NOTES TO CONSOLIDATING FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
DECEMBER 31, 2022

Note 1 - Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Nature of Business

APW Capital, Inc. (“APW Capital”) is a registered securities broker-dealer and is subject to regulation by the Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”) and the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (“FINRA”). APW Capital operates pursuant to brokerage service agreements with clearing brokers, under which these clearing brokers assume and maintain APW Capital's customer accounts. APW Capital's clients are located throughout the United States. APW Capital's primary operating facilities are located in Rockaway, New Jersey.

Comprehensive Capital Management, Inc. (“CCM”) and Aurora Private Wealth, Inc. (“Aurora”) are registered investment advisors subject to the regulation of the SEC. CCM and Aurora provide investment management services to clients located throughout the United States. CCM and Aurora operate pursuant to brokerage service agreements with broker-dealers, under which these brokers assume and maintain CCM and Aurora's client accounts.

Principles of Consolidation

APW Capital, CCM and Aurora have been consolidated under Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) Accounting Standards Codification (ASC Topic), Consolidation, that provides guidance in determining when variable interest entities should be consolidated in the financial statements of the primary beneficiary. Accordingly, the accompanying financial statements include the accounts of APW Capital, the primary beneficiary, CCM and Aurora (collectively, the “Companies”). All intercompany transactions have been eliminated in consolidation.

Revenue Recognition

Commission revenue and related commission expense for APW Capital are recorded on a trade-date basis as securities and other investment transactions occur. APW Capital views the selling, distribution and marketing, or any combination thereof, of investment products to such clients as a single performance obligation to the product sponsors. The Company believes that the performance obligation is satisfied on the trade date because that is when the underlying financial instrument or purchase is identified, the pricing is agreed upon and the risks and rewards of ownership have been transferred to/from the customer.

CCM and Aurora's fee income is derived from investment advisory services under agreements that generally provide for compensation based on various percentages of assets under management. CCM's fees are billed and payable quarterly. Aurora's fees are billed either monthly or quarterly. Fees are fully refundable on a pro-rata basis in the event of early termination and are recognized over the term of the billing period. Other revenue, which includes financial planning and consulting services, is recognized when the services have been provided and are earned.

During the normal course of business, it is possible trading errors may arise. In the event of a trading error, a receivable and a corresponding payable is presented on the consolidating balance sheet that is due to/due from a clearing company. Any gain or loss is recognized in the consolidating statement of income.

In the following table, revenue is disaggregated by timing of satisfaction of performance obligations for the year ended December 31, 2022:

Performance obligations satisfied at a point in time	$ 14,844,580
Performance obligations satisfied over time	9,124,233
Total	$ 23,968,813

Revenue from performance obligations satisfied at a point in time consists of commission revenue, registered rep flat fee income, bundled fee income and other revenue. Revenue from performance obligations satisfied over time consists of advisory fees. The Companies do not have any significant financing components as payment is received at or shortly after the trade date for commission revenue and quarterly or monthly for advisory fees.

Use of Estimates / Significant Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts of assets and liabilities, revenue and expenses and changes therein, and disclosures of contingent assets and liabilities and accompanying notes. It is reasonably possible that the Companies' estimates may change in the near term.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

For purposes of the statement of cash flows, the Companies consider all short-term investments with an original maturity of three months or less to be cash equivalents. Included in these amounts at December 31, 2022 are $52,127, $218 and $190 of funds held by clearing broker-dealers on behalf of APW Capital, CCM and Aurora, respectively. These amounts result from the broker-dealer's collection of customer fees and commissions for each Company's account.

Commissions/Fees Receivable

Commissions receivable represents unsecured amounts due from clearing brokers. Management periodically assesses the collectability of the amounts and has determined a corresponding allowance for uncollectible amounts is not required at this time. Interest and finance charges are not accrued on open balances.

