is comprised of a fixed charge per unit transported or processed. While a fixed fee gives customers certainty in their per unit cost, Keyera risks not fully recovering its capital and operating costs. However, Keyera has the opportunity to increase revenues in times of increasing utilization because, unlike a flow-through operating cost fee structure, the per unit cost to customers does not fall with greater utilization. In general, service contracts that include a fixed fee with a term greater than one year also include fixed fee escalation provisions. Of Keyera's natural gas gathering and processing revenue in 2007, approximately 16% was derived from fixed fees, while virtually all of the NGL processing, storage and transportation revenue is derived from fixed fees.

Revenue Allocation

Fee revenues collected for services performed by a gas plant or NGL processing facility are allocated to facility owners in one of three ways:

(a) Excess capacity method —Facility owners receive a share of third party fee revenue based on their share of unutilized capacity of the facility. Owners who are using more than their proportionate share of capacity generally pay an "owner over-usage fee" which is also allocated using the same method.

(b) Working interests method — All producers bringing production to or through the facility pay a fee. The total fee revenue collected at the facility is then allocated to the owners based on the working interest they hold in the facility.

(c) Unique arrangements — One example is a method where each owner in the facility has exclusive access to its owned capacity and each owner is entitled to 100% of the revenue derived from use of such capacity. Keyera negotiates fees charged to third parties for the transportation, processing and storage capacity utilized.

ConocoPhillips Arrangements

Under agreements that expire on December 1, 2018, ConocoPhillips is required to deliver certain current and new production from specific areas surrounding twelve of the Partnership's gas plants to those plants for processing, subject to commercially competitive terms. The Partnership is required to process such production in priority to certain third party production and to provide ConocoPhillips with a preferential right to contract for processing capacity on a firm basis, subject to commercially competitive terms. In 2007, natural gas processed by the Partnership for ConocoPhillips accounted for approximately 15% of the Partnership's natural gas gathering and processing revenue.

Under agreements that expire on December 1, 2018, the Partnership purchases essentially all of ConocoPhillips' NGLs produced at natural gas processing plants in western Canada. The price for these NGLs is calculated using recognized price indices. These NGLs accounted for approximately 13% of Keyera's NGL supply volumes in 2007.

Borrowing

Keyera has established credit facilities consisting of a $150 million committed unsecured revolving term facility that matures on April 21, 2010 and $30 million of unsecured revolving demand facilities. These credit facilities bear interest based on the lenders' rates for Canadian prime commercial loans, U.S. base rate loans, Libor loans or Bankers' Acceptances rates. As of December 31, 2007 there were no drawings under these Credit Facilities.

The bank credit facilities contain a covenant that Keyera will not distribute in any twelve month period more than 105% of the distributable cash flow attributable to that twelve month period. For the year ended December 31, 2007, Keyera distributed 66% of its distributable cash flow, using the definitions in the bank credit facilities. These facilities are also subject to two major financial covenants: "Debt to EBITDA" and "Debt to Capitalization". The calculation for each ratio is based on specific definitions, is not in accordance with GAAP and cannot be readily replicated by referring to the Fund's financial statements. The definitions in the credit agreements provide for the deduction of net working capital items in the calculation of debt. The following are the ratios as calculated in accordance with the covenants as at December 31, 2007:

Debt to EBITDA not to exceed 3.50	1.59
Debt to Capitalization not to exceed 0.55	0.26

Keyera has $335 million of long-term senior unsecured notes as follows: $20 million bearing interest at 5.42% and maturing in August 2008; $90 million bearing interest at 5.23% and maturing in October 2009; $52.5 million bearing interest at 5.79% and maturing in August 2010; $52.5 million bearing interest at 6.155% and maturing in August 2013; $60 million bearing interest at 5.89% and maturing in December 2017; and $60 million bearing interest at 6.14% and maturing in December 2022. These notes are subject to three major financial covenants: "Consolidated Debt to Consolidated EBITDA", "Consolidated EBITDA to Consolidated Interest Charges" and "Priority Debt to Consolidated Total Assets".

The calculations for each of these ratios are based on specified definitions. The following are the ratios calculated in accordance with the covenants as at December 31, 2007 for the notes maturing in 2008, 2009, 2010 and 2013:

Covenant	Position as at December 31, 2007
Debt to EBITDA not to exceed 3.5	2.14
EBITDA to Interest Charges not less than 3.0	10.90
Priority Debt to Total Assets not to exceed 15%	0%

The following are the ratios calculated in accordance with the covenants as at December 31, 2007 for the notes maturing in 2017 and 2022:

Covenant	Position as at December 31, 2007
Debt to EBITDA not to exceed 5.0	1.42
EBITDA to Interest Charges not less than 2.0	8.35
Priority Debt to Total Assets not to exceed 15%	0%

Management expects that upon maturity of the credit facilities, adequate replacement facilities will be established.

Decommissioning, Abandonment and Reclamation Costs

Keyera incurs certain decommissioning, abandonment and reclamation costs each year in connection with its natural gas gathering and processing and NGL processing, transportation and storage operations. These costs can include items such as groundwater monitoring programs, soil remediation and decommissioning of unutilized equipment, all of which help Keyera monitor and proactively manage its environmental liability. These costs are included as part of the respective facility operating expenses and are fully recovered from customers as part of the operating fee charged where flow-through-operating-cost fee structures are in place. This treatment of current environmental costs does not, however, provide for recovery of end-of-life decommissioning costs expected after a facility is permanently decommissioned. An estimate of end-of-life decommissioning costs is included in the asset retirement obligation recorded in Keyera's financial statements. However, it is not possible to predict these costs with certainty since they will be a function of regulatory requirements at the time of decommissioning, abandonment and reclamation. (See "Risk Factors and Risk Management Strategies – Risks Inherent in Keyera's Business – Decommissioning, Abandonment and Reclamation Costs").

Competition

Each of the Partnership's gas plants is subject to competition from other gas processing plants which are either in the same general vicinity or have gathering systems that are or could potentially extend into geographic regions served by Keyera's facilities. Keyera's pipelines, storage, terminal and NGL processing facilities are also subject to competition from other similar facilities in such regions. The NGL marketing business of Keyera competes directly with other gas products marketing businesses and may also compete with businesses offering alternative fuel and feedstock sources. (See "Risk Factors – Risks Inherent in Keyera's Business - Competition").

Employees and Labour Relations

Keyera employs approximately 425 personnel in its operations. Approximately 45 employees employed by Keyera at the Rimbey gas plant are represented by Gas and Oil Union Local 504 and approximately 36 employees employed by Keyera at the Strachan gas plant are represented by Gas and Oil Union Local 507. These unions are separate bargaining units and are not associated with any national or international union. The current collective agreement for employees at the Strachan gas plant expires on December 31, 2011. The collective agreement for employees at the Rimbey gas plant expired on December 31, 2007 and Keyera is currently engaged in negotiations to renew the agreement. There has never been a labour-related work stoppage at any of the facilities. (See "Risk Factors and Risk Management Strategies – Risks Inherent in Keyera's Business – Employees and Contractors").

Foreign Markets and Operations

As part of its NGL marketing activities, Keyera markets NGLs in the United States, including hub markets such as Mt. Belvieu, Texas and Conway, Kansas. These marketing activities are conducted in part through the Partnership and in part through Keyera's U.S. subsidiary, KEI. KEI, which has an office in Houston, Texas, commenced operations in late 2005 and over the last two years has expanded its U.S. presence through the acquisition of propane terminals in Vancouver, Washington, Albuquerque, New Mexico, Lordstown, Ohio and Superior, Montana. Because pricing of NGLs in Canadian markets is influenced by pricing and markets in the U.S., Keyera's Canadian marketing business is affected by trends in the U.S. (See "Risk Factors – Risks Inherent in Keyera's Business – Foreign Operations").

CODE OF BUSINESS CONDUCT

Keyera is committed to conducting business ethically and legally. Directors, officers, employees, contractors and consultants are expected not only to comply with all applicable laws and regulations, but also to avoid situations where their personal interests conflict or appear to conflict with their duties and responsibilities to the Fund and its affiliates.

The Board of Directors has adopted a Code of Business Conduct which applies to all directors, employees and officers of the Fund and its affiliates. In support of the adoption and implementation of the Code of Business Conduct, Keyera has approved specific business conduct policies and procedures covering various matters. Directors, officers, employees and consultants are required to comply with these policies and procedures. Keyera's Insider Trading Procedure is one example of the policies and procedures that have been adopted. This procedure prescribes blackout periods and outlines the circumstances in which Keyera's directors, officers, employees and consultants will be restricted or prohibited from trading in Units or other securities. In accordance with this procedure, directors, officers and certain other employees and consultants are required to notify and obtain the permission of the Chief Financial Officer before buying or selling any Units.

An education program for employees was adopted in conjunction with the rollout of the Code of Business Conduct and the business conduct policies in 2005 and this training program continues to form the basis for the education of new employees. All employees are required to certify that they have reviewed the business conduct policies. In addition, employees are periodically asked to confirm their understanding of the business conduct policies and that they have complied with such policies.

In conjunction with the Code of Business Conduct, the Board of Directors has also established a whistleblower hotline to provide a forum for employees, officers, contractors and consultants who have reason to believe that something may have been done illegally or contrary to Keyera policy to report these concerns to a neutral third party on a confidential basis for investigation. Quarterly reports from the whistleblower hotline are provided to the Audit Committee. The Code of Business Conduct is available on SEDAR at www.sedar.com and on the Fund's website at www.keyera.com. Copies may also be obtained from the Director, Investor Relations of the Administrator at 600, 144 – 4th Avenue S.W., Calgary, Alberta T2P 3N4.

INFORMATION CONCERNING THE FUND, THE TRUSTEE AND THE ADMINISTRATOR

The following contains a summary of certain material attributes and characteristics of the relationship between the Fund, the Trustee and the Administrator. This summary does not purport to be exhaustive and readers are referred to the Fund Declaration of Trust for the full text of its provisions. The Fund Declaration of Trust is available on the Keyera website at www.keyera.com and on SEDAR at www.sedar.com.

Powers of the Trustee and Delegation to the Administrator

Fund Declaration of Trust

In conjunction with the amendments to the Fund Declaration of Trust in 2005, Computershare Trust Company of Canada was appointed as the Trustee of the Fund. The Trustee is responsible for supervising and managing the affairs of the Fund. The Fund Declaration of Trust provides that, subject to its terms and conditions, the Trustee has full, absolute and exclusive power, control and authority over the Fund's assets and over the affairs of the Fund to the same extent as if the Trustee was the sole and absolute legal and beneficial owner of the Fund's assets. Within the Fund Declaration of Trust, the Trustee has delegated to the Administrator all of the power, authority and responsibility to effect the actual administration and fulfilment of the duties of the Trustee under the Fund Declaration of Trust. Some specific examples of the powers granted to the Trustee and delegated to the Administrator pursuant to the Fund Declaration of Trust include the power and authority to:

- supervise the activities and manage the investments and conduct the affairs of the Fund;

- effect payment of distributions to Unitholders as provided in the Fund Declaration of Trust;
- prepare and approve any disclosure document required under applicable securities legislation;
- prepare and approve and provide to the Unitholders annual audited and interim unaudited financial statements of the Fund;
- attend to all matters in relation to future offerings, the issuance of Units, securities exchangeable into Units or other rights, warrants, options or other securities convertible into or exchangeable for Units, for such consideration as the Trustee may deem appropriate in its sole discretion, such issuance to be subject to the terms and conditions of the Fund Declaration of Trust, and all matters in relation to redemption of Units;
- approve the adoption of a Unitholder rights protection plan from time to time;
- invest funds of the Fund as provided in the Fund Declaration of Trust;
- where reasonably required, engage or employ on behalf of the Fund any persons as agents, representatives, administrators, employees or independent contractors in one or more capacities;
- enter into or perform the obligations of the Fund under and in respect of any and all agreements to which the Fund becomes a party including, but not limited to, the Administration Agreement;
- without limit as to amount, issue any type of debt securities or convertible debt securities and borrow money or incur any other form of indebtedness for the purpose of carrying out the purposes of the Fund or for other expenses incurred in connection with the Fund and enter into hedging arrangements with respect thereto and for such purposes execute and issue promissory notes and other evidences of indebtedness, secure the payment of sums so borrowed or indebtedness incurred or engage in any other means of financing the Fund, and grant security, in any form, over any or all of the Fund's assets to secure any or all of the obligations of the Fund including its obligations under any guarantee;
- guarantee the obligations of any direct or indirect subsidiary of the Fund pursuant to any debt for borrowed money or other obligation incurred by such entity in good faith for the purpose of carrying on its business, and pledging securities and other property owned by the Fund as security for such guarantee; and
- do all such other acts and things as are incidental to or related to the foregoing, and exercise all powers which are necessary or useful to carry on the purpose and activities of the Fund, promote any of the purposes for which the Fund is formed and carry out the provisions of the Fund Declaration of Trust.

The Fund Declaration of Trust specifically states that the Administrator has responsibility for: (i) implementing procedures regarding limitations on non-resident ownership as provided in the Fund Declaration of Trust if it becomes aware that the beneficial owners of 49% of the Units then outstanding are, or may be, non-residents or that such situation is imminent; and (ii) using commercially reasonable efforts to ensure that the Fund qualifies at all times as a "mutual fund trust" pursuant to section 132(6) of the Tax Act.

The Fund Declaration of Trust provides that the Trustee and the Administrator shall act honestly and in good faith and in the best interests of the Fund and in connection with that duty must exercise the degree of care, diligence and skill that a reasonably prudent person would exercise in comparable circumstances. The Fund Declaration of Trust also provides that the Trustee shall have no liability or responsibility for any matters delegated to the Administrator or to the Board of Directors under the Fund Declaration of Trust or the Administration Agreement. The Fund Declaration of Trust provides that the Trustee will be entitled to indemnification from the Fund in respect of the Trustee's power and the discharge of the Trustee's duties provided that the Trustee acted honestly and in good faith with a view to the best interests of the Fund.

Administration Agreement

In addition to the delegation of all responsibilities of the Trustee to the Administrator in the Fund Declaration of Trust, the Fund and the Administrator have entered into the Administration Agreement which sets out the terms and conditions upon which the Administrator provides these services to the Fund. The Administration Agreement provides for a management fee to be paid by the Fund to the Administrator; however, because the Administrator is wholly owned by the Fund, any profit or loss arising from the management fee will indirectly accrue to the Fund.

The term of the Administration Agreement is the same as the term of the Fund. The Administration Agreement may be terminated by any of the parties in the event of the insolvency or receivership of another party, or in the case of default by one of the other parties in the performance of a material obligation of the Administration Agreement (other than as a result of the occurrence of a force majeure event) which is not remedied within 30 days. Any recipient of services under the Administration Agreement may at any time terminate or suspend the provision of any particular service by the Administrator.

Removal or Resignation of the Trustee

Pursuant to the Fund Declaration of Trust, the Trustee may resign by giving the Administrator not less than 90 days' prior written notice. Further, the Trustee may be removed by ordinary resolution of the Unitholders and may also be removed by the Administrator in the event that (i) the Trustee fails to meet the qualifications specified in the Fund Declaration of Trust, (ii) the Trustee declares bankruptcy or becomes insolvent, (iii) all or substantially all of the assets of the Trustee become subject to seizure or confiscation, or (iv) the Trustee otherwise becomes incapable of performing its responsibilities.

Amending the Fund Declaration of Trust

The Fund Declaration of Trust may be amended or altered from time to time by Special Resolution. In addition, the Fund Declaration of Trust gives the Trustee the power to make certain amendments without Unitholder approval, which power has been delegated to the Administrator. Amendments to the Fund Declaration of Trust that may be made without the approval of Unitholders include amendments:

(a) for the purpose of complying with applicable laws, regulations, requirements or policies of any governmental authority having jurisdiction over the Trustee or the Fund;

(b) which, in the opinion of the Trustee, provide additional protection for Unitholders;

(c) to remove any conflicts or inconsistencies in the Fund Declaration of Trust or to make minor corrections which, in the opinion of the Trustee, are necessary or desirable and are not prejudicial to the Unitholders;

(d) which, in the opinion of the Trustee, are necessary or desirable as a result of changes in Canadian taxation laws; and

(e) which, in the opinion of the Trustee, are necessary or appropriate to change the situs of, or the laws governing, the Fund if desirable in order to provide Unitholders with the benefit of any legislation limiting their liability.

Fundamental Transactions

The Fund Declaration of Trust provides that the Fund will not enter into or implement any Fundamental Transaction without prior approval of a Special Resolution. In addition, the Fund Declaration of Trust provides that the Fund will not vote or permit the voting of the securities of any Keyera Entity without the approval of the Unitholders by Special Resolution, to authorize, among other things:

- any Fundamental Transaction involving the Partnership or the Administrator except in connection with an internal reorganization;

- any material amendment to the Partnership Agreement or the articles of the Administrator in a manner prejudicial to the Fund; or

- issue or transfer any voting securities of the Administrator to any person other than the Fund except in connection with an internal reorganization.

Term of the Fund

The Fund has been established for a term to continue until 21 years after the death of the last surviving issue of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II alive on April 3, 2003. The termination of the Fund may also be required by Special Resolution.

Information and Reports

In accordance with and subject to applicable securities laws, the Fund will furnish to Unitholders such consolidated financial statements of the Fund (including quarterly and annual consolidated financial statements) and other reports as are from time to time required by applicable law, including prescribed forms needed for the completion of Unitholders' tax returns under the Tax Act and equivalent provincial legislation. Prior to each meeting of Unitholders, the Administrator will provide the Unitholders (along with notice of such meeting) all such information as is required by applicable law and the Fund Declaration of Trust to be provided to such holders. The Administrator is responsible for filing press releases and material change reports of the Fund that relate to changes in the affairs of such entities, and ensuring compliance by the Fund with all applicable continuous disclosure obligations in accordance with the requirements of applicable securities legislation. The Fund has adopted and implemented a disclosure policy which is administered by the Administrator.

CAPITAL STRUCTURE OF THE FUND

The Fund has Units and Debentures outstanding. Certain material features of each of the Units and the Debentures are described below. This summary does not purport to be exhaustive and readers are referred to the Fund Declaration of Trust for a complete description of the Units and to the Debenture Indenture (as herein defined) for a complete description of the Debentures. Both the Fund Declaration of Trust and the Debenture Indenture are available on SEDAR at www.sedar.com.

Units

An unlimited number of Units are issuable pursuant to the Fund Declaration of Trust. Each Unit is transferable and represents an equal undivided beneficial interest in any distributions from the Fund whether of net income, net realized capital gains or other amounts, and in the net assets of the Fund in the event of termination or winding-up of the Fund. All Units are of the same class with equal rights and privileges. The Units are not subject to future calls or assessments, and entitle the holder thereof to one vote for each whole Unit held at all meetings of Unitholders. Except as set out under "Redemption at the Option of Unitholders" below, the Units have no conversion, retraction, redemption or pre-emptive rights.

Issuance of Units

The Fund Declaration of Trust provides that the Units or rights to acquire Units may be issued at the times, to the persons, for the consideration and on the terms and conditions that the Trustee determines, including pursuant to any unitholder rights plan, distribution reinvestment plan or any incentive option or other compensation plan established by the Fund. Units may be issued in satisfaction of any non-cash distribution of the Fund to Unitholders on a pro rata basis.

The Fund Declaration of Trust also provides that immediately after any pro rata distribution of Units to all Unitholders in satisfaction of any non-cash distribution, the number of outstanding Units will be consolidated such that each Unitholder will hold, after the consolidation, the same number of Units as the Unitholder held before the non-cash distribution. In this case, each certificate representing a number of Units prior to the non-cash distribution is deemed to represent the same number of Units after the non-cash distribution and the consolidation.

Units are redeemable at any time on demand by the holders thereof upon delivery to the Fund of a duly completed and properly executed notice requesting redemption in a form reasonably acceptable to the Trustee, together with written instructions as to the number of Units to be redeemed. As the Units are issued in book entry form, a Unitholder who wishes to exercise the redemption right will be required to obtain a redemption notice form from the Unitholder's investment dealer who will be required to deliver the completed redemption notice form to the Fund at its head office and to CDS. Upon receipt of the redemption notice by the Fund, all rights to and under the Units tendered for redemption are surrendered and the holder is entitled to receive a price per Unit (the "Redemption Price") equal to the lesser of: (i) 90% of the weighted average price per Unit at which the Units have traded on the principal stock exchange on which the Units are listed (or, if the Units are not listed on any stock exchange, on the principal market on which the Units are quoted for trading) during the period of the last 10 trading days during which the Units traded on such exchange or market immediately prior to the date on which the Units were tendered for redemption, and (ii) an amount equal to (a) the closing market price of the Units on the date on which the Units were tendered for redemption, on the principal stock exchange on which Units are listed (or, if Units are not listed on any stock exchange, on the principal market on which the Units are quoted for trading) if there was a trade on the date on which the Units were tendered for redemption and the stock exchange or market provides a closing price; (b) an amount equal to the average of the highest and lowest prices of Units on the date on which the Units were tendered for redemption, on the principal exchange on which the Units are listed (or, if the Units are not listed on any exchange, on the principal market on which the Units are quoted for trading) if there was trading on the date on which the Units were tendered for redemption and the exchange or other market provides only the highest and lowest trading prices of Units traded on a particular day; or (c) the average of the last bid and ask prices on the date on which the Units were tendered for redemption, on the principal exchange on which the Units are listed (or, if the Units are not listed on any exchange, on the principal market on which the Units are quoted for trading) if there was no trading on the date on which the Units were tendered for redemption.

The aggregate Redemption Price payable by the Fund in respect of any Units tendered for redemption during any month shall be satisfied by way of a cash payment by the Fund within five days after the end of the calendar month in which the Units were tendered for redemption, provided that the entitlement of the Unitholders to receive cash upon the redemption of their Units is subject to the limitations that: (i) the total amount payable in cash by the Fund in respect of all Units tendered for redemption in the same calendar month shall not exceed $50,000 (provided that such limitation may be waived at the discretion of the Trustee); (ii) at the time such Units are tendered for redemption, the outstanding Units shall be listed for trading on the TSX or traded or quoted on any other stock exchange or market which the Trustee considers, in its sole opinion, provides representative fair market value prices for the Units; (iii) the normal trading of Units is not suspended or halted on any stock exchange on which the Units are listed (or, if not listed on a stock exchange, on any market on which the Units are quoted for trading) on the date that the Units are tendered for redemption or for more than five trading days during the 10-day trading period prior to the date on which the Units are tendered for redemption; and (iv) the redemption of the Units will not result in the delisting of the Units on the principal stock exchange on which the Units are listed.

If a Unitholder is not entitled to receive cash upon the redemption of Units as a result of the limitations set forth in the immediately foregoing paragraph, then the Redemption Price for such Units shall be the fair market value thereof as determined by the Trustee in its absolute discretion, and shall, subject to any applicable regulatory approvals, be paid and satisfied by way of a distribution in specie of assets of the Fund which may include Redemption Notes (each Redemption Note being in the principal amount of $100) or other assets held by the Fund or any combination of Redemption notes, other assets and cash payment, as determined by the Trustee in its discretion. No fractional Redemption Notes will be distributed and where the number of Redemption Notes to be received by a Unitholder includes a fraction, such number shall be rounded down to the next lowest whole number.

The Redemption Notes are subordinated promissory notes issued by the Fund (in series or otherwise) in principal amounts equal to the in specie redemption price (as defined in the Fund Declaration of Trust) of the Units being redeemed and are:

- unsecured;
- bear interest from and including the issue date of the redemption note at a rate equal to the prime rate of interest of a Canadian chartered bank plus 1% per annum and payable monthly in arrears (with interest after as well as before maturity, default and judgment and interest on overdue interest at such rate);

- subordinated and postponed to all senior indebtedness which may be subject to a subordination and postponement agreement or other similar agreement;
- subject to a right of early repayment;
- due and payable on the 10th anniversary of the date of issuance; and
- subject to such other terms and conditions as the Trustee or the Board of Directors may determine.

The Redemption Notes of all series shall rank pari passu with one another without discrimination, preference or priority (provided that the principal and interest prior to any accelerated payment thereof due to a default, may be payable at different times).

It is anticipated that this redemption right will not be the primary mechanism for Unitholders to dispose of their Units. Assets of the Fund which may be distributed in specie to Unitholders in connection with a redemption will not be listed on any exchange and no market is expected to develop in such assets of the Fund. Assets of the Fund so distributed may be subject to resale restrictions under applicable securities laws and may not be qualified investments for trusts governed by registered retirement savings plans, registered retirement income funds, registered education savings plans or deferred profit sharing plans.

Repurchase of Units

The Fund is allowed, from time to time, to purchase Units for cancellation in accordance with applicable securities legislation and the rules prescribed under applicable stock exchange or regulatory policies. Any such purchases will constitute an "issuer bid" under Canadian provincial securities legislation and must be conducted in accordance with the applicable requirements thereof.

Limitation on Non-Resident Ownership

As of the date hereof, in order for the Fund to maintain its status as a "mutual fund trust" under the Tax Act, the Fund must not be established or maintained primarily for the benefit of non-residents of Canada within the meaning of the Tax Act. One of the ways that entities such as the Fund meet these criteria is to restrict the number of non-residents of Canada who can own securities to less than 50%. So long as the Tax Act contains this requirement, the Fund Declaration of Trust requires the Fund to restrict non-resident ownership of Units to no more than 49%.

In accordance with amendments to the Fund Declaration of Trust passed by Unitholders at the 2007 annual and special meeting, the Administrator has flexibility to determine the best way to maintain the Fund's mutual fund trust status. In particular, the Fund Declaration of Trust empowers the Administrator to take any of the following steps at any time in connection with maintaining the Fund's status as a mutual fund trust:

(i) require the transfer agent or registrar of the Units to refuse to accept a subscription for Units from, or issue or register a transfer of Units to, a person unless that person provides a declaration to the Administrator and the transfer agent that the Units to be issued or transferred to such person will not when issued or transferred be beneficially owned by a non-resident of Canada (as defined in the Tax Act);

(ii) send a notice to non-resident Unitholders, chosen in such manner as the Board of Directors may consider equitable and practicable, requiring them to sell their Units or a portion thereof within a specified period of 60 days or such shorter period as may be required to preserve the status of the Fund as a mutual fund trust within the meaning of the Tax Act. If the Unitholders receiving such notice have not, within such period, sold the specified number of Units or provided the Administrator and the transfer agent with evidence satisfactory to the Administrator that the Units are not beneficially owned by Non-residents, the Administrator may suspend the voting and distribution rights, if any, attached to such Units until they are sold and may direct the Trustee, on behalf of such Unitholders, to sell such Units. Upon such sale, the affected Unitholders shall cease to be holders of the Units so disposed of and their rights shall be limited to receiving the net proceeds of sale (net of applicable taxes and costs of sale);

(iii) delist any listed securities of the Fund from any non-Canadian stock exchange; and

(iv) take such other actions as the Administrator determines, in its sole discretion, may be appropriate in the circumstances that will reduce or limit the number of Units held by non-residents of Canada (as defined in the Tax Act) in order for the Fund to maintain its status as a mutual fund trust.

Meetings of Unitholders

The Fund Declaration of Trust provides that there shall be an annual meeting of Unitholders for the purpose of: (a) presentation of the audited financial statements of the Fund for the immediately preceding year; (b) the election of the Board of Directors; (c) the appointment of auditors of the Fund for the ensuing year; and (d) transacting such other business as the Trustee or the Board of Directors may determine or as may otherwise be properly brought before the meeting.

The Fund Declaration of Trust provides that meetings of Unitholders may be convened at any time and for any purpose by the Trustee or the Board of Directors and must be convened, except in certain circumstances, if requisitioned in writing by Unitholders representing not less than 5% of the aggregate votes attached to the Units then outstanding. A requisition will be required to state in reasonable detail the business proposed to be transacted at the meeting.

Unitholders are entitled to attend and vote at all meetings either in person or by proxy, and a proxyholder is not required to be a Unitholder. Two persons present and representing in person or by proxy in the aggregate at least 5% of the votes attached to all outstanding Units constitute a quorum for the transaction of business at all meetings. At any meeting at which a quorum is not present within one-half hour after the time fixed for the holding of such meeting, the meeting, if convened upon the request of the Unitholders, shall be dissolved, but in any other case, the meeting will be adjourned to a day not less than seven days later and to a place and time as chosen by the chair of the meeting, and if at such adjourned meeting a quorum is not present, the holders of Units then present either in person or by proxy shall be deemed to constitute a quorum. The Fund Declaration of Trust contains provisions as to the notice required and other procedures with respect to the calling and holding of meetings of Unitholders.

Takeover Bids

The Fund Declaration of Trust contains provisions to the effect that if a take-over bid is made and not less than 90% of the Units (other than Units held at the date of the take-over bid by or on behalf of the offeror or associates or affiliates of the offeror) are taken up and paid for by the offeror, the offeror will be entitled to acquire the Units held by Unitholders who did not accept the take-over bid, on the same terms on which the offeror acquired Units from Unitholders who accepted the take-over bid.

Convertible Debentures

General

The Debentures were issued under a trust indenture dated as of June 3, 2004 (the "Debenture Indenture"), made between the Administrator, on behalf of the Fund, and Computershare (the "Debenture Trustee"), as trustee. The Debentures authorized for issue are unlimited. The Debentures were issued in denominations of $1,000. The maturity date (the "Maturity Date") for the Debentures is June 30, 2011.

The Debentures bear interest from the date of issue at 6.75% per annum, which is payable semi-annually in arrears on June 30 and December 31 in each year. The principal amount of the Debentures is payable in lawful money of Canada or, at the option of the Fund and subject to applicable regulatory approval, by payment of Units as further described under the subheading "Payment upon Redemption or Maturity". The interest on the Debentures is payable in lawful money of Canada. The Debentures are direct obligations of the Fund and are not secured by any mortgage, pledge, hypothec or other charge and are subordinated to other liabilities of the Fund as described under the subheading "Subordination". The Debenture Indenture does not restrict the Fund from incurring additional indebtedness for borrowed money or from mortgaging, pledging or charging its properties to secure any indebtedness.

Conversion Privilege

The Debentures are convertible at the holder's option into fully paid and non-assessable Units at any time prior to the close of business on the earlier of the Maturity Date and the business day immediately preceding the date specified by the Fund for redemption of the Debentures, at a conversion price of $12.00 per Unit, being a conversion rate of approximately 83.3333 Units per $1,000 principal amount of Debentures. Holders converting their Debentures will receive all accrued and unpaid interest thereon.

Subject to the provisions thereof, the Debenture Indenture provides for the adjustment of the conversion price in certain events including: (a) the subdivision or consolidation of the outstanding Units; (b) the distribution of Units to holders of Units by way of distribution or otherwise other than an issue of securities to holders of Units who have elected to receive distributions in securities of the Fund in lieu of receiving cash distributions paid in the ordinary course; (c) the issuance of options, rights or warrants to holders of Units entitling them to acquire Units or other securities convertible into Units at less than 95% of the then current market price of the Units; and (d) the distribution to all holders of Units of any securities or assets (other than cash distributions and equivalent distributions in securities paid in lieu of cash distributions in the ordinary course). There will be no adjustment of the conversion price in respect of any event described in (b), (c) or (d) above if the holders of the Debentures are allowed to participate as though they had converted their Debentures prior to the applicable record date or effective date. The Fund will not be required to make adjustments in the conversion price unless the cumulative effect of such adjustments would change the conversion price by at least 1%. The term "current market price" is defined in the Debenture Indenture to mean the weighted average trading price of the Units on the TSX for the 20 consecutive trading days ending on the fifth trading day preceding the date of the applicable event. No fractional Units will be issued on any conversion but, in lieu thereof, the Fund shall satisfy fractional interests by a cash payment equal to the current market price of any fractional interest.

In the case of any reclassification or capital reorganization (other than a change resulting from consolidation or subdivision) of the Units or in the case of any consolidation, amalgamation or merger of the Fund with or into any other entity, or in the case of any sale or conveyance of the properties and assets of the Fund as, or substantially as, an entirety to any other entity, or a liquidation, dissolution or winding-up of the Fund, the terms of the conversion privilege will be adjusted so that each holder of a Debenture shall, after such reclassification, capital reorganization, consolidation, amalgamation, merger, sale, conveyance, liquidation, dissolution or winding-up, be entitled to receive the number of Units such holder would be entitled to receive if on the effective date thereof, it had been the holder of the number of Units into which the Debenture was convertible prior to the effective date of such reclassification, capital reorganization, consolidation, amalgamation, merger, sale, conveyance, liquidation, dissolution or winding-up.

Redemption and Purchase

The Debentures are only redeemable after June 30, 2007. After June 30, 2007 and on or prior to June 30, 2009, the Debentures may be redeemed in whole or in part from time to time at the option of the Fund on not more than 60 days and not less than 30 days notice, at a price of $1,000 per Debenture (the "Redemption Price") plus accrued and unpaid interest thereon, if any, provided that the current market price (as defined in the Debenture Indenture as set forth under "Conversion Privilege") on the date on which the notice of redemption is given is not less than 125% of the conversion price of the Debentures then in effect. After June 30, 2009, the Debentures may be redeemed in whole or in part from time to time at the option of the Fund at the Redemption Price plus accrued and unpaid interest thereon. In the case of redemption of less than all of the Debentures, the Debentures to be redeemed will be selected by the Debenture Trustee on a pro rata basis or in such other manner as the Debenture Trustee deems equitable. The Fund has the right to purchase Debentures in the market, by tender or by private contract.

Payment upon Redemption or Maturity

On redemption or at maturity, the Fund will repay the indebtedness represented by the Debentures by paying to the Debenture Trustee in lawful money of Canada an amount equal to the aggregate Redemption Price of the outstanding Debentures which are to be redeemed or the principal amount of the outstanding Debentures which have matured, together with accrued and unpaid interest thereon. The Fund may, at its option, on not more than 60 days and not less than 40 days prior notice and subject to applicable regulatory approval, elect to satisfy its obligation to pay the Redemption Price of the Debentures which are to be redeemed or the principal amount of the Debentures which have matured, as the case may be, by issuing Units to the holders of the Debentures. Any accrued and unpaid interest thereon will be paid in cash. The number of Units to be issued will be determined by dividing the aggregate Redemption Price of the outstanding Debentures which are to be redeemed or the principal amount of the outstanding Debentures which have matured, as the case may be, by 95% of the current market price (as defined in the Debenture Indenture as set forth under "Conversion Privilege" above) on the date fixed for redemption or the Maturity Date, as the case may be. No fractional Units will be issued on redemption or maturity but in lieu thereof the Fund shall satisfy fractional interests by a cash payment equal to the current market price of any fractional interest.

Subordination

The payment of the principal of, and interest on, the Debentures is subordinated in right of payment to the prior payment in full of all Senior Indebtedness and indebtedness to trade creditors of the Fund. "Senior Indebtedness" of the Fund is defined in the Debenture Indenture as the principal of and premium, if any, and interest on and other amounts in respect of all indebtedness of the Fund (whether outstanding as at the date of the Debenture Indenture or thereafter incurred), other than indebtedness evidenced by the Debentures and all other existing and future debentures or other instruments of the Fund which, by the terms of the instrument creating or evidencing the indebtedness, is expressed to be pari passu with, or subordinate in right of payment to, the Debentures. Subject to statutory or preferred exceptions or as may be specified by the terms of any particular securities, each Debenture ranks pari passu with each other Debenture, and with all other present and future subordinated and unsecured indebtedness of the Fund except for sinking provisions (if any) applicable to different series of debentures or similar types of obligations of the Fund.

In the event of any insolvency or bankruptcy proceedings, or any receivership, liquidation, reorganization or other similar proceedings relative to the Fund, or to its property or assets, or in the event of any proceedings for voluntary liquidation, dissolution or other winding-up of the Fund, whether or not involving insolvency or bankruptcy, or any marshalling of the assets and liabilities of the Fund, holders of Senior Indebtedness, including any indebtedness to trade creditors, will receive payment in full before the holders of Debentures will be entitled to receive any payment or distribution of any kind or character which may be payable or deliverable in any such event in respect of any of the Debentures or any unpaid interest accrued thereon. The Debenture Indenture also provides that the Fund will not make any payment, and the holders of the Debentures will not be entitled to demand, institute proceedings for the collection of, or receive any payment or benefit (including without any limitation by set-off, combination of accounts or realization of security or otherwise in any manner whatsoever) on account of indebtedness represented by the Debentures (a) in a manner inconsistent with the terms of the Debentures or (b) at any time when an event of default has occurred under the Senior Indebtedness and is continuing and the notice of such event of default has been given by or on behalf of the holders of Senior Indebtedness to the Fund, unless the Senior Indebtedness has been repaid in full.

The Debentures are effectively subordinate to claims of creditors of the Fund's subsidiaries except to the extent the Fund is a creditor of such subsidiaries ranking at least pari passu with such other creditors. Specifically, the Debentures are effectively subordinated in right of payment to the prior payment in full of all indebtedness under the outstanding senior notes and revolving credit facilities of the Partnership and KEFL.

Priority over Distributions

The Debenture Indenture provides that certain expenses of the Fund must be deducted in calculating the amount to be distributed to the Unitholders. Accordingly, the funds required to satisfy the interest payable on the Debentures, as well as the amount payable upon redemption or maturity of the Debentures or upon an Event of Default (as defined below), will be deducted and withheld from the amounts that would otherwise be payable as distributions to Unitholders.

Change of Control of the Fund

Within 30 days following the occurrence of a change of control of the Fund involving the acquisition of voting control or direction over 66 $^{2}/_{3}$% or more of the Units (a "Change of Control"), the Fund will be required to make an offer in writing to purchase all of the Debentures then outstanding (the "Offer"), at a price equal to 101% of the principal amount thereof plus accrued and unpaid interest (the "Offer Price"). The Debenture Indenture contains notification and repurchase provisions requiring the Fund to give written notice to the Debenture Trustee of the occurrence of a Change of Control within 30 days of such event together with the Offer. The Debenture Trustee will then mail to each holder of Debentures a notice of the Change of Control and a copy of the Offer to repurchase all the outstanding Debentures. If 90% or more in aggregate principal amount of the Debentures outstanding on the date of the giving of notice of the Change of Control have been tendered to the Fund pursuant to the Offer, the Fund will have the right and obligation to redeem all the remaining Debentures at the Offer Price. Notice of such redemption must be given by the Fund to the Debenture Trustee within 10 days following the expiry of the Offer, and as soon as possible thereafter, by the Debenture Trustee to the holders of the Debentures not tendered pursuant to the Offer.

Events of Default

The Debenture Indenture provides that an event of default ("Event of Default") in respect of the Debentures will occur if any one or more of the following events has occurred and is continuing with respect of the Debentures: (a) failure for 15 days to pay interest on the Debentures when due; (b) failure to pay principal or premium, if any, when due on the Debentures, whether at maturity, upon redemption, by declaration or otherwise; (c) certain events of bankruptcy, insolvency or reorganization of the Fund under bankruptcy or insolvency laws; or (d) default in the observance or performance of any material covenant or condition of the Debenture Indenture and continuance of such default for a period of 30 days after notice in writing has been given by the Debenture Trustee to the Fund. If an Event of Default has occurred and is continuing, the Debenture Trustee may, in its discretion, and shall upon request of holders of not less than 25% in principal amount of Debentures, declare the principal of and interest on all outstanding Debentures to be immediately due and payable. In certain cases, the holders of a majority of the principal amount of the Debentures then outstanding may, on behalf of the holders of all Debentures, waive any Event of Default and/or cancel any such declaration upon such terms and conditions as such holders shall prescribe.

Offers for Debentures

If an offer is made for the Debentures which is a take-over bid for Debentures within the meaning of the Securities Act (Alberta) and not less than 90% of the Debentures (other than Debentures held at the date of the take-over bid by or on behalf of the offeror or associates or affiliates of the offeror) are taken up and paid for by the offeror, the offeror will be entitled to acquire the Debentures held by the holders of Debentures who did not accept the offer on the terms offered by the offeror.

Modification

The rights of the holders of the Debentures as well as any other series of debentures that may be issued under the Debenture Indenture may be modified in accordance with the terms of the Debenture Indenture. For that purpose, among others, resolutions passed at meetings of the holders of debentures by votes cast thereat by holders of not less than 66 $^{2}/_{3}$% of the principal amount of the debentures present at the meeting or represented by proxy, or rendered by instruments in writing signed by the holders of not less than 66 $^{2}/_{3}$% of the principal amount of the debentures are binding on all holders. In certain cases, the modification will, instead or in addition, require assent by the holders of the required percentage of debentures of each particularly affected series.

Special Units and Special Non Voting Units

The Fund Declaration of Trust also provides for the issuance of an unlimited number of special trust units that will be used solely for providing voting rights to persons holding securities that are, directly or indirectly, exchangeable for Units and that, by their terms, have voting rights in the Fund. Special trust units are not entitled to any interest or share in the distributions or net assets of the Fund.

As well, in accordance with the amendments to the Fund Declaration of Trust that were approved by Unitholders in connection with the Reorganization, the Fund was authorized to issue an unlimited number of Special Non-Voting Units. Special Non-Voting Units were issued in connection with the Reorganization; however, all such units were immediately converted into Units and consolidated in accordance with the Plan of Arrangement. Special Non-Voting Units can no longer be issued. As of the date of this Annual Information Form, there were no special trust units or Special Non-voting Units outstanding.

Unitholder Rights Plan

Certain material features of the Rights Plan are described below. This summary does not purport to be exhaustive and readers are referred to the Rights Agreement between the Fund and Computershare for a complete description. The Rights Plan Agreement is available on the Keyera website at www.keyera.com and on SEDAR at www.sedar.com.

Overview

On April 30, 2007, the Fund announced that it had entered into a Rights Plan with Computershare, as rights agent, providing for the establishment of the Rights Plan. The Rights Plan provides additional time to explore and develop alternatives for maximizing Unitholder value in the event a take-over bid is made for the Fund. The additional time is meant to allow other potential bidders the opportunity to come forward with superior competing bids thereby increasing the likelihood that all Unitholders will receive fair consideration for their units and potentially providing a better return. The Rights Plan is also intended to provide every Unitholder with an equal opportunity to participate in such a bid. The Rights Plan encourages a potential acquiror to proceed either by way of a permitted bid, which requires the take-over bid to satisfy certain minimum standards designed to promote fairness, or with the concurrence of the Board of Directors. The Rights Plan applies to all acquisitions of greater than 20% of the Units, regardless of whether the acquisition is by public bid, private agreement or gradual accumulation. Unitholders approved the Rights Plan at the 2007 annual and special meeting of the Fund.

Operation of the Rights Plan

The Rights Plan provides a mechanism whereby the minimum expiry period for a take-over bid must be 60 days after the date of the bid and the bid must remain open for a further period of 10 business days after the acquiring person publicly announces that the Units deposited or tendered and not withdrawn constitute more than 50% of the Units outstanding held by independent Unitholders. On April 30, 2007, the Fund issued Rights to its Unitholders pursuant to the terms of the Rights Agreement. One Right is deemed to have been distributed for each Unit and will automatically be transferred with that Unit unless and until a flip-in event occurs. The Rights are not exercisable unless and until a flip-in event occurs. The issuance of the Rights does not change the manner in which Unitholders currently trade their Units.

A flip-in event would occur if a person, company or other entity were to become an acquiring person, that is, a person, company or other entity acquired beneficial ownership of at least 20% of the Units other than pursuant to certain exceptions such as a permitted bid or an exempt acquisition. If the person, company or other entity acquires Units under a permitted bid or exempt acquisition or one of the other specified exceptions, they are not considered to be an acquiring person and no flip-in event occurs. If a person, company or other entity does become an acquiring person, each Right then entitles each holder (other than the acquiring person) to purchase Units at a 50% discount. Each holder of a Right may then purchase that number of Units having a fair market value at the relevant time equal to twice the exercise price of the Right, in effect, permitting Units to be acquired at a 50% discount to the market price at the time of exercise.

The acquiring person is not permitted to exercise its Rights. The Rights Plan provides that the acquiring person's Rights become null and void when the flip-in event occurs. The Rights Plan also provides that the Board of Directors may either waive the Rights Plan or redeem the Rights at a minimal price in certain circumstances. The Rights Plan thereby encourages unsolicited bidders to either make a permitted bid or to approach the Board of Directors with their offer and attempt to convince the Board of Directors to either waive the flip-in event or to redeem the Rights. If the offer is coercive or inadequate, the Board of Directors can choose not to cooperate with the bidder and not to agree to waive the Rights Plan or redeem the Rights.

The Rights Plan is not intended to interfere with any future financing transactions that the Fund may wish to implement, including any future issuance of equity securities. The issue of Rights will not affect reported earnings or cash flow per Unit until and unless the Rights separate from the underlying Units and become exercisable or until the exercise of the Rights. Keyera can continue to conduct its existing business in the ordinary course on the same terms as if the Rights Plan had not been implemented.

The adoption of the Rights Plan does not change the duty of the Board of Directors to act honestly and in good faith with a view to the best interests of the Fund. In the event of a take-over bid or similar transaction, the Board of Directors will continue to have the right and responsibility to take such action and to make such recommendations to Unitholders as are considered necessary or appropriate.

Characteristics of the Rights Plan

The key characteristics of the Rights Plan are described below:

- Creation and Issue of Rights. The Rights Plan was created by the Fund entering into the Rights Agreement with Computershare. Pursuant to the Rights Agreement, the Fund issued one Right for each Unit of the Fund outstanding at the close of business on April 30, 2007 and will issue one Right for each additional Unit issued after April 30, 2007 but prior to the separation time or the expiry of the Rights. Certificates issued for Units after the Rights Plan was approved (but prior to the close of business at the separation time or the expiry of the Rights), will include a legend evidencing the Rights; however, certificates representing Units that were issued prior to approval of the Rights Plan do not require a legend to evidence the Rights.

- Term of Rights Plan. The Rights Plan will expire following the first annual meeting of Unitholders held after April 30, 2010, unless it is extended with Unitholder approval. If it is extended, it can be extended for another three years.

- Flip-in Event. When a person, company or other entity becomes an acquiring person, all Rights holders, other than the acquiring person, are entitled to purchase Units of the Fund at a 50% discount to market.

- Acquiring Person. An acquiring person is a person, company or other entity who, at any time after the date of the Rights Agreement, is the beneficial owner of 20% or more of the outstanding Units, subject to the following exemptions: a voting unit reduction (generally, a repurchase or redemption of Units by the Fund which has the effect of increasing the person's or company's percentage ownership of the Fund); a permitted bid acquisition (an acquisition of Units made pursuant to a permitted bid or competing permitted bid, both as defined in the Rights Plan); an exempt acquisition (an acquisition prior to the date of the Rights Plan or an acquisition in respect of which the Board of Directors has waived the application of the Rights Plan); and a pro rata acquisition (generally, the acquisition of Units pursuant to a rights offering, public offering or private placement to the extent necessary to prevent dilution of the person's or company's Unitholding).

- Beneficial Ownership, Exemptions for Portfolio Managers and Others, and Permitted Lock-up Agreements. In determining whether a person, company or other entity has become an acquiring person, all Units over which the person, company or other entity has beneficial ownership must be included. A person, company or other entity is deemed to beneficially own any Units which are owned by its associates or affiliates or by persons or companies "acting jointly or in concert" with such person, company or other entity for the purpose of acquiring Units and any Units which it has the right to vote or the right to acquire within 60 days. Specific exclusions clarify that portfolio managers, fund managers, trust companies, crown agents engaged in the management of investment funds and pension plan and registered plan administrators are not caught simply because they may have the right to vote Units managed by them for others. In addition, Unitholders holding at least 20% of the outstanding Units as of April 30, 2007 do not trigger a flip-in event as a result of their current holdings, but would become an acquiring person upon the acquisition of additional Units amounting to more than 1% of the outstanding Units. The Fund is not aware of any such 20% Unitholder.

  A person, company or other entity may also be considered to be the beneficial owner of Units that are subject to a lock-up agreement with it, that is, an agreement under which a Unitholder agrees to tender its Units to a bid (the "Lock-up Bid") made by that person, company or other entity; however, the person, company or other entity will not be deemed to be the beneficial owner of Units subject to a lock-up agreement if the holder of such Units has agreed to deposit or tender its Units pursuant to a "permitted lock-up agreement". In order for a lock-up agreement to constitute a "permitted lock-up agreement", certain conditions must be met.

- Permitted Bids and Competing Permitted Bids. An offeror can avoid causing a flip-in event by making a permitted bid. A permitted bid must: be made by way of a take-over bid circular; be made to all Unitholders of record, other than the offeror, for all or a portion of the Units outstanding and must be open for acceptance for 60 days; require a minimum deposit of more than 50% of the Units held by independent Unitholders (i.e., generally, Unitholders who are not, or are not related to, the acquiring person); unless the take-over bid is withdrawn, allow the Units to be deposited up to the close of business on the first date on which the deposited Units are taken up or paid for; allow the Units deposited pursuant to the take-over bid to be withdrawn until they are taken up and paid for; and if the minimum 50% of Units are deposited, the offeror must make a public announcement of that fact and leave the take-over bid open for deposits of Units for at least 10 business days after the announcement.

An offeror can also avoid causing a flip-in event by making a competing permitted bid. A competing permitted bid is a permitted bid made after another permitted bid has been made and before that other permitted bid has expired; however, a competing permitted bid is only required to be left open for the later of (i) 35 days after the date of such bid and (ii) the earliest date on which the Units may be taken up and paid for under the other permitted bid that is in existence.

- Redemption Rights and Waiver. An offeror can also avoid causing a flip-in event by negotiating with the Board of Directors and convincing them to allow a take-over bid that is not a permitted bid but is made fairly to all holders of Units. In such circumstances, the Board of Directors can waive the flip-in event and deem the take-over bid to be an exempt acquisition such that the reduced exercise price does not come into effect. Any such waiver in respect of a particular take-over bid will also constitute a waiver of any other take-over bid made to all holders of Units during the period when the first take-over bid is outstanding. The Board of Directors can also waive the flip-in event in certain other circumstances; for example, a person, company or other entity has inadvertently become an acquiring person and within a specified period of time reduces its unitholdings.

Further, the Rights Plan permits the Board of Directors to redeem (buy back and cancel) the Rights for a nominal price ($0.00001 per Right) in certain circumstances. The redemption right must generally be made for all and not less than all the Rights and must be made prior to the occurrence of a flip-in event.

- Separation Time. The Rights can become separated or unstapled from the Units to which they are currently attached and then trade separately from the Units. This separation time will generally only occur on the close of business on the 10th business day after the earlier of: (a) the first date of public disclosure of facts indicating that a person, company or other entity has become an acquiring person; (b) the date of commencement or first public announcement of a non-permitted take-over bid; or (c) the date on which a permitted bid ceases to qualify as a permitted bid. Until and unless the separation time occurs, the Rights will continue to be attached to and trade with the Units.

- Exercise Price. The exercise price before the flip-in event is three times the current market value of the Units from time to time. Before a flip-in event, a Rights holder would receive one Unit upon the exercise of a Right, the effect of which is to render the Rights of little or no value at the time of issue. After the flip-in event, all Rights holders, other than the acquiring person, would be entitled to purchase Units at a 50% discount to the market value, effectively entitling the Rights holders to acquire six Units upon the exercise of each Right. The Exercise Price and the number of Rights are subject to adjustment from time to time upon the occurrence of certain events, including a subdivision or consolidation of the Units, the declaration of a distribution payable through the issuance of certain securities or the issuance of certain securities in exchange for or in lieu of Units.

- Trading of Rights. Until the separation time, the Rights will be evidenced by the outstanding certificates for Units and the Rights may be transferred with, and only with, the Units. Until and unless the separation time occurs (or earlier termination or expiration of the Rights), the surrender for transfer of a certificate representing Units will also constitute the transfer of the Rights associated with the Units represented by the certificate. If the separation time occurs, then, as soon as practicable following the separation time, separate certificates evidencing the Rights ("Rights Certificates") will be mailed to holders of record of Units as of the close of business at the "separation time" and the separate Rights Certificates will thereafter evidence the Rights.

- Deemed Redemption. The Rights Plan provides that, in the event a person, company or other entity acquires Units pursuant to a permitted bid or an exempt acquisition, the Rights are no longer valid and are deemed to have been redeemed by the Board of Directors.

DISTRIBUTIONS

Distribution Policy of the Fund

The Fund makes monthly distributions to Unitholders of record on the last business day of each month from its distributable cash flow. Payments are made on or about the 15th day of the following month.

In determining the level of distributions to Unitholders, the Board of Directors takes into consideration current and expected future levels of distributable cash flow (including income tax), capital expenditures, borrowings and debt repayments, changes in working capital requirements and other factors. Changes in non-cash working capital are primarily the result of seasonal fluctuations in product inventories or other temporary changes and are generally funded with short-term debt. These changes in non-cash working capital are therefore excluded in the determination of distributable cash flow. Distributable cash flow is not a measure under Canadian generally accepted accounting principles and there is no standardized measure of distributable cash flow. Distributable cash flow, as presented, may not be comparable to the calculations of similar measures by other entities. (See "Presentation of Financial Information").

Over the long-term, the Fund expects to pay distributions from distributable cash flow; however, credit facilities may be used to stabilize distributions from time to time. Growth capital expenditures will be funded from retained operating cash flow, along with proceeds from additional debt or equity, as required. Although the Fund intends to continue to make regular monthly distributions to Unitholders, these distributions are not guaranteed. (See "Risk Factors and Risk Management Strategies – Risks Inherent in an Investment in Units – Cash Distributions are Not Guaranteed").

Distributions To Unitholders

The following table sets forth the distribution history of the Fund in 2007:

Payment Date	Per Unit Cash Distribution
January 15, 2007	$0.1190
February 15, 2007	$0.1190
March 15, 2007	$0.1190
April 16, 2007	$0.1190
May 15, 2007	$0.1190
June 15, 2007	$0.1250
July 16, 2007	$0.1250
August 15, 2007	$0.1250
September 17, 2007	$0.1250
October 15, 2007	$0.1250
November 15, 2007	$0.1250
December 17, 2007	$0.1250

The Fund has increased its monthly distributions six times since it was formed in 2003. The first distribution increase was an 8% increase, from $0.0908 to $0.0980 per Unit, that was implemented in connection with the June 2004 distribution. This was followed in 2005 by three separate distribution increases: a 5% increase, from $0.098 per Unit to $0.103 per Unit, beginning with the January 2005 distribution; a 10% increase from $0.103 per Unit to $0.113 per Unit, beginning with the May 2005 distribution; and a 5% increase, from $0.113 per Unit to $0.119 per Unit, beginning with the November 2005 distribution. A 5% increase in distributions, from $0.119 per Unit to $0.125 per Unit, was implemented in connection with the June 2007 distribution and a further 8% increase in distributions, from $0.125 to $0.135 per Unit, was implemented in connection with the February 2008 distribution payable on March 17, 2008. Together, these six distribution increases represent a 49% increase in distributions and an 8% compound annual growth rate since the Fund's inception.

The DRIP

The DRIP provides participating Unitholders with the ability to reinvest their distributions and to invest additional funds on a monthly basis without payment of brokerage commissions or service charges. Units acquired under the DRIP through the reinvestment of distributions are issued at a 3% discount to a weighted average market price, so long as the Units are issued from treasury. After giving three months' notice by way of press release, the Fund can begin acquiring Units in the marketplace for delivery to reinvestment participants under the DRIP, in which case the Units will be acquired by those participants at the weighted average market price. Eligible participants can also elect to make optional Unit purchases under the DRIP at the weighted average market price. Only Unitholders who are resident in Canada or in jurisdictions that permit participation may participate in the DRIP. Unitholders who are residents of the United States are not permitted to participate in the DRIP. The weighted average market price applicable under the DRIP is the arithmetic average of the daily volume weighted average trading prices of the Units on the TSX for the 15 trading days ending two business days immediately preceding the relevant distribution payment date.

Unitholders are not required to participate in the DRIP and participation in the DRIP is not automatic, but must be initiated by the Unitholder. A Unitholder who elects not to participate will receive cash distributions from the Fund in the normal manner.

RATING

Standard and Poor's has assigned a Stability Rating of SR-3 to the Units. The rating is based on a rating scale developed by Standard and Poor's which characterizes the stability of cash distribution streams. Standard and Poor's stability analysis encompasses the variability and sustainability of a cash distribution stream in the medium to longer term with a single Stability Rating of SR-1 through SR-7. Variability in the distribution stream refers to changes in the distribution from period to period over a business cycle, whereas sustainability of the distribution stream refers to the length of time that distributions can likely be made. Together, these two characteristics are referred to by Standard and Poor's as the stability profile of the issuer. The stability rating scale is organized such that a rating of SR-1 signifies the lowest level of cash distribution variability and the highest level of cash distribution sustainability, while a rating of SR-7 signifies the highest level of variability and the highest amount of uncertainty in the sustainability of the cash distribution stream. A rating is not a recommendation to buy, sell or hold any security and may be subject to revision or withdrawal at any time by Standard and Poor's.

Specifically, funds rated as SR-3 are considered to have a high level of cash distribution stability relative to other rated Canadian income funds.

INDUSTRY AND ENVIRONMENTAL REGULATION

General Regulatory Context

Keyera is subject to a range of laws and regulations imposed by various levels of government and regulatory bodies in the jurisdictions in which it operates. While these legal controls and regulations affect all dimensions of Keyera's activities, including but not limited to the operation of pipelines and facilities, construction activities, emergency response, operational safety and environmental standards and procedures, Keyera does not believe that they affect its operations in a manner materially different from other comparable businesses operating in those jurisdictions.

Because the majority of Keyera's operations and facilities are located in Alberta, this section focuses on the Alberta regulatory regime. However, Keyera also operates one gas plant in British Columbia, one gas plant in Saskatchewan and four propane terminals in the United States, plus it ships products to customers across Canada and the United States. Each of these jurisdictions has its own regulatory and environmental regimes.

Industry Regulation

General

Keyera's natural gas gathering, processing and transportation facilities located wholly within the boundaries of Alberta are subject to regulation by the ERCB, and may also be subject to further regulation under the Public Utilities Board Act (Alberta) and Gas Utilities Act (Alberta). The ERCB may, on application, and following a hearing (and with the approval of the Lieutenant Governor in Council), declare the operator of a pipeline a common carrier of natural gas or the operator of a natural gas processing plant to be a common processor of natural gas.

Approximately 4.3 kilometres of the Greenstreet gas gathering system is regulated by the National Energy Board as it crosses the border between Alberta and Saskatchewan. The traffic, tolls and tariffs for this pipeline system are regulated on a complaints-basis. Upon receiving a complaint, the National Energy Board may elect to undertake a detailed examination of the tolls and tariffs.

Legislation in Alberta exists to ensure that producers have fair and reasonable opportunities to produce, transport, process and market their reserves. The extent to which regulatory authorities in such instances can override existing transportation or processing contracts has not been fully determined. Facilities may be subject to common carrier and common processor applications and potentially to rate setting by regulatory authorities in the event an agreement cannot be reached with producers on access or rates. To the extent that producers believe processing fees or tariffs respecting facilities are too high, they may seek rate relief through such regulatory means. (See "Risk Factors and Risk Management Strategies – Risks Inherent in Keyera's Business – Regulatory Intervention").

