Independent Auditor's Report

To the Member of
Rucker Capital Partners, LLC

I have audited the accompanying statement of financial condition of Rucker Capital Partners, LLC as of December 31, 2010, and the related statement of operations and members equity, changes in liabilities subordinated to claims of creditors, changes in members' equity and cash flows for the year then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Company's management. My responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on my audits.

I conducted my audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that I plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. I believe that my audits provide a reasonable basis for my opinion.

In my opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Rucker Capital Partners, LLC as of December 31, 2010 and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the year then ended in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

My audit was conducted for the purpose of forming an opinion on the basic financial statements taken as a whole. The information contained in the supplemental schedules is presented for purposes of additional analysis and is not a required part of the basic financial statements, but is supplementary information required by rule 17a-5 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. Such information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the basic financial statements and, in my opinion, is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the basic financial statements taken as a whole.

Method of Accounting

The financial statements of the Company have been prepared on the accrual basis of accounting.

Expenditures for maintenance, repairs, renewals and betterments that do not materially prolong the useful lives of the assets are expensed.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

The Company recognizes revenue from consulting fees in the period earned, that is when the transaction has been completed.

Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenue and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Subsequent Events

The Organization has evaluated subsequent events through February 15, 2011, the date which the financial statements were available to be issued.

Comprehensive Income:

In June 1997, the FASB issued Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 130, "Reporting Comprehensive Income" ("SFAS 130"), that establishes standards for reporting and display of comprehensive income and its components. SFAS 130 requires unrealized gains or losses on available-for-sale securities, foreign currency translation adjustments, minimum pension liability adjustments and changes in the market value of certain futures contracts that qualify as a hedge to be included in other comprehensive income. The adoption of this statement effective April 1, 1998 had no impact on the companies results of operations or financial position since the statement requires only additional financial information disclosure. At December 31, 2010, the Company had net capital of $156,587., which was $151,587. in excess of its required minimum net capital of $5,000. The Company's net capital ratio was .05 to 1.

Independent Auditors Report on Internal Accounting Control

To the Member of
Rucker Capital Partners, LLC

I have audited the financial statements of Rucker Capital Partners, LLC as of December 31, 2010 and have issued my report thereon dated February 15, 2011. As part of my audit, I reviewed and tested the system of internal accounting control to the extent I considered necessary to evaluate the system as required by generally accepted auditing standards and by Rule 17a-5 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. Rule 17a-5 contemplates that the scope of the review and tests should be sufficient to provide reasonable assurance that any material weakness existing at the date of my examination would be disclosed. Under these standards and that Rule the purposes of such evaluation are to establish a basis for reliance thereon in determining the nature, timing and expression of an opinion on the financial statements and to provide a basis for reporting material weakness in internal accounting control.

The objective of internal accounting control is to provide reasonable, but not absolute assurance as to the safeguarding of assets against unauthorized use or disposition, and the reliability of financial records for preparing financial statements and maintaining accountability for assets. The concept of reasonable assurance recognizes that the cost of a system of internal accounting control should not exceed the benefits derived and also recognizes that the evaluation of these factors necessarily requires estimates and judgements by management. However, for the purposes of this report under Rule 17a-5, the cost-benefit relationship has been disregarded in determining weaknesses to be reported.

There are inherent limitations that should be recognized in considering the potential effectiveness of any system of internal accounting control. In the performance of most control procedures, errors can result from misunderstanding of instructions, mistakes of judgement, carelessness, or other personal factors. Control procedures whose effectiveness depends upon segregation of duties can be circumvented by collusion. Similarly, control procedures can be circumvented intentionally by management with respect either to the execution and recording of transactions or respect to the estimates and judgements required in the preparation of financial statements. Further, projection of any evaluation of internal accounting control to future periods is subject to the risk that the procedures may become inadequate because of changes in conditions, and that the degree of compliance with the procedures may deteriorate.

A study and evaluation of the system of internal accounting control for the year ended December 31, 2010, which was made for the purposes set forth in the first paragraph above and would not necessarily disclose all weaknesses in the system which may have existed during the period under review, disclosed no weaknesses that I believe to be material.
