MESSAGE TO SHAREHOLDERS

Net income increased 17% over 2009 and assets grew to $1.05 billion at year end. Northrim's profits grew in 2010 due to continuing improvement in asset quality, growing operational efficiencies, and important contributions from our affiliated financial services businesses. Nonperforming assets declined 37% year-over-year. Northrim continued to maintain strong capital ratios well above regulatory requirements, with total capital/risk-adjusted assets of 15% at year-end 2010.

Alaska has weathered the recession better than almost any other state in the nation, due largely to a natural resources-based economy which continues to benefit from rising commodities and energy prices. Alaska remains one of the few states with a stable fiscal foundation – more than $12 billion in liquid reserves and a Permanent Fund balance of $38.7 billion.

Northrim celebrated its 20th anniversary in December 2010, and we continue to execute well on our original strategies:

- ▶ Strong balance sheet with emphasis on capital and liquidity
- ▶ Diversified income sources
- ▶ Focus on asset quality
- ▶ Strategic investments in our business and our people
- ▶ Leadership to build Alaska's economy
- ▶ Exceptional service and added value for our customers – we call it "Customer First Service"

Today's operating environment for community banks is challenging. Economic growth is flat and loan demand remains weak. The resulting earning asset mix, with more securities and fewer loans, puts downward pressure on margins – and while Northrim's margin remains high relative to our peers at 4.92%, it is lower than our historical average. The Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act ("Dodd-Frank Act") imposed as a result of the financial crisis will add significant costs and cut fee income.

While many community banks are struggling in this environment, we believe Northrim is well positioned to meet these challenges by skillful execution of our strategies with each decision, large and small, that we make every day.

In the pages of this annual report, we'll highlight our strategies in action. Good strategy and execution underpin the value Northrim provides to our shareholders.

As always, we appreciate your continued confidence and support.

STRONG BALANCE SHEET

A robust capital strategy has been the philosophy of the bank from the beginning. Northrim has had a stout balance sheet in both good and bad times – it's given us the ability to weather loan issues from a position of strength and the foundation to grow when we've found the right opportunities.

Northrim has one of the highest core deposit ratios in our peer group according to the Uniform Bank Performance Report. We don't solicit deposits outside of our market area, and we lend money locally. We continue to have a solid base of local deposits, with noninterest-bearing demand deposits at 32% of total deposits. While loan demand has been slow in the past several years due to the soft economy, when demand returns we have a good "inventory" of funds to lend.

FOCUS ON ASSET QUALITY

Commercial real estate loans accounted for 46% of Northrim's loan portfolio and commercial loans comprised 38% of the portfolio at year end. The risk profile of the loan portfolio improved as nonperforming assets declined by $13 million year-over-year and net charge-offs decreased by $2.6 million, or 38%, during this same time period.

Over the last several years, Northrim's executive and senior managers have dedicated significant resources to improve its credit quality by creating a Quality Assurance Department to provide detailed and independent underwriting of its largest loans and to develop processes and procedures to manage concentrations within its loan portfolio. In addition, Northrim formed an Executive Loan Management Group comprised of executive and senior managers to focus on identifying, analyzing, and resolving its nonperforming assets. As a result of these efforts, Northrim reduced its nonperforming assets by 37% in 2010.

Our financial strength allowed us to reduce our Other Real Estate Owned (OREO) properties without damaging the market. We put good marketing plans and experienced people in place and had accurate assessments of the market and the value of the properties. Through this process we have gained a greater understanding of development projects well beyond what most lenders learn. We've used this knowledge to change our loan policy, look at the key risk factors that really make a difference in a development loan – including local government requirements and restrictions and the skills of the third parties who are hired to do design and build work. We remain the largest strategic player in the residential construction segment going forward and expect to continue to be a market leader.

STRATEGIC INVESTMENTS

At a time when many community banks retrenched in the face of the recession, Northrim continued to make strategic investments to position us for success.

We completed the first year of a three-year program to strengthen and improve our information technology infrastructure to increase throughput and uptime for our branches, reduce expense and overhead, provide better availability and back-up of our data, provide greater redundancies, and strengthen our disaster recovery capabilities. We also invested in our core system and customer database to provide better functionality and information. We made improvements to our headquarters office building, which we now own, upgrading elevators and installing new energy-efficient cooling equipment.

Northrim signed a five-year agreement with Intuit, one of the leading providers of personal and small business financial services, to continue support and development of our electronic banking platform as customers continue to migrate to self-service options for their banking needs. We also made investments in electronic fraud protection and back-end improvements to our processes to increase efficiency.

We closed one branch in Fairbanks when our lease expired, consolidating our operations in our newest branch located in a growing retail area. We also completed a major renovation of our headquarters branch in Anchorage. In 2011, we will evaluate our branch footprint and strategy going forward to maximize the value of our facilities and staff.