Alberta Royalty Structure Changes

In October 2007 the Government of Alberta announced proposed changes to the Alberta royalty regime, including changing the royalty structure for natural gas and conventional oil by adjusting sliding rate formulas that are price and volume sensitive and adopting new price sensitive formulas will be adopted for oil sands development at both the pre- and post-payout stages. If the new royalty regime is implemented without modification, these proposed changes would result in higher royalty rates at current prices. Keyera is not a royalty payor, and therefore is not directly affected by these proposed changes. However, as a service provider to the upstream industry, Keyera will be affected by producers' responses to the new regime. Producers are continuing to assess the impact of the new royalty regime on their operations and future activities. In the short term, some producers have announced plans to reduce their exploration and development activities. Keyera is working with producers in the areas around its plants to determine what impact the proposed royalty changes may have on Keyera. Until we have stronger indications from producers with respect to their plans, and clarification from the Government of Alberta with respect to the details of the royalty changes that are to be implemented, the long term implications of the royalty announcement for Keyera are difficult to determine.

Keyera's Environmental Programs

Keyera recognizes and values the importance of responsible environmental stewardship and has made significant investments in infrastructure to improve efficiencies and enhance environmental performance. Keyera's environmental programs focus on preventing environmental impacts and adopting appropriate remediation strategies when required. Keyera is committed to conducting its business in a way that balances diverse stakeholder expectations, that respects the environment and that emphasizes the health and safety of our employees and communities. As part of this commitment, Keyera strives to conduct its operations in accordance with internally developed environmental operating guidelines and provides its employees with comprehensive training that emphasizes health, safety and environmental matters. Keyera has also developed ongoing community relations and public consultation programs to keep Keyera's neighbours informed and to proactively identify and address any potential concerns with respect to the operation of our facilities.

Over the years, Keyera has been a leader in its industry in implementing sound environmental initiatives, in areas such as carbon dioxide liquefaction, waste heat recovery and acid gas injection. Some of the initiatives Keyera has implemented since the Fund's establishment include:

- removing and liquefying carbon dioxide from the raw gas stream at our Rimbey gas plant, taking what would otherwise be part of a waste stream and turning it into a saleable product. In doing so, we created a new revenue stream at the plant, enhanced our sulphur recovery process, and reduced plant emissions.

- using heat contained in exhaust from large turbines at our Strachan gas plant to generate steam at the plant, resulting in the combined benefit of reducing emissions and fuel gas consumption.

- utilizing acid gas injection at five of our facilities, a process widely recognized as one of the most environmentally sound ways of handling the waste products associated with sour gas processing; and

- in 2008, we will be installing a flare gas recovery system at our Rimbey plant, one of only a few in Alberta.

Keyera has also adopted an eco-efficiency initiative, through which we encourage our employees to identify opportunities to improve efficiencies, reduce fuel gas consumption and reduce emissions.

In addition to these initiatives, Keyera has developed a variety of environmental monitoring programs to track its environmental footprint. Keyera's air, soil and water monitoring programs meet or exceed regulatory requirements. Monitoring at gas plants includes: regular soil monitoring to detect impacts from plant operations, incinerator stack emission monitoring for compliance with license requirements, and ambient air quality monitoring at various stations near our sour gas plants for traces of hydrogen sulphide and sulphur dioxide. In addition, Keyera participates in regional airshed monitoring programs developed by the Clean Air Strategic Alliance and licensed by Alberta Environment.

Environmental Regulation

General

The natural gas gathering and processing industry is subject to local, provincial and federal government legislation and regulations. Among other things, the environmental regulatory regime provides for restrictions and prohibitions on releases or emissions of various substances produced in association with certain oil and natural gas industry operations. Due to the toxic and corrosive nature of sour gas, numerous regulatory precautions are applied to gas plants and pipelines that process and transport sour gas. Environmental regulation affects the operation of facilities and limits the extent to which facility expansion is permitted. In addition, legislation requires that facility sites and pipelines be abandoned and reclaimed to the satisfaction of provincial authorities and local landowners. A breach of such legislation may result in the imposition of fines, the issuance of clean-up orders or the shutting down of facilities and pipelines.

The ERCB, together with Alberta Environment, govern the permitting, emissions and operations of gas processing plants in the Province of Alberta pursuant to the provisions of the Oil and Gas Conservation Act (Alberta) and Environmental Protection and Enhancement Act (Alberta) ("EPEA") and are concerned with a plant's impact on the physical environment. Generally, gas processing plants require a permit from the ERCB to process a specified volume of natural gas and a demonstration at the time of application that the impact on the environment will be minimal. Approvals from Alberta Environment for emissions to air and water may also be required depending on the size of the gas plant and whether the plant processes sweet or sour gas. When the natural gas supplied to a gas plant increases beyond the permitted processing capacity, the gas plant owners may: (i) apply for an increased processing permit if there is spare processing capacity in the gas plant; (ii) request gas plant expansion and an increased processing permit; or (iii) allow the surplus natural gas to bypass the gas plant.

Under EPEA, the primary environmental legislation in Alberta, environmental standards and compliance obligations for releases, clean-up and reporting are subject to scrutiny by both Alberta Environment and the public. Liability for clean-up, remediation and reclamation costs may be imposed on a wide range of parties including present and past owners of contaminated lands, or those that had charge, management or control of a substance that has been spilled or released. Regulators may issue shut-down orders where facilities or pipelines are not in compliance with the environmental laws or operating approvals, and fines under EPEA may be as high as $1,000,000 for each day that an offence under EPEA continues. In addition to EPEA, the ERCB has jurisdiction over environmental matters under the Oil and Gas Conservation Act (Alberta), the Pipelines Act (Alberta) and other legislation and also has issued multiple Information Letters, Interim Directives and Guides with strict obligations and standards concerning matters such as oilfield waste management and the suspension, abandonment and reclamation of oil and natural gas facilities that must be factored into the cost of conducting operations in Alberta.

Specific Regulatory Initiatives

Alberta has a program directed by the ERCB commonly referred to as the "Orphan Well Fund". This program is designed to mitigate the cost to the public of abandoning and reclaiming facilities under the jurisdiction of the ERCB. All holders of licenses from the ERCB are required to pay an annual levy to assist in funding the clean-up of orphan facilities. Keyera currently treats the levy as an operating cost applied equally to several compression and processing facilities. In order to reduce the occurrence of orphan facilities, this program also conducts monthly tests of each licensee's asset-to-liability ratio on a predetermined formula and requires licensees that do not pass the test to provide the ERCB with a deposit. Keyera currently has an asset to liability ratio greater than the industry average.

In October 2005, the ERCB initiated a liability management program referred to as the Large Facility Liability Management Program ("LFP"). The LFP addresses certain facilities such as sulphur recovery plants, in situ oil sands projects and straddle plants that were not included in the Orphan Well Fund. Presently there are no orphan facilities in the LFP program. As with the Orphan Well Fund, a monthly test of assets to liabilities is conducted and licensees failing the test are required to provide a deposit. Keyera's ratio of assets to liabilities is above the industry average.

On October 2, 2007, the Government of Alberta announced a new cumulative effects initiative covering a 317 square kilometer area northeast of Edmonton known as the Alberta Industrial Heartland. This new initiative establishes targets for air, water and land quality. All large industrial facilities within the Industrial Heartland, including Keyera's Fort Saskatchewan facility, will be subject to a cumulative airshed target of 25,000 tonnes per year of nitrous oxides and 28,000 tonnes per year of sulphur dioxide These airshed targets will be validated with stakeholders, including Keyera, and are scheduled to come into effect in January 2009. A working group has been established to determine the allocation for the airshed objectives in order to implement an allocation system. In addition, working groups are being formed to deal with water and land management issues, including sulphur and wetlands management. Based on the information currently available, Keyera does not anticipate that this initiative will require significant changes to current operations. However, the effect that this program may have on future operations or possible expansion is not clear at this time. Keyera will continue to be involved in the consultative process that is being followed to develop the management plans for the area under this initiative. Once more details are known, Keyera will be in a better position to evaluate the potential implications.

Sulphur Recovery

A higher level of sulphur recovery efficiency is required for all sour gas plants built subsequent to the introduction of IL 88-13. Grandfathered plants are permitted to continue operating at the levels of sulphur recovery efficiency which were in place prior to IL 88-13. Sour gas plants wishing to operate in excess of allowable inlet sulphur rates must degrandfather by increasing sulphur recovery efficiency to the levels established in IL 88-13.

The ERCB and Alberta Environment periodically undertake a review of the sulphur recovery requirements for both new and existing gas plants to determine whether or not factors such as advances in technology or changing environmental or economic considerations warrant adjustments to the requirements. Such a review was undertaken in 2001 and the results were published in ID 2001-3. In ID 2001-3, the ERCB set maximum allowable limits on the amount of inlet sulphur that could be processed through "grandfathered" plants. This directive established revised sulphur recovery guidelines for new and/or expanding sour gas plants. Existing sour gas plants which were grandfathered are required to meet the revised sulphur recovery guidelines over time. All of the Partnership's facilities except Nordegg River have been degrandfathered over the last several years. This directive also imposed new rules with respect to sulphur emissions at industrial plants such as the Fort Saskatchewan facilities. Even though new rules did not have a deadline for compliance, Keyera opted to address the lower emission limit for the Fort Saskatchewan facilities in connection with other regular licensing activities so that these facilities comply with ID 2001-3.

Particulate Matter and Ozone Management Framework

Alberta Environment, together with the Clean Air Strategic Alliance, has implemented the Particulate Matter and Ozone Management Framework to achieve Canada-wide standard levels by the 2010 target date. This Framework likely will affect several Keyera plants operating in central Alberta. Development of the management strategies and recommended actions will occur through the region's ambient air monitoring associations of the Parkland Airshed Management Zone and the Fort Air Partnership. The likely result will be actions to reduce emissions of nitrogen oxides from compressor engines beyond the current standard and the implementation of fugitive mitigation programs for hydrocarbon emissions from facility operations. Concurrently, the ERCB is requiring fugitive emissions management by 2010 at all facilities under Directive 060, Upstream Petroleum Industry Flaring, Incineration and Venting.

Greenhouse Gas Emissions Limits

Greenhouse gases, mainly carbon dioxide and methane, are components of the raw natural gas being processed and handled at oil and gas facilities. Additionally, greenhouse gases are emitted from the combustion of fossil fuels in engines, heaters and boilers. Keyera's facilities and related operations emit greenhouse gases. Many of Keyera's facilities have the capability to capture greenhouse gases from the raw gas processed, and Keyera has undertaken a variety of initiatives that have reduced and are expected to reduce greenhouse gas emissions. Keyera has used an engineering consulting firm to compile inventories of greenhouse gas emissions for several of the years since 2000 and has reported these inventories in accordance with federal and provincial programs. In 2007, third party audits of these inventories were conducted at three of Keyera's facilities.

On March 8, 2007 the Alberta government introduced amendments to the Climate Change and Emissions Management Act (Bill 3) and the accompanying Specified Gas Emitters Regulation (the "Regulation"). The Regulation applies to all facilities in Alberta that produce over 100,000 tonnes of carbon dioxide equivalent ("CO2e") annually. The Regulation was implemented July 1, 2007. The program is designed to reduce the emissions intensity of greenhouse gases at applicable facilities. Emissions intensity refers to the amount of greenhouse gas, measured on a CO2e basis, emitted on a unit of production basis.

Under the Regulation, existing large emitters must reduce net emissions intensity to 88% of the baseline emissions intensity. The baseline emissions intensity is the average emissions intensity at a facility over the period between 2003 and 2005. If the actual emissions intensity is above the net emissions intensity, then the facility licensee can bring the facility into compliance by:

- purchasing emission offsets. Emissions offsets are classified as actions or projects which have resulted in reduced greenhouse gas emissions in Alberta on or since January 1, 2002;

- purchasing fund credits from the Climate Change and Emissions Management Fund at a cost of $15/tonne of CO2e; and/or

- purchasing emission performance credits (such credits are reductions in greenhouse gas emissions beyond the 88% of the baseline emissions intensity).

Keyera is the operator of three facilities which are subject to the announced legislation: its Strachan, Rimbey and Brazeau River gas plants. Based on a worst case scenario, which assumes that Keyera purchases fund credits at $15/tonne to reduce its net emissions intensity to the intended target and that no emission offsets or performance emission credits are purchased at a cost less than $15/tonne, the anticipated financial impact of the new Regulation on Keyera's operations is estimated at $408,000 in 2007. Thereafter, on an annual basis, the financial impact would be expected to be approximately $1 million per year. Keyera believes that projects implemented since 2002 at Keyera's facilities, together with potential new initiatives, could generate emission offsets or performance credits that could be used or traded to reduce the financial impact outlined above; however, it is not possible at this stage to determine what benefit, if any, may be realized from such actions. In January 2008, the Government of Alberta also announced its intention to cut projected emissions by 50% by 2050. The three main strategies for achieving this reduction identified in the announcement included: carbon capture and storage; energy conservation and efficiency; and developing green technology to be used in energy production. As of the date hereof, no details are available and therefore it is not possible to determine what the impact of this announcement might be on Keyera.

On February 19, 2008, in connection with the release of its budget package, the Government of British Columbia announced a series of measures it intends to take as part of an overall climate change initiative aimed at reducing greenhouse gas emissions by one third by 2020. The announcement includes a proposed broad-based carbon tax intended to be implemented effective July 1, 2008. According to the information released by the Government of British Columbia, the carbon tax initially will not apply to industrial emissions. Assuming the carbon tax legislation that is passed is consistent with this information, Keyera does not expect there to be a significant direct impact on its operations at the Caribou gas plant in north-eastern British Columbia. However, the legislation, including any future amendments, will be monitored.

In addition to these provincial initiatives, on April 26, 2007, the federal government released the Regulatory Framework for Air Emissions (the "Framework") which sets out new federal greenhouse gas and air pollutant emission reduction targets for various industrial sectors, including the oil and gas industry. The Framework forms the basis for ongoing consultations and the draft greenhouse gas and air pollutant regulations are to be released in the spring of 2008. Details of the proposed federal regulations are not yet known and additional clarity will be required before the effect on Keyera can be determined.

Overall, Keyera is conscious that there is a risk that future international, national or provincial emission reduction requirement, may require the reduction of emissions or emissions intensity from its operations and facilities. These reductions may not be technically or economically feasible and the failure to meet such emission reduction requirements may result in fines, penalties, the suspension of operations, and/or the necessity of purchasing greenhouse gas credits, all of which could materially adversely affect Keyera's business. Keyera attempts to be proactive in anticipating the changes on the horizon and is actively engaged in identifying opportunities to mitigate its environmental footprint. (See "Risk Factors and Risk Management Strategies – Risks Inherent in Keyera's Business - Environmental and Public Safety Considerations").

RISK FACTORS AND RISK MANAGEMENT STRATEGIES

The Fund is an unincorporated limited purpose trust which depends entirely on the operations and assets of its subsidiaries for its income. The Fund and its subsidiaries face a number of risks. The summary provided below describes the main risks known to Keyera, but readers are cautioned that this list may not be exhaustive, as there may be some risks that are unknown. The following summary also identifies some of the steps that Keyera takes to mitigate identified risks. Readers are cautioned that many of the risks are beyond Keyera's control and, in spite of Keyera's active management of its risk exposure, there is no guarantee that these risk management activities will successfully mitigate such exposure.

Risks Inherent in Keyera's Business

Reliance on Producers

The volumes of natural gas processed at Keyera's gas plants and NGLs and other products transported in Keyera's pipelines or processed at Keyera's facilities depend on production of natural gas. Without reserve additions, production will decline over time as reserves are depleted. Although industry activity levels in recent years have generally offset declines, activity levels depend upon economic and regulatory conditions that permit and incent producers to explore for and develop reserves. Producers in the areas serviced by Keyera's gas plants may not be successful in exploring for and developing additional reserves or higher production costs or royalties may discourage further exploration and development, the result of which could be declines in the volume of throughput at the gas plants, the pipelines and NGL processing facilities. Commodity prices may not remain at a level which encourages producers to explore for and develop additional reserves or produce existing reserves.

The rate and timing of production from proven natural gas reserves tied into the gas plants are at the discretion of the producers and are subject to regulatory constraints. The producers have no obligation to produce natural gas from these lands. Producers may shut in production as a result of lower product prices or higher production costs. Further, a significant portion of the proven natural gas in the areas connected to Keyera's gas plants is not contractually dedicated for processing at those gas plants and the majority of the reserves which are subject to processing obligations may be terminated upon six months' notice.

While Keyera is unable to directly influence producer activity, it actively monitors, on an ongoing basis, plant throughput, third party system performance and industry activities in capture areas surrounding its plants (including land sales, well licenses and drilling activity). As circumstances warrant, Keyera pursues opportunities to expand its capture areas and/or to modify its plants to provide new services in order to try to maximize revenue generation and extend the service life of its assets. Keyera also endeavours to mitigate this risk by maintaining an emphasis on providing reliable, efficient, cost-effective, customer-friendly services.

Facilities Throughput

Keyera's facilities are presently operating at lower throughputs than their respective licensed capacities in part due to declines in production since the facilities were built. Over the long term, the business of Keyera will depend, in part, on the level of demand for NGLs and natural gas in the geographic areas in which deliveries are made by pipelines and the ability and willingness of shippers having access or rights to utilize the pipelines to supply such demand. Keyera cannot predict the impact of future economic conditions, fuel conservation measures, alternative fuel requirements, governmental regulation or technological advances in fuel economy and energy generation devices, all of which could reduce the demand for natural gas and NGLs, thereby potentially reducing utilization rates at Keyera's facilities.

Another reason that Keyera's facilities frequently operate at lower throughputs than their respective licensed capacities is because of the difference between the licensed capacity and the effective available raw gas processing capacity. The ability of individual functional units within each plant to handle additional volumes can become a limiting factor due to such factors as gas composition changes over time or changes in plant operating conditions. Certain Keyera facilities would require expenditures for equipment refurbishment, replacement or de-bottlenecking in order to reach licensed capacity.

One of the ways Keyera tries to mitigate these risks is through its formal inspection, monitoring and maintenance programs for equipment and pipelines. The objective of these programs is, in part, to maximize facility availability and operational efficiency. Keyera may also from time to time consider expanding the capacity of some of its functional units at certain plants if conditions warrant and there is sufficient demand for such expansion.

Reliance on Other Facilities

Keyera's gas plants are connected to various third party sales gas trunkline systems, such as the Alliance, ATCO and TCPL systems, as well as liquids trunkline systems. Most shippers of natural gas and NGLs through these third party pipeline systems are not party to long term contracts and are free to use alternate transportation arrangements. Keyera's NGL Infrastructure and Marketing businesses also benefit from connections to third party infrastructure, including various pipelines and rail facilities. Operational disruptions, apportionment, regulatory action or other events on third party systems and infrastructure may prevent the full utilization of Keyera's facilities or otherwise hamper Keyera's business activities.

Keyera is unable to control operations or events in third party facilities making the mitigation of these risks challenging. However, in Keyera's experience, outages on third party operated trunklines for extended periods are rare due to the nature of those facilities. The owners of these facilities have significant financial resources, competent personnel, well developed operating practices and inspection and maintenance programs and formal security programs to protect their assets from deliberate harm. Several of Keyera's facilities also benefit from connections to more than one trunkline system which provides some flexibility during curtailments.

Keyera is also unable to control regulatory actions that may be taken with respect to third party facilities. Depending on the nature of the regulatory action taken, Keyera's commercial operations and business arrangements could be adversely affected. (See "Risk Factors and Risk Management Strategies - Risks Inherent in Keyera's Business - Regulatory Intervention").

Operational Matters and Hazards

Keyera's operations are subject to common hazards of the natural gas (sweet and sour) processing and pipeline transportation business. The operation of Keyera's gas plants and pipelines involves many risks, including the breakdown or failure of equipment, information systems or processes, the performance of equipment at levels below those originally intended (whether due to misuse, unexpected degradation or design, construction or manufacturing defects), failure to maintain an adequate inventory of supplies or spare parts, operator error, labour disputes, disputes with owners of interconnected facilities and carriers, releases of harmful substances into the environment, spills associated with the loading and unloading of harmful substances onto rail cars and trucks, and catastrophic events such as natural disasters, fires, explosions, derailments, fractures, acts of terrorists and saboteurs, and other similar events, many of which are beyond the control of Keyera. The occurrence or continuance of any of these events could increase the cost of operating Keyera's facilities and/or reduce its processing or throughput capacity, or result in damages claims or fines, all of which could adversely affect financial results.

To help mitigate these risks, Keyera relies on knowledgeable, competent personnel to identify and manage operational risks. It maintains written standard operating practices and formally assesses and documents competencies related to the operation of its facilities. Keyera also maintains formal inspection and maintenance programs for equipment and pipelines, a formal safety program (including hazard identification and work permitting for specific projects) and formal security programs to protect key assets from deliberate harm. Keyera carries casualty and business interruption insurance to help defray the costs associated with the foregoing risks should they materialize; however, insurance may not be sufficient to fully offset such costs.

Market Risk and Marketing Activities

Keyera enters into contracts to purchase and sell natural gas, NGLs and crude oil. Most of these contracts are priced at floating market prices. These activities expose Keyera to market risks resulting from movements in commodity prices between the time volumes are purchased and the time they are sold, from fluctuations in the margins between purchase prices and sales prices and, in some cases, may also expose Keyera to currency exchange risk. (See "Risk Factors - Risks Inherent in Keyera's Business - Foreign Exchange"). The prices of the products that are marketed by Keyera are subject to fluctuations as a result of such factors as seasonal demand changes, changes in crude oil and natural gas markets, and other factors. In many circumstances, particularly in NGL marketing, purchase and sale contracts are not perfectly matched as they are entered into at different times and at different values. Further, Keyera normally has a long position in most of the NGL products that it markets, and may store NGLs in order to meet seasonal demand and take advantage of seasonal pricing differentials thereby resulting in inventory risk. Because crude oil margins are earned by capturing spreads between different qualities of crude oil, Keyera's crude oil midstream business is subject to volatility in price differentials between crude oil streams. In both Keyera's NGL and crude oil marketing businesses, margins can vary significantly from period to period and volatility in the markets for these products may cause distortions in financial results from period to period that are not replicable.

To some extent, Keyera can lessen certain elements of risk exposure through the integration of its marketing business with its facilities businesses. In spite of this integration, Keyera remains exposed to market and commodity price risk. Keyera manages this commodity risk in a number of ways, including the use of financial contracts and by offsetting some physical and financial contracts in terms of volumes, timing of performance and delivery obligations. For example, in the context of NGL marketing, because NGL product prices are related to the price of crude oil, crude oil financial contracts are one of the more common hedging strategies that Keyera uses. This strategy is subject to basis risk between the prices of crude oil and the NGL product and therefore cannot be expected to fully offset future propane, butane and condensate price movements. Further, there is no guarantee that hedging and other efforts to manage the marketing and inventory risks will generate profits or mitigate all the market and inventory risk associated with these activities. If Keyera hedges its commodity price exposure, it may forego the benefits that may otherwise be experienced if commodity prices were to increase. To the extent that Keyera engages in these kinds of hedging activities, it is also subject to credit risks associated with counterparties with whom it contracts (See "Risk Factors – Risks Inherent in Keyera's Business – Credit Risk").

Risks Arising from Co-ownership

Many of Keyera's facilities are jointly owned with third parties. Approvals must be obtained from such joint owners for proposals to make capital expenditures regarding such facilities. These approvals typically require that a capital expenditure proposal be approved by at least two or three owners holding a specified percentage of the ownership interests in the relevant facility, usually ranging between 50% and 70%. It may not be possible for Keyera to obtain the required levels of approval from co-owners of facilities for future proposals for capital expenditures, which may adversely affect Keyera's ability to expand or improve its existing facilities. In addition, agreements for joint ownership often contain restrictions on transfer of an interest in a facility. The most frequent restrictions require a transferor who is proposing to transfer an interest to offer such interest to the other holders of interests in the facility prior to completing the transfer. Such provisions may restrict Keyera's ability to transfer its interests in facilities or to acquire partners' interests in facilities, and may also restrict Keyera's ability to maximize the value of a sale of its interest.

As part of its effort to minimize these risks, Keyera maintains communication with its co-owners through its participation in operating committees and formal decision-making processes such as mail ballots and AFE approvals. Keyera also utilizes its knowledge of industry activity and relationships with other owners to mitigate the risk of uncooperative behaviour. However, there is no guarantee that Keyera will be able to proceed with its plans for any facilities which are jointly owned.

Operating, Capital and General and Administrative Costs

Operating and capital costs associated with Keyera's facilities represent significant components of the cost of providing services. These costs may vary considerably from current and forecast values and rates. For example, fluctuations in the prices of electricity and fuel can cause significant fluctuations in operating costs. As well, general and administrative costs may vary considerably from current and forecast values, particularly in light of the tight employment market and the high demand for trades and contractors in Alberta.

Maintenance capital requirements and maintenance expenses may vary from year to year depending on such factors as the scheduling of maintenance turnarounds, operating conditions and gas composition. In general, the cost of Keyera's inspection, monitoring and maintenance programs are expensed in the period they are incurred. Where a repair or replacement has enduring value, it is capitalized rather than expensed. Working capital requirements are strongly influenced by the volume of NGLs held in storage and related commodity prices. Historically the largest allocation of working capital to fund inventory has been approximately $81 million. In addition to the working capital required for inventory, Keyera requires working capital to finance other activities. These additional working capital requirements have historically tended to be in the range of $25 million to $45 million. Growth capital expenditures vary depending upon available opportunities.

Financial results may be adversely affected if significant increases in operating, capital or general and administrative costs are incurred and not recovered. Although operating costs are usually recaptured through the tariffs charged on processing and transportation, some processing arrangements do not permit the flow-through of operating costs. Even at facilities where flow-through arrangements are in place, to the extent the costs charged to producers escalate, they may seek lower cost alternatives or stop production of their natural gas.

With ongoing maintenance consistent with historic levels, it is anticipated that Keyera's assets can continue to operate safely for decades to come. Keyera prepares annual budgets for each facility in which it has an interest and AFE budgets for each capital project proposed or undertaken. Keyera relies on knowledgeable, competent staff to establish realistic cost projections for budgeting purposes and to operate facilities in an efficient manner. Keyera also monitors input costs such as the prices of electricity and fuel, and may use physical and financial contracts to manage these costs as and when considered appropriate by its risk management committee. While these activities may help to mitigate Keyera's risk exposure, they do not remove the risks associated with unanticipated increases or fluctuations in such costs.

Natural Gas Composition

Each of Keyera's gas plants is designed to process raw natural gas feedstock within a certain range of composition specifications. The gas plants may require modification to operate efficiently if the composition of the raw gas being processed changes significantly. The configuration of each of Keyera's gas plants may not be optimal for efficient operation in the future if inlet gas composition changes.

Keyera monitors plant throughput, third party system performance and industry development activity in the capture areas surrounding its facilities on an ongoing basis. This information is used when assessing expansion opportunities and the possibility of adding new processing or commercial services.

Reliance on Principal Customers and Suppliers

Keyera relies on a number of principal customers in each of its business segments, the most significant of which is the arrangement with ConocoPhillips. In 2007, approximately 15% of the Partnership's natural gas gathering and processing revenue and 13% of NGL volumes were derived from long term agreements with ConocoPhillips which expire in December 2018. (See "Other Information Relating to Keyera's Business - Business Arrangements - ConocoPhillips Arrangements"). In addition to the arrangement with ConocoPhillips, Keyera enters into many other contracts with its customers and suppliers and may offer services on standard terms without entering into signed written agreements. Often the contracts that are entered into with customers or suppliers are for a defined term or are subject to early termination upon notice.

There is no guarantee that any of the contracts that Keyera currently has in place will be renewed at the end of their term or replaced with other contracts in the event of early termination. Further, there is a risk that customers or suppliers will be unable to perform their obligations under the contracts. If any of these circumstances were to arise, the revenue generated by Keyera's operating entities would be reduced which could adversely affect Keyera's financial results.

In an effort to minimize the risk of reliance on any single customer or supplier, Keyera has diversified its customer and supplier base and continues to explore relationships with existing and potential new customers and suppliers. It also tries to provide efficient, reliable services and to build on its relationships with producers and others as a way of encouraging existing customers to renew contracts and attracting new customers and suppliers. In spite of these efforts, there is no guarantee that Keyera will be able to renew or replace existing contracts or enter into new contracts.

Competition

Each of Keyera's gas plants is subject to competition from other gas processing plants which are either in the general vicinity of the gas plants or have gathering systems that do or could potentially extend into Keyera's capture areas. The NGL and crude oil commodities that are marketed by Keyera compete with supplies from Canadian, American and international sources. As well, Keyera's NGL pipelines and storage, terminal and processing facilities are subject to competition from other existing pipelines and facilities, which competition is anticipated to continue to grow as other companies announce plans for expanded transportation, terminalling and storage services in the Edmonton/Fort Saskatchewan hub. Keyera competes with local and international entities to acquire NGLs for processing and resale and to attract and retain customers. Competition for customers is not confined to NGL suppliers and marketers; rather, the natural gas and gas products industry also competes with other industries seeking to provide alternative sources of fuel and feedstock to consumers. Competition from non-hydrocarbon based sources of energy may have an adverse effect on the production of natural gas and gas products in Alberta and, as a result, on the demand for Keyera's services.

Keyera tries to mitigate these risks by working cooperatively with its existing customers, monitoring industry activity and the activities of its competitors in key markets and being proactive in identifying opportunities in existing and emerging markets. Further, because of the capital investment required, there are high barriers to entry for new competitors in the gathering and processing business and NGL business in the areas where Keyera's facilities are located. While Keyera feels it is well positioned to compete with its peers, aggressive action by competitors, changes in law, declines in production and a stronger shift in the market place to non-hydrocarbon based energy sources could all adversely affect Keyera's competitive position.

Regulatory Intervention

Pipelines and facilities can be subject to common carrier and common processor applications and to rate setting by regulatory authorities in the event that agreement on fees or tariffs cannot be reached with producers. To the extent that producers believe processing fees or tariffs respecting pipelines and facilities are too high, they may seek rate relief through regulatory means. (See "Industry and Environmental Regulation"). Keyera tries to reduce the likelihood of regulatory intervention by taking industry standards and guidelines into account in setting rates and tariffs and by working proactively with its customers. Nevertheless, there is no guarantee that Keyera will be able to avoid challenges to its rates and tariffs. Further, Keyera may be adversely affected by regulatory action taken with respect to third party systems and infrastructure.

As well, some projects that Keyera may wish to pursue may require various regulatory approvals. There is no guarantee that such approvals can be obtained on a timely basis, or at all. Regulatory delays may result in project economics becoming less favourable or in some projects not proceeding.

Environmental and Public Safety Considerations

The gas processing and gathering industry is regulated by federal and provincial environmental legislation. Environmental legislation imposes, among other things, restrictions, liabilities and obligations in connection with the handling, use, storage, transportation, treatment and disposal of hazardous substances and waste, and in connection with spills, releases and emissions of various substances into the environment. Environmental legislation also requires that facilities, pipelines and other properties associated with Keyera's operations be operated, maintained, abandoned and reclaimed to the satisfaction of applicable regulatory authorities.

Many of Keyera's facilities are subject to licensing requirements imposed by Alberta Environment and/or the ERCB. These licenses must be renewed from time to time and there is no guarantee that the license will be renewed on the same or similar conditions. In addition, certain types of activities may require the submission and approval of environmental impact assessments or permit applications. Compliance with environmental legislation can require significant expenditures. Activities that do not meet regulatory standards or that breach such legislation may result in the imposition of fines, penalties and suspension of operations. It is also possible that increasingly strict environmental and safety requirements will be implemented, which could result in substantial costs of compliance, including increased capital expenditures and operating expenses. The provincial and federal governments are taking steps to impose stricter regulations and emission limits on greenhouse gas emissions in the near term. (See "Industry and Environmental Regulation"). If it is determined that emissions exceed permitted limits, regulatory requirements will be triggered that require action to be taken to reduce emission levels to acceptable levels, unless an extension or relaxation is granted. There can be no assurance that any extension of time to achieve compliance would be granted and immediate compliance may not be possible.

Given the highly toxic and corrosive nature of sour gas, certain environmental risks are inherent in sour gas processing at Keyera's gas plants. As well, some of Keyera's pipelines and facilities run through or are immediately adjacent to heavily populated areas, including the City of Edmonton. Major equipment failure, a release of toxic substances or a pipeline rupture (including as a result of third party contact with the pipeline) could result in damage to the environment and Keyera's gas plants, death or injury and substantial costs and liabilities to third parties. Keyera may not be able to insure against these events or may elect not to insure because of high premium costs or for other reasons. Further, if, at any time, appropriate regulatory authorities deem any one of the pipelines or facilities unsafe, they may order it to be shut down. There is also the risk of civil liability for environmental matters.

To help mitigate these risks, Keyera has developed environmental programs and internal operating guidelines intended to minimize the environmental impact of its operations. Keyera has also developed environmental and safety training for its employees. Keyera conducts its operations and monitors environmental impacts in accordance with these programs and acts promptly to remediate environmental impacts beyond acceptable levels. Keyera's air, soil and water monitoring programs meet or exceed regulatory requirements. Keyera also has a community relations program and policy which requires that information be provided to the public with respect to its policies and operations, and that employees be sensitive and responsive to public concerns. Based on current operations and practices, Keyera does not anticipate that the costs of complying with environmental regulation or dealing with environmental civil liabilities will have a material adverse affect on its financial results; however, no assurance can be made such costs will not adversely effect financial results in the future. If the federal government acts to impose emission limits on greenhouse gases, it is not known what these limits will be or how they will affect Keyera, but at this time Keyera does not anticipate that it will be affected in a manner materially different than any other comparable midstream business. (See "Industry and Environmental Regulation").

Foreign Operations

Through the incorporation of KEI, the establishment of an office in Houston and the acquisition of propane terminals in four locations in the U.S., Keyera has expanded its U.S. operations and established permanent operations in the U.S. In addition, a percentage of the Partnership's propane sales are made into U.S. markets. Keyera's significant reliance on these markets means that it is subject to downturns in the U.S. economy, weather patterns in the U.S., protectionist actions by U.S. legislators and other political developments, all of which could have an adverse impact on Keyera's financial results.

Further, while the growth of Keyera's permanent operations in the U.S. enhances its ability to access large U.S. markets, it also presents a number of risks, including increased regulatory and compliance obligations and costs, as well as risks associated with potential non-compliance. The selling of propane in the U.S. and the establishment of permanent operations in the U.S. also expose Keyera to potential U.S. liability. The U.S. tends to be a litigious environment with larger damages awards compared to Canada. In some instances, Keyera may be subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of American courts.

While KEI has a small staff in Houston, portions of Keyera's U.S. operations are managed and administered by Canadian personnel with limited expertise in U.S. law and regulation. Keyera engages U.S. counsel from time to time to assist with identifying and complying with applicable state and federal laws. Keyera monitors developments and trends that may affect propane transportation, terminalling and sales in the U.S. and its risk management committee considers the risk profile of the U.S. operations when evaluating Keyera's risk mitigation strategies. Keyera is also examining options for reducing the exposure of its Canadian assets to civil claims in the U.S. There is no guarantee that any of these activities will have the effect of reducing the risks associated with its permanent operations in the U.S. or with Keyera's dependence on U.S. markets for the majority of its propane sales.

Adequacy of Insurance

Keyera currently maintains customary insurance of the types and amounts consistent with prudent industry practice. Keyera is not obligated to maintain any such insurance if it is not available to Keyera on commercially reasonable terms. There can be no assurance that such insurance coverage will be available in the future on commercially reasonable terms or at commercially reasonable rates or that the amounts for which Keyera is insured, or the proceeds of such insurance, will compensate Keyera fully for its losses. The insurance coverage obtained with respect to Keyera's business and facilities will be subject to limits and exclusions or limitations on coverage that are considered to be reasonable, given the cost of procuring insurance and current operating conditions. There can be no assurance that the insurance proceeds received by Keyera in respect of a claim will be sufficient in any particular situation to satisfy the indebtedness of Keyera.

With the growth in Keyera's operating activities in the U.S., Keyera has expanded its insurance coverage to include coverages for these U.S. operations. Because of the litigation environment, the potential for higher damages awards and Keyera's acquisition of propane terminals in four U.S. locations, premiums for this coverage are notably higher than coverage for Canadian operations and there is no guarantee that the coverages Keyera has obtained will be sufficient to satisfy any claims that may be brought as a result of these operations.

Keyera does not insure against soil and groundwater contamination, except for contamination resulting from catastrophic failures. In certain areas in which Keyera has operations, it carries limited or no coverage for terrorism and for injury to workers.

Keyera has established a risk management committee, the mandate of which includes reviewing the risks faced by Keyera's various business operations and appropriate types and levels of insurance that should be in place to mitigate those risks. In addition to ongoing monitoring of industry and insurance market trends, Keyera reviews its insurance coverages and coverage levels at least annually in consultation with insurance providers and experts. Keyera also works with insurance advisors and underwriters so that they are knowledgeable about Keyera's operating practices and emergency systems to enhance their understanding of Keyera's business and mitigate the risk of unjustified premium increases.

Decommissioning, Abandonment and Reclamation Costs

Keyera will be responsible for compliance with all applicable laws and regulations regarding the decommissioning, abandonment and reclamation of its facilities at the end of their economic life, the costs of which may be substantial. It is not possible to predict these costs with certainty since they will be a function of regulatory requirements at the time of decommissioning, abandonment and reclamation and the actual costs may exceed current estimates which are the basis of the asset retirement obligation shown in Keyera's financial statements. Keyera may, in the future, determine it to be prudent or may be required by applicable laws or regulations to establish and fund one or more decommissioning, abandonment and reclamation reserve funds to provide for payment of future decommissioning, abandonment and reclamation costs. If Keyera is not able to fund such reserve funds through an environmental recovery fee, the creation and maintenance of these reserves could decrease cash available to distribute to Unitholders and to service debt obligations in the future. Further, even if such reserves funds were established, they may not be sufficient to satisfy the future costs.

To help mitigate these risks, Keyera utilizes a documented process, overseen by the Health, Safety and Environment Committee, to estimate future liability and the anticipated cost of the decommissioning, abandonment and reclamation of its facilities. These costs are accounted for and reported in accordance with GAAP. Keyera continues to support the concept of decommissioning, abandonment and reclamation recovery fees and will work with industry and government bodies to promote this concept as opportunities to do so arise.

Weather Conditions

Weather conditions can affect the demand for and price of natural gas and NGLs. As a result, changes in weather patterns can affect throughput as well as Keyera's NGL marketing activities. For example, colder winter temperatures generally increase demand for natural gas and NGLs used for heating supplies which tends to result in increased throughput volumes at facilities and higher prices in the marketing business. In its facilities and NGL business, Keyera tries to position itself to be able to handle increased volumes of throughput and storage at its facilities to meet seasonal demand; however, at any given time facility and storage capacity is finite.

Keyera has no ability to control weather conditions. Weather conditions may influence Keyera's ability to complete capital projects or facility turnarounds on time, potentially resulting in delays and increasing costs of such capital projects and turnarounds. Weather may also affect the operations and projects of Keyera's customers, thereby influencing the supply of natural gas and NGLs.

With respect to construction activities, in areas where construction can be conducted in non-winter months, Keyera tries to schedule its construction timetables so as to minimize delays due to cold winter weather. While availability of trades and supplies does not always make this possible, Keyera has been relatively successful in minimizing construction delays due to weather issues. While Keyera does not speculate on weather in its marketing business, it tries to respond to supply and demand seasonality by building inventories in the warmer months, for delivery in the winter months when demand is generally expected to be higher. While Keyera uses financial contracts to mitigate the commodity price risks associated with these inventories, there is no guarantee that Keyera's inventory management activities will generate positive margins (See "Risk Factors - Risks Inherent in Keyera's Business – Market Risk and Marketing Activities").

Employees and Contractors

A skilled workforce is important to the ongoing success of Keyera. The inability of Keyera to attract and retain skilled employees and contractors, particularly in light of the tight employment market and the high demand for contractors in Alberta, could adversely affect Keyera's business operations. Further, the cost of retaining employees and hiring contractors in the current environment places inflationary pressure on Keyera's costs.

Keyera maintains a relatively good relationship with its employees and tries to cultivate a work environment in which employees have internal growth opportunities. To date, Keyera has been successful in achieving a turn-over rate below industry averages. Keyera also tries to cultivate good relationships with dependable contractors in order to try to benefit from reliability and continuity of service. Nevertheless, if Keyera is not able to attract skilled employees and contractors, its ability to execute its business plans may be impaired.

Dependence on Key Personnel

The success of Keyera has been largely dependent on the skills and expertise of its key personnel to manage the overall business and, in the NGL marketing business, to achieve positive margins. The continued success of Keyera will be dependent on its ability to retain such personnel. Increasing costs associated with retaining key personnel, particularly in light of the tight employment market in Alberta, could adversely affect Keyera's business operations and financial results. Further, Keyera has adopted the practice of purchasing the Units necessary to fulfil grants under the Long Term Incentive Plan on the market rather than issuing such Units from treasury and in 2006 it amended the LTIP to eliminate the ability to issue Units from treasury. The cost of the LTIP is now therefore directly dependent on the Unit price. The Long Term Incentive Plan is described in detail in the Fund's Information Circular.

Keyera tries to mitigate the risk of losing key personnel for economic reasons by obtaining expert advice with respect to compensation matters (including salary as well as long and short term incentive plans). Keyera also participates in industry compensation surveys in order to measure its compensation package against prevailing market rates.

Labour Relations

Keyera has unions at its two largest gas processing facilities. Unionized labour disruptions could restrict the ability of the gas plants to process natural gas and therefore affect Keyera's financial results. (See "Business of Keyera - Employees and Labour Relations"). The collective agreement for employees at the Strachan gas plant expires on December 31, 2011 and the collective agreement for employees at the Rimbey gas plant expired on December 31, 2007. Keyera is currently engaged in negotiations to renew the agreement at the Rimbey gas plant. Keyera attempts to enter into union negotiations on a timely basis in light of the length of the collective agreements. Overall, Keyera maintains a relatively good relationship with its unions and unionized employees and has never experienced a strike or work stoppage at either of its unionized plants.

Change in Laws

The oil and natural gas industry, including the midstream industry, is subject to regulation and intervention by governments, in such matters as environmental protection, exploration and development activities, the licensing, operation and expansion of wells and facilities, and the abandonment of facilities. There is no guarantee that laws and administrative policies relating to the oil and natural gas industry, including the midstream industry, will not be changed in a manner which adversely affects the Fund and/or the Unitholders. In addition to being affected by changes aimed directly at midstream facilities, Keyera could also be adversely affected by changes in regulations or policies directed at upstream activities, such as land sales, exploration and development in the capture areas surrounding Keyera's facilities, as well as changes directed at downstream activities, including retail and consumer uses. For example, Keyera may be adversely affected by a reduction in exploration and production by producers as a result of the proposed changes to the Alberta royalty regime. Keyera is working with producers in its capture areas to try to determine whether drilling and production could be curtailed; however, as of the date hereof the degree to which Keyera will be affected by these changes remains unclear. In addition, Keyera could be adversely affected by the imposition of additional emission limits for greenhouse gases by the federal or provincial governments. (See "Risk Factors and Risk Management Strategies - Risks Inherent in an Investment in Units - Changes in Income Tax Laws" and "Industry and Environmental Regulation - Environmental Regulation"). In the event of legislative or regulatory changes, Keyera's ability to conduct business may be adversely affected which could thereby have a negative effect on cash available for distribution.

Debt Matters

Keyera relies on debt financing for some of its business activities, including capital and operating expenditures. The credit facilities are for a defined term and there are no assurances that Keyera will be able to refinance any or all of the facilities at their maturity. In addition, there are no assurances that Keyera will be able to comply at all times with the covenants applicable under these credit facilities. Any failure of Keyera to obtain refinancing or to comply with applicable covenants under its credit facilities could have a material adverse effect on Keyera's financial results, including its ability to maintain distributions to Unitholders. Further, any inability of Keyera to obtain new financing may limit its ability to support future growth. (See "Other Information Related to Keyera's Business – Borrowing")

Borrowings or additional borrowings made by or on behalf of Keyera will affect the leverage of the business. Interest and principal payments on such borrowings will take precedence over cash distributions to Unitholders and may increase the level of financial risk in the operations of Keyera. Keyera's short-term and long-term debt and the Debentures prohibit the payment of distributions at any time at which a default or event of default would exist under such debt, or if a default or event of default would exist as a result of making the distribution.

If Keyera is unable to refinance debt obligations at the time of maturity or is unable to refinance on equally favourable terms, the level of cash distributions to Unitholders may be affected. The revolving credit facilities are currently scheduled to mature in 2010 and the long-term senior unsecured notes mature on various dates between 2008 and 2017. ("See "Other Information Relating to Keyera's Business - Borrowing").

Keyera believes that the existing credit facilities will be sufficient for its immediate requirements and has no reason to believe that it will not be able to renew its existing credit facilities on commercially reasonable terms. However, there can be no assurance that the amounts will be adequate for further financial obligations or that additional funds will be able to be obtained.

Interest Rates

Keyera takes on interest rate risk in association with its debt financing. Amounts paid in respect of interest and principal on debt reduce cash flow available for distribution. Interest rates are influenced by Canadian and global economic conditions beyond Keyera's control. Floating rate debt obligations expose Keyera to changes in interest payments, which could have an adverse effect on Keyera's financial results, as variations in interest rates could result in changes in the amount required to be applied to debt service. As part of its efforts to mitigate the risk exposure associated with interest rate fluctuations, Keyera maintains a portfolio of debt of varying terms and monitors the balance of fixed and floating interest rates in its portfolio.

Foreign Exchange

Keyera takes on foreign exchange risk with respect to its purchase and sale of commodities and with respect to its U.S. investment and borrowings. For example, in Keyera's marketing business, commodity prices are often quoted in U.S. dollars and the price paid and received by it for these commodities is therefore affected by the Canadian – U.S. exchange rate which may fluctuate over time and such fluctuations could have an adverse effect on Keyera's financial condition. Keyera has no ability to control or influence foreign exchange rates. However, Keyera has adopted a risk management policy in relation to its marketing activities, including the exposure to foreign exchange risk arising from these activities. Keyera regularly measures, monitors and reports on these risks to its risk management committee. Keyera's facilities businesses, where all sales and virtually all purchases are denominated in Canadian dollars, are not subject to foreign exchange risk.

Credit Exposure

Keyera takes on credit risk with respect to its fee for service business and the purchase and sale of commodities in its marketing business. In particular, Keyera is exposed to credit-related losses in the event that counterparties to contracts become insolvent or otherwise fail to fulfill their present or future financial obligations to Keyera. It is also possible that sales may be made in excess of established credit limits.

Keyera's credit policy includes parameters with respect to the granting and monitoring of credit extended to customers. Credit exposure is regularly measured and reported on to Keyera's risk management committee. In addition, in Keyera's facilities business, the standard operating, transportation and processing agreements provide for an operator's lien on customer products transported or processed through Keyera's facilities. With respect to counter parties for financial instruments used for hedging purposes, credit risk is managed through dealing with recognized futures exchanges or investment grade financial institutions and through application of Keyera's risk management policy. In spite of these measures, there is no guarantee that Keyera will not suffer losses as a result of this credit exposure, in which case its operations and financial results may be adversely affected.

Aboriginal Land Claims

Aboriginal peoples have claimed aboriginal title and rights to a substantial portion of lands in western Canada. In some circumstances, aboriginal people are entitled to be consulted prior to resource development on provincial Crown lands. Such claims, if successful, could have a significant adverse effect on natural gas production in Alberta which in turn could have a material adverse effect on the volume of natural gas processed at Keyera's gas plants and of NGLs and other products transported in Keyera's pipelines.

To mitigate this risk, Keyera monitors developments that may affect activities around its facilities. As well, when appropriate, Keyera works, directly or indirectly, with aboriginal communities that have reserves or traditional lands that may be affected by construction or expansion projects.

Expansion of Operations

Keyera's operations and expertise are currently focused on midstream oil and gas activities; however, in the future it is possible that Keyera could engage in other activities. The Fund Declaration of Trust permits Keyera to engage in activities other than its current core business areas, including but not limited to acquiring, developing and producing petroleum and natural gas reserves. Expansion of Keyera's business into new areas may present new risks or significantly increase the exposure to one or more of the existing risks, any of which may adversely affect Keyera's future operational and financial conditions (See also "Risk Factors and Risk Management Strategies - Risks Inherent in an Investment in Units – Changes in Income Tax Laws"). Keyera has developed criteria which it uses to evaluate any expansion opportunities. Expansion opportunities, whether within Keyera's core activities or into new activities, are carefully evaluated using this criteria.

Risks Inherent in an Investment in Units

Changes in Income Tax Laws

Income tax laws and administrative policies related to mutual fund trusts may be changed in a manner which adversely affects the Fund and/or the Unitholders.

On October 31, 2006, the Department of Finance (Canada) ("Finance") announced changes to the taxation of certain publicly-traded trusts and partnerships and their unitholders. These proposals (collectively, the "SIFT Rules") became law in June 2007. The SIFT Rules apply to trusts and partnerships that are resident in Canada for purposes of the Tax Act (in the case of partnerships, pursuant to new residency rules for this purpose), that hold one or more "non-portfolio properties", and the units of which are listed on a stock exchange or other public market (a "specified investment flow-through trust" or "SIFT trust", and a "specified investment flow-through partnership" or "SIFT partnership"). A trust or partnership that was a SIFT trust or SIFT partnership on October 31, 2006, generally would not become taxable under the SIFT Rules until January 1, 2011, provided the trust or partnership experiences only "normal growth" and no "undue expansion" before then. On December 15, 2006 Finance issued guidelines with respect to what would be considered "normal growth" for this purpose (the "Guidelines").

The Fund is considered a "SIFT trust" and, commencing January 1, 2011 (provided the Fund only experiences "normal growth" before that time), the Fund will be subject to tax on the portion of its distributions that are ordinary taxable income and taxable capital gains from dispositions of non-portfolio properties at a rate comparable to the combined federal and provincial corporate income tax rate (expected to be 29.5% in 2011 and 28% starting January 1, 2012 based on recently enacted reductions in the federal general corporate tax rate). The application of the SIFT Rules to the Fund will reduce the amount of cash flow available for distributions to Unitholders. The Board of Directors considers this future reduction in its distribution decisions.

Once the Fund becomes taxable under the SIFT Rules, for a Unitholder who is resident in Canada for the purposes of the Tax Act, the portion of Keyera's distributions which would otherwise be taxed as ordinary income will be treated as an eligible dividend paid by a taxable Canadian corporation. There will be no change in taxation of the portion of Keyera's distributions that are considered to be a return of capital or dividend income. Distributions to a Unitholder who is not resident in Canada or a "Canadian partnership" for purposes of the Tax Act, generally will be subject to Canadian withholding tax. Taxation of Keyera's distributions in 2011 and beyond will depend upon the composition of its distributions which will vary depending on levels of profitability, capital expenditures and other factors. It is therefore not possible to accurately predict the tax treatment for future years.

The announcement of the SIFT Rules has already had and may continue to have an adverse impact on the value of the Units. A reduction in the value of the Units may increase the cost to Keyera of raising capital in the public capital market. Further, the SIFT Rules may substantially eliminate Keyera's competitive advantage compared to corporate competitors in raising capital in a tax efficient manner, and may also place Keyera at a competitive disadvantage compared to industry competitors, including U.S. master limited partnerships, which will continue not to be subject to entity-level taxation.

The adverse tax consequences associated with the SIFT Rules could be realized sooner than 2011 if the Fund experiences growth other than "normal growth" before then. According to the Guidelines, normal growth includes equity growth within certain "safe harbour" limits which are measured by reference to a SIFT trust's market capitalization as of the end of trading on October 31, 2006 (which would include the SIFT trust's issued and outstanding publicly traded trust units and not any convertible debt, options or other interests convertible into or exchangeable for trust units). The permitted expansion thresholds are the greater of $50 million and 40% of a SIFT trust's October 31 market capitalization for the period from October 31, 2006 to the end of 2007, and the greater of $50 million and 20% of a SIFT trust's October 31 market capitalization for each of 2008, 2009 and 2010.

Keyera does not believe that its near-term growth opportunities will be significantly limited by the "normal growth" guidelines. The Fund's market capitalization as of the close of trading on October 31, 2006, having regard only to its issued and outstanding publicly-traded Units, was approximately $1,310 million, which means the Fund's "safe harbour" equity growth amount for the period ending December 31, 2007 is approximately $524 million, and for calendar years 2008, 2009 and 2010 is approximately $262 million per year (in any case, not including equity, including convertible debentures, issued to replace debt that was outstanding on October 31, 2006). As of December 31, 2007 the Fund had issued less than $5 million of new equity for the purposes of the Guidelines.

Keyera is continuing to evaluate the options available to continue its practice of minimizing taxes payable by the Fund and its subsidiaries and enhancing value to Unitholders. For example, Keyera currently has unutilized tax pools and deductions consisting mostly of class 41 undepreciated capital costs available to reduce taxable income in future years. Keyera has recently implemented an internal reorganization that was intended in part to simplify the organizational structure of Keyera and is also examining further restructuring options, but at this time continues to believe that the income fund model is an appropriate vehicle given the nature of its business and investments. Keyera will take steps to position itself for the impact of the SIFT Rules to the Fund, but there can be no assurance that any such steps will reduce the expected impact of the SIFT Rules.

Nature of Units

The Units do not represent a direct investment in the business of the Partnership and its subsidiaries and should not be viewed by investors as units in the Partnership or its subsidiaries. The Units represent a fractional interest in the Fund. Corporate law does not govern the Fund or the right of Unitholders. As holders of Units, Unitholders will not have the statutory rights normally associated with ownership of shares of a corporation including, for example, the right to bring "oppression" or "derivative" actions. Further, trusts are not defined as recognized entities within the definitions of legislation such as the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act (Canada) and the Companies Creditors Arrangement Act (Canada). As a result, in the event of an insolvency or restructuring, a Unitholders' position may be quite different than that of a shareholder of a corporation.

Units are not "deposits" within the meaning of the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation Act (Canada) and are not insured under the provisions of that Act or any other legislation. Furthermore, Keyera is not a trust company and, accordingly, is not registered under any trust or loan company legislation.

Cash Distributions Are Not Guaranteed

Cash distributions are not guaranteed and will fluctuate with the performance of the Partnership and its subsidiaries. The Board of Directors has the discretion to determine the amount of cash distributions to be paid to Unitholders each month. In determining the level of cash distributions, the Board of Directors will take into consideration current and expected future levels of earnings, operating cash flow, income taxes, maintenance capital, growth capital expenditures, debt repayments, working capital requirements and other factors. Keyera's short and long term borrowings, as well as the Debentures, prohibit Keyera from paying distributions at any time at which a default or event of default would exist under such debt, or if a default or event of default would exist as a result of making the distribution. (See "Risk Factors – Risks Inherent in Keyera's Business – Debt Matters").

Because Keyera distributes the majority of its net cash flow to Unitholders, if external sources of capital, including borrowings and the issuance of additional Units, become limited or unavailable on commercially reasonable terms, Keyera's ability to make the necessary capital investments to maintain or expand its business may be impaired. The extent to which Keyera is required to use cash flow to finance capital expenditures or acquisitions may reduce the level of cash flow available for distribution to Unitholders.

Dependence upon the Partnership

The Fund is entirely dependent upon the operations and assets of the Partnership and its subsidiaries. Accordingly, the distributions to the Unitholders are dependent upon the ability of the Partnership and its subsidiaries to generate cash flow.

Sales of Additional Units

The Fund may issue additional Units in the future. Such additional Units may be issued without the approval of Unitholders. Unitholders have no pre-emptive rights in connection with such additional issuances. The Administrator has the power and discretion to establish the price and the terms of issue of additional Units. It is not possible to predict the size of future issuances of Units or the effect, if any, that future issuances of Units will have on the market price of the Units. Issuances of a substantial number of Units, or the perception that such issuances could occur, may adversely affect prevailing market prices for the Units. As well, with any additional issuance of Units, Unitholders will experience dilution. The Fund expects to issue additional Units monthly under its DRIP. Under the reinvestment portion of the DRIP, Units are currently issued at a 3% discount to the prevailing market price.

In Specie Distributions on Redemption or Termination of the Fund

On termination of the Fund, the Trustee may distribute the securities directly to Unitholders, subject to obtaining all of the required regulatory approvals. As well, in the event a Unitholder wishes to redeem his or her Units, the Fund may in certain circumstances, satisfy the redemption price through an in specie distribution of assets of the Fund or Redemption Notes. (See "Capital Structure of the Fund"). Securities which may be received as a result of a redemption of Units will not be listed on any stock exchange and no market for such securities is expected to develop. The securities so distributed may not be qualified investments for trusts governed by Exempt Plans, depending on the circumstances existing at the time. Redemption Notes will be unsecured, subordinated notes due on the 10th anniversary of the date of issuance and will be subject to a right of early repayment and such terms and conditions as the Administrator may determine. It is expected that the Redemption Notes will not be guaranteed by any other party and that the remedies available to the holders of the Redemption Notes will not provide protections comparable to those generally found in debt securities issued to the public. In addition, there may be resale restrictions imposed by law upon the recipients of securities pursuant to the redemption right. It is anticipated that the redemption right will not be the primary mechanism for Unitholders to liquidate their investment.

Unitholder Liability

The Fund Declaration of Trust provides that no Unitholder will be subject to any liability in connection with the Fund or its assets or obligations and that, in the event that a court determines that Unitholders are subject to any such liabilities, the liabilities will be enforceable only against, and will be satisfied only out of, the Unitholder's share of the Fund's assets. The Fund Declaration of Trust further provides that the Trustee and the Fund shall make all reasonable efforts to include as a specific term of any obligations or liabilities being incurred by the Fund, or the Trustee on behalf of the Fund, a contractual provision to the effect that neither the Unitholders, nor the Trustee have any personal liability or obligations in respect thereof.

Personal liability may also arise in respect of claims against the Fund that do not arise under contracts, including claims in tort, claims for taxes and possibly certain other statutory liabilities. The operations of the Fund will be conducted, upon the advice of counsel, in such a way and in such jurisdictions as to avoid, to the extent possible, any material risk of liability to the Unitholders for claims against the Fund.

On July 11, 2004, the Income Trusts Liability Act (Alberta) the ("ITLA") came into force. The ITLA protects unitholders of Alberta income trusts, such as the Fund, from legal uncertainties regarding potential liability by providing a statutory limitation on unitholders' liability. Specifically, the ITLA provides that a unitholder will not be, as a beneficiary, liable for any act, default, obligation or liability of the trustee that arises after the ITLA came into force. The liability protection afforded by the ITLA is largely untested and is subject to interpretation by courts in the Province of Alberta and elsewhere. A risk remains that a Unitholder may be personally liable despite the provisions in the Fund Declaration of Trust, other agreements made by the Fund and the ITLA.

Mutual Fund Status

It is intended that the Fund continue to qualify as a mutual fund trust for the purposes of the Tax Act. The Fund may not, however, always be able to satisfy future requirements for the maintenance of mutual fund trust status. Should the status of the Fund as a mutual fund trust be lost or successfully challenged by a relevant tax authority, adverse consequences may arise for the Fund and Unitholders. The Fund may take certain measures in the future to the extent the Fund believes them necessary to ensure that it maintains its status as a mutual fund trust. These measures could be adverse to certain Unitholders.

Risks Associated With the Level of Foreign Ownership

Currently, one of the conditions for the Fund to qualify as a mutual fund trust is that the Fund can not reasonably be considered to have been established or maintained primarily for the benefit of non-resident persons. As a result, the Fund Declaration of Trust contains a limitation on non-resident ownership and provides powers to the Administrator to enforce this limitation and take such steps as may be reasonably necessary so that the Fund is not maintained primarily for the benefit of non-resident persons. (See "Capital Structure of the Fund - Limitation on Non-Resident Ownership"). As of the date hereof, there are no indications that the level of foreign ownership of Units exceeds the foregoing limitations, or that such situation is imminent. However, if in the future the Administrator becomes aware that the beneficial owners of at least 49% of the Units then outstanding are, or may be, non-residents or that such a situation is imminent, the exercise of their powers to enforce the non-resident ownership limitation may have an adverse effect on certain Unitholders, as well as on the market price of the Units overall.