& AURORA PRIVATE WEALTH, INC.
NOTES TO CONSOLIDATING FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

The Companies are engaged in various trading, brokerage and financial planning activities in which counterparties primarily include broker-dealers, banks, and other financial institutions. In the event counterparties do not fulfill their obligations, the Companies may be exposed to risk. The risk of default depends on the creditworthiness of the counterparty or issuer of the instrument. It is the Companies' policy to review, as necessary, the credit standing of each counterparty.

Securities Transactions

Proprietary securities transactions in regular-way trades, if any, are recorded on the trade date, as if they had settled. Profit and loss arising from all securities and commodities transactions entered into for the account and risk of APW Capital are recorded on a trade date basis. APW Capital, CCM and Aurora do not take possession of customers' securities or commodities.

Concentrations of Credit Risk

The Companies maintain their cash in bank deposit accounts, which, at times, may exceed federally insured limits. The Companies have not experienced any losses in such accounts. Management believes it is not exposed to any significant credit risk related to cash.

Noncontrolling Interest

The Companies account for noncontrolling interest under FASB ASC, Consolidation, which establishes accounting and reporting standards for the noncontrolling interest in a subsidiary and for the deconsolidation of a subsidiary. This guidance clarifies that a noncontrolling interest in a subsidiary is an ownership interest in the consolidated entity that should be reported as equity in the consolidating financial statements. This guidance also requires presentation on the face of the consolidating statement of income of the amounts of consolidated net income (loss) attributable to the Company and to the noncontrolling interest, resulting in an increase (decrease) to consolidated net income (loss).

Variable Interest Entities ("VIE")

In October 2018, the FASB issued ASU 2018-17, Consolidation (Topic 810): Targeted Improvements to Related Party Guidance for Variable Interest Entities. ASU 2018-17 supersedes the private company alternative for common control leasing arrangements issued in 2014 and expands it to all qualifying common control arrangements. Under the new standard, a private company could make an election to not apply VIE guidance to legal entities under common control when certain criteria are met.

In January 2022, the Company elected to not apply the VIE consolidation model to its qualifying common control arrangements and instead discloses the common control arrangement as required by the accounting alternative, see Note 6.

Property and Equipment

Property and equipment are recorded at cost. Major renewals and betterments are capitalized whereas, maintenance, minor repairs and replacements, which do not improve or extend the lives of the respective assets, are expensed as incurred. Depreciation is calculated using the straight-line method based on the estimated useful lives of the related assets.

The Companies review the recoverability of its long-lived assets on a periodic basis in order to identify events or changes in circumstances, which may indicate a possible impairment in accordance with the provisions of FASB ASC, Accounting for the Impairment or Disposal of Long-Lived Assets. The assessment for potential impairment is based primarily on the Companies' ability to recover the unamortized balance of its long-lived assets from expected future cash flows from operations on an undiscounted basis. The Companies believe that no such events or changes have occurred.

Income Taxes

The Companies recognize the amount of taxes payable or refundable for the year. Income taxes are accounted for using the asset and liability method. Under this method, deferred tax assets and liabilities are recognized for the future tax consequences attributable to differences between the financial statement carrying amounts of existing assets and liabilities and their respective tax-basis carrying amounts. Deferred tax assets and liabilities are measured using enacted tax rates expected to apply to taxable income in the years in which those temporary differences are expected to be recovered or settled. The effect on deferred tax assets and liabilities of a change in tax rates is recognized in income in the period in which the enactment date occurs. A valuation allowance is provided for deferred tax assets if it is more likely than not that these items will not be realized.

The Companies are subject to the provisions of FASB ASC, Income Taxes. The standard prescribes a minimum recognition threshold and measurement methodology that a tax position taken or expected to be taken in a tax return is required to meet before being recognized in the financial statements. It also provides guidance for derecognition, classification, interest and penalties, accounting in interim periods, disclosure, and transition.

In assessing the realizability of deferred tax assets, management considers whether it is more likely than not that some portion or all of the deferred tax assets will not be realized. The ultimate realization of deferred tax assets is dependent upon the generation of future taxable income during the periods in which those temporary differences become deductible. Management considers the scheduled reversal of deferred tax liabilities, projected future taxable income, and tax planning strategies in making this assessment. Based upon the level of historical taxable income and projections for future taxable income over the periods in which the deferred tax assets are deductible, management believes it is more likely than not that they will realize the benefits of these deductible differences, net of the existing valuation allowances.

