KRAMBO CORPORATION

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

As of and for the Years Ended June 30, 2022 and 2021

NOTE 1 – Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Company's Activities and Operating Cycle

Krambo Corporation (the Company) functions primarily as an investment broker in the private placement of debt securities with institutional investors.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

The Company considers all highly liquid debt instruments purchased with a maturity of three months or less to be cash equivalents.

The Company maintains its cash balances in two financial institutions. At June 30, 2022, the Company did not have cash in excess of FDIC insurance limits. At June 30, 2021, the Company had cash balances of $156,600 in excess of FDIC insurance limits.

Fees Receivable

Fees receivable are unsecured and no allowance for doubtful accounts is considered necessary by management as of June 30, 2022 and 2021. Financial instruments that potentially subject the Company to concentrations of credit risk consist principally of fees receivable. The Company routinely assesses the financial strength of its clients and, as a consequence, believes that risk of loss due to credit with these clients is not considered significant.

Office Furniture and Equipment, Net

Office furniture and equipment are stated at cost. Major expenditures for office furniture and equipment are capitalized. Maintenance, repairs, and minor renewals are expensed as incurred. When assets are retired or otherwise disposed of, their costs and related accumulated depreciation are removed from the accounts and resulting gains or losses are included in income.

Office furniture and equipment are being depreciated for financial reporting purposes using straight-line and accelerated methods over estimated useful lives of five years.

Leases

The Company leases office space. The determination of whether an arrangement qualifies as a lease is made at the lease's inception. Under ASC 842, a contract is (or contains) a lease if it conveys the right to control the use of an identified asset for a period of time in exchange for consideration. Control is defined under the standard as having both the right to obtain substantially all of the economic benefits from use of the asset and the right to direct the use of the asset. Management only reassesses its determination if the terms and conditions of the contract are changed.

Operating leases are included in operating lease right-of-use ("ROU") assets, other current liabilities, and operating lease liabilities in our balance sheets.

ROU assets represent our right to use an underlying asset for the lease term, and lease liabilities represent our obligation to make lease payments. Operating lease ROU assets and liabilities are recognized at the lease commencement date based on the present value of lease payments over the lease term. The Company uses the implicit rate when it is readily determinable. Since most of the Company's leases do not provide an implicit rate, to determine the present value of lease payments, management uses the Company's incremental borrowing rate based on the information available at lease commencement. Operating lease ROU assets also includes any lease payments made and excludes any lease incentives.

Lease expense for lease payments is recognized on a straight-line basis over the lease term. The Company's lease terms may include options to extend or terminate the lease when it is reasonably certain that we will exercise the option.

Income Taxes

The Company is an S Corporation for federal income tax reporting purposes. Substantially all income and income tax credits are passed directly to the stockholders. Consequently, no provision for federal income taxes is included in the accompanying financial statements.

For state tax purposes, the Company has elected to be taxed under the California Bank and Corporation Tax Fairness, Simplification and Conformity Act of 1987, which imposes a tax at the corporation level at the greater of 2.5 percent of income before taxes or a minimum tax.

The Company applies Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) Accounting Standards Codification (ASC) 740-10, "Accounting for Uncertainty in Income Taxes." The measurement and disclosure principles of this standard normally does not affect the financial statements of an entity that is not subject to income tax. As it relates to the Company, additional federal income taxes due to an adjustment to income or disallowed deductions generally would be imposed on the stockholders rather than the Company itself. However, there are certain exceptions where the Company could bear the burden of an uncertain federal income tax position.

The tax effects from an uncertain state income tax position can be recognized in the financial statements, only if the position is more likely than not to be sustained on audit, based on the technical merits of the position. The Company recognizes the financial statement benefit of a state income tax position only after determining that the relevant tax authority would more likely than not sustain the position following an audit. For state income tax positions meeting the more likely than not threshold, the amount recognized in the financial statements is the largest benefit that has a greater than 50 percent likelihood of being realized, upon ultimate settlement with the relevant state income tax authority.

The Company is not currently under examination by any taxing jurisdiction. In the event of any future tax assessments, the Company has elected to record the income taxes and any related interest and penalties as income tax expense on the Company's statements of operations.

Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

As of and for the Years Ended June 30, 2022 and 2021

Paycheck Protection Program Loans

The Company accounted for the proceeds from the Paycheck Protection Program (PPP) loan, administered by the Small Business Association (SBA), as a gain contingency in accordance with ASC 450-30. Proceeds are reported as deferred income liability until the loan forgiveness notification has been received. When loan forgiveness notification has been received, the loan will be recognized as non-operating income in the statement of operations. Loan proceeds are reported as operating activities within the statement of cash flows (see Note 8).

Employee Benefits

The Company adopted a Qualified Small Employer Health Reimbursement Arrangement (“QSEHRA”) in September 2021. The plan reimburses participating employees for eligible medical expenses up to $5,300 per year per employee. The Company recognized a liability of $2,387 as of June 30, 2022 for claims paid subsequent to year end.

NOTE 2 – Revenue Recognition

Krambo Corporation's customers are primarily affordable housing entities located throughout the United States. The Company's services to these organizations are similar and the nature, amount, and timing of revenue and cash flow is not impacted by the organization's location or any other factors.

Revenue is measured based on consideration specified in a contract with a customer, and the Company recognizes revenue when it satisfies a performance obligation by transferring control over the product or service to a customer or when the contingency is satisfied.

Substantially all revenue from performance obligations is satisfied at a point in time. The nature of the Company's business does not give rise to variable consideration that would otherwise decrease the transaction price which would reduce revenue.

The recognition and measurement of revenue is based on the assessment of individual contract terms. Significant judgement is required to determine whether performance obligations are satisfied at a point in time or over time; how to allocate transaction prices where multiple performance obligations are identified; when to recognize revenue based on the appropriate measure of the Company's progress under the contract; and whether constraints on variable consideration should be applied due to uncertain future events.

Contract liabilities include retainers and other advance billings in excess of revenue recognized.

The Company generates revenue from three primary activities:

- Mortgage sales or securitizations
- Forward commitments
- Advisory services

Mortgage sales or securitizations – the Company assists in private placement of homeowner mortgage notes generated by affordable housing organizations. There are multiple performance obligations within each engagement which are separately identified in the agreement between the Company and the organization.

The first performance obligation is the preparation of the Private Placement Memorandum (“PPM”). Fees for these services are typically charged to the customer in three installments and the revenue is recognized upon completion.

The second performance obligation is the closing of a mortgage sale or securitization. Fees for these services can either be a base fee and incentive fee which are variable fees based on the amount or number of mortgages placed multiplied by a percentage (based on the discount rate used to establish a purchase price for the sale or securitization) or a flat closing fee, as set forth in the engagement agreement. These fees are charged to the customer and recognized at the time of closing. The customer may also be charged a flat fee for an additional purchaser. This fee is stated in the engagement agreement and is invoiced and recognized at the time of closing.

The third performance obligation is mobilization and document review. Fees for these services are charged at a flat rate per mortgage review. These fees are invoiced and recognized as the reviews are performed.

Forward commitment – the Company assists in the solicitation of commitments from financial institutions to provide mortgage loans to the affordable housing organization. There are multiple performance obligations within each engagement which are separately identified in the agreement.

The first performance obligation is the preparation of the Private Placement Memorandum (“PPM”). Fees for these services are typically charged to the customer in three installments and the revenue is recognized upon completion.

The second performance obligation is the execution of a Loan Origination Agreement (or Note Purchase Agreement or Loan Purchase and Sale Agreement). Fees for these services are variable fees based on the dollar amount of the commitment multiplied by rate determined by the discount rate obtained as set forth in the engagement agreement. These fees are invoiced and recognized at the time the agreement is executed. The customer may also be charged a flat fee for each additional financial institution. This fee is stated in the engagement agreement and is invoiced and recognized at the time of closing.

The third performance obligation is the mortgage closing. Fees for each mortgage closing are charged at a flat rate per closing of each Homeowner Mortgage Loan under the Loan Origination agreement. These fees are invoiced and recognized at the time of closing.

Advisory services – the Company provides advisory services on a variety of matters. Fees for these services are invoiced and recognized over the course of the services performed.