Other Income Tax Matters

The Fund Declaration of Trust currently provides that a sufficient amount of the Fund's net income will be distributed each year to Unitholders in order to eliminate the Fund's liability for tax under Part I of the Tax Act. Where such amount of net income of the Fund in a taxation year exceeds the distributable cash flow in the year, such excess net income will be distributed to Unitholders in the form of additional Units. To the extent that Unitholders receive a distribution in the form of additional Units, Unitholders will generally be required to include an amount equal to the fair market value of those additional Units in their taxable income. Upon the Fund becoming subject to the SIFT Rules, Keyera will no longer be able to eliminate the Fund's liability for tax under the Tax Act.

LEGAL PROCEEDINGS AND REGULATORY ACTIONS

There are no outstanding legal proceedings or regulatory actions material to the Fund to which the Fund or its subsidiaries is a party, nor are there any such proceedings known to the Fund or its subsidiaries to be contemplated. No penalties or sanctions material to the Fund have been imposed by a court or regulatory body, nor has the Fund or its subsidiaries entered into a settlement agreement in relation to any securities legislation.

INTERESTS OF EXPERTS

Auditors' Report

To the Unitholders of
Keyera Facilities Income Fund

We have audited the consolidated statements of financial position of Keyera Facilities Income Fund as at December 31, 2007 and 2006 and the consolidated statements of net earnings, comprehensive income, accumulated deficit and cash flows for the years then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the management of Keyera Energy Management Ltd. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with Canadian generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform an audit to obtain reasonable assurance whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation.

In our opinion, these consolidated financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Keyera Facilities Income Fund as at December 31, 2007 and 2006 and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the years then ended in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles.

1. Structure of the Fund

Keyera Facilities Income Fund (the "Fund") is an unincorporated open-ended trust established under the laws of the Province of Alberta pursuant to the Fund Declaration of Trust dated April 3, 2003. The Fund indirectly owns a 100% interest in Keyera Energy Partnership (the "Partnership").

The Partnership is involved in the business of natural gas gathering and processing, as well as natural gas liquids ("NGLs") and crude oil processing, transportation, storage and marketing in Canada and the U.S. Its subsidiaries include Keyera Energy Facilities Ltd. ("KEFL"), Keyera Energy Ltd. ("KEL"), Keyera Energy Inc. ("KEI"), and Rimbey Pipeline Limited Partnership ("RPLP").

The Fund is administered by and the Partnership is managed by Keyera Energy Management Ltd. ("KEML" or the "Managing Partner"). The Managing Partner has a 33.83% interest in the Partnership.

The Fund makes monthly cash distributions to unitholders of record on the last business day of each month. The amount of the distributions per trust unit is equal to the pro rata share of the distribution received indirectly from the Partnership and, in the event of the termination of the Fund, participating pro rata in the net assets remaining after satisfaction of all liabilities.

2. Summary of significant accounting policies

Principles of consolidation

These consolidated financial statements have been prepared by management in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP"). The consolidated financial statements include the accounts of the Fund and all controlled entities. All material intercompany accounts and transactions have been eliminated upon consolidation.

Measurement uncertainty

The preparation of financial statements in accordance with GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses. These include the recoverability of assets and the amounts recorded for depreciation, amortization, accretion and asset retirement obligations, which depend on estimates of oil and gas reserves or the economic lives and future cash flows from related assets. The recognized amounts of such items are based on management's best information and judgment.

Foreign currency translation

Monetary assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are translated into Canadian dollars at exchange rates in effect at the balance sheet date. Revenues and expenses are translated at rates of exchange in effect at the transaction date. Exchange gains and losses are recorded in earnings in the period they are incurred.

Revenue recognition

Marketing revenue

Revenue from marketing NGLs and natural gas and from crude oil midstream activities is recognized based on volumes delivered to customers at contracted delivery points and rates and when collection is reasonably assured.

Gathering and Processing revenue

Gathering and Processing revenue is generated through fixed fee arrangements or flow-through arrangements that are designed to recover operating costs and provide a return on capital. Amounts collected in excess of the recoverable amounts under flow-through arrangements are recorded as a current liability. Recoverable amounts in excess of the amounts collected under flow-through arrangements are recorded as a current receivable. Revenue is recognized when services have been performed and collection is reasonably assured. Revenue from take or pay arrangements is recognized as service is provided or upon expiry of the commitment, whichever occurs later.

NGL Infrastructure revenue
Revenue from transportation, processing and storage of NGLs is recognized through fee-for-service arrangements. The fee is comprised of a fixed charge per unit transported or processed. Revenue is recognized when services have been performed and collection is reasonably assured.

Joint ventures
Substantially all gathering and processing and NGL infrastructure activities are conducted jointly with others, and accordingly these financial statements reflect only the Fund's indirect proportionate interest in such activities.

Cash and cash equivalents
Cash may include cash equivalents such as short-term investments with maturities of three months or less when purchased.

Inventory
Inventory is comprised primarily of NGL product for sale through the marketing operations. Inventory is valued at the lower of cost and net realizable value. Cost is determined on a weighted average cost basis, calculated monthly.

Property, plant and equipment
Property, plant and equipment consist primarily of natural gas processing and gathering systems, NGL infrastructure facilities and marketing storage facilities, which were recorded at cost. Depreciation of these facilities is provided for on a straight-line basis over the estimated useful life of each facility. The depreciation periods range from five to thirty-two years for Gathering and Processing, twelve to thirty-one years for NGL Infrastructure, two to twenty-four years for Marketing and six to twenty-two years for corporate assets.

Impairment on property, plant and equipment is measured in a two-step process. Step one calculates the net recoverable amount, determined by the undiscounted future cash flows of the asset or asset group. Step two determines the impairment amount, equal to the difference between the carrying amount and fair value. Fair value is determined by discounting future estimated cash flows.

Intangible assets
Goodwill
Goodwill resulted from business combinations and represents the portion of the purchase price that was in excess of the fair value of net identifiable assets acquired. Goodwill is recorded at cost and is not subject to amortization. It is tested at least annually for impairment. The impairment test for goodwill is a two-step process. Step one consists of a comparison of the fair value of a reporting unit with its carrying amount, including the goodwill allocated to the reporting unit. Measurement of the fair value of a reporting unit is based on one or more fair value measures, including present value calculations of estimated future cash flows and estimated amounts at which the unit as a whole could be bought or sold in a current transaction between willing parties. The Fund also considers its market capitalization as of the date of the impairment test. If the carrying amount of the reporting unit exceeds its fair value, step two requires the fair value of the reporting unit to be allocated to the underlying assets and liabilities of that reporting unit, resulting in an implied fair value of goodwill. If the carrying amount of the reporting unit exceeds the implied fair value of that goodwill, an impairment loss equal to the excess is recorded in net earnings.

Other intangible assets
Other intangible assets consist of the marketing business contributed by the partners upon formation of the Partnership and marketing business contracts acquired on business combinations and asset purchases. These assets were recorded at fair market value upon initial recognition and are being amortized over their estimated economic life. The unamortized balance of these intangible assets is assessed periodically for impairment based on management's best estimates of future net revenues from the Marketing business.

Asset retirement obligation
The asset retirement cost, deemed to be the fair value of the asset retirement obligation, is capitalized as part of the cost of the related long-lived asset and allocated to expense on a basis consistent with depreciation and amortization. Amortization of asset retirement costs is included in depreciation and amortization in the consolidated statement of net earnings. The amount of the liability is revised periodically in accordance with changes in the assumptions and estimates underlying the calculations. Increases in the asset retirement obligation resulting from the passage of time are recorded as accretion expense in the consolidated statement of net earnings, over the estimated time period until settlement of the obligation. Actual expenditures incurred are charged against the asset retirement obligation.

Under the Canadian Income Tax Act, the Fund is considered to be a "mutual fund trust" and, until December 31, 2010, is taxable only to the extent that its income is not distributed or distributable to its unitholders. The Fund is contractually committed to distribute to its unitholders all or virtually all of its taxable income and taxable capital gains that would otherwise be taxable in its hands.

All subsidiaries of the Fund follow the liability method of accounting for income taxes. Under this method, these subsidiaries record the future income tax basis of an asset or liability, using the substantively enacted income tax rates. Accumulated future income tax balances are adjusted to reflect a change in the income tax rates and the adjustment is recognized in earnings in the period in which the change occurs.

Unit-based compensation
The Fund has a Long Term Incentive Plan ("LTIP"), which is disclosed in note 13. The LTIP is a stock appreciation right as defined by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants. The amount recognized in compensation expense is determined by multiplying the number of units deemed to have been earned by the current market price of the units. Fluctuations in the price of the trust units will change the accrued compensation expense and are recognized when they occur.

Net earnings per unit
Basic net earnings per unit are calculated by dividing net earnings, by the weighted average number of units outstanding during the period. For the calculation of the weighted average number, trust units are determined to be outstanding from the date they are issued. Diluted net earnings per unit are calculated by adding the weighted average number of units outstanding during the period to the additional units that would have been outstanding if potentially dilutive units had been issued, using the "if-converted" method.

Distributions to unitholders
The monthly amount of the distributions to unitholders of the Fund is defined in the Fund Declaration of Trust. The computation of the distributions to unitholders is comprised of cash amounts received or receivable as distributions or interest income.

Certain of the comparative figures in prior periods have been reclassified to conform to the presentation in the current period.

CHANGES IN ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Financial Instruments
On January 1, 2007, the Fund adopted the following accounting standards issued by the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants ("CICA"):

- Section 1506, Accounting Changes;
- Section 1530, Comprehensive Income;

- Section 3251, Equity;
- Section 3855, Financial Instruments – Recognition and Measurement;
- Section 3861, Financial Instruments – Disclosure and Presentation; and
- Section 3865, Hedges

The Fund has adopted these standards in accordance with their transition provisions and comparative consolidated financial statements have not been restated. The Fund has selected January 1, 2004 as the date for identification of embedded derivatives. Transition amounts have been recorded in opening deficit.

All financial instruments must initially be recognized at fair value on the balance sheet. Subsequent measurement of the financial instruments is based on their classification. The Fund has classified each financial instrument into one of the following categories:

- Financial assets and financial liabilities held for trading
- Loans or receivables
- Financial assets held to maturity
- Financial assets available for sale
- Other financial liabilities

The classification depends on the characteristics and the purpose for which the financial instruments were acquired. Except in very limited circumstances, the classification of financial instruments is not changed subsequent to initial recognition.

Held for trading
Financial assets and financial liabilities classified as held for trading are measured at fair value and changes in those fair values are recognized in net earnings. Derivative instruments and cash have been classified as held for trading. Gains and losses related to derivative contracts are recognized in revenue in the period in which they arise. The estimated fair value of assets and liabilities held for trading is determined by reference to quoted market prices and, if not available, to estimates from third-party brokers or dealers. Transaction costs related to financial assets and financial liabilities classified as held for trading are charged to earnings as incurred.

Available for sale
Financial assets available for sale are measured at fair value, with changes in those fair values recognized in other comprehensive income. Currently, the Fund does not have any financial assets classified as available for sale. Transaction costs related to financial assets classified as available for sale would be charged to earnings as they occur.

Held to maturity
Financial assets held to maturity are measured at amortized cost using the effective interest rate method of amortization. Currently, the Fund does not have any financial assets classified as held to maturity. Transaction costs related to financial assets held to maturity would be charged to earnings as they occur.

Loans or receivables
Loans or receivables are measured at amortized cost using the effective interest rate method of amortization. Trade accounts receivables have been classified in this category. The related transaction costs would be charged to earnings as they arise.

Other financial liabilities
Other financial liabilities include accounts payable, accrued liabilities, distributions payable, short-term debt, convertible debentures and long-term debt. With the exception of derivative instruments, the Fund has classified all financial liabilities as other financial liabilities. Transaction costs relating to short-term liabilities are charged to earnings as they occur. For long-term liabilities, the transaction costs that are directly attributable to the issuance of a financial liability are included with the fair value initially recognized for that financial instrument. These costs are amortized to earnings using the effective interest rate method.

As of January 1, 2007, unamortized deferred financing fees of $985 relating to the Fund's long-term debt and $502 relating to convertible debentures have been reclassified for presentation purposes from intangible assets to long-term debt and convertible debentures. These fees are now amortized to earnings using the effective interest rate method.

The Fund assesses at each balance sheet date whether a financial asset carried at cost is impaired. If there is objective evidence that an impairment loss exists, the amount of the loss is measured as the difference between the carrying amount of the asset and its fair value. The carrying amount of the asset is reduced and the amount of the loss is recognized in earnings.

Derivatives and embedded derivatives
Derivative financial instruments are financial contracts that derive their value from underlying changes in interest rates, foreign exchange rates, credit spreads, commodity prices, equities or other financial measures. The Fund uses financial instruments such as commodity price swaps, electricity price swaps, foreign exchange forward contracts, and interest rate swaps to manage its risks.

Natural gas, NGL and crude oil contracts that require physical delivery at fixed prices and do not meet the Fund's expected purchase, sale or usage requirements are accounted for as derivative financial instruments.

Derivatives may include those derivatives that are embedded in financial or non-financial contracts that are not closely related to the host contracts. With the adoption of the new accounting standards on financial instruments, such embedded derivatives are now to be accounted for separately from the host contract.

Derivative instruments, including embedded derivatives, are classified as held for trading and are recorded on the consolidated statements of financial position at fair value. Changes in the fair value of these financial instruments are recognized in earnings in the period in which they arise.

Hedge accounting
Effective January 1, 2007 the Fund has opted to discontinue the use of hedge accounting. All derivative instruments that previously qualified for hedge accounting have been recognized at fair value and unrealized gains and losses have been recorded in earnings.

Adopting these standards on January 1, 2007 resulted in the recognition of an asset held for trading in the amount of $3,314, a liability held for trading in the amount of $130 and a $3,184 reduction to the opening deficit. Assets held for trading are included in accounts receivable and liabilities held for trading are included in accounts payable and accrued liabilities. The effect on basic and diluted net earnings per unit was $0.05.

Comprehensive income
Comprehensive income consists of net earnings and other comprehensive income ("OCI"). OCI comprises the changes in the fair value of the effective portion of derivatives used as hedging items in a cash flow hedge, changes in the fair value of any available for sale financial instruments and foreign currency translation adjustments of self-sustaining foreign operations. Accumulated other comprehensive income ("AOCI") is a new equity category comprised of the cumulative amounts of OCI.

No amounts have been recorded in OCI or AOCI as a result of adopting this accounting standard.

Future Accounting and Reporting Changes

Convergence of Canadian GAAP with International Financial Reporting Standards
In 2006, Canada's Accounting Standards Board (AcSB) ratified a strategic plan that will result in the convergence of Canadian GAAP, as used by public companies, with International Financial Reporting Standards over a transitional period. The AcSB has developed and published a detailed implementation plan, with a changeover date for fiscal years beginning on or after January 1, 2011. This initiative is in its early stages as of the date on these annual Consolidated Financial Statements. Accordingly, it would be premature to assess the impact of the initiative on the Fund at this time.

Financial Instruments – Disclosures and Presentation
The AcSB has issued CICA Handbook Sections 3862 and 3863, Financial Instruments – Disclosures, and Financial Instruments – Presentation. Section 3862 requires entities to provide disclosures in their financial statements that enable users to evaluate the significance of financial instruments to the entitity's financial position and performance. It also requires that entities disclose the nature and extent of risks arising from financial instruments and how the entity manages those risks. Section 3863 establishes standards for presentation of financial instruments and non-financial derivatives and deals with the classification of financial instruments, from the perspective of the issuer, between liabilities and equity, the classification of related interest, dividends, losses and gains, and the circumstances in which financial assets and financial liabilities are offset. These standards will be effective for the Fund for periods ending after January 1, 2008.

Capital Disclosures
The AcSB has issued CICA Handbook Section 1535, Capital Disclosures, which requires entities to disclose their objectives, policies and processes for managing capital and whether they are in compliance with any externally imposed capital requirements. This standard will be effective for the Fund for periods ending after January 1, 2008.

Inventories
The AcSB has issued CICA Handbook Section 3031, Inventories, which essentially modifies guidance relating to the scope, measurement and allocation of costs for inventory. The Fund is currently evaluating the impact of the adoption of this new Section on its consolidated financial statements. This standard will be effective for the Fund for periods ending after January 1, 2008.

Goodwill and Intangible Assets
In February 2008, the AcSB issued CICA Handbook Section 3064, Goodwill and Intangible Assets, replacing existing guidance (Sections 3062 and 3450) for these areas. This new section establishes standards for the recognition, measurement, presentation and disclosure of goodwill and intangible assets subsequent to its initial recognition. Standards concerning goodwill are unchanged from the standards included in the previous Section 3062. The Fund is currently evaluating the impact of the adoption of this new Section on its consolidated financial statements. This standard will be effective for the Fund for periods ending after January 1, 2009.

(a) Intangible assets for the Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure segments consist of goodwill.

(b) Intangible assets for the Marketing segment consist of the marketing business contributed by the Partners when the Partnership was first formed, the marketing business of EnerPro acquired in 2004 and the marketing contracts acquired with the U.S. propane terminals in 2006. These assets are being amortized over the remaining economic life of one to six years. Amortization expense for the year ended December 31, 2007 was $2,673 (2006 - $1,930).

(c) For 2006, intangible assets for the corporate segment related to deferred financing fees. Upon adoption of the new accounting standards on financial instruments (note 2), deferred financing fees were reclassified to their related debt balances and amortized using the effective interest rate method over the remaining terms of the related debt. Long-term debt deferred financing fees are discussed further in note 5. Convertible debenture deferred financing fees are discussed further in note 6.

[1] Deferred financing costs have been reclassified to long-term debt upon adoption of the new accounting standards (see note 2). Previously, these costs were included in intangible assets.

(a) The Partnership has a $150,000 unsecured revolving credit facility with certain Canadian financial institutions led by the Royal Bank of Canada. The facility has a three-year revolving term and matures on April 21, 2010, unless extended. In addition, the Royal Bank of Canada has provided a $15,000 revolving demand facility and the Toronto Dominion Bank has provided a $10,000 revolving demand facility. The revolving credit facilities bear interest based on the lenders' rates for Canadian prime commercial loans, U.S. Base rate loans, Libor loans, or Bankers' Acceptances rates. The weighted average interest rates for the year ended December 31, 2007 was 5.74% (2006 - 5.43%). As at December 31, 2007, the balance outstanding on the bank credit facilities was $nil (2006 - $107,984).

On July 12, 2007, the $7,000 unsecured revolving demand loan facility related to a subsidiary of the Partnership was terminated.

(b) In 2003, $125,000 of unsecured senior notes were issued by the Partnership and KEFL in three parts: $20,000 due in 2008 bearing interest at 5.42%, $52,500 due in 2010 bearing interest at 5.79% and $52,500 due in 2013 bearing interest at 6.16%. Interest is payable monthly. Financing costs of $1,215 have been deferred and are amortized using the effective interest rate method over the remaining terms of the related debt. The effective interest rates for the year ended December 31, 2007 were 5.63%, 5.95% and 6.29% for the notes due in 2008, 2010 and 2013 respectively (5.42%, 5.79% and 6.16% for the year ended December 31, 2006).

In 2004, $90,000 of unsecured senior notes were issued by KEFL and guaranteed by the Partnership. The notes bear interest at 5.23% and mature on October 1, 2009. Interest is payable semi-annually. Financing costs of $568 have been deferred and are amortized using the effective interest rate method over the remaining term of the debt. The effective interest rate for the year ended December 31, 2007 was 5.37% (2006 - 5.23%).

On September 4, 2007, $80,000 of unsecured senior notes were issued by KEFL and guaranteed by the Partnership and the Fund in two tranches: $40,000 due in 2017 bearing interest at 5.89% and $40,000 due in 2022 bearing interest at 6.14%. On December 2, 2007, a further $40,000 of unsecured senior notes were issued by KEFL in two tranches: $20,000 due in 2017 bearing interest at 5.89% and $20,000 due in 2022 bearing interest at 6.14%. Interest is payable semi-annually. Financing costs of $1,104 have been deferred and are amortized using the effective interest rate method over the terms of the related debt. The effective interest rates for the period were 5.94% and 6.18% for the notes due in 2017 and 2022 respectively.

6. Convertible debentures

In 2004, the Fund issued convertible unsecured subordinated debentures in the principal amount of $100,000. The convertible debentures bear interest at 6.75% per annum, payable semi-annually in arrears on June 30 and December 31 each year. Interest expense of $1,613 has been accrued for the twelve months ended December 31, 2007 (2006 - $1,776). These debentures will mature on June 30, 2011 and are convertible into trust units of the Fund at the option of the holders at any time prior to maturity at a conversion price of $12.00 per unit. At December 31, 2007, $78,178 debentures had been converted to trust units (2006 - $76,458).

Financing costs consisting of an underwriters' commission of $4,000 and issuance costs of $332 have been deferred, and when there are no conversions, are being amortized over the term of the debt using the effective interest rate method. Upon conversion of the debentures, the financing cost related to the principal amount of debt converted is adjusted and is recognized as a charge to unitholders' equity. As a result of conversions to date at December 31, 2007, $2,857 has been reclassified to unitholders' equity (2006 - $2,782). As at December 31, 2007, $346 of deferred financing costs remain. The effective interest rate for the year ended December 31, 2007 was 7.36% (2006 - 6.75%).

7. Asset held for sale

Asset held for sale consisted of an interest in an electrical generator. In 2006, the equipment was written down to its estimated net realizable value recognizing a $373 charge to impairment expense. On January 23, 2007, the Fund sold its interest in the electrical generator for proceeds of $4,200.

8. Asset retirement obligation

The following table presents the reconciliation between the beginning and ending aggregate carrying amount of the obligation associated with the retirement of the Fund's facilities.

For the year ended December 31	2007 $	2006 $
Asset retirement obligation, beginning of year	34,533	27,776
Liabilities acquired	644	151

Revisions in estimated cash flows	361	4,509
Accretion expense	2,482	2,257
Asset retirement obligation, end of year	37,807	34,533

The total undiscounted amount of cash flows required to settle the asset retirement obligations is $183,042 which has been discounted using a credit-adjusted risk-free rate of 7% (2006 - $183,159). The majority of these obligations are expected to be settled between 2018 and 2038. No assets have been legally restricted for settlement of the liability.

9. Income taxes

On June 22, 2007, Bill C-52 Budget Implementation Act, 2007 was enacted by the Canadian federal government. This legislation proposes to tax publicly traded trusts in Canada. The new tax is not expected to apply to the Fund until 2011 as the government has provided a transition period for publicly traded trusts that existed prior to November 1, 2006. As a result of the new tax legislation, the Fund recorded an additional $80.2 million future income tax expense and increased its future income tax liability in the second quarter of 2007. This adjustment represents taxable temporary differences of the Partnership that were previously not recorded for future income tax purposes. These temporary differences were originally recorded at a tax-effected rate of 31.5%.

During the fourth quarter of 2007, the federal government substantively enacted a 3.5% reduction to its federal corporate income tax rates. Accordingly, the Fund has recorded the temporary differences applicable to the Fund at a rate of 28% resulting in a $5.6 million reduction to the original future income tax expense of $80.2 million recorded in the second quarter of 2007.

The following is a reconciliation of income taxes, calculated at the combined federal and provincial income tax rate, to the income tax provision included in the consolidated statements of net earnings.

For income tax purposes, the Fund and its subsidiaries have non-capital losses carried forward of approximately $2,981 at December 31, 2007 ($11,987 at December 31, 2006) which are available to offset income of specific entities of the consolidated group in future periods. The benefit of these losses has been recorded at December 31, 2007.

During the second quarter of 2007, the Fund recorded a $5,780 future income tax liability with a corresponding increase to goodwill. This adjustment relates to a prior period acquisition that did not reflect a future income tax impact for a temporary difference. A further $520 future tax liability and increase to goodwill was recorded relating to the acquisition of the minority interest in RPLP (see note 18).

The future income tax (liabilities) assets relate to losses and to the (taxable) deductible temporary differences in the carrying values and tax bases as follows:

10. Unitholders' capital

The Declaration of Trust provides that an unlimited number of trust units may be authorized and issued. Each trust unit is transferable, and represents an equal undivided beneficial interest in any distribution from the Fund and in the net assets of the Fund in the event of termination or winding-up of the Fund. All trust units are of the same class with equal rights and privileges.

The Declaration of Trust also provides for the issuance of an unlimited number of special trust units that will be used solely for providing voting rights to persons holding securities that are directly or indirectly exchangeable for units and that, by their terms, have voting rights in the Fund.

The trust units are redeemable at the holder's option at an amount equal to the lesser of: (i) 90% of the weighted average price per unit during the period of the last 10 trading days during which the trust units were traded on the Toronto Stock Exchange; and (ii) an amount equal to (a) the closing market price of the units; (b) an amount equal to the average of the highest and lowest prices of units if there was trading on the date on which the units were tendered for redemption; or (c) the average of the last bid and ask prices if there was no trading on the date on which the units were tendered for redemption.

Redemptions are subject to a maximum of $50 cash redemptions in any particular month. Redemptions in excess of this amount will be paid by way of a distribution in specie of assets of the Fund that may include Commercial Trust Series 1 notes.

The Fund has a Distribution Reinvestment and Optional Unit Purchase Plan ("DRIP") that permits unitholders to reinvest cash distributions for additional units. This plan allows eligible participants an opportunity to reinvest distributions into trust units at a 3% discount to a weighted average market price, so long as units are issued from treasury under the DRIP. The Fund has the right to notify participants that units will be acquired in the market, in which case units will be purchased at the weighted average market price. Eligible unitholders can also make optional unit purchases under the optional unit purchase component of the plan at the weighted average market price.

11. Net earnings per unit

Basic per unit calculations for the years ended December 31, 2007 and 2006 were based on the weighted average number of units outstanding for the related period. Convertible debentures were in the money for the years ended December 31, 2007 and 2006 and contributed to the increase in diluted weighted average number of units for these periods.

12. Accumulated distributions to unitholders

Unitholders' distributions declared	7,658
Balance, December 31, 2007	308,194

Pursuant to the Fund Declaration of Trust dated April 3, 2003 and its subsequent amendments, the Fund makes monthly distributions to holders of record on the last day of each month. Payments are made on or about the 15th day of the following month.

Distributions are paid from "Cash Flow of the Trust", a term that is defined in the Fund Declaration of Trust dated April 3, 2003. The Board of Directors of the Fund may, on or before each Distribution Record Date, declare payable all or any part of the Cash Flow of the Trust for the Distribution Period. The amount and level of distributions to be made for each Distribution Period is determined at the discretion of the Board of Directors of the Fund. In determining its distribution policy, the Board of Directors of the Fund considers several factors, including the Fund's current and future cash flow, capital requirements, debt repayments and other factors.

13. Compensation plans

The Long Term Incentive Plan (the "LTIP" or the "Plan") compensates officers, directors, key employees and consultants by delivering units of the Fund or paying cash in lieu of units. Participants in the LTIP are granted rights ("unit awards") to receive units of the Fund on specified dates in the future. The Plan permits the directors of KEML to authorize the grant of unit awards from time to time. Units are acquired in the marketplace under the plan.

The Plan consists of two types of unit awards, which are described below. Unit awards and the delivery of units under the Plan are accounted for in accordance with the intrinsic value method of accounting for stock-based compensation. The aggregate compensation cost recorded for the Plan was $5,519 for the year ended December 31, 2007 (2006 - $2,319).

During the year ended December 31, 2007, 237,294 units were purchased on the market at a cost of $4,429 and 191,327 units were settled in cash for $3,472.

(a) Performance Unit Awards

The Performance Unit Awards will vest 100% on the third anniversary of the effective date of each award, July 1, 2005, July 1, 2006 and July 1, 2007. The number of units to be delivered will be determined by the financial performance of the Fund over the three-year period and is calculated by multiplying the number of unit awards by an adjustment ratio and a payout multiplier. The adjustment ratio adjusts the number of units to be delivered to reflect the per unit cash distributions paid by the Fund to its unitholders during the term that the unit award is outstanding. The payout multiplier is based upon the actual three-year average annual cash distributions per unit of the Fund. The table below describes the relationship between the three-year average annual cash distribution per unit and the payout multiplier.

	Three-year annual cash distributions per unit
	July 1, 2005 Grant	July 1, 2006 Grant	July 1, 2007 Grant	Payout Multiplier
	Less than 1.32	Less than 1.42	Less than 1.44	Nil
First range	1.32 – 1.39	1.42 – 1.51	1.44 – 1.51	50%– 99%
Second range	1.40 – 1.55	1.52 – 1.71	1.52 – 1.67	100% – 199%
Third range	1.56 and greater	1.72 and greater	1.68 or greater	200%

As of December 31, 2007, 485,105 Performance Unit Awards (2006 - 529,867) were outstanding: 164,580 effective July 1, 2005, 144,050 effective July 1, 2006 and 176,475 effective July 1, 2007. The compensation cost recorded for these units for the year ended December 31, 2007 was $4,485 using the applicable closing market price of a unit of the Fund (2006 - $1,367).

(b) Time Vested Unit Awards ("Restricted Unit Awards")

Restricted Unit Awards will vest automatically, over a three-year period from the effective date of the award on July 1, 2005, July 1, 2006 and July 1, 2007, regardless of the performance of the Fund. The number of units to be delivered will be modified by an adjustment ratio which reflects the per unit distributions paid by the Fund to its unitholders during the term that the unit award is outstanding.

As of December 31, 2007, 92,275 Restricted Unit Awards (2006 - 98,735) were outstanding: 14,167 effective July 1, 2005, 26,333 effective July 1, 2006 and 51,775 effective July 1, 2007. The compensation cost recorded for these units for the year ended December 31, 2007 was $1,034 using the applicable closing market price of a unit of the Fund (2006 - $952).

14. Financial Instruments

Financial instruments include cash, accounts receivable, accounts payable and accrued liabilities, distributions payable, credit facilities, long-term debt, convertible debentures and derivatives held for trading (derivative financial instruments such as foreign exchange contracts, oil price contracts, natural gas price contracts, power price contracts and physical fixed price contracts).

Derivatives held for trading

Subsidiaries of the Fund enter into contracts to purchase and sell natural gas, NGLs and crude oil. These contracts are exposed to commodity price risk between the time contracted volumes are purchased and sold and currency exchange risk for those sales denominated in U.S. dollars. These risks are actively managed by using forward currency contracts and swaps, energy related forwards, swaps and options and by balancing physical and financial contracts in terms of volumes, timing of performance and delivery obligations. Management monitors the exposure to the above risks and regularly reviews its financial instrument activities and all outstanding positions.

A significant amount of electricity is consumed by the operating entities at their facilities. Due to the fixed fee nature of some service contracts in place with customers, these entities are unable to flow the cost of electricity to customers in all situations. In order to mitigate this exposure to fluctuations in the price of electricity, price swap agreements may be used.

Natural gas, NGL and crude oil contracts that require physical delivery at fixed prices and do not meet the Fund's expected purchase, sale or usage requirements are accounted for as derivative financial instruments.

On occasions, the Fund will enter into NGL purchase and sale contracts that are settled in a currency other than the currency that are routinely denominated for such commercial transactions. In these instances, the Fund accounts for these non-financial contracts as embedded derivatives.

Derivative instruments held for trading are recorded on the consolidated statement of financial position at fair value. Changes in the fair value of these financial instruments are recognized in earnings in the period in which they arise.

As at December 31, 2007, $3,112 of assets held for trading were included in accounts receivable and $12,566 of liabilities held for trading were included in accounts payable and accrued liabilities. Unrealized (losses) gains, representing the change in fair value of derivative contracts are recorded in Marketing operating revenue and NGL Infrastructure operating expense.

The unrealized (loss) gain relating to derivative contracts were as follows:

Marketing	(12,007)	263
NGL Infrastructure	(556)	—

The fair value of the derivatives are listed below and represent an estimate of the amount that the Fund would receive (pay) if these instruments were closed out at the end of the period.

The estimated fair value of all derivatives held for trading is based on quoted market prices and, if not available, on estimates from third-party brokers or dealers.

Fair value

The carrying values of accounts receivable, accounts payable and accrued liabilities and distributions payable approximate their fair values because the instruments are near maturity or have no fixed repayment terms. The fair value of the credit facilities approximates fair value due to their floating rates of interest.

Credit risk

The majority of accounts receivable are due from entities in the oil and gas industry and are subject to normal industry credit risks. Concentration of credit risk is mitigated by having a broad domestic and international customer base. The Fund evaluates and monitors the financial strength of its customers in accordance with its credit policy. At December 31, 2007, the accounts receivable from the two largest customers amounted to less than 1% of accounts receivable (2006 – less than 1%). Revenue from the two largest customers amounted to 15% of operating revenue for the year ended December 31, 2007 (2006 – 11%). With respect to counterparties for derivative financial instruments, the credit risk is managed through dealing with recognized futures exchanges or investment grade financial institutions and by maintaining credit policies, which significantly minimize overall counter party credit risk.

Foreign currency rate risk

The Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure segments, where all sales and virtually all purchases are denominated in Canadian dollars, are not subject to foreign currency rate risk. In the Marketing business, approximately US$240,149 of sales were priced in U.S. dollars for the year ended December 31, 2007 (2006 – US$313,191).

The Fund realized and recorded $930 of foreign currency loss in Marketing operating expenses for the twelve months ended December 31, 2007 (2006 - $742). A further $1,488 of unrealized foreign currency gains were recorded in Marketing operating expenses for the year ended December 31, 2007 (2006 - $784).

Currency exchange risk is actively managed by using forward currency contracts and swaps. Management monitors the exposure to currency exchange risk and regularly reviews its financial instrument activities and all outstanding positions.

Interest rate risk

The majority of the Fund's interest rate risk is attributed to its fixed and floating rate debt, which is used to finance operations. The Fund's remaining financial instruments are not significantly exposed to interest rate risk. The floating rate debt creates exposure to interest rate cash flow risk, whereas the fixed rate debt creates exposure to interest rate price risk. At December 31, 2007, fixed rate borrowings comprised 100% of total debt outstanding (2006 – 67%). The fair value of the senior fixed rate debt at December 31, 2007 was $337,589 (2006 - $224,457) based on third party estimates. The fair value of the Fund's unsecured convertible debentures at December 31, 2007 was $32,078 (2006 - $31,782) as determined by reference to quoted market price for the Fund's debentures.

15. Commitments and contingencies

The Fund, through its operating entities has assumed various contractual obligations and agreements in the normal course of its operations. The agreements range from one to eleven years and relate to the processing of a major oil and gas producer's natural gas and the purchase of NGL production in the areas specified in the agreements. The purchase prices are based on current period market prices.

There are operating lease commitments relating to railway tank cars, vehicles, computer hardware, office space, terminal space and natural gas transportation. At December 31, 2007, the obligations that represent known future cash payments that are required under existing contractual arrangements are as follows:

Contractual obligations	Payments Due by Period
	Total $	2008 $	2009 $	2010 $	2011 $	2012 $	After 2012 $

Total contractual obligations	368,845	28,749	97,926	58,859	4,964	3,915	174,432

[1] Long-term debt obligations do not include interest payments.

[2] Keyera has lease commitments relating to railway tank cars, vehicles, computer hardware, office space, terminal lease space and natural gas transportation.

[3] Keyera is involved in various contractual agreements with ConocoPhillips and other producers to purchase NGLs. These agreements range from one to eleven years and in general obligate Keyera to purchase all product produced at specified locations on a best efforts basis. The purchase prices are based on then current market prices. The future volumes and prices for these contracts cannot be reasonably determined.

There are legal actions for which the ultimate results cannot be ascertained at this time. Management does not expect the outcome of any of these proceedings to have a material effect on the financial position or results of operations.

17. Segmented Information

The Fund has three reportable segments: Marketing, Gathering and Processing and NGL Infrastructure. The Marketing business consists of marketing NGLs, natural gas, sulphur and crude oil. Gathering and Processing includes natural gas gathering and processing. NGL Infrastructure includes NGL and crude oil processing, transportation and storage. The accounting policies of the segments are the same as that described in the summary of significant accounting policies. Inter-segment sales and expenses are recorded at current market prices.

18. Non-controlling interest

In the first quarter of 2007, a subsidiary of the Fund purchased an additional ownership interest in Rimbey Pipe Line Co. Ltd. for a purchase price of $1,513. In the second quarter of 2007, Rimbey Pipe Line Co. Ltd. was converted to a limited partnership (RPLP) and a subsidiary of the Fund acquired the remaining interest in RPLP for a purchase price of $5,203 bringing the Fund's ownership in RPLP to 100%. The difference between the fair value of the transactions and the carrying value of RPLP's net assets resulted in a difference of $3,666, which was applied to property, plant and equipment. A future tax liability and corresponding increase to goodwill was recorded in the amount of $520. As a result, the non-controlling interest has been removed from the consolidated statement of financial position.

19. Subsequent Events

On January 2, 2008, the Fund completed an internal reorganization of certain of its subsidiaries. As a result of the reorganization, the Partnership is now directly owned by the Fund and KEML no longer has an interest in the Partnership. It is expected that the future income tax liability will increase by approximately $3.5 million in 2008 as a result of the higher future income tax rate applicable to the Fund. This tax rate is approximately 2.5% higher than the future income tax rate recorded by KEML. On January 2, 2008, the Fund's revolving demand facility with the Toronto Dominion Bank was increased from $10,000 to $15,000. The terms of the facility, including interest rates charged, remain unchanged.

By acceptance of a Unit Certificate representing any Units upon the completion of a purchase of a Unit, the Unitholder thereof shall be deemed to agree to be bound, and shall be so bound, by this Declaration of Trust.

2.8 Liability of Unitholders

(a) No Unitholder, in its capacity as such, shall incur or be subject to any liability, direct or indirect, absolute or contingent, in contract or in tort or of any other kind to any person and no resort shall be had to, nor shall recourse or satisfaction be sought from the private property of any Unitholder for any liability whatsoever in connection with:

(i) the Trust Assets or the ownership, use, operation, acquisition or disposition thereof or exercise or enjoyment of the rights, privileges, conditions or benefits attached thereto, associated therewith or derived therefrom;

(ii) the obligations or the activities or affairs of the Trust;

(iii) any actual or alleged act or omission of the Trustee, the Administrator or by any other person in respect of the activities or affairs of the Trust (whether or not authorized by or pursuant to this Declaration of Trust);

(iv) any act or omission of the Trustee, the Administrator or any other person in the performance or exercise, or purported or attempted performance or exercise, of any obligation, power, discretion or authority conferred upon the Trustee, the Administrator or such other person in respect of the activities or affairs of the Trust (whether or not authorized by or pursuant to this Declaration of Trust);

(v) any transaction entered into by the Trustee, the Administrator or by any other person in respect of the activities or affairs of the Trust (whether or not authorized by or pursuant to this Declaration of Trust); or

(vi) any taxes, levies, imposts or charges or fines, penalties or interest in respect thereof payable by the Trust or by the Trustee, the Administrator or by any other person on behalf of or in connection with the activities or affairs of the Trust

(collectively, "Trust Liabilities").

(b) No Unitholder, in its capacity as such, shall be liable to indemnify the Trustee or any other person with respect to any Trust Liabilities.

(c) To the extent that, notwithstanding the provisions of this Section 2.8, any Unitholder, in its capacity as such, may be determined by a judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction to be subject to or liable in respect of any Trust Liabilities, such judgment and any writ of execution or similar process in respect thereof, shall be enforceable only against, and shall be satisfied only out of, the Unitholder's share of the Trust Assets represented by its Units.

ARTICLE 3
ISSUE AND SALE OF UNITS

3.1 Nature of Units

(a) The beneficial interests in the Trust shall be divided into interests of two classes, described and designated as "Ordinary Units" and "Special Units", which shall be entitled to the rights and subject to the limitations, restrictions and conditions set out herein, and the interest of each Unitholder shall be determined by the number of Ordinary Units and/or Special Units registered in the name of the Unitholder.

(b) Each class of Units shall be entitled to its pro rata share of any distribution from the Trust (whether of Income of the Trust, Net Realized Capital Gains or other amounts) and in any net assets of the Trust in the event of termination or winding-up of the Trust. For these purposes:

(i) the pro rata share of the Special Units shall be determined by a fraction, the numerator of which is the fair market value of the Special Units and the denominator of which is the sum of the fair market value of the Special Units and the fair market value of the Ordinary Units; and

(ii) the pro rata share of the Ordinary Units shall be determined by a fraction, the numerator of which is the fair market value of the Ordinary Units and the denominator of which is the sum of the fair market value of the Special Units and the fair market value of the Ordinary Units.

(c) All Ordinary Units shall rank among themselves equally and rateably without discrimination, preference or priority. Each Ordinary Unit shall entitle the holder of record thereof to receive notice of all meetings of Unitholders and to one vote at all meetings of Unitholders or in respect of any written resolution of Unitholders.

(d) All Special Units shall rank among themselves equally and rateably without discrimination, preference or priority. The holders of Special Units shall not be entitled to receive notice of or vote at any meeting of Unitholders or in respect of any written resolution of Unitholders. Each Special Unit shall be redeemable by the Trust and shall be retractable by the holder thereof, in either case on demand by written notice in accordance with the provisions hereof and at a price of $0.01 per Special Unit.

3.2 Authorized Number of Units

The aggregate number of Ordinary Units and Special Units which is authorized and may be issued hereunder is unlimited.

3.3 Issue of Units

Units may be issued by the Trust at the times, to the persons, for the consideration and on the terms and conditions that the Trustee determines and, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Trustee may authorize the Trust to pay a reasonable commission to any person in consideration of such person purchasing or agreeing to purchase Units from the Trust or from any other person or procuring or agreeing to procure purchasers for Units. Without limitation of the foregoing, the Trustee may create and issue rights, warrants (including so-called "special warrants" or "subscription receipts" which may be exercisable for no additional consideration) or options to subscribe for Units which rights, warrants or options may be exercisable at such subscription price or prices and at such time or times as the Trustee may determine. The rights, warrants or options so created may be issued for such consideration or for no consideration, all as the Trustee may determine. A right, warrant or option shall not be a Unit and the holder thereof shall not be a Unitholder.

3.4 No Fractional Units

Fractions of Units may only be issued pursuant to distributions of additional Units to all Unitholders pursuant to Section 5.7 and in connection with the 2007 Reorganization. Fractions of Units will not be entitled to vote at meetings of Unitholders.

3.5 Re-Purchase of Initial Unit by Trust

Immediately after the Closing, the Trust purchased the initial Unit from the Initial Unitholder, and the Initial Unitholder sold the initial Unit to the Trust, for a purchase price of $10.00 and, upon completion of such purchase and sale, the initial Unit was cancelled and is no longer outstanding for any of the purposes of this Declaration of Trust.

3.6 Consolidation of Units

Immediately after any pro rata distribution of additional Units to all holders of Units pursuant to Section 5.7, the number of outstanding Units will automatically be consolidated such that each such holder will hold after the consolidation the same number of Units as such holder held before the distribution of additional Units. In this case, each Unit Certificate representing a number of Units prior to the distribution of additional Units is deemed to represent the same number of Units after the distribution of additional Units and the consolidation.

3.7 No Pre-Emptive Rights

No person shall be entitled, as a matter of right, to subscribe for or purchase any Unit.

ARTICLE 4
INVESTMENTS OF TRUST

4.1 Purpose of the Trust

The Trust is a limited purpose trust and its operations and activities shall be limited to those operations and activities of mutual fund trusts described in subparagraphs 132(6)(b)(ii) and (iii) of the Tax Act, and within such restriction, may include the following:

(a) acquiring, investing in, holding, transferring, disposing of and otherwise dealing with securities of a Keyera Entity as well as other corporations, partnerships, trusts or other persons involved in:

(i) gathering, processing, transporting, buying, storing and selling petroleum, natural gas, natural gas liquids, other hydrocarbon products, electricity, thermal energy and other related products;

(ii) acquiring, developing and producing petroleum and natural gas reserves and other related products, and

(iii) businesses or activities ancillary or incidental to the foregoing,

and such other investments as the Trustee may determine;

(b) temporarily holding cash in interest bearing accounts, short-term government debt or investment grade corporate debt for the purposes of paying the expenses, if any, of the Trust, paying amounts payable by the Trust in connection with the redemption or repurchase of any Units, and making distributions to Unitholders entitled to receive same;

(c) issuing Units, Notes and other securities of the Trust, for the purposes of:

(i) obtaining funds to conduct the activities described in paragraph (a), above, including raising funds for further acquisitions;

(ii) making non-cash distributions to holders of Units as contemplated by this Declaration of Trust; and

(iii) repaying of any indebtedness or borrowings of the Trust;

(d) borrowing funds and issuing debt securities for the purposes, directly or indirectly, set forth in Section 4.1(a) and entering into hedging arrangements in relation thereto;

(e) guaranteeing the obligations of any of the Keyera Entities pursuant to any good faith debt for borrowed money or any other obligation incurred by such entity in good faith for the purpose of carrying on its business or the business of any other Keyera Entity;

(f) granting security in any form, over any or all of the Trust Assets to secure any or all of the obligations of the Trust, including its obligations under any guarantee;

(g) repurchasing or redeeming securities of the Trust, including Units, subject to the provisions of this Declaration of Trust and applicable law;

(h) carrying out any of the transactions, and entering into and performing any of the obligations of the Trust under any agreements contemplated by this Declaration of Trust;

(i) engaging in all activities ancillary or incidental to any of those activities set forth in paragraphs (a) through (h) inclusive; and

(j) undertaking such other activities or taking such actions including investing in securities as shall be approved by the Trustee from time to time.

4.2 Investment of Proceeds of Offering

At and immediately after the Time of Closing, the Trust used the proceeds from the Offering to subscribe for and acquire securities of certain Keyera Entities.

4.3 Other Investments

To the extent that any monies or other property received by the Trust or the Trustee are not to be immediately used by the Trustee for the purpose of making distributions under Article 5 hereof, the Trustee is hereby authorized and, where prudent to do so, shall invest such monies in: (i) obligations issued or guaranteed by the Government of Canada or a province of Canada or any agency or instrumentality thereof; (ii) short term commercial paper obligations of a corporation whose short term commercial paper is rated R-1 or higher by Dominion Bond Rating Service Limited or A-1 or higher by Standard & Poor's, a division of The McGraw-Hill Companies, Inc.; or (iii) term deposits, interest-bearing accounts, certificates of deposit or banker's acceptances issued or guaranteed by one of the six largest (in terms of total assets) Canadian chartered banks. For the purpose hereof, "short term" shall mean having a date of maturity or call for payment not more than 60 days from the date on which the investment is made.

DISTRIBUTIONS

5.1 Computation of Cash Flow of the Trust

The Cash Flow of the Trust, for, or in respect of, any Distribution Period, shall be:

(a) all cash amounts which are received by the Trust for, or in respect of, the Distribution Period, including, without limitation, interest, dividends, distributions, proceeds from the disposition of securities, returns of capital and repayments of indebtedness;

(b) plus the proceeds of any issuance of Units, Notes or any other securities of the Trust, net of the expenses of distribution, and, if applicable, the use of proceeds of any such issuance for the intended purpose;

(c) less all amounts which relate to the redemption of Units or Notes and which have become payable in cash by the Trust in such Distribution Period and any expenses of the Trust, if any, in such Distribution Period; and

(d) less all interest payments made on the Notes in such Distribution Period.

5.2 Computation of Income and Net Realized Capital Gains

(a) The "Income" of the Trust for any taxation year of the Trust shall be the net income for the year determined pursuant to the provisions of the Tax Act having regard to the provisions thereof which relate to the calculation of income of a trust, and taking into account such adjustments thereto as are determined by the Trustee in respect of dividends received from taxable Canadian corporations, amounts paid or payable by the Trust to holders of Units or Notes and such other amounts as may be determined in the discretion of the Trustee; provided, however, that capital gains and capital losses shall be excluded from the computation of net income.

(b) The "Net Realized Capital Gains" of the Trust for any taxation year of the Trust shall be determined as the amount, if any, by which the aggregate of the capital gains of the Trust in the year exceeds (i) the aggregate of the capital losses of the Trust in the year, (ii) any capital gains which are realized by the Trust as a result of a redemption of Units pursuant to Article 6 and/or as a result of a redemption of Notes pursuant to the Note Indenture, and (iii) the amount determined by the Trustee in respect of any net capital losses for prior taxation years which the Trust is permitted by the Tax Act to deduct in computing the taxable income of the Trust for the year.

5.3 Distributions of Cash Flow of the Trust

The Trustee shall, on or before each Distribution Record Date, declare payable to the holders of both classes of Units on such Distribution Record Date, all or any part of the Cash Flow of the Trust for the Distribution Period which includes such Distribution Record Date. The proportionate share for each Unit of the amount of such Cash Flow of the Trust (or portion thereof declared payable) shall be determined by dividing the amount payable to such class by the number of issued and outstanding Units of such class on such Distribution Record Date. The share of such Cash Flow of the Trust (or portion thereof declared payable) attributable to each Unitholder of the relevant class shall be an amount equal to the proportionate share for each Unit of such class of the amount of such Cash Flow of the Trust (or portion thereof declared payable) multiplied by the number of Units of such class owned of record by each such holder on such Distribution Record Date. Subject to Section 5.7, Cash Flow of the Trust which has been declared to be payable to holders of Units of a class in respect of a Distribution Period shall be paid in cash on the Distribution Payment Date in respect of such Distribution Period.

5.4 Other Distributions

(a) In addition to the distributions which are made payable to Unitholders pursuant to Section 5.3, the Trustee may declare to be payable and make distributions to Unitholders, from time to time, out of Income of the Trust, Net Realized Capital Gains, the capital of the Trust or otherwise, in any year, in such amount or amounts, and on such dates as the Trustee may determine.

(b) Having regard to the present intention of the Trustee to allocate, distribute and make payable to holders of Units all of the Income of the Trust, Net Realized Capital Gains and any other applicable amounts so that the Trust will not have any liability for tax under Part I of the Tax Act in any taxation year, the following amounts shall, without any further actions on the part of the Trustee, be due and payable to holders of Units of record on December 31 in each such year:

(i) an amount equal to the amount, if any, by which the Income of the Trust for such year exceeds the aggregate of the portions, if any, of each distribution made by the Trust pursuant to Section 5.3 and Section 5.4(a) which have been determined by the Trustee, pursuant to Section 5.5, to have been payable by the Trust out of Income of the Trust for such year; and

(ii) an amount equal to the amount, if any, by which the Net Realized Capital Gains of the Trust for such year exceeds the aggregate of the portions, if any, of each distribution made by the Trust pursuant to Section 5.3 and Section 5.4(a) which have been determined by the Trustee, pursuant to Section 5.5, to have been payable by the Trust out of Net Realized Capital Gains for such year.

(c) The proportionate share of each Unit of the amount of any distribution made pursuant to either or both of Sections 5.4(a) and 5.4(b) shall be determined by dividing such amount by the number of issued and outstanding Units on the applicable record date in respect of a distribution pursuant to Section 5.4(a) and on December 31 in respect of a distribution pursuant to Section 5.4(b). Each Unitholder's share of the amount of any such distribution shall be an amount equal to the proportionate share of each Unit of such amount multiplied by the number of Units owned of record by such Unitholder on such applicable record date or December 31 in the year of such distribution, as the case may be. Subject to Section 5.7, amounts which have been declared to be payable to holders of Units pursuant to either Section 5.4(a) or 5.4(b) shall be paid in cash on the Distribution Payment Date which immediately follows the applicable record date in respect of a distribution pursuant to Section 5.4(a) or December 31 in the applicable year in respect of a distribution pursuant to Section 5.4(b).

(d) In addition to the distributions which are made payable to Unitholder, the Trustee may designate any capital gain realized by the Trust as a result of the redemption of Units pursuant to Section 6.1 to the redeeming holders of Units in accordance with that Section.

5.5 Character of Distributions and Designations

In accordance with and to the extent permitted by the Tax Act, the Trustee in each year shall make designations in respect of the amounts payable to holders of Units for such amounts that the Trustee considers to be reasonable in all of the circumstances, including, without limitation, designations relating to taxable dividends received by the Trust in the year on shares of taxable Canadian corporations (or designated in respect of the Trust where the Trust is a beneficiary of another trust), net capital gains realized by the Trust in the year (or designated in respect of the Trust where the Trust is a beneficiary of another trust) and foreign source income of the Trust for the year, as well as elect under Subsections 104(13.1) and/or (13.2) of the Tax Act that income be taxed to the Trust, rather than to such Unitholders. Distributions payable to Unitholders pursuant to this Article 5 shall be deemed to be distributions of Income of the Trust, Net Realized Capital Gains, trust capital or other items in such amounts as the Trustee shall, in its absolute discretion, determine. For greater certainty, it is hereby declared that any distribution of Net Realized Capital Gains shall include the non-taxable portion of the capital gains of the Trust which are encompassed in such distribution.

5.6 Enforceability of Right to Receive Distributions

Subject to Section 2.8(c), for greater certainty, it is hereby declared that each Unitholder shall have the legal right to enforce payment of any amount payable to such Unitholder as a result of any distribution which is declared payable to such Unitholder pursuant to this Article 5.

5.7 Method of Payment of Distributions

(a) Where the Trustee determines that the Trust does not have available cash in an amount sufficient to make payment of the full amount of any distribution which has been declared to be payable pursuant to this Article 5 on the due date for such payment, the payment may, at the option of the Trustee, include the issuance of additional Units (or fractions of Units) or Notes if necessary, having a value equal to the difference between the amount of such distribution and the amount of cash which has been determined by the Trustee to be available for the payment of such distribution.

(b) The value of each Unit or Note which is issued pursuant to Section 5.7(a) shall be, in the case of the Units, the Redemption Price and, in the case of the Notes, the Redemption Amount (as defined in the Note Indenture).

5.8 Withholding Taxes

The Trustee may deduct or withhold from distributions payable to any Unitholder all amounts required by law to be withheld from such distribution.

5.9 Definitions

Unless otherwise specified or the context otherwise requires, any term in this Article 5 which is defined in the Tax Act shall have for the purposes of this Article 5 the meaning that it has in the Tax Act.

5.10 Additional Distributions

Notwithstanding the foregoing, for so long as there is only one Unitholder, the Trustee may make distributions to Unitholders on such basis as the Trustee may determine from time to time.

ARTICLE 6
REDEMPTION OF UNITS

6.1 Right of Redemption

Each Unitholder shall be entitled to require the Trust to redeem at any time or from time to time at the demand of such Unitholder all or any part of the Units registered in the name of such Unitholder at the prices determined and payable in accordance with the conditions hereinafter provided.

6.2 Exercise of Redemption Right

(a) To exercise the right of a Unitholder to require redemption of Units under this Article 6, a duly completed and properly executed notice requesting that the Trust redeem Units, in a form reasonably acceptable to the Trustee, specifying the number of Units to be so redeemed, shall be sent by the Unitholder to the Trust at the head office of the Trust, together with the Unit Certificates representing the Units to be redeemed. No form or manner of completion or execution shall be sufficient unless the same is in all respects satisfactory to the Trustee and is accompanied by any further evidence that the Trustee may reasonably require with respect to the identity, capacity or authority of the person giving such notice.

(b) Upon receipt by the Trust of the notice to redeem Units together with the Unit Certificates representing the Units to be redeemed, the Unitholder shall thereafter cease to have any rights with respect to the Units tendered for redemption (other than to receive the redemption payment therefor unless the redemption payment is not made as provided for herein) including the right to receive any distributions thereon which are declared payable to the holders of Units of record on a date which is subsequent to the day of receipt by the Trust of such notice. Units shall be considered to be tendered for redemption on the date that the Trust has, to its satisfaction, received the notice and other required documents or evidence as aforesaid.

(c) The Trust shall also be entitled to call for redemption, at any time, all or part of the outstanding Units registered in the name of holders other than the Fund at the Redemption Price specified in Section 6.3 or such other price specified in this Article 6 for each Unit called for redemption, calculated with reference to the date the Trustee approved the redemption of the said Units.

6.3 Cash Redemption

Subject to Section 6.4, upon receipt by the Trust of the notice to redeem Units in accordance with Section 6.2 together with the Unit Certificates representing the Units to be redeemed, the holder of the Units tendered for redemption shall be entitled to receive a price per Unit (hereinafter called the "Redemption Price"):

(a) in the case of Ordinary Units, equal to:

$$\frac{(A \times B) - C}{D}$$

where:

A = the cash redemption price per unit of the Fund calculated as of the close of business on the date the Ordinary Units were so tendered for redemption by a Unitholder;

B = the aggregate number of units of the Fund outstanding as of the close of business on the date the Ordinary Units were so tendered for redemption by a Unitholder;

C = the aggregate unpaid principal amount and accrued interest thereon of any indebtedness held by or owed to the Fund (including the Notes) and the fair market value of any other assets or investments held by the Fund

(other than Ordinary Units) as of the close of business on the date the Ordinary Units were so tendered for redemption by a Unitholder; and

D = the aggregate number of Ordinary Units outstanding as of the close of business on the date the Ordinary Units were so tendered for redemption by a Unitholder.

(b) in the case of Special Units, $0.01.

6.4 In Specie Redemption

(a) The Trustee may, in its discretion, pay some or all of the Redemption Price per Unit to the holders of Units to be redeemed, subject to receipt of all necessary regulatory approvals (which the Trust shall use reasonable commercial efforts to obtain forthwith), by way of a distribution of Notes (Series 2) with an aggregate value (as determined by the Trustee) equal to the aggregate Redemption Price payable.

(b) In connection with the 2007 Reorganization, the Trustee may, in its discretion and subject to receipt of all necessary regulatory approvals (which the Trust shall use reasonable commercial efforts to obtain forthwith), redeem:

(i) the Ordinary Units by way of a distribution to the holders thereof of such Fund Units as are designated as "Trust Units" by the Fund and are held by the Trust; and

(ii) the Special Units by way of a distribution to the holders thereof of Fund Units designated as "Special Non-Voting Units", on the basis of one such "Special Non-Voting Unit" for each Special Unit.

6.5 Payment of Redemption Price

The Redemption Price or such other price specified in this Article 6 payable in respect of the Units tendered or called for redemption shall be paid:

(a) in the case of Units tendered for redemption by a Unitholder pursuant to Section 6.2(a), at the option of the Trustee, (i) in immediately available funds, by cheque, drawn on a Canadian chartered bank or trust company in lawful money of Canada, payable to or to the order of the Unitholder whose Units are to be redeemed, (ii) by the issuance to or to the order of the Unitholder whose Units are to be redeemed of such aggregate amount of Notes (Series 2) as is equal to the aggregate Redemption Price payable to such Unitholder rounded down to the nearest $100, with the balance of any such aggregate Redemption Price not paid in Notes (Series 2) to be paid in immediately available funds by cheque, drawn on a Canadian chartered bank or trust company in lawful money of Canada, payable to or to the order of such Unitholder, or (iii) by any combination of payment in immediately available funds by cheque, drawn on a Canadian chartered bank or trust company in lawful money of Canada, and Series 2 Notes as the Trustee shall determine in its discretion, in each such case payable or issuable on the last day of the calendar month following the calendar month in which the Units were so tendered for redemption; provided, however, that a Unitholder whose Units are to be redeemed may elect, at any time prior to the payment of the Redemption Price, to receive Notes (Series 2), pursuant to clause (ii) above in this Section 6.2(a), in the place of all or part of a payment pursuant to clause (i) or (ii) above in this Section 6.5(a) of the cash otherwise payable, the amount of such Notes (Series 2) payable to be equal to the amount of cash otherwise payable, rounded down to the nearest $100;

(b) in the case of Units called for redemption by the Trust pursuant to Section 6.2(c), other than in connection with the 2007 Reorganization, in immediately available funds, by cheque, drawn on a Canadian chartered bank or trust company in lawful money of Canada, payable to or to the order of the Unitholder whose Units are to be redeemed, such payment to be made upon presentation and surrender of the Units so called for redemption at the head office of the Trust or at such other place as may be specified in the notice calling such Units for redemption; and

(c) in the case of Units called for redemption by the Trust in connection with the 2007 Reorganization, by the issuance or transfer to or to the order of the Unitholder whose Units are to be redeemed of the Fund Units specified in Section 6.4(b).

Payments made by the Trust of the Redemption Price or such other price specified in this Article 6 are conclusively deemed to have been made upon the mailing of a cheque, Notes (Series 2) or Fund Units or any combination thereof (as the case may be), in a postage prepaid envelope addressed to the former Unitholder and/or any party having a security interest unless such cheque is dishonoured upon presentment. Upon such payment, the Trust shall be discharged from all liability to the former Unitholder in respect of the Units so redeemed to the extent of the amount or number of such cheque, Notes (Series 2) and/or Fund Units.

6.6 Purchase for Cancellation

The Trust may from time to time purchase by cheque in immediately available funds for cancellation some or all of the Units (or other securities of the Trust which may be issued and outstanding from time to time) in the market or pursuant to tenders received by the Trust, provided in each case the Trustee has determined such purchases are in the best interests of the Trust.

6.7 Cancellation of all Redeemed or Purchased Trust Units

All Units which are redeemed or purchased for cancellation under this Article 6 shall be cancelled and such Units shall no longer be outstanding and shall not be reissued.

6.8 Withholdings by the Trustee

The Trustee may deduct or withhold from all payments or other distributions payable to any Unitholder pursuant to this Article 6 all amounts required by law to be so withheld.

ARTICLE 7
THE TRUSTEE

7.1 Number and Term

There shall be one Trustee. The appointment of the Initial Trustee is hereby ratified and confirmed. The term of office of the Trustee shall continue until the earlier of the date of the termination of the Trust, the effective date of the Trustee's resignation in accordance with Section 7.3, the effective date of the removal of the Trustee by the Unitholders in accordance with Section 7.3 or the effective date of the removal of the Trustee by the Administrator in accordance with Section 7.3.

7.2 Qualifications of Trustee

The Trustee shall be a body corporate which shall at all times during which it is the Trustee:

(a) be incorporated under the laws of Canada or a province thereof; and

(b) be resident in Canada for the purposes of the Tax Act.

7.3 Resignation and Removal of the Trustee

The Trustee may resign its trust hereunder by giving to the Initial Unitholder or to the Administrator thirty (30) days written notice. The Trustee may be removed at any time with or without cause by resolution approved by a majority of the votes cast at a meeting of Unitholders or by resolution in writing in the manner set out in Section 10.10. The Trustee may also be removed at any time by the Administrator by notice in writing to the Trustee if, at any time:

(a) the Trustee no longer satisfies all the requirements of Section 7.2;

(b) the Trustee shall be declared bankrupt or insolvent or shall enter into liquidation, whether compulsory or voluntary, to wind-up its affairs;

(c) the assets of the Trustee, or a substantial part thereof, shall otherwise become subject to seizure or confiscation; or

(d) the Trustee shall otherwise become incapable of performing its responsibilities under this Declaration of Trust.

Any such resignation or removal shall take effect on the earlier of 30 days after the date such resignation is duly given, such resolution is approved by a majority of the votes cast at a meeting of Unitholders, such written resolution is approved in the manner set out in Section 10.10, or such notice of the Administrator is given, as the case may be, and the date a successor Trustee is appointed. If no successor Trustee has been appointed within 10 days of such notice of resignation or resolution or notice of the Administrator, as the case may be, any Unitholder, the Administrator or any other interested person may apply to a court of competent jurisdiction for the appointment of a successor.

Upon the resignation or removal of the Trustee, or the Trustee otherwise ceasing to be the Trustee, it shall:

(a) cease to have rights, privileges, powers and authorities of the Trustee hereunder;

(b) execute and deliver such documents as the Administrator shall reasonably require for the conveyance of any Trust Assets held in the Trustee's name; and

(c) account to the Administrator, as the Administrator may require, for all property which the Trustee holds as Trustee.

Upon the Trustee ceasing to hold office as such hereunder, the Trustee shall cease to be a party (as Trustee) to this Declaration of Trust; provided, however, that such Trustee shall continue to be entitled to be paid any amounts owing by the Trust to the Trustee and to the benefits of the indemnity provided in Section 8.7 which accrued prior to its vacation of the office of Trustee.

7.4 Appointment of the Trustee

The appointment of a Trustee to replace a Trustee resigning or being removed shall be by resolution approved by a majority of the votes cast at a meeting of Unitholders or shall be made by resolution in writing in the manner set out in Section 10.10, failing which a replacement Trustee may be appointed by the Court pursuant to Section 7.3. The appointment of such a Trustee shall not become effective unless and until such person has, either before or after such election or appointment, executed and delivered to the Trust an acceptance substantially as follows:

"To: Keyera Facilities Commercial Trust

And to: The Administrator thereof

The undersigned hereby accepts its appointment as the Trustee of the Trust and hereby agrees, upon the later of the date of this acceptance and the date of the undersigned's appointment as the Trustee of the Trust, to thereby become a party, as the Trustee, to the Declaration of Trust made as of May 30, 2003, as amended, supplemented or restated from time to time, constituting the Trust.

Dated: _____, _____

[Print Name]

[Signature]"

Upon the later of a person being appointed the Trustee hereunder and executing and delivering to the Trust an acceptance substantially as set forth above, such person shall become the Trustee hereunder and shall be deemed to be a party (as the Trustee) to this Declaration of Trust.

7.5 Vacancies

No vacancy in the office of the Trustee shall operate to annul this Declaration of Trust or affect the continuity of the Trust.

7.6 Successor and Additional Trustee

The rights of the Trustee to control and exclusively administer the Trust and to have the title to the Trust Assets and all other rights of the Trustee at law shall vest automatically in any person who may hereafter become the Trustee upon its due appointment and qualification without any further act and it shall thereupon have all the rights, privileges, powers, obligations and immunities of the Trustee hereunder. Such rights shall vest in the Trustee whether or not conveyancing or transfer documents have been executed and delivered pursuant to Section 7.3 or otherwise.

7.7 Compensation and Other Remuneration

The Trustee shall be entitled to receive for its services as Trustee such reasonable compensation as shall be negotiated between the Administrator, on behalf of the Trust, and the Trustee, as well as reimbursement of the Trustee's out-of-pocket expenses incurred in acting as the Trustee. The Trustee, either directly or indirectly, shall also be entitled to receive remuneration for services rendered to the Trust in any other capacity. Such services may include, without limitation, services as the transfer agent of the Trust.

7.8 Validity of Acts

Any act of a Trustee is valid notwithstanding any irregularity in the appointment of the Trustee or a defect in the qualifications of the Trustee.

7.9 Individual Trustee

Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of Article 7,

(a) the Individual Trustee shall be appointed as Trustee in the place and stead of, and as successor to, the Initial Trustee, without any further action or writing on the part of any party, for the period of time:

(i) commencing immediately upon, and concurrently with, any Special Unit being issued or transferred to, or otherwise being held by, any person that is not a Keyera Entity, and

(ii) terminating immediately upon the earlier of (A) all Special Units being redeemed by the Trust and (B) all Special Units being held, directly or indirectly, by one or more Keyera Entities; and

(b) immediately upon, and concurrently with, the termination of the period set forth in Section 7.9(a) during which the Individual Trustee shall serve as Trustee, the Initial Trustee shall automatically be re-appointed as Trustee in the place and stead of, and as successor to, the Individual Trustee, without any further action or writing on the part of any party.

For greater certainty, for purposes of this Declaration of Trust (including but not limited to Sections 8.6 and 8.7), references to the Trustee shall include, without limitation so long as [s]he remains as trustee, the Individual Trustee.

ARTICLE 8
CONCERNING THE TRUSTEE

8.1 Powers of the Trustee

The Trustee, subject to the specific limitations contained in this Declaration of Trust, shall have, without further or other action or consent, and free from any power or control on the part of the Unitholders, full, absolute and exclusive power, control and authority over the Trust Assets and over the affairs of the Trust to the same extent as if the Trustee were the sole and absolute beneficial owner of the Trust Assets in its own right, to do all such acts and things as in its sole judgment and discretion are necessary or incidental to, or desirable for, carrying out the trust created hereunder. In construing the provisions of this Declaration of Trust, presumption shall be in favour of the granted powers and authority to the Trustee. The enumeration of any specific power or authority herein (including pursuant to Section 8.2) shall not be construed as limiting the general powers or authority or any other specified power or authority conferred herein on the Trustee. To the maximum extent permitted by law, the Trustee shall, in carrying out investment activities, not be in any way restricted by the provisions of the laws of any jurisdiction limiting or purporting to limit investments which may be made by trustees. The Trustee is authorized to, and shall, enter into the Administration Agreement.

8.2 Specific Powers and Authorities

Subject only to the express limitations contained in this Declaration of Trust or contracts or obligations of the Trustee or the Trust and in addition to any other powers and authorities conferred by this Declaration of Trust or which the Trustee may have by virtue of any present or future statute or rule of law, the Trustee without any action or consent by the Unitholders shall have and may exercise at any time and from time to time the following powers and authorities which may or may not be exercised by the Trustee in such manner and upon such terms and conditions as it may from time to time determine proper including the powers and authorities to do the following or to cause the same to be done:

(f) invest funds of the Trust as provided in Article 4;

(g) monitor the level of Unitholders who are non-residents of Canada as defined in the Tax Act ("Non-residents") and if the Trustee becomes aware of circumstances that may result in the Trust being maintained primarily for the benefit of Non-residents, it shall take such steps as are necessary or desirable to address the circumstances in accordance with Section 11.5;

(h) subject to the provisions hereof, possess and exercise all the rights, powers and privileges pertaining to the ownership of any securities forming part of the Trust Assets, including but not limited to the securities of Keyera Entities, to the same extent that an individual might, unless otherwise limited herein, and, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, vote or give any consent, request or notice, or waive any notice, either in person or by proxy or power of attorney, with or without power of substitution, to one or more persons, which proxies and powers of attorney may be for meetings or actions generally or for any particular meeting or action and may include the exercise of discretionary power;

(i) where reasonably required, engage or employ on behalf of the Trust any persons as agents, representatives, administrators, employees or independent contractors (including, without limitation, investment advisors, registrars, underwriters, accountants, lawyers, appraisers, brokers or otherwise) in one or more capacities;

(j) except as prohibited by law, delegate any of the powers and duties of the Trustee to any one or more agents, representatives, administrators, officers, employees, independent contractors or other persons (including but not limited to the Administrator) without liability to the Trustee, except as provided in this Declaration of Trust and may, from time to time, change the Administrator;

(k) engage in, intervene in, prosecute, join, defend, compromise, abandon or adjust, by arbitration or otherwise, any actions, suits, disputes, claims, demands or other litigation or proceedings, regulatory or judicial, relating to the Trust, the Trust Assets, the Trust Liabilities or the Trust's affairs, to enter into agreements therefor, whether or not any suit or proceeding is commenced or claim asserted and, in advance of any controversy, to enter into agreements regarding the arbitration, adjudication or settlement thereof;

(l) arrange for insurance contracts and policies insuring the Trust, the Trust Assets, the business of the Keyera Entities and/or any or all of the Trustee or the Unitholders, including against any and all claims and liabilities of any nature asserted by any person arising by reason of any action alleged to have been taken or omitted by the Trust or by the Trustee or Unitholders;

(m) cause legal title to any of the Trust Assets to be held by and/or in the name of the Trustee, or except as prohibited by law, by and/or in the name of the Trust or any other custodian or person, on such terms, in such manner, with such powers in such person as the Trustee may determine and with or without disclosure that the Trust or the Trustee is interested therein; provided, however, that should legal title to any of the Trust Assets be held by and/or in the name of any person or persons other than the Trustee or the Trust, the Trustee shall require such person or persons to execute a trust agreement acknowledging that legal title to such assets is held in trust for the benefit of the Trust;

(n) issue Units, Notes or other securities, for such consideration as the Trustee may deem appropriate in its sole discretion, such issuance to be subject to the terms and conditions of the Declaration of Trust;

(o) provide, and comply with, undertakings to securities regulatory authorities required to be given in connection with public offerings of Fund Units;

(s) without limit as to amount, issue any type of debt securities or convertible debt securities and borrow money or incur any other form of indebtedness for the purpose of carrying out the purposes of the Trust or to finance other expenses incurred in connection with the Trust and, for such purposes, draw, make, execute and issue promissory notes and other negotiable and non-negotiable instruments or securities and evidences of indebtedness, secure the payment of sums so borrowed or indebtedness incurred and mortgage, pledge, assign or grant a security interest in any money owing to the Trust or in Trust Assets or engage in any other means of financing the Trust;

(t) pay all taxes or assessments, of whatever kind or nature, whether within or outside Canada, imposed upon or against the Trustee in connection with the Trust Assets, or undertaking or income of the Trust, or imposed upon or against the Trust Assets, undertaking or income of the Trust, or any part thereof and to settle or compromise disputed tax liabilities and for the foregoing purposes to make such returns, take such deductions, and make such designations, elections and determinations in respect of Income of the Trust or Net Realized Capital Gains distributed to Unitholders in the year and any other matter as shall be permitted under the Tax Act (provided that to the extent necessary the Trustee will seek the advice of the Trust's counsel or the Auditor), and do all such other acts and things as may be deemed by the Trustee in its sole discretion to be necessary, desirable or convenient;

(u) guarantee the obligations of any of the Keyera Entities pursuant to any debt for borrowed money or other obligation incurred by such entity in good faith for the purpose of carrying on its business or the business of any other Keyera Entity;

(v) subordinate obligations owed to the Trust by any of the Keyera Entities to any other obligation incurred by such entity in good faith for the purpose of carrying on its business or the business of any other Keyera Entity;

The Trustee shall, except as may be prohibited by law, have the right to delegate authority for the above-referenced matters to a manager or administrator where the Trustee determines in its sole discretion that such delegation is desirable to effect the administration of the duties of the Trustee under the Declaration of Trust.

8.3 Restrictions

Notwithstanding Section 8.2, the Trustee may not under any circumstances vote any securities held as part of the Trust Assets to authorize:

(a) any sale, lease or other disposition of all or substantially all of the assets of KEP LP or the Administrator, except in conjunction with an internal reorganization or the granting of security in accordance with Section 8.2(w);

(b) any merger, amalgamation, arrangement, reorganization, recapitalization, business combination or similar transaction involving KEP LP or the Administrator, except in conjunction with an internal reorganization;

(c) the winding-up, liquidation or dissolution of KEP LP or the Administrator prior to the end of the term of the Trust; or

(d) any material amendment to the limited partnership agreement by which KEP LP is created or the articles of the Administrator in a manner prejudicial to the Trust, without the approval of Unitholders pursuant to a Special Resolution or a resolution in writing in accordance with Section 10.10.

8.4 Banking

The banking activities of the Trust, or any part thereof, including, without limitation, the operation of the Trust's accounts; the making, signing, drawing, accepting, endorsing, negotiation, lodging, depositing or transferring of any cheques, promissory notes, drafts, acceptances, bills of exchange and orders for the payment of money; the giving of receipts for orders relating to any property of the Trust; the execution of any agreement relating to any property of the Trust; the execution of any agreement relating to any such banking activities and defining the rights and powers of the parties thereto; and the authorizing of any officer of such banker to do any act or thing on the Trust's behalf to facilitate such banking activities, shall be transacted with such bank, trust company, or other firm or corporation carrying on a banking business as the Trustee may designate, appoint or authorize from time to time and shall be transacted on the Trust's behalf by one or more officers of the Trust or of a Keyera Entity as the Trustee may designate, appoint or authorize from time to time.

8.5 Standard of Care and Duties

The Trustee shall act honestly and in good faith with a view to the best interests of the Trust and in connection therewith shall exercise the degree of care, diligence and skill that a reasonably prudent person would exercise in comparable circumstances. The Trustee shall not be liable in carrying out its duties under this Declaration of Trust except in cases where the Trustee fails to act honestly and in good faith with a view to the best interests of the Trust or to exercise the degree of care, diligence and skill that a reasonably prudent person would exercise in comparable circumstances. The duties and standard of care of the Trustee provided as aforesaid are intended to be equivalent to, and not to be any greater than, those imposed on a director of a corporation governed by the Business Corporations Act (Alberta). Unless otherwise required by law, the Trustee shall not be required to give bond surety or security in any jurisdiction for the performance of any duties or obligations hereunder. The Trustee shall not be required to devote its entire time to the investments or business or affairs of the Trust.

8.6 Limitations on Liability of Trustee

(a) Except in the event of a breach of the standard of care, diligence and skill set forth in Section 8.5, the Trustee shall not be liable to any Unitholder for any action taken in good faith in reliance on any documents that are, prima facie, properly executed; for any depreciation of, or loss to, the Trust incurred by reason of the sale of any security; for the loss or disposition of monies or securities; or for any other action or failure to act including, without limitation, the failure to compel in any way any former trustee to redress any breach of trust or any failure by the Administrator to perform obligations or pay monies owed to the Trust. If the Trustee has retained an appropriate expert or advisor with respect to any matter connected with its duties under this Declaration of Trust, the Trustee may act or refuse to act based on the advice of such expert or advisor and, notwithstanding any provision of this Declaration of Trust, including, without limitation, the standard of care, diligence and skill set out in Section 8.5 hereof, the Trustee shall not be liable for any action or refusal to act based on the advice of any such expert or advisor which it is reasonable to conclude is within the expertise of such expert or advisor to give.

(b) Subject to the standard of care set forth in Section 8.5, none of the Trustee nor any officer, director, employee or agent thereof shall be subject to any liability whatsoever in tort, contract or otherwise, in connection with Trust Assets or the affairs of the Trust, including, without limitation, in respect of any loss or diminution in value of any Trust Assets to the Trust or to the Unitholders or to any other person for anything done or permitted to be done by the Trustee. The Trustee shall not be subject to any personal liability for any debts, liabilities, obligations, claims, demands, judgments, costs, charges or expenses against or with respect to the Trust arising out of anything done or permitted or omitted to be done in respect of the execution of the duties of the office of Trustee for or in respect of the affairs of the Trust. No property or assets of the Trustee, owned in its personal capacity or otherwise, will be subject to any levy, execution or other enforcement procedure with regard to any obligations under this Declaration of Trust or under any other related agreements. No recourse may be had or taken, directly or indirectly, against the Trustee in its personal capacity. The Trust shall be solely liable therefor and resort shall be had solely to the Trust Assets for payment or performance thereof.

8.7 Indemnification of Trustee

The Trustee and each former Trustee shall be entitled to be and shall be indemnified and reimbursed out of the Trust Assets in respect of any and all taxes, penalties or interest in respect of unpaid taxes or other governmental charges imposed upon such Person in consequence of its performance of its duties hereunder and in respect of any and all costs, charges and expenses, including amounts paid to settle an action or satisfy a judgment, reasonably incurred in respect of any civil, criminal or administrative action or proceeding to which such Person is made a party by reason of being or having been a Trustee or, at the request of the Trust, a trustee, director or officer of any Keyera Entity; provided that a Trustee or former Trustee, shall not be indemnified out of the Trust Assets in respect of unpaid taxes or other governmental charges, in respect of such costs, charges and expenses that arise out of or as a result or in the course of its failure to act honestly and in good faith with a view to the best interests of the Unitholders or, in the case of a criminal or administrative action or proceeding that is enforced by a monetary penalty, where the Trustee did not have reasonable grounds for believing its conduct was lawful. A Trustee or former Trustee shall not be entitled to satisfy any right of indemnity or reimbursement granted herein, or otherwise existing under law, except out of the Trust Assets, and no Unitholder or other Trustee or former Trustee shall be personally liable to any person with respect to any claim for such indemnity or reimbursement as aforesaid.

8.8 Contractual Obligations of Trust

In respect of any obligations or liabilities being incurred by the Trust or the Trustee or the Administrator on behalf of the Trust, the Trustee or the Administrator and the Trust shall make all reasonable efforts to include as a specific term of such obligations or liabilities a contractual provision to the effect that none of the Unitholders and the Trustee or the Administrator shall have any personal liability or obligations in respect thereof. The omission of such statement from any such document or instrument shall not render the Trustee, the Administrator or the Unitholders liable to any person, nor shall the Trustee, the Administrator or the Unitholders be liable for such omission. If, notwithstanding this provision, the Trustee, the Administrator or any Unitholder shall be held liable to any person by reason of the omission of such statement from any such agreement, undertaking or obligation such Trustee, the Administrator or Unitholder shall be entitled to indemnity and reimbursement out of the Trust Assets to the full extent of such liability.

8.9 Conflicts of Interest

(a) A director or officer of the Trustee or of the Trust who is a party to, or is a director or officer of or has a material interest in any person who is a party to, a material contract or proposed material contract with the Trust shall disclose in writing to the Trust the nature and extent of such interest, and shall not vote on any resolution to approve the contract, unless the contract is one relating primarily to remuneration as a Trustee, director or officer, one for indemnity or insurance, or one with the Fund, any of the Keyera Entities, or any other affiliate of the Trust, and, for greater certainty, a Trustee complying with this Section 8.9 shall not be subject to any liability to the Trust or the Unitholders with respect to such contract or proposed material contract as aforesaid.

(b) Subject to Section 8.9(a), the Trustee, in its personal capacity or any other capacity, may buy, lend upon and deal in securities of the Trust and generally may contract and enter into any financial transactions with the Trust without being liable to account for any profit made thereby.

8.10 Conditions Precedent

The obligation of the Trustee to commence or continue any act, action, suit or proceeding or to represent the Trust in any action, suit or proceeding shall be conditional upon sufficient funds being available to the Trustee from the Trust Assets to commence or continue such act, action, suit or proceeding or to represent the Trust in any action, suit or proceeding and an indemnity reasonably satisfactory to the Trustee to protect and hold harmless the Trustee against the costs, charges and expenses and liabilities to be incurred therein and any loss and damage it may suffer by reason thereof. None of the provisions contained in this Declaration of Trust shall require the Trustee to expend or risk its own funds or otherwise incur financial liability in the performance of its duties or in the exercise of any of its rights or powers unless it is given an indemnity and funding satisfactory to the Trustee, acting reasonably.

AMENDMENT

9.1 Amendment

The provisions of this Declaration of Trust, except where specifically provided otherwise, may only be amended by Special Resolution (provided that the Fund, as Unitholder, proceeds in accordance with the Fund Declaration of Trust); provided that the provisions of this Declaration of Trust may be amended by the Trustee without the consent, approval or ratification of the Unitholders or any other person at any time:

(a) for the purpose of ensuring continuing compliance with applicable laws, regulations, requirements or policies of any governmental authority having jurisdiction over the Trustee or the Trust;

(b) in a manner which, in the written opinion of counsel, provide additional protection for the Unitholders;

(c) to remove any conflicts or inconsistencies in this Declaration of Trust or to make minor corrections which are, in the opinion of the Trustee, necessary or desirable and not prejudicial to the Unitholders;

(d) in a manner which, in the opinion of the Trustee, are necessary or desirable as a result of changes in Canadian taxation laws; or

(e) to change the situs of, or the laws governing, the Trust which in the opinion of the Trustee is desirable in order to provide Unitholders with the benefit of any legislation limiting their liability;

but notwithstanding the foregoing, no such amendment shall modify the voting rights of any Unit or reduce the fractional undivided interest in the Trust Assets represented by any Unit without the consent of the holder of such Unit and no amendment shall reduce the percentage of votes required to be cast at a meeting of the Unitholders for the purpose of this Section 9.1 without the consent of the holders of all of the Units then outstanding.

9.2 Notification of Amendment

As soon as shall be practicable after the making of any amendment pursuant to Section 9.1, and in any event not later than the date the Trust is required to provide the financial disclosure in Section 14.7, the Trustee shall furnish written notification of the substance of such amendment to each Unitholder.

MEETINGS OF UNITHOLDERS

10.1 Annual and Special Meetings of Unitholders

Annual meetings of the holders of Ordinary Units shall be called on a day on or before June 30 in each year, at a time and at a place in Canada set by the Trustee. The business transacted at such meetings shall include the presentation of the financial statements of the Trust for the immediately preceding year, the appointment of Auditors for the ensuing year in accordance with Article 15, and the transaction of such other business as Unitholders may be entitled to vote upon as hereinafter provided in this Article 10 or as the Trustee may determine or as may be properly brought before the meeting. Special meetings of the holders of Ordinary Units may be called at any time by the Trustee and shall be called by the Trustee upon a written request of holders of Ordinary Units holding in the aggregate Ordinary Units then outstanding carrying not less than 10% of the votes, such request specifying in reasonable detail the business proposed to be transacted at the meeting. The chair of any annual or special meeting shall be appointed as chair of the meeting by the holders of Ordinary Units present. In addition to the holders of Ordinary Units, the Trustee, the Auditors and any other person approved by the Trustee, the chair of the meeting or by resolution passed by a majority of the votes cast by holders of Ordinary Units represented at the meeting may attend such meetings.

10.2 Notice of Meetings

Notice of all meetings of holders of Ordinary Units shall be given by unregistered mail, postage prepaid, addressed to each holder of Ordinary Units at his or her last address on the books of the Trust, mailed at least 21 days and not more than 50 days before the meeting. Such notice shall specify the time when, and the place where, such meeting is to be held and shall specify the nature of the business to be transacted at such meeting in sufficient detail to permit a holder of Ordinary Units to form a reasoned judgment thereon, together with the text of any Special Resolution, at the time of mailing of the notice, proposed to be passed. Any adjourned meeting, other than a meeting adjourned for lack of a quorum under Section 10.3, may be held as adjourned without further notice. The accidental omission to give notice or the non-receipt of such notice by a holder of Ordinary Units shall not invalidate any resolution passed at any such meeting. Notwithstanding the foregoing, a meeting of holders of Ordinary Units may be held at any time without notice if all the holders of Ordinary Units are present or represented thereat or those not so present or represented have waived notice. Any holder of Ordinary Units (or a duly appointed proxy of a holder of Ordinary Units) may waive any notice required to be given under the provisions of this Section 10.2, and such waiver, whether given before or after the meeting, shall cure any default in the giving of such notice.

10.3 Quorum

At any meeting of the holders of Ordinary Units, subject as hereinafter provided, a quorum shall consist of one or more individuals present in person either holding personally or representing as proxies not less in aggregate than 10% of the votes attached to all outstanding Ordinary Units. In the event of such quorum not being present at the appointed place on the date for which the meeting is called within 30 minutes after the time fixed for the holding of such meeting, the meeting, if called by request of holders of Ordinary Units, shall be terminated and, if otherwise called, shall stand adjourned to such day being not less than 7 days later and to such place and time as may be appointed by the chair of the meeting. If at such adjourned meeting a quorum as above defined is not present, the holders of Ordinary Units then present either personally or by proxy shall form a quorum, and any business may be brought before or dealt with at such an adjourned meeting which might have been brought before or dealt with at the original meeting in accordance with the notice calling the same.

10.4 Voting Rights of Unitholders

Only holders of Ordinary Units of record shall be entitled to vote and each Ordinary Unit shall entitle the holder or holders of that Unit on a poll vote at any meeting of holders of Ordinary Units to the voting rights set out herein. Every question submitted to a meeting, other than a Special Resolution, shall, unless a poll vote is demanded, be decided by a show of hands vote, on which every person present and entitled to vote shall be entitled to one vote. At any meeting of holders of Ordinary Units, any Unitholder entitled to vote thereat may vote by proxy and a proxyholder need not be a Unitholder, provided that no proxy shall be voted at any meeting unless it shall have been received by the Trustee or a transfer agent of the Trust for verification at least 24 hours prior to the commencement of such meeting. When any Ordinary Unit is held jointly by several persons, any one of them may vote at any meeting in person or by proxy in respect of such Unit, but if more than one of them shall be present at such meeting in person or by proxy, and such joint owners or their proxies so present disagree as to any vote to be cast, such vote purporting to be executed by or on behalf of a Unitholder shall be deemed valid unless challenged at or prior to its exercise, and the burden of proving invalidity shall rest on the challenger.

10.5 Resolutions Binding the Trustee

Holders of Ordinary Units shall be entitled to pass resolutions that will bind the Trust only with respect to the following matters:

(a) the removal or appointment of a Trustee as provided in Article 7;

(b) the appointment, waiver of appointment or removal of Auditors as provided in Article 15;

(c) the appointment of an inspector as provided in Section 10.9;

(d) amendments of this Declaration of Trust as provided in Section 9.1;

(e) the termination of the Trust as provided in Section 12.2;

(f) the sale of all or substantially all of the Trust Assets;

(g) the exercise of voting rights attached to voting securities held by the Trust as provided in Section 8.2(h) other than the exercise of voting rights attached to securities held by the Trust in relation to those matters which are subject to Section 8.3;

(h) the matters set forth in Section 8.3, including the exercise of any voting rights attached to securities held by the Trust in relation to those matters; and

(i) the dissolution of the Trust prior to the end of its term.

Except with respect to the above matters set out in this Section 10.5, no action taken by Unitholders or any resolution of Unitholders at any meeting shall in any way bind the Trustee. Any action taken or resolution passed in respect of any matter on which the approval of the holders of Ordinary Units is required under this Declaration of Trust shall be by Special Resolution, unless the contrary is otherwise expressly provided under any specific provision of this Declaration of Trust and except for the matters set out in Sections 10.5(a), 10.5(b) and 10.5(g) which matters may be dealt with by a resolution passed by a majority of the votes cast by holders of Ordinary Units represented at the meeting.

10.6 Meaning of "Special Resolution"

(a) The expression "Special Resolution" when used in this Declaration of Trust means, subject to this Article 10, a resolution proposed to be passed as a special resolution at a meeting of holders of Ordinary Units (including an adjourned meeting) duly convened for that purpose and held in accordance with the provisions of this Article 10 and passed by the affirmative votes of the holders of votes attached to more than 66 2/3% of the Ordinary Units represented at the meeting and voted on a poll upon such resolution.

(b) Votes on a Special Resolution shall always be given on a poll and no demand for a poll on a Special Resolution shall be necessary.

10.7 Meaning of "Outstanding"

Every Unit issued, certified and delivered hereunder shall be deemed to be outstanding until it shall be cancelled or delivered to the Trustee or a transfer agent for the Trust for cancellation provided that:

(a) when a new certificate has been issued in substitution for a Unit Certificate which has been lost, stolen, mutilated or destroyed, only the new certificates shall be counted for the purposes of determining the number of Units outstanding;

(b) for the purpose of any provision of this Declaration of Trust entitling Unitholders to vote, sign consents, requisitions or other instruments or take any action under this Declaration of Trust, Units owned directly or indirectly, legally or equitably, by the Trust or any subsidiary of the Trust shall be disregarded, except that:

(i) for the purpose of determining whether the Trustee shall be protected in relying on any such vote, consent, requisition or other instrument or action only the Units which the Trustee knows are so owned shall be so disregarded; and

(ii) Units so owned which have been pledged in good faith other than to the Trust or any Keyera Entity shall not be so disregarded if the pledgee shall establish to the satisfaction of the Trustee the pledgee's right to vote such Units in his or her discretion free from the control of the Trust or any Keyera Entity; and

(c) for the purposes of Section 10.7(b), the Trust shall provide a certificate which will state the number of Units and the certificate numbers of certificates, if certificates are issued, held by the Trust or any Keyera Entity. The Trustee shall be entitled to rely on such certificate in order to disregard the votes of any of any such parties.

10.8 Record Date for Voting

For the purpose of determining the holders of Ordinary Units who are entitled to vote or act at any meeting or any adjournment thereof, the Trustee may fix a date not more than 60 days and not less than 10 days prior to the date of such meeting as a record date for the determination of holders of Ordinary Units entitled to vote at such meeting or any adjournment thereof, and any holder of Ordinary Units at the time so fixed shall be entitled to vote at such meeting or any adjournment thereof even though such Unitholder has since that time disposed of his or her Ordinary Units, and no Unitholder becoming such after that time shall be so entitled to vote at such meeting or any adjournment thereof. In the event that the Trustee does not fix a record date for any meeting of Unitholders, the record date for such meeting shall be the date upon which notice of the meeting is given as provided under Section 10.2.

10.9 Appointment of Inspector

The Trustee shall call a meeting of holders of Ordinary Units upon the written request of Unitholders holding in the aggregate not less than 25% of the votes attached to the Ordinary Units then outstanding for the purpose of considering the appointment of an inspector to investigate the performance by the Trustee of its responsibilities and duties in respect of the Trust. An inspector may be appointed for such purpose, at the expense of the Trust, at such meeting by a resolution approved by a majority of the votes cast at the meeting. Any such inspector shall on reasonable notice have reasonable access during normal business hours to (i) all books, records and accounts of the Trust and the Keyera Entities, (ii) the Trustee, directors, officers and senior management of the Trust and the Keyera Entities, and (iii) such financial and operating data and other information with respect to the Trust and the Keyera Entities as the inspector may reasonably request.

10.10 Resolutions in Writing

Notwithstanding any other provision of this Declaration of Trust, a resolution in writing executed by Unitholders holding more than 66 2/3% votes attached to outstanding Ordinary Units at any time shall be as valid and binding for all purposes of this Declaration of Trust as if such Unitholders had exercised at that time all of the voting rights to which they were then entitled under Section 10.5 or 10.6 in favour of such resolution at a meeting of Unitholders duly called for the purpose.

ARTICLE 11
CERTIFICATES, REGISTRATION AND TRANSFER OF UNITS

11.1 Nature of Units

(a) The provisions of this Article 11 shall not in any way alter the nature of Units or the relationships of a Unitholder to the Trustee and of one Unitholder to another but are intended only to facilitate the issuance of certificates evidencing the ownership of Units if desirable to issue them to Unitholders and the recording of all transactions in respect of Units and Unit Certificates whether by the Trust, securities dealers, stock exchanges, transfer agents, registrars or other persons. The Units may, at the discretion of the Trustee, be evidenced by certificates.

(b) One or more Global Special Unit Certificates (a "Global Special Unit Certificate") may, at the discretion of the Trustee, be issued in the name of, or the name of the nominee of, and deposited by the Trustee with, or on behalf of, CDS or a successor (collectively, the "Depository"), as custodian of such Global Special Unit Certificate and registered by the Trustee in the name of the Depository or its nominee. No holder of Special Units represented by a Global Special Unit Certificate will be entitled to a certificate or other instrument from the Trust or the Depository evidencing that purchaser's ownership thereof except in the circumstances described in Section 11.1(e). Beneficial interests in a Global Special Unit Certificate will be represented only through the Book-Entry System. Transfers of Special Units between CDS Participants shall occur in accordance with the Depository's rules and procedures.

(c) All references herein to actions by, notices given or payments made to holders of Special Units shall, where such Special Units are held through the Depository, refer to actions taken by, or notices given or payments made to, the Depository upon instruction from the CDS Participants in accordance with the Depository's rules and procedures. The rights of a Unitholder whose Special Units are held through the Depository shall be exercised only through the Depository and the CDS Participants and shall be limited to those established by law and agreements between such holders of Special Units and the Depository and/or the CDS Participants or upon instruction from the CDS Participants. The Trustee may deal with the Depository for all purposes (including the making of payments) as the authorized representative of the respective holders of Special Units and such dealing with the Depository shall constitute satisfaction or performance, as applicable, towards their respective obligations hereunder.

(d) For so long as Special Units are held through the Depository, if any notice or other communication is required to be given to holders of such Special Units, the Trustee will give all such notices and communications to the Depository.

(e) If (i) the Trust determines that the Depository is no longer willing or able to discharge properly its responsibilities as depository with respect to the Special Units and the Trust is unable to locate a qualified successor, or (ii) the Trust at its option elects, or is required by law, to terminate the Book-Entry System with respect to the Special Units, then the Depository shall surrender the Global Special Unit Certificate to the Trustee with instructions from the Depository for registration of Special Units in the name and in the amounts specified by the Depository and the Trust shall issue and the Trustee shall execute and deliver the aggregate number of Special Units then outstanding in the form of definitive Unit Certificates representing such Special Units.

11.2 Unit Certificates

(a) Unit Certificates shall, subject to the provisions hereof, be in such form as is authorized from time to time by the Trustee.

(b) Unit Certificates shall be issuable only in fully registered form.

(c) The definitive form of the Unit Certificates shall:

(i) be in the English language;

(ii) be dated as of the date of issue thereof;

(iii) contain the CUSIP number (if any); and

(iv) contain such distinguishing letters and numbers as the Trustee shall prescribe.

(d) In the event that any Unit Certificate is translated into the French language and any provision of any Unit Certificates in the French language shall be susceptible of an interpretation different from the equivalent provision in the English language, the interpretation of such provision in the English language shall be determinative.

(e) Each Unit Certificate shall be signed on behalf of the Trustee. The signature of the Trustee required to appear on such certificate may be printed, lithographed or otherwise mechanically reproduced thereon and, in such event, certificates so signed are as valid as if they had been signed manually. If a Unit Certificate contains a printed or mechanically produced signature of any person, then the Trust may issue the Unit Certificate even though the person has ceased to be a Trustee and such Unit Certificate is as valid as if the person continued to be a Trustee at the date of its issue.

11.3 Contents of Unit Certificates

(a) Until otherwise determined by the Trustee, each Unit Certificate shall legibly set forth on the face thereof, inter alia, the following:

(i) the name of the Trust and the words "A trust created under the laws of the Province of Alberta by a Declaration of Trust dated as of the 30th day of May, 2003 as amended or restated from time to time" or words of like effect;

(ii) the name of the person to whom the Unit Certificate is issued as Unitholder;

(iii) the number (and, if applicable, class) of Units represented thereby and whether or not the Units represented thereby are fully paid;

(iv) that the Units represented thereby are transferable;

(v) "The Units represented by this certificate are issued upon the terms and subject to the conditions of the Declaration of Trust, which Declaration of Trust is binding upon all holders of Units and, by acceptance of this certificate, the holder assents to the terms and conditions of the Declaration of Trust. A copy of the Declaration of Trust pursuant to which this certificate and the Units represented thereby are issued may be obtained by a Unitholder on demand and without fee from the head office of the Trust" or words of like effect; and

(vi) "For information as to personal liability of a Unitholder, see the reverse side of this certificate" or words of like effect.

(b) Until otherwise determined by the Trustee, each such certificate shall legibly set forth on the face or the reverse side thereof, inter alia, the following:

(i) "The Declaration of Trust provides that no Unitholder shall be subject to any personal liability whatsoever, in tort, contract or otherwise, to any person in connection with the assets of the Trust or the obligations or the affairs of the Trust and all such persons shall look solely to the assets of the Trust for satisfaction of claims of any nature arising out of or in connection therewith and the assets of the Trust only shall be subject to levy or execution", or words of like effect; and

(ii) appropriate forms of notice of exercise of the right of redemption and of powers of attorney for transferring Units.

(c) The Unit Certificates may be engraved, printed or lithographed, or partly in one form and partly in another, as the Trustee may determine.

11.4 Register of Unitholders

A register shall be kept at the offices of the Trust or its designee in Calgary, Alberta, which register shall contain the names and addresses of the Unitholders, the respective numbers of Units held by them, the certificate numbers of certificates representing such Units, if applicable, and a record of all transfers and redemptions thereof. Only Unitholders whose certificates are so recorded shall be entitled to receive distributions or to exercise or enjoy the rights of Unitholders hereunder. The Trustee shall have the right to treat the person registered as a Unitholder on the register of the Trust as the owner of such Units for all purposes, including, without limitation, payment of any distribution, giving notice to Unitholders and determining the right to attend and vote at meetings of Unitholders.

11.5 Limitation of Non-Resident Ownership

(a) It is in the best interest of the Trust that it not be established or maintained primarily for the benefit of Non-residents. Accordingly, for so long as the Trustee determines that it is in the best interest of the Trust, Non-residents shall not be the beneficial owners of more than 49% of the Units then outstanding.

(b) The Trustee may, at any time and from time to time, (at the expense of the Trust), take such actions as it determines in its discretion are reasonable and practicable in the circumstances in order to monitor compliance by the Trust with the restriction on Non-resident ownership of Units. Such actions may include, but are not limited to:

(i) conducting residency or other searches to determine or estimate, to the extent practicable, the residency of Unitholders and beneficial Unitholders for tax purposes; and

(ii) obtaining declarations from Unitholders as to whether the Units held thereby are held for or for the benefit of Non-residents, or declarations from Unitholders or others as to the jurisdictions in which beneficial owners of Units are resident for Canadian income tax purposes.

(c) If at any time the Trustee determines that it is in the best interest of the Trust, the Trustee may:

(i) refuse to accept a subscription for Units from, or issue or register a transfer of Units to, a person unless that person provides a declaration to the Trustee that the Units to be issued or transferred to such person will not when issued or transferred be beneficially owned by a Non-resident;

(ii) send a notice to Non-resident Unitholders, chosen in such manner as the Trustee may consider equitable and practicable, requiring them to sell their Units or a portion thereof within a specified period of 60 days or such other period as may be determined by the Trustee. If the Unitholders receiving such notice have not, within such period, sold the specified number of Units or provided the Trustee with evidence satisfactory to the Trustee that the Units are not beneficially owned by Non-residents, the Trustee may suspend the voting and distribution rights, if any, attached to such Units until they are sold and the Trustee, on behalf of such Unitholders, may sell such Units. Upon such sale, the affected Unitholders shall cease to be holders of the Units so disposed of and their rights shall be limited to receiving the net proceeds of sale (net of applicable taxes and costs of sale) upon surrender of the certificates representing such securities;

(iii) delist any listed securities of the Trust from any non-Canadian stock exchange; and

(iv) take such other actions as the Trustee determines, in its sole discretion, may be appropriate in the circumstances that will reduce or limit the number of Units held by Non-residents in order that the Trust is not established or maintained primarily for the benefit of Non-residents.

(d) The Trustee shall have no liability for the sale of Units made pursuant to Section 11.5(c) or for amounts received pursuant thereto provided it has acted in good faith.

(e) Subject to Section 8.5, unless and until the Trustee shall have been required to do so under the terms hereof, the Trustee shall not be bound to do or take any proceeding or action with respect to this Section 11.5 by virtue of the powers conferred on them hereby.

(f) It is acknowledged that the Trustee shall not be required to actively monitor the Non-resident Unit ownership levels of the Trust. It is further acknowledged that the ability of the Trustee to monitor compliance by the Trust with the Non-resident Unit ownership restriction may be limited due to the fact that the Units will be registered in the name of depositories or other non-beneficial holders, and in this regard, the Trustee shall be entitled to rely on information respecting the residency of Unitholders provided to the Trustee by the transfer agent and other intermediaries. The Trustee may exercise its discretion in making any determination under this Section 11.5 and any reasonable and bona fide exercise of such discretion shall be binding for the purpose of this Section 11.5.

(g) The Trustee shall be deemed to have notice of any violation of this Section 11.5 unless and until it has been given written notice of such violation and the Trustee shall act only as required by this Declaration of Trust once an indemnity is provided.

(h) None of the Trust or the Trustee, or any of their respective directors, officers, employees or agents, or any Unitholders shall be liable for a determination that the Trust is established and maintained primarily for the benefit of Non-residents as a result of an excess number of Units being held by Non-resident during the term of the Trust.

(i) At any time, the Trustee may require any Unitholder as shown on the register of Unitholders to provide a declaration, in such form as prescribed by the Trustee or Trustee, as to the beneficial owner of Units registered in such Unitholder's name and as to the jurisdiction in which such beneficial owner is resident for Canadian income tax purposes, and the Unitholders shall comply with any such request.

11.6 Transfer of Units

(a) For so long as the Book-Entry System is in effect, transfers of ownership of Units represented by a Global Special Unit Certificate(s) may be effected only through the records maintained by the Depository with respect to interests of CDS Participants, and on the records of CDS Participants with respect to interests of persons other than CDS Participants.

(b) Subject to the provisions of this Article 11, Units shall be transferable on the register only by the Unitholders of record thereof or their executors, administrators or other legal representatives or by their agents or attorneys duly authorized in writing, and only upon delivery to the Trust of the certificate therefor, properly endorsed or accompanied by a duly executed instrument of transfer or power of attorney and accompanied by all necessary transfer or other taxes imposed by law, together with such evidence of the genuineness of such endorsement, execution and authorization and other matters that may reasonably be required by the Trustee, and no transfer of Units shall be effective as against the Trustee or shall be in any way binding upon the Trustee until the transfer has been recorded on the register maintained by the Trustee or the Trust. Upon such delivery, the transfer shall be recorded on the register or branch transfer registers and a new certificate for the Units shall be issued to the transferee and a new certificate for the balance of Units not transferred shall be issued to the transferor.

(c) Any person becoming entitled to any Units as a consequence of the death, bankruptcy or mental incompetence of any registered Unitholder, or otherwise by operation of law, shall be recorded as the holder of such Units and shall receive a new certificate therefor upon submission of the existing certificate for cancellation) only upon production of satisfactory evidence, but until such record is made the Unitholder of record shall continue to be and be deemed to be the holder of such Units for all purposes whether or not notice of such death or other event has been given.

(d) Subject to the Book-Entry System, Unit Certificates representing any number or class of Units may be exchanged without charge for Unit Certificates representing an equivalent number and class of Units in the aggregate. Any exchange of Unit Certificates may be made at the offices of the Trust or any transfer agent of the Trust where registers are maintained for Unit Certificates pursuant to the provisions of this Article 11. Any Unit Certificates tendered for exchange shall be surrendered to the Trustee and then shall be cancelled.

11.7 Units Held Jointly or in a Fiduciary Capacity

Except as herein provided, the Trustee may treat two or more persons holding any Units as joint owners of the entire interest therein unless their ownership is expressly otherwise recorded on the register of the Trust, but no entry shall be made in the register or on any certificate that any person is in any other manner entitled to any future, limited or contingent interest in any Units; provided, however, that any person recorded as a Unitholder may, subject to the provisions hereinafter contained, be described in the register or on any certificate as a fiduciary of any kind and any customary words may be added to the description of the holder to identify the nature of such fiduciary relationship.

11.8 Performance of Trust

The Trustee shall not be bound to be responsible for or otherwise inquire into or ensure the performance of any trust, express, implied or constructive, or of any pledge or equity to which any of the Units or any interest therein are or may be subject, or to ascertain or enquire whether any transfer of any such Units or interests therein by any such Unitholder or by his or her personal representatives is authorized by such trust, pledge, or equity, or to recognize any person as having any interest therein except for the person recorded as Unitholder.

11.9 Lost Certificates

In the event that any Unit Certificate is lost, stolen, destroyed or mutilated, the Trustee may authorize the issuance of a new certificate for the same number and class of Units in lieu thereof. The Trustee may in its sole discretion, before the issuance of such new certificate, require the owner of the lost, stolen, destroyed or mutilated certificate, or the legal representative of the owner, to make an affidavit or statutory declaration setting forth such facts as to the loss, theft, destruction or mutilation as the Trustee may deem necessary, to surrender any mutilated certificate and may require the applicant to supply to the Trust a "lost certificate bond" or a similar bond in such reasonable sum as the Trustee or any transfer agent for the Trust may direct indemnifying the Trust for so doing.

11.10 Death of a Unitholder

The death of a Unitholder during the continuance of the Trust shall not terminate the Trust or any of the mutual or respective rights and obligations created by or arising under this Declaration of Trust nor give such Unitholder's personal representatives a right to an accounting or take any action in court or otherwise against other Unitholders or the Trustee or the Trust Assets, but shall merely entitle the personal representatives of the deceased Unitholder to demand and receive, pursuant to the provisions hereof, a new certificate for Units in place of the certificate held by the deceased Unitholder, if any, and upon the acceptance thereof such personal representatives shall succeed to all rights of the deceased Unitholder under this Declaration of Trust.

11.11 Unclaimed Distribution

In the event that the Trustee shall hold any distributable amount which is unclaimed or which cannot be paid for any reason, the Trustee shall be under no obligation to invest or reinvest the same but shall only be obliged to hold the same in a current interest bearing account pending payment to the person or persons entitled thereto. The Trustee shall, as and when required by law, and may at any time prior to such required time, pay all or part of such distributable amount so held, including interest earned thereon, if any, to the Public Guardian (or other appropriate government official or agency) whose receipt shall be a good discharge and release of the Trustee.

11.12 Power of Attorney

Each Unitholder hereby grants to the Trustee, its successors and assigns, a power of attorney constituting the Trustee with full power of substitution, as his true and lawful attorney to act on his behalf, with full power and authority in his name, place and stead, and to execute, under seal or otherwise, swear to, acknowledge, deliver, make or file or record when, as and where required:

(a) this Declaration of Trust and any other instrument required or desirable to qualify, continue and keep in good standing the Trust as a mutual fund trust;

(b) any instrument, deed, agreement or document in connection with carrying on the affairs of the Trust as authorized in this Declaration of Trust;

(c) all conveyances, transfers and other documents required in connection with the dissolution, liquidation or termination of the Trust in accordance with the terms of this Declaration of Trust;

(d) any and all elections, determinations or designations whether jointly with third parties or otherwise, under the Tax Act or any other taxation or other legislation or similar laws of Canada or of any other jurisdiction in respect of the affairs of the Trust or of a Unitholder's interest in the Trust;

(e) any amendment to this Declaration of Trust which is authorized from time to time as contemplated by Article 9; and

(f) all transfers, conveyances and other documents required to facilitate the acquisition of Units.

The Power of Attorney granted herein is, to the extent permitted by applicable law, irrevocable and will survive the assignment by the Unitholder of all or part of the Unitholder's interest in the Trust and will extend to and bind the heirs, executors, administrators and other legal representatives and successors and assigns of the Unitholder.

TERMINATION

12.1 Term of Trust

Subject to the other provisions of this Declaration of Trust, the Trust shall continue for a term ending on the earlier of:

(a) 21 years after the date of death of the last surviving issue of Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II, alive on May 30, 2003; and

(b) the date which is one day prior to the date, if any, the Trust would otherwise be void by virtue of any applicable rule against perpetuities then in force in Alberta.

For the purpose of terminating the Trust by such date, the Trustee shall commence to wind-up the affairs of the Trust on such date as may be determined by the Trustee, being not more than two years prior to the end of the term of the Trust.

12.2 Termination with the Approval of Unitholders

The Unitholders may vote by Special Resolution (provided that the Fund, as Unitholder, proceeds in accordance with its declaration of trust) to terminate the Trust at any meeting of Unitholders duly called by the Trustee for the purpose of considering the termination of the Trust, following which the Trustee shall commence to wind-up the affairs of the Trust. Such Special Resolution may contain such directions to the Trustee as the Unitholders determine, including a direction to distribute the Trust Assets, in specie to holders of Units.

12.3 Procedure Upon Termination

Forthwith upon being required to commence to wind-up the affairs of the Trust, the Trustee shall give notice thereof to the Unitholders, which notice shall designate the time or times at which Unitholders may surrender their Units for cancellation and the date at which the registers of Units of the Trust shall be closed.

12.4 Powers of the Trustee Upon Termination

After the date on which the Trustee is required to commence to wind-up the affairs of the Trust, the Trustee shall undertake no activities except for the purpose of winding-up the affairs of the Trust as hereinafter provided and, for this purpose, the Trustee shall continue to be vested with and may exercise all or any of the powers conferred upon the Trustee under this Declaration of Trust.

12.5 Sale of Investments

After the date referred to in Section 12.3, the Trustee shall proceed to wind-up the affairs of the Trust as soon as may be reasonably practicable and for such purpose shall, subject to any direction to the contrary in respect of a termination authorized under Section 12.2, sell and convert the Trust Assets into money in one transaction or in a series of transactions at public or private sales and do all other acts appropriate to liquidate the Trust, and shall in all respects act in accordance with the directions, if any, of the Unitholders (in respect of a termination authorized under Section 12.2). If the Trustee is unable to sell all or any of the Trust Assets by the date set for termination, the Trustee may, subject to obtaining all necessary regulatory approvals, distribute the remaining shares or other assets directly to the holders of Units in accordance with their pro rata interests. The Trustee shall have no liability for the amount received provided that it acts in good faith.

12.6 Distribution of Proceeds or Assets

After paying, retiring or discharging or making provision for the payment, retirement or discharge of all known liabilities and obligations of the Trust and providing for indemnity against any other outstanding liabilities and obligations, the Trustee shall, subject to obtaining all necessary regulatory approvals, distribute the remaining part of the proceeds of the sale of the assets forming part of the Trust Assets among the Unitholders in accordance with their pro rata interests and the rights attaching to each class of Units.

12.7 Further Notice to Unitholders

In the event that less than all of the Unitholders have surrendered their Units for cancellation within six months after the time specified in the notice referred to in Section 12.3, the Trustee shall give further notice to the remaining Unitholders to surrender their Units for cancellation and if, within one year after the further notice, all the Units shall not have been surrendered for cancellation, such remaining Units shall be deemed to be cancelled without prejudice to the rights of the holders of those remaining Units to receive their pro rata share of the remaining Trust Assets, and the Trustee may either take appropriate steps, or appoint an agent to take appropriate steps, to contact such Unitholders (deducting all expenses thereby incurred from the amounts to which such Unitholders are entitled as aforesaid) or, in the discretion of the Trustee, may pay such amounts into court.

12.8 Responsibility of the Trustee after Sale and Conversion

The Trustee shall be under no obligation to invest the proceeds of any sale of investments or other assets or cash forming part of the Trust Assets after the date referred to in Section 12.3 and, after such sale, the sole obligation of the Trustee under this Declaration of Trust shall be to hold such proceeds or assets in trust for distribution under Section 12.6.

SUPPLEMENTAL INDENTURES

13.1 Provision for Supplemental Indentures for Certain Purposes

The Trustee may, without approval of the Unitholders and subject to the provisions hereof, and it shall, when so directed in accordance with the provisions hereof, execute and deliver indentures or instruments supplemental hereto which thereafter shall form part hereof, for any one or more or all of the following purposes:

(a) modifying or amending any provisions of this Declaration of Trust in the circumstances set forth in Section 9.1 where the Trustee may do so without the consent, approval or ratification of the Unitholders or any other person; and

(b) modifying or amending any provisions of this Declaration of Trust where the modification or amendment has been approved by Special Resolution or, if required, with the consent of the holders of all of the Units.

GENERAL

14.1 Notices

(a) Any notice or other document required to be given or sent to Unitholders under this Declaration of Trust shall be given or sent through ordinary post addressed to each registered holder at his or her last address appearing on the register. Any notice so given shall be deemed to have been given on the day following that on which the letter or circular was posted. In proving notice was posted, it shall be sufficient to prove that such letter or circular was properly addressed, stamped and posted, provided that during the period that regular mail service shall be interrupted any notice or other communication shall be given by personal delivery or by cable, telegram, telex, facsimile or other means of prepaid, transmitted or recorded communication.

14.2 Failure to Give Notice

The failure by the Trustee, by accident or omission or otherwise unintentionally, to give any Unitholder any notice provided for herein shall not affect the validity, effect or taking effect of any action referred to in such notice, and the Trustee shall not be liable to any Unitholder for any such failure.

14.3 Joint Holders

Service of a notice or document on any one of several joint holders of Units shall be deemed effective service on the other joint holders.

14.4 Service of Notice

Any notice or document sent to a Unitholder pursuant to this Article shall, notwithstanding the death or bankruptcy of such Unitholder, and whether or not the Trustee has notice of such death or bankruptcy, be deemed to have been fully served and such service shall be deemed sufficient service on all persons having an interest in the Units concerned.

14.5 Information Available to Unitholders

Each Unitholder shall have the right to obtain, on demand and without fee, from the head office of the Trust a copy of this Declaration of Trust and any amendments thereto relating to Units held by that Unitholder and shall be entitled to inspect and, on payment of a reasonable fee therefor and after delivering to the Trustee a statutory declaration stating the name and address of the person requiring the Trustee to furnish the list of Unitholders and, if the person is a body corporate, the address for service thereof, and that the list will not be used except in connection with (a) an effort to influence the voting of the holders of Units, (b) an offer to acquire Units, or

(b) within 60 days after the end of each fiscal quarter of the Trust (other than the fourth quarter of each year), unaudited quarterly financial statements of the Trust for such fiscal quarter, together with comparative financial statements for the same fiscal quarter in the preceding fiscal year, if any.

Such financial statements shall be prepared in accordance with Canadian generally accepted accounting principles as recommended from time to time in the Handbook of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants; provided that such statements and the obligations to deliver such statements may vary from such principles to the extent required to comply with applicable securities laws or securities regulatory requirements applicable by virtue of the Fund's reporting issuer status or to the extent permitted by applicable securities regulatory authorities.

14.8 Unitholder Meeting Information

Prior to each meeting of Unitholders, the Trustee will provide to each Unitholder entitled thereto, together with the notice of the meeting, all information required by applicable law and this Declaration of Trust.

14.9 Taxation Information

Fractions of Units may only be issued pursuant to distributions of additional Units to all Unitholders pursuant to Section 5.7 and in connection with the 2007 Reorganization. Fractions of Units will not be entitled to vote at meetings of Unitholders.

3.5 Re-Purchase of Initial Trust Unit by Trust

Immediately after the Closing for the initial Offering pursuant to the Prospectus, the Trust will purchase the initial Trust Unit from the Initial Unitholder, and the Initial Unitholder shall sell the initial Trust Unit to the Trust, for a purchase price of $10.00 and, upon the completion of such purchase and sale, the initial Trust Unit shall be cancelled and shall no longer be outstanding for any of the purposes of this Declaration of Trust.

3.6 Consolidation of Trust Units

(a) Immediately after the conversion of the Special Non-Voting Units into Trust Units as part of the 2007 Reorganization:

(i) the number of outstanding Trust Units will automatically be consolidated such that each holder will hold after the consolidation the same number of Trust Units as such holder held immediately before the 2007 Reorganization; and

(ii) each Trust Unit Certificate representing a number of Trust Units prior to the 2007 Reorganization shall be deemed to represent the same number of Trust Units.

(b) Immediately after any pro rata distribution of additional Trust Units to all holders of Trust Units pursuant to Section 5.7, the number of the outstanding Trust Units will automatically be consolidated such that each such holder will hold after the consolidation the same number of Trust Units as such holder held before the distribution of additional Trust Units. In this case, each Trust Unit Certificate representing a number of Trust Units prior to the distribution of additional Trust Units is deemed to represent the same number of Trust Units after the distribution of additional Trust Units and the consolidation.

(c) Notwithstanding the foregoing, where tax is required to be withheld in respect of a Unitholder's share of the distribution, the Trust shall withhold from the cash portion of such distribution, if any, or the Unitholder shall make a cash payment to the Trust, of an amount equal to the amount of tax required to be remitted to the appropriate taxation authority by the Trust, or, if such withholding cannot be made by the Trust or such payment is not made by the Unitholder:

(i) the consolidation of the Trust Units held by such Unitholder will result in such Unitholder holding that number of Trust Units equal to the number of Trust Units held by such Unitholder prior to the distribution minus the number of Trust Units withheld by the Trust on account of withholding taxes payable by the Unitholder in respect of the distribution; and

(ii) the consolidation shall not apply to any Trust Units so withheld.