The Companies recognize interest and penalties related to unrecognized tax benefits within the provision for income taxes on continuing operations in the consolidating statement of income.

APW Capital and Aurora have elected, with the consent of its stockholders, to be taxed under the provisions of Subchapter S of the applicable federal and State of New Jersey tax laws.

The stockholders include their allocable share of taxable income or loss on their individual federal and state income tax returns. The Companies are subject to regular audit by tax authorities. The Companies believe that they have appropriate support for the positions taken on its tax returns. Management believes that the pass-through status would be sustained upon examination.

Effective for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2020, the state of New Jersey implemented the Business Alternative Income Tax (BAIT). The New Jersey BAIT gives eligible pass-through entities the option to elect paying tax at the entity level on New Jersey sourced business income.

Deferred income taxes are recognized by CCM on temporary differences in the amount of assets and liabilities for income tax and financial reporting purposes. The principal sources of the differences are different methods of recognizing depreciation and amortization for financial accounting and income tax purposes. Deferred income taxes are classified as current or non-current depending on the classification of the assets or liabilities to which they relate. Management provides for a valuation allowance based on its evaluation of the realization of such deferred tax benefits. The allowance is periodically adjusted for changes in managements' estimates of the ultimate realization of these benefits.

The Companies file income tax returns in the United States federal and New Jersey, California and Delaware state jurisdictions. The Companies are subject to income tax examinations for returns within the statutory periods established by the respective jurisdictions.

Commissions Expense/Payable

Commissions and related clearing expenses for APW Capital are recorded on a trade date basis as securities transactions occur. Commission expenses for fees produced by registered representatives of CCM and Aurora are recorded as prepaid and recognized as commission expense once earned. Commissions payable represents amounts due to representatives for commissions earned in the prior month.

Risk Management

CCM and Aurora do not guarantee their clients a profit on funds managed. The client signs a management account agreement indicating whether they decide to use risk reduction, tactical asset allocation, or timing services offered by CCM and Aurora. The agreement also indicates that client's funds will fluctuate with market forces.

Leases

On January 1, 2019, the Companies adopted ASU No. 2016-02 and related amendments, Leases (Topic 842). At lease commencement, the Companies recorded a lease liability and corresponding right of use (“ROU”) asset. Lease liabilities represent the present value of future lease payments over the expected lease term. The Companies have elected to include lease and non-lease components in determining the lease liability for all leased assets. Non-lease components are generally services that the lessor performs for the Company associated with the leased asset. The discount rates related to the Companies’ lease liabilities are generally based on estimates of the Companies’ incremental borrowing rate, as the discount rates implicit in the Companies’ leases cannot be readily determined. ROU assets represent the right to control the use of the leased asset during the lease and are recognized in an amount equal to the lease liability. Over the lease term the Companies use the effective interest rate method to account for the lease liability as lease payments are made and the ROU asset is amortized to earnings in a manner that results in a straight-line expense recognition in the consolidating statement of income. A ROU asset and lease liability is not recognized for leases with an initial term of 12 months or less and the Companies recognize lease expense for these leases on a straight-line basis over the lease term. The companies test ROU assets at least annually for impairment or whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that the asset may be impaired.

Advertising Costs

Advertising costs are charged to promotion, recruiting and marketing expense as incurred. Advertising costs charged to promotion, recruiting and marketing expense for APW Capital, CCM and Aurora for the year ended December 31, 2022 were $65,541, $563 and $5,956, respectively.

Subsequent Events

Management has reviewed subsequent events and transactions that occurred after December 31, 2022 through the date of the independent auditors’ report and the date the consolidating financial statements were issued, February 24, 2023. The financial statements include all events or transactions, including estimates, required to be recognized in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. Management has determined that there are no nonrecognized subsequent events that require additional disclosure.
