Independent Auditor's Report

To the Stockholder
Pacific Commonwealth Corporation

I have audited the accompanying balance sheets of Pacific Commonwealth Corporation as of January 31, 2013 and January 31, 2012 and the related statements of income and retained earnings, changes in stockholder's equity, and cash flows for each of the two years then ended as filed pursuant to rule 17a-5 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. These financial statements, and the supplemental schedules discussed below, are the responsibility of the Corporation's management. My responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on my audit.

I conducted my audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that I plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. I believe that my audit provides a reasonable basis for my opinion.

In my opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Pacific Commonwealth Corporation at January 31, 2013 and January 31, 2012, and the results of its operations and its cash flows for each of the years then ended, in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

My audit was conducted for the purpose of forming an opinion on the basic financial statements taken as a whole. The information contained in the supplementary schedules is presented for purposes of additional analysis and is not a required part of the basic financial statements, but is supplementary information required by rule 17a-5 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. Such information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the basic financial statements and, in my opinion, is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the basic financial statements taken as a whole.

Note 1 - Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Description of Operations

Pacific Commonwealth Corporation, the Corporation, operates as a registered securities broker/dealer and financial advisor. Its business activities consist of structuring and underwriting new issue securities, trading securities and providing financial advisory services to public and private sector clients. Pacific Commonwealth Group, Inc., a holding company, owns all of the Corporation's stock.

Use of Estimates

The preparation of financial statements, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles, requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Income Recognition

Fees and commissions are recognized as income when contractual obligations are satisfied and the income is reasonably determinable.

Financial Instruments

For purposes of the statement of cash flows, cash equivalents are short-term highly liquid investments that are readily convertible to a known amount of cash, have an original maturity of 90 days or less, and present an insignificant risk of change in value because of interest rate changes. Cash and cash equivalents are carried at approximate fair value because of the short period to maturity of the instruments.

Income Taxes

Income tax expense may differ from the actual amount payable due to the different treatment of certain items for financial statement purposes and for income tax purposes. The resulting difference, if any, affects the deferred tax asset or liability accounts and represents the net change in deferred income tax expense (benefit).

The Corporation's tax returns are subject to possible examination by the tax authorities. For federal income tax purposes, the tax returns essentially remain open for possible examination for a period of three years, and for state purposes for four years, after their respective filing deadlines.

Subsequent Events

Management has evaluated subsequent events through March 22, 2013 which is the date the financial statements were available to be issued, for events requiring recording or disclosure in the financial statements for the year ended January 31, 2013.

These notes are an integral part of these financial statements.

Related Party Transactions

The Corporation shares office space with other corporations related through common ownership. Certain costs such as rent, salaries and office expenses are incurred in common by all companies. The Corporation is allocated a share of these monthly expenses based upon management's estimate of the work done by each entity. Management believes this allocation is reasonable and appropriate under the circumstances. The Corporation also receives consulting income from its affiliated corporation. There is no way to determine what the financial condition and results of operations would be if the Corporation operated as an independent company.

Note 2 - Administration

Administration charges reflect amounts paid to the Corporation's parent holding company for operating expenses and charges.

Note 3 - Taxes on Income

The components of the income tax expense account are as follows:

	2013	2012
Federal Income Tax	$ -0-	$ 257
State Income Tax	800	800
Total Income Tax Expense	$ 800	$1,057

Note 4 - Commitments and Contingencies

The Corporation extended its lease on its present office located in Tiburon, California on October 1, 2012, for an additional year. The minimum lease payment for the remainder of this lease is now $20,944 but as it shares office space with affiliated companies (see Note 1), its actual rental obligation may be substantially less than its contractual obligation.

In the opinion of management there are no pending lawsuits or other contingencies, which will have a material effect on the Corporation's financial position.

Note 5 - Credit Risks and Fair Value of Financial Instruments

The Corporation's financial instruments that are subject to concentration of credit risk consist primarily of cash, cash equivalents and investment securities.

Cash

The Corporation maintains its cash in bank deposit accounts, which at times may exceed federally insured limits. It believes that it is not exposed to any significant credit risk on cash due to the financial strength of the institutions it maintains its deposits with.

These notes are an integral part of these financial statements.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
JANUARY 31, 2013 AND 2012

See Accountant's Audit Report

Note 5 - Credit Risks and Fair Value of Financial Instruments - cont.

Cash Equivalents

The Corporation invests its excess cash in money market accounts and short-term securities, and has established guidelines relative to diversification and maturities in an effort to maintain safety and liquidity.

The fair value estimates discussed above are made at a specific point in time and involve significant judgment and certain assumptions. In addition, the tax ramifications related to the realization of any unrealized gains and losses have not been considered in the estimates.