Any Trust Units so withheld shall either be delivered to the appropriate taxation authority or sold, in which case the net proceeds shall be remitted to the appropriate taxation authority. Such Unitholder will be required to surrender the Trust Unit Certificates, if any, representing such Unitholder's original Trust Units, in exchange for a Trust Unit Certificate representing such Unitholder's post-consolidation Trust Units other than the withheld Trust Units.

3.7 No Pre-Emptive Rights

No person shall be entitled, as a matter of right, to subscribe for or purchase any Unit.

ARTICLE 4
INVESTMENTS OF TRUST

4.1 Purpose of the Trust

The Trust is a limited purpose trust and its operations and activities shall be restricted to:

(a) investing in securities (whether debt or equity) of whatever nature or kind of, or issued by, a Keyera Entity, or of, or issued by, any other corporation, partnership, trust or other person involved, directly or indirectly, in the business of gathering, processing, transporting, buying, storing and selling petroleum, natural gas, natural gas liquids and other related products, electricity and thermal energy and other related businesses;

(i) obtaining funds to conduct the activities described above, including raising funds for further acquisitions;

(i) engaging in all activities ancillary or incidental to any of those activities set forth in paragraphs (a) through (h) above; and

(j) undertaking such other activities or taking such actions including investing in securities as shall be approved by the Trustee from time to time, provided that the Trust shall not, in any event, undertake any activity, take any action, or make any investment which would result in the Trust not being considered a "unit trust" or a "mutual fund trust" for purposes of the Tax Act.

4.2 Investment of Proceeds of Offering

At and immediately after the Time of Closing for the initial Offering pursuant to the Prospectus, the Trust shall use the proceeds from the sale of Trust Units issued on the initial Offering, net of expenses associated with the initial Offering, to subscribe for and acquire units and notes of KCT and shares of the Administrator all as more particularly described in the Prospectus.

4.3 Other Investments

To the extent that any monies or other property received by the Trust or the Trustee are not to be immediately used by the Trustee for the purpose of making distributions under Article 5 hereof, the Trustee is hereby authorized and, where prudent to do so, shall invest such monies in: (i) obligations issued or guaranteed by the Government of Canada or a province of Canada or any agency or instrumentality thereof; (ii) short term commercial paper obligations of a corporation whose short term commercial paper is rated R-1 or higher by Dominion Bond Rating Service Limited or A-1 or higher by Standard & Poor's, division of The McGraw-Hill Companies, Inc.; or (iii) term deposits, interest-bearing accounts, certificates of deposit or banker's acceptances of or guaranteed by one of the six largest (in terms of total assets) Canadian chartered banks. For the purpose hereof, "short term" shall mean having a date of maturity or call for payment not more than 60 days from the date on which the investment is made.

DISTRIBUTIONS

5.1 Computation of Cash Flow of the Trust

The "Cash Flow of the Trust", for, or in respect of, any Distribution Period, shall be:

(a) all cash amounts which are received by the Trust for, or in respect of, the Distribution Period, including, without limitation, interest, dividends, distributions, proceeds from the disposition of securities, returns of capital and repayments of indebtedness;

(b) plus the proceeds of any issuance of Units or any other securities of the Trust, net of the expenses of distribution, and, if applicable, the use of proceeds of any such issuance for the intended purpose;

(c) less all amounts which relate to the redemption of Trust Units and which have become payable in cash by the Trust in such Distribution Period and any expenses of the Trust, in such Distribution Period.

5.2 Computation of Income and Net Realized Capital Gains

(a) The "Income of the Trust" for any taxation year of the Trust shall be the net income for the year determined pursuant to the provisions of the Tax Act having regard to the provisions thereof which relate to the calculation of income of a trust, and taking into account such adjustments thereto as are determined by the Trustee in respect of dividends received from taxable Canadian corporations, amounts paid or payable by the Trust to Unitholders and such other amounts as may be determined in the discretion of the Trustee; provided, however, that capital gains and capital losses shall be excluded from the computation of net income.

(b) The "Net Realized Capital Gains" of the Trust for any taxation year of the Trust shall be determined as the amount, if any, by which the aggregate of the capital gains of the Trust in the year exceeds (i) the aggregate of the capital losses of the Trust in the year, (ii) any capital gains which are realized by the Trust as a result of a redemption of Trust Units pursuant to Article 6, and (iii) the amount determined by the Trustee in respect of any net capital losses for prior taxation years which the Trust is permitted by the Tax Act to deduct in computing the taxable income of the Trust for the year.

5.3 Distributions of Cash Flow of the Trust

The Trustee may, on or before each Distribution Record Date, declare payable to the holders of Trust Units on such Distribution Record Date, all or any part of the Cash Flow of the Trust for the Distribution Period which includes such Distribution Record Date. The proportionate share for each Trust Unit of the amount of such Cash Flow of the Trust (or portion thereof declared payable) shall be determined by dividing such amount by the number of issued and outstanding Trust Units on such Distribution Record Date. The share of such Cash Flow of the Trust (or portion thereof declared payable) attributable to each holder of Trust Units shall be an amount equal to the proportionate share for each Trust Unit of the amount of such Cash Flow of the Trust (or portion thereof declared payable) multiplied by the number of Trust Units owned of record by each such holder of Trust Units on such Distribution Record Date. Subject to Section 5.7, Cash Flow of the Trust which has been declared to be payable to holders of Trust Units in respect of a Distribution Period shall be paid in cash on the Distribution Payment Date in respect of such Distribution Period.

5.4 Other Distributions

(a) In addition to the distributions which are made payable to holders of Trust Units pursuant to Section 5.3, the Trustee may, subject to Section 3.1, declare to be payable and make distributions to Unitholders, from time to time, out of Income of the Trust, Net Realized Capital Gains, the capital of the Trust or otherwise, in any year, in such amount or amounts, and on such dates as the Trustee may determine.

(b) Having regard to the present intention of the Trustee to allocate, distribute and make payable to holders of Trust Units all of the Income of the Trust, Net Realized Capital Gains and any other applicable amounts so that the Trust will not have any liability for tax under Part I of the Tax Act in any taxation year, the following amounts shall, without any further actions on the part of the Trustee, be due and payable to holders of Trust Units of record on December 31 in each such year:

(i) an amount equal to the amount, if any, by which the Income of the Trust for such year exceeds the aggregate of the portions, if any, of each distribution made by the Trust pursuant to Section 5.3, Section 5.4(a) and Section 5.4(a) which have been determined by the Trustee, pursuant to Section 5.5, to have been payable by the Trust out of Income of the Trust for such year; and

(ii) an amount equal to the amount, if any, by which the Net Realized Capital Gains of the Trust for such year exceeds the aggregate of the portions, if any, of each distribution made by the Trust pursuant to Section 5.3, Section 5.4(a) and Section 5.4(a) which have been determined by the Trustee, pursuant to Section 5.5, to have been payable by the Trust out of Net Realized Capital Gains for such year.

(c) The proportionate share of each Trust Unit of the amount of any distribution made pursuant to either or both of Sections 5.4(a) and (b) shall be determined by dividing such amount by the number of issued and outstanding Trust Units on the applicable record date in respect of a distribution pursuant to Section 5.4(a) and on December 31 in respect of a distribution pursuant to Section 5.4(b). Each holder of Trust Units' share of the amount of any such distribution shall be an amount equal to the proportionate share of each Trust Unit of such amount multiplied by the number of Trust Units owned of record by each such holder of Trust Units on such applicable record date or December 31 in the year of such distribution, as the case may be. Subject to Section 5.7, amounts which have been declared to be payable to holders of Trust Units pursuant to either Section 5.4(a) or (b) shall be paid in cash on the Distribution Payment Date which immediately follows the applicable record date in respect of a distribution pursuant to Section 5.4(a) or December 31 in the applicable year in respect of a distribution pursuant to Section 5.4(b).

(d) In addition to the distributions which are made payable to holders of Trust Units, the Trustee may designate any capital gain realized by the Trust as a result of the redemption of Trust Units pursuant to Section 6.5 to the redeeming holders of Trust Units in accordance with that Section.

5.5 Character of Distributions and Designations

In accordance with and to the extent permitted by the Tax Act, the Trustee in each year shall make designations in respect of the amounts payable to Unitholders for such amounts that the Trustee considers to be reasonable in all of the circumstances, including, without limitation, designations relating to taxable dividends received by the Trust in the year on shares of taxable Canadian corporations (or designated in respect of the Trust where the Trust is a beneficiary of another trust), net capital gains realized by the Trust in the year (or designated in respect of the Trust where the Trust is a beneficiary of another trust) and foreign source income of the Trust for the year, as well as elect under Subsections 104(13.1) and/or (13.2) of the Tax Act that income be taxed to the Trust, rather than to such Unitholders. Distributions payable to Unitholders pursuant to this Article 5 shall be deemed to be distributions of Income of the Trust, Net Realized Capital Gains, trust capital or other items in such amounts as the Trustee shall, in its absolute discretion, determine. For greater certainty, it is hereby declared that any distribution of Net Realized Capital Gains shall include the nontaxable portion of the capital gains of the Trust which are encompassed in such distribution. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Trustee may designate any capital gain realized by the Trust as a result of the redemption of Units pursuant to Section 6.5 to the redeeming Unitholders in accordance with that Section 6.5.

5.6 Enforceability of Right to Receive Distributions

Subject to Section 2.8(c), for greater certainty, it is hereby declared that each Unitholder shall have the legal right to enforce payment of any amount payable to such Unitholder as a result of any distribution which is declared payable to such Unitholder pursuant to this Article 5.

5.7 Method of Payment of Distributions

(a) Where the Trustee determines that the Trust does not have available cash in an amount sufficient to make payment of the full amount of any distribution which has been declared to be payable pursuant to this Article 5 on the due date for such payment, the payment may, at the option of the Trustee, include the issuance of additional Trust Units, or fractions of Trust Units, if necessary, having a value equal to the difference between the amount of such distribution and the amount of cash which has been determined by the Trustee to be available for the payment of such distribution.

(b) The value of each Trust Unit which is issued pursuant to Section 5.7(a) shall be the closing market price (as defined in Section 6.3) of the Trust Units on the applicable Distribution Record Date in respect of a distribution pursuant to Section 5.3, on the applicable Distribution Record Date in respect of a distribution under Section 5.4(a) or December 31 in respect of a distribution under Section 5.4(c), provided that if the particular date is not a Business Day then the closing market price (as defined in Section 6.3) shall be determined on the last Business Day which precedes such particular date.

5.8 Withholding Taxes

The Trustee may deduct or withhold from distributions payable to any holder of Units all amounts required by law to be withheld from such distribution. In addition, non-Resident Unitholders will be required to pay all withholding taxes payable in respect of any distributions in the form of additional Trust Units under Section 5.7.

5.9 Definitions

Unless otherwise specified or the context otherwise requires, any term in this Article 5 which is defined in the Tax Act shall have for the purposes of this Article 5 the meaning that it has in the Tax Act.

5.10 Distribution Reinvestment and Unit Purchase Plan

Subject to any required regulatory approvals (and any Unitholder approval imposed by regulatory requirements), the Trustee may, acting in its sole discretion, establish one or more Unitholder rights plans, distribution reinvestment plans, Trust Unit purchase plans, Trust Unit option plans, incentive option plans or other compensation plans at any time and from time to time.

REDEMPTION OF TRUST UNITS

6.1 Right of Redemption

Each holder of Trust Units shall be entitled to require the Trust to redeem at any time or from time to time at the demand of such Unitholder all or any part of the Trust Units registered in the name of such Unitholder at the prices determined and payable in accordance with the conditions hereinafter provided.

6.2 Exercise of Redemption Right

(a) To exercise a right to require redemption of Trust Units under this Article 6, a duly completed and properly executed notice requesting the Trust to redeem Trust Units, in a form reasonably acceptable to the Trustee, specifying the number of Trust Units to be so redeemed, shall be sent by a holder of Trust Units to the Trust at the head office of the Trust and to CDS. No form or manner of completion or execution shall be sufficient unless the same is in all respects satisfactory to the Trustee and CDS and is accompanied by any further evidence that the Trustee or CDS may reasonably require with respect to the identity, capacity or authority of the person giving such notice.

(b) Upon receipt by the Trust of the notice to redeem Trust Units, the Unitholder shall thereafter cease to have any rights with respect to the Trust Units tendered for redemption (other than to receive the redemption payment therefor unless the redemption payment is not made as provided for herein) including the right to receive any distributions thereon which are declared payable to the holders of Trust Units of record on a date which is subsequent to the day of receipt by the Trust of such notice. Trust Units shall be considered to be tendered for redemption on the date that the Trust and CDS have, to their satisfaction, received the notice and other required documents or evidence as aforesaid.

6.3 Cash Redemption

(a) Subject to Section 6.4, upon receipt by the Trust of the notice to redeem Trust Units in accordance with Section 6.2, the holder of the Trust Units tendered for redemption shall be entitled to receive a price per Trust Unit (hereinafter called the "Redemption Price") equal to the lesser of:

(i) 90% of the weighted average price per Trust Unit at which the Trust Units have traded on the principal stock exchange on which the Trust Units are listed (or, if the Trust Units are not listed on any such exchange, on the principal market on which the Trust Units are quoted for trading) during the period of the last 10 trading days during which the Trust Units traded on such exchange or market immediately prior to the date on which the Trust Units were tendered for redemption; and

(ii) 100% of the "closing market price" on the principal stock exchange on which the Trust Units are listed (or, if the Trust Units are not listed on any such exchange, on the principal market on which the Trust Units are quoted for trading) on the date that the Trust Units were tendered for redemption.

For the purposes of Section 6.3(a)(ii), the "closing market price" shall be: an amount equal to the closing price of the Trust Units if there was a trade on the date on which the Trust Units were tendered for redemption and the exchange or market provides a closing price; an amount equal to the average of the highest and lowest prices of Trust Units on the date on which the Trust Units were tendered for redemption if there was trading and the exchange or other market provides only the highest and lowest trading prices of Trust Units traded on a particular day; or the average of the last bid and ask prices on the date if there was no trading on the date.

(b) Subject to Sections 6.4 and 6.5, the Redemption Price payable in respect of the Trust Units surrendered for redemption during any calendar month shall be satisfied by way of cash payment within five days after the end of the calendar month in which the Trust Units were tendered for redemption. Payments made by the Trust of the Redemption Price are conclusively deemed to have been made upon the mailing of a cheque in a postage prepaid envelope addressed to the former holder of Trust Units unless such cheque is dishonoured upon presentment. Upon such payment, the Trust shall be discharged from all liability to the former holders of Trust Units in respect of the Trust Units so redeemed.

6.4 No Cash Redemption in Certain Circumstances

Section 6.3(b) shall not be applicable to Trust Units tendered for redemption by a holder of Trust Units, if:

(a) the total amount payable by the Trust pursuant to Section 6.3 in respect of such Trust Units and all other Trust Units tendered for redemption in the same calendar month exceeds $50,000 (the "Monthly Limit"); provided that the Trustee may, in its sole discretion, waive such limitation in respect of all Trust Units tendered for redemption in any calendar month; Trust Units tendered for redemption in any calendar month in which the total amount payable by the Trust pursuant to Section 6.3(b) exceeds the Monthly Limit will be redeemed for cash pursuant to Section 6.3(b) and, unless any applicable regulatory approvals are required, by a distribution in specie under Section 6.5, on a pro rata basis;

(b) at the time such Trust Units are tendered for redemption, the outstanding Trust Units are not listed for trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange or traded or quoted on any stock exchange or market which the Trustee considers, in its sole opinion, provides representative fair market value prices for the Trust Units;

(c) the normal trading of the Trust Units is suspended or halted on any stock exchange on which the Trust Units are listed for trading or, if not so listed, on any market on which the Trust Units are quoted for trading, on the date that such Trust Units tendered for redemption were tendered to the Trust for redemption or for more than five trading days during the 10-day trading period prior to the date on which such Trust Units were tendered for redemption; or

(d) the redemption of Trust Units will result in the delisting of the Trust Units on the principal stock exchange on which the Trust Units are listed.

6.5 In Specie Redemption

If, pursuant to Section 6.4, Section 6.3(b) is not applicable to Trust Units tendered for redemption by a holder of Trust Units, then such holder of Trust Units shall, instead of the Redemption Price per Trust Unit specified in Section 6.3, be entitled to receive a price per Trust Unit (the "in specie Redemption Price") equal to the fair market value of a Trust Unit as determined by the Trustee in its discretion, and the in specie Redemption Price shall, subject to all necessary regulatory approvals, be paid and satisfied, at the discretion of the Trustee by way of:

(i) the issuance to or to the order of the redeeming Unitholder such aggregate amount of Redemption Notes as is equal to the aggregate in specie Redemption Price payable to such Unitholder as determined in the discretion of the Trustee;

(ii) the distribution, tender or transfer to or to the order of the redeeming Unitholder of Trust Assets, the value of which is equal to the aggregate in specie Redemption Price payable to such Unitholder as determined in the discretion of the Trustee; or

(iii) in the event Section 6.4(a) applies, by any combination of the issuance of Redemption Notes, the distribution of Trust Assets and cash payment (by way of cheque), to or to the order of the redeeming Unitholder, the value of which, taken together, is equal to the aggregate in specie Redemption Price payable to such Unitholder as determined in the discretion of the Trustee.

Each Redemption Note issued to a redeeming Unitholder shall be in the principal amount of $100. No fractional Redemption Notes shall be distributed and where the number of Redemption Notes to be received upon redemption by a redeeming Unitholder would otherwise include a fraction, that number shall be rounded down to the next lowest whole number.

In respect of any Trust Assets being transferred in payment of the in specie Redemption Price, the Trust shall be entitled to all interest paid or accrued and unpaid in respect of such Trust Assets (including any instruments on which interest is accruing), to and including the date of transfer thereof.

The in specie Redemption Price payable in respect of the Trust Units tendered for redemption during any calendar month shall be paid within five Business Days after the end of the calendar month in which the Trust Units were tendered for redemption.

Payments by the Trust of the in specie Redemption Price are conclusively deemed to have been made upon the mailing of the Redemption Notes, the documents evidencing ownership of the Trust Assets distributed and/or a cheque in the lawful money of Canada for any cash payment, as the case may be, by registered mail in a postage prepaid envelope addressed to the former Unitholder. Upon such payment, the Trust shall be discharged from all liability to the former Unitholder in respect of Trust Units so redeemed to the extent of the amount of such Redemption Notes, Trust Assets and/or cash payment, as the case may be.

6.6 Purchase for Cancellation

The Trust may from time to time purchase for cancellation some or all of the Units (or other securities of the Trust which may be issued and outstanding from time to time) in the market or upon any recognized stock exchange on which such Units are traded or pursuant to tenders received by the Trust upon request for tenders addressed to all holders of record of Units, provided in each case that the Trustee has determined that such purchases are in the best interests of the Trust.

6.7 Cancellation of all Redeemed Trust Units

All Trust Units which are redeemed under this Article 6 shall be cancelled and such Trust Units shall no longer be outstanding and shall not be reissued.

6.8 Withholdings by the Trustee

The Trustee may deduct or withhold from all payments or other distributions payable to any Unitholder pursuant to this Article 6 all amounts required by law to be so withheld.

6.9 Retraction of Special Trust Units

At such time as no Exchangeable Securities (other than Exchangeable Securities owned by the Trust and its affiliates) relating to a Special Trust Unit are outstanding, and no shares of stock, debt, options or other securities or agreements which could give rise to the issuance of any such Exchangeable Securities to any person (other than the Trust and its affiliates) exist, the applicable Special Trust Unit shall automatically be redeemed by the Trust and cancelled. Upon any such redemption or other purchase or acquisition of a Special Trust Unit by the Trust, such Special Trust Unit shall be deemed retired and cancelled and may not be reissued.

ARTICLE 7

(c) The election or appointment of a Trustee (other than the appointment of the Replacement Trustee as Trustee upon the execution of the Supplemental Indenture appointing the Replacement Trustee) shall not become effective unless and until such person has, either before or after such election or appointment, executed and delivered to the Trust an acceptance substantially as follows:

"To: Keyera Facilities Income Fund
(the "Trust")

And to: The Administrator thereof

The undersigned hereby accepts its election or appointment as the Trustee of the Trust and hereby agrees, upon the later of the date of this acceptance and the date of the undersigned's election or appointment as the Trustee of the Trust, to thereby become a party, as the Trustee, to the Declaration of Trust pursuant thereto.

(h) Upon the Trustee ceasing to hold office as such hereunder, the Trustee shall cease to be a party (as a Trustee) to this Declaration of Trust provided, however, that such Trustee shall continue to be entitled to payment of any amounts owing by the Trust to the Trustee which accrued prior to its ceasing to hold office as Trustee; and provided further that such Trustee and each of its directors, officers, employees, shareholders and agents shall continue to be entitled to the benefit of any indemnity and limitation of liability provisions which are expressly set out herein and by their terms are for the benefit of the Trustee and its directors, officers, employees, shareholders and agents (as the case may be).

(d) in a manner which, in the opinion of the Board of Directors, is necessary or desirable as a result of changes in Canadian taxation laws; or

(e) to change the situs of, or the laws governing, the Trust which, in the opinion of the Board of Directors is desirable in order to provide Unitholders with the benefit of any legislation limiting their liability, but notwithstanding the foregoing, no such amendment shall modify the voting rights of any Unit or reduce the fractional undivided interest in the Trust Assets represented by any Trust Unit without the consent of the holder of such Unit, and no amendment shall reduce the percentage of votes required to be cast at a meeting of the Unitholders for the purpose of this Section 11.1 without the consent of the holders of all of the Units then outstanding.

11.2 Notification of Amendment

As soon as shall be practicable after the making of any amendment pursuant to Section 11.1 and in any event not later than the date the Trust is required to provide the financial disclosure in Section 16.7, the Trustee shall furnish notification of the substance of such amendment to Unitholders, whether as part of such financial disclosure or otherwise.

MEETINGS OF UNITHOLDERS

12.1 Annual and Special Meetings of Unitholders

(a) Annual meetings of the Unitholders shall be called on a day on or before June 30 in each year, at a time and at a place in Canada set by the Board of Directors or, failing such direction, by the Trustee. The business transacted at such meetings shall include the presentation of the audited financial statements of the Trust for the immediately preceding year, the election of the Board of Directors for the ensuing year, the appointment of the auditors for the ensuing year in accordance with Article 17 and the transaction of such other business as Unitholders may be entitled to vote upon as hereinafter in this Article 12 provided, or as the Trustee or the Board of Directors may determine or as may be properly brought before the meeting.

(b) Special meetings of the Unitholders may be called at any time by the Trustee or by the Board of Directors.

(c) Unitholders holding in the aggregate not less than 5% of all votes entitled to be voted at a meeting of Unitholders may requisition the Trustee to call a special meeting of Unitholders for the purposes stated in the requisition. The requisition shall (A) be in writing, (B) set forth the name and address of, and number of Trust Units, other Units entitled to vote at a meeting of Unitholders and Voting Exchangeable Securities (and votes attached thereto which, in the aggregate, must not be less than 5% of all votes entitled to be voted at a meeting of Unitholders) held by, each person who is supporting the requisition, and (C) shall state in reasonable detail the business to be transacted at the meeting and shall be sent to the Trustee and to the Board of Directors. Upon receiving a requisition complying with the foregoing, the Trustee shall call a meeting of Unitholders to transact the business referred to in the requisition, unless:

(i) a record date for a meeting of Unitholders has been fixed and notice thereof has been given to each stock exchange in Canada on which the Units entitled to vote at such meeting are listed for trading;

(ii) the Board of Directors or the Trustee has called a meeting of Unitholders and has given notice thereof pursuant to Section 12.2; or

(iii) in connection with the business as stated in the requisition, in the opinion of the Board of Directors:

(A) it clearly appears that a matter covered by the requisition is submitted by the Unitholder primarily for the purpose of enforcing a personal claim or redressing a personal grievance against the Trust, the Trustee, the Administrator (or any associate or affiliate of the Administrator), the Directors, the

Unitholders or one or more of the Keyera Entities, or primarily for the purpose of promoting general economic, political, religious, social or similar causes or primarily for a purpose that does not relate in a significant way to the business or affairs of the Trust;

(B) the Trust, at the Unitholder's request, had previously included a matter substantially the same as a matter covered by the requisition in an information circular relating to a meeting of Unitholders held within 30 months preceding the receipt of such requisition and the Unitholder failed to present the matter, in person or by proxy, at the meeting;

(C) substantially the same matter covered by the requisition was submitted to Unitholders in an information circular relating to a meeting of Unitholders held within 30 months preceding the receipt of such requisition and the matter covered by the requisition was defeated; or

(D) the rights conferred by this Section 12.1 are being abused to secure publicity.

(d) If the Trustee does not, within 21 days after receiving the requisition, call a meeting (except where the grounds for not calling the meeting are one or more of those set forth in paragraph (c) above), any Unitholder who signed the requisition may call the meeting in accordance with the provisions of Article 12, mutatis mutandis.

(e) The chair of any annual or special meeting shall be the Chair of the Board of Directors or any other Director specified by resolution of the Board of Directors or, in the absence of any Director, any person appointed as chair of the meeting by the Unitholders present and entitled to vote thereat.

(f) The Trustee, the Directors, the officers of the Trust, officers of the Administrator, the Auditors and any other person approved by the Board of Directors, the chair of the meeting or by resolution passed by a majority of the votes cast by Unitholders represented at the meeting and entitled to vote thereat may attend meetings of the Unitholders.

(g) Any person entitled to attend a meeting of Unitholders may participate in the meeting, subject to and in accordance with applicable securities laws, if any, by means of a telephonic, electronic or other communication facility that permits all participants to communicate adequately with each other during the meeting, if the Trust makes available such a communication facility. A person participating in a meeting by such means is deemed for the purposes of this Declaration of Trust to be present at the meeting.

(h) If the Trustee, the Board of Directors or the Unitholders call a meeting of Unitholders pursuant to this Declaration of Trust, the Trustee, the Board of Directors or those Unitholders, as the case may be, may determine that the meeting shall be held, subject to and in accordance with applicable securities laws, if any, entirely by means of a telephonic, electronic or other communication facility that permits all participants to communicate adequately with each other during the meeting.

12.2 Notice of Meetings

Notice of all meetings of Unitholders shall be given by unregistered mail, postage prepaid, addressed to each Unitholder entitled to receive notice thereof at his or her last address on the books of the Trust, mailed at least 21 days and not more than 50 days before the meeting. Such notice shall specify the time when, and the place where, such meeting is to be held and shall specify the nature of the business to be transacted at such meeting in sufficient detail to permit a Unitholder to form a reasoned judgment thereon, together with the text of any Special Resolution, at the time of mailing of the notice, proposed to be passed. Any adjourned meeting, other than a meeting adjourned for lack of a quorum under Section 12.3, may be held as adjourned without further notice. The accidental omission to give notice or the non-receipt of such notice by a Unitholder entitled to receive notice shall not invalidate any resolution passed at any such meeting. Notwithstanding the foregoing, a meeting of Unitholders may be held at any time without notice if all the Unitholders entitled to receive notice are present or represented thereat or those not so present or represented have waived notice. Any Unitholder (or a duly appointed proxy of a Unitholder) may waive any notice required to be given under the provisions of this Section 12.2, and such waiver, whether given before or after the meeting, shall cure any default in the giving of such notice.

12.3 Quorum

At any meeting of the Unitholders, subject as hereinafter provided, a quorum shall consist of two or more individuals present in person either holding personally or representing as proxies not less in aggregate than 5% of the votes attached to all outstanding Units. In the event of such quorum not being present at the appointed place on the date for which the meeting is called within 30 minutes after the time fixed for the holding of such meeting, the meeting, if called by request of Unitholders, shall be terminated and, if otherwise called, shall stand adjourned to such day being not less than 7 days later and to such place and time as may be appointed by the chair of the meeting. If at such adjourned meeting a quorum as above defined is not present, the Unitholders entitled to vote thereat then present either personally or by proxy shall form a quorum, and any business may be brought before or dealt with at such an adjourned meeting which might have been brought before or dealt with at the original meeting in accordance with the notice calling the same.

12.4 Voting Rights of Unitholders

Only Unitholders of record shall be entitled to vote and each Unit entitled to vote thereat shall entitle the holder or holders of that Unit on a poll vote at any meeting of Unitholders to the voting rights set out herein. Every question submitted to a meeting, other than a Special Resolution, shall, unless a poll vote is demanded, be decided by a show of hands vote, on which every person present and entitled to vote shall be entitled to one vote. At any meeting of Unitholders, any Unitholder entitled to vote thereat may vote by proxy and a proxyholder need not be a Unitholder, provided that no proxy shall be voted at any meeting unless it shall have been received by the Transfer Agent for verification at least 24 hours prior to the commencement of such meeting. When any Unit entitled to vote thereat is held jointly by several persons, any one of them may vote at any meeting in person or by proxy in respect of such Unit, but if more than one of them shall be present at such meeting in person or by proxy, and such joint owners or their proxies so present disagree as to any vote to be cast, such vote purporting to be executed by or on behalf of a Unitholder shall be deemed valid unless challenged at or prior to its exercise, and the burden of proving invalidity shall rest on the challenger.

12.5 Resolutions Binding the Trustee

(a) Unitholders shall be entitled to pass resolutions that will bind the Trust only with respect to the following matters:

(i) the election or removal of the Trustee as provided in Article 8;

(ii) the election of the Board of Directors as provided in Section 12.1;

(iii) the appointment or removal of Auditors as provided in Article 17;

(iv) the appointment of an inspector as provided in Section 12.9;

(v) amendments of this Declaration of Trust as provided in Section 11.1;

(vi) the termination of the Trust as provided in Section 14.2;

(vii) the sale of all or substantially all of the Trust Assets;

(viii) the exercise of voting rights attached to the voting securities of KEP LP or the Administrator held by the Trust as provided in Section 9.4;

(ix) the dissolution of the Trust prior to the end of its term; and

(x) the ratification of any Unitholder rights plan, distribution reinvestment plan, Trust Unit purchase plan, Trust Unit option plan, incentive option plan or other compensation plan contemplated by Section 5.10 requiring Unitholder approval.

(b) Except with respect to the above matters set out in this Section 12.5, no action taken by the Unitholders or any resolution of the Unitholders at any meeting shall in any way bind the Trustee. Any action taken or resolution passed in respect of any matter on which Unitholder approval is required under this Declaration of Trust shall be by Special Resolution, unless the contrary is otherwise expressly provided under any specific provision of this Declaration of Trust and except for the matters set out in Sections 12.5(a)(i), (ii), (iii) and (viii) above which matters may be dealt with by a resolution passed by a majority of the votes cast by Unitholders entitled to vote thereon represented at the meeting.

12.6 Meaning of "Special Resolution"

(a) The expression "Special Resolution" when used in this Declaration of Trust means, subject to this Article 12, a resolution proposed to be passed as a special resolution at a meeting of Unitholders (including an adjourned meeting) duly convened for that purpose and held in accordance with the provisions of this Article 12 and passed by the affirmative votes of the holders of votes attached to more than 66⅔% of the Units represented at the meeting and voted on a poll upon such resolution.

(b) Votes on a Special Resolution shall always be given on a poll and no demand for a poll on a Special Resolution shall be necessary.

12.7 Meaning of "Outstanding"

Every Unit issued, certified and delivered hereunder shall be deemed to be outstanding until it shall be cancelled or delivered to the Trustee or Transfer Agent for cancellation provided that:

(a) when a new certificate has been issued in substitution for a Unit Certificate which has been lost, stolen, mutilated or destroyed, only the new certificates shall be counted for the purposes of determining the number of Units outstanding;

(b) for the purpose of any provision of this Declaration of Trust entitling Unitholders to vote, sign consents, requisitions or other instruments or take any action under this Declaration of Trust, Units owned directly or indirectly, legally or equitably, by the Trust or any Keyera Entity shall be disregarded, except that:

(i) for the purpose of determining whether the Trustee shall be protected in relying on any such vote, consent, requisition or other instrument or action only the Units which the Trustee knows are so owned shall be so disregarded; and

(ii) Units so owned which have been pledged in good faith other than to the Trust or any Keyera Entity shall not be so disregarded if the pledgee shall establish to the satisfaction of the Trustee the pledgee's right to vote such Units in his or her discretion free from the control of the Trust or any Keyera Entity; and

(c) for the purposes of Section 12.7(b), the Transfer Agent shall provide a certificate which will state the number of Units and the certificate numbers of certificates, if certificates are issued, held by the Trust or any Keyera Entity. The Trustee shall be entitled to rely on such certificate in order to disregard the votes of any of such parties.

12.8 Record Date for Voting

For the purpose of determining the Unitholders who are entitled to vote or act at any meeting or any adjournment thereof, the Trustee may fix a date not more than 60 days and not less than 21 days prior to the date of any meeting of Unitholders as a record date for the determination of Unitholders entitled to vote at such meeting or any adjournment thereof, and any Unitholder who was a Unitholder at the time so fixed shall be entitled to vote at such meeting or any adjournment thereof even though the Unitholder has since that time disposed of his or her Units, and no Unitholder becoming such after that time shall be so entitled to vote at such meeting or any adjournment thereof. In the event that the Trustee does not fix a record date for any meeting of Unitholders, the record date for such meeting shall be the date upon which notice of the meeting is given as provided under Section 12.2.

12.9 Appointment of Inspector

The Trustee shall call a meeting of Unitholders upon the written request of Unitholders holding in the aggregate not less than 25% of the votes attached to Units then outstanding for the purpose of considering the appointment of an inspector to investigate the performance by the Trustee of its responsibilities and duties in respect of the Trust. An inspector may be appointed for such purpose, at the expense of the Trust, at such meeting by a resolution approved by a majority of the votes cast at the meeting. Any such inspector shall on reasonable notice have reasonable access during normal business hours to (i) all books, records and accounts of the Trust and the Keyera Entities, (ii) the Trustee, directors, officers and senior management of the Trust and the Keyera Entities, and (iii) such financial and operating data and other information with respect to the Trust and the Keyera Entities as the inspector may reasonably request.

12.10 Resolutions in Writing

Notwithstanding any other provision of this Declaration of Trust, a resolution in writing executed by Unitholders entitled to vote thereon holding more than 66⅔% of the votes attached to outstanding Units at any time shall be as valid and binding for all purposes of this Declaration of Trust as if such Unitholders had exercised at that time all of the voting rights to which they were then entitled under Section 12.5 or 12.6 in favour of such resolution at a meeting of Unitholders duly called for the purpose.

12.11 Proviso

The provisions of this Article 12 shall not in any way alter the terms and conditions of the Special Non-Voting Units which do not entitle the holders thereof to receive notice of or vote at any meeting of Unitholders or on any written resolution of Unitholders.

ARTICLE 13
CERTIFICATES, REGISTRATION AND TRANSFER OF UNITS

13.1 Nature of Units

(a) The provisions of this Article 13 shall not in any way alter the nature of Units or the relationships of a Unitholder to the Trustee and of one Unitholder to another but are intended only to facilitate the issuance of certificates evidencing the ownership of Units if desirable to issue them to Unitholders and the recording of all transactions in respect of Units and Unit Certificates whether by the Trust, securities dealers, stock exchanges, transfer agents, registrars or other persons. The Trust Units shall be evidenced by certificates in the form of a Trust Unit Certificate. One or more Global Trust Unit Certificates (a "Global Trust Unit Certificate") may be issued in the name of, or the name of the nominee of, and deposited by the Transfer Agent with, or on behalf of, CDS or a successor (collectively, the "Depository"), as custodian of such Global Trust Unit Certificate and registered by the Transfer Agent in the name of the Depository or its nominee. No purchaser of Trust Units represented by a Global Trust Unit Certificate will be entitled to a certificate or other instrument from the Trust or the Depository evidencing that purchaser's ownership thereof except in the circumstances described in Section 13.1(d). Beneficial interests in a Global Trust Unit Certificate will be represented only through the Book-Entry System. Transfers of Trust Units between CDS Participants shall occur in accordance with the Depository's rules and procedures.

(b) All references herein to actions by, notices given or payments made to holders of Trust Units shall, where such Trust Units are held through the Depository, refer to actions taken by, or notices given or payments made to, the Depository upon instruction from the CDS Participants in accordance with the Depository's rules and procedures. For the purposes of any provision hereof requiring or permitting actions with the consent of or at the direction of Unitholders evidencing a specified percentage of the aggregate Units outstanding, such direction or consent may be given, subject to the voting rights of the holders of Special Trust Units, by holders of Trust Units acting through the Depository and the CDS Participants. The rights of a Unitholder whose Trust Units are held through the Depository shall be exercised only through the Depository and the CDS Participants and shall be limited to those established by law and agreements between such Unitholders and the Depository and/or the CDS Participants or upon instruction from the CDS Participants. Each of the Transfer Agent and the Trustee may deal with the Depository for all purposes (including the making of payments) as the authorized representative of the respective holders of Trust Units and such dealing with the Depository shall constitute satisfaction or performance, as applicable, towards their respective obligations hereunder.

(c) For so long as Trust Units are held through the Depository, if any notice or other communication is required to be given to holders of such Trust Units, the Trustee and the Transfer Agent will give all such notices and communications to the Depository.

(d) If (i) the Trust determines that the Depository is no longer willing or able to discharge properly its responsibilities as depository with respect to the Units and the Trust is unable to locate a qualified successor, (ii) the Trust at its option elects, or is required by law, to terminate the Book-Entry System with respect to the Trust Units, or (iii) Unitholders determine by Special Resolution that the continuation of the Book-Entry System with respect to the Trust Units is no longer in the best interests of the Unitholders, then the Depository shall surrender the Global Trust Unit Certificate to the Transfer Agent with instructions from the Depository for registration of Trust Units in the name and in the amounts specified by the Depository and the Trust shall issue and the Trustee and Transfer Agent shall execute and deliver the aggregate number of Trust Units then outstanding in the form of definitive Trust Unit Certificates representing such Trust Units.

(e) The issuance and transfer of Special Non-Voting Units, and the ownership thereof, shall be evidenced by registers maintained on behalf of the Trust in respect of such Special Non-Voting Units and no certificates will be issued for the Special Non-Voting Units.

13.2 Unit Certificates

(a) Unit Certificates shall, subject to the provisions hereof, be in such form as is authorized from time to time by the Trustee.

(b) If issued, Unit Certificates are issuable only in fully registered form.

(c) The definitive form of the Unit Certificates shall:

(i) be in the English language;

(ii) be dated as of the date of issue thereof;

(iii) contain the CUSIP number (if any) for the Units; and

(iv) contain such distinguishing letters and numbers as the Trustee shall prescribe.

(d) In the event that any Unit Certificate is translated into the French language and any provision of any Unit Certificates in the French language shall be susceptible of an interpretation different from the equivalent provision in the English language, the interpretation of such provision in the English language shall be determinative.

(e) Each Unit Certificate shall be signed on behalf of the Trustee and the Transfer Agent of such Units. The signatures required to appear on such certificate may be printed, lithographed or otherwise mechanically reproduced thereon and, in such event, certificates so signed are as valid as if they had been signed manually. If a Unit Certificate contains a printed or mechanically produced signature of any person, then the Trust may issue the Unit Certificate even though the person has ceased to hold the office indicated on the Unit Certificate and such Unit Certificate is as valid as if the person continued to hold such office at the date of its issue.

(a) Until otherwise determined by the Trustee, each Unit Certificate shall legibly set forth on the face thereof, inter alia, the following:

(i) the name of the Trust and the words "A trust created under the laws of the Province of Alberta by a Declaration of Trust dated as of April 3, 2003 as amended or restated from time to time" or words of like effect;

(ii) the name of the person to whom the Unit Certificate is issued as Unitholder;

(iii) the number and class of Units represented thereby and whether or not the Units represented thereby are fully paid;

(iv) that the Units represented thereby are transferable;

(v) "The Units represented by this certificate are issued upon the terms and subject to the conditions of the Declaration of Trust, which Declaration of Trust is binding upon all holders of Units and, by acceptance of this certificate, the holder assents to the terms and conditions of the Declaration of Trust. A copy of the Declaration of Trust pursuant to which this certificate and the Units represented thereby are issued may be obtained by a Unitholder on demand and without fee from the head office of the Trust" or words of like effect; and

(vi) "For information as to personal liability of a Unitholder, see the reverse side of this certificate" or words of like effect.

(b) Until otherwise determined by the Trustee, each such certificate shall legibly set forth on the face or the reverse side thereof, inter alia, the following:

(i) "The Declaration of Trust provides that no Unitholder shall be subject to any personal liability whatsoever, in tort, contract or otherwise, to any person in connection with the assets of the Trust or the obligations or the affairs of the Trust and all such persons shall look solely to the assets of the Trust for satisfaction of claims of any nature arising out of or in connection therewith and the assets of the Trust only shall be subject to levy or execution", or words of like effect; and

(ii) appropriate forms of notice of exercise of the right of redemption and of powers of attorney for transferring Units.

The Unit Certificates may be engraved, printed or lithographed, or partly in one form and partly in another, as the Trustee may determine.

13.4 Register of Unitholders

If the Book-Entry System is discontinued in accordance with Section 13.1(d), or if not all Trust Units are represented by a Global Trust Unit Certificate(s), a register may be kept at the principal stock transfer offices in Calgary, Alberta of the Transfer Agent, which register, if maintained, shall contain the names and addresses of the Unitholders, the respective numbers of Units held by them, the certificate numbers of certificates representing such Units and a record of all transfers and redemptions thereof. Branch transfer registers shall be maintained at such other offices of the Transfer Agent as the Trustee may from time to time designate. Only Unitholders whose certificates are so recorded shall be entitled to receive distributions or to exercise or enjoy the rights of Unitholders hereunder. The Trustee shall have the right to treat the person registered as a Unitholder on the register of the Trust as the owner of such Units for all purposes, including, without limitation, payment of any distribution, giving notice to Unitholders and determining the right to attend and vote at meetings of Unitholders.

13.5 Limitation of Non-Resident Ownership

(a) It is in the best interest of the Trust that it always qualify as a mutual fund trust (within the meaning of the Tax Act) and therefore, in accordance with the Tax Act, the Trust shall not be established or maintained primarily for the benefit of non-residents of Canada as defined in the Tax Act ("Non-residents"). Accordingly, for so long as required in order for the Trust to maintain its mutual fund trust status under the Tax Act, at no time may Non-residents be the beneficial owners of more than 49% of the Units then outstanding.

(b) The Administrator may, at any time and from time to time, (at the expense of the Trust), take such actions as it determines in its discretion are reasonable and practicable in the circumstances in order to monitor compliance by the Trust with the restriction on Non-resident ownership of Units. Such actions may include, but are not limited to:

(i) conducting residency or other searches to determine or estimate, to the extent practicable, the residency of Unitholders and beneficial Unitholders for tax purposes; and

(ii) obtaining declarations from Unitholders as to whether the Units held thereby are held for or for the benefit of Non-residents, or declarations from Unitholders or others as to the jurisdictions in which beneficial owners of Units are resident for Canadian income tax purposes.

(c) If at any time the Administrator determines that it is in the best interest of the Trust, the Administrator may:

(i) require the Transfer Agent or registrar to refuse to accept a subscription for Units from, or issue or register a transfer of Units to, a person unless that person provides a declaration to the Administrator and the Transfer Agent that the Units to be issued or transferred to such person will not when issued or transferred be beneficially owned by a Non-resident;

(ii) send a notice to Non-resident Unitholders, chosen in such manner as the Administrator may consider equitable and practicable, requiring them to sell their Units or a portion thereof within a specified period of 60 days or such shorter period as may be required to preserve the status of the Trust as a mutual fund trust within the meaning of the Tax Act. If the Unitholders receiving such notice have not, within such period, sold the specified number of Units or provided the Administrator and the Transfer Agent with evidence satisfactory to the Administrator that the Units are not beneficially owned by Non-residents, the Administrator may suspend the voting and distribution rights, if any, attached to such Units until they are sold and may direct the Trustee, on behalf of such Unitholders, to sell such Units. Upon such sale, the affected Unitholders shall cease to be holders of the Units so disposed of and their rights shall be limited to receiving the net proceeds of sale (net of applicable taxes and costs of sale);

(iii) delist any listed securities of the Trust from any non-Canadian stock exchange; and

(iv) take such other actions as the Administrator determines, in its sole discretion, may be appropriate in the circumstances that will reduce or limit the number of Units held by Non-residents in order that the Trust is not established or maintained primarily for the benefit of Non-residents.

(d) None of the Trust, the Administrator, the Trustee or the Transfer Agent shall have any liability for the sale of Units made pursuant to Section 13.5(c) or for amounts received pursuant thereto provided it has acted in good faith.

(e) Subject to Sections 9.6 and 10.5, unless and until the Trustee or the Administrator shall have been required to do so under the terms hereof, the Trustee and the Administrator shall not be bound to do or take any proceeding or action with respect to this Section 13.5 by virtue of the powers conferred on them hereby.

(f) It is acknowledged the Trustee shall not be required to actively monitor the Non-resident Unit ownership levels of the Trust. It is further acknowledged that the ability of the Administrator to monitor compliance by the Trust with the Non-resident Unit ownership restriction will be limited due to the fact that the Units will be registered in the name of the Depository or other depositories and non-beneficial holders, and in this regard, the Administrator shall be entitled to rely on information respecting the residency of Unitholders provided to the Administrator by the Transfer Agent and CDS Participants. The Administrator may exercise its discretion in making any determination under this Section 13.5 and any reasonable and bona fide exercise of such discretion shall be binding for the purpose of this Section 13.5.

(g) Neither the Trustee nor the Administrator shall be deemed to have notice of any violation of this Section 13.5 unless and until it has been given written notice of such violation and the Trustee shall act only as required by this Declaration of Trust once an indemnity is provided.

(h) None of the Trust, Trustee, the Administrator or the Transfer Agent or any of their respective directors, officers, employees or agents, or any Unitholders shall be liable for a determination that the Trust is established and maintained primarily for the benefit of Non-residents as a result of an excess number of Units being held by Non-residents during the term of the Trust.

(i) At any time, the Trustee or Administrator may require any Unitholder as shown on the register of Unitholders to provide a declaration, in such form as prescribed by the Trustee or Administrator, as to the beneficial owner of Units registered in such Unitholder's name and as to the jurisdiction in which such beneficial owner is resident for Canadian income tax purposes, and the Unitholders shall comply with any such request.

13.6 Transfer of Units

(a) For so long as the Book-Entry System is in effect, transfers of ownership of Units represented by a Global Trust Unit Certificate(s) may be effected only through the records maintained by the Depository with respect to interests of CDS Participants, and on the records of CDS Participants with respect to interests of persons other than CDS Participants.

(b) Trust Units shall not be transferable under any circumstances without the contemporaneous transfer of the associated Special Trust Units, and Special Trust Units shall not be transferable independently of the associated Trust Units.

(c) Subject to the provisions of this Article 13, the Units shall be fully transferable as between persons.

(d) If the Book-Entry System is discontinued in accordance with Subsection 13.1(d) then, subject to the provisions of this Article 13, or if not all Trust Units are represented by a Global Trust Unit Certificate(s), Units shall be transferable on the register or one of the branch transfer registers only by the Unitholders of record thereof or their executors, administrators or other legal representatives or by their agents or attorneys duly authorized in writing, and only upon delivery to the Trust or to the Transfer Agent of the certificate therefor, properly endorsed or accompanied by a duly executed instrument of transfer or power of attorney and accompanied by all necessary transfer or other taxes imposed by law, together with such evidence of the genuineness of such endorsement, execution and authorization and other matters that may reasonably be required by the Trustee or the Transfer Agent, and no transfer of Units shall be effective as against the Trustee or shall be in any way binding upon the Trustee until the transfer has been recorded on the register or one of the branch transfer registers maintained by the Trustee, the Trust or the Transfer Agent. Upon such delivery, the transfer shall be recorded on the register or branch transfer registers and a new certificate for the Units shall be issued to the transferee and a new certificate for the balance of Units not transferred shall be issued to the transferor.

(e) Any person becoming entitled to any Units as a consequence of the death, bankruptcy or mental incompetence of any Unitholder, or otherwise by operation of law, shall be recorded as the holder of such Units (and, if the Book-Entry System has been duly discontinued, shall receive a new certificate therefor upon submission of the existing certificate for cancellation) only upon production of satisfactory evidence, but until such record is made the Unitholder of record shall continue to be and be deemed to be the holder of such Units for all purposes whether or not notice of such death or other event has been given.

(f) If the Book-Entry System has been duly discontinued, or if not all Trust Units are represented by a Global Trust Unit Certificate(s), Unit Certificates representing any number or class of Units may be exchanged without charge for Unit Certificates representing an equivalent number and class of Units in the aggregate. Any exchange of Unit Certificates may be made at the offices of the Trust or the Transfer Agent where registers are maintained for Unit Certificates pursuant to the provisions of this Article 13. Any Unit Certificates tendered for exchange shall be surrendered to the Trustee or appropriate Transfer Agent and then shall be cancelled.

13.7 Units Held Jointly or in a Fiduciary Capacity

Except as herein provided, the Trustee may treat two or more persons holding any Units as joint owners of the entire interest therein unless their ownership is expressly otherwise recorded on the register of the Trust, but no entry shall be made in the register or on any certificate that any person is in any other manner entitled to any future, limited or contingent interest in any Units; provided, however, that any person recorded as a Unitholder may, subject to the provisions hereinafter contained, be described in the register or on any certificate as a fiduciary of any kind and any customary words may be added to the description of the holder to identify the nature of such fiduciary relationship.

13.8 Performance of Trust

The Trustee and the Transfer Agent shall not be bound to be responsible for or otherwise inquire into or ensure the performance of any trust, express, implied or constructive, or of any pledge or equity to which any of the Units or any interest therein are or may be subject, or to ascertain or enquire whether any transfer of any such Units or interests therein by any such Unitholder or by his or her personal representatives is authorized by such trust, pledge, or equity, or to recognize any person as having any interest therein except for the person recorded as Unitholder.

13.9 Lost Certificates

In the event that any Unit Certificate is lost, stolen, destroyed or mutilated, the Trustee may authorize the issuance of a new certificate for the same number and class of Units in lieu thereof. The Trustee may in its sole discretion, before the issuance of such new certificate, require the owner of the lost, stolen, destroyed or mutilated certificate, or the legal representative of the owner, to make an affidavit or statutory declaration setting forth such facts as to the loss, theft, destruction or mutilation as the Trustee may deem necessary, to surrender any mutilated certificate and may require the applicant to supply to the Trust a "lost certificate bond" or a similar bond in such reasonable sum as the Trustee or the Transfer Agent may direct indemnifying the Trust for so doing.

13.10 Death of a Unitholder

The death of a Unitholder during the continuance of the Trust shall not terminate the Trust or any of the mutual or respective rights and obligations created by or arising under this Declaration of Trust nor give such Unitholder's personal representatives a right to an accounting or take any action in court or otherwise against other Unitholders or the Trustee or the Trust Assets, but shall merely entitle the personal representatives of the deceased Unitholder to demand and receive, pursuant to the provisions hereof, a new certificate for Units in place of the certificate held by the deceased Unitholder, if any, and upon the acceptance thereof such personal representatives shall succeed to all rights of the deceased Unitholder under this Declaration of Trust.

13.11 Unclaimed Distribution

In the event that the Trustee shall hold any distributable amount which is unclaimed or which cannot be paid for any reason, the Trustee shall be under no obligation to invest or reinvest the same but shall only be obliged to hold the same in a current interest bearing account pending payment to the person or persons entitled thereto. The Trustee shall, as and when required by law, and may at any time prior to such required time, pay all or part of such distributable amount so held, including interest earned thereon, if any, to the Public Guardian and Trustee (or other appropriate government official or agency) whose receipt shall be a good discharge and release of the Trustee.

13.12 Take-Over Bids

(a) In the event of a take-over bid for Trust Units, any holder of Exchangeable Securities may, unless prohibited by the terms and conditions of the Exchangeable Security, convert, exercise or exchange such Exchangeable Security, as applicable, for the purpose of tendering Trust Units to such take-over bid on the condition that such Trust Units are taken up under such bid, unless an identical offer (in terms of price per Trust Unit issuable upon the conversion, exercise or exchange of the Exchangeable Security and percentage of outstanding securities to be taken up exclusive of securities owned immediately prior to the offer by the offeror, or associates or affiliates of the offeror and in all other material respects) is made concurrently by the offeror to purchase the Exchangeable Securities, which identical offer has no condition attached other than the right not to take up and pay for securities tendered if no securities are purchased pursuant to the offer for Trust Units. In the event that a holder of Exchangeable Securities elects to conditionally convert, exercise or exchange such Exchangeable Securities for the purpose of tendering Trust Units to such take-over bid, the tendering of a certificate issued by the Trust indicating that the Trust Unit is issuable upon and subject to completion of the take-over bid shall be good delivery under such bid and after payment of the consideration therefor to the former holder of the Exchangeable Security such holder shall cease to have any rights as a holder of Exchangeable Securities or Trust Units to the extent that the Trust Units issuable upon the conversion, exercise or exchange of such Exchangeable Securities have been taken up.

(b) If, within 120 days after the date of a take-over bid for all of the outstanding Trust Units (including Trust Units issuable upon conversion, exercise or exchange of Exchangeable Securities), the bid is accepted by the holders of not less than 90% of the aggregate of outstanding Trust Units and the Trust Units issuable upon the conversion, exercise or exchange of the Exchangeable Securities, other than outstanding Trust Units and Exchangeable Securities held by or on behalf of, or issuable to, the offeror or an affiliate or associate of the offeror on the date of the take-over-bid, the offeror is entitled, on complying with this Section 13.12, to acquire the Trust Units and Exchangeable Securities held by the non-tendering offerees.

(c) An offeror may acquire Trust Units and Exchangeable Securities held by a non-tendering offeree by sending by registered mail within 60 days after the date of termination of the take-over bid and in any event within 180 days after the date of the take-over bid, an offeror's notice to each non-tendering offeree stating that:

(i) offerees holding not less than 90% of the outstanding Trust Units and the Trust Units issuable upon the conversion, exercise or exchange of the Exchangeable Securities which the bid relates accepted the take-over bid;

(ii) the offeror has taken up and paid for the Trust Units and Exchangeable Securities of the offerees who accepted the take-over bid;

(iii) a non-tendering offeree is required to transfer its Trust Units and/or Exchangeable Securities to the offeror on the terms on which the offeror acquired the Trust Units and Exchangeable Securities of the offerees who accepted the take-over bid; and

(iv) a non-tendering offeree which does not transfer its Trust Units and/or Exchangeable Securities in accordance with Section 13.2(b) within 20 days after it receives the offeror's notice is deemed to have elected to transfer, and to have transferred, its Trust Units on the same terms that the offeror acquired the Trust Units and/or Exchangeable Securities from the offerees who accepted the take-over bid.

(d) Concurrently with sending the offeror's notice under Section 13.12(c), the offeror shall send to the Trust a notice of adverse claim disclosing the name and address of the offeror and the name of the non-tendering offeree with respect to each Trust Unit and/or Exchangeable Security held by a non-tendering offeree.

(e) A non-tendering offeree to whom an offeror's notice is sent under Section 13.12(c) shall, within 20 days after it receives that notice, instruct its CDS Participant to cause its Trust Units and/or Exchangeable Securities to be sent to the Trust, or, if Unit Certificates have been issued to the non-tendering offeree, send the certificates representing such securities, duly endorsed for transfer, to the Trust.

(f) Within 20 days after the offeror sends an offeror's notice under Section 13.12(c), the offeror shall pay or transfer to the Trust the amount of money or other consideration that the offeror would have had to pay or transfer to a non-tendering offeree if the non-tendering offeree had tendered under the take-over bid.

(g) The Trust is deemed to hold on behalf of the non-tendering offeree the money or other consideration it receives under Section 13.12(f), and the Trust shall deposit the money in a separate account in a bank or other body corporate any of whose deposits are insured by the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation (or any successor thereof), and shall place the other consideration in the custody of a bank or such other body corporate for safekeeping. No such monies or other consideration shall form any part of the Trust Assets.

(h) Within 30 days after the date of the sending of an offeror's notice under Section 13.12(c), the Trustee, if the offeror has complied with Section 13.12(f), shall:

(i) do all acts and things and execute and cause to be executed all instruments as in the Trustee's opinion may be necessary or desirable to cause the transfer of the Trust Units and/or Exchangeable Securities of the non-tendering offerees to the offeror;

(ii) send to each non-tendering offeree who has complied with Section 13.12(e) the consideration to which such non-tendering offeree is entitled under this Section 13.12; and

(iii) send to each non-tendering offeree who has not complied with Section 13.12(e) a notice stating that:

(A) his or her Trust Units and/or Exchangeable Securities have been transferred to the offeror;

(B) the Trustee or some other person designated in such notice are holding in trust the consideration for such Trust Units and/or Exchangeable Securities; and

(C) the Trustee, or such other person, will send the consideration to such non-tendering offeree as soon as practicable after receiving such non-tendering offeree's Trust Unit Certificate(s) or certificate(s) representing Exchangeable Securities (subject to the use of a Global Unit Certificate as contemplated in Article 13) or such other documents as the Trustee or such other person may require in lieu thereof; and the Trustee is hereby appointed the agent and attorney of the non-tendering offerees for the purposes of giving effect to the foregoing provisions.

The Trust shall cause the terms, conditions, restrictions, rights and obligations of Exchangeable Securities to contain corresponding provisions as may be reasonably necessary or desirable to give effect to this Section 13.12, including, without limitation, provisions to effect the automatic conversion, exercise or exchange of Exchangeable Securities by a non-tendering offeree holder thereof.

13.13 Power of Attorney

Each Unitholder hereby grants to the Trustee, its successors and assigns, a power of attorney constituting the Trustee with full power of substitution, as his true and lawful attorney to act on his behalf, with full power and authority in his name, place and stead, and to execute, under seal or otherwise, swear to, acknowledge, deliver, make or file or record when, as and where required:

(f) all transfers, conveyances and other documents required to facilitate the acquisition of Trust Units and/or Exchangeable Securities of non-tendering offerees pursuant to Section 13.12.

The Power of Attorney granted herein is, to the extent permitted by applicable law, irrevocable and will survive the assignment by the Unitholder of all or part of the Unitholder's interest in the Trust and will extend to and bind the heirs, executors, administrators and other legal representatives and successors and assigns of the Unitholder.

14.7 Further Notice to Unitholders

In the event that less than all of the Unitholders have surrendered their Units for cancellation within six months after the time specified in the notice referred to in Section 14.3, the Trustee shall give further notice to the remaining Unitholders to surrender their Units for cancellation and if, within one year after the further notice, all the Units shall not have been surrendered for cancellation, such remaining Units shall be deemed to be cancelled without prejudice to the rights of the holders of such Trust Units to receive their pro rata share of the remaining Trust Assets, and the Trustee may either take appropriate steps, or appoint an agent to take appropriate steps, to contact such Unitholders (deducting all expenses thereby incurred from the amounts to which such Unitholders are entitled as aforesaid) or, in the discretion of the Trustee or the Administrator, may pay such amounts into court.

14.8 Responsibility of the Trustee after Sale and Conversion

Attention Business Editors:
Keyera Announces $50 Million Investment in Diluent Distribution Terminal in Edmonton/Fort Saskatchewan Energy Hub

OFFICE OF INTERNATIONAL CORPORATE FINANCE

CALGARY, March 12 /CNW/ - Keyera Facilities Income Fund (TSX:KEY.UN; KEY.DB) ("Keyera") announced today that a subsidiary has agreed to acquire a distribution terminal in the Edmonton/Fort Saskatchewan energy hub for $32 million as part of a $50 million growth initiative. The facility, to be known as the Alberta Diluent Terminal ("ADT"), will be used primarily to handle condensate, for use as diluent in the oil sands sector. The transaction is subject to normal commercial conditions and is expected to close no later than mid April.