The company made a significant investment in Northrim's brand, including thorough market research, an updated logo, and an advertising campaign to build awareness in our markets, as we expect to rely more on market share growth rather than economic growth for the next several years.

Finally, we continue to invest in good people who understand the financial industry, Alaska's economy and our customers. We have an engaged and effective senior management team that works together to lead the company. We've made strategic hires in many areas of the bank, and have invested in continuing education that has brought new ideas and perspective to our operations – all while reducing head count.

LEADERSHIP TO BUILD ALASKA'S ECONOMY

Marc Langland and the late Arne Espe built a new bank from scratch because they believed customers wanted a different approach. But, they also wanted to make a difference in the state; to play a role in Alaska's greater economic environment.

Twenty years later, Northrim and its leaders continue to play key roles in the state's economy. During this period, Northrim has invested more than $2.5 million in Alaska's universities, including significant financial support of the Institute of Social and Economic Research for a multi-year project to model Alaska's economy and educate Alaska's citizens. Northrim's managers lead and serve on the boards of Alaska's most influential organizations. In 2010, Northrim launched the Alaskanomics blog to provide news, analysis, and commentary on Alaska's economy. With contributions from economists, business leaders, policy makers and everyday Alaskans, Alaskanomics.com aims to engage readers in an ongoing conversation about the statewide economy, now and in the future. Northrim sponsors the Associated General Contractors' annual construction spending forecast and the Resource Development Council's annual conference on Alaska's resources.

Northrim and our employees support the communities we serve in many ways – through personal and company contributions, individual and company volunteerism, and community leadership.

INCOME DIVERSITY

Northrim's strategic focus on developing and growing diverse sources of non-interest income continues to be successful for the company, contributing 22% of 2010 revenues.

While bank service charges continue to be pressured by new consumer regulations, including the Dodd-Frank Act, electronic banking fees have increased steadily as our customer base has grown and customers manage more of their financial transactions electronically. In the next year, however, these fees may be significantly impacted by regulation. Loan service fees and purchased receivables income also contribute to the bank's noninterest income.

Northrim has invested in financial service affiliates to provide geographic and industry diversity, grow revenues, and provide the bank's customers with a variety of financial services to meet their individual needs.

In 2010, employee benefit plan income from Northrim Benefits Group totaled $1.9 million, up from $1.7 million a year ago. We have been successful in making good referrals of Northrim business customers who are looking for advice in the changing health care insurance market, and many of our customers have benefited from lower premiums.

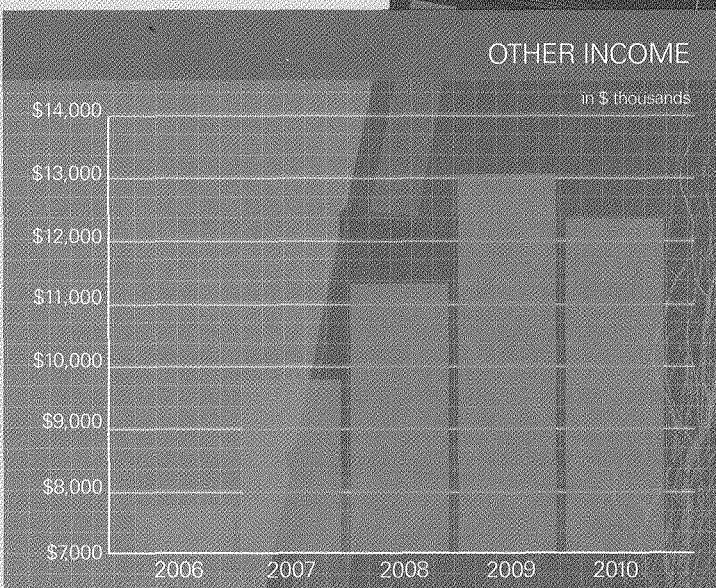

Income from Northrim's mortgage affiliate, Residential Mortgage, contributed $1.4 million to 2010 non-interest income, down from the near record level of $2.3 million in 2009. Historically low mortgage interest rates generated strong refinancing activity in 2010, which is unlikely to continue in 2011. Residential Mortgage is the leading mortgage company in Alaska, with strong brand recognition and an excellent reputation for service, which complements Northrim's "Customer First Service" philosophy.

Our two wealth management affiliates, Elliott Cove Capital Management and Pacific Portfolio, also contribute to revenues and add value to our customer relationships. Elliott Cove provides investment advisory services to Northrim Bank customers and other bank customers in the Pacific Northwest, and Pacific Wealth Advisors provides investment advisory, trust, and wealth management services to clients in the Pacific Northwest and Alaska.
