EXCEL SECURITIES & ASSOCIATES, INC.

Notes to Financial Statements
December 31, 2010

1. Nature of the Business

Excel Securities & Associates, Inc. ("the Company") was formed as a sole proprietorship in November, 1985 in Rochester, New York. In January, 1998 the business was incorporated as Excel Securities & Associates, Inc. The Company is a registered broker dealer with the SEC, which caters to the qualified retirement plan community, individual investors and investment management and advisory professionals. The Company is a member of FINRA and SIPC.

2. Significant Accounting Policies

Use of estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities at the financial statement date and the reported amounts of revenue and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Revenue recognition

Revenue is derived from commissions received from security transactions made on behalf of customers with security firms and various mutual funds. The Company does not carry customer's accounts, nor hold securities for customers. Revenue is also derived from account supervision and from advisory and administration fees.

Cash and cash equivalents

The cash balances are held in one commercial bank and in interest bearing accounts with one security firm which includes a required reserve of $50,000. For purposes of the statement of cash flows, the Company considers all highly liquid investments with maturities of three months or less to be cash equivalents.

Commission receivable

Commission receivables are deemed collectible. Accordingly, no allowance for doubtful accounts is required. If accounts become uncollectible, they are charged to operations when that determination is made.

Property and equipment

Property and equipment are recorded at cost. Depreciation of equipment, furniture and fixtures is computed on a straight-line basis over the estimated useful lives of the related assets which range from five to seven years.

EXCEL SECURITIES & ASSOCIATES, INC.

2. Significant Accounting Policies (Continued)

Income taxes

The Company utilizes FASB ASC Topic 740, Accounting for Income Taxes. Under this accounting method, income taxes are provided for the tax effects of transactions reported in the financial statements. They consist of taxes currently due plus deferred taxes related primarily to accelerated tax depreciation and unrealized gain (loss) from securities. The deferred tax assets and liabilities represent the future tax return consequences of those differences, which will either be taxable or deductible when the assets and liabilities are recovered or settled.

The Company evaluates income tax positions for uncertainty to determine any tax positions that may not be fully sustained upon examination by taxing authorities, despite the belief that the underlying tax positions are fully supportable. Tax positions are reviewed on an ongoing basis and are analyzed in light of changing facts and circumstances, including progress of tax audits, developments in case law, and closing of statute of limitations. Management has determined that the Company has no uncertain tax positions

Advertising

Advertising costs are charged to operations when incurred.

Concentrations of credit risk

The Company maintains deposits at financial institutions which may, at times, exceed the federally insured amount.

Subsequent events

The Company evaluated events occurring between the end of the most recent calendar year and January 19, 2011, the date the financial statements were available to be issued.

Marketable securities

Certain securities held by the Company are carried at market values and gains or losses from these securities are reported on a market-to-market basis.

The Company adopted FASB ASC Topic 820 as it applies to financial assets and liabilities on January 1, 2008. FASB ASC Topic 820 includes a fair value hierarchy that is intended to increase consistency and comparability in fair value measurements and related disclosures. The fair value hierarchy is based on inputs to valuation techniques that are used to measure fair value that are either observable or unobservable. Observable inputs reflect assumptions market participants would use in pricing an asset or liability based on market data obtained from independent sources while unobservable inputs reflect a reporting entity's pricing based upon their own market assumptions. The fair value hierarchy consists of the following three levels:

Level 2: Inputs are quoted prices for similar assets in markets that are not active, inputs other than quoted prices that are observable and market corroborated inputs which are derived principally from or corroborated by observable market data.

Level 3: Inputs are derived from valuation techniques in which one or more significant inputs or value drivers are observable.

INDEPENDENT AUDITORS' REPORT ON INTERNAL CONTROL
REQUIRED BY SEC RULE 17a-5(g)(1) FOR A BROKER-DEALER CLAIMING AN EXEMPTION
FROM SEC RULE 15C3-3

To the Board of Directors
Excel Securities & Associates, Inc.

In planning and performing our audit of the financial statements of Excel Securities & Associates, Inc. (the Company), as of and for the year ended December 31, 2010 in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, we considered the Company's internal control over financial reporting (internal control) as a basis for designing our auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing our opinion on the financial statements, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Company's internal control. Accordingly, we do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of the Company's internal control.

Also, as required by Rule 17a-5(g)(1) of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), we have made a study of the practices and procedures followed by the Company including consideration of control activities for safeguarding securities. This study included tests of such practices and procedures that we considered relevant to the objectives stated in Rule 17a-5(g) in making the periodic computations of aggregate indebtedness (or aggregate debits) and net capital under Rule 17a-3(a)(11) and for determining compliance with the exemptive provisions of Rule 15c3-3. Because the Company does not carry securities accounts for customers or perform custodial functions relating to customer securities, we did not review the practices and procedures followed by the Company in any of the following:

1. Making quarterly securities examinations, counts, verifications, and comparisons and recordation of differences required by Rule 17a-13
2. Complying with the requirements for prompt payment for securities under Section 8 of Federal Reserve Regulation T of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System

The management of the Company is responsible for establishing and maintaining internal control and the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph. In fulfilling this responsibility, estimates and judgments by management are required to assess the expected benefits and related costs of controls and of the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph and to assess whether those practices and procedures can be expected to achieve the SEC's above-mentioned objectives. Two of the objectives of internal control and the practices and procedures are to provide management with reasonable but not absolute assurance that assets for which the Company has responsibility are safeguarded against loss from unauthorized use or disposition and that transactions are executed in accordance with management's authorization and recorded properly to permit the preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. Rule 17a-5(g) lists additional objectives of the practices and procedures listed in the preceding paragraph.

Because of the inherent limitations in internal control or the practices and procedures referred to above, fraud may occur and not be detected. Also, projections of any evaluations of them to future periods are subject to the risk that they may become inadequate because of changes in conditions or that the effectiveness of their design and operations may deteriorate.

A control deficiency exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent or detect misstatements on a timely basis. A significant deficiency is a control deficiency, or combination of control deficiencies, in internal control that is less severe than a material weakness, yet important enough to merit attention by those charged with governance.

A material weakness is a significant deficiency, or combination of deficiencies, such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the financial statements will not be prevented or detected and corrected on a timely basis.

Our consideration of internal control was for the limited purpose described in the first and second paragraphs and would not necessarily identify all deficiencies in internal control that might be material weaknesses. We did not identify any deficiencies in internal control and control activities for safeguarding securities that we consider to be material weaknesses, as defined above.

We understand that practices and procedures that accomplish the objectives referred to above are considered by the SEC to be adequate for its purposes in accordance with the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and related regulations, and that the practices and procedures that do not accomplish such objectives in all material respects indicate a material inadequacy for such purposes. Based on this understanding and on our study, we believe that the Company's practices and procedures, as described in the second paragraph of this report, were adequate at December 31, 2010 to meet the SEC's objectives.

This report is intended solely for the information and use of the Board of Directors, management, the SEC, the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority, Inc., and other regulatory agencies that rely on Rule 17a-5(g) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 in their regulation of registered brokers and dealers, and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these specified parties.