The ADT will increase Keyera's condensate import capacity in the Edmonton/Fort Saskatchewan hub by a factor of five, to over 60,000 barrels per day, and will enable Keyera to continue as a key diluent supplier in Alberta as bitumen production grows. With its existing rail and storage capabilities, the site can become operational, on a limited basis, almost immediately. This provides significant cost and time advantages relative to a greenfield development.

The ADT consists of a 42 acre parcel of land located just north of Keyera's Edmonton Terminal. Located on the site is a rail offloading/loading rack with 20 spots, providing the capacity to handle 80 rail cars per day, rail storage spurs able to handle 200 rail cars, access to the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways, a truck loading rack and 435,000 barrels of product storage in six above-ground steel storage tanks.

Keyera also announced plans to invest $18 million to fully integrate the facility with Keyera's NGL Infrastructure. Keyera intends to construct two 4-kilometre pipelines from the ADT facility to its Fort Saskatchewan pipeline system, connecting its Edmonton terminal and its Fort Saskatchewan fractionation and storage facility. When the pipeline connections are complete, Keyera will be able to deliver product to market on a number of pipelines, or to Keyera's storage facility in Fort Saskatchewan. The ADT will also significantly enhance the operational flexibility of Keyera's existing logistics and storage businesses in the area, allowing products to be received in much higher quantities using 100 rail-car unit trains and providing product delivery into receipt pipelines at significantly higher flow rates.

"This acquisition is the latest step in our strategy of significantly enhancing our capability as a service provider to the oil sands sector in Alberta and is consistent with our goal of investing an average of $80 to $100 million in growth opportunities over the next three to five years," said Jim Bertram, President and CEO of Keyera. "The ADT facility is an ideal fit with our existing infrastructure and provides the capacity necessary to meet the growing needs of bitumen producers. Longer term, we expect the ADT facility to provide additional growth capital opportunities to handle other hydrocarbons and refined products from facilities in the area."

Cash flows from this project will primarily be fee-for-service income within Keyera's NGL Infrastructure contribution, and will also enable growth in Marketing contribution. The facility is expected to be cash flow neutral in 2008 and provide meaningful cash flow accretion in 2009 and beyond.

(a) The Corporation is a corporation duly organized, validly existing and in good standing under the laws of its jurisdiction of incorporation, and is validly registered as an extra-provincial or foreign corporation and is in good standing in each jurisdiction in which such registration is required by law, other than those jurisdictions as to which the failure to be so registered or in good standing could not, individually or in the aggregate, reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect. The Corporation has the corporate power and authority to own or hold under lease the properties it purports to own or hold under lease, to transact the business it transacts and proposes to transact, to execute and deliver the Note Documents to which it is a party and to perform the provisions hereof and thereof. The Corporation is subject to the relevant commercial law and is generally subject to suit and it does not, nor does any of its properties or revenues, enjoy any right of immunity from any judicial proceedings, including attachment prior to judgment, attachment in aid of execution, execution of the judgment or otherwise. The execution and delivery of the Note Documents to which the Corporation is a party constitute private and commercial acts rather than governmental or public acts of the Corporation.

(b) The Partnership is a general partnership duly constituted under the laws of its jurisdiction of formation pursuant to the Partnership Agreement, and is registered as such in each jurisdiction in which such registration is required by law, other than those jurisdictions as to which the failure to be so registered could not, individually or in the aggregate, reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect. The execution and delivery of the Note Documents to which the Partnership is a party constitute private and commercial acts rather than governmental or public acts of the Partnership.

5.2 Authorization, etc.

The Note Documents have been duly authorized by all necessary corporate and partnership action on the part of the Issuer Party executing the same, and this Agreement constitutes, and upon execution and delivery thereof each other Note Document will constitute, a legal, valid and binding obligation of each Issuer Party party thereto enforceable against it in accordance with its terms, except as such enforceability may be limited by (i) applicable bankruptcy, insolvency, reorganization, moratorium or other similar laws affecting the enforcement of creditors' rights generally, and (ii) general principles of equity (regardless of whether such enforceability is considered in a proceeding in equity or at law).

5.3 Disclosure

The Issuers, through their placement agent, RBC Capital Markets, have delivered to each Purchaser a copy of a Private Placement Memorandum dated July, 2003 (the "Memorandum"), relating to the transactions contemplated hereby. The Memorandum fairly describes, in all material respects, the general nature of the business and principal properties of the Issuers. The Note Documents, the Memorandum, the documents, certificates or other writings delivered to the Purchasers by or on behalf of each Issuer in connection with the transactions contemplated hereby and the financial statements listed in Schedule 5.5, taken as a whole, do not contain any untrue statement of a material fact or omit to state any material fact necessary to make the statements therein not misleading in light of the circumstances under which they were made. Except as disclosed in the Memorandum, or in the financial statements listed in Schedule 5.5, since December 31, 2002 there has been no change in the business, operations, affairs, financial condition, assets, properties or prospects of the Issuer Group except changes that individually or in the aggregate could not reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect. There is no fact known to any Issuer Group Entity that could reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect that has not been set forth herein or in the Memorandum.

5.4 Organization and Ownership of Shares of Subsidiaries; Affiliates

(a) Currently, the Corporation and KECC are the only Subsidiaries of the Partnership and there are no Subsidiaries of the Corporation. Schedule 5.4 contains (except as noted therein) complete and correct lists of:

(ii) Affiliates, other than Subsidiaries;

(iii) directors and officers of the Corporation; and

(iv) directors and officers of the Managing Partner of the Partnership.

(b) All of the outstanding shares or similar equity interests of each Subsidiary shown in Schedule 5.4 as being owned by the Partnership have been validly issued, are fully paid and non-assessable and are owned by the Partnership and its Subsidiaries free and clear of any Lien except the Senior Debt Security.

(c) No Issuer Group Entity is a party to, or otherwise subject to any legal restriction or any agreement (other than the Note Documents, the Constating Documents which impose the restrictions specified in Schedule 5.4, the agreements associated with the Bank Facilities which impose the restrictions specified in Schedule 5.4, and customary limitations imposed by corporate law or legally equivalent statutes) restricting:

(i) its ability to pay dividends out of profits or make any other similar distributions of profits to its equity owners; or

(d) No Issuer Group Entity is a party to any agreement or instrument that provides for the general management or administration of its business, property or affairs by any Person, except for the Constating Documents which provide for such matters.

Each such Subsidiary has the corporate or other power and authority to own or hold under lease the properties it purports to own or hold under lease and to transact the business it transacts and proposes to transact.

5.5 Financial Statements

The Partnership has delivered to each Purchaser copies of the consolidated financial statements of the Partnership listed in Schedule 5.5. All of said financial statements (including in each case the related schedules and notes):

(a) fairly present in all material respects the consolidated financial position of the Partnership as of the respective dates specified in such Schedule and the consolidated results of its operations and cash flows for the respective periods so specified; and

(b) have been prepared in accordance with GAAP consistently applied throughout the periods involved except as set forth in the notes thereto (subject, in the case of any interim financial statements, to normal year end adjustments).

5.6 Compliance with Laws, Other Instruments, etc.

(a) The execution, delivery and performance by the Issuer Parties of the Note Documents, and by the Affiliates of the Subordination Agreements to which any of them is a party, will not:

(i) contravene, result in any breach of, or constitute a default under, or (except for the Liens created pursuant to Senior Debt Security in favor of the Collateral Agent, for the equal and ratable benefit of the Secured Parties (including the Purchasers)) result in the creation of any Lien in respect of any property of any Issuer Group Entity or Affiliate under, any indenture, mortgage, deed of trust, loan or credit agreement, purchase agreement, lease or any other agreement or instrument (including the Constating Documents) to which an Issuer Group Entity or Affiliate is bound or by which an Issuer Group Entity or Affiliate or any of its respective properties may be bound or affected;

(ii) violate the articles, by-laws or partnership agreement governing an Issuer Party or Affiliate;

(iii) conflict with or result in a breach of any of the terms, conditions or provisions of any order, judgment, decree, or ruling of any court, arbitrator or Governmental Authority applicable to an Issuer Group Entity or Affiliate; or

(iv) violate any provision of any statute or other rule or regulation of any Governmental Authority applicable to an Issuer Group Entity or Affiliate.

(b) The Issuer Group Entities are in compliance with all applicable laws, statutes, rules, regulations and binding orders of governmental or judicial authorities where failure to be so would individually or in the aggregate have a Material Adverse Effect.

5.7 Governmental Authorizations, etc.

No consent, approval or authorization of, or registration, filing or declaration with, any Governmental Authority is required in connection with the execution, delivery or performance by the Issuer Parties of the Note Documents, including any consent, approval, authorization, registration, filing or declaration required in connection with obtaining Canadian Dollars to make payments under Note Documents and the payment of such Canadian Dollars to Persons resident in the United States of America, except as have been obtained. 5.8 Litigation; Observance of Agreements, Statutes and Orders

(a) There are no actions, suits or proceedings pending or, to the knowledge of any Issuer Group Entity, threatened against or affecting any Issuer Group Entity or any property of any Issuer Group Entity in any court or before any arbitrator of any kind or before or by any Governmental Authority that, individually or in the aggregate, (i) could reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect, or (ii) purports to affect the validity or enforceability of this Agreement or any other Note Document.

5.9 Taxes

Each Issuer Group Entity has filed all tax returns that are required to have been filed by it in any jurisdiction, and has paid all taxes shown to be due and payable on such returns and all other taxes and assessments levied upon it or its properties, assets, income or franchises, to the extent such taxes and assessments have become due and payable and before they have become delinquent, except for any taxes and assessments (i) the amount of which is not individually or in the aggregate Material, or (ii) the amount, applicability or validity of which is currently being contested in good faith by appropriate proceedings and with respect to which the applicable Issuer Group Entity has established adequate reserves in accordance with GAAP. The Issuer Group Entities know of no basis for any other tax or assessment that could reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect. The charges, accruals and reserves on the books of the Issuer Group Entities in respect of federal, provincial, state or other taxes for all fiscal periods are adequate. The federal and provincial income tax liabilities of each Issuer Group

Entity have been paid for all fiscal years up to and including the fiscal year ended December 31, 2002.

The Issuers do not own any margin stock. As used in this Section, the terms "margin stock" and "purpose of buying or carrying" shall have the meanings assigned to them in said Regulation U.

8. PREPAYMENT OF THE NOTES

8.1 No Required Prepayments

No regularly scheduled prepayment of the principal of any of the Notes is required prior to the date of its maturity.

8.2 Optional Prepayments with Make-Whole Amount

The Issuers may, at their option, upon notice as provided below, prepay at any time all, or from time to time any part, of the Notes, at 100% of the principal amount so prepaid, together with interest accrued thereon to the date of such prepayment, plus the Make-Whole Amount determined for the prepayment date with respect to such principal amount. Each Issuer will give each holder of its Notes written notice of each optional prepayment under this Section 8.2 not less than 30 days and not more than 60 days prior to the date fixed for such prepayment. Each such notice shall be irrevocable and specify such date, the aggregate principal amount of the Notes to be prepaid on such date, the principal amount of each Note held by such holder to be prepaid (determined in accordance with Section 8.4), and the interest to be paid on the prepayment date with respect to such principal amount being prepaid, and shall be accompanied by a certificate of a Senior Financial Officer of the applicable Issuer as to the estimated Make-Whole Amount due in connection with such prepayment (calculated as if the date of such notice were the date of the prepayment), setting forth the details of such computation. Two Business Days prior to such prepayment, the applicable Issuer shall deliver to each holder of its Notes a Certificate of a Senior Financial Officer specifying the calculation of such Make-Whole Amount as of the specified prepayment date.

8.3 Prepayment for Reasons of Taxation With Modified Make-Whole Amount

(a) If in the good faith opinion of the Board of Directors of the Corporation (which determination shall be accompanied by a written opinion of an independent tax counsel of recognized standing to the same such effect), the Corporation would be obligated to pay a Tax Indemnity Amount greater than 5% of any interest payment in respect of the U.S. Notes pursuant to Section 23 as a result of a change of Tax law or in the administration thereof after the date of this Agreement, then and in such event, but only in such event, on the occasion of any payment pursuant to Section 23, the Corporation may, by giving written notice to each holder of the U.S. Notes not less than 30 days nor more than 60 days before the date fixed for a prepayment pursuant to this Section 8.3, prepay all (but not less than all) of the outstanding U.S. Notes with respect to which any such amounts will be payable by payment of the principal amount of the U.S. Notes and accrued interest thereon to the date of such prepayment, together with any amount then due and owing pursuant to Section 23, and a premium equal to the Make-Whole Amount, determined as of two Business Days prior to the date of such prepayment pursuant to this Section 8.3, which Make-Whole Amount shall be determined free and clear of Taxes;

(b) At any time on or after the date on which any holder of the U.S. Notes receives notice pursuant to this Section 8.3 that the Corporation intends to prepay the U.S. Notes held by such holder pursuant to this Section 8.3, but not less than two Business Days prior to the date scheduled for such prepayment, such holder may, by notice delivered to the Corporation in the manner provided in Section 19, irrevocably waive any and all right to any payment of any additional amounts the Corporation would become obligated to pay under Section 23 as a result of any deduction or withholding which would be required, such waiver to be effective as of the date of delivery by the Corporation of such notice of prepayment and to survive termination of this Agreement and payment in full of the U.S. Notes, provided that no such waiver shall be deemed to constitute a waiver of any right to receive a payment in full under Section 23 in respect of any other event or condition that shall have given rise to the Corporation's prepayment right under this Section 8.3, including any increase in the amount of any payment that a holder of any U.S. Note would be entitled to receive under Section 23, notwithstanding any waiver previously delivered pursuant to this Section 8.3. Effective upon receipt of notice of such waiver, the Corporation shall then cease to have any right of prepayment with respect to such U.S. Notes under this Section 8.3 in respect of the Tax to which the notice relates; and

(c) True, correct and complete copies of any determination by the Board of Directors of the Corporation as to the existence of any such obligation to pay a Tax as above contemplated and the opinion of independent tax counsel of recognized standing to the same such effect shall be furnished to each holder of the U.S. Notes concurrently with the written notice delivered pursuant to Section 8.3(a)..

8.4 Allocation of Partial Prepayments

(a) In the case of each partial prepayment of the U.S. Notes by the Corporation pursuant to Section 8.3, the principal amount of the U.S. Notes to be prepaid shall be allocated among all of the U.S. Notes at the time outstanding in proportion, as nearly as practicable, to the respective unpaid principal amounts thereof not theretofore called for prepayment.

(b) In the case of each partial prepayment of the Notes by the Issuers pursuant to Section 8.2, the principal amount of the Notes to be prepaid shall be allocated among all of the U.S. Notes and the Canadian Notes, at the time outstanding in proportion, as nearly as practicable, to the respective unpaid principal amounts thereof not theretofore called for prepayment.

8.5 Maturity; Surrender, etc.

In the case of each prepayment of Notes pursuant to this Section 8, the principal amount of each Note to be prepaid shall mature and become due and payable on the date fixed for such prepayment, together with interest on such principal amount accrued to such date and the applicable Make-Whole Amount, if any. From and after such date, unless the applicable Issuer shall fail to pay such principal amount when so due and payable, together with the interest and Make-Whole Amount, if any, as aforesaid, interest on such principal amount shall cease to accrue. Any Note paid or prepaid in full shall be surrendered to the applicable Issuer and cancelled and shall not be reissued, and no Note shall be issued in lieu of any prepaid principal amount of any Note.

8.6 Purchase of Notes

The Issuers will not, and will not permit any Affiliate to, purchase, redeem, prepay or otherwise acquire, directly or indirectly, any of the outstanding Notes except upon the payment or prepayment of the Notes in accordance with the terms of this Agreement and the Notes. Each Issuer will promptly cancel all Notes acquired by it or any Affiliate pursuant to any payment, prepayment or purchase of Notes pursuant to any provision of this Agreement and no Notes may be issued in substitution or exchange for any such Notes.

8.7 Make-Whole Amount

The term "Make-Whole Amount" means, (a) in the case of any Canadian Note, the Canadian Make-Whole Amount, and (b) in the case of any U.S. Note, the U.S. Make-Whole Amount. For the purposes of determining the Make-Whole Amount, the following terms have the following meanings:

"Called Principal" means, with respect to any Note, the principal of such Note that is to be prepaid pursuant to Section 8.2 or Section 8.3 or has become or is declared to be immediately due and payable pursuant to Section 12.1, as the context requires.

"Canadian Make-Whole Amount" means, with respect to any Note, an amount equal to the excess, if any, of the Discounted Value of the Remaining Scheduled Payments with respect to the Called Principal of such Canadian Note over the amount of such Called Principal; provided that the Make-Whole Amount may in no event be less than zero.

"Conversion Factor" means the constant 1.4.

"Discounted Value" means, with respect to the Called Principal of any Note, the amount obtained by discounting all Remaining Scheduled Payments to the Settlement Date with respect to such Called Principal, in accordance with accepted financial practice and at a discount factor (applied on the same periodic basis as that on which interest on such Note is payable) equal to the Reinvestment Yield (expressed on the same periodic basis as that on which interest on such Note is payable) with respect to such Called Principal.

"Reinvestment Yield" for purposes of the U.S. Make-Whole Amount means, with respect to the Called Principal of any U.S. Note, (i) 50 basis points in the case of any prepayment of the Notes pursuant to Section 8.2 or in the case of the acceleration of the Notes pursuant to Section 12.1 or (ii) 75 basis points in the case of any prepayment or payment of the Notes pursuant to Section 8.3 over, in each such case, the yield to maturity implied by (a) the yields reported, as of 10:00 A.M. (Chicago, Illinois time) on the second Business Day preceding the Settlement Date with respect to such Called Principal, on the display designated as "Page USD - PX1" of the Bloomberg Financial Markets Services Screen (or, if not available, any other national recognized trading screen reporting on-line intraday trading in the U.S. Treasury securities) for actively traded on-the-run U.S. Treasury securities having a maturity which is the same as the maturity date of such Called Principal as of such Settlement Date, or (b) if such yields are not reported as of such time or the yields reported as of such time are not ascertainable, the Treasury Constant Maturity Series Yields reported, for the latest day for which such yields have been so reported as of the second Business Day preceding the Settlement Date with respect to such Called Principal, in Federal Reserve Statistical Release H.15 (519) (or any comparable successor publication) for actively traded on-the-run U.S. Treasury securities having a constant maturity which is the same as the maturity date of such Called Principal as of such Settlement Date. Such implied yield will be determined, if necessary, by (i) converting U.S. Treasury bill quotations to bond-equivalent yields in accordance with accepted financial practice and (ii) interpolating linearly between (1) the actively traded on-the-run U.S. Treasury security with the maturity closest to and greater than the maturity date of such Called Principal and (2) the actively traded on-the-run U.S. Treasury security with the maturity closest to and less than the maturity date of such Called Principal.

"Reinvestment Yield" for purposes of the Canadian Make-Whole Amount, means with respect to the Called Principal of any Canadian Note, 34 basis points in the case of any prepayment of the Notes pursuant to Section 8.2 or in the case of acceleration of the Notes pursuant to Section 12.1, in each such case over the Government of Canada Yield calculated at 10:00 a.m. (Toronto, Ontario time) determined as at the second Business Day preceding the Settlement Date. "Government of Canada Yield" on any date means the yield to maturity on such date which an assumed new issue of non-callable government of Canada bonds denominated in Canadian dollars would carry if issued in Canada, at 100% of its principal amount on such date, with a term to maturity equal to the remaining term to maturity of the Canadian Notes, such yield to be determined by two members of the Investment Dealer's Association of Canada selected by the holders of at least $66^2/_3\%$ of the outstanding principal amount of the Canadian Notes at the time outstanding which members deal in such government securities who shall confer as to such determination and shall report, jointly on such Business Date to the Partnership and the holders of the Canadian Notes the yield they have agreed upon or failing such agreement, the arithmetic average of the respective yields determined by each such member.

"Remaining Scheduled Payments" means, with respect to the Called Principal of any Note, the payment of such Called Principal and interest thereon that would be due after the Settlement Date with respect to such Called Principal if no payment of such Called Principal were made prior to its scheduled due date; provided that if such Settlement Date is not a date on which interest payments are due to be made under the terms of the Notes, then the amount of the next succeeding scheduled interest payment will be reduced by the amount of interest accrued to such Settlement Date and required to be paid on such Settlement Date pursuant to Section 8.2, 8.3 or 12.1.

"Settlement Amount" means, with respect to the Swap related to any U.S. Note, in determining the U.S. Make-Whole Amount, the amount deemed paid or received by the holder of such Note by reason of a termination (or deemed termination) of such Swap, which shall be an amount equal to the Settlement Amount as defined by the International Swap and Derivatives Association, Inc.'s standard 1992 Multicurrency-Cross Border Master Agreement (the "Master Agreement") where the parties have elected to calculate such amount in accordance with the Second Method payment method (as defined in the Master Agreement) and Market Quotation payment measure (as defined in the Master Agreement) and payable in U.S. Dollars.

(i) any other event shall occur which, under the laws of any applicable jurisdiction, has an effect equivalent to any of the events referred to in clauses (g) or (h); or

(j) if (i) any Note Document shall cease to be in full force and effect for any reason whatsoever, including a determination by any Governmental Authority that such Note Document is invalid, void or unenforceable; (ii) any party to any such agreement shall contest or deny in writing the validity or enforceability of any of its obligations under a Note Document to which it is a party; or (iii) or any Lien on any of the Collateral purported to be created by any Senior Debt Security ceases to be or is not a valid and perfected first priority Lien (in any case, subject to the provisions of Collateral Agency Agreement and also subject to any Permitted Liens which rank in priority under Applicable Law);

(ii) a notice of intent to terminate any Plan shall have been or is reasonably expected to be filed with the PBGC or the PBGC shall have instituted proceedings under ERISA Section 4042 to terminate or appoint a trustee to administer any Plan or the PBGC shall have notified any Issuer or ERISA Affiliate that a Plan may become a subject of any such proceedings, (iii) the aggregate "amount of unfunded benefit liabilities" (within the meaning of Section 4001(a)(18) of ERISA) under all Plans, determined in accordance with Title IV of ERISA, shall exceed U.S. $2,000,000, (iv) any Issuer or ERISA Affiliate shall have incurred or is reasonably expected to incur any liability pursuant to Title I or IV of ERISA or the penalty or excise tax provisions of the Code relating to employee benefit plans, (v) any Issuer or ERISA Affiliate withdraws from any Multiemployer Plan, (vi) any Issuer or Restricted Subsidiary establishes or amends any employee welfare benefit plan that provides post-employment welfare benefits in a manner that would increase the liability of such Issuer or Restricted Subsidiary thereunder, or (vii) any Issuer or Restricted Subsidiary terminates or winds up any Non-U.S. Pension Plan in a manner which could result in the imposition of a Lien on any property of such Issuer or Restricted Subsidiary pursuant to or Applicable Law; and any such event or events described in clauses (i) through (vii) above, either individually or together with any other such event or events, could reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect. As used in this clause (l), the terms "employee benefit plan" and "employee welfare benefit plan" shall have the respective meanings assigned to such terms in Section 3 of ERISA; or

(m) an event of default under any Senior Debt Security shall have occurred and be continuing.

12. REMEDIES ON DEFAULT, ETC.

12.1 Acceleration

(a) If an Event of Default with respect to any Issuer described in paragraphs 11(g), 11(h) or 11(i) (other than an Event of Default described in clause (i) of Section 11(g) insofar as it pertains to such Issuer generally not paying its debts or meeting its liabilities as the same become due, or admitting in writing its inability to pay its debts generally, or described in Section 11(i) by virtue of the fact that such clause encompasses such portion of clause (i) of Section 11(g)) has occurred, all the Notes then outstanding shall automatically become immediately due and payable;

(b) If any other Event of Default has occurred and is continuing, any holder or holders of at least 51% in principal amount of the Notes at the time outstanding may at any time at its or their option, by notice to the Issuers, declare all of the Notes then outstanding to be immediately due and payable;

(c) If any Event of Default described in paragraphs (a) or (b) of Section 11 has occurred and is continuing, any holder or holders of Notes at the time outstanding affected by such Event of Default may at any time, at its or their option, by notice or notices to the applicable Issuer, declare all of the Notes held by it or them to be immediately due and payable.

Upon any Notes becoming due and payable under this Section 12.1, whether automatically or by declaration, such Notes will forthwith mature and the entire unpaid principal amount of such Notes, plus (x) all accrued and unpaid interest thereon and (y) the Make-Whole Amount determined in respect of such principal amount (to the full extent permitted by Applicable Law), shall all be immediately due and payable, in each and every case without presentment, demand, protest or further notice, all of which are hereby waived.

The Issuers acknowledge, and the parties hereto agree, that each holder of a Note has the right to maintain its investment in the Notes free from repayment by the Issuers (except as herein specifically provided for) and that the provision for payment of a Make-Whole Amount by an Issuer in the event that the Notes are prepaid or are accelerated as a result of an Event of Default, is intended to provide compensation for the deprivation of such right under such circumstances.

At any time during the existence of an Event of Default and for so long as the Collateral Agency Agreement is in effect, the holders of Notes shall be entitled to commence and pursue enforcement actions under and in accordance with the Collateral Agency Agreement.

12.2 Other Remedies

If any Default or Event of Default has occurred and is continuing, and irrespective of whether any Notes have become or have been declared immediately due and payable under Section 12.1, the holder of any Note at the time outstanding may proceed to protect and enforce the rights of such holder by an action at law, suit in equity or other appropriate proceeding, whether for the specific performance of any agreement contained herein or in any Note, or for an injunction against a violation of any of the terms hereof or thereof, or in aid of the exercise of any power granted hereby or thereby or by law or otherwise.

12.3 Rescission

At any time after any Notes have been declared due and payable pursuant to clause (b) or (c) of Section 12.1, the holders of at least 55% in principal amount of the Notes then outstanding, by written notice to the applicable Issuer, may rescind and annul any such declaration and its consequences if:

(a) the Issuers have paid all overdue interest on the Notes, all principal of and Make-Whole Amount, if any, on any Notes that are due and payable and are unpaid other than by reason of such declaration, and all interest on such overdue principal and Make-Whole Amount, if any, and (to the extent permitted by applicable law) any overdue interest in respect of the Notes, at the Default Rate;

(b) all Events of Default and Defaults, other than non-payment of amounts that have become due solely by reason of such declaration, have been cured or have been waived pursuant to Section 18; and

(c) no judgment or decree has been entered for the payment of any monies due pursuant hereto or to the Notes.

No rescission and annulment under this Section 12.3 will extend to or affect any subsequent Event of Default or Default or impair any right consequent thereon.

12.4 No Waivers or Election of Remedies, Expenses, etc.

No course of dealing and no delay on the part of any holder of any Note in exercising any right, power or remedy shall operate as a waiver thereof or otherwise prejudice such holder's rights, powers or remedies. No right, power or remedy conferred by this Agreement or by any Note upon any holder thereof shall be exclusive of any other right, power or remedy referred to herein or therein or now or hereafter available at law, in equity, by statute or otherwise. Without limiting the obligations of the Issuers under Section 16, the applicable Issuer will pay to the holder of each of such Issuer's Notes on demand such further amount as shall be sufficient to cover all costs and expenses of such holder incurred in any enforcement or collection under this Section 12, including reasonable legal fees, expenses and disbursements.

13.1 Security

To secure the due and punctual payment of principal and interest on the Notes, the Make-Whole Amount and all other amounts owing, outstanding and payable under the Note Documents, each Issuer acknowledges and confirms that the documents and instruments set forth in Schedule 13.1 (collectively, and as added to or amended from time to time pursuant to the provisions of this Agreement, the "Senior Debt Security") have been, or will be, as the case may be, executed and delivered to the Collateral Agent for the benefit of, among others as provided in the Collateral Agency Agreement, all holders of Notes, as and by way of continuing collateral security.

In addition, each Issuer shall cause to be executed and delivered:

(a) with respect to any Subsidiary Guarantor hereafter established (but only if the Notes are then secured), a floating charge debenture of such Subsidiary Guarantor granting a Lien on all of its present and after-acquired real and personal property and a pledge agreement in respect of each such debenture; and

(b) such other assignments, mortgages, charges, pledges and other security agreements, consents and acknowledgements (including negative pledges) as may be delivered pursuant to the Bank Facilities from time to time.

Each Issuer shall keep and maintain, or cause to be kept and maintained as applicable, the Senior Debt Security in full force and effect for so long as any amounts are owing under the Note Documents.

13.2 Continuing Security

Each item or part of the Senior Debt Security shall for all purposes be treated as a separate and continuing collateral security and shall be deemed to have been given in addition to and not in place of any other item or part of the Senior Debt Security or any other security now held or hereafter acquired by or for the benefit of any Secured Party. No item or part of the Senior Debt Security shall be merged or be deemed to have been merged in or by this Agreement or any other Note Document or any documents, instruments or acknowledgements delivered hereunder or thereunder, any simple contract debt or any judgment and any realization of or steps taken under or pursuant to any security, instrument or agreement shall be independent of and not create a merger with any other right available to any Secured Party under any security, instruments or agreements held by such Secured Party or at law or in equity.

13.3 Dealing with Security

The Secured Parties may grant extensions of time or other indulgences, take and give securities (including the Senior Debt Security or any part thereof), accept compositions, grant releases and discharges and otherwise deal with the Issuer Parties and other parties and with securities (including the Senior Debt Security and each part thereof) as such Secured Parties may see fit, and may apply all moneys received from realization on the Senior Debt Security upon such part of the liabilities of the Issuer Parties under the Note Documents, as applicable, as such holders may think best, without prejudice to or in any way limiting the liability of any Issuer Party.

13.4 Effectiveness

The Senior Debt Security hereby contemplated or required to be created shall be effective, and the undertakings as to the security herein or in any document hereunder shall be continuing, whether the moneys hereby or thereby secured or any part thereof shall be advanced before or after or at the same time as the creation of any such Senior Debt Security or before or after or upon the date of execution of any amendments to this Agreement or any other Note Document.

13.5 Conflict

In the event of any conflict between the terms of this Agreement and the Senior Debt Security, the provisions of this Agreement shall prevail as between the Issuer Parties and the holders of the Notes to the extent necessary to remove such conflict.

13.6 Permitted Encumbrances and Debt

None of:

(a) the fact that any Issuer or Subsidiary Guarantor is permitted to create, assume or suffer to exist any Debt or Permitted Encumbrance;

(b) the fact that any representation, warranty or covenant herein may make an exception for the existence of any Debt or Permitted Encumbrance; or

(c) the fact that the Liens created pursuant to the Senior Debt Security may be stated to be subject to, or are not required to rank in priority to, Permitted Encumbrances;

shall, in and of themselves, in any manner, nor in any cause or proceeding, directly or indirectly, be taken to constitute a subordination of any Lien created pursuant to the Senior Debt Security to any Permitted Encumbrance, it being the intention of the parties that all Liens created pursuant to the Senior Debt Security shall at all times rank as first priority Liens (subject to the provisions of the Collateral Agency Agreement and also subject to any Permitted Liens which rank in priority under Applicable Law) in priority to all other Permitted Encumbrances unless the Collateral Agent holding the Senior Debt Security, with the written consent of the holders of $66^2/_3\%$ or more of the outstanding principal amount of the Notes, delivers a subordination or postponement agreement to that effect in accordance with the provisions of the Collateral Agency Agreement.

13.7 British Columbia Land Title Act

For all purposes, including any application to register a crystallized floating charge under the Land Title Act (British Columbia) against any real property, the floating charge created by the Senior Debt Security shall be crystallized and become a fixed charge upon the earliest of:

(a) the occurrence of an event described in Section 11(g), 11(h), or 11(i) hereof; or

(b) the holders of the Notes making any declaration for payment pursuant to Section 12.1 hereof, unless the Required Holders otherwise state at that time; or

(c) the Secured Parties taking any action pursuant to the Senior Debt Security to enforce and realize upon any of the Liens created by the Senior Debt Security;

and in any event upon the appointment by the Secured Parties of a receiver or receiver-manager pursuant to the Senior Debt Security.

13.8 Waiver of Saskatchewan Legislation

Each of the Issuers covenants and agrees with the holders of the Notes that:

(a) the Land Contracts (Actions) Act (Saskatchewan) shall have no application to any action, as in such Act defined, with respect to any mortgage created by the Senior Debt Security; and

(b) the Limitation of Civil Rights (Saskatchewan) shall have no application to:

(i) the Senior Debt Security;

(ii) any indenture, instrument or agreement entered into by any Issuer or Subsidiary Guarantor at any time hereafter, supplemental or ancillary to or in implementation of the Senior Debt Security and involving the payment by any Issuer Party or Subsidiary Guarantor of money, or the liability of any Issuer Party or Subsidiary Guarantor to pay money;

(iii) any mortgage, charge or other security for the payment of money made, given or created by the Senior Debt Security or by any indenture, instrument or agreement referred to or mentioned in paragraph (b)(ii);

(iv) any instrument or agreement entered into by any Issuer Party or Subsidiary Guarantor at any time hereafter, renewing or extending or supplementary to the Senior Debt Security or renewing or extending or supplementary to any indenture, instrument or agreement referred to or mentioned in paragraph (b)(ii), or renewing or extending supplementary collateral to any mortgage, charge or other security referred to or mentioned in paragraph (b)(iii); or

(v) the rights, powers, or remedies of the holders of the Notes or any one or more of them under the Senior Debt Security or under any mortgage, charge, other security, indenture, instrument or agreement referred to or mentioned in paragraphs (b)(i) to (iv), inclusive.

13.9 Composite Mortgage

Each item of the Senior Debt Security is a composite mortgage and security agreement covering the property of the applicable Issuer or Subsidiary Guarantor located in the various Provinces of Canada and elsewhere and, as to portions of the property located in such separate jurisdictions, each item of the Senior Debt Security shall be a separate mortgage and security agreement enforceable against the applicable Issuer or Subsidiary Guarantor without regard to the application of the Senior Debt Security to portions of the property of the applicable Issuer or Subsidiary Guarantor located in other jurisdictions. All provisions thereof shall be applicable separately to the portions of the property located in each separate jurisdiction with the same effect as if a separate mortgage and security agreement with respect thereto had been executed and delivered.

13.10 Release of Senior Debt Security

The holders of Notes agree that forthwith following 30 days after receipt from each Issuer of an Officer's Certificate certifying that:

(a) the lenders under the Bank Facilities, and all other holders of Debt secured by the Senior Debt Security, have agreed to release all of the Senior Debt Security concurrently with the holders of Notes; and

(b) no Event of Default or Default exists or will exist after giving effect hereto;

the holders of Notes will release and discharge the mortgages, charges and security interests created by the Senior Debt Security unless, within such 30 day period, a Default or Event of Default exists. If such mortgages, charges and security are released pursuant to this Section, the holders of the Notes and the Issuers agree that this Agreement shall be deemed to be amended to give effect to such release and to delete all references to such security herein and in all covenants and obligations of the Issuers with respect thereto. For certainty, nothing in this Section shall require the termination of any item of security which does not create a mortgage, charge or security interest, including the Subordination Agreements and the Senior Debt Guarantees.

If the lenders under the Bank Facilities and the other holders of Senior Debt secured by the Senior Debt Security have agreed to release all of the Senior Debt Security subject to certain conditions, or in exchange for additional assurances, or for other consideration, the benefit of such conditions, assurances or other consideration shall also be extended for the benefit of the holders of Notes on an equivalent basis, and the obligation of such holders to release the Senior Debt Security under this clause shall be subject to their receipt thereof.

13.11 Registrations and Renewals

The Issuers shall and shall cause each other applicable Issuer Group Entity to, at the Issuers' sole cost and expense, do all such acts, execute all such instruments and provide such further assurances as special counsel to the Collateral Agent may reasonably request to ensure that the priority of the Security Interests created by all of the Senior Debt Security delivered to the Collateral Agent as contemplated hereby is duly protected and perfected by registration, filing or recordation of such Senior Debt Security or a caution, caveat, security notice or other appropriate instrument at all offices where necessary (and consistent with the requirements of the lenders under the Bank Facilities) to the protection or perfection thereof; and to so cooperate with the Collateral Agent and the Collateral Agent's special counsel in renewing or refiling any registration, filing or recordation required hereby in order to preserve, protect and maintain the priority of such Security Interest, from time to time.

14. REGISTRATION; EXCHANGE; SUBSTITUTION OF NOTES

14.1 Registration of Notes

Each Issuer shall keep at its principal executive office a register for the registration and registration of transfers of its Notes. The name and address of each holder of one or more Notes, each transfer thereof and the name and address of each transferee of one or more Notes shall be registered in such register. Prior to due presentment for registration of transfer, the Person in whose name any Note shall be registered shall be deemed and treated as the owner and holder thereof for all purposes hereof, and the applicable Issuer shall not be affected by any notice or knowledge to the contrary. The Issuers shall give to any holder of a Note that is an Institutional Investor promptly upon request therefor, a complete and correct copy of the names and addresses of all registered holders of Notes.

14.2 Transfer and Exchange of Notes

Upon surrender of any Note at the principal executive office of the applicable Issuer for registration of transfer or exchange (and in the case of a surrender for registration of transfer, duly endorsed or accompanied by a written instrument of transfer duly executed by the registered holder of such Note or his attorney duly authorized in writing and accompanied by the address for notices of each transferee of such Note or part thereof), such Issuer shall execute and deliver, at such Issuer's expense (except as provided below), one or more new Notes (as requested by the holder thereof) in exchange therefor, in an aggregate principal amount equal to the unpaid principal amount of the surrendered Note. Each such new Note shall be payable to such Person as such holder may request and shall be substantially in the form of Exhibit 1-A (in the case of U.S. Notes) or in the form of Exhibit 1-B (in the case of Canadian Notes). Each such new Note shall be dated and bear interest from the date to which interest shall have been paid on the surrendered Note or dated the date of the surrendered Note if no interest shall have been paid thereon. The respective Issuer may require payment of a sum sufficient to cover any stamp tax or governmental charge imposed in respect of any such transfer of Notes. Notes shall not be transferred in denominations of less than CDN. $250,000, provided that if necessary to enable the registration of transfer by a holder of its entire holding of Notes, a Note may be in a denomination less than such amounts.

Any transferee of a Note, or purchaser of a participation therein, shall, by its acceptance of such Note be deemed to make the same representations to the applicable Issuer regarding the Note or participation as the Purchasers have made pursuant to Section 6, provided that such entity may (in reliance upon information provided by the Issuers, which shall not be unreasonably withheld) make a representation to the effect that the purchase by such entity of any Note will not constitute a non-exempt prohibited transaction under Section 406(a) of ERISA.

14.3 Replacement of Notes

Upon receipt by any Issuer of evidence reasonably satisfactory to it of the ownership of and the loss, theft, destruction or mutilation of any of its Notes (which evidence shall be, in the case of an Institutional Investor, notice from such Institutional Investor of such ownership and such loss, theft, destruction or mutilation), and

(a) in the case of loss, theft or destruction, of indemnity reasonably satisfactory to it (provided that if the holder of such Note is, or is a nominee for, an original Purchaser or another holder of a Note with a minimum net worth of at least U.S. $25,000,000 (or its equivalent in any other currency), such Person's own unsecured agreement of indemnity shall be deemed to be satisfactory); or

(b) in the case of mutilation, upon surrender and cancellation thereof;

such Issuer at its own expense shall execute and deliver, in lieu thereof, a new Note, dated and bearing interest from the date to which interest shall have been paid on such lost, stolen, destroyed or mutilated Note or dated the date of such lost, stolen, destroyed or mutilated Note if no interest shall have been paid thereon.

15. PAYMENTS ON NOTES

15.1 Place of Payment

Subject to Section 15.2, payments of principal, Make-Whole Amount, if any, and interest becoming due and payable on the Notes shall be made in Calgary, Alberta at the principal office of the applicable Issuer in such jurisdiction. The applicable Issuer may at any time, by notice to each holder of a Note, change the place of payment of the Notes so long as such place of payment shall be either the principal office of such Issuer in such jurisdiction or the principal office of a bank or trust company in such jurisdiction.

15.2 Home Office Payment

So long as a Purchaser or its nominee shall be the holder of any Note, and notwithstanding anything contained in Section 15.1 or in such Note to the contrary, the applicable Issuer will pay (or cause its agent to pay) all sums becoming due on such Note for principal, Make-Whole Amount, if any, and interest by the method and at the address specified for such purpose below such Purchaser's or nominee's name in Schedule A, or by such other method or at such other address as such Purchaser shall have from time to time specified to the respective Issuer in writing for such purpose, without the presentation or surrender of such Note or the making of any notation thereon, except that upon written request of such Issuer made concurrently with or reasonably promptly after payment or prepayment in full of any Note, such Purchaser shall surrender such Note for cancellation, reasonably promptly after any such request, to such Issuer at its principal executive office or at the place of payment most recently designated by such Issuer pursuant to Section 15.1. Prior to any sale or other disposition of any Note held by a Purchaser or its nominee such Purchaser will, at its election, either endorse thereon the amount of principal paid thereon and the last date to which interest has been paid thereon or surrender such Note to the applicable Issuer in exchange for a new Note or Notes pursuant to Section 14.2. The applicable Issuer will afford the benefits of this Section 15.2 to any Institutional Investor that is the direct or indirect transferee of any Note purchased by a Purchaser under this Agreement and that has made the same agreement relating to such Note as such Purchaser has made in this Section 15.2.

16. EXPENSES, ETC.

16.1 Transaction Expenses

Whether or not the transactions contemplated hereby are consummated, the Issuers will pay all reasonable costs and expenses (including reasonable attorneys' fees of a special counsel and, if reasonably required, local or other counsel) incurred by the Purchasers and any other holder of a Note in connection with such transactions and in connection with any amendments, waivers or consents under or in respect of the Note Documents (whether or not such amendment, waiver or consent becomes effective), including:

(a) the reasonable costs and expenses incurred in enforcing or defending (or determining whether or how to enforce or defend) any rights under the Note Documents or in responding to any subpoena or other legal process or informal investigative demand issued in connection with the Note Documents, or by reason of being a holder of any Note;

(b) the reasonable costs and expenses, including financial advisors' fees, incurred in connection with the insolvency or bankruptcy of an Issuer Party or Restricted Subsidiary or in connection with any work-out or restructuring of the transactions contemplated by the Note Documents; and

(c) the reasonable cost and expenses incurred in connection with the initial filing of any Note Document, all related documents and financial information, all subsequent annual and interim filings of documents and financial information related hereto with the Securities Valuation Office of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners or any successor organization succeeding to the authority thereof.

The Issuers will pay, and will save each Purchaser and each other holder of a Note harmless from, all claims in respect of any fees, costs or expenses, if any, of brokers and finders (other than those retained by any such Purchaser or holder). In addition, the Issuers agree to pay all stamp, documentary or similar taxes which may be payable in respect of the execution and delivery or the enforcement of the Note Documents, and will save each holder of a Note to the extent permitted by applicable law harmless against any loss or liability resulting from non-payment or delay in payment of any such tax required to be paid by the Issuer Group Entity hereunder.

16.2 Survival

The obligations of the Issuers under this Section 16 will survive the payment or transfer of any Note, the enforcement, amendment or waiver of any provision of this Agreement or the Notes, and the termination of this Agreement.

17. SURVIVAL OF REPRESENTATIONS AND WARRANTIES; ENTIRE AGREEMENT

All representations and warranties contained herein shall survive the execution and delivery of this Agreement and the Notes, the purchase or transfer by a Purchaser of its Notes or portion thereof or interest therein and the payment of any Note, and may be relied upon by any subsequent holder of a Note, regardless of any investigation made at any time by or on behalf of any Purchaser or any other holder of a Note. All statements contained in any certificate or other instrument delivered by or on behalf of any Issuer pursuant to this Agreement shall be deemed representations and warranties of such Issuer under this Agreement. Subject to the preceding sentence, the Note Documents embody the entire agreement and understanding between the Purchasers and the Issuers and supersede all prior agreements and understandings relating to the subject matter hereof.

18. AMENDMENT AND WAIVER

18.1 Requirements

This Agreement and the Notes may be amended, and the observance of any term hereof or of the Notes may be waived (either retroactively or prospectively), with (and only with) the written consent of the Issuers and the Required Holders, except that (a) no amendment or waiver of any of the provisions of Sections 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 or 22 hereof, or any defined term (as it is used therein), will be effective as to any Purchaser unless consented to by such Purchaser in writing, and (b) no such amendment or waiver may, without the written consent of the holder of each Note at the time outstanding affected thereby, (i) subject to the provisions of Section 12 relating to acceleration or rescission, change the amount or time of any prepayment or payment of principal of, or reduce the rate or change the time of payment or method of computation of interest or of the Make-Whole Amount on, the Notes, (ii) change the percentage of the principal amount of the Notes the holders of which are required to consent to any such amendment or waiver, or (iii) amend any of Sections 8, 11(a), 11(b), 12, 13, 18 or 21, or amend or release any Subordination Agreement (subject to Section 9.9), any Senior Debt Guarantee (subject to Section 9.8) or any Senior Debt Security (subject to Section 13.10).

18.2 Solicitation of holders of Notes

(a) The Issuers will provide each holder of the Notes (irrespective of the amount of Notes then owned by it) with sufficient information, sufficiently far in advance of the date a decision is required, to enable such holder to make an informed and considered decision with respect to any proposed amendment, waiver or consent in respect of any of the provisions hereof or of the Notes. The Issuers will deliver executed or true and correct copies of each amendment, waiver or consent effected pursuant to the provisions of this Section 18 to each holder of outstanding Notes promptly following the date on which it is executed and delivered by, or receives the consent or approval of, the requisite holders of Notes;

(b) The Issuers will not directly or indirectly pay or cause to be paid any remuneration, whether by way of supplemental or additional interest, fee or otherwise, or grant any security, to any holder of Notes as consideration for or as an inducement to the entering into by any holder of Notes or any waiver or amendment of any of the terms and provisions hereof unless such remuneration is concurrently paid, or security is concurrently granted, on the same terms, ratably to each holder of Notes then outstanding even if such holder did not consent to such waiver or amendment.

18.3 Binding Effect, etc.

Any amendment or waiver consented to as provided in this Section 18 applies equally to all holders of Notes and is binding upon them and upon each future holder of any Note and upon the Issuers without regard to whether such Note has been marked to indicate such amendment or waiver. No such amendment or waiver will extend to or affect any obligation, covenant, agreement, Default or Event of Default not expressly amended or waived or impair any right consequent thereon. No course of dealing between an Issuer and the holder of any Note nor any delay in exercising any rights hereunder or under any Note shall operate as a waiver of any rights of any holder of such Note. As used herein, the term "this Agreement" and references thereto shall mean this Agreement as it may from time to time be amended or supplemented.

18.4 Notes held by Issuers, etc.

Solely for the purpose of determining whether the holders of the requisite percentage of the aggregate principal amount of Notes then outstanding approved or consented to any amendment, waiver or consent to be given under this Agreement or the Notes, or have directed the taking of any action provided herein or in the Notes to be taken upon the direction of the holders of a specified percentage of the aggregate principal amount of Notes then outstanding, Notes directly or indirectly owned by any Issuer or any of its Affiliates shall be deemed not to be outstanding.

19. NOTICES

All notices and communications provided for hereunder shall be in writing and sent (a) by telecopy if the sender on the same day sends a confirming copy of such notice by a recognized overnight delivery service (charges prepaid), or (b) by registered or certified mail with return receipt requested (postage prepaid), or (c) by a recognized overnight delivery service (with charges prepaid). Any such notice must be sent:

(i) if to a Purchaser or its nominee, to such Purchaser or nominee at the address specified for such communications in Schedule A, or at such other address as it shall have specified to the Issuers in writing;

(ii) if to any other holder of any Note, to such holder at such address as such other holder shall have specified to the Issuers in writing; or

(iii) if to any Issuer, to such Issuer at its address set forth at the beginning hereof or at such other address as such Issuer shall have specified to the holder of each Note in writing.

Notices under this Section 19 will be deemed given only when actually received.

20. REPRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS

This Agreement and all documents relating thereto, including (a) consents, waivers and modifications that may hereafter be executed, (b) documents received by the Purchasers at the Closing (except the Notes themselves), and (c) financial statements, certificates and other information previously or hereafter furnished to the Purchasers, may be reproduced by the Purchasers by any photographic, photostatic, microfilm, microcard, miniature photographic or other similar process and the Purchasers may destroy any original document so reproduced. Each of the Issuers agrees and stipulates that, to the extent permitted by applicable law, any such reproduction shall be admissible in evidence as the original itself in any judicial or administrative proceeding (whether or not the original is in existence and whether or not such reproduction was made by a Purchaser in the regular course of business) and any enlargement, facsimile or further reproduction of such reproduction shall likewise be admissible in evidence. This Section 20 shall not prohibit an Issuer or any other holder of Notes from contesting any such reproduction to the same extent that it could contest the original, or from introducing evidence to demonstrate the inaccuracy of any such reproduction.

21. CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION

Each holder of a Note, by its acceptance of a Note, will be deemed to have agreed to be bound by and to be entitled to the benefits of this Section 21 as though it were a party to this Agreement. On reasonable request by the Issuers in connection with the delivery to any holder of a Note of information required to be delivered to such holder under this Agreement or requested by such holder (other than a holder that is a party to this Agreement or its nominee), such holder will enter into an agreement with the Issuers embodying, or confirming, the provisions of this Section 21.

22. SUBSTITUTION OF PURCHASER

Each Purchaser shall have the right to substitute any one of its Affiliates as the purchaser of the Notes that it has agreed to purchase hereunder, by written notice to the applicable Issuer, which notice shall be signed by both such Purchaser and such Affiliate, shall contain such Affiliate's agreement to be bound by this Agreement and shall contain a confirmation by such Affiliate of the accuracy with respect to it of the representations set forth in Section 6. Upon receipt of such notice, wherever the word "Purchaser" is used in this Agreement (other than in this Section 22), such word shall be deemed to refer to such Affiliate. In the event that such Affiliate is so substituted as a purchaser hereunder and such Affiliate thereafter transfers to the Purchaser all of the Notes then held by such Affiliate, upon receipt by the applicable Issuer of notice of such transfer, wherever the word "Purchaser" is used in this Agreement (other than in this section), such word shall no longer be deemed to refer to such Affiliate, but shall refer to such Purchaser, and such Purchaser shall have all the rights of an original holder of the Notes under this Agreement.

23. NOTE REPAYMENT NET OF WITHHOLDING IMPOSTS

(a) All payments by the Corporation under any U.S. Note, whether in respect of principal, Make-Whole Amount (if any), interest, interest on overdue interest, fees or any other payment obligations, shall be made in full without any deduction or withholding on account of taxes or duties of whatsoever nature imposed or levied by or on behalf of Canada or any Governmental Authority in Canada having power to tax unless the Corporation is prohibited by Applicable Law from doing so, in which event the Corporation shall:

(i) forthwith pay to the holder of each U.S. Note as additional interest on the principal amount of the U.S. Notes such additional amount (a "Tax Indemnity Amount") so that the net amount received by the holder after payment of such deductions and withholdings will equal the full amount which would have been received by it had no such deduction or withholding been made;

(ii) pay to the relevant taxation or other authorities within the period for payment permitted by Applicable Law the full amount of the deduction or withholding (including the full amount of any deduction or withholding from any additional amount paid pursuant to this paragraph (a)); and

(iii) furnish to the holder of each U.S. Note promptly, as soon as available, an official receipt of the relevant taxation or other authorities involved for all amounts deducted or withheld as aforesaid;

Any reference in this Agreement to principal, Make-Whole Amount, interest, interest on overdue interest, fees or any other payment obligation of the Corporation shall be deemed also to refer to any additional amounts payable pursuant to this paragraph (a);

(b) If as a result of any payment by the Corporation under any U.S. Note, whether in respect of principal, Make-Whole Amount (if any), interest, interest on overdue interest, fees or other payment obligations, any holder of a U.S. Note is required to pay tax under Part XIII of the Tax Act, then the Corporation will, upon demand by such holder of any U.S. Note, indemnify the holder of each U.S. Note for the payment of any such taxes, together with any interest, penalties and expenses in connection therewith. All such amounts shall be payable by the Corporation on demand and shall bear interest at the Default Rate calculated from the date demanded by such holder to the date paid by the Corporation;

(c) If, following any payment made by the Corporation to any holder of U.S. Notes under paragraph (a)(i) above or any indemnity payment made by the Corporation to any holder of U.S. Notes under paragraph (b) above, such holder shall determine in its sole discretion if it has received or has been granted a refund, credit, allowance or remission in respect of the taxes or duties resulting in the payment thereof and such holder is able to identify such refund, credit, allowance or remission as being attributable to such taxes or duties, such holder shall, to the extent that it can do so without prejudice to the retention of the amount of such refund, credit, allowance or remission and without prejudice to the right of such holder to obtain any other relief or allowance which may be available to it, reimburse the Corporation with such amount as such holder, acting reasonably, determines to be the amount of money attributable to such refund, credit, allowance or remission that may be paid by such holder to leave it (after such reimbursement) in no worse position than it would have been in had there been no such deduction or withholding or payment of tax which resulted in the payment under paragraph (a)(i) or (b) above. Such holder may charge to the Corporation (and may deduct from amounts reimbursable to the Corporation hereunder) a fee reasonably determined by such holder to compensate it for any additional effort expended or cost incurred in determining such credit or remission or allocating it to the Corporation. Notwithstanding the foregoing, no holder shall be obligated to disclose to the Corporation, or any of its agents, any computation made by such holder in connection with this paragraph 23(c) or any information regarding such holder's tax status or affairs;

(d) Notwithstanding the provisions of this Section 23, no Tax Indemnity Amounts shall be payable (i) to any holder of U.S. Notes which does not deal at arm's length (within the meaning of the Tax Act) with the Corporation; (ii) to any holder of the U.S. Notes which is liable for any Tax by reason of it being or having been connected to Canada for any reason or in any capacity other than solely as a holder of a U.S. Note; (iii) for or on account of any Tax that is imposed or withheld by reason of the failure of the holder to complete, execute and deliver to the Corporation any form or document to the extent applicable to such holder that may be required by law or by reason of administration of such law and which is reasonably requested in writing to be delivered by the Corporation in order to enable the Corporation to make payments on the U.S. Notes without deduction or withholding for taxes, assessments or governmental charges, or with deduction of withholding of a lesser amount, which form or document shall be delivered within 60 days of a written request therefor by the Corporation; provided that nothing in this clause shall require a holder to disclose confidential or proprietary information; or (iv) in the case where such holder is not a resident (within the meaning of the United States-Canada Income Tax Convention) of the United States of America, in excess of the amount which the Corporation would have been obligated to pay hereunder if such holder were resident in the United States of America for the purposes of such treaty; and

(e) For certainty, no Tax Indemnity Amounts shall be payable by the Issuers with respect to the Canadian Notes.

24. INTEREST

(a) In respect of any overdue amounts hereunder or under the Notes where no provision is made herein or therein for payment of interest thereon, the applicable Issuer shall pay interest on such overdue amounts on demand, calculated from the date such unpaid amount is due until such unpaid amount is paid in full, at the Default Rate;

(b) In no event shall any interest or fee to be paid hereunder or under a Note exceed the maximum rate permitted by Applicable Law. In the event any such interest rate or fee exceeds such maximum rate, such rate shall be adjusted downward to the highest rate (expressed as a percentage per annum) or fee that the parties could validly have agreed to by contract on the date hereof under Applicable Law. It is further agreed that any excess actually received by a holder of a Note shall be credited against the principal of the Notes (or, if the principal shall have been or would thereby be paid in full, the remaining amount shall be credited or paid to the applicable Issuer);

(c) All interest (including interest on overdue interest) payable by an Issuer hereunder and under the Notes shall accrue from day to day, computed as provided herein, and shall be payable after as well as before maturity, demand, default and judgment;

(d) Interest on the Notes shall be computed on the basis of a 360-day year of 12 30-day months. Solely for purposes of the Interest Act (Canada), the yearly rate of interest to which interest calculated for a period of less than one year on the basis of a year of 360 days consisting of 12 30-day periods is equivalent is such rate of interest multiplied by a fraction of which (i) the numerator is the product of (A) the actual number of days in the year commencing on the first day of such period, multiplied by (B) the sum of (y) the product of 30 multiplied by the number of complete months elapsed in such period and (z) the actual number of days elapsed in any incomplete month in such period; and (ii) the denominator is the product of (a) 360 multiplied by (b) the actual number of days in such period;

(e) The theory of "deemed reinvestment" shall not apply to the computation of interest and no allowance, reduction or deduction shall be made for the deemed reinvestment of interest in respect of any payments. Calculation of interest shall be made using the nominal rate method, and not the effective rate method, of calculation;

(f) To the extent permitted by law, Section 6 of the Judgment Interest Act (Alberta) is hereby waived and shall not apply to this Agreement or the Notes.

25. JUDGMENT CURRENCY

If, for the purposes of obtaining or enforcing judgment against an Issuer in any court, or for any other related purpose hereunder, it is necessary to convert an amount due under this Agreement or any Note in the currency in which it is due (the "Original Currency") into another currency (the "Second Currency"), the rate of exchange applicable shall be the daily noon day rate quoted by the Bank of Canada on the relevant date to purchase the Original Currency with the Second Currency and includes any premium and costs of exchange payable in connection with such purchase. Each Issuer agrees that its obligation in respect of any Original

Currency due from it shall, notwithstanding any judgment or payment in the Second Currency, be discharged only to the extent that on the Business Day following the receipt of any sum so paid or adjudged to be due hereunder in the Second Currency the payee may purchase in the market the Original Currency with the amount of the Second Currency so paid or so adjudicated to be due; and if the amount of the Original Currency so purchased is less than the amount originally due in the Original Currency, the applicable Issuer agrees that the deficiency shall be a separate obligation of it, independent from its obligations under this Agreement or any Note, and shall constitute in favour of the holders of Notes a cause of action which shall continue in full force and effect notwithstanding any such judgment or order to the contrary, and such Issuer agrees, notwithstanding any such payment or judgment, to indemnify the holders of Notes against any such loss or deficiency.

26. ENVIRONMENTAL INDEMNITY

The Issuers shall indemnify each holder of a Note and hold each holder of a Note harmless against any and all losses, costs, expenses, liabilities, actions, suits, claims or damages of any and every kind sustained, paid or incurred by any of them as a result of any environmental claims, liabilities or obligations of any and every nature whatsoever relating to or affecting the Issuer Parties and the Restricted Subsidiaries or the property of any of them ("their property"), or the property of others where an Issuer Party or Restricted Subsidiary could have any liability in respect thereof under Environmental Laws, or personal injury or death, including in respect of:

(a) any environmental harm or damage to or impairment of their property (or any other Person's property) caused by the presence or release of any Hazardous Materials on their property, or by any Issuer Party or Restricted Subsidiary, whether or not such presence or release was under control, care or management of a previous owner or of a tenant;

(b) any decrease or loss in value of their property (or any other Person's property) occasioned by non-compliance with Environmental Laws;

(c) the imposition or assertion of any Lien including any expenses collectable as taxes affecting their property under Environmental Laws by any Governmental Authority;

(d) any claim asserted or order issued by a Governmental Authority (including an enforcement order or an environmental protection order issued under the Environmental Protection and Enhancement Act (Alberta) or similar legislation thereto) against a holder of a Note or an agent of any of them in respect of any matter referred to in clauses (a), (b), or (c), or for any clean-up, restoration, well abandonment, reclamation or other securing or remedial action in respect of their property (or any other Person's property); or

(e) any non-compliance with any provision herein relating to environmental matters.