Note 6 - Net Capital Requirements

The Corporation is subject to the revised Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) Uniform Net Capital Rule, Rule 15(c)3-1, which requires broker/dealers engaged in a general securities business to maintain a minimum net capital of $250,000 and a ratio of aggregate indebtedness to net capital of not more than 15 to 1. At January 31, 2013, the Corporation had net capital of $325,506, which was $75,506 in excess of its requirement. The ratio of aggregate indebtedness to net capital is nominal.

Independent Auditor's Report on Internal Control Structure
Required by Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) Rule 17a-5(g)(1)

To the Stockholder
Pacific Commonwealth Corporation

In planning and performing my audit of the Pacific Commonwealth Corporation (the Corporation), as of and for the year ended January 31, 2013, in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America, I considered the Corporation's internal control over financial reporting (internal control) as a basis for designing my auditing procedures for the purpose of expressing my opinion on the financial statements, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Corporation's internal control. Accordingly, I do not express an opinion on the effectiveness of the Corporation's internal control.

Also, as required by Rule 17a-5(g)(1) of the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), I have made a study of the practices and procedures followed by the Corporation including consideration of control activities for safeguarding securities. This study included tests of such practices and procedures that I considered relevant to the objectives stated in Rule 17a-5(g) in making the periodic computations of aggregate indebtedness and net capital under Rule 17a-3(a)(11) and for determining compliance with the exemptive provisions of Rule 15c3-3. Because the Corporation does not carry securities accounts for customers or perform custodial functions relating to customer securities, I did not review the practices and procedures followed by the Corporation in any of the following:

1. Making quarterly securities examinations, counts, verifications, and comparisons and recordation of differences required by Rule 17a-13;
2. Complying with the requirements for prompt payment for securities under Section 8 of Federal Reserve Regulation T of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System.

The management of the Corporation is responsible for establishing and maintaining internal control and the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph. In fulfilling this responsibility, estimates and judgments by management are required to assess the expected benefits and related costs of controls and of the practices and procedures referred to in the preceding paragraph and to assess whether those practices and procedures can be expected to achieve the SEC's previously mentioned objectives. Two of the objectives of internal control and the practices and procedures are to provide management with reasonable but not absolute assurance that assets for which the Corporation has responsibility are safeguarded against loss from unauthorized use or disposition and that transactions are executed in accordance with management's authorization and recorded properly to permit the preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. Rule 17a-5(g) lists additional objectives of the practices and procedures listed in the preceding paragraph.

Because of inherent limitations in internal control and the practices and procedures referred to above, error or fraud may occur and not be detected. Also, projection of any evaluation of them to future periods is subject to the risk that they may become inadequate because of changes in conditions or that the effectiveness of their design and operation may deteriorate.

A control deficiency exists when the design or operation of a control does not allow management or employees, in the normal course of performing their assigned functions, to prevent or detect misstatements on a timely basis. A significant deficiency is a deficiency, or a combination of deficiencies, in internal control that is less severe than a material weakness, yet important enough to merit attention by those charged with governance.

A material weakness is a deficiency, or combination of deficiencies, in internal control, such that there is a reasonable possibility that a material misstatement of the company's financial statements will not be prevented or detected and corrected on a timely basis.

My consideration of internal control was for the limited purpose described in the first and second paragraphs and would not necessarily identify all deficiencies in internal control that might be material weaknesses. I did not identify any deficiencies in internal control and control activities for safeguarding securities that I consider to be material weaknesses, as defined previously.

I understand that practices and procedures that accomplish the objectives referred to in the second paragraph of this report are considered by the SEC to be adequate for its purposes in accordance with the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and related regulations, and that practices and procedures that do not accomplish such objectives in all material respects indicate a material inadequacy for such purposes. Based this understanding and on my study, I believe that the Corporation's practices and procedures, as described in the second paragraph of this report, were adequate at January 31, 2013, to meet the SEC's objectives.

This report is intended solely for the information and use of the Board of Directors, management, the SEC, and other regulatory agencies that rely on Rule 17a-5(g) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 in their regulation of registered brokers and dealers, and is not intended to be and should not be used by anyone other than these specified parties.

Reconciliation of Net Capital With Company's Computation

To the Stockholder
Pacific Commonwealth Corporation

I have examined the financial statements of Pacific Commonwealth Corporation for the period ended January 31, 2013 and have issued my report thereon dated March 22, 2013. As required by Rule 15(c)3-1 of the Securities and Exchange Commission, I made a comparison and reconciliation of the Corporation's net capital as reflected on its January 31, 2013 audited financial statement with the amount reported on its January 31, 2013 FOCUS report.

As the following calculation indicates, there is no difference between the amount previously reported on the Corporation's FOCUS report, and the amount reflected on its audited financial statement.

A summary of the calculation is as follows:
