Report of Independent Auditors

The Board of Directors
Deson & Co.

We have audited the accompanying statements of financial condition of Deson & Co. (a New York corporation), as of December 31, 2008 and 2007, and the related statements of operations, stockholder's equity and cash flows for the years then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the management of Deson & Co. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements, based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Deson & Co. as of December 31, 2008 and 2007, and the results of its operations and cash flows for the years then ended in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States.

Our audit was primarily for the purpose of forming an opinion on the basic financial statements taken as a whole. The accompanying supplemental information is presented for purposes of additional analysis and is not a required part of the basic financial statements. The supplemental information is required by Rule 17a-5 of the Securities and Exchange Commission. Such information has been subjected to the same auditing procedures applied in the audits of the basic financial statements and, in our opinion, is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the basic financial statements, taken as a whole.

Note 1 – Description of operations and significant accounting policies

The Company was incorporated in New York on January 11, 1999. In 2004 the Company became a broker-dealer registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”) and is currently a member of the Financial Industry Regulation Authority (“FINRA”). The purpose of the company is to provide investment consulting services.

The following is a summary of significant accounting policies applied in the preparation of the accompanying financial statements, which pertain to the Company.

Cash and cash equivalents

For purposes of the statement of cash flows, the Company considers all temporary investments to be cash or cash equivalents. The Company maintains its cash balances in a large financial institution located in New York. The balances are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation up to $250,000.

Estimated Fair Value of Financial Instruments

Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 107, “Disclosure about Fair Value of Financial Instruments” requires the disclosure of the fair value of financial instruments, including assets and liabilities recognized on the statement of financial condition. Management estimates that the aggregate net fair value of financial instruments recognized on the statement of financial condition (including receivables, payables and accrued expenses) approximates their carrying values; as such financial instruments are short-term in nature or bear interest at current market rates.

Allowance for uncollectible accounts receivable

The Company uses the allowance method to account for uncollectible accounts receivable. Under this method, the Company reviews all receivables for any problems with collectability. If the Company feels that there may be a problem with collections, an allowance is provided for the receivable. When attempts to collect a specific receivable are unsuccessful, the account is considered uncollectible and is written off against the allowance.

Note 1 – Description of operations and significant accounting policies (continued)

Property and equipment

Property and equipment are recorded at cost. Depreciation is computed using the accelerated methods, including bonus first year amounts, over an estimated useful life of five years. The Company generally capitalizes additions of $1,000 or more.

Income Taxes

The Company has elected to be taxed under the provisions of Subchapter S of the Internal Revenue Code. Under these provisions, the Company is not subject to federal taxes on income. Instead, the stockholder includes his respective share of the Company's taxable income in his individual income tax return.

Use of estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principle generally accepted in the United States requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosures of contingent assets and contingent liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Note 2 – Transactions with affiliated companies

The Company utilizes services and business facilities in common with other companies owned or managed by the stockholder. The Company pays for its estimated share of common costs.

Note 3 – Net capital requirement

As a registered broker-dealer, the Company is subject to the Uniform Net Capital Rule 15c3-1 of the SEC (the "Rule"). The Rule requires the maintenance of minimum net capital, as defined under the Rule, equivalent to the greater of $5,000 or 12.5% of aggregate indebtedness, as defined under the Rule.

At December 31, 2008, the Company had net capital, as defined under the Rule, of $76,234, which exceeded the minimum requirement of $5,000 by $71,234. The Company's aggregate indebtedness, as defined under the Rule, was $10,124.

Report of Independent Auditors on Internal Accounting Control
Required by SEC Rule 17a-5

The Board of Directors and Stockholder
Deson & Co.

In planning and performing our audit of the financial statements of Deson & Co. (the Company) as of and for the year ended December 31, 2008, in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States, we considered the internal control over financial reporting (internal control) of the Company as a basis for designing our audit procedures to express our opinion on the financial statements, but not to express an opinion on the effectiveness of the internal control of the Company. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of the internal control of the Company.

Also, as required by Rule 17a-5(g) (1) of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), we have made a study of the practices and procedures followed by the Company, including consideration of control activities for safeguarding securities. This study includes tests of such practices and procedures that we considered relevant to the objectives stated in Rule 17a-5(g), in the following:

1. Making the periodic computations of aggregate indebtedness (or aggregate debits) and net capital under Rule 17a-3(a) (11) and for determining compliance with the exemptive provisions of Rule 15c3-3(e).

Because the Company does not carry security accounts for customers or perform custodial functions relating to customer securities, we did not review the practices and procedures followed by the Company in any of the following:

1. Making quarterly securities examinations, counts, verifications, comparisons and the recordation of differences required by Rule 17a-13.
2. Complying with the requirements for prompt payment for securities under Section 8 of Regulation T of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System.

The management of the Company is responsible for establishing and maintaining internal control and the practices and procedures referred to in the second paragraph. In fulfilling this responsibility, management makes estimates and judgments required to assess the expected benefits and related costs of controls and of the practices and procedures referred to in the second paragraph, and to assess whether those practices and procedures can be expected to achieve the above-mentioned objectives of the SEC. Two of the objectives of internal control and practices and procedures are to provide management with reasonable but not absolute assurance that assets for which the Company has responsibility are safeguarded against loss from unauthorized use or disposition and that transactions are executed in accordance with the authorization of management and recorded properly to permit the preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States. Rule 17a-5(g) lists additional objectives of the practices and procedures listed in the second paragraph.

Because of inherent limitations in internal control and the practices and procedures in the second paragraph, error or fraud may occur and they may not detect the error or fraud. In addition, projection of any evaluation of them to future periods is subject to the risk that they may become inadequate because of changes in conditions or that the effectiveness of their design and operation may deteriorate.

A control deficiency exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent or detect misstatements on a timely basis. A significant deficiency is a control deficiency, or combination of control deficiencies, that adversely affects the ability of the Company to initiate, authorize, record, process or report financial data reliably in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States such that there is more than a remote likelihood that the internal control of the Company will not prevent or detect a misstatement of the financial statements of the Company that is more than inconsequential.

A material weakness is a significant deficiency, or combination of significant deficiencies, that result in more than a remote likelihood that the internal control of the Company will not prevent or detect a material misstatement of the financial statements.

Our consideration of internal control was for the limited purpose described in the first and second paragraphs and would not necessarily identify all deficiencies in internal control that might be material weaknesses. However, we did not identify any deficiencies in internal control and control activities for safeguarding securities that we consider material weaknesses, as defined above.

We understand that practices and procedures that accomplish the objectives referred to in the second paragraph are considered by the SEC to be adequate for its purposes in accordance with the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and related regulations, and that practices and procedures that do not accomplish such objectives in all material respects indicate a material inadequacy for such purposes. Based on this understanding and our study, we believe that the practices and procedures of the Company, as described in the second paragraph, were adequate, as of December 31, 2008, to meet the objectives of the SEC.

This report is intended solely for the information and use of the Board of Directors and management of the Company, the SEC, Financial Industry Regulatory Authority and other regulatory agencies that rely on Rule 17a-5(g) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 in their regulation of registered brokers and dealers, and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these specified parties.