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the indemnities in this Section 26 shall extend to:

(a) legal fees on a solicitor and his own client basis, including the costs of defending and/or counter-claiming or claiming over against third parties in respect of any action or matter; and

(b) any amounts payable arising out of a settlement of any action entered into between any holder of a Note and any Person with or without the consent of the Issuers;

but shall not extend to any claim, liability or obligation to the extent the same arises solely due to the gross negligence or wilful misconduct of the holder of Notes claiming indemnification.

These indemnities shall extend to the officers, trustees, directors, employees, agents and assignees of each holder of a Note and the Issuers will hold the benefit of these indemnities in trust for such indemnified parties to the extent necessary to give effect hereto. The provisions of and undertakings and indemnification set out in this Section 26 shall survive the payment and satisfaction of the Notes.

Payments of principal of, interest on and any Make-Whole Amount with respect to this Note are to be made in lawful money of Canada in Calgary, Alberta or at such other place as the Corporation shall have designated by written notice to the holder of this Note as provided in the Note Purchase Agreements referred to below.

This Note is one of a series of Senior Secured Notes (herein called the "Notes") issued pursuant to the Note Purchase Agreement dated as of August 26, 2003 (as from time to time amended, the "Note Purchase Agreement"), between the Corporation, KeySpan Energy Canada Partnership and the respective Purchasers named therein and which Purchasers are entitled to the benefits thereof. Each holder of this Note will be deemed, by its acceptance hereof, (i) to have agreed to the confidentiality provisions set forth in Section 21 of the Note Purchase Agreement, and (ii) to have made the representations set forth in Section 6 of the Note Purchase Agreement. This Note is secured by the Senior Debt Security, the Partnership Guarantee and the Subsidiary Guarantees referred to in the Note Purchase Agreement.

This Note is a registered Note and, as provided in the Note Purchase Agreement, upon surrender of this Note for registration of transfer, duly endorsed, or accompanied by a written instrument of transfer duly executed, by the registered holder hereof or such holder's attorney duly authorized in writing, a new Note for a like principal amount will be issued to, and registered in the name of, the transferee. Prior to due presentment for registration of transfer, the Corporation may treat the person in whose name this Note is registered as the owner hereof for the purpose of receiving payment and for all other purposes, and the Corporation will not be affected by any notice to the contrary.

This Note is subject to optional pre-payment, in whole or from time to time in part, at the times and on the terms specified in the Note Purchase Agreement, but not otherwise.

If an Event of Default, as defined in the Note Purchase Agreement, occurs and is continuing, the principal of this Note may be declared or otherwise become due and payable in the manner, at the price (including any applicable Make-Whole Amount) and with the effect provided in the Note Purchase Agreements.

The Corporation and any and all endorsers, guarantors and sureties severally waive grace, demand, presentment for payment, notice of dishonour or default, notice of intent to accelerate, notice of acceleration (to the extent set forth in the Agreement), protest and diligence in collecting.

Should any indebtedness represented by this Note be collected at law or in equity, or in bankruptcy or other proceedings, or should this Note be placed in the hands of attorneys for collection, the Corporation agrees to pay, in addition to the principal, premium, if any, and interest due and payable hereon, all reasonable costs of collecting or attempting to collect this Note, including reasonable legal fees and expenses on a solicitor and his own client basis (including those incurred in connection with any appeal).

The Corporation, the Purchaser and the registered holder of this Note specifically intend and agree to limit contractually the amount of interest payable under this Note to the maximum amount of interest lawfully permitted to be charged under applicable law. Therefore, none of the terms of this Note shall ever be construed to create a contract to pay interest at a rate in excess of the maximum rate permitted to be charged under applicable law, and neither the Corporation nor any other party liable or to become liable hereunder shall ever be liable for interest in excess of the amount determined at such maximum rate, and the provisions of paragraph 24(b) of the Note Purchase Agreement shall control over any contrary provision of this Note.

Interest on this Note shall be computed on the basis of a 360-day year of 12 30-day months. Solely for purposes of the Interest Act (Canada), the yearly rate of interest to which interest calculated for a period of less than one year on the basis of a year of 360 days consisting of 12 30-day periods is equivalent is such rate of interest multiplied by a fraction of which (i) the numerator is the product of (A) the actual number of days in the year commencing on the first day of such period, multiplied by (B) the sum of (y) the product of 30 multiplied by the number of complete months elapsed in such period and (z) the actual number of days elapsed in any incomplete month in such period; and (ii) the denominator is the product of (a) 360 multiplied by (b) the actual number of days in such period. All interest payable by the Corporation hereunder shall accrue from day to day, computed as described herein and shall be payable after as well as before maturity, demand, default and judgment. The theory of "deemed reinvestment" shall not apply to the computation of interest hereunder and no allowance, reduction or deduction shall be made for the deemed reinvestment of interest in respect of any payments hereunder. Calculation of interest hereunder shall be made using the nominal rate method, and not the effective rate method, of calculation.

THIS NOTE IS INTENDED TO BE PERFORMED IN THE PROVINCE OF ALBERTA AND SHALL BE CONSTRUED AND ENFORCED IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE LAW OF SUCH PROVINCE. The Corporation hereby submits to the non-exclusive jurisdiction of the Courts of the Province of Alberta in connection herewith.

ARTICLE 4
PROTECTION OF HOLDERS OF U.S. NOTES

4.1 Defects in Creation of Guaranteed Obligations

No Noteholder shall be concerned to see or inquire into the capacity and powers of the Corporation or any partners, directors, officers, employees or agents acting or purporting to act on its or the Managing Partner's behalf. All obligations, liabilities and indebtedness purporting to be incurred by the Corporation in favour of the Noteholders shall be deemed to form part of the Guaranteed Obligations even though the Corporation may not be a legal entity or the incurring of such obligations, liabilities or indebtedness was irregularly, fraudulently, defectively or informally effected or in excess of the capacity or powers of the Corporation or any partners, directors, officers, employees or agents acting or purporting to act on its or the Managing Partner's behalf and notwithstanding that any Noteholder has specific notice of the capacity and powers of the Corporation or any partners, directors, officers, employees or agents acting or purporting to act on its or the Managing Partner's behalf.

4.2 Liability Absolute

This Guarantee shall be a continuing guarantee and the liability of the Guarantor hereunder shall be absolute, unconditional and irrevocable and shall not be discharged, diminished or in any way affected by:

(a) any amalgamation, merger, consolidation or reorganization of the Corporation or the Guarantor or any continuation of the Corporation or the Guarantor from the statute under which it now or hereafter exists to another statute whether under the laws of the same jurisdiction or another jurisdiction;

(b) any change in the name, business, objects, capital structure, ownership, constating documents, by-laws, partnership agreements or resolutions of the Corporation or the Guarantor, as the case may be, including without limitation any transaction (whether by way of transfer, sale or otherwise) whereby all or any part of the undertaking, property and assets of the Corporation or the Guarantor becomes the property of any other Person;

(c) any lack of validity, enforceability or value of any U.S. Note, any other Note Document or any other agreement or instrument relating thereto or to any security therefor;

(d) any change in the time, manner or place of payment of, or in any other term of any U.S. Note, any other Note Document or any amendment or waiver thereof, or any consent to departure from any Note Document;

(e) any taking, exchange, release or non-perfection of any security, or any release or amendment or waiver of or consent to departure from any other guarantee for any U.S. Note or other Note Document;

(f) any manner of application of any security or proceeds of realization thereof, or any manner of sale or other disposition of any collateral or any other assets of the Corporation or the Guarantor;

(g) the voluntary or involuntary bankruptcy, insolvency, liquidation or dissolution of the Corporation or the Guarantor, or any other Person, and the occurrence of any other proceeding as a result of such bankruptcy or insolvency;

(h) any amendment or modification of or supplement to or other change in any U.S. Note or other Note Document;

(i) any failure, omission or delay on the part of any Person to conform or comply with any term of any U.S. Note or other Note Document;

(j) to the extent as may be waived under applicable law, the benefit of all principles or provisions of law, statutory or otherwise, which may be in conflict with the terms hereof; or which shall delay, interfere with, hinder or present, or in any way adversely affect, the performance by the Corporation or the Guarantor in its respective obligations under or in respect of the U.S. Notes or this Guarantee;

(k) any failure or lack of diligence in collection or protection, failure in presentment or demand from payment, protest, notice of protest, notice of default and of nonpayment, any failure to give notice to the Guarantor of failure of the Corporation to keep and perform any obligation, covenant or agreement under the terms of the U.S. Notes or this Guarantee;

(l) any attachment, claim, demand, charge, Lien, order, process encumbrance or any other happening or event or reason, similar or dissimilar to the foregoing, or any withholding or diminution at the source, by reason of any taxes, assessments, expenses, debt, obligations, or liabilities of any character, foreseen or unforeseen, and whether or not valid, incurred by or against either or the Corporation or the Guarantor or any claims, demands, charges or liens of any nature, foreseen or unforeseen, incurred by either the Corporation or the Guarantor, or against any sums payable in respect of the U.S. Notes or this Guarantee, so that such sums would be rendered inadequate or would be unavailable to make the payments herein provided; or

(m) any other circumstance which might otherwise constitute in whole or in part a defence available to, or a discharge of, the Guarantor, the Corporation or any other Person in respect of the Guaranteed Obligations or the liability of the Guarantor;

provided that the specific enumeration of the above-mentioned acts, failures or omissions shall not be deemed to exclude any other acts, failure or omissions, though not specifically mentioned above, it being the purpose and intent of this Guarantee and the parties hereto that the obligations of the Guarantor shall be absolute and unconditional and shall not be discharged, impaired or varied except by the payment of the Guaranteed Obligations and Indemnified Amounts whenever the same shall become due and payable.

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Guarantor agrees that repeated and successive demands may be made and recoveries may be had hereunder as and when, from time to time, there shall be an Event of Default under or with respect to any U.S. Note and that notwithstanding the recovery hereunder for or in respect thereof, this Guarantee shall remain in force and effect and shall apply to each and every subsequent Event of Default. If (i) an event permitting the exercise of remedies under any U.S. Note, as the case may be, shall at any time have occurred and be continuing and (ii) such exercise, or any consequences thereof provided in any U.S. Note, as the case may be, shall at any time be prevented by reason of the pendency against the Corporation of a Proceeding, the Guarantor agrees that, solely for purposes of this Guarantee and its obligations hereunder, such U.S. Note shall be deemed to have been declared in default and all amounts thereunder shall be deemed to be immediately due and payable, with all the attendant consequences as provided in such agreement as if declaration of default and the consequence thereof had been accomplished in accordance with the terms thereof, and the Guarantor shall forthwith pay and perform the Guaranteed Obligations.

4.3 Dealings by the Noteholders

The Noteholders may from time to time in their absolute discretion, without discharging, diminishing or in any way affecting the liability of the Guarantor hereunder:

(a) permit any increase or decrease, however significant, of the Guaranteed Obligations or supplement, amend, restate or substitute, in whole or in part, however significant, the Guaranteed Obligations, any U.S. Note or other Note Document or any other agreement relating to any of the foregoing or, in whole or in part demand payment of all or any Guaranteed Obligations and/or the Indemnified Amounts;

(b) enforce or take action under or abstain from enforcing or taking action under any U.S. Note or other Note Document or any other guarantee of the Guaranteed Obligations or indemnity of the Indemnified Amounts;

(c) receive, give up, subordinate, release or discharge any security; supplement, amend, restate, substitute, renew, abstain from renewing, perfect or abstain from perfecting or maintaining the perfection of any security; enforce, take action under or realize in any manner or abstain from enforcing, taking action under or realizing any security; deal with or abstain from dealing with all or any part of the undertaking, property and assets subject to any security; or allow or abstain from allowing the Corporation or other Persons to deal with all or any part of such undertaking, property and assets;

(d) renew all or any part of the Guaranteed Obligations or grant extensions of time or any other indulgences to the Corporation or to any other guarantor or other Person liable directly or indirectly for all or any part of the Guaranteed Obligations or Indemnified Amounts;

(g) agree with the Corporation, any other guarantor or any other Person to do anything described in paragraphs (i) to (vi) above;

whether or not any of the matters described in paragraphs (i) to (vii) above occur alone or in connection with one or more other such matters.

No loss of or in respect of any security for the Guaranteed Obligations, the Indemnified Amounts or any part thereof, whether occasioned through the fault of any Noteholder or otherwise, shall discharge, diminish or in any way affect the liability of the Guarantor hereunder. Neither the Noteholders nor any of their directors, officers, employees or agents or any receiver or receiver-manager appointed by any of them or by a court shall have any liability, whether in tort, contract or otherwise, for any neglect or any act taken or omitted to be taken by them in connection with the Guaranteed Obligations or the Indemnified Amounts or any part thereof or any security for the Guaranteed Obligations or the Indemnified Amounts or any part thereof, including without limitation any of the matters described above in this Section 4.3.

4.4 Waiver of Notice

To the extent permitted by applicable law, the Guarantor expressly waives any right to receive notice of the existence or creation of all or any of the Guaranteed Obligations or the Indemnified Amounts and presentment, demand, notice of dishonour, protest, notice of any of the events or circumstances described in Sections 4.1, 4.2 or 4.3 and all other notices whatsoever in respect of the Guaranteed Obligations or the Indemnified Amounts. The Guarantor hereby acknowledges receipt of copies of the Note Documents and all guarantees and other documents referred to in the Note Purchase Agreement and of all the provisions therein contained and consents to and approves the same.

Such Noteholder may charge to the Guarantor (and may deduct from amounts reimbursable to the Guarantor hereunder) a fee reasonably determined by such Noteholder to compensate it for any additional effort expended or cost incurred in determining such credit or remission or allocating it to the Guarantor. PROTECTION OF HOLDERS OF CANADIAN NOTES

No Noteholder shall be concerned to see or inquire into the capacity and powers of the Partnership or any partners, directors, officers, employees or agents acting or purporting to act on its or the Managing Partner's behalf. All obligations, liabilities and indebtedness purporting to be incurred by the Partnership in favour of the Noteholders shall be deemed to form part of the Guaranteed Obligations even though the Partnership may not be a legal entity or the incurring of such obligations, liabilities or indebtedness was irregularly, fraudulently, defectively or informally effected or in excess of the capacity or powers of the Partnership or any partners, directors, officers, employees or agents acting or purporting to act on its or the Managing Partner's behalf and notwithstanding that any Noteholder has specific notice of the capacity and powers of the Partnership or any partners, directors, officers, employees or agents acting or purporting to act on its or the Managing Partner's behalf.

4.2 Liability Absolute

This Guarantee shall be a continuing guarantee and the liability of the Guarantor hereunder shall be absolute, unconditional and irrevocable and shall not be discharged, diminished or in any way affected by:

(a) any amalgamation, merger, consolidation or reorganization of the Partnership or the Guarantor or any continuation of the Partnership or the Guarantor from the statute under which it now or hereafter exists to another statute whether under the laws of the same jurisdiction or another jurisdiction;

(b) any change in the name, business, objects, capital structure, ownership, constating documents, by-laws, partnership agreements or resolutions of the Partnership or the Guarantor, as the case may be, including without limitation any transaction (whether by way of transfer, sale or otherwise) whereby all or any part of the undertaking, property and assets of the Partnership or the Guarantor becomes the property of any other Person;

(c) any lack of validity, enforceability or value of any Canadian Note, any other Note Document or any other agreement or instrument relating thereto or to any security therefor;

(d) any change in the time, manner or place of payment of, or in any other term of any Canadian Note, any other Note Document or any amendment or waiver thereof, or any consent to departure from any Note Document;

(e) any taking, exchange, release or non-perfection of any security, or any release or amendment or waiver of or consent to departure from any other guarantee for any Canadian Note or other Note Document;

(f) any manner of application of any security or proceeds of realization thereof, or any manner of sale or other disposition of any collateral or any other assets of the Partnership or the Guarantor;

(g) the voluntary or involuntary bankruptcy, insolvency, liquidation or dissolution of the Partnership or the Guarantor, or any other Person, and the occurrence of any other proceeding as a result of such bankruptcy or insolvency;

(h) any amendment or modification of or supplement to or other change in any Canadian Note or other Note Document;

(i) any failure, omission or delay on the part of any Person to conform or comply with any term of any Canadian Note or other Note Document;

(j) to the extent as may be waived under applicable law, the benefit of all principles or provisions of law, statutory or otherwise, which may be in conflict with the terms hereof; or which shall delay, interfere with, hinder or present, or in any way adversely affect, the performance by either of the Partnership or the Guarantor in its respective obligations under or in respect of the Canadian Notes or this Guarantee;

(k) any failure or lack of diligence in collection or protection, failure in presentment or demand from payment, protest, notice of protest, notice of default and of nonpayment, any failure to give notice to the Guarantor of failure of the Partnership to keep and perform any obligation, covenant or agreement under the terms of the Canadian Notes or this Guarantee;

(l) any attachment, claim, demand, charge, Lien, order, process encumbrance or any other happening or event or reason, similar or dissimilar to the foregoing, or any withholding or diminution at the source, by reason of any taxes, assessments, expenses, debt, obligations, or liabilities of any character, foreseen or unforeseen, and whether or not valid, incurred by or against either the Partnership or the Guarantor or any claims, demands, charges or liens of any nature, foreseen or unforeseen, incurred by either of the Partnership or the Guarantor, or against any sums payable in respect of the Canadian Notes or this Guarantee, so that such sums would be rendered inadequate or would be unavailable to make the payments herein provided; or

(m) any other circumstance which might otherwise constitute in whole or in part a defence available to, or a discharge of, the Guarantor, the Partnership or any other Person in respect of the Guaranteed Obligations or the liability of the Guarantor;

provided that the specific enumeration of the above-mentioned acts, failures or omissions shall not be deemed to exclude any other acts, failure or omissions, though not specifically mentioned above, it being the purpose and intent of this Guarantee and the parties hereto that the obligations of the Guarantor shall be absolute and unconditional and shall not be discharged, impaired or varied except by the payment of the Guaranteed Obligations and Indemnified Amounts whenever the same shall become due and payable.

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Guarantor agrees that repeated and successive demands may be made and recoveries may be had hereunder as and when, from time to time, there shall be an Event of Default under or with respect to any Canadian Note and that notwithstanding the recovery hereunder for or in respect thereof, this Guarantee shall remain in force and effect and shall apply to each and every subsequent Event of Default. If (i) an event permitting the exercise of remedies under any Canadian Note, as the case may be, shall at any time have occurred and be continuing and (ii) such exercise, or any consequences thereof provided in any Canadian Note, as the case may be, shall at any time be prevented by reason of the pendency against the Partnership of a Proceeding, the Guarantor agrees that, solely for purposes of this Guarantee and its obligations hereunder, such Canadian Note shall be deemed to have been declared in default and all amounts thereunder shall be deemed to be immediately due and payable, with all the attendant consequences as provided in such agreement as if declaration of default and the consequence thereof had been accomplished in accordance with the terms thereof, and the Guarantor shall forthwith pay and perform the Guaranteed Obligations.

4.3 Dealings by the Noteholders

The Noteholders may from time to time in their absolute discretion, without discharging, diminishing or in any way affecting the liability of the Guarantor hereunder:

(a) permit any increase or decrease, however significant, of the Guaranteed Obligations or supplement, amend, restate or substitute, in whole or in part, however significant, the Guaranteed Obligations, any Canadian Note or other Note Document or any other agreement relating to any of the foregoing or, in whole or in part demand payment of all or any Guaranteed Obligations and/or the Indemnified Amounts;

(b) enforce or take action under or abstain from enforcing or taking action under any Canadian Note or other Note Document or any other guarantee of the Guaranteed Obligations or indemnity of the Indemnified Amounts;

(c) receive, give up, subordinate, release or discharge any security; supplement, amend, restate, substitute, renew, abstain from renewing, perfect or abstain from perfecting or maintaining the perfection of any security; enforce, take action under or realize in any manner or abstain from enforcing, taking action under or realizing any security; deal with or abstain from dealing with all or any part of the undertaking, property and assets subject to any security; or allow or abstain from allowing the Partnership or other Persons to deal with all or any part of such undertaking, property and assets;

(d) renew all or any part of the Guaranteed Obligations or grant extensions of time or any other indulgences to the Partnership or to any other guarantor or other Person liable directly or indirectly for all or any part of the Guaranteed Obligations or Indemnified Amounts;

(e) accept or make any compositions or arrangements with or release, discharge or otherwise deal with or abstain from dealing with the Partnership or any other guarantor or other Person liable directly or indirectly for all or any part of the Guaranteed Obligations or Indemnified Amounts;

(f) in whole or in part prove or abstain from proving any claim of the Noteholders in any Proceedings of or affecting the Partnership or any other Person; and

(g) agree with the Partnership, any other guarantor or any other Person to do anything described in paragraphs (i) to (vi) above;

whether or not any of the matters described in paragraphs (i) to (vii) above occur alone or in connection with one or more other such matters.

No loss of or in respect of any security for the Guaranteed Obligations, the Indemnified Amounts or any part thereof, whether occasioned through the fault of any Noteholder or otherwise, shall discharge, diminish or in any way affect the liability of the Guarantor hereunder. Neither the Noteholders nor any of their directors, officers, employees or agents or any receiver or receiver-manager appointed by any of them or by a court shall have any liability, whether in tort, contract or otherwise, for any neglect or any act taken or omitted to be taken by them in connection with the Guaranteed Obligations or the Indemnified Amounts or any part thereof or any security for the Guaranteed Obligations or the Indemnified Amounts or any part thereof, including without limitation any of the matters described above in this Section 4.3.

4.4 Waiver of Notice

To the extent permitted by applicable law, the Guarantor expressly waives any right to receive notice of the existence or creation of all or any of the Guaranteed Obligations or the Indemnified Amounts and presentment, demand, notice of dishonour, protest, notice of any of the events or circumstances described in Sections 4.1, 4.2 or 4.3 and all other notices whatsoever in respect of the Guaranteed Obligations or the Indemnified Amounts. The Guarantor hereby acknowledges receipt of copies of the Note Documents and all guarantees and other documents referred to in the Note Purchase Agreement and of all the provisions therein contained and consents to and approves the same.

ARTICLE 5

All amounts payable by the Guarantor under this Guarantee shall be paid without set-off or counterclaim and without any deduction or withholding whatsoever.

5.3 No Waiver

No delay on the part of the Noteholders in the exercise of any right, power or remedy hereunder or otherwise shall operate as a waiver thereof, and no single or partial exercise by the Noteholders of any right, power or remedy shall preclude other or further exercise thereof or the exercise of any other right, power or remedy. No action of a Noteholder permitted hereunder shall in any way impair or affect its rights, powers or remedies under this Guarantee.

5.4 Additional Security

This Guarantee shall be in addition to, and shall not be in any way prejudiced by nor shall this Guarantee prejudice:

1.6 Governing Law, Attornment

This Guarantee shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the Province of Alberta and the laws of Canada applicable therein and the Guarantor hereby irrevocably attorns to the non-exclusive jurisdiction of the courts of Alberta.

ARTICLE 2
GUARANTEE AND INDEMNITY

2.1 Guarantee

The Guarantor unconditionally, absolutely and irrevocably guarantees to and for the benefit of each of the Collateral Agent and the Secured Parties the due and punctual payment and performance of all Guaranteed Obligations. This Guarantee contained herein is an absolute, unconditional, present and continuing guarantee of payment. If, for any reason whatsoever, either of the Borrowers shall fail or be unable to duly, punctually and fully pay or perform any Guaranteed Obligation as and when the same shall become due and payable, the Guarantor shall forthwith pay, cause to be paid or cause to be performed, such Guaranteed Obligation to the Collateral Agent for and on behalf of itself and the Secured Parties.

2.2 Indemnity

The Guarantor shall indemnify and save harmless the Collateral Agent and the Secured Parties from and against any and all losses, costs and expenses which they may suffer in any way as a result of the occurrence of any event or circumstance which is, or is expressed to be, a Default or Event of Default under a Senior Credit Document, or any Senior Credit Document becoming for any reason whatsoever in whole or in part:

(a) void, voidable, ultra vires, illegal, invalid, ineffective or otherwise unenforceable by the Collateral Agent or the Secured Parties in accordance with its terms, or

(b) released, compromised or discharged by operation of law or otherwise,

(an "Indemnifiable Circumstance"). For greater certainty, the foregoing losses shall include without limitation all obligations hereby guaranteed which would have been payable by any Borrower but for the existence of an Indemnifiable Circumstance.

2.3 Reinstatement

The guarantee and indemnity herein shall be reinstated if at any time any payment of any Guaranteed Obligations or Indemnified Amounts is rendered unenforceable, is rescinded or must otherwise be returned by the Collateral Agent or any Secured Party as a result of any Proceedings of or affecting either of the Borrowers, the Guarantor or any other Person or for any other reason whatsoever, all as though such payment had not been made. The Collateral Agent or any Secured Party may concede or compromise any claim that such payment ought to be rescinded or otherwise returned, without discharging, diminishing or in any way affecting the liability and the obligation of the Guarantor under this Guarantee.

ARTICLE 3
ENFORCEMENT

3.1 Demand

Upon an Event of Default occurring under a Senior Credit Document, the Guarantor shall, on demand by or on behalf of the Collateral Agent, forthwith pay to the Collateral Agent, and/or perform or cause the performance of, all Guaranteed Obligations and Indemnified Amounts for which such demand was made.

3.2 Right to Immediate Payment or Performance

The Collateral Agent shall not be bound or obligated to make any demand on or to seek or exhaust its recourse against either of the Borrowers or any other Person or any Security Interest held by it or any Secured Party, before being entitled to demand payment from or performance by the Guarantor and enforce its rights under this Guarantee, and the Guarantor hereby renounces all benefits of discussion and division.

3.3 Subordination

All liabilities and indebtedness, present and future, joint or several, absolute or contingent, of the Borrowers to the Guarantor are hereby subordinated to the payment and performance in full of the Guaranteed Obligations, the Indemnified Amounts and all other amounts payable hereunder and, after the occurrence of an Event of Default, all such liabilities and indebtedness of the Borrowers to the Guarantor are hereby postponed to the payment and performance in full of the Guaranteed Obligations, the Indemnified Amounts and all other amounts payable hereunder and, all monies received by the Guarantor in respect thereof after demand for payment and/or performance by the Collateral Agent hereunder shall be received in trust for the Collateral Agent and the Secured Parties and forthwith upon receipt shall be paid over to the Collateral Agent, the whole without in any way lessening or limiting the liability of the Guarantor under this Guarantee.

The Guarantor shall not have any right of subrogation to the Collateral Agent or any Secured Party or be otherwise entitled to claim the benefit of any Security Interest now or hereafter held by the Collateral Agent or any Secured Party in respect of the Guaranteed Obligations or the Indemnified Amounts, until the Collateral Agent and the Secured Parties have received full and final payment and performance of all Guaranteed Obligations, all Indemnified Amounts and all other amounts payable hereunder.

If any amount shall be paid to the Guarantor in violation of the preceding sentence at any time prior to the full and final payment of the Guaranteed Obligations and the Indemnified Amounts, such amount shall be held in trust for the benefit of the Collateral Agent and the Secured Parties and shall forthwith be paid to the Collateral Agent to be credited and applied to the amounts due or to become due with respect to the Senior Credit Documents, whether matured or unmatured.

3.4 Enforcement Through Collateral Agent

The Guarantor acknowledges and agrees that the rights of any of the Secured Parties hereunder may be exercised in whole or in part by the Collateral Agent on behalf of such Secured Parties.

ARTICLE 4
PROTECTION OF COLLATERAL AGENT AND THE SECURED PARTIES

4.1 Defects in Creation of Guaranteed Obligations

None of the Collateral Agent or the Secured Parties shall be concerned to see or inquire into the capacity and powers of either of the Borrowers or any partners, directors, officers, employees or agents acting or purporting to act on their behalf. All obligations, liabilities and indebtedness purporting to be incurred by the Borrowers in favour of the Collateral Agent and the Secured Parties shall be deemed to form part of the Guaranteed Obligations even though the Borrowers may not be legal entities or the incurring of such obligations, liabilities or indebtedness was irregularly, fraudulently, defectively or informally effected or in excess of the capacity or powers of either of the Borrowers or any partners, directors, officers, employees or agents acting or purporting to act on their behalf and notwithstanding that the Collateral Agent or the Secured Parties have specific notice of the capacity and powers of either of the Borrowers or any partners, directors, officers, employees or agents acting or purporting to act on their behalf.

4.2 Liability Absolute

This Guarantee shall be a continuing guarantee and the liability of the Guarantor hereunder shall be absolute, unconditional and irrevocable and shall not be discharged, diminished or in any way affected by:

(b) any change in the name, business, objects, capital structure, ownership, constating documents, by-laws, partnership agreements or resolutions of either of the Borrowers or the Guarantor, as the case may be, including without limitation any transaction (whether by way of transfer, sale or otherwise) whereby all or any part of the undertaking, property and assets of either of the Borrowers or the Guarantor becomes the property of any other Person;

(c) any lack of validity, enforceability or value of any Senior Credit Document or any other agreement or instrument relating thereto or to any Security Interest therefor;

(d) any change in the time, manner or place of payment of, or in any other term of any Senior Credit Document or any amendment or waiver thereof, or any consent to departure from any Senior Credit Document;

(e) any taking, exchange, release or non-perfection of any Security Interest, or any release or amendment or waiver of or consent to departure from any other guarantee for any Senior Credit Document;

(f) any manner of application of any Security Interest or proceeds of realization thereof, or any manner of sale or other disposition of any collateral or any other assets of either of the Borrowers or the Guarantor;

(g) the voluntary or involuntary bankruptcy, insolvency, liquidation or dissolution of either of the Borrowers or the Guarantor, or any other Person, and the occurrence of any other proceeding as a result of such bankruptcy or insolvency;

(h) any amendment or modification of or supplement to or other change in any Senior Credit Document;

(i) any failure, omission or delay on the part of any Person to conform or comply with any term of any Senior Credit Document;

(j) to the extent as may be waived under applicable law, the benefit of all principles or provisions of law, statutory or otherwise, which may be in conflict with the terms hereof or which shall delay, interfere with, hinder or prevent, or in any way adversely affect, the performance by either of the Borrowers or the Guarantor in its respective obligations under or in respect of the Senior Credit Documents or this Guarantee;

(k) any failure or lack of diligence in collection or protection, failure in presentment or demand from payment, protest, notice of protest, notice of default and of nonpayment, any failure to give notice to the Guarantor of failure of any Borrower to keep and perform any obligation, covenant or agreement under the terms of the Senior Credit Documents or this Guarantee;

(l) any attachment, claim, demand, charge, lien, order, process encumbrance or any other happening or event or reason, similar or dissimilar to the foregoing, or any withholding or diminution at the source, by reason of any taxes, assessments,

expenses, debt, obligations, or liabilities of any character, foreseen or unforeseen, and whether or not valid, incurred by or against either of the Borrowers or the Guarantor or any claims, demands, charges or liens of any nature, foreseen or unforeseen, incurred by either of the Borrowers or the Guarantor, or against any sums payable in respect of the Senior Security Documents or this Guarantee, so that such sums would be rendered inadequate or would be unavailable to make the payments herein provided; or provided that the specific enumeration of the above-mentioned acts, failures or omissions shall not be deemed to exclude any other acts, failures or omissions, though not specifically mentioned above, it being the purpose and intent of this Guarantee and the parties hereto that the obligations of the Guarantor shall be absolute and unconditional and shall not be discharged, impaired or varied except by the payment of the Guaranteed Obligations and Indemnified Amounts whenever the same shall become due and payable.

(m) any other circumstance which might otherwise constitute in whole or in part a defence available to, or a discharge of, the Guarantor, either of the Borrowers or any other Person in respect of the Guaranteed Obligations or the liability of the Guarantor;

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Guarantor agrees that repeated and successive demands may be made and recoveries may be had hereunder as and when, from time to time, there shall be an Event of Default under any Senior Credit Document and that notwithstanding the recovery hereunder for or in respect thereof, this Guarantee shall remain in force and effect and shall apply to each and every subsequent Default and Event of Default. If (i) an event permitting the exercise of remedies under any Senior Credit Document, as the case may be, shall at any time have occurred and be continuing and (ii) such exercise, or any consequences thereof provided in any Senior Credit Document, as the case may be, shall at any time be prevented by reason of the pendency against either of the Borrowers of a Proceeding, the Guarantor agrees that, solely for purposes of this Guarantee and its obligations hereunder, such Senior Credit Document shall be deemed to have been declared in default and all amounts thereunder shall be deemed to be immediately due and payable, with all the attendant consequences as provided in such agreement as if declaration of default and the consequence thereof had been accomplished in accordance with the terms thereof, and the Guarantor shall forthwith pay and perform the Guaranteed Obligations.

whether or not any of the matters described in paragraphs (i) to (vii) above occur alone or in connection with one or more other such matters.

No loss of or in respect of any Security Interest for the Guaranteed Obligations, the Indemnified Amounts or any part thereof, whether occasioned through the fault of the Collateral Agent or any Secured Parties or otherwise, shall discharge, diminish or in any way affect the liability of the Guarantor hereunder. None of the Collateral Agent or any Secured Party nor any of their directors, officers, employees or agents or any receiver or receiver-manager appointed by any of them or by a court shall have any liability, whether in tort, contract or otherwise, for any neglect or any act taken or omitted to be taken by them in connection with the Guaranteed Obligations or the Indemnified Amounts or any part thereof or any Security Interest for the Guaranteed Obligations or the Indemnified Amounts or any part thereof including without limitation any of the matters described above in this Section 4.3.

5.7 Successors and Assigns

This Guarantee shall be binding upon the Guarantor and its partners and their respective successors and permitted assigns and enure to the benefit of the Collateral Agent, the Secured Parties and their respective successors and assigns.

5.8 Copy Received

The Guarantor acknowledges receipt of a copy of this Guarantee.

5.9 Time of the Essence

Time shall be of the essence.

5.10 Taxes

If any payment made by the Guarantor to the Collateral Agent or any Secured Party becomes subject to any withholding or deduction with respect to Taxes, the Guarantor shall also duly and punctually pay to the Collateral Agent or such Secured Party such additional amount (if any) as would have been payable by the applicable Borrower or Borrowers under the applicable Senior Credit Documents as a result of such withholding or deduction if such payment were being made by such Borrower or Borrowers, and for such purposes such additional amount shall be determined as if the applicable withholding tax provisions from the applicable Senior Credit Documents were incorporated herein mutatis mutandis. In any such circumstance, the Guarantor shall also promptly remit to the Collateral Agent the relevant official receipts or other evidence satisfactory to the Collateral Agent evidencing payment to the appropriate taxing authority of each such Tax by the Guarantor on behalf of the Collateral Agent or such Secured Party.

5.11 Foreign Currency Obligations

The Guarantor will make payment relative to each Guaranteed Obligation or Indemnified Amount in the currency (the "Original Currency") in which the applicable Borrower is required to pay such Guaranteed Obligation or Indemnified Amount. If the Guarantor makes payment relative to any Guaranteed Obligation or Indemnified Amount to the Collateral Agent in a currency (the "Other Currency") other than the Original Currency (whether voluntarily or pursuant to an order or judgment of a court or tribunal of any jurisdiction), such payment will constitute a discharge of the liability of the Guarantor hereunder in respect of such Guaranteed Obligation or Indemnified Amount only to the extent of the amount of the Original Currency which the Collateral Agent is able to purchase at Calgary, Alberta with the amount it receives on the date of receipt. If the amount of the Original Currency which the Collateral Agent is able to purchase is less than the amount of such currency originally due to it in respect to the relevant Guaranteed Obligation or Indemnified Amount, the Guarantor will indemnify and save the Collateral Agent and the Secured Parties harmless from and against any loss or damage arising as a result of such deficiency. This indemnity will constitute an obligation separate and independent from the other obligations contained in this Guarantee, will give rise to a separate and independent cause of action, will apply irrespective of any indulgence granted by the Collateral Agent or the Secured Parties and will continue in full force and effect notwithstanding any judgment or order in respect of any amount due hereunder or under any judgment or order.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF the parties hereto have executed this Guarantee as of the day and year first above written.

3. Interpretation

In this Agreement:

(a) the terms "hereof", "herein", "hereunder" and similar expressions refer, unless otherwise specified, to this Agreement taken as a whole and not to any particular article, section or subsection;

4. General Postponement and Subordination

Except for payments expressly permitted by Section 7 of this Agreement,

(a) the Subordinated Obligations shall be and are hereby expressly postponed and made fully subordinate in right of payment to the prior payment in full of the Senior Obligations, and the Subordinated Party shall not accept any payment, prepayment, repayment or other distribution or satisfaction of or with respect to all or any portion of the Subordinated Obligations (in each case, whether in cash, property, securities or otherwise) prior to the full and final payment of the Senior Obligations; and

(b) any and all claims arising in respect of the Subordinated Obligations shall be subordinate and rank subsequent to the Security Interests created by the Senior Security Documents.

Subject to Section 7 hereof, the foregoing postponement and subordination of the Subordinated Obligations shall apply in all events and circumstances. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the rights and priority of the Secured Parties and the postponement and subordination of the Subordinated Obligations pursuant hereto shall not be affected by: (i) the time, sequence or order of creating, granting, executing, delivering or registering or failing to register any security notice, caveat, financing statement or other notice in respect of the Senior Security Documents or any Subordinated Obligation; (ii) subject to Section 7, the date of any payments made to the Subordinated Party under or in respect of the Subordinated Obligations, (iii) the time or sequence of giving any notice or the making of any demand in respect of the Senior Obligations, the Senior Security Documents or the Subordinated Obligations or the attachment, perfection or crystallization of the security constituted by the Senior Security Documents; (iv) the taking of any collection, enforcement or realization proceedings pursuant to the Senior Security Documents or the Subordinated Obligations, (v) the date of obtaining any judgment or the order of any bankruptcy court or any court administering bankruptcy, insolvency, receivership or similar proceedings as to the entitlement of either the Secured Parties or the Subordinated Party to any money or property of the Borrowers or any Loan Party, (vi) the giving or failing to give any notice, or the sequence of giving any notice to the Borrowers, any Loan Party, the Subordinated Party or any other person; (vii) the failure to exercise any power or remedy reserved to the Collateral Agent and the Secured Parties under the Senior Security Documents or to insist upon a strict compliance with any of the terms thereof; (viii) any priority that would (but for this Agreement) be granted to the Subordinated Party or the Subordinated Obligations by any applicable principle of law or equity; and (ix) the failure by the applicable Loan Party to comply with any of the terms or conditions of the Subordinated Obligations.

5. Priority of Senior Obligations on Enforcement or Insolvency

In the event of any dissolution, winding up, liquidation, readjustment, reorganization, bankruptcy, insolvency, receivership, creditor enforcement, realization or other similar creditor proceedings relating to the Borrowers or any Loan Party, or any of its or their respective property, assets or undertaking (whether voluntary or involuntary, partial or complete), or any other marshalling of the assets and liabilities of the Borrowers or any Loan Party, or (subject to obtaining the prior written consent of the Collateral Agent) any sale of all or substantially all of the assets of the Borrowers or any Loan Party, the Senior Obligations shall first be paid in full before the Subordinated Party shall be entitled to receive or retain any payment or Capital Distribution in respect of the Subordinated Obligations. In order to implement the foregoing:

(a) in the course of realization of the Senior Security Documents, the Collateral Agent, the Secured Parties and/or a receiver or receiver-manager of all or part of the property, assets or undertaking of the Borrowers or any Loan Party or any other enforcement Collateral Agent may sell, mortgage or otherwise dispose of the property, assets or undertaking of the Borrowers or any Loan Party in whole or in part in accordance with the provisions of the Senior Security Documents, free and clear of the Subordinated Obligations and without the approval of the

Subordinated Party or any requirement to account to the Subordinated Party until after the full and final payment of all of the Senior Obligations. With respect to any such disposition of the property, assets or undertaking of the Borrowers or any Loan Party, each of the Subordinated Party and the Borrowers shall execute and deliver all such documents and instruments as may be requested by the Collateral Agent in connection therewith to give effect to such disposition of assets free and clear of the Subordinated Obligations, including quit claims and all such other documents and instruments as may be requested by the Collateral Agent from time to time confirming that the Subordinated Obligations as they pertain to the assets disposed of, or being disposed of, have terminated and that such assets are no longer subject to the Subordinated Obligations; and

(b) all Capital Distributions or other payments of any kind or character (whether in cash, securities or other property) in respect of the Subordinated Obligations to which the Subordinated Party would be entitled if the Subordinated Obligations were not subordinated pursuant to this Agreement shall be paid and delivered directly to the Collateral Agent for application (in the case of cash) to, or as collateral (in the case of non-cash property or securities) for the payment or repayment of, the Senior Obligations.

6. Receipt of Payments, Proceeds and Assets in Trust

If the Collateral Agent gives the Subordinated Party written notice that a Default has occurred and is continuing, any Capital Distribution or other payment from the Borrowers or any Loan Party received by the Subordinated Party in respect of the Subordinated Obligations after receipt of such notice shall be received and held in trust by the Subordinated Party for the exclusive benefit of the Secured Parties and shall be forthwith paid or delivered to the Collateral Agent for the benefit of the Secured Parties. Notwithstanding any provision in this Agreement, the Subordinated Party shall have no liability or obligation in connection with any Capital Distribution or other payment which it has received before receipt of such notice and no longer retains, provided that none of the Subordinated Party or any Person responsible for the management or administration of all or any part of the affairs of the Subordinated Party or any officer or director of the Subordinated Party or any such Person knew or ought reasonably to have known that a Default had occurred and was continuing at the time it received or ceased to retain the Capital Distribution.

7. Permitted Payments

The Borrowers and the Loan Parties shall be entitled to pay, and the Subordinated Party shall be entitled from time to time to receive, directly or indirectly, a Capital Distribution on account of the Subordinated Obligations in accordance with the terms of the Subordinated Obligations if and only if no Default shall have occurred and be continuing or will occur as a result of such Capital Distribution.

8. Prohibited Payments

Without limiting the generality of Sections 4, 5 and 6 above, the Subordinated Party acknowledges, covenants and agrees that, after the occurrence and during the continuance of a Default, none of the Borrowers or any Loan Party shall be entitled to make any Capital Distribution or other payment to the Subordinated Party and the Subordinated Party shall not be entitled to receive any Capital Distribution or other such payment of or with respect to any Subordinated Obligation, without the prior written consent of the Collateral Agent on behalf of the Secured Parties.

Any payments received by a Subordinated Party in contravention of this Section 8 shall be forthwith paid to the Collateral Agent for the benefit of the Secured Parties. For greater certainty, nothing in this Agreement shall be interpreted as permitting or authorizing or entitling (i) the Subordinated Party to receive any payment of or with respect to any of the Subordinated Obligations after the occurrence and during the continuance of a Default, or (ii) the Borrowers or any Loan Party to make any payment of or with respect to any of the Subordinated Obligations which is prohibited under this Agreement or any other Senior Credit Document.

9. Restriction on Subrogation

The Subordinated Party shall not exercise any rights which it may acquire by way of subrogation or contribution under this Agreement as a result of any payment made hereunder or otherwise until this Agreement has ceased to be effective in accordance with Section 15(a). If any amount is paid to the Subordinated Party on account of such subrogation or contribution rights at any time before this Agreement has ceased to be effective in accordance with Section 15(a), such amount shall be held in trust by the Subordinated Party for the benefit of the Secured Parties and shall be forthwith paid to the Collateral Agent for the benefit of the Secured Parties.

10. Restricted Dealings by Subordinated Party with the Borrowers and Others

Except with the prior written consent of the Collateral Agent on behalf of all Secured Parties, the Subordinated Party shall not take any collateral security for all or any portion of the Subordinated Obligations.

11. Collateral Agent and Secured Parties Not Bound by Restrictions

Each of the Borrowers and the Subordinated Party hereby acknowledge, covenant and agree that the liabilities and obligations of the Borrowers and the other Loan Parties to the Collateral Agent and the Secured Parties under or in respect of the Senior Obligations and the Senior Security Documents shall not be impaired, affected, reduced or limited by any failure by the Borrowers to comply with any restrictions on borrowing or granting security under the terms of any Subordinated Obligations, regardless of any knowledge thereof which the Collateral Agent or any Secured Party may have or be deemed to have or with which the Collateral Agent or the Secured Parties may be charged. Nothing contained in this Agreement or any other agreement or instrument relating to the Subordinated Obligations is intended to or shall prevent the Collateral Agent and the Secured Parties from exercising at any time and from time to time all rights and remedies under or in respect of the Senior Security Documents and the Senior Obligations.

12. Dealings by the Collateral Agent and Secured Parties with the Borrowers

Notwithstanding anything in this Agreement, the Subordinated Party acknowledges that the Collateral Agent and the Secured Parties shall be entitled to:

(a) lend monies or otherwise extend credit or accommodations to the Borrowers as part of the Senior Obligations;

(b) change, amend, waive, or depart from any term of any Senior Credit Document or any Senior Security Document, including without limitation, any amendment, renewal, restatement or extension of any such agreement, or increase in the payment obligations of the Borrowers under any such documents;

(c) take any additional security from the Borrowers or any Loan Party;

(d) grant time, renewals, extensions, releases, discharges or other indulgences or forbearances to the Borrowers, any Loan Party and any other person in respect of the Senior Obligations;

(e) waive timely and strict compliance with or refrain from exercising any rights under or relating to the Senior Obligations;

(f) accept or make any compositions, arrangements, plans of reorganization or compromises with the Borrowers, any Loan Party or any other person as the Secured Parties (or any of them) may deem appropriate in connection with the Senior Obligations;

(g) change, whether by addition, substitution, renewal, succession, assignment, grant of participation, transfer or otherwise, any of the Secured Parties (including the Collateral Agent);

(h) acquire, give up, vary, exchange, release, discharge or otherwise deal with or fail to deal with any security interests relating to any Senior Security Documents, or allow the Borrowers, any Loan Party or any other person to deal with the property which is subject to such security interests, all as the Secured Parties may deem appropriate; and

(i) abstain from taking, protecting, securing, registering, filing, recording, renewing, perfecting, insuring or realizing upon any security interests for any Senior Obligations; and no loss in respect of any of the security interests received or held for and on behalf of the Secured Parties, whether occasioned by fault, omission or negligence of any kind (whether of the Collateral Agent or the Secured Parties or otherwise), shall in any way limit or impair the rights of the Secured Parties or the obligations of the Subordinated Party under this Agreement, all of which may be done without notice to or consent of the Subordinated Party and without impairing, releasing or otherwise affecting any rights or obligations of the Subordinated Party hereunder or any rights of the Secured Parties hereunder.

13. Enforcement of Subordinated Obligations

If the Subordinated Party shall become entitled to enforce any rights or remedies against the Borrowers or any Loan Party (including the right to accelerate the maturity of the Subordinated Obligations and to enforce the collection thereof) or any of their respective assets by reason of any default under any agreement or instrument relating to the Subordinated Obligations, the Subordinated Party shall promptly provide the Collateral Agent with written notice of any such default together with reasonable particulars thereof and the Subordinated Party shall not enforce any such rights or remedies prior to the full and final payment of the Senior Obligations. The Borrowers agree, for the benefit of the Collateral Agent and the Secured Parties, that in the event that any Subordinated Obligation is declared due and payable before its expressed maturity because of the occurrence of a Default with respect thereto: (1) the Borrowers will give prompt notice in writing of such happening to the Collateral Agent; and (2) all Senior Obligations shall forthwith become immediately due and payable upon demand, regardless of the expressed maturity thereof; and (3) the Subordinated Party shall not be entitled to receive any payment or distribution until all Senior Obligations shall have been indefeasibly paid in full in cash.

14. Representations and Warranties

Each of the Subordinated Party and the Borrowers hereby represents and warrants to the Collateral Agent and the Secured Parties that this Agreement constitutes a valid and legally binding obligation, enforceable against each of the Subordinated Party and the Borrowers in accordance with its terms, subject however, to limitations with respect to enforcement imposed by law in connection with bankruptcy, insolvency, reorganization or other laws affecting creditors' rights generally and to the qualification that equitable remedies such as specific performance and injunction are available in the discretion of the court from which they are sought and general equitable principles.

15. Continuing Subordination

This Agreement shall create a continuing subordination and shall:

(a) remain in full force and effect until the Secured Parties have received full and final payment of the amount of the Senior Obligations, and the Senior Credit Documents to which any of the Secured Parties is a party have terminated in accordance with the terms thereof;

(b) be binding upon the Subordinated Party and the Borrowers and their respective successors and assigns (including any successor by reason of amalgamation); and

(c) enure, together with the rights and remedies of the Collateral Agent and the Secured Parties hereunder, to the benefit of and be enforceable by the Collateral Agent and the Secured Parties and their respective successors and assigns.

16. Acknowledgement of Documentation

The Subordinated Party hereby acknowledges that it has reviewed a copy of the terms of the Senior Credit Documents and the Senior Security Documents as currently in effect. The Subordinated Party hereby waives any entitlement they may have to receive copies of all amendments, modifications, supplements or restatements to any of the aforementioned documents (including the Senior Credit Documents) and of any other documents, instruments or agreements which are executed in the future pursuant to which Senior Obligations may arise or are guaranteed or secured. The Secured Parties shall have no obligation to ensure such receipt nor shall lack of receipt in any way affect the nature of the subordination and postponement of the Subordinated Obligations and the Subordinated Party's obligations hereunder in respect of the Senior Obligations thereby created or arising.

17. Other Rights Not Affected

The postponement and subordination provided for in this Agreement is in addition to and not in substitution for or limitation of any other agreement, right or other security by whomsoever given or at any time held by or for the benefit of the Collateral Agent and the Secured Parties in respect of the Senior Obligations, and nothing in this Agreement shall limit or prejudice any of the contractual, common law or other rights of the Collateral Agent and the Secured Parties or the contractual, common law or other priority of the Senior Obligations insofar as such rights or priority arises or exists outside of this Agreement.

18. Additional Covenants

(a) [The Administrator, in its capacity as Administrator of the Fund, CT and LP, and not in its personal capacity, hereby acknowledges the subordination and postponement of the Subordinated Obligations to the Senior Obligations herein provided, and agrees that it shall not participate in any breach or violation of this Agreement.] [Insert if Fund, CT or LP is Subordinated Party.]

(b) The Subordinated Party shall not at any time challenge, dispute or contest the validity or enforceability of the Senior Obligations or the Senior Security Documents, nor shall the Subordinated Party at any time challenge, dispute or contest the validity or enforceability of the subordination and postponement provided for herein or take any action whereby the subordination and postponement contemplated hereby may be prejudiced.

(c) The Subordinated Party shall not at any time initiate a proceeding for bankruptcy or other similar proceeding relative to the Borrowers or any Loan Party.

19. Notices

All notices and other communications required or permitted hereunder shall be in writing and may be served (i) by delivering them to the recipient at the address for notice set forth below, provided that such delivery shall be during normal business hours of the recipient and shall be deemed received by the recipient once actually delivered as aforesaid, or (ii) by

20. Amendments and Waivers

(a) No provision of this Agreement may be amended, waived, discharged or terminated orally nor may any breach of any of the provisions of this Agreement be waived or discharged orally, and any such amendment, waiver, discharge or termination may only be made in writing signed by the Collateral Agent (on behalf of the Secured Parties), the Subordinated Party and, solely if the obligations of the Borrowers hereunder are affected, the Borrowers.

(b) No failure on the part of the Secured Parties to exercise, and no delay in exercising, any right, power or privilege hereunder shall operate as a waiver thereof unless specifically waived in writing, nor shall any single or partial exercise of any right, power or privilege hereunder preclude any other or further exercise thereof or the exercise of any other right, power or privilege.

(c) Any waiver of any provision of this Agreement or consent to any departure by any party therefrom shall be effective only in the specific instance and for the specific purpose for which given and shall not in any way be or be construed as a waiver of any future requirement.

21. Assignment by Secured Parties and Subordinated Party

Each of the Subordinated Party and the Borrowers acknowledges and agrees that each of the Secured Parties shall have the right to assign, sell, participate or otherwise transfer all or any portion of their respective rights and benefits under this Agreement in connection with any assignment, sale, participation or other transfer of all or the corresponding portion of its rights and benefits under the Senior Credit Documents. The Subordinated Party shall not sell, assign, pledge, encumber or otherwise dispose of any of its Subordinated Obligations unless such sale, assignment, pledge, encumbrance or disposition is made expressly subject to the terms of this Agreement.

22. Acknowledgement [NTD: To be inserted if Fund, CT or LP is Subordinated Party]

The parties hereto acknowledge that the Administrator is entering into this Agreement in its capacity as authorized administrator on behalf of the [Fund, CT or LP] and as managing general partner of KECP and the obligations of the Subordinated Party hereunder shall not be personally binding upon the Administrator or any registered or beneficial holder of units of the Fund and that resort shall not be had to, nor shall recourse be sought from, any of the foregoing or the private property of any of the foregoing in any manner in respect of any indebtedness, obligation or liability of the Subordinated Party arising hereunder or arising in connection herewith or from the matters to which this Agreement relates, if any. Nothing in this Section 22 shall restrict or limit the liability or obligations of the Administrator in its own capacity when acting other than as Administrator of the [Fund, CT or LP] or other than as managing general partner of KECP.

23. Enurement

This Agreement shall enure to the benefit of the Collateral Agent and the Secured Parties and their respective successors and assigns, and be binding upon the Subordinated Party and the Borrowers and their respective successors and permitted assigns (including their successors by reason of amalgamation).

24. Governing Law

This Agreement shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the Province of Alberta and the laws of Canada applicable therein, and shall be treated in all respects as an Alberta contract. Each of the Subordinated Party and the Borrowers irrevocably submits to the non-exclusive jurisdiction of the courts of the Province of Alberta, without prejudice to the rights of the Secured Parties to take proceedings in any other jurisdiction.

25. Severability

If any provision of this Agreement shall be invalid, illegal or unenforceable in any respect in any jurisdiction, it shall not affect the validity, legality or enforceability of such provision in any other jurisdiction or the validity, legality or enforceability of any other provision of this Agreement.

26. Time of Essence

Time shall be of the essence of this Agreement.

27. Further Assurances

Each of the Subordinated Party and the Borrowers shall, at the request of the Collateral Agent but at the expense of the Borrowers, as applicable, from time to time do or cause to be done all such further acts and things and execute and deliver all such further documents as the Collateral Agent on behalf of the Secured Parties may reasonably require in order to give effect to and carry out the terms of this Agreement. The Subordinated Party undertakes and agrees for the benefit of the Collateral Agent and the Secured Parties to execute, verify, deliver and file any proofs of claim within 30 days before the expiration of the time to file the same which the Collateral Agent may at any time require in order to prove and realize upon any rights or claims pertaining to the Subordinated Obligations and to effectuate the full benefit of the subordination contained herein; and upon failure of the Subordinated Party so to do, the Collateral Agent shall be deemed to be irrevocably appointed the agent and attorney-in-fact of the Subordinated Party to execute, verify, deliver and file any such proofs of claim.

LISTED IN THE ATTACHED SCHEDULE A

Ladies and Gentlemen:

Re: Cdn. $90,000,000 5.23% Series A Senior Secured Notes due October 1, 2009

Each of KeySpan Energy Facilities Limited, an Alberta corporation (the "Corporation") and KeySpan Energy Canada Partnership, an Alberta general partnership (the "Partnership") (the Corporation and the Partnership are collectively referred to herein as the "Issuers" and individually as an "Issuer"), agrees with the purchasers named in Schedule A attached hereto and each purchaser of Notes under a Supplement (collectively, the "Purchasers") as follows, with capitalized terms used in this Agreement having the meanings specified in Schedule B.

1. AUTHORIZATION OF NOTES

1.1 Authorization of Issuance of Corporation's Notes

The Corporation will authorize the issue and sale of Cdn. $90,000,000 aggregate principal amount of its 5.23% Series A Senior Secured Notes due October 1, 2009 (the "Series A Notes") (collectively, together with each series of Additional Notes which may from time to time be issued by the Corporation pursuant to the provisions of Section 2.6, the "U.S. Notes", such term to include any notes issued in substitution therefor pursuant to Section 14 of this Agreement). The Series A Notes issued on Closing shall be substantially in the form set out in Exhibit 1.1A, with such changes therefrom, if any, as may be approved by the applicable Purchasers and the Corporation.

1.2 Future Issuance of Partnership's Notes

The Partnership may in the future authorize the issue and sale of Canadian Dollar Senior Secured Notes (the first series of such Notes to be called "Series 1 Notes") (collectively, together with each series of Additional Notes which may from time to time thereafter be issued by the Partnership pursuant to the provisions of Section 2.6, the "Canadian Notes"), such term to include any notes issued in substitution therefor pursuant to Section 14 of this Agreement).

2. SALE AND PURCHASE OF NOTES; GUARANTEES; SUBORDINATIONS

2.1 Sale and Purchase of Notes

Subject to the terms and conditions of this Agreement, the Corporation agrees to issue and sell to the applicable Purchasers, and each Purchaser agrees to purchase from the Corporation, at the Closing provided for in Section 3, Series A Notes in the respective aggregate principal amount specified opposite such Purchaser's name in Schedule A at a purchase price equal to 100% of the principal amount thereof. The obligations of each Purchaser hereunder are several and not joint obligations, and no Purchaser shall have any obligation hereunder, nor any liability to any Person, for the performance or non-performance by any other Purchaser hereunder. The Series A Notes and each other series of Notes that may be issued under this Agreement after Closing are each herein sometimes referred to as Notes of a "series".

2.2 Guarantees

(a) Payment by the Corporation of all amounts due under, and the performance by the Corporation of its obligations in respect of, the U.S. Notes and the other Note Documents shall be absolutely and unconditionally guaranteed by the Partnership pursuant to a Guarantee Agreement substantially in the form attached to this Agreement as Exhibit 2.2(a) (the "Partnership Guarantee") in favour of the holders of the U.S. Notes.

(b) Upon the issuance of Additional Notes by the Partnership pursuant to Section 2.6, payment by the Partnership of all amounts due under, and the performance by the Partnership of its obligations in respect of, the Canadian Notes issued by it and the other Note Documents shall be absolutely and unconditionally guaranteed by the Corporation pursuant to a Guarantee Agreement substantially in the form attached to this Agreement as Exhibit 2.2(b) (the "Corporation Guarantee") in favour of the holders of Canadian Notes.

(c) Payment by the Issuers of all amounts due under, and the performance by the Issuers of their respective obligations in respect of, the Notes and the other Note Documents shall be absolutely and unconditionally guaranteed by each Subsidiary that provides a guarantee pursuant to Section 9.8 (each a "Subsidiary Guarantor" and collectively the "Subsidiary Guarantors") pursuant to a Guarantee Agreement substantially in the form attached to this Agreement as Exhibit 2.2(c) (a "Subsidiary Guarantee") in favour of the holders of the Notes.

2.3 Senior Debt Security

Subject to Section 13.10, the Notes, the Senior Debt Guarantees and the other Note Documents and the performance by each Issuer Party of its obligations thereunder shall be secured by the Senior Debt Security, such security to be shared on a pari passu basis with the lenders under the Bank Facilities, the holders of notes under the Note Agreement (2003) and other Secured Parties as permitted by and in the manner set forth in the Collateral Agency Agreement.

2.4 Collateral Agency Agreement

Each of the Purchasers shall become a party to the Collateral Agency Agreement by executing a Supplement in the form attached as Schedule B to the Collateral Agency Agreement pursuant to which the Purchasers, the lenders under the Bank Facilities, the holders of notes under the Note Agreement (2003) and other Secured Parties agree as to their respective rights under the Senior Debt Security, all upon the terms and conditions set forth in the Collateral Agency Agreement. In connection therewith, each of the Purchasers shall enter into the Representative Appointment Agreement pursuant to which the Noteholders' Representative shall be appointed as the representative of the Purchasers for the purposes of the Collateral Agency Agreement.

2.5 Subordination Agreements

Each of KeySpan Corporation, KEDCO, KPL, KeySpan LP, the Commercial Trust, the Fund, KECC, EnerPro, the Managing Partner and any other Person who hereafter becomes a partner in the Partnership have entered into or shall enter into separate and several Subordination Agreements substantially in the form attached to this Agreement as Exhibit 2.5 (individually, a "Subordination Agreement" and, collectively, the "Subordination Agreements") pursuant to which each will subordinate its respective right to receive payments of Debt, interest accrued thereon and premium, if any, capital distributions and all other sums which may from time to time be due and owing to it from any Issuer Group Entity prior to the payment in full in cash of all Senior Debt, all upon the terms and conditions set forth in the Subordination Agreements.

2.6 Additional Series of Notes.

Each of the Corporation and the Partnership may, from time to time, in its sole discretion, but subject to the terms hereof, issue and sell one or more additional series of its senior secured notes under the provisions of this Agreement pursuant to a supplement (a "Supplement") substantially in the form of Exhibit 2.6 with such variations, omissions and insertions as are necessary or permitted hereunder. Each additional series of Notes (the "Additional Notes") issued pursuant to a Supplement shall be subject to the following conditions and terms:

(a) each series of Additional Notes, when so issued, shall be differentiated from all previous series by sequential alphabetical or numerical designation inscribed thereon;

(b) each series of Additional Notes shall be dated the date of issue, bear interest at such rate or rates, mature on such date or dates, be subject to such mandatory and optional prepayment on the dates and at the premiums, if any, have such additional or different conditions precedent to closing, such representations and warranties and such additional covenants as shall be specified in the Supplement under which such Additional Notes are issued and upon execution of any such Supplement, this Agreement shall be deemed amended to reflect such additional covenants without further action on the part of the holders of the Notes outstanding under this Agreement; provided that any such additional covenants shall inure to the benefit of all holders of Notes so long as any Additional Notes issued pursuant to such Supplement remain outstanding and any such additional covenants shall be in addition to, and shall not impair, diminish or modify in any negative manner any existing covenants contained herein;

(c) the minimum aggregate principal amount of any series of Notes issued under a Supplement shall be Cdn. $10,000,000;

(d) for each series of Additional Notes issued, not more than 25% of the aggregate principal amount thereof shall mature less than five years after the issuance thereof;

(e) each series of Additional Notes shall constitute Debt of the Corporation or the Partnership, as applicable, and shall rank pari passu with all other outstanding Notes;

(f) no Additional Notes shall be issued hereunder if at the time of issuance thereof and after giving effect to the application of the proceeds thereof, any Default or Event of Default shall have occurred and be continuing; and

(g) no Additional Notes shall be issued hereunder which would be subject to any Taxes with respect to which the Corporation or the Partnership, as applicable, does not have the same obligations to indemnify under Section 23 as the Corporation or the Partnership, as applicable, has with respect to the Notes as of the date of Closing.

3.2 Closing of Sale of Additional Notes

The closing of the sale of Additional Notes shall occur at the time and in the manner specified in the Supplement under which the series of Additional Notes are sold.

4. CONDITIONS TO CLOSING

No Issuer Group Entity shall have entered into any transaction since the date of the Memorandum that would have been prohibited by Section 10 had such Section applied since that date.

(b) from Chapman and Cutler LLP, special United States counsel for the Purchasers in connection with the transactions contemplated hereby, substantially in the form set forth in Exhibit 4.4(b) and covering such other matters incident to such transactions as the Purchasers may reasonably request; and

(c) from Blake, Cassels & Graydon LLP, special Canadian counsel for the Purchasers in connection with such transactions, substantially in the form of Exhibit 4.4(c) and covering such other matters incident to such transactions as the Purchasers may reasonably request.

4.5 Purchase Permitted by Applicable Law, etc.

On the date of the Closing, each Purchaser's purchase of Notes shall:

(a) be permitted by the laws and regulations of each jurisdiction to which such Purchaser is subject, without recourse to provisions (such as Section 1405(a)(8) of the New York Insurance Law) permitting limited investments by insurance companies without restriction as to the character of the particular investment;

(b) not violate any applicable law or regulation (including Regulation T, U or X of the Board of Governors of the U.S. Federal Reserve System); and

(c) not subject the Purchasers to any tax, penalty or liability under or pursuant to any applicable law or regulation, which law or regulation was not in effect on the date hereof.

If requested by any Purchaser, such Purchaser shall have received on the date of Closing an Officer's Certificate from any Issuer certifying as to such matters of fact as reasonably specified to enable such Purchaser to determine whether such purchase is so permitted.

4.6 Sale of Other Notes

Contemporaneously with the Closing, the Issuers shall sell to the other Purchasers, and the other Purchasers shall purchase, the Notes to be purchased by them at the Closing as specified in Schedule A.

4.7 Payment of Special Counsel Fees

Without limiting the provisions of Section 16.1, the Issuers shall have paid on or before the Closing the reasonable fees and disbursements of the Purchasers' special counsel referred to in Section 4.4 to the extent reflected in a statement of such counsel rendered to the Issuers at least one Business Day prior to the Closing.

4.8 Private Placement Numbers

Private Placement Numbers issued by Standard & Poor's CUSIP Service Bureau (in co-operation with the Securities Valuation Office of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners) shall have been obtained for the Notes.

4.9 Changes in Legal Structure

Neither Issuer shall have changed its jurisdiction of organization or been a party to any amalgamation, plan of arrangement or consolidation, or otherwise changed its legal structure and organization from that set out in Schedule 4.9; and neither Issuer shall have succeeded to all or any substantial part of the liabilities of any other entity at any time following the date of the most recent financial statements referred to in Schedule 5.5, other than the assumption by the Issuers of the liabilities of EnerPro in connection with EnerPro becoming a partner in the Partnership.

4.10 Bank Agreements

The documents establishing the Bank Facilities and the Note Agreement (2003) shall be satisfactory to the Purchasers and their special counsel, and the Purchasers and their special counsel shall have received all such certified copies of such documents as they may reasonably request.

4.11 Note Documents

On the date of the Closing, all Note Documents shall be satisfactory to the Purchasers, shall have been duly executed and delivered by the parties thereto, shall be in full force and effect and shall constitute the legal, valid and binding obligations of each of the parties thereto, and the Purchasers shall have received originals or copies thereof.

4.12 Security

The Senior Debt Security shall create valid Liens in the Collateral in favour of the Collateral Agent, for the equal and rateable benefit of the Secured Parties (including the Purchasers). The Senior Debt Security shall have been registered, recorded and/or filed for record in such public offices or otherwise maintained in the possession of the appropriate party, as the case may be, as is necessary (and consistent with the requirements of the lenders under the Bank Facilities) to perfect the Collateral Agent's first priority Lien in the Collateral, for the equal and rateable benefit of the Secured Parties (including the Purchasers). The Purchasers shall have received evidence of all such registration, recordation and/or filing of the Senior Debt Security in such public offices. The Purchasers shall have received on or before the date of the Closing all of the Senior Debt Security, with each being satisfactory to each Purchaser and Purchasers' special counsel and (as applicable) duly executed and (also as applicable) sealed, attested, acknowledged, certified, or authenticated.

4.13 Funding Instructions

4.14 Proceedings and Documents

All corporate, partnership, legal and other proceedings in connection with the transactions contemplated by this Agreement and all documents and instruments (including the Constating Documents) incident to such transactions shall be satisfactory to the Purchasers and their special counsel, and the Purchasers and their special counsel shall have received all such counterpart originals or certified or other copies of the Constating Documents, and of all such other documents as they may reasonably request.

4.15 Permitted Senior Notes

All conditions contained in the Bank Facilities and in the Note Agreement (2003), if any, to the issuance of the Notes shall have been satisfied.

4.16 Conditions to Issuance of Additional Notes.

The obligations of the Additional Purchasers to purchase any Additional Notes issued by an Issuer shall be subject to the following conditions precedent, in addition to the conditions specified in the Supplement pursuant to which such Additional Notes may be issued:

(a) Compliance Certificate. A Senior Financial Officer of the Corporation or the Partnership, as applicable, shall execute and deliver to each Additional Purchaser and each holder of Notes an Officer's Certificate dated the date of issue of such series of Additional Notes stating that such officer has reviewed the provisions of this Agreement (including any Supplements hereto) and setting forth the information and computations (in sufficient detail) required in order to establish compliance with the requirements of Section 10 on such date;

(b) Execution and Delivery of Supplement. The Corporation, the Partnership and each such Additional Purchaser shall execute and deliver a Supplement substantially in the form of Exhibit 2.6 hereto;

(c) Execution and Delivery of Corporation Guarantee. If the Partnership is the issuer of the Additional Notes, the Corporation shall, in connection with the first issuance of Canadian Notes by the Partnership, execute and deliver the Corporation Guarantee required by Section 2.2(b);

(d) Representations of Additional Purchasers. Each Additional Purchaser shall have confirmed in the Supplement that the representations set forth in Sections 6.1 and 6.2 are true with respect to such Additional Purchaser on and as of the date of issue of the Additional Notes, and each Additional Purchaser shall have become a party to the Collateral Agency Agreement and the Representative Appointment Agreement; and

(e) Closing Conditions. The closing conditions set forth in Section 4 shall have been updated and performed as of the date of issuance of each series of Additional Notes with respect to such series of Additional Notes (regardless of whether such closing conditions initially apply only to the Series A Notes).

5. REPRESENTATIONS AND WARRANTIES

Each Issuer represents and warrants to each Purchaser as of the date of this Agreement, and as of the date of Closing, that:

5.1 Organization; Power and Authority

(a) The Corporation is a corporation duly organized, validly existing and in good standing under the laws of its jurisdiction of incorporation, and is validly registered as an extra-provincial or foreign corporation and is in good standing in each jurisdiction in which such registration is required by law, other than those jurisdictions as to which the failure to be so registered or in good standing could not, individually or in the aggregate, reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect. The Corporation has the corporate power and authority to own or hold under lease the properties it purports to own or hold under lease, to transact the business it transacts and proposes to transact, to execute and deliver the Note Documents to which it is a party and to perform the provisions hereof and thereof. The Corporation is subject to the relevant commercial law and is generally subject to suit and it does not, nor do any of its properties or revenues, enjoy any right of immunity from any judicial proceedings, including attachment prior to judgment, attachment in aid of execution, execution of the judgment or otherwise. The execution and delivery of the Note Documents to which the Corporation is a party constitute private and commercial acts rather than governmental or public acts of the Corporation.

(b) The Partnership is a general partnership duly constituted under the laws of its jurisdiction of formation pursuant to the Partnership Agreement, and is registered as such in each jurisdiction in which such registration is required by law, other than those jurisdictions as to which the failure to be so registered could not, individually or in the aggregate, reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect. The Partnership has the power and authority to own or hold under lease the properties it purports to own or hold under lease, to transact the business it transacts and proposes to transact, to execute and deliver the Note Documents to which it is a party, and to perform the provisions hereof and thereof. The Partnership is subject to the relevant commercial law and is generally subject to suit and it is not, nor do any of the properties or revenues of the Partnership, enjoy any right of immunity from any judicial proceedings, including attachment prior to judgment, attachment in aid of execution, execution of the judgment or otherwise. The execution and delivery of the Note Documents to which the Partnership is a party constitute private and commercial acts rather than governmental or public acts of the Partnership.

5.2 Authorization, etc.

The Note Documents have been duly authorized by all necessary corporate and partnership action on the part of the Issuer Party executing the same, and this Agreement constitutes, and upon execution and delivery thereof each other Note Document will constitute, a legal, valid and binding obligation of each Issuer Party party thereto enforceable against it in accordance with its terms, except as such enforceability may be limited by (i) applicable bankruptcy, insolvency, reorganization, moratorium or other similar laws affecting the enforcement of creditors' rights generally, and (ii) general principles of equity (regardless of whether such enforceability is considered in a proceeding in equity or at law).

5.3 Disclosure

The Corporation, through its placement agents, RBC Capital Markets and SPP Capital Partners, LLC, has delivered to each Purchaser a copy of a Private Placement Memorandum dated August 2004 (the "Memorandum"), relating to the transactions contemplated hereby. The Memorandum fairly describes, in all material respects, the general nature of the business and principal properties of the Issuers. The Note Documents, the Memorandum, the documents, certificates or other writings delivered to the Purchasers by or on behalf of each Issuer in connection with the transactions contemplated hereby and the financial statements listed in Schedule 5.5, taken as a whole, do not contain any untrue statement of a material fact or omit to state any material fact necessary to make the statements therein not misleading in light of the circumstances under which they were made. Except as disclosed in the Memorandum, or in the financial statements listed in Schedule 5.5, since December 31, 2003 there has been no change in the business, operations, affairs, financial condition, assets, properties or prospects of the Issuer Group except changes that individually or in the aggregate could not reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect. There is no fact known to any Issuer Group Entity that could reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect that has not been set forth herein or in the Memorandum.

5.4 Organization and Ownership of Shares of Subsidiaries; Affiliates

(a) Currently, the Corporation, KECC and Rimbey Pipeline Co. Ltd. are the only Subsidiaries of the Partnership, and Rimbey Pipeline Co. Ltd. is the only Subsidiary of the Corporation. Schedule 5.4 contains (except as noted therein) complete and correct lists of:

(i) Subsidiaries, showing, as to each Subsidiary, the correct name thereof, the jurisdiction of its organization, and the percentage of shares of each class of its capital shares or similar equity interests outstanding owned by the Partnership and each other Subsidiary;

(ii) Affiliates, other than Subsidiaries;

(iii) directors and officers of the Corporation; and

(iv) directors and officers of the Managing Partner of the Partnership.

(b) All of the outstanding shares or similar equity interests of each Subsidiary shown in Schedule 5.4 as being owned by the Partnership have been validly issued, are fully paid and non-assessable and are owned by the Partnership and its Subsidiaries free and clear of any Lien except the Senior Debt Security.

(c) No Issuer Group Entity is a party to, or otherwise subject to any legal restriction or any agreement (other than the Note Documents, the Constating Documents which impose the restrictions specified in Schedule 5.4, the agreements associated with the Bank Facilities which impose the restrictions specified in Schedule 5.4, the Note Agreement (2003) which imposes the restrictions specified in Schedule 5.4, and customary limitations imposed by corporate law or legally equivalent statutes) restricting:

(i) its ability to pay dividends out of profits or make any other similar distributions of profits to its equity owners; or

(ii) its ability to create the Liens of the Senior Debt Security.

Effective upon receipt of notice of such waiver, the Corporation shall then cease to have any right of prepayment with respect to such U.S. Notes under this Section 8.3 in respect of the Tax to which the notice relates; and

The term "Series A Make-Whole Amount" means, with respect to any Series A Note that is to be prepaid pursuant to Section 8.2 or Section 8.3 or has become or is declared to be immediately due and payable pursuant to Section 12.1, as the context requires, an amount equal to the excess, if any, of the Discounted Value of the Remaining Scheduled Payments (in Canadian Dollars) multiplied by the Conversion Factor over the amount of such Called Principal (in Canadian Dollars) multiplied by the Conversion Factor plus or minus the Settlement Amount, if any, deemed paid or received respectively by the holder of such Series A Note in connection with such prepayment or payment; provided that the Series A Make-Whole Amount may in no event be less than zero. Notwithstanding anything in this Agreement to the contrary, the Series A Make-Whole Amount shall be payable in U.S. Dollars.

For the purposes of determining the Series A Make-Whole Amount, the following terms have the following meanings:

"Called Principal" means, with respect to any Series A Note, the principal of such Series A Note that is to be prepaid pursuant to Section 8.2 or Section 8.3 or has become or is declared to be immediately due and payable pursuant to Section 12.1, as the context requires.

"Reinvestment Yield" for purposes of the Series A Make-Whole Amount means, with respect to the Called Principal of any Series A Note, (i) 50 basis points in the case of any prepayment of the Series A Notes pursuant to Section 8.2 or in the case of the acceleration of the Series A Notes pursuant to Section 12.1 or (ii) 75 basis points in the case of any prepayment or payment of the Series A Notes pursuant to Section 8.3 over, in each such case, the yield to maturity implied by (a) the yields reported, as of 10:00 A.M. (Chicago, Illinois time) on the second Business Day preceding the Settlement Date with respect to such Called Principal, on the display designated as "Page USD -PX1" of the Bloomberg Financial Markets Services Screen (or, if not available, any other national recognized trading screen reporting on-line intraday trading in the U.S. Treasury securities) for actively traded on-the-run U.S. Treasury securities having a maturity which is the same as the maturity date of such Called Principal as of such Settlement Date, or (b) if such yields are not reported as of such time or the yields reported as of such time are not ascertainable, the Treasury Constant Maturity Series Yields reported, for the latest day for which such yields have been so reported as of the second Business Day preceding the Settlement Date with respect to such Called Principal, in Federal Reserve Statistical Release H.15 (519) (or any comparable successor publication) for actively traded on-the-run U.S. Treasury securities having a constant maturity which is the same as the maturity date of such Called Principal as of such Settlement Date. Such implied yield will be determined, if necessary, by (i) converting U.S. Treasury bill quotations to bond-equivalent yields in accordance with accepted financial practice and (ii) interpolating linearly between (1) the actively traded on-the-run U.S. Treasury security with the maturity closest to and greater than the maturity date of such Called Principal and (2) the actively traded on-the-run U.S. Treasury security with the maturity closest to and less than the maturity date of such Called Principal.

"Remaining Scheduled Payments" means, with respect to the Called Principal of any Series A Note, the payment of such Called Principal and interest thereon that would be due after the Settlement Date with respect to such Called Principal if no payment of such Called Principal were made prior to its scheduled due date; provided that if such Settlement Date is not a date on which interest payments are due to be made under the terms of the Series A Notes, then the amount of the next succeeding scheduled interest payment will be reduced by the amount of interest accrued to such Settlement Date and required to be paid on such Settlement Date pursuant to Section 8.2, Section 8.3 or Section 12.1.

"Settlement Amount" means, with respect to any Swap related to any Series A Note, in determining the Series A Make-Whole Amount, the amount that would be paid or received by the holder of such Series A Note as if such Swap had terminated by reason of an event of default by such holder, which shall be an amount equal to the "Settlement Amount" as defined by the

International Swap and Derivatives Association, Inc.'s standard 1992 Multicurrency-Cross Border Master Agreement (the "Master Agreement") where:

(f) no election is made in the schedule to the Master Agreement or other amendment is made to the Master Agreement, other than the election of Second Method and Market Quotation (based upon the circumstances of such holder),

(g) such holder is not subject or entitled to any set-off or similar right with respect to such Swap, and payable in U.S. dollars. Notwithstanding anything contained herein to the contrary, the respective Settlement Amounts referred to above shall be, in each case, the Settlement Amount which would result in the smallest Settlement Amount being received or the largest Settlement Amount being paid, as the case may be, by a holder (adjusting for different principal amounts) pursuant to any of the Swaps described on Schedule 8.7.

"Settlement Date" means, with respect to the Called Principal of any Series A Note, the date on which such Called Principal is to be prepaid pursuant to Section 8.2 or Section 8.3 or has become or is declared to be immediately due and payable pursuant to Section 12.1, as the context requires.

"Swap" means each Currency Hedge Agreement described in Schedule 8.7 attached hereto on the date hereof and shall also include each Currency Hedge Agreement entered into by a holder of the Series A Notes subsequent to the date hereof, in any case to the extent such Swap relates to scheduled interest payments on the Notes. (m) an event of default under any Senior Debt Security shall have occurred and be continuing.

12. REMEDIES ON DEFAULT, ETC.

12.1 Acceleration

(a) If an Event of Default with respect to any Issuer described in paragraphs 11(g), 11(h) or 11(i) (other than an Event of Default described in clause (i) of Section 11(g) insofar as it pertains to such Issuer generally not paying its debts or meeting its liabilities as the same become due, or admitting in writing its inability to pay its debts generally, or described in Section 11(i) by virtue of the fact that such clause encompasses such portion of clause 11(g)(i) of Section 11(g)) has occurred, all the Notes then outstanding shall automatically become immediately due and payable;

(b) If any other Event of Default has occurred and is continuing, any holder or holders of at least 51% in principal amount of the Notes at the time outstanding may at any time at its or their option, by notice to the Issuers, declare all of the Notes then outstanding to be immediately due and payable;

(c) If any Event of Default described in paragraphs 11(a) or 11(b) of Section 11 has occurred and is continuing, any holder or holders of Notes at the time outstanding affected by such Event of Default may at any time, at its or their option, by notice or notices to the applicable Issuer, declare all of the Notes held by it or them to be immediately due and payable.

Upon any Notes becoming due and payable under this Section 12.1, whether automatically or by declaration, such Notes will forthwith mature and the entire unpaid principal amount of such Notes, plus (x) all accrued and unpaid interest thereon and (y) the Make-Whole Amount determined in respect of such principal amount (to the full extent permitted by Applicable Law), shall all be immediately due and payable, in each and every case without presentment, demand, protest or further notice, all of which are hereby waived.

The Issuers acknowledge, and the parties hereto agree, that each holder of a Note has the right to maintain its investment in the Notes free from repayment by the Issuers (except as herein specifically provided for) and that the provision for payment of a Make-Whole Amount by an Issuer in the event that the Notes are prepaid or are accelerated as a result of an Event of Default, is intended to provide compensation for the deprivation of such right under such circumstances.

At any time during the existence of an Event of Default and for so long as the Collateral Agency Agreement is in effect, the holders of Notes shall be entitled to commence and pursue enforcement actions under and in accordance with the Collateral Agency Agreement.

12.2 Other Remedies

If any Default or Event of Default has occurred and is continuing, and irrespective of whether any Notes have become or have been declared immediately due and payable under Section 12.1, the holder of any Note at the time outstanding may proceed to protect and enforce the rights of such holder by an action at law, suit in equity or other appropriate proceeding, whether for the specific performance of any agreement contained herein or in any Note, or for an injunction against a violation of any of the terms hereof or thereof, or in aid of the exercise of any power granted hereby or thereby or by law or otherwise.

12.3 Rescission

At any time after any Notes have been declared due and payable pursuant to clause 12.1(b) or 12.1(c), the holders of at least 55% in principal amount of the Notes then outstanding, by written notice to the applicable Issuer, may rescind and annul any such declaration and its consequences if:

(a) the Issuers have paid all overdue interest on the Notes, all principal of and Make-Whole Amount, if any, on any Notes that are due and payable and are unpaid other than by reason of such declaration, and all interest on such overdue principal and Make-Whole Amount, if any, and (to the extent permitted by applicable law) any overdue interest in respect of the Notes, at the Default Rate;

(b) all Events of Default and Defaults, other than non-payment of amounts that have become due solely by reason of such declaration, have been cured or have been waived pursuant to Section 18; and

(c) no judgment or decree has been entered for the payment of any monies due pursuant hereto or to the Notes.

No rescission and annulment under this Section 12.3 will extend to or affect any subsequent Event of Default or Default or impair any right consequent thereon.

12.4 No Waivers or Election of Remedies, Expenses, etc.

No course of dealing and no delay on the part of any holder of any Note in exercising any right, power or remedy shall operate as a waiver thereof or otherwise prejudice such holder's rights, powers or remedies. No right, power or remedy conferred by this Agreement or by any Note upon any holder thereof shall be exclusive of any other right, power or remedy referred to herein or therein or now or hereafter available at law, in equity, by statute or otherwise. Without limiting the obligations of the Issuers under Section 16, the applicable Issuer will pay to the holder of each of such Issuer's Notes on demand such further amount as shall be sufficient to cover all costs and expenses of such holder incurred in any enforcement or collection under this Section 12, including reasonable legal fees, expenses and disbursements.

13. SECURITY

13.1 Security

To secure the due and punctual payment of principal and interest on the Notes, the Make-Whole Amount and all other amounts owing, outstanding and payable under the Note Documents, each Issuer acknowledges and confirms that the documents and instruments set forth in Schedule 13.1 (collectively, and as added to or amended from time to time pursuant to the provisions of this Agreement, the "Senior Debt Security") have been, or will be, as the case may be, executed and delivered to the Collateral Agent for the benefit of, among others as provided in the Collateral Agency Agreement, all holders of Notes, as and by way of continuing collateral security.

In addition, each Issuer shall cause to be executed and delivered:

(a) with respect to any Subsidiary Guarantor hereafter established (but only if the Notes are then secured), a floating charge debenture of such Subsidiary Guarantor granting a Lien on all of its present and after-acquired real and personal property and a pledge agreement in respect of each such debenture; and

(b) such other assignments, mortgages, charges, pledges and other security agreements, consents and acknowledgements (including negative pledges) as may be delivered pursuant to the Bank Facilities from time to time.

Each Issuer shall keep and maintain, or cause to be kept and maintained as applicable, the Senior Debt Security in full force and effect for so long as any amounts are owing under the Note Documents.

13.2 Continuing Security

Each item or part of the Senior Debt Security shall for all purposes be treated as a separate and continuing collateral security and shall be deemed to have been given in addition to and not in place of any other item or part of the Senior Debt Security or any other security now held or hereafter acquired by or for the benefit of any Secured Party. No item or part of the Senior Debt Security shall be merged or be deemed to have been merged in or by this Agreement or any other Note Document or any documents, instruments or acknowledgements delivered hereunder or thereunder, any simple contract debt or any judgment and any realization of or steps taken under or pursuant to any security, instrument or agreement shall be independent of and not create a merger with any other right available to any Secured Party under any security, instruments or agreements held by such Secured Party or at law or in equity.

13.3 Dealing with Security

The Secured Parties may grant extensions of time or other indulgences, take and give securities (including the Senior Debt Security or any part thereof), accept compositions, grant releases and discharges and otherwise deal with the Issuer Parties and other parties and with securities (including the Senior Debt Security and each part thereof) as such Secured Parties may see fit, and may apply all moneys received from realization on the Senior Debt Security upon such part of the liabilities of the Issuer Parties under the Note Documents, as applicable, as such holders may think best, without prejudice to or in any way limiting the liability of any Issuer Party.

13.4 Effectiveness

The Senior Debt Security hereby contemplated or required to be created shall be effective, and the undertakings as to the security herein or in any document hereunder shall be continuing, whether the moneys hereby or thereby secured or any part thereof shall be advanced before or after or at the same time as the creation of any such Senior Debt Security or before or after or upon the date of execution of any amendments to this Agreement or any other Note Document.

13.5 Conflict

In the event of any conflict between the terms of this Agreement and the Senior Debt Security, the provisions of this Agreement shall prevail as between the Issuer Parties and the holders of the Notes to the extent necessary to remove such conflict.

13.6 Permitted Encumbrances and Debt

None of:

(a) the fact that any Issuer or Subsidiary Guarantor is permitted to create, assume or suffer to exist any Debt or Permitted Encumbrance;

(b) the fact that any representation, warranty or covenant herein may make an exception for the existence of any Debt or Permitted Encumbrance; or

(c) the fact that the Liens created pursuant to the Senior Debt Security may be stated to be subject to, or are not required to rank in priority to, Permitted Encumbrances;

shall, in and of themselves, in any manner, nor in any cause or proceeding, directly or indirectly, be taken to constitute a subordination of any Lien created pursuant to the Senior Debt Security to any Permitted Encumbrance, it being the intention of the parties that all Liens created pursuant to the Senior Debt Security shall at all times rank as first priority Liens (subject to the provisions of the Collateral Agency Agreement and also subject to any Permitted Liens which rank in priority under Applicable Law) in priority to all other Permitted Encumbrances unless the Collateral Agent holding the Senior Debt Security, with the written consent of the holders of $66^2/_3\%$ or more of the outstanding principal amount of the Notes, delivers a subordination or postponement agreement to that effect in accordance with the provisions of the Collateral Agency Agreement.

13.7 British Columbia Land Title Act

For all purposes, including any application to register a crystallized floating charge under the Land Title Act (British Columbia) against any real property, the floating charge created by the Senior Debt Security shall be crystallized and become a fixed charge upon the earliest of:

(a) the occurrence of an event described in Section 11(g), 11(h), or 11(i) hereof; or

(b) the holders of the Notes making any declaration for payment pursuant to Section 12.1 hereof, unless the Required Holders otherwise state at that time; or

(c) the Secured Parties taking any action pursuant to the Senior Debt Security to enforce and realize upon any of the Liens created by the Senior Debt Security;

and in any event upon the appointment by the Secured Parties of a receiver or receiver-manager pursuant to the Senior Debt Security.

13.8 Waiver of Saskatchewan Legislation

Each of the Issuers covenants and agrees with the holders of the Notes that:

(a) the Land Contracts (Actions) Act (Saskatchewan) shall have no application to any action, as in such Act defined, with respect to any mortgage created by the Senior Debt Security; and

(b) the Limitation of Civil Rights (Saskatchewan) shall have no application to:

(i) the Senior Debt Security;

(ii) any indenture, instrument or agreement entered into by any Issuer or Subsidiary Guarantor at any time hereafter, supplemental or ancillary to or in implementation of the Senior Debt Security and involving the payment by any Issuer Party or Subsidiary Guarantor of money, or the liability of any Issuer Party or Subsidiary Guarantor to pay money;

(iii) any mortgage, charge or other security for the payment of money made, given or created by the Senior Debt Security or by any indenture, instrument or agreement referred to or mentioned in paragraph (b)(ii);

(iv) any instrument or agreement entered into by any Issuer Party or Subsidiary Guarantor at any time hereafter, renewing or extending or supplementary to the Senior Debt Security or renewing or extending or supplementary to any indenture, instrument or agreement referred to or mentioned in paragraph (b)(ii)or renewing or extending supplementary collateral to any mortgage, charge or other security referred to or mentioned in paragraph (iii); or

(v) the rights, powers, or remedies of the holders of the Notes or any one or more of them under the Senior Debt Security or under any mortgage, charge, other security, indenture, instrument or agreement referred to or mentioned in paragraphs (b)(i) to (v), inclusive.

13.9 Composite Mortgage

Each item of the Senior Debt Security is a composite mortgage and security agreement covering the property of the applicable Issuer or Subsidiary Guarantor located in the various Provinces of Canada and elsewhere and, as to portions of the property located in such separate jurisdictions, each item of the Senior Debt Security shall be a separate mortgage and security agreement enforceable against the applicable Issuer or Subsidiary Guarantor without regard to the application of the Senior Debt Security to portions of the property of the applicable Issuer or Subsidiary Guarantor located in other jurisdictions. All provisions thereof shall be applicable separately to the portions of the property located in each separate jurisdiction with the same effect as if a separate mortgage and security agreement with respect thereto had been executed and delivered.

13.10 Release of Senior Debt Security

The holders of Notes agree that forthwith following 30 days after receipt from each Issuer of an Officer's Certificate certifying that:

(a) the lenders under the Bank Facilities, the holders of notes under the Note Agreement (2003) and all other holders of Debt secured by the Senior Debt Security, have agreed to release all of the Senior Debt Security concurrently with the holders of Notes; and

(b) no Event of Default or Default exists or will exist after giving effect hereto;

the holders of Notes will release and discharge the mortgages, charges and security interests created by the Senior Debt Security unless, within such 30 day period, a Default or Event of Default exists. If such mortgages, charges and security are released pursuant to this Section, the holders of the Notes and the Issuers agree that this Agreement shall be deemed to be amended to give effect to such release and to delete all references to such security herein and in all covenants and obligations of the Issuers with respect thereto. For certainty, nothing in this Section shall require the termination of any item of security which does not create a mortgage, charge or security interest, including the Subordination Agreements and the Senior Debt Guarantees.

If the lenders under the Bank Facilities, the holders of notes under the Note Agreement (2003) and the other holders of Senior Debt secured by the Senior Debt Security have agreed to release all of the Senior Debt Security subject to certain conditions, or in exchange for additional assurances, or for other consideration, the benefit of such conditions, assurances or other consideration shall also be extended for the benefit of the holders of Notes on an equivalent basis, and the obligation of such holders to release the Senior Debt Security under this clause shall be subject to their receipt thereof.

13.11 Registrations and Renewals

The Issuers shall and shall cause each other applicable Issuer Group Entity to, at the Issuers' sole cost and expense, do all such acts, execute all such instruments and provide such further assurances as special counsel to the Collateral Agent may reasonably request to ensure that the priority of the Security Interests created by all of the Senior Debt Security delivered to the Collateral Agent as contemplated hereby is duly protected and perfected by registration, filing or recordation of such Senior Debt Security or a caution, caveat, security notice or other appropriate instrument at all offices where necessary (and consistent with the requirements of the lenders under the Bank Facilities) to the protection or perfection thereof; and to so cooperate with the Collateral Agent and the Collateral Agent's special counsel in renewing or refiling any registration, filing or recordation required hereby in order to preserve, protect and maintain the priority of such Security Interest, from time to time.

14. REGISTRATION; EXCHANGE; SUBSTITUTION OF NOTES

14.1 Registration of Notes

Each Issuer shall keep at its principal executive office a register for the registration and registration of transfers of its Notes. The name and address of each holder of one or more Notes, each transfer thereof and the name and address of each transferee of one or more Notes shall be registered in such register. Prior to due presentment for registration of transfer, the Person in whose name any Note shall be registered shall be deemed and treated as the owner and holder thereof for all purposes hereof, and the applicable Issuer shall not be affected by any notice or knowledge to the contrary. The Issuers shall give to any holder of a Note that is an Institutional Investor promptly upon request therefor, a complete and correct copy of the names and addresses of all registered holders of Notes.

14.2 Transfer and Exchange of Notes

Upon surrender of any Note at the principal executive office of the applicable Issuer for registration of transfer or exchange (and in the case of a surrender for registration of transfer, duly endorsed or accompanied by a written instrument of transfer duly executed by the registered holder of such Note or his attorney duly authorized in writing and accompanied by the address for notices of each transferee of such Note or part thereof), such Issuer shall execute and deliver, at such Issuer's expense (except as provided below), one or more new Notes (as requested by the holder thereof) in exchange therefor, in an aggregate principal amount equal to the unpaid principal amount of the surrendered Note. Each such new Note shall be payable to such Person as such holder may request and shall be substantially in the form of Exhibit 1.1A (in the case of Series A Notes), or in respect of any other series, in the form established by the Supplement relating thereto. Each such new Note shall be dated and bear interest from the date to which interest shall have been paid on the surrendered Note or dated the date of the surrendered Note if no interest shall have been paid thereon. The respective Issuer may require payment of a sum sufficient to cover any stamp tax or governmental charge imposed in respect of any such transfer of Notes. Notes shall not be transferred in denominations of less than Cdn. $200,000, provided that if necessary to enable the registration of transfer by a holder of its entire holding of Notes, a Note may be in a denomination less than such amounts.

Any transferee of a Note, or purchaser of a participation therein, shall, by its acceptance of such Note be deemed to make the same representations to the applicable Issuer regarding the Note or participation as the Purchasers have made pursuant to Section 6, provided that such entity may (in reliance upon information provided by the Issuers, which shall not be unreasonably withheld) make a representation to the effect that the purchase by such entity of any Note will not constitute a non-exempt prohibited transaction under Section 406(a) of ERISA.

14.3 Replacement of Notes

Upon receipt by any Issuer of evidence reasonably satisfactory to it of the ownership of and the loss, theft, destruction or mutilation of any of its Notes (which evidence shall be, in the case of an Institutional Investor, notice from such Institutional Investor of such ownership and such loss, theft, destruction or mutilation), and

(a) in the case of loss, theft or destruction, of indemnity reasonably satisfactory to it (provided that if the holder of such Note is, or is a nominee for, an original Purchaser or another holder of a Note with a minimum net worth of at least U.S. $25,000,000 (or its equivalent in any other currency), such Person's own unsecured agreement of indemnity shall be deemed to be satisfactory); or

(b) in the case of mutilation, upon surrender and cancellation thereof;

such Issuer at its own expense shall execute and deliver, in lieu thereof, a new Note, dated and bearing interest from the date to which interest shall have been paid on such lost, stolen, destroyed or mutilated Note or dated the date of such lost, stolen, destroyed or mutilated Note if no interest shall have been paid thereon.

15. PAYMENTS ON NOTES

15.1 Place of Payment

Subject to Section 15.2, payments of principal, Make-Whole Amount, if any, and interest becoming due and payable on the Notes shall be made in Calgary, Alberta at the principal office of the applicable Issuer in such jurisdiction. The applicable Issuer may at any time, by notice to each holder of a Note, change the place of payment of the Notes so long as such place of payment shall be either the principal office of such Issuer in such jurisdiction or the principal office of a bank or trust company in such jurisdiction.

15.2 Home Office Payment

So long as a Purchaser or its nominee shall be the holder of any Note, and notwithstanding anything contained in Section 15.1 or in such Note to the contrary, the applicable Issuer will pay (or cause its agent to pay) all sums becoming due on such Note for principal, Make-Whole Amount, if any, and interest by the method and at the address specified for such purpose below such Purchaser's or nominee's name in Schedule A, or by such other method or at such other address as such Purchaser shall have from time to time specified to the respective Issuer in writing for such purpose, without the presentation or surrender of such Note or the making of any notation thereon, except that upon written request of such Issuer made concurrently with or reasonably promptly after payment or prepayment in full of any Note, such Purchaser shall surrender such Note for cancellation, reasonably promptly after any such request, to such Issuer at its principal executive office or at the place of payment most recently designated by such Issuer pursuant to Section 15.1. Prior to any sale or other disposition of any Note held by a Purchaser or its nominee such Purchaser will, at its election, either endorse thereon the amount of principal paid thereon and the last date to which interest has been paid thereon or surrender such Note to the applicable Issuer in exchange for a new Note or Notes pursuant to Section 14.2. The applicable Issuer will afford the benefits of this Section 15.2 to any Institutional Investor that is the direct or indirect transferee of any Note purchased by a Purchaser under this Agreement and that has made the same agreement relating to such Note as such Purchaser has made in this Section 15.2.

16. EXPENSES, ETC.

16.1 Transaction Expenses

Whether or not the transactions contemplated hereby are consummated, the Issuers will pay all reasonable costs and expenses (including reasonable attorneys' fees of a special counsel and, if reasonably required, local or other counsel) incurred by the Purchasers and any other holder of a Note in connection with such transactions and in connection with any amendments, waivers or consents under or in respect of the Note Documents (whether or not such amendment, waiver or consent becomes effective), including:

(a) the reasonable costs and expenses incurred in enforcing or defending (or determining whether or how to enforce or defend) any rights under the Note Documents or in responding to any subpoena or other legal process or informal investigative demand issued in connection with the Note Documents, or by reason of being a holder of any Note;

(b) the reasonable costs and expenses, including financial advisors' fees, incurred in connection with the insolvency or bankruptcy of an Issuer Party or Restricted Subsidiary or in connection with any work-out or restructuring of the transactions contemplated by the Note Documents; and

(c) the reasonable cost and expenses incurred in connection with the initial filing of any Note Document, all related documents and financial information, all subsequent annual and interim filings of documents and financial information

related hereto with the Securities Valuation Office of the National Association of Insurance Commissioners or any successor organization succeeding to the authority thereof.

The Issuers will pay, and will save each Purchaser and each other holder of a Note harmless from, all claims in respect of any fees, costs or expenses, if any, of brokers and finders (other than those retained by any such Purchaser or holder). In addition, the Issuers agree to pay all stamp, documentary or similar taxes which may be payable in respect of the execution and delivery or the enforcement of the Note Documents, and will save each holder of a Note to the extent permitted by applicable law harmless against any loss or liability resulting from non-payment or delay in payment of any such tax required to be paid by the Issuer Group Entity hereunder.

16.2 Survival

The obligations of the Issuers under this Section 16 will survive the payment or transfer of any Note, the enforcement, amendment or waiver of any provision of this Agreement or the Notes, and the termination of this Agreement.

17. SURVIVAL OF REPRESENTATIONS AND WARRANTIES; ENTIRE AGREEMENT

All representations and warranties contained herein shall survive the execution and delivery of this Agreement and the Notes, the purchase or transfer by a Purchaser of its Notes or portion thereof or interest therein and the payment of any Note, and may be relied upon by any subsequent holder of a Note, regardless of any investigation made at any time by or on behalf of any Purchaser or any other holder of a Note. All statements contained in any certificate or other instrument delivered by or on behalf of any Issuer pursuant to this Agreement shall be deemed representations and warranties of such Issuer under this Agreement. Subject to the preceding sentence, the Note Documents embody the entire agreement and understanding between the Purchasers and the Issuers and supersede all prior agreements and understandings relating to the subject matter hereof.

18. AMENDMENT AND WAIVER

18.1 Requirements

(a) This Agreement and the Notes may be amended, and the observance of any term hereof or of the Notes may be waived (either retroactively or prospectively), with (and only with) the written consent of the Issuers and the Required Holders, except that (a) no amendment or waiver of any of the provisions of Sections 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 or 22 hereof, or any defined term (as it is used therein), will be effective as to any Purchaser unless consented to by such Purchaser in writing, and (b) no such amendment or waiver may, without the written consent of the holder of each Note at the time outstanding affected thereby, (i) subject to the provisions of Section 12 relating to acceleration or rescission, change the amount or time of any prepayment or payment of principal of, or reduce the rate or change the time of payment or method of computation of interest or of the Make-Whole Amount on, the Notes, (ii) change the percentage of the principal amount of the Notes the holders of which are required to consent to any such amendment or waiver, or (iii) amend any of Sections 8, 11(a), 11(b), 12, 13, 18 or 21, or amend or release any Subordination Agreement (subject to Section 9.9), any Senior Debt Guarantee (subject to Section 9.8) or any Senior Debt Security (subject to Section 13.10).

(b) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained herein, the Corporation and the Partnership may enter into any supplement providing for the issuance of one or more series of Additional Notes in accordance with and pursuant to Sections 2.6 and 4.16 hereof without obtaining the consent of any holder of any other series of Notes.

18.2 Solicitation of holders of Notes

(a) The Issuers will provide each holder of the Notes (irrespective of the amount of Notes then owned by it) with sufficient information, sufficiently far in advance of the date a decision is required, to enable such holder to make an informed and considered decision with respect to any proposed amendment, waiver or consent in respect of any of the provisions hereof or of the Notes. The Issuers will deliver executed or true and correct copies of each amendment, waiver or consent effected pursuant to the provisions of this Section 18 to each holder of outstanding Notes promptly following the date on which it is executed and delivered by, or receives the consent or approval of, the requisite holders of Notes;

(b) The Issuers will not directly or indirectly pay or cause to be paid any remuneration, whether by way of supplemental or additional interest, fee or otherwise, or grant any security, to any holder of Notes as consideration for or as an inducement to the entering into by any holder of Notes or any waiver or amendment of any of the terms and provisions hereof unless such remuneration is concurrently paid, or security is concurrently granted, on the same terms, ratably to each holder of Notes then outstanding even if such holder did not consent to such waiver or amendment.

18.3 Binding Effect, etc.

Any amendment or waiver consented to as provided in this Section 18 applies equally to all holders of Notes and is binding upon them and upon each future holder of any Note and upon the Issuers without regard to whether such Note has been marked to indicate such amendment or waiver. No such amendment or waiver will extend to or affect any obligation, covenant, agreement, Default or Event of Default not expressly amended or waived or impair any right consequent thereon. No course of dealing between an Issuer and the holder of any Note nor any delay in exercising any rights hereunder or under any Note shall operate as a waiver of any rights of any holder of such Note. As used herein, the term "this Agreement" and references thereto shall mean this Agreement as it may from time to time be amended or supplemented.

18.4 Notes held by Issuers, etc.

Solely for the purpose of determining whether the holders of the requisite percentage of the aggregate principal amount of Notes then outstanding approved or consented to any amendment, waiver or consent to be given under this Agreement or the Notes, or have directed the taking of any action provided herein or in the Notes to be taken upon the direction of the holders of a specified percentage of the aggregate principal amount of Notes then outstanding, Notes directly or indirectly owned by any Issuer or any of its Affiliates shall be deemed not to be outstanding.

19. NOTICES

All notices and communications provided for hereunder shall be in writing and sent (a) by telecopy if the sender on the same day sends a confirming copy of such notice by a recognized overnight delivery service (charges prepaid), or (b) by registered or certified mail with return receipt requested (postage prepaid), or (c) by a recognized overnight delivery service (with charges prepaid). Any such notice must be sent:

(i) if to a Purchaser or its nominee, to such Purchaser or nominee at the address specified for such communications in Schedule A, or at such other address as it shall have specified to the Issuers in writing;

(ii) if to any other holder of any Note, to such holder at such address as such other holder shall have specified to the Issuers in writing; or

(iii) if to any Issuer, to such Issuer at its address set forth at the beginning hereof or at such other address as such Issuer shall have specified to the holder of each Note in writing.

Notices under this Section 19 will be deemed given only when actually received.

20. REPRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS

This Agreement and all documents relating thereto, including (a) consents, waivers and modifications that may hereafter be executed, (b) documents received by the Purchasers at the Closing (except the Notes themselves), and (c) financial statements, certificates and other information previously or hereafter furnished to the Purchasers, may be reproduced by the Purchasers by any photographic, photostatic, microfilm, microcard, miniature photographic or other similar process and the Purchasers may destroy any original document so reproduced. Each of the Issuers agrees and stipulates that, to the extent permitted by applicable law, any such reproduction shall be admissible in evidence as the original itself in any judicial or administrative proceeding (whether or not the original is in existence and whether or not such reproduction was made by a Purchaser in the regular course of business) and any enlargement, facsimile or further reproduction of such reproduction shall likewise be admissible in evidence. This Section 20 shall not prohibit an Issuer or any other holder of Notes from contesting any such reproduction to the same extent that it could contest the original, or from introducing evidence to demonstrate the inaccuracy of any such reproduction.

21. CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION

For the purposes of this Section 21, "Confidential Information" means the Memorandum and all other information delivered to any Purchaser by or on behalf of the Issuers or any Subsidiary in connection with the transactions contemplated by or otherwise pursuant to this Agreement that is proprietary in nature and that was clearly marked or labelled or otherwise adequately identified when received by such Purchaser as being confidential information of the Issuers or such Subsidiary, provided that such term does not include information that (a) was publicly known or otherwise known to such Purchaser prior to the time of such disclosure, (b) subsequently becomes publicly known through no act or omission by such Purchaser or any person acting on its behalf, (c) otherwise becomes known to such Purchaser other than through disclosure by the Issuers or any Subsidiary or (d) constitutes financial statements delivered to such Purchaser under Section 7.1 that are otherwise publicly available. Each Purchaser will maintain the confidentiality of such Confidential Information in accordance with procedures adopted by it in good faith to protect confidential information of third parties delivered to such Purchaser, provided that such Purchaser may deliver or disclose Confidential Information to (i) its directors, trustees, officers, employees, agents, attorneys and affiliates (to the extent such disclosure reasonably relates to the administration of the investment represented by such Purchaser's Notes), (ii) its financial advisors and other professional advisors who agree to hold confidential the Confidential Information substantially in accordance with the terms of this Section 21, (iii) any other holder of any Note, (iv) any Institutional Investor to which it sells or offers to sell such Note or any part thereof or any participation therein (if such Person has agreed in writing prior to its receipt of such Confidential Information to be bound by the provisions of this Section 21), (v) any Person from which it offers to purchase any security of an Issuer (if such Person has agreed in writing prior to its receipt of such Confidential Information to be bound by the provisions of this Section 21), (vi) any federal, state or provincial regulatory authority having jurisdiction over it, (vii) the National Association of Insurance Commissioners or any similar organization, or any nationally recognized rating agency that requires access to information about its investment portfolio or (viii) any other Person to which such delivery or disclosure may be necessary or appropriate (w) to effect compliance with any law, rule, regulation or order applicable to it, (x) in response to any subpoena or other legal process, (y) in connection with any litigation to which it is a party or (z) if an Event of Default has occurred and is continuing, to the extent it may reasonably determine such delivery and disclosure to be necessary or appropriate in the enforcement or for the protection of the rights and remedies under each Purchaser's Notes and this Agreement. Each holder of a Note, by its acceptance of a Note, will be deemed to have agreed to be bound by and to be entitled to the benefits of this Section 21 as though it were a party to this Agreement. On reasonable request by the Issuers in connection with the delivery to any holder of a Note of information required to be delivered to such holder under this Agreement or requested by such holder (other than a holder that is a party to this Agreement or its nominee), such holder will enter into an agreement with the Issuers embodying, or confirming, the provisions of this Section 21.

22. SUBSTITUTION OF PURCHASER

Each Purchaser shall have the right to substitute any one of its Affiliates as the purchaser of the Notes that it has agreed to purchase hereunder, by written notice to the applicable Issuer, which notice shall be signed by both such Purchaser and such Affiliate, shall contain such Affiliate's agreement to be bound by this Agreement and shall contain a confirmation by such Affiliate of the accuracy with respect to it of the representations set forth in Section 6. Upon receipt of such notice, wherever the word "Purchaser" is used in this Agreement (other than in this Section 22), such word shall be deemed to refer to such Affiliate. In the event that such Affiliate is so substituted as a purchaser hereunder and such Affiliate thereafter transfers to the Purchaser all of the Notes then held by such Affiliate, upon receipt by the applicable Issuer of notice of such transfer, wherever the word "Purchaser" is used in this Agreement (other than in this section), such word shall no longer be deemed to refer to such Affiliate, but shall refer to such Purchaser, and such Purchaser shall have all the rights of an original holder of the Notes under this Agreement.

23. NOTE REPAYMENT NET OF WITHHOLDING IMPOSTS

(a) All payments by the Corporation under any U.S. Note, whether in respect of principal, Make-Whole Amount (if any), interest, interest on overdue interest, fees or any other payment obligations, shall be made in full without any deduction or withholding on account of taxes or duties of whatsoever nature imposed or levied by or on behalf of Canada or any Governmental Authority in Canada having power to tax unless the Corporation is prohibited by Applicable Law from doing so, in which event the Corporation shall:

(i) forthwith pay to the holder of each U.S. Note as additional interest on the principal amount of the U.S. Notes such additional amount (a "Tax Indemnity Amount") so that the net amount received by the holder after payment of such deductions and withholdings will equal the full amount which would have been received by it had no such deduction or withholding been made;

(ii) pay to the relevant taxation or other authorities within the period for payment permitted by Applicable Law the full amount of the deduction or withholding (including the full amount of any deduction or withholding from any additional amount paid pursuant to this paragraph (a)); and

(iii) furnish to the holder of each U.S. Note promptly, as soon as available, an official receipt of the relevant taxation or other authorities involved for all amounts deducted or withheld as aforesaid;

Any reference in this Agreement to principal, Make-Whole Amount, interest, interest on overdue interest, fees or any other payment obligation of the Corporation shall be deemed also to refer to any additional amounts payable pursuant to this paragraph (a) ;

(b) If as a result of any payment by the Corporation under any U.S. Note, whether in respect of principal, Make-Whole Amount (if any), interest, interest on overdue interest, fees or other payment obligations, any holder of a U.S. Note is required to pay tax under Part XIII of the Tax Act, then the Corporation will, upon demand by such holder of any U.S. Note, indemnify the holder of each U.S. Note for the payment of any such taxes, together with any interest, penalties and expenses in connection therewith. All such amounts shall be payable by the Corporation on demand and shall bear interest at the Default Rate calculated from the date demanded by such holder to the date paid by the Corporation;

(c) If, following any payment made by the Corporation to any holder of U.S. Notes under paragraph (a)(i) above or any indemnity payment made by the Corporation to any holder of U.S. Notes under paragraph (b) above, such holder shall determine in its sole discretion if it has received or has been granted a refund, credit, allowance or remission in respect of the taxes or duties resulting in the payment thereof and such holder is able to identify such refund, credit, allowance or remission as being attributable to such taxes or duties, such holder shall, to the extent that it can do so without prejudice to the retention of the amount of such refund, credit, allowance or remission and without prejudice to the right of such holder to obtain any other relief or allowance which may be available to it, reimburse the Corporation with such amount as such holder, acting reasonably, determines to be the amount of money attributable to such refund, credit, allowance or remission that may be paid by such holder to leave it (after such reimbursement) in no worse position than it would have been in had there been no such deduction or withholding or payment of tax which resulted in the payment under paragraph (a)(i) or (b) above. Such holder may charge to the Corporation (and may deduct from amounts reimbursable to the Corporation hereunder) a fee reasonably determined by such holder to compensate it for any additional effort expended or cost incurred in determining such credit or remission or allocating it to the Corporation. Notwithstanding the foregoing, no holder shall be obligated to disclose to the Corporation, or any of its agents, any computation made by such holder in connection with this paragraph 23(c) or any information regarding such holder's tax status or affairs;

(d) Notwithstanding the provisions of this Section 23, no Tax Indemnity Amounts shall be payable (i) to any holder of U.S. Notes which does not deal at arm's length (within the meaning of the Tax Act) with the Corporation; (ii) to any holder of the U.S. Notes which is liable for any Tax by reason of it being or having been connected to Canada for any reason or in any capacity other than solely as a holder of a U.S. Note; (iii) for or on account of any Tax that is imposed or withheld by reason of the failure of the holder to complete, execute and deliver to the Corporation any form or document to the extent applicable to such holder that may be required by law or by reason of administration of such law and which is reasonably requested in writing to be delivered by the Corporation in order to enable the Corporation to make payments on the U.S. Notes without deduction or withholding for taxes, assessments or governmental charges, or with deduction of withholding of a lesser amount, which form or document shall be delivered within 60 days of a written request therefor by the Corporation; provided that nothing in this clause shall require a holder to disclose confidential or proprietary information; or (iv) in the case where such holder is not a resident (within the meaning of the United States-Canada Income Tax Convention) of the United States of America, in excess of the amount which the Corporation would have been obligated to pay hereunder if such holder were resident in the United States of America for the purposes of such treaty; and

(e) For certainty, no Tax Indemnity Amounts shall be payable by the Issuers with respect to Canadian Notes.

24. INTEREST

(a) In respect of any overdue amounts hereunder or under the Notes where no provision is made herein or therein for payment of interest thereon, the applicable Issuer shall pay interest on such overdue amounts on demand, calculated from the date such unpaid amount is due until such unpaid amount is paid in full, at the Default Rate;

(b) In no event shall any interest or fee to be paid hereunder or under a Note exceed the maximum rate permitted by Applicable Law. In the event any such interest rate or fee exceeds such maximum rate, such rate shall be adjusted downward to the highest rate (expressed as a percentage per annum) or fee that the parties could validly have agreed to by contract on the date hereof under Applicable Law. It is further agreed that any excess actually received by a holder of a Note shall be credited against the principal of the Notes (or, if the principal shall have been or would thereby be paid in full, the remaining amount shall be credited or paid to the applicable Issuer);

(c) All interest (including interest on overdue interest) payable by an Issuer hereunder and under the Notes shall accrue from day to day, computed as provided herein, and shall be payable after as well as before maturity, demand, default and judgment;

(d) Interest on the Notes shall be computed on the basis of a 360-day year of 12 30-day months. Solely for purposes of the Interest Act (Canada), the yearly rate of interest to which interest calculated for a period of less than one year on the basis of a year of 360 days consisting of 12 30-day periods is equivalent is such rate of interest multiplied by a fraction of which (i) the numerator is the product of (A) the actual number of days in the year commencing on the first day of such period, multiplied by (B) the sum of (y) the product of 30 multiplied by the number of complete months elapsed in such period and (z) the actual number of days elapsed in any incomplete month in such period; and (ii) the denominator is the product of (a) 360 multiplied by (b) the actual number of days in such period;

(e) The theory of "deemed reinvestment" shall not apply to the computation of interest and no allowance, reduction or deduction shall be made for the deemed reinvestment of interest in respect of any payments. Calculation of interest shall be made using the nominal rate method, and not the effective rate method, of calculation;

(f) To the extent permitted by law, Section 6 of the Judgment Interest Act (Alberta) is hereby waived and shall not apply to this Agreement or the Notes.

25. JUDGMENT CURRENCY

If, for the purposes of obtaining or enforcing judgment against an Issuer in any court, or for any other related purpose hereunder, it is necessary to convert an amount due under this Agreement or any Note in the currency in which it is due (the "Original Currency") into another currency (the "Second Currency"), the rate of exchange applicable shall be the daily noon day rate quoted by the Bank of Canada on the relevant date to purchase the Original Currency with the Second Currency and includes any premium and costs of exchange payable in connection with such purchase. Each Issuer agrees that its obligation in respect of any Original Currency due from it shall, notwithstanding any judgment or payment in the Second Currency, be discharged only to the extent that on the Business Day following the receipt of any sum so paid or adjudged to be due hereunder in the Second Currency the payee may purchase in the market the Original Currency with the amount of the Second Currency so paid or so adjudicated to be due; and if the amount of the Original Currency so purchased is less than the amount originally due in the Original Currency, the applicable Issuer agrees that the deficiency shall be a separate obligation of it, independent from its obligations under this Agreement or any Note, and shall constitute in favour of the holders of Notes a cause of action which shall continue in full force and effect notwithstanding any such judgment or order to the contrary, and such Issuer agrees, notwithstanding any such payment or judgment, to indemnify the holders of Notes against any such loss or deficiency.

26. ENVIRONMENTAL INDEMNITY

The Issuers shall indemnify each holder of a Note and hold each holder of a Note harmless against any and all losses, costs, expenses, liabilities, actions, suits, claims or damages of any and every kind sustained, paid or incurred by any of them as a result of any environmental claims, liabilities or obligations of any and every nature whatsoever relating to or affecting the Issuer Parties and the Restricted Subsidiaries or the property of any of them ("their property"), or the property of others where an Issuer Party or Restricted Subsidiary could have any liability in respect thereof under Environmental Laws, or personal injury or death, including in respect of:

(a) any environmental harm or damage to or impairment of their property (or any other Person's property) caused by the presence or release of any Hazardous Materials on their property, or by any Issuer Party or Restricted Subsidiary, whether or not such presence or release was under control, care or management of a previous owner or of a tenant;

(b) any decrease or loss in value of their property (or any other Person's property) occasioned by non-compliance with Environmental Laws;

(c) the imposition or assertion of any Lien including any expenses collectable as taxes affecting their property under Environmental Laws by any Governmental Authority;

(d) any claim asserted or order issued by a Governmental Authority (including an enforcement order or an environmental protection order issued under the Environmental Protection and Enhancement Act (Alberta) or similar legislation thereto) against a holder of a Note or an agent of any of them in respect of any matter referred to in clauses (a), (b), or (c), or for any clean-up, restoration, well abandonment, reclamation or other securing or remedial action in respect of their property (or any other Person's property); or

(e) any non-compliance with any provision herein relating to environmental matters.

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the indemnities in this Section 26 shall extend to:

(a) legal fees on a solicitor and his own client basis, including the costs of defending and/or counter-claiming or claiming over against third parties in respect of any action or matter; and

(b) any amounts payable arising out of a settlement of any action entered into between any holder of a Note and any Person with or without the consent of the Issuers;

but shall not extend to any claim, liability or obligation to the extent the same arises solely due to the gross negligence or wilful misconduct of the holder of Notes claiming indemnification.

These indemnities shall extend to the officers, trustees, directors, employees, agents and assignees of each holder of a Note and the Issuers will hold the benefit of these indemnities in trust for such indemnified parties to the extent necessary to give effect hereto. The provisions of and undertakings and indemnification set out in this Section 26 shall survive the payment and satisfaction of the Notes.

27. MISCELLANEOUS

27.1 Successors and Assigns

All covenants and other agreements contained in this Agreement by or on behalf of any of the parties hereto bind and inure to the benefit of their respective successors and assigns (including any subsequent holder of a Note) whether so expressed or not.

27.2 Payments Due on Non-Business Days
